

THE NORTHVILLE RECORD.

Vol. XXXVI. No. 9

NORTHVILLE, MICH., FRIDAY, OCTOBER 7, 1904

$1.00 Per Year in Advance

ALMOST 1,400 OFFICE SEEKERS

PRIMARY TICKET WILL BE A CORKER.

163 Men Want to Be County Officers.

The result of the entries for the primary race for county and city nominations show a number of remarkable things. Just think of it—1,400 office seekers in the county who are willing—yes anxious—to sacrifice themselves upon their country's altar—at so much per and are even willing to pay from $25.00 down for the privilege! The office will not hereafter have to run its legs or seeking the man and every voter in Wayne county can vote for whom he pleases in the primaries—providing of course it is one of those who have made proper entries previous to Oct. 2.

In the entries the gloved hand of the big democratic machine in Wayne county, located in the city hall is shown to a nicely. The democratic machine had things down so pat that in most cases only one name was allowed to be entered for any office, the purpose evidently being to strengthen their ticket to the detriment of their republican opponents.

For instance. The republicans have two candidates for congress in Detroit—the democrats one.

For county sheriff, there are four republicans and one democrat.

For clerk, two republicans and one democrat.

Six republicans want the nomination for treasurer, one democrat.

Two republicans want short term, one democrat.

Four republicans are out for register of deeds, one democrat.

Four republicans want the nomination for auditor, one democrat.

Eight republicans for circuit court commissioner, three democrats.

Eighteen republicans are out for coroner, five democrats.

There are forty seven republicans who want the nomination for representative in the state legislature from Detroit and twenty democrats. In this last lot it is generally conceded the eleven who are lucky enough to get their names at the head of the list will receive the nomination.

In the first senatorial district Fred Martindale is alone on the republican ticket and Jim Martindale and John Dohrman will try for the democratic place.

C. E. Beaton of Northville is alone on the republican ticket for representative in the third district and the democrats have placed one on their ticket to oppose him in the election. The same is true in the fourth district where George Scott of River Rouge is lone man.

In the fourth senatorial district four republicans want the job and one democrat.

Judge Durfee says the ticket will be about four feet long and ten inches wide and in that case a man who votes for all the candidates he is entitled to will occupy from ten minutes to half an hour. Verily, verily, primary election is a great thing. It will revolutionize the whole world.

Smith-Morrison Nuptials.

A MATTER OF HEALTH

ALDEN SMITH CUTS LOOSE Explains Why Ferris is Devoted to Primary Reform.

The Republicans of Gratiot county opened the campaign last week with two meetings, one at the opera house, the other at Oddfellows building. This was made necessary because neither place was large enough to hold the people. Fred M. Warner opened the meeting at the opera house, was followed by William Alden Smith and Patrick H. Kelly made the concluding speech. Each of the speakers also appeared at Oddfellows hall.

William Alden Smith devoted a good share of his time to explaining Mr. Ferris' devotion to primary reform which only became apparent since he was nominated, and a genuine student of that principle who wanted the nomination for governor hid the door closed in his face. The convention was undoubtedly for Stearns but the Democratic machine ordered it otherwise and Ferris was named as the candidate.

W. R. C. Visit to Milford.

Sixteen Northville W.R.C. members are now ready to testify that as most delightful entertainers the Milford ladies of that order cannot be surpassed anywhere in America. On Wednesday the above number from the local corps went "up the line" in response to an invitation from Milford, and the way they were welcomed and feasted and made much of would require a new set of adjectives to adequately describe. All sorts of pleasant things were provided in their honor—besides an enjoyable program—including pretty souvenirs, a sumptuous dinner and a less elegant supper, and all in a spirit of hospitality as pleasing as it was unmistakably genuine. Milford certainly seems to be a pretty good place to visit.

How It Works.

Primary election for county candidates was held at Alpena Tuesday and this from the Free Press is how it works. "All the nominees live in Alpena city. The county Republicans are much worked up over the defeat of all the country candidates. The nominee for clerk is running for a fourth term and the nominee for probate judge for a third term. So much dissatisfaction is felt by the republicans that the democrats have an excellent chance in carrying the county."

The primary election in Muskegon county held week before last resulted in every nominee for county office being nominated from the city of Muskegon.

The primary election in Kent county in the middle of September resulted in every nominee being from the city of Grand Rapids.

"What will Wayne county do on October 18" is the question now being asked.

Lyceum Theater—Detroit.

His Last Dollar—how many there are who have been down to it. It is the cheery side of chance that Higgins and Cooke have chosen to show in their play. "His Last Dollar," which comes to the Lyceum Oct. 9 for a week's engagement, with David Higgins as the star. The story deals with the threatened eclipse of a young, big-hearted Westerner, who falls beneath the wiles of speculation in Wall street.

Whitney's Opera House—Detroit.
There is an irresistible fascination about the singing and dancing of colored people. To see a colored man at his best you want to see him when he is singing or dancing. He puts all of the sunniness of his nature into it. In "The Smart Set," which is the offering at the Whitney next week, the manager has assembled fifty of the cleverest colored artists in the world. The chorus is composed of pretty girls, who can both sing and dance, and the costumes are brilliant and beautiful.

CONSCIENTIOUS AND PAINSTAKING.

HAWLEY CHRISTIAN HIGHLY ENDORSED FOR AUDITOR.

Mr. Christian is a conscientious and painstaking official, he is entitled to a re-election. These are the words of John H. Johnson, cashier of the Peninsular Savings Bank of Detroit, and they are the echo of the feeling and sentiment among the banking and business interests of Detroit. These men are constantly thrown into business relations with the Board of Auditors, and therefore in position to know best.

T. HAWLEY CHRISTIAN County Auditor and candidate for re-nomination

who has the qualifications for the important office of County Auditor. The people, whose servants public officials are, ask that their servants shall perform the duties of their office to the best of their ability, that they shall be conscientious, painstaking, efficient and courteous. There is no question in the minds of any man who ever had any business in the County Auditor's office but that Mr. Christian answers to the letter every one of these qualifications. His record is his platform, and upon this he stands for re-nomination and election. It is safe to say that few men are better known, more popularly favored in Wayne county than the present chairman of the Board of County Auditors, Tom H. Hawley Christian.

CHARLIE SIMONS

He's Republican Candidate for Circuit Court Com'r.

Senator Charlie Simons, the well known Detroit attorney, author of the Wayne county primary election law is candidate for circuit court commissioner. He is a bright young lawyer and has always been an earnest worker in the republican ranks. He is deserving of consideration at the coming primaries.

The Detroit Ladies' orchestra has been engaged to give a musical entertainment in the Presbyterian church next week Friday evening, Oct. 13, for the benefit of the choir of that church. Price 25 cents.

Teachers' Examinations.

Teachers' examinations for Wayne county will be held at the Wayne County Building, Supervisor's Room, on the following dates:

Third Thursday of October.

Applicants who announce their intention to attend will receive special information. E. W. Yost, School Com'r.

Lulu Stanhope, St. Louis: "I used to have a horrid complexion. I took Hollister's Rocky Mountain Tea and am called the prettiest girl in the city." Tea or tablets. 25 cents. Mardon Bros.

Over in Grand Rapids.

The developments in the recent Grand Rapids primary election indicates pretty nearly one reason why Democrats are such ardent advocates of direct nominations. They fixed up their own ticket with only one candidate for each office, so there should be no contest and no demand for votes, and their votes could be used to swell the vote of undesirable candidates on the republican ticket and nominate as many as possible. This is what they did, and it must be taken as showing what they mean by primary "reform"—Langman Republican.

In His Home Town, Too.

A unique voting contest was held in Big Rapids the home of Candidate Ferris under the auspices of the Presbyterian church. The vote was taken for the favorite candidate for governor. After several days of voting, the polls were closed Wednesday evening. Warner had received 248 votes and Ferris only 75.—Detroit Journal

FIEND CAPTURED.

GR. JESOME RIDE.

An Ex-Convict Arrested for a Serious Rape to a Woman with the Corpse of Her Grandfather.

Little Gladys Boring, the victim of a brutal Friday morning in the woods west of Woodward Avenue, Dearborn, just north of Palmer Park, is very low at her home on St. M's road, outside of the village of Highland Park. She is paralyzed from head to toe, and there is no hope that she will ever walk again. The young woman is physically健全, and if she does not die of her injuries and if she does not become a paraplegic for life, she will be a hysteric for years to come. Her injuries remain, and she will be for a lifetime a burden to her grandfather's home. She is not grateful to Mr. Parker, the man of God, who is a paralytic for life. Dr. George R. Andrews is hopeful, but not certain, that the time will come when he will be able to leave his bed and walk again.

One Hundred Years Old.

Mrs. L. Z. Wood celebrated her hundredth birthday Tuesday at her home where she has resided for the past fifty years. Mrs. Wood is the widow of George L. Wood, and is the oldest of a family of twelve children. She has passed away. Mrs. Wood is married to George L. Wood, and has lived over a century in Michigan with her husband and four children, and succeeded in the business of Detroit. When was at that time a thriving French town. A few years before a house was sold to every citizen who could afford to improve it, and houses were built in the town site. The old man is still in good health and enjoys the company of his wife.

Chas. D. Stearns, now in the Wayne County jail charged with these crimes, Stearns is the only black sheep in a family of five sons and one daughter. He has been arrested three times and twice convicted of serious offenses against other Black children. Live identified him as the assassin.

New Laws Granted.

Two of the men convicted in connection with the Chillicothe murder were granted new trials by the Supreme Court Tuesday. In the case of James Mol, an attorney advised of the granting of a writ of habeas corpus, and the court set aside the verdict rendered by the Johnson County jury which tried Mol. It was held that the case of Ald. C. C. Moore, who was sentenced to state prison for life, was in error in the sentence of death. The State Attorney General, however, says that the sentence of death is justified.

The court also granted a new trial to the man convicted of the killing of John G. Clegg, a Negro, in the city of Toledo. The man, John W. H. Brown, was sentenced to state prison for life.

The St. Joe Mystery.

The head of the police department in St. Joe, Indiana, has been indicted on charges of perjury and obstruction of justice. He is accused of having lied to the grand jury in the case of the St. Joe, Indiana, police chief, who was found dead in his office.

The body of the chief was found on a chair in the office of the police chief, and it was discovered that he had been shot in the head. The police chief was found dead in his office.

Heads of the two men who were killed in the St. Joe, Indiana, police chief's office were found in the office of the police chief.

Bertha Mortimer, employed by Mr. and Mrs. John Blue of Ionia, went to the electrician to fix the gas, and in some way her clothes became ignited. She is slightly burned.

Burials entered the G. R. & I. depot in Lake-City Wednesday night. Now open the safe and got about $50. They also piled some express packages containing silverware.

A substance resembling soft coal has been discovered in Spencer Township. It is black like coal, burns freely, gives out a good heat, with but little smoke, and leaves scarcely any ash.

August Glauth, of Foote, O., was found in a cellar, where he had been for 24 hours and was thrown into the Reed-City jail as a common drunk. He died without medical attendance. Mrs. Albert Jackson, of Port Huron, whose husband was killed by a Perry Marquette train several months ago, received $200 from the railroad company in settlement of her claim.

Joe Seaton of Marion, a veteran of the Civil War, and in the neighborhood of 70 years of age, has within the last two years sat in his chair and written letters to the president of the United States.

A whole lot of delivery was provided to the city of Toledo on October 4, 1894, and is the oldest of a family of twelve children. He has passed away. Mrs. Wood is married to George L. Wood, and has lived over a century in Michigan with her husband and four children, and succeeded in the business of Detroit.

Robert Smith's capital, by trade and 7 years of age, wandered from home to Bay City, before the family crossed the Atlantic Ocean to Europe. The boy made his way home unassisted and the master was at once reported to the police. The search for the perpetrators of these outrages has thus far been fruitless.

Chas. D. Stearns, now in the Wayne County jail charged with these crimes, Stearns is the only black sheep in a family of five sons and one daughter. He has been arrested three times and twice convicted of serious offenses against other Black children. Live identified him as the assassin.

Some Primary Questions.

Who will the democrats vote for, for register of deeds at the coming primaries? Frank Reiper. They can't vote for any one else. He's the only man the democratic machine allowed to go on the ticket and yet the democratic party demands a primary election law whereby the people can nominate.

Who will the democrats vote for for the primaries for county auditor?

The answer is, Peter DeLisle. He's the only man on the ticket. No democrat can vote for any one else. But suppose some democrat wants to vote for some one else. That makes no difference. The machine dictates that every democrat vote for Peter.

How about county clerk? Every democrat must vote just for Will VanDyke. No one else on the ticket. But the primary election men say we want to vote for whom we please in the primaries. Well, let's try it. It's VanDyke's turn now to be the people nominate.

Who will the democrats vote for, for treasurer? Bill Billy De Natale on the ticket. The utility of two to one. Who nominated him?

We are not saying a word against them then. Peter VanDyke, too, and DeLisle are all good men and they might have been nominated just the same at a convention but other people talk about voting in the primaries for their own choice or ambitions, they are mistaken. They are simply voting for some man who gets his name on the official ballot.

Four names and W. H. McGregor are the republican candidates for county clerk. Suppose a voter at the primaries wants to vote for someone else. Can he do it? Not according to the first vote for the R. C. ticket. But some one says I thought it was primary election day. Oh, yes, you are right. But that's what got on the ticket.

In the first seating of the primaries, there is the old republican ticket. No delegate can vote for any one else. He would have been nominated in a convention however, just the same, and that may be true of every such association at the primaries in October.

Let the candidates and the people who favor primary elections figure it all out after it is all over, count up the expense, the labor and trouble, and tell the Record where the improvement is. No one in Northville or any other town in the country part of Wayne, be it democrat or republican has had anything to say as to who shall be the county office candidate, to be voted for at the primaries. Of course in some cases the voter may have several men to choose from and so could as delegate to a county convention.

Under the delegate plan the delegates pick out the nominees—under the primary plan the candidate for nomination picks himself out, and pays an entrance fee for a place on the score card—all the world like a horse race—and the candidates draw lots to see who shall have the pole; the man in the judges' stand yells "go" on October 19 and they are off.

The Record has nothing however to say against primary elections. They are certainly a God-send to the poor newspaper publishers.

REGISTER OF DEEDS

A Real Estate man of twelve years' experience in Detroit. Chief Clerk in the Register Deeds' office, 1895-97. A Lawyer admitted to practice in all the courts in the state, and the U. S. Courts.

He stands for the conduct of the office on strictly business principles, doing the work more thoroughly and promptly than ever before, with an ample number of thoroughly competent, courteous, well-paid clerks who can render valuable political service to their party. He guarantees to do this at a saving of more than $10,000.00 for the term, or forfeit the salary of $7,000.00.

He has successfully conducted a large Real Estate business, and can successfully accomplish what he asserts in his candidacy for this office. He is the only candidate who has originated the idea or economy in Public Office, and made that his issue in the campaign.

The present incumbent of the office is trying to continue an obsolete, extravagant political system. It has been asserted that many reforms have been inaugurated, but we have not heard of one specific reform. He has simply continued the work that others have been doing, at a greatly increased cost. The work of copying the old index was started when Mr. Shipman was in the office, when he prevailed upon Mr. Marchner to extend the office hours, and succeeded in accomplishing it, and has the office kept open until four o'clock while previously it had been closed at three in the afternoon. Former Register of Deeds Kingsley, a few days ago, advised him that when he left the office, the copying of the old work was practically complete, and yet three clerks at a total cost of $6,000.00 have been kept at this work under the present administration. This has been unnecessary extravagance, and should be stopped.

If you approve of the stand he takes, vote for him and help save $10,000 to the tax payers in Wayne county.

FREDERICK C. SHIPMANA Logical Candidate

The Candidacy of Eugene L. Nicol presents an Experienced Man for the Important Office of County Treasurer.

EUGENE L. NICOL

Republican Candidate Nomination County Treasurer

No candidate for County Treasurer presents stronger arguments than F. L. Nicol, who for eight years was teller in a bank and for the past 16 years has held the responsible position as Chief Cashkeeper in the County Treasurer's office, as such, under former Treasurer McLeod. Butterfield and late Fred F. Snow, Mr. Nicol gained a thorough and practical knowledge of the office. He is a trained expert, conversant with every detail and in the conduct of the office will possess a decided advantage over all other candidates. Mr. Nicol knows the requirements of the office and his selection by the Republic can only insure a strictly business administration of that important office.

[Grand Rapids Herald.]

Editor Herald.—It is with pleasure I proffer my unsolicited, though feeble, endorsement in behalf of the present Republican candidate for governor, Fred M. Warner. Through contact, in years past, with many men of Wayne and Oakland counties in my capacity as editor and publisher of the Northville Record, I was enabled to form a pretty accurate opinion of their respective merits and worth, and, to my judgment, none could show up to better advantage in honorable business transactions, private friendly intercourse or clear, personal character, than the gentleman in question, and as for ability, his late successful career in an official capacity demonstrates this fact to a certainty.

I am not a politician, never have sought office, probably never shall, but I have and ever will take pride in seeing men exalted to high responsible positions who, irrespective of environment or public comment, will pursue their course in an upright, manly way, devoting time and talent to the welfare of their constituency and the good of the state at large.

A personal acquaintance with Fred M. Warner insures me his election as chief executive will reflect honor upon the state.

The Retrospective Person.

He never thinks a man is truly great until he's dead.
And then he writes away a tear and quotes what he has said.
He's a bit of a poet, too, that long ago has passed away.
And returns when he remembers them with the raters of to-day.

He talks about his boyhood and the fun of the folks who had him.
He talks about the actors and we never shall see again.
He says that everything worth while is going to be lost forever.
And to the man who is just one grand sweet fellow—“It’s time to go.”

MISUNDERSTOOD!

BY THOMAS G. FESSENDEN

Cobden had done the thing in his usual masterful way. He had invaded the little group in the corner, taking Evelyn by the arm, and, with a laughing apology to the others, he had led her away. As the orchestra on the palm-embowered platform launched into a Strauss waltz, Cobden led the way to a corner of the veranda. Before them the trim lawn of the Suburban club lay smooth and level in the faint moonlight.

Cobden studied the moonlit vista for several moments in contemplative silence. He drew a cigarette from his case, but suddenly threw it unlighted over the rail. He laughed nervously. The girl laid her hand lightly on his arm.

“Bob,” she said, “you’ve seemed rather queer to-night. What’s the matter?”

“Rattled,” he replied laconically. “Nonsense,” she laughed. “That’s not in your line.”

“Not generally, I’ll admit, he said. To-night, however, it’s a fact. I’m used to do something I can never do to force something of vital importance to me. It’s got on my nerves.”

“It may be something awful,” she said brightly.

“Horrible,” he acquiesced. “I’m about to propose.”

He leaned back in his chair.

“To you,” he supplemented.

She flushed and stared at him fixedly in amazement.

“I wished to the Unseen to pray a lot of pretty things, but honestly I’m rattled. Evelyn, for heaven’s sake, any you’ll marry me?” he blurted out.

She drew away from him. Her eyes opened wide.

“Bob,” she said in a queer little voice. Then she sprang from the sofa.

“Oh, no, no!” she cried.

Cobden looked at her helplessly. He groped blindly for words to express his relief. The expression came finally in the form of an affectionate pat on the head.

I know it,” he said with pathetic conviction. “I’m not fit worthy of you. I had no business to suppose you cared, still, I am not enough to begin you might.”

The girl was standing by the rail, her head turned from him.

“It isn’t that I do care,” she said. She rose from her chair and stood beside him.

“Then—then Evelyn you will—”

“No,” she said.

Cobden squared his shoulders.

“Why not?” he said with quiet force.

“Because—O, Bobby, because you are awfulen,” she said, and it isn’t fair to you.”

“Why not?” he persisted in the same tone.

“Well, for one thing, I’m told, you foolish boy.”

“I’m not exactly a nestling myself,” said he.

“And you shant marry me out of pity,” she declared.

“Pity? It’s said in annunciation.”

“Yes, that’s just what you are doing,” she said. “O, I read you like a book, sir. You have always been so

“Bobby, dear, you can’t fool women in some things,” she said. “You have never really cared. If you did, why weren’t you ever jealous of me? Why didn’t you let all my little affairs of the heart go on with never a murmur from you? Men are not silent when they really care. Neither do they watch another man’s suit with equanimity. It’s because I’m growing old and because I am no longer sought after that you ask me now—you dear, brave, generous boy!”

“Evelyn,” he said, “are you crazy?”

She stroked her head.

“No, very very sane,” she said.

“Look here,” said he. “I stand away and give those other chaps the field

GOVERNMENT AS A BREEDER

Department of Agriculture to Raise Fowls and Domestic Animals. The government is going into the horse-breeding business. Plans are now under consideration by the department of agriculture for the expenditure of the $15,000 appropriated by the last congress for the purpose of breeding domestic animals and fowls. Special attention, it is understood, will be given to the raising of horses, both for cavalry and carriage purposes and preparations to this end are being made at the Fort Collins experiment station, in Colorado.

At other stations in various parts of the United States experiments will be conducted with full-blooded chickens, cows, sheep and hogs, and Secretary Wilson is determined that the limit of excellence in each class shall be reached. The progress of the experiment is being watched with interest by breeders and cattlemen throughout the country.

Ungrateful Teacher.

Elbert Hubbard was born in Bloomington, Ill., and a Bloomington man said of him the other day:

“Hubbard and I went to school together when we were little chaps. It was a private school, a kind of kindergarten, and the teacher allowed us a good many liberties. Hubbard had a little puppy dog, and one of the trustees allowed to him was the privilege of bringing in the dog and keeping it at his feet during the session.

This went on for a week or more. The puppy was quiet at first, but, as it got accustomed to the school, it began to take liberties, to be free, to clog about and bark.

One morning it disturbed the whole room. It broke up the session altogether. Therefore the teacher said:

“Elbert, take that dog out, and never bring it in here any more.”

“Hubbard, nearly broken heart, lifted the puppy up in his arms and went slowly down the aisle. He held its head against his cheek, and, as he did so, the teacher said:

“And it’s named after you.”

"Did you really care so much?"

before a year ago? I wanted to get away with you. I always to care about a life I wanted you to be happy."

She nodded knowledgeably.

"Oh, you ever think old chaps," he said.

It's a bit late," Cobden said. And there's a lot of other things that I've been always either. It was late when I had to walk the street half the night, taking out my heart with a scold. I never felt the right to express it. It wasn't until I had a fit to the woods that the even your garden to be in as I am now. I used to eat every squirrel I shot.

"Why not?" he persisted in the same tone.

"Well, for one thing I'm old, you foolish boy."

"I'm not exactly a nesting myself," said he.

"And you shan't marry me out of pity," she declared.

"Pity?" he said in alarm.

"Yes, that's just what you are doing," she said. "O, I see you like a book, sir. You have always been so

"Bobby, dear, you can't fool women in some things," she said. "You have never really cared. If you did, why weren't you ever jealous of me? Why did you let all my little affairs off the heart go on with never a murmur from you? Men are not silent when they really care. Neither do they watch another man's suit with equanimity; it is because I'm growing old and because I am no longer sought after that you ask me now—you, dear, brave girl!"

"Evelyn," he said, "are you crazy?" She shook her head.

"No, very sane," she said.

"Look here," said he. "I stand away and give these quick claps the field

GOVERNMENT AS A BREEDER

Department of Agriculture to Raise Fowls and Domestic Animals.

The government is going into the horse-breeding business. Plans are now under consideration by the department of agriculture for the expenditure of the $25,000 appropriated by the last congress for the purpose of breeding domestic animals and birds. Special attention, it is understood, will be given to the raising of horses, both for cavalry and carriage purposes and preparations to this end are being made at the Fort Collins experiment station in Colorado.

At other stations in various parts of the United States experiments will be conducted with un-blooded chickens, cows, sheep and hogs, and Secretary Wilson is determined that the limit of excellence in each class shall be reached. The progress of the experiment is being watched with interest by breeders and carmen throughout the country.

Ungrateful Teacher.

Elbert Hubbard was born in Bloomington, Ill., and a Bloomington man said of him the other day:

"Hubbard and I went to school together when we were little chaps. It was a private school, a kind of kindergarten, and the teacher allowed us a good many liberties. Hubbard had a little puppy dog, and one of the liberties allowed to him was the privilege of bringing in the dog and keeping it at his feet during the session.

"This went on for a week or more. The puppy was quiet at first, but as it got accustomed to the school it began to take liberties, to be free, to ciper about and bark.

"One morning it disturbed the whole room. It broke up the session also. Therefore the teacher said: 'Elbert, take that dog out, and never bring it in here again.'

"Hubbard, nearly heartbroken, lifted the puppy up in his arms and went slow down the aisle. He held its head against his cheek, and as he departed looking back reproachfully at the teacher, he said:

"'And it's named after you.'

The Road to Success.

"The road to success is full of difficulties. There are many who are not willing to learn. There are many who are not willing to work. There are many who are not willing to sacrifice.
