GREAT FAIR

GREAT STATE

SPECIAL ATTRACTIONS AT PONTIAC THIS YEAR

Grand Stand Will Seat Four Thousand People.

Year by year the State Fair of Michigan has grown in size and importance, and more and more is it looked forward to and its coming eagerly awaited by thousands. At Pontiac, September 12-16 the Fair for 1904 will surpass all previous efforts if the hopes and expectations of those in charge are realized. The handsome premium list which is now being sent out, is brim full of interesting information. New features have been added, and each day will be a continued round of enjoyment for young and old alike.

The grounds will be an ideal condition this fall the work of improvement done last year was of a permanent nature and this, supplemented by additions this fall will make the grounds more satisfactory than ever before. Secretary Butterfield predicts that this will be one of the most instructive Fairs ever held.

A grand headquarters tent will be a feature.

The mammoth grand stand, with a normal seating capacity of 4,000, has been enlarged this year to accommodate the crowds. No better testimony of the popularity of the Fair needs to be cited than that the stand was last year found to be far too small. One thousand seats are to be added.

The Detroit United will make special arrangements to care for the big crowds and assure Northville people simple provisions will be made to give good service out of here.

POLITICS IN WAYNE COUNTY

Al. Max C. Koch says he has not yet decided to run for the republican nomination for county treasurer. He was asked about a story that he and Jacob J. Baarer have agreed that one shall run with the other's support and that the successful man shall make the other his deputy both to share the salaries equally. "A very pretty story," said Koch, "but it's the first I've heard of it. You might inquire about the story that W. J. Lee, acting county treasurer, is in combine with George Nicol one of the republican candidates."

The following from the Detroit Free Press gives evidence that even in primary elections, money is spent.

One candidate for a county office quit his business some time ago. He has spent all the money he could save and has even borrowed cash in big sums to keep up the price he set in the beginning, and yet hasn't at all sure that he will be nominated. Another candidate sold a house and he can't get around fast enough in an automobile to spend the price. The experienced politicians are simply laughing at him or pitying him for spending money that he may need for next winter.

SAVINGS BANK ABSORBS LAPHAM'S

WILL MOVE INTO NEW QUARTERS OCTOBER 1

Formal Transfer Was Made This Week Tuesday.

The bank property and business of J. S. Lapham & Co. have been purchased by the Northville State Savings Bank and the papers were signed on Friday of this week. The Savings bank will be moved about Oct. 1st to the Lapham building from where the banking business will thereafter be carried on. Mr. Lapham will occupy his old stand until that time to close up his business, but will open no new accounts and receive no deposits.

J. P. Kirk Nominated

Lieut. Col. John P. Kirk of Ypsilanti was nominated for congress at the second district Democratic congressional convention at Monroe Wednesday. "Johnny" is an exceedingly fine fellow and is very popular with all who know him.

$5 Reward.

I will pay $5 reward for information that will convict any person of violation of the game law in Wayne County. T. B. HENRY, Deputy Game Warden.

Turns Sand to Stone.
Extraordinary qualities are possessed by the River Tinto, in Spain. It hardens and petrifies the sand in its bed, and if a stone falls in the stream and alights upon another, in a few months they unite and become one stone. Fish cannot live in its waters.

Green Flowers Are Rare.
Green flowers are very rare in nature. The ixia, of which many varieties are common in our gardens, is one of the very few plants which has a natural green variety. Schomburgk was its discoverer in South Africa, the home of all the ixias.

Terrible plagues, those itching, pestering diseases of the skin. Put an end to misery. Don't Ointment cures. At my drug store.

Suburban News.

Dorothy is plowing herself out being the biggest village in Michigan with Woodmen next in line, and Detroit is gradually reaching out after both.

Corn rounds the country down at Wayne now and the price of the corn trades in a different kind of rounds when they catch it.

Twelve thousand people participated in the Genesee county pioneer parade at Long Lake near Pontiac last week. It's a good thing it is a long time since we had a good thing like that.

Twenty republicans of Wayne are candidates for coroner. You can consider this on the dead. Adrian Press.

And if all of em put up a stiff fight for the nomination it will result in some collar up of funds.

Plymouth citizens are to vote September 7th on the proposition to bond the village for $10,000 to improve the village water system. Neither of those oft recurring yet on dry questions.

The Birmingham Electric thus pass, merrily sums up the prospect of a street lighting system for that village. You might just as well buy a new lantern for the respective that you'd need it for the next ten years.

Farmington has now become a suburb of Detroit. There was a burglary and an attempted hold-up at the former place last week. Farmington is a very religious town and probably "I love to steal awhile away" has been sung too much down there.

That "the tongue is an unruly member" was again demonstrated conclusively the other day when a Farmington man's leg was badly bruised and nearly broken by a "swipe" from one. It was the tongue of a threshing machine which he was helping to move into a barn.

Fenton people are having carloads of fun this summer over the ball games between the "fats" and "leans" of that village. In describing the latest the Independent says the contestants quit from sheer exhaustion at the end of the sixth inning. The paper mentioned leans toward neither side in its funny report of the game, but it would seem that lean Fenton folks will be soon in the minority if laughing makes fat.

No country editor can now go to Pontiac in his automobile and endanger the lives of the innocent and trusting citizens of that burg by "scorching." An ordinance has been enacted by the city government limiting the speed of the ubiquitous "hossless" to eight miles an hour straight and four miles per sixty minutes while going around corners.

With penalty for violation embracing a minimum of $10 and a maximum of $100, and possible imprisonment. Signs are to be conspicuously placed warning chauffeurs of the dangers of fast riding in Pontiac.

Central African Beer.
Central Africans make a kind of sweet beer which is effervescent and tastes a good deal like champagne. It is made by mixing water and banana juice, and allowing this to turn sour. It is said to be wholesome, but it is drunk only by women and children.

Varying Cries of Children.
When a child suffers from inflammation of the lungs it means, but rarely cries. When suffering from bronchitis the cry is gruff and rattling. When suffering from croup the cry is sharp and fretful. When hungry it is fretful and wailing.

PASSING FANCIES IN THE WORLD OF WOMEN

Persian Lawn With Lace.

Negligees in white are always dainty and charming, and have, besides, the merit of laundering easily and well. This one is exceptionally graceful and becoming and is shown in lawn with frills of pointe de Paris lace, but can be reproduced in many other fabrics and in color as well as white; the frills being of lace, embroidery, or the material, as prespoonful in all. Mix an ounce each of cloves, mace, and if liked hot, a spoon of cayenne, a tablespoon each of mustard-seed, white pepper and fresh horseradish. Put the lemons in stone jar, with the mixed spices between each layer of lemon slices. Heat two quarts of white wine vinegar boiling hot and pour over the whole. After standing 24 hours, squeeze out the pulp through cheese cloth, strain and bottle. Keep in a cool place. Can be made any time of year, but is especially nice in hot weather on cold meats and a change from other catsup.

Chiffon Mohair.

As the season advances materials of a soft flimsy texture become still more prevalent. One of the newest additions to the popular line of chiffons is chiffon mohair. It is suited to the smartest of summer gowns and gives a pretty effect. The champagne color, white, dark and light blue are very much in demand. In the shaded effects, blue black and brown are the smartest combinations.

Plenty to Choose From.

Dolly Varden silk mulls make a popular material and form a close rival for the printed nets. In these mulls the ground is white with tinted floral designs upon it. The linen gown is the choice of the ultra fashionable for both morning and afternoon wear. The pale colors are more in vogue than the plain white, although the pure white for hot summer days hold their own.

The Fichu Effect.

Fichus or collars draped to give a fichu effect, make an easily applied finishing touch for many inexpensive summer dresses. These pictureque accessories are made of the finest mulch chiffon or any soft fabric of the kind. They may be finished with self ruffles or wee frills of lace. Many little French touches in the trimming are possible to the home dressmaker.

Under a June night moon rides high,
The sparkling stars are faint and dimmed;
A wind goes rustling earth and sky
And the silver'd smoke is idly stirred.

And I through the city streets alone
Go thumping between the window'd walls.
Lost in a silent world of stone
A solitude of vacant halls.

What are my thoughts in this weird place?
The wonders of science? the world? the few?
No, men are still of the human race,

AN ACT OF CHARITY

Mrs. Boldero, having been advised by the doctor "to keep up her strength," had ordered for luncheon a rump steak and kidney pudding, which she was just about to carve, and some motion cutlets, now in front of Miss Lucy Westlake, her companion, whose principal duty was to read Mrs. Boldero to sleep after the present meal and dinner.

The pudding was served in a white basin with a napkin around it, and the parlour maid stood, interestedly looking on, while Mrs. Boldero cut a U-shaped piece out of the top, placed this on a plate, and began to spoon out the contents. Suddenly pausing, with the spoon in her right hand, she turned wrathfully toward Mary.

"Where?" she severely demanded "are the ladies?"

"Cook said the butcher didn't send them in time," was the answer. Mrs. Boldero felt disappointed. She had thought of the pudding once or twice since her 10 o'clock breakfast. "Take it away!" she exclaimed, and Lucy Westlake tried somewhat markedly to look as if the affair possessed no interest in the world for herself. "Indeed, it would not if Mr. Roper had not changed to pass the house at that moment."

Mr. Roper occupied one room in a very old house a few hundred yards away. He had lived there more than sixty years of age; he was short, stout, and singularly thin. His impishness of face, once blithe, had now become grim. His slightly infirm and faded from dark blue to brown. Frown of his forehead. Mrs. Boldero held a bullet of exchange confiding one of the funds she had left him, but Mr. Roper refused him off. "He could not tell me if it was a small world to do him for," she would remark.

Nevertheless, Mr. Boldero felt a kind of interest in the old man, who often sat by her window and thus often she happened to turn up a face to brighten him.

"But the devil, it would be an act of charity to give it to that poor ruffian!"

"What is that?" asked Lucy.
"Mr. Roper," was the answer. "It would be a charm every day for a week. I have a good mind to send it."

"Oh, but—"

"I beg your pardon," said Mrs. Boldero, sharply.

Lucy's cheeks were crimson, for she recollects what Mrs. Boldero could not see—that, although his clothes were fit for the dunder, Mr. Roper direct after luncheon."

Lucy Westlake looked inclined to weep. But, although Mrs. Boldero might be a trying woman to live with

"I am Major Roper," he said. "In many respects, Lucy had a comfortable home with sufficient salary to enable her to help her own people. Causing prevailing, she set forth half an hour later with tingling cheeks and reluctant steps. A wide-brimmed hat shaded her face from the sun, the basket hung on her left arm as she timidly drew near to the terrace of small houses where Mr. Roper lodged.

Lucy's voice trembled as a short stout, red-faced woman opened the street door.

"May I speak to Mr. Roper?" she asked, and, turning her back, the woman of the house shouted his name at the foot of the narrow staircase. He came down a few moments later in the act of buttoning his shrunken, faded coat.

"You wish to see me?" he inquired, with a bow.

"Yes, if you please," said Lucy.

Never since his boyhood had he felt such temptation at the sight of anything to eat.

On the floor that led to Mr. Roper's face, Lucy's eyes grew to a quiver of alarm.

"A terrible thought crossed my mind."

"What is that?" asked Lucy.

"Mr. Roper," was the answer. "It would be a charm every day for a week. I have a good mind to send it."

"What is that?" asked Lucy.

"Mrs. Boldero saw you pass over without saying a word."

"I have no title or pretence of being a lady," said Lucy.

"But the devil, it would be an act of charity to give it to that poor ruffian!"

"What is that?" asked Lucy.
"Mr. Roper," was the answer. "It would be a charm every day for a week. I have a good mind to send it."

"Oh, but—"

"I beg your pardon," said Mrs. Boldero, sharply.

Lucy's cheeks were crimson, for she recollects what Mrs. Boldero could not see—that, although his clothes were fit for the dunder, Mr. Roper direct after luncheon."

Lucy Westlake looked inclined to weep. But, although Mrs. Boldero might be a trying woman to live with

"A rump steak pudding."

He stood glaring at Lucy's rosy face while as ferociously twirled his mustache.

"I am Major Roper," he said.

"Mrs. Boldero thought—"

"She evidently thought that she could insult me with impunity."

"I am very sorry," faltered Lucy.

His annoyance was the greater, if possible, on observing that the pudding was not even whole, yet, incongruously enough, the sight of it tickled his palate. Still, Major Roper found his appetite easier to control than his pride, which had never been more aggressive than now, when he looked forward shortly to leave Borrowed and to live again within reach of a London club.

"You will kindly present my compliments to Mrs. Boldero."

"Boldero," faltered Lucy.

"To Mrs. Boldero, and tell her that I am very much—very much obliged."

"She will be rather hurt," said Lucy.

"And I," said Major Roper, "am rather hurt."

"I do wish you would let me leave it," cried Lucy, holding out her arm with the basket in her left hand close to his face.

"I have told you I am Major Roper," he answered, stepping backward.

"Mrs. Boldero will be immensely angry," murmured Lucy, gazing from the basket into his face.

"Angry—with you, do you mean?"

"I am afraid she will," said Lucy, with a deprecating smile.

Major Roper began to cough.

"You will kindly present my compliments to Mrs. Boldero, and say that I am greatly obliged, and accept her gift in the spirit in which, no doubt, it is offered."

"Oh, thank you!" exclaimed Lucy, and with an air of extreme relief, she said Major Roper take the basket.

"You will wait a moment for the basin?" he suggested, as she would have turned away.

"I can come to-morrow!"

"There is no necessity to give you that trouble," he insisted, "if you will pardon my closing the door!" He did not wish her to follow his movements, so, leaving Lucy standing on the top step and the street door ajar, the major held the basket gingerly as he walked along the passage to another door which led to a back yard.

There he removed the basin from the basket, standing this on the red tiles while he gazed, with mingled sensations at the top of the half cold but still-savory pudding. Never since his boyhood had he felt such temptation at the sight of anything to eat. Holding the basin now at arm's length, he stepped toward the dust bin, and therein emptied the enticing contents. A few feet to the right was a tap, and stooping in front of it, Major Roper turned the water into the basin, which he afterward rinsed upon a duster that hung from a nail in the wall. Having replaced the empty basin, he carried the basket into the house and opened the street door.

"A thousand apologies for keeping you," he said, offering the basket to Lucy, whose face looked quite cheerful again.

"I hope you will enjoy the pudding, major!" she cried, with a laugh which made him feel almost young again.

"You will kindly tell Mrs. Boldero it is one of my favorite dishes," he answered, with a bow, and Lucy nodded brightly as she walked away with the basket.—New York Telegraph

HE WOULD TAKE NO RISKS.

Cowboy Wanted to Have Decent Chance of Spending His Money.

"In the West," said Mr. William Sturgis of Cheyenne, Wyo., "the people take very seriously to the notion that government should busy itself in the endeavor to regulate public morals."

"For that reason, although we have a pretty stiff state anti-gambling law, the statute is of little potency, and the boys gather in the old familiar centers to bet their coin against faro, roulette, baccarat or poker."

Not long ago one of my clients, of the cowboy tribe, who had deposited $1000 with me, made a trip to town, and for several days got me to let him have about $500 per day. I thought he was trying his luck at faro, and to this, when he had $100 at last, I pointed him to the gambling dens.

On the last night he lost all his money, and that he went to keep an account with the remaining $500.

Every man last night slept at his post and this was expected to bring the memorable in history.

The First Falschord.

"It is said there should be implicit confidence between married folk," said a 14th avenue cobbler, whose church is not far from Forteth street.

I am a believer in this little injunction, but I am also certain that I once married a couple who tried to deceive not only one another, but even themselves, at the altar. I knew them both.

He was a bachelor of seventy; she was a spinster of about sixty. But you would not have thought so when they came to get me to marry them.

She was dressed like a shopgirl out for her first ball, and his raiment bespake the youthful dude of twenty-two or twenty-three. His snow white mustache had been dyed black and waxed until the ends looked like knitting needles.

I asked them their ages.

"Thirty-five," he said gravely.

"Thirty," she simpered.

"Now each was aware of deceiving the other, but I want to tell you both looked positively happy and untroubled over the consciousness falsehoods with which they had begun their married life."—New York Herald.

To a Haven at Last!

I have seen the worst of the world, and I care no more for chances and changes, for perils and annoyances.

God is over them all, a sort of calm than late.

My times upon Earth wait.

In the uttermost parts of the sea there the corals grow, the oozy floor no divers know.

When the laboring ship strains on through an ocean of weed.

Our captain takes good heed.

Two men were killed and two others seriously injured by the falling of an elevator in a New York soap factory.

On the elevator with the men when it fell were eight carboys of nitric acid, each weighing 150 pounds. These broke open and all four men were badly burned.

Herman Smith, aged 32, shot and wounded Bertha Homberg, 15, years old, at her home in Elmhurst, New York, Sunday, and then shot and killed himself. Smith was a metal polish er by trade, and had boarded with the Homberg family for many years. He had been acting strangely. The girl will probably recover.

Rubies of Great Value.

Oriental rubies are worth weight, for weight, about twelve times the value of diamonds.

"I am Major Roper," he said.

"In many respects, Lucy had a comfortable home with sufficient salary to enable her to help her own people. Caus-tion prevailing, she set forth half an hour later with tingling cheeks and reluctant steps. A wide-brimmed hat shaded her face from the sun, the basket hung on her left arm as she timoreously drew near to the terrace of small houses where Mr. Roper lodged.

"Angry—with you, do you mean?"

A Power for Good.

The pills that are potent in their action and pleasant in effect are DeWitt's Little Early Risers. W. S. Phillips of Albany, Ga., says: "During a bilious attack I took one. Small as it was it did me more good than calomel, blue mass or any other pill I ever took, and at the same time the effect was permanent. Little Early Risers are certainly an ideal pill." Sold by all druggists.

The men came to blows and the arrest of Cox followed.

The costs amounting to $18 was paid by Klein.

THANKFUL PEOPLE

THEY ARE FOUND IN EVERY PART OF NORTHLAKE.

The citizens of Northville have good reason to be thankful for burdens lifted from their backs, which they have patiently borne for years. Stories tell about the experience publicly there.

Miss H. L. Kelley of City street, who has had some experience with Burns' Kidney Pills, procured at Murdoch Bros' drug store and has had an exceedingly satisfactory result.

It is satisfactory to anything possible for her to say she stopped a dull pain in my back but had no relief for some time. I don't know what more I could say, consequently I have no hesitation in recommending them as a remedy on which the public can depend."

For sale by all dealers. Price, 50 cents. Foster Mifflin Co., Buffalo, N. Y. sole agents for the United States. Remember the name Burns' and take no substitute.

SUGAR BEETS IN IRELAND

An important scheme is being initiated for the establishment, on a gigantic scale, of a projected sugar industry in the south of Ireland. Arrangements have been made near Cork for the planting of over 3,000 acres of land with sugar beets. Factors for the manufacture of raw beet sugar will then be created.

DEATHNESS CAN NOT BE CURED

In the application of deathless it is not reached the point of the year. There is no one way to do it, but that is by an attempt to live on the various items of the First Panacea. When this is done, however, you have a rumbling stomach, impure blood, and when it is fully developed, a deathless, an unnatural state, not to be taken out and his vital system is so far gone that it is no longer able to be restored.

It will be done forever, unless you go to the end of life.

We will give the hundred dollars for any use of Deathness (anti-deathless) that can be cured in Hale's Patent Cure. Send or sugar, free.

F. J. CHALMÉ & CO., Toledo, O.

So far as we know, Hale's Patent Cure is the best.

GRASS OF MURDERED MAN.

Dr. Waldo, city of London coroner, said in a lecture recently that a weapon in the hand of a man who had been murdered is always tightly grasped, so that the fingers sometimes have to be severed before it can be released.

In the case of success there is no grasp at all.

WHAT IS LIFE?

In a first analysis nobody knows but we do know that it is under strict law that law even slightly, train results, irregular living, mean deterioration of the organs resulting in constipation, headache, or liver trouble. Dr. King's New Life Pills quickly rectify this. It's gentle, permanent. Only 25¢ at Geo. C. Hurd's Drug Store.

BRAINS OF MEN AND ANIMALS.

The only two animals whose brains are heavier than that of a man are the whale and the elephant.

GROWTH OF THE BAMBOO.

The bamboo has been known to grow two feet in twenty-four hours.

NEW USE FOR CEMENT.

Cement is being used instead of wood for piles. They are made in triangular shape and are driven in the same manner as those of wood.

AN ENGLISH VIEW OF THE JEWS.

It cannot be denied that the Jews, as a general rule, make excellent citizens. Lord Beaconsfield (a somewhat partial witness, perhaps,) said that they were "living and the most striking evidence of the falsity of that pernicious doctrine of modern times, the natural equality of man," that all their tendencies were conservative, and lay in the direction of religion, property and natural aristocracy.—Macmillan's Magazine.

THE STOMACH IS THE MAN.

A weak stomach weakens the man because it cannot transform the food he eats into nourishment. Health and strength cannot be restored to any sick man or weak woman without first restoring health and strength to the stomach. A weak stomach cannot digest enough food to feed the tissues and revive the tired and run-down limbs and organs of the body. Kodol-Dissipate Cure digests what you eat, cleanses and strengthens the glands and membranes of the stomach, and cures indigestion, dyspepsia and all stomach troubles. Sold by all druggists.

CATERPILLARS STOP TRAIN.

Caterpillars have become a plague in New South Wales. In some cases they have interfered with railway travel, as the trains could not move on the rails made slippery by the crushed caterpillars.

SUBWAY TEMPERATURE.

The winter temperature of the New York subway is 40 degrees when the thermometer above it shows zero, and in the hottest weather of summer the temperature of the subway is about 65 degrees.

No need to fear sudden attacks of cholera infantum, dysentery, diarrhoea, summer complaint of any sort if you have Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry in the medicine chest.

TOO MUCH EXPERIENCE.

"No, my boy," said the old gentleman. "I shall not make you my bookkeeper, although you are to have a place in my office. As a bookkeeper you are just a little too expert for me, for I learned what you can do with figures by studying the expense accounts you sent me while at college."

WATER OF THE MEDITERRANEAN.

Most of the Mediterranean is over a mile deep, but if its surface is levelled off by eight hundred feet it would be separated from the Atlantic at the Strait of Gibraltar and divided into two seas by a chain connecting Sicily and the African coast of Tunis.

FEARFUL ODDS AGAINST HIM.

Brodhead alone and destined such a fate, was the condition of an old soldier by name of L. L. Harvey Verstiller. For years he was troubled with kidney disease and neither doctor nor medicina gave him relief. At length he tried Electric Baths. It put him on his feet in short order and now in testimony, "I am on the road to complete recovery." Best on earth for liver and kidney troubles, and all forms of stomach and bowel complaints. Only 50¢ guaranteed by Geo. C. Huston Druggist.

TO MAKE RUGS BEAUTIFUL.

A connoisseur in rugs advises that they be washed at least once a year. "Wash some of your treasures," he says, and you will wonder at their real glory and color." Good soap will do wonders in bringing the original beauty back to a rug, if the cleaner will remember to stroke the rug softly with the soap while the rug is dry.

TO MAKE SUGAR IN JAPAN.

An Osaka firm of dealers in sugar is preparing for the establishment of a sugar refining plant, and it is stated that the company which is backed by foreign capitalists has already dispatched representatives to England and United States to purchase machinery.
