DR. AMBLER

DIED SUNDAY

ONE OF NORTHVILLE'S PROMINENT PHYSICIANS.

Taken Ill Thursday—Operated on Sunday Afternoon

Dr. Frank B. Ambler, one of Northville's prominent physicians, died at St. Mary's hospital, Detroit, Sunday afternoon while undergoing an operation for intestinal obstruction. While the trouble was undoubtedly of long standing, the fatal attack only dated from last week Thursday. Dr. Turner was called and did all that could be done, but the patient continued to grow worse. Sunday morning Detroit physicians were called in consultation and it was decided that removal to a Detroit hospital for an operation was the only hope. A special electric car was procured and the doctor was taken to St. Mary's hospital where Dr. Gue of that city, assisted by several Detroit surgeons and Dr. Turner of this place, performed the operation Sunday afternoon. Large fragments.

which had grown around the intestines in two different places, were removed, but so many other embolisms for complications were found that it was at once seen there was no hope. The young physician passed away about 9:30, while still under the influence of the anesthetic as a result of heart failure, but Dr. Gue stated that even had an operation been performed two weeks ago it could have been of no avail. The remains were brought to his late home at 114 Monday morning and the funeral was held Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 at St. Paul's church.

Dr. Ambler was born in 1860, about 28 years ago. He was a great student and it is said to say there were few better educated physicians in this state than he. He was a graduate of the Northville high school, of the chemistry department of the Agricultural College and from the pharmacy department of the U. of M. About 15 years ago he went to Denver, where he later graduated at the Colorado medical college, and in which city he practiced his profession until about three years ago when he returned to Northville principally to care for his wife, who was in poor health at that time, and he has since resided here. After his return here he also took a post-graduate course in New York City. He was married in Denver May 15, 1890, to Miss Lillian W. Edwards of that city.

Dr. Ambler was held in high esteem in Northville and his death came as a shock not only to the bereaved wife and parents, but to the whole community. Besides the widow deceased leaves a little boy about one year old.

BEING MISQUOTED.

Detroit Papers Printing Fake Anti-Republican Interviews.

Senator Cook of Milwaukee says he has been wrongly quoted in the Detroit papers as being a backer of the republican ticket. Cook says he will support Wilson and the whole republican ticket.

Monday the News and Tribune quoted H. E. J. of Milwaukee as another backer and Democrat.

The interview in the Tribune and News shows a great number of anti-republican comments. When a party member is quoted in a platform and is called a backer of the republican ticket.

If it is necessary to resort to fake interviews then there is evidently not much discussion on the part of members of either party.

NINA RICHARDSON

Bright Young Novel Girl Died Last Saturday.

The heartfelt sympathy of a wide circle of friends goes out to Mr. and Mrs. Judd Richardson of West Novet in the heavy sorrow that has come to them in the loss of their only child, Nina who died Saturday, August 6, after a severe illness of three weeks. She came to her parents as a Christian, was a little more than twelve and a half years ago, and her beautiful young life gave promise of developing into an exceptionally lovely womanhood. Gifted with a bright intellect, a charming personality and a sweet and loving nature, she was loved by all who knew her, and was the brightest spot in the lives of not only her parents but of her aged grandparents, who also have the deepest sympathy of many friends. The funeral, held from the Novet Baptist church Tuesday afternoon, was one of the most largely attended which ever took place there, and the white casket was filled, covered and surrounded with flowers offered in loving remembrance and sympathy. The service was conducted by the pastor Rev. C. D. Berry.

Translated.
Within earth's garden grew a lovely flower,
Unfolding day by day to brighter bloom,
A tender blossom, yet with latent power,
Ere its green and tender sweet perfume

Travels, and grows with love,
Shades from chilling blast or erupt heat,
So, or a space it blossoms, here and fair,
Outgiving unobscured its fragrance sweet.

But all too cold and bleak the earth of ours,
For fuller blooming, O'er with west love,
The Gardener of the Universe transplants
Such flowers.

To rare or growing in His fields above,
Dread Azazel comes, on sable, noiseless wing,
Sent not in wrath, we know despite our pain—
But messenger of love dispatched to bring

Earth's buds, or flowers or cherubs of opened grain
Oh stricken ones, uplift uplift to Heaven
Pain-widened vision, reaching past the gates
To where that flower, to you so briefly given,
God-guarded, perfected your coming waits

NORTHVILLE IS NOT SO MUCH

POPULATION DECREASED IN PAST FOUR YEARS.

Now Has Sixty-Nine More Females Than Males.

The population of the village of Northville has, according to the State census, decreased by 1.5 during the past four years. As shown by the tabulation just completed it is as follows: Number of families, 158; number of females, 848; males, 779; total population, 1,627.

The falling off is no doubt due to the decrease in the number of employed at the factories and the fact that Northville families are unusually small, the average shown being only three and one third. Notwithstanding that it is less than four there are sixty-nine more females than males in the village.

MRS. SARAH SLAGHT

Aged Northville Lady Passed Away Monday.

Mrs. Sarah Slaght, widow of the late Isaac Slaght, passed away at her home here Monday, August 9, at the age of nearly 75 years. She was born in Ohio May 2, 1829, and had been a Michigan resident for many years. Mrs. Slaght suffered a paralytic stroke May 12 and there had been little hope of her recovery from the first. She leaves two children, George C. Slaght and Mrs. George Whipple. The funeral services were held at the residence Wednesday morning, conducted by Rev. Sidney F. Dimmock of the Baptist church and the interment was in Oakwood cemetery.

Tax Commission Didn't Do It

Editor Record.—I desire to express my appreciation of the article on taxation in the Record of Aug. 5. It would be difficult to compress more truth into a smaller space. Truth with the bark on too. The howl raised by the Detroit aldermen against the tax commission was mainly for the purpose of throwing dust in the eyes of the country members while the virtuous aldermen were perfecting their plans to soak the country, especially the outlying townships. How soon they discovered after the adoption of the equalization that the commission's figures would have to stand. It was the old game pithily expressed by a city member several years ago when we were complaining somewhat about an unjust equalization. "Well," said he "we have a majority and what are you going to do about it." Well I suppose we will have to submit to this sort of thing as long as we are the tail of Detroit's kite, but let us lay the blame where it belongs and not on the tax commission which has sin enough of its own to answer for without fathering those of Detroit aldermen.

MORALLY PERVERTED

VICTOR TROMBLEY GIVEN LIMIT OF LAW IN DETROIT.

SENTENCED TO SERVE LIFE IN HIND PRISON WALLS.

HIS OWN DAUGHTER VICTIM OF HIS BRUTALITY.

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 11.—Victor Trombley, the crime of which you have been convicted by this jury is the most atrocious that has ever come before this court. Any other verdict than that of guilty would have been outrageous. The sentence of the court is that you be confined in the state penitentiary at Jackson for the term of your natural life.

So spoke Judge Phelan in the recorder's court last evening at 7 o'clock at the conclusion of one of the most terrible exposures of moral depravity ever charged against any man in the state of Michigan.

Since Tuesday of last week the time of the court has been taken up with hearing the story of how terribly the man Trombley had abused the ties of nature and affection which should have bound him in loving kindness to his child, Carrie, now a broken woman.

At the conclusion of the evidence Judge Phelan addressed the jury at length. At 15 the jury had received the charge and retired. They were out at 7 o'clock.

When asked by the jury if he had anything to say before he was sentenced, Trombley arose, head shaken but defiant and with a voice which trembled at the beginning but grew stronger as he spoke, declared that he was a man who had conviction that as the conviction of his wife's defense, the character of the daughter he had raised and even attempted to murder the motives of the attorney in the case.

I am perfectly innocent of the crime," he quavered. "It is a plot between my wife and the lawyer. If there is any way to appeal I want to do it. If I were to live 200 years."

"You won't live so long, Trombley," broke in the judge, "every point of the evidence produced proves beyond an possibility of doubt that you are a human monster, and then his voice growing hard and stern, 'I impose the life sentence.'"

Without a tremor Trombley received the shock, the jurors had to do with the repetition of horrors so fearful to put made faster or the cool air of the streets, while the prisoner was led away by a stalwart guard.

The history of the case is brief. Some two years ago Trombley's wife, Carrie, the girl 'Carrie' and a son remained. During the time from June 2 to August 10 the man practiced on his child the most fearful crimes which were only discovered on May 2 of this year when concealment was no longer possible. A child was born to the daughter on May 17, but it lived only six weeks. The arrest of Trombley took place on May 3 and the trial of the case has been proceeding since Tuesday of last week. This is the first life sentence ever given in the city for such a crime.

Will Fight Trading Stamps.
Ann Arbor, Mich., Aug. 11.—The trading stamp people invade Ann Arbor this fall as they have contracted with several local merchants to go there will be something to go. The merchants not in the scheme say they will start the merriest race war that Ann Arbor has ever seen. They hold that they can sell goods cheaper than the merchants who furnish the trading stamps and on this belief they expect to be able to knock out the enterprise. No attempt has been made as yet to form a combination against the trading stamp people, but such a move is being considered.

Buell Family's Big Reunion.
Union City, Mich., Aug. 11.—The annual reunion of the Buell family, one of the prominent clans of this county, was held Wednesday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ira B. Buell in this city. A huge tent provided ample accommodations for the many members of the family present, and a bountiful dinner and supper were served there. Relatives from Indiana, New Jersey, New York and Colorado were in attendance.
