TOWNSEND NOT

MUCH WORRIED

EFFORT TO SIDE TRACK HIM FOR THIRD TERM

Fine Record in Congress Worrying Some People.

The following is from a Washington dispatch in Saturday's Detroit Free Press:

Congressman Townsend is not greatly worried over the efforts of James O'Donnell of Jackson to dig his political grave by claiming that an agreement exists whereby Townsend agreed to step down and out after two terms in congress.

When Townsend first ran for congress he was groomed by "Bill" Judson and defeated "Hank" Smith of Adrian for the nomination after Smith had been in congress two terms. Townsend made a written agreement that after two terms, if W. W. Wedgeway of Ann Arbor was a candidate he would not oppose him. But in addition to all this it was stipulated between all parties that if Townsend was the choice of the district that he should be returned to congress. The agreement was turned over to State Treasurer Glazier and is now in his possession.

Later both Judson and Glazier notified Townsend that the agreement was no longer binding, but Judson is now dead and there seems to be an effort brewing to scare Townsend off.

It begins to look as though some of the political satellites in Townsend's district are becoming warmed over the prominence he has acquired in congressional matters and are afraid that it may serve to place him in an independent position. Townsend has made an enviable record in congress and is now one of the important factors in the railroad rate legislation. An asset his record is gift-edged, irrespective of local political complications.

Congressman Townsend says he is in the hands of his friends and that while he will not get into any unseemly kerfuffle for the nomination in 1906 at the same time he feels if the people of this district believe his record in congress to be such as would warrant their favoring his re-nomination at that time, he wants it and will show his appreciation by a continued endeavor to place the second district in the ranks with the best in the whole United States.

Mr. Townsend's stand on the railroad freight rate bill has placed him in close touch with the president and is already, before even he has begun his second term, classed with the leaders in the great congress of the United States.

RING FOR PHILLIPS

Token of Gratitude from Northville Citizens.

On Monday evening Wm. Phillips was the recipient of a very agreeable surprise when a number of his fellow citizens who were gathered at the council room, presented him with a handsome gold ring as an acknowledgement of his instrumentality in bringing about the arrangements by which our village gets a new industrial enterprise. Mayor Harmon made the presentation speech in a most fitting manner. Mr. Phillips' efforts have been untiring and long continued, and in a great measure the successful landing of the factory is due to his efficient handling of the affairs with which he has been entrusted, and in which he has had the co-operation of a number of other public-spirited citizens.

Death of Samuel Davis.

Samuel Davis of Farmington died suddenly at his home Monday morning of pneumonia. The funeral was held Wednesday afternoon. Mr. Davis was one of the most prominent farmers of that section, was 71 years old and leaves a widow and three children, one of the latter being the wife of Gov. Warner. He was ill but two days.

Owing to the death of Mr. Davis, Gov. Warner canceled his engagements to speak at the McKinley club banquet in Bay City last Monday evening and at West Branch Tuesday evening.

For U. of M. Regent.

One of the especially desirable candidates mentioned for Regent of Michigan University is Dr. W. H. Sawyer of Hillsdale, who was endorsed for that position by the state medical society without his knowledge at a recent meeting. The medical profession is not at present represented on the board of Regents, and Dr. Sawyer is a man who would most worthily and acceptably do so. His personal, professional and political integrity are very highly spoken of.

Suburban News.

The little village of Wixoin now has two doctors. If strict originality were a matter of indifference it would not be out of order to remark that there is a que opening for an undertaker.

Some mean wretch has started the report that a New Hudson calf which was tied up where it was obliged to listen to the practicing of the newly started band at that place, committed suicide by butting its brains out. People had better be careful how they circulate such reports.

Holly's C. E.'s had a toe social the other night. To keep in step with all these new fangled notions it is necessary to keep stocking up with information, but one may naturally infer that if a young man takes his best girl heel of course he toe foot the bill, sole long as it isn't leaf year.

A Delray street car conductor was given twenty cents as a reward for finding and restoring to its owner a purse containing several hundred dollars. The restoree may have had some cents left but they certainly weren't munificence or the sense of gratitude, to say nothing of common sense.

Dearborn isn't going to wait for Detroit to take the initiative for this part of the country in the matter of time, but has set the latter city an example by adopting a resolution to "backward, turn backward, oh time" twenty-eight minutes. Perhaps Detroit will now be reconciled to the idea of having breakfast half an hour later.

Pontiac poultry raisers have been having a show of their fine birds this week and as a peculiarly appropriate feature the prizes were on exhibition beforehand at Mr. Turk's. To continue the "eternal string" a Chickering piano should be used to furnish music for the occasion, the exhibitors ought to wear duck suits and the attendants to be pigeon-toed, while the souvenirs given to visitors might appropriately be cute little hatchets.

"The Prince of Pilsen" at the Detroit Opera House, Detroit.

"The Prince of Pilsen," which will be the attraction at the Detroit Opera House the entire week of Feb. 6th, beginning Monday evening, with matinees on Wednesday and Saturday as usual, is not new to theatre goers of this community. Its unqualified success in Detroit last season, to say nothing of reputation gained by this standard musical comedy in New York City, London and all the other leading American cities, is well known. Suffice it to say that on this occasion, "The Prince of Pilsen" will be presented in detail on the same high standard of characterizes all of Henry W. Savage's productions.

"The Prince of Pilsen" is one of the few musical comedies which has made headway on the pretty and melodious character of its musical numbers, rather than by the antics of the comedians. This does not mean that "The Prince of Pilsen" is devoid of fun or opportunities for fun makers. Its reputation and cast of competent comedians disprove that; but its songs are so pretty, so singable and so widely sung.

That Gustav Luders' score comes first, and as rendered by Mr. Savage's company, assisted by the large and well trained chorus, and accompanied by "The Prince of Pilsen's" special orchestra, which travels with the organization, there is a harmony unusual.

Presbyterian Church Notes.

(By the Pastor.)
The sermon next Sunday evening will be on "Memory—Do we ever forget."

Baptist Church Notes.

(By a Member.)
Preaching next Lord's day morning and evening by the pastor.

The missionary meeting at Mrs. B. A. Northrop's Wednesday afternoon was well attended and a very interesting program was given.

The pastor will begin a series of sermons next Sunday evening. The following subjects will be considered: "The thoughtful seeker," "The need of a thoughtful seeker," "The instruction given a thoughtful seeker," "The necessity of instruction," "The fragrant of God's love," "The reward of faithful seeking."

OLD GLOBE CO. PROPERTY SOLD SATURDAY.

Hall-Carr Manufacturing Company the Purchasers.

As advertised the receiver's sale of the property of the old Globe Furniture company took place on Saturday, the purchaser being Mr. Hall of Detroit for the newly organized Hall-Carr Manufacturing Co. which is the name under which the new factory will do business. The price paid was $7,000. The company has a capitalization of $20,000.

The industry will manufacture novelty wood work of various kinds, one branch of which will be base ball clubs, the latter business having been bought out recently at Rochester to be brought here. Mr. Axford of that firm has moved here and will act as foreman in the wood work department. Mr. Carr will have the Methodist Church Notes.

(By the Pastor.)
Baptism and reception services will be held Sunday morning.

Services at the church by the pastor on Sunday both morning and evening.

Candidates for reception into church membership are requested to be present at the church on Saturday evening at 7:30.

We have heard good reports from last Sunday's service. Rev. J. E. Jacklin was well received and those who heard him were much benefitted and blessed.

We quite enjoyed ourselves with the Pinckney friends on Sunday last. Their fiftieth anniversary was quite a success and their church improvements look very nice.

THE LEGISLATURE.

At 4 o'clock Thursday afternoon the legislature adjourned to meet Tuesday, February 7, this being done to give the committees a chance to visit the state institutions, and now the same old funketins on, only it will start quietly, the members going to their homes to join in it. It is said the free Pullman cars and the extra cars of food times will be provided. The governor's advice to not make it as heretofore, but for each committee to visit the particular institution whose bills it will investigate.

It seems quite likely that the plan of Senator Rumer, of Davison, to do away with the pardon board as at present constituted will have plenty of backing, and that Gov. Warner will give his sympathy to at least part of the Rumer plan. The trouble with the present board is said to be that instead of merely looking into the merits of cases that appear to have some merit, they hold a second trial of every man who makes application for pardon or parole.

The proposition to provide for a state veterinarian to prevent the spread of communicable diseases among live stock has again been revived in a bill introduced by Representative "Morris," of Harbor Springs. The bill proposes that the veterinarian cooperate with the state board of health and local boards in suppressing such diseases.

NATIONAL CAPITAL NOTES.

Negotiations have been concluded between Gov. Davis, Minister Barrett and the government of Panama under which the canal zone officials will assume complete charge of the city's sanitation.

The home public building bill which will be reported this week contains $500,000 for a new government office building at Grand Rapids. A $50,000 for a site and building at Ann Arbor.

A special session is a certainty, and it is by no means certain that the president will wait until fall to call one. For the reason that the railroads are busy getting ready for the winter, and if given several months to work in, much might be accomplished.

Representative Land is trying to have one of the proposed new battleships named Michigan.

Washington is working to a realization that there is a serious conflict on the part of the president and congress, and that the president has decided to force the matter. His speech on the subject of railroad legislation at Philadelphia is recognized as an appeal to the country for help, and it is the first step taken in public by the president in the contest.

Senators are awaiting a further move with interest. Many of them hope that the president is trying to impress his views on congress to greater extent than the best interests of the country require, and they are prepared to combat Roosevelt just as the Democratic senators combated Cleveland in his second administration.

The president's speech has been taken as a striking back at the men who are disputing his leadership, who have compelled him to surrender on the tariff, and who are now opposing many measures in which he is intensely interested.

The Swedish riksdag was opened in the new parliament house for the first time. King Oscar represented the president and vice-presidents of both chambers.

Samuel H. Piles, of Seattle, Wash., was elected United States senator by the legislature at Olympia, on the 13th joint ballot. Charles Sweeny, the millionaire miner from Spokane, withdrew.

Mrs. Elmer E. Hardy, who was shot twice by her husband at her father's home in Marion because she refused to give up letters she intended to use in a divorce case against him, is showing remarkable vitality, and the physicians say she has a fighting chance for recovery.

Gov. French of Georgia will not grant permission to the colored troops of his state to attend the inauguration of President Roosevelt March 4. The reason assigned is that he does not wish to have the state represented by a negro company, as the white companies would not go and pay their own expenses.

Elevator men at St. Johns are much worried at present over a few law requiring them to have their buildings at least six feet from the railroad track. The railroads have served notice on them to comply with it and the expense will be so great that they are looking around for a way to get out of it.

Rev. C. H. Hanks, pastor of the Owsosso Congregational church, made a touching tribute to President McKinley at his morning service Sunday. Speaking particularly of the appropriateness of wearing the carnation in memory of the martyred president. Of his congregation of 560 people, a large majority wore carnations.

NEWS OF THE WORLD

A Brief Chronicle of All Important Happenings

TROUBLED RUSSIA.

The situation on Saturday was summarized as follows: "Despite the fact that the strike in Russia is spreading in the Baltic provinces and in Poland, no disturbances of any importance were reported Saturday and tranquility is hoped by the authorities will prevail."

At Moscow, where 20,000 men are still out, although work has been resumed in nearly all the mills, the situation appears to be threatening. The men in the industrial section became turbulent during their Saturday night spree and it was thought if they continued drinking there undoubtedly would be disorders Sunday.

The authorities declare that measures already have been taken to prevent trouble in Moscow. Arms have been removed from gunsmiths' shops and patrols of the streets are continued.

In the Baltic provinces and in Poland the strikers are cutting telegraph lines and interrupting communications, and fears are expressed for most serious disorders, especially in Poland.

While no further encounters between the strikers and the authorities have occurred, Friday's dispatches from Russian points indicate that the Russian movement is spreading. The Mitten bodies of strikers marched to the shops and compelled the men who were at work to leave. At Warsaw a strike was begun today and is spreading rapidly, but without disorder. A general strike has begun at Lodz.

At Moscow and St. Petersburg the authorities have the situation under control and the day passed quietly. In the former city some men have returned to work. Arrives from St. Petersburg are to the effect that the authorities regard the danger of a general stop of Russian industries as past and assert that the attempt to coöperate the movement into a political revolt has failed.

The St. Petersburg morgue still contains many unidentified dead. The hands of some of the victims are white and on their fingers are diamonds, the suggestion being that they were heirs of some birth in sympathy with the strike movement who dressed up as workmen and took part in the demonstration.

Twenty nine men and two women were killed and 37 civilians and eight soldiers were wounded by revolver shots during Thursday's rioting in Riga according to the returns made by the hospitals.

The strike disorders in Warsaw are becoming more serious. The ordinary life of the city is quite suspended. On Saturday the strikers stopped the street railway service, but remained otherwise orderly. Sunday, however, they began wholesale looting. The majority of the shops in Marshal Kosciuszki street and the state vodka shops were looted. All the factories, shops, schools and theaters are closed and the street lamps are extinguished. There have been several collisions between the police and strikers and many arrests have been made.

Police adding inhabitants are ordered to remain in their homes and to keep their doors and windows closed in their windows, and thus safeguard their safety. The rioters burned the sacred emblem of the house of ministers in several cases soldiers fired on both sides, and in one case in a working class suburb they fired a cannon shell, being to disperse the crowd. Several fatalities had narrow escapes from personal injury. The number of killed or wounded during the rioting is estimated at 100.

The czar's promise. Emperor Nicholas on Wednesday received at Tsarsko Selo a deputation of 31 workmen representing the employees of the factories and workshops of St. Petersburg. The deputation was accompanied by Minister of Finance Kozlovskoff and Gov.-Gen. Trepoff. The emperor, accompanied by Grand Duke George Mikailovitch, Gen. Hesse, minister of the imperial court and the commander of the palace, met them in the hall. The workmen bowed deeply to the emperor, who said: "Good-day, my children."

The workmen then replied: "We wish your majesty good health!" The emperor then said: "I have summoned you in order that you may hear my words from myself and communicate them to your companions. The recent lamentable events with such sad but inevitable results have occurred because you allowed yourselves to be led astray by agitators and enemies to our country. When they induced you to address a petition to me on your needs they desired to see you revolt against me and my government."

"They forced you to leave your honest work at a period when all Russian workmen should be laboring unceasingly in order that we might vanquish our obstinate enemy. Strikes and disgraceful demonstrations led the crowds to disorder, which, obliged and always will oblige the authorities to call out troops. As a result innocent people were victims. I know that the lot of the workman is not easy. Many things require improvement but have patience. You will understand that it is necessary to be just toward your employers and to consider the condition of our industries. But to come to me as a rebellious mob in order to declare your wants is a crime."

"To my solicitude for the working classes I will take measures which will assure that everything possible will be done to improve their lot and secure an investigation of their demands through legal channels. I am convinced of the honesty of the workmen in their devotion to myself and I pardon their transgression. Return to your work with your comrades and carry out the tasks allotted to you."

"May God bless you."

Benjamin C. Dean, a heavy owner of timber and mineral lands in Michigan, is dead in Boston.

A BLUEBEARD.

Johann Hoeh's Career of Crime and His Capture. Johann Hoeh, charged with the murder of a wife in Chicago and who it is alleged married twenty women, was arrested in New York Monday night. He admitted his identity, although when first arrested he gave the name of Henry Bartels. A Mrs. Kimmeler, the landlady, said he engaged board Wednesday of last week and had not been in the house twenty minutes when he asked to be allowed to peel some potatoes for her. "He was so anxious to talk that I did not know what he was after," said Mrs. Kimmeler. "I'll all of a sudden he told me he wanted to marry me. I remember reading in the papers about that awful man and it suddenly flashed across my mind that this man who wanted to peel potatoes after being twenty minutes in my house and being twenty minutes after knowing me a day or so, was the same man they wanted in Chicago, and I ran to the station house as quickly as I could."

Johann Hoeh is qualified with marrying many women. The following are compiled from reports made to the police, together with money Hoeh is supposed to have secured: 1892-94—Married three women in Chicago under different aliases. All dead. 1894—Mrs. Julia Steinbecker, Chicago; secured $4,000. 1896—Mrs. Janet Spencer, Chicago; secured $300. 1897—Mrs. Callie Andrews, Chicago; secured $500. 1897—Mrs. Jacob Huss, Wheeling, W. Va.; secured $2,500. 1898—Unidentified Chicago woman. 1899—Mrs. Schmidt, Milwaukee; secured $1,200. 1900—Mirzaret Herfeldt, Chicago; secured $1,800. 1900—Mrs. Mary Schulz, Argos, Ind.; secured $2,000. 1901—Mrs. Marie Goerk, Chicago. 1901—Mrs. Mary Becker, St. Louis. 1902—Mrs. Margaret Hoeh, Cleveland. 1902—Mrs. Mary Rankin, Chicago. 1903—Mrs. Sophia Lucas, Aurora, Ill. 1903—Mrs. G. Conner, Milwaukee. 1904—Mrs. Anna Hendrickson, Chicago; secured $1,000. 1904—Mrs. Lena Hoeh, Milwaukee; secured $1,500. 1904—Mrs. Mary Walker, Chicago; secured $250. 1905—Mrs. Emily Fisher, Chicago; secured $750.

Four supposed wives of Johann Hoeh have been discovered since Tuesday. The total is now 21, not counting regarding whom the police have heard only rumors. The "new wives" are Mrs. Louisa Hoeh, said to have wedded the prisoner in San Francisco four years ago, and to have died suddenly; Mrs. Thilda Nagel-Hoeh, St. Paul; Mrs. Henry Bartel-Hoeh and Mrs. Paul Hoeh, both of Cincinnati.

The Best Trust. The president of the Pullman State on Monday decided the case of the United States vs. Swift & Co., known as the best trust case, charging conspiracy among the truckers to fix prices on fresh meats, etc. The opinion was handed down by Justice Holmes and affirmed the decision of the court below, summarizing Justice Holmes' said: "It charges a combination of a dominant proportion of the truckers in this market throughout the United States not to bid against each other in the live stock markets of the different states; to bid up prices for a few days in order to induce the cattlemen to send their stock to the stockyards to fix prices, at which they will sell, and to add restriet appointments of meat when necessary to establish a uniform rate of credit to dealers and to keep a black list. To make uniform and improper charges for cartage, and finally to get less than lawful rates from the railroads to the exclusion of competitors."

The Shante River Battle. The big mid-winter battle near the Shante River was ended in a decisive Russian defeat. The casualties are estimated at 10,000 Russians and 5,000 Japanese. The object of the operations is not clearly understood in Japan, but it is suggested that the Russians either intended to turn the Japanese left and move a heavy force down west of the Liao river, or were seeking to divert attention from some projected operation against the Japanese right. The Tokio press expresses the opinion that Gen. Kuroki either ordered the movement to divert attention from the domestic conditions in Russia, or that he had planned to make a fight before Field Marshal Oyama had been heavily reinforced.

Stricken Zionites. Mrs. J. G. Speicher, wife of Acting Overseer Speicher of Zion City, is dead as the result of consumption. Hers is the second death which has followed a recent spread of sickness among John Alexander Dowie's chiefs and followers and against which the prayers of the "First Atonist" have seemingly been of no avail. Deacon Carl F. Stern, for many years Dowie's chief of police, died while en route to the Bahama Islands, where Dowie is suffering from chronic stomach trouble and his wife is desperately ill. It is said that an investigation of the death of Mrs. Speicher will be made by the state board of health and the coroner.

Japan has bought about 4,000 head of horses, principally broodmares, in South Dakota, to be used by the army in Manchuria.

Tennessee's entire legislature will attend the inauguration, coming to Washington in a special car, but the governor declines to join the party.

White hunting with two companions, Charles Tyson, of Galesburg, was shot and seriously injured by the accidental discharge of a gun. One of his companions laid his gun down to assist in catching a rabbit, when the weapon was discharged, the contents entering Tyson's leg and shattering it.

Forests Protect from Ocean. Along the coasts of Japan, where enormous tidal waves have occasionally swept away thousands of houses and destroyed tens of thousands of people, forests have been planted as a protection against invasions of the sea.

Inspect Dog Meat. In the last report concerning the number of animals examined by the official meat inspectors in Germany, 762 dogs are included. Whether this means that dogs are eaten in that country is not explained.

Immigration Restrictions. In South Australia there exists a language test for intending immigrants. Unless a man can speak or write English he is not permitted to land.

Weak Hearts

Are due to indigestion. Ninety-nine of every one hundred people who have heart trouble can remember when it was simple indigestion. It is a scientific fact that all cases of heart disease, not organic, are not only traceable to, but are the direct result of indigestion. All food taken into the stomach which fails of perfect digestion ferments and swells the stomach, putting it up against the heart. This interferes with the action of the heart, and in the course of time that delicate but vital organ becomes diseased.

Mr. D. Koble, of Nevada, O., says: "I had stomach trouble and was in a bad state as I had heart trouble with it. I took Kodol Dyspepsia Cure for about four months and it cured me."

Kodol Digests What You Eat and relieves the stomach of all nervous strain and the heart of all pressure.

"Bravo!" cries Jack, "such sublime courage must always command my respect. I am at your side, senior. If there are ladies to protect, every man here, I am sure, will do his duty."

Jack undoubtedly means every word; although he dresses his language in this bombastic manner in order to match Roblado, who, impressed with the fact that his devotion to duty as a Spanish gentleman has borne fruit, eagerly reaches out his long thin hand.

"Sir, I salute you. Such sentiments of lofty courage must always bind the hearts of brave men in a common brotherhood. There are four of us—nay, six—to stand against the enemy. We will be a match for all they can bring against us."

"The battle, or massacre, whichever it may be, still goes on," remarks Spencer, who thus enters into the conversation for the first time.

"Then let us be making ready against a possible attack, for I am strongly inclined to believe some of the rebels will find their way along the back trail, looking for us, as the absence of my carriage from the train is sure to be noticed."

"Hurry to the side of the compartment, they proceed to do whatever is possible in order to protect the interior. All work with a vim—cushions are utilized, the guard brings various articles from his bag, and in a very brief space of time quite a respectable showing is made.

"Come," says Jack, with considerable satisfaction, when Smithers appears with his arms filled with more "trunk" with which to fill the cracks and crevices, "we are doing nobly, my dear fellows. But, honestly, do you imagine there is any possibility of our being attacked here?"—lowering his voice to a whisper.

"Well, it wouldn't surprise me," rejoins the other, slowly and seriously.

"But, if it should come—they are your friends, you know—would you open fire on them?" continues Travers, seeking to cut a Gordian knot by the most direct method.

"Not if they were Gomez and his men. I know them well, and their battle cry of Cuba Libre is music to my ears. But there are others, sir."

"Others? You mean the Spanish soldiers may retreat this way?"

"Not at all. Have you not heard of the guerrilleros—the men who fight under no flag, who war upon every one they meet, robbing pacific and heinous alike?"

"Yes, I have heard of these devils. But why should you fear that they may descend upon us?" inquires Travers. They are standing just outside the carriage, with Ah Sin—and the guard near by, ready to enter at any time should it be necessary, and as their conversation is carried on in low tones, the chances of its being overheard are slight indeed.

"These human birds of prey seem to have inside information as to when a battle is about to take place, and they hang round like dogs waiting to pick up the crumbs from the master's table. I only hope some day both Gomez and the Spaniards will turn round and hunt these miserable go-betweens

CHAPTER XVII.
"Guerra a Cuchillo!"

Although Smithers' words are startling enough to alarm the bravest, Travers does not show much indication of such a feeling, as, following the extended finger of his agent, he, too, readily discovers the moving figures.

They appear to come out of the woods in couples or little squads. At that distance, and with only the fire light to guide him, Jack can see that they are rough-looking men, some of them negroes, carrying guns and machetes; but that is as far as his observation goes.

How his companion is enabled to determine their identity as guerrillas, and not the patriots fighting under the banner of Gomez, is a puzzle too deep for Jack.

It is a time for prompt action. They will have to retreat to their rude fortress and meet the expected assault bravely.

"Where is the guard?" asked Smithers.

"And Ah Sin?" echoes Jack.

Both have, indeed, vanished temporarily. Nor do they appear to be inside the fire lines.

"We will have to leave them out. There is hardly room for all inside, at any rate. Come, sir, let us enter."

At the door they meet the senior.

"What is wrong, gentlemen?" he asks, quick to catch the scent of danger in the air.

"The guerrilleros have come, senior. I am afraid we will have war to the knife," remarks Smithers; and Roblado, thrusting out his head, beholds the rough men already gathering about the fire that is down the incline.

He utters a favorite exclamation.

"Senior, it looks as though we are in for it. I trust you will not forget your promise to assist in the defense of the hotel," the old Spaniard says, bravely.

Several exclamations in feminine voices from the compartment announce that both Juanita and her step-sister have found what manner of danger menaced them.

"You can depend upon me, senior," is the reply to Roblado's remark.

The two men enter the compartment, and the door is hurriedly closed. Ah Sin and the guard will have to look out for themselves when the storm cloud bursts.

It has hardly passed the words of Smithers to warn Travers of the desperate business ahead of them, and the only fear he experiences is for the safety of Jessie.

There is a peculiar satisfaction in being so close to this woman who has engaged in and taken possession of his heart, although he is under bond not to betray his identity. Jack rather enjoys the situation, or at least he would if it were not for the deadly peril which hovers over the one he loves. At any rate, he is deeply grateful for the peculiar conditions that allow him the privilege of standing up in her defense.

Little is said while the car; the time for words has gone by, and action must take their place.

So far as they can see, the Lewcomers have not as yet fully grasped the true inwardness of the situation. Attracted by the light of the fires, they have arrived at the railroad, to find a carriage standing there; but what that vehicle of transportation actually contains is as yet but a surmise with them.

Jack does not fancy their looks at all.

He has been thrown in contact with crowds of rough men during his life on Texan plains and in Colorado mountains, but never in all his experience has he run across such a tough-looking lot as those assembling around the fire that was built for protection and has betrayed his trust.

Fully half of the guerrillas are blacks, and in their freight they have the appearance of demons or gnomes. As to the others, the least said about them the better since their appearance does not go far toward reassuring the ladies when they venture to take an observation.

"Do you suppose they will attack us?" asks Roblado, with considerable anxiety in his voice.

"I don't question it in the least," replies Smithers, who develops some of the qualities of a leader in this emergency.

"Then, if that be so, we should first of all endeavor to protect the ladies from flying lead. Col. Spencer, will you kindly vacate that corner? We can arrange it so that they may be safe there."

Spencer, of course, goes so. Jack imagines the man is a trifle nervous and scared. Perhaps he has been drinking hard, and is not in good condition for proving his mettle. All the more reason, then, why those who have no such excuse should do their duty.

In arranging the cushions so as to protect the two girls, Jack chances to touch the hand of Jessie Cameron, and is amazed at the remarkable thrill that seems to run over his whole frame, just as might a shock from a galvanic battery.

"Come," he mutters to himself in some dismay: "I had no idea it had gone as far as that. This is really alarming."

Nevertheless, he continues to carry out his work, and is rewarded by a low "Thank you," that amply repays him for everything.

"What are they doing now?" he asks Smithers, who has been keeping watch.

Gathered about the fire and talking the matter over, with many extravagant jestures, they seem a little afraid lest the carriage contain soldiers, and that they may raise a soldier's pest about their ears. But I am afraid the fiery orators who urge an immediate attack have the best of the bargain; for already some of them are advancing, and, from the way they hold their guns, they mean business."

"It would be strange indeed if every one within the railway carriage did not in a greater or less degree feel a vibration as if their nerves are strained to the utmost."

The situation warrants it. Deadly foes gather without—foes against whom ordinary methods of warfare may not avail, and who will prove to be veritable demons once the battle is on.

Quarrel need be neither quied nor given, and the result of the coming engagement must be a survival of the fittest.

It is in this fact that nerve the defenders of the carriage to do their very best.

Smithers is quite correct when he declares the most venturesome of the guerrillas are advancing to the attack. The light of the fire discloses this fact, and as the men at bay, crouch there, ready to open, watching this advance, they seem to live days in the few seconds that pass.

"It would be folly to let them get too close," says the senior, grinding his teeth.

"You are right. Therefore call out and warn them that they stand on the dead line."

Hollado is quick to accept this suggestion which Smithers advances. He raises his voice and sends out a hoarse yell. The guerrillas hear, and instinctively pause; but, as if realizing from the tone in which they are addressed that they cannot have soldiers to deal with, they laugh his ponderous threats to scorn.

"Down!" cries Smithers, pulling Jack with him.

Several shots have sounded, and the bullets crash into the woodwork of the car.

Contempt for the Country Sanitum.

The narrow chested gillie-loo-birds who act as state editors on the metropolitan dailies poke fun at the country editor all the year round, but we guess if they could shove their spindle shanks under the corn-fed editor's table long about now and proceed to do things to the aromatic buckwheat cakes liberally saturated with real butter and maple syrup, or could just have the opportunity to pick a home-grown spare rib they'd probably know a few of the green spots in the moss-back editor's desert when they saw and could understand better why we browse along the highways of the sauerkraut and link-sausage districts in the land of Weyback instead of nibbling along the barren asphalt pavements in the city of frosty mits, health foods and homeopathic mixed pie tablets.—Northport, Mich., Leader.

Preposterous.

Col. Ed Bowie, of "de Eastern Sho" of Maryland, has a negro tenant who is rather shiftless and ne'er well to do. After a recent absence the colonel was surprised to find on his return that old Ben, the darky in question, was driving a fine-looking mule, hitched to a brand new wagon. Questioning him, the colonel was informed by Ben that he had "bot de outfit" at Snow Hill.

"And what did you pay for it?"

"I gib ma note for $100."

"And where on earth do you expect to get $100 to pay the note when it falls due?" asked Col. Ed.

The old darky's face assumed an injured expression, and in a grieved tone he replied:

"Fore de Lawd, Marse Ed, you doan' spook me to gib de note an' pay it, too?"

"The guerrilleros are here!"

to the death. If they are in the neighborhood and see us, we must expect to fight for our lives."

"Now I understand what you mean. The fires will draw them."

"That is a fact, sir, if they come at all."

"What we meant for our preservation may prove our ruin. Well, it often happens so. Perhaps it might be wise to extinguish them, and remain in the dark. We could have them ready to fight if we heard a train coming."

"I should feel more at ease, sir. If you knew these guerrilleros as well as I do, you would be fully as anxious to avoid discovery by them, if it could be done."

"Perhaps I am even more so, since I have something to think of that does not bother your mind, Smithers"—turning his thumb over his shoulder in the direction of the carriage, and the agent knows what he means.

"Suppose we call Senior Roblado out, then, and put him in possession of the facts?" continues Jack. "Whatever he decides, that we will do."

Smithers does not immediately reply, and Jack notices that his companion appears to be looking earnestly beyond the fire, shading his eyes with his hand in order that he may see the better.

"What has struck you?" he demands, quickly.

"I am afraid, sir, your suggestion, though a good one, comes a little too late. Look yonder at the moving figures—two, five, a dozen, twenty. Yes, I am sorry to say we have been discovered; the guerrilleros are here!"

Jack does not fancy their looks at all. He has been thrown in contact with crowds of rough men during his life on Texan plains and in Colorado mountains, but never in all his experience has he run across such a tough-looking lot as those assembling around the fire that was built for protection and has betrayed his trust.

The Uncertainty of Luck

Matthew Corbett, who at the White-stud sale bought Meddler for $1,000, was congratulated afterward upon his luck.

"There is nothing so uncertain as luck," Mr. Corbett answered; "Luck is as unreliable as your last match in a wind."

"Did you ever hear about the wind and the last match of the smoker?"

"Well, a young man was walking in the country when a desire to smoke suddenly seized him. He took out his pipe and filled it. It was a November afternoon; the sun shone through a bluish haze; a strong, cold wind rattled the bare, gray branches of the trees."

"What do I care for the wind?" said the young man. Haven't I a full box of matches here?"

"He had, indeed, over twenty matches. He struck one, and the wind blew it out. He struck another, and the wind blew that out, too. He struck nineteen matches, one after another, and the wind blew them all out in turn."

"Now, he was very angry. He was frightened, too, for he dearly wanted to smoke, and if his last match failed him, he would have to put his pipe up, for there was not a human being within six miles."

"He bent down on the ground. He built in front of him a little mound of leaves. Behind this shelter he struck his last match; it flared freely and he lit his pipe."

"He threw the match away and still it flamed. Then he lifted it in his hand, and held it above his head, where the wind's full strength might attack it. But in a very hurricane the little match flamed as steadily as an electric light."

"The young man, regarding it, philosophized.

"All my other matches went out," he said. "You, because you are no longer needed, scorch my fingers! You are as uncertain as fate and as unreliable as a woman. Begone!"

"He extinguished the match, threw it far away, and then took a long puff at his pipe. It had gone out."

ABOUT AUCTION BILLS!

A Good Auctioneer likes to see his name on a neat, attractive auction bill. Any old thing won't do. A neat, attractive bill with new type and cuts brings a crowd, and a good auctioneer can do the rest. Poor and unattractive bills bring a poor, no-money crowd and the auctioneer is blamed when in reality it is the printer's fault. We're up-to-date. We put up the attractive kind of bills and they cost no more than the other kind. We also give the auction and the auctioneer a good "send off" in The Record—that's free.

NORTHVILLE, MICH., Feb. 3, 1905.

Michigan is Proud.

Michigan people are feeling very proud these days of the Michigan man who represents the second district in the congressional halls of the national capital. While those who knew Charles Townsend best and had gauged his possibilities most accurately will not have been surprised at seeing him demonstrate his ability in any direction demanded by current circumstances, no one had quite expected to see him one of the foremost men in the United States congress on the very threshold of his second term, occupying a central position on the stage of the government play house, which ordinarily requires years to attain. President Roosevelt being just what he is, Mr. Townsend being just what he is, was exactly the man to be chosen as he has been to represent the views of the president on one of the most important bills to come before the nation's lawmakers at this session, and to be placed on such a committee as that having the Panama railway question to look after. Both men are here to fearlessly insist on the course they believe to be right, regardless of political precedent, and if one can expect to find enough such men as the congressman from Jackson located on his island, the wilderness of a congressional committee would soon be taken as the case with Michigan's word and legislation for the present good to the greatest number of the American people.

Mayor Todd's suggestion of restriction in Detroit only adds another element of absurdity to the situation. It contains about as much sense as some of the unheeded objections that are being set forth in regard to that city adopting the same thing as is used by other cities.

Trees in Italy.

Italy seems to be in a great distaste of trees as some purpose an old idea being that it possesses but a single tree. An investigation shows that the island really contains woods having various trees of considerable size, and that the climate is not unfavorable to tree growth.

REV. J. N. PARKER.

Rev. J. N. Parker, Utica, N. Y., writes: "In June, 1901, I lost my sense of hearing entirely. My hearing had been somewhat impaired for several years, but not so much affected but that I could hold converse with my friends; but in June, 1901, my sense of hearing left me so that I could hear no sound whatever. I was also troubled with rheumatic pains in my limbs. "I commenced taking Peruna and now my hearing is restored as good as it was prior to June, 1901. My rheumatic pains are all gone. I cannot speak too highly of Peruna, and now when eighty-eight years old can say it has invigorated my whole system. "I cannot but think, dear Doctor, that you must feel very thankful to the All-loving Father that you have been permitted to live, and by your skill be such a blessing as you have been to suffering humanity."—J. N. Parker.

Will Carson of this place, who enlisted in the U. S. navy in 1901, is to be honorably discharged on the 17th of the present month. He has made an excellent record during his term of service and his regiment is greatly indebted by the department. He does not intend to go back, although he has had a pleasant and instructive experience in his four years' term as a sailor.

The Glazier Carolinians, who are to come to Northville on Friday, February 17, are said to be one of the best troupes of colored singers put on the road by any lecture bureau in the United States. The trustees of the library association hope this entertainment will be good enough to make up for any previous deficiencies which may be considered to have occurred in the course.

Mrs. Mary L. Ambler entertained over fifty ladies, members of the W. R. C. and their friends, at a benefit "delegate party" Monday. Conundrums, lunch and dainty refreshments were features of an exceedingly pleasant afternoon. The unique little invitations deserve reproduction, reading as follows: "Many modest matrons make merry at Mary's manse Monday. Mena. Money."

In the Record's account of the coasting accident which caused the injury to Charlie Freydl it was stated that chloroform was administered the second time to "complete" the reduction of the fracture. This, as has since been learned, was not just the right way to state it, although just as it was reported to us. The second administering of the anaesthetic was to apply the special splints which had to be made.

A Washtenaw county round-up of farmers' institutes is to be held in the Salem Baptist church February 15 and 16, with three meetings each day. An extremely interesting program has been arranged, covering a wide range of subjects. The woman's section of the session is to be held in the Congregational church on Thursday afternoon. The ladies of both churches will serve meals during the institute. A number from this vicinity will attend. E. M. Starkweather leads in one of the discussions.

Whitney's Opera House--Detroit.

Robert Fitzsimmons, who has won fame in the world of pugilism and who is now endeavoring to win laurels as an actor comes to the Whitney theatre next week for the first time in a new play entitled "A Fight for Love," a comedy drama, which deals with the marriage of Vivian Ellington, only daughter of a wealthy New York banker, to Robert Fitzsimmons, a prize fighter. Julia May Clifford, who in private life is Mrs. Fitzsimmons, characterizes the role of Vivian in which she has scored a distinct hit. Matinees daily except on Wednesday.

Lyceum Theater--Detroit.

One of the marked dramatic successes of last and the present season, "York State Folks" is the attraction at the Lyceum next week. This portrayal of American village-life made a pronounced hit here last season, which has resulted in this return performance previous to the beginning of the New York engagement. As the latter will continue throughout the winter, and as the play next season will be booked in the larger cities only, this will be the last opportunity to see the original company and its splendid scenic production in this neighborhood. Matinees Wednesday and Saturday.

You Must Sleep.

If you cannot, it is due to an irritated or congested state of the brain, which will soon develop into nervous prostration. Nature demands sleep, and it is as important as food; it is a part of her building and sustaining process. This period of unconsciousness relaxes the mental and physical strain, and allows nature to restore exhausted vitality. Dr. Miles' Nerveine brings refreshing sleep, because it soothes the irritation and removes the congestion. It is also a nerve builder, it nourishes and strengthens every nerve in your body, and creates energy in all the organs. Nothing will give strength and vitality as surely and quickly as Dr. Miles' Nerveine. During the past winter I had two attacks of LaGrippe which left me very weak, and in bad condition. I was so nervous I could not sleep. My wife, after trying different remedies, went for a doctor. The doctor was out and a neighbor recommended Dr. Miles' Nerveine, and she brought home a bottle. I had not slept for some time, and had terrible pains in my head. After taking a few doses of Nerveine the pain was not so severe, and I slept. I am now taking the second bottle, and am very much improved. HENRY M. SMITH, Cedarhill, Va. Dr. Miles' Nerveine is sold by your druggist, who will guarantee that the first bottle will benefit. If it fails, he will refund your money. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind.

B. FREYDEL

NORTHVILLE. MICHIGAN.

Result of Boycott.

The only place in the United States that guarantees freedom from strikes, lockouts and labor warfare is Battle Creek, Mich.

The story? The work people, merchants, lawyers, doctors and other citizens became aroused and indignant at the efforts of the labor unions through-out the country to destroy the business of one of our largest industries—the Postum Cereal Co., Ltd., and at the open threats in the official union papers that the entire power of the National and State Federations of Labor was being brought to bear to "punish" the industries of Battle Creek, and particularly the Postum Co.

This spring from the refusal of C. W. Post to obey the "orders" of the unions to take the Postum advertising away from various papers, that refused to purchase labor of the labor trust—the unions.

Mr. Post was ordered to join the unions in their conspiracy to "ruin" and "put out of business" these publishers who had worked faithfully for him for years and helped build up his business. They had done no wrong, but had found it inconvenient to buy labor of the labor trust. It seems a rule of the unions to conspire to ruin anyone who does not purchase from them upon their own terms.

An ink-maker or paper-maker who failed to sell ink or paper would have the same reason to order Post to help ruin these publishers. So the publisher in the street might store you if you refused to buy his apples; the cabman to run over you if you refused to ride with him; the grocer order the manufacturer to discharge certain people because they did not patronize him, and so on to the ridiculous and villainous limit of all this boycott possessive in trying to force people to buy what they do not want?

If a man has labor to sell let him sell it at the best price he can get just as he would sell wheat, but he has no right to even indicate that he will obstruct the business, or attempt its ruin because the owner will not purchase of him.

The unions have become so tyrannous and arrogant with their demands that a common citizen who has some time to spare and innocently thinks he has a right to put a little paint on his own house finds he must have that paint taken off and not on again by "the union" or all sorts of dire things happen to him. His employer is ordered to discharge him, his goods are boycotted if he furnishes him supplies, his family followed and insulted and his life made more miserable than that of a black slave before the war. If he gives a nail to repair the fence or trim the carpenter's "union" bounds him. He takes a pipe wrench to stop a leather pipe and prevent damage to his property and the plumber "union" gets threats to him. He cannot put a little mortar to a loose brick on his chimney or the bricklayers' plasterers' or best masons' union" to up in arms, and if he carelessly cuts a loaf of bread that has a "union" label on it the bakers' "union" proceeds to make his name as miserable as his.

No white man is free land and free. Unable to fit a nail to the house or to the car and that without first obtaining permission from some hierarchy, ignorant and abusive tyrant of some labor union.

It would all seem rather like a comic opera if it did not rob people of their freedom; that kind of work will not be permitted long in America.

Some smooth managers have built up the labor trust in the last few years to bring themselves money and power and by managing venoms, have succeeded in making it possible for them to lay down the law in some cities and force workmen and citizens to "obey" implicitly, "stripping" them rights and left of their liberties.

They have used "picketing," picketing, assaults, demanding of property and murder to enforce their orders and rule the people. They have gone far enough to order the President to remove certain citizens from office because the "unions" were displeased.

That means they propose to make the law of the unions replace the law of this government and the union leaders declare even the chief Executive.

This is a government of and for the people and no organization or trust shall displace it. But the unions try it every now and then, led by desperate men as shown in their defiance of law and support of lawbreakers.

The "union" record of assaults, crippling of men and even women and children, destruction of property and murder of American citizens during the past two years is perhaps ten times the volume of crime and abuse perpetrated by slave owners during any two years previous to the civil war. We are in a horrible period of lethargy, which permits us to stand idly by while our American citizens are abused, crippled and murdered in dozens and hundreds by an organization or trust having for its purpose, thrusting what it has to sell (labor) upon us whether or no.

Suppose an American in a foreign city should be chased by a mob, caught and beaten unconscious, then his mouth pried open and carbolic acid poured down his throat then his ribs kicked in and his face well stamped with frog balled shoes, murdered because he tried to earn bread for his children. By the Eternal, sir, a fleet of American men of war would assemble there; clear for action and blow something off the face of the earth; if reparation were not made for the blood of one of our citizens.

And what answer do we make to the appeals of the hundreds of widows and orphans of those Americans murdered by labor unions? How do we try to protect the thousands of intelligent citizens who, with reason, prefer not to join any labor union and be subject to the tyranny of the heavily paid leaders of the labor trusts?

Upon a firm refusal by Mr. Post to join this criminal conspiracy a general boycott was ordered on Grape-Nuts and Postum all over the country, which set the good red blood of our ancestors in motion, bringing forth the reply that has now passed into history: "We refuse to join any conspiracy of organized labor to ruin publishers, nor will we discharge any of our trusted employees upon the orders of any labor union. If they can make their boycott effective and sink our ship, we will go down with the captain on the bridge and in command."

This set the writers in labor papers crazy and they redoubled their abuse. Finally one of their official organs came out with a large double column in denunciation of Battle Creek, calling it "a running sore on the face of Michigan," because it would not become "organized" and pay in dues to their labor leaders. The usual coarse, villainous criticisms common to labor union writers were indulged in.

The result was to void public sentiment in Battle Creek for protection. A citizens' association was started, and mass meetings held. Good citizens who happened to be members of local unions, in some cases quit the unions entirely for there is small need of them there.

The writing people of Battle Creek are of the highest order of American mechanics. The majority are not union members, for practically all of the manufacturers have for years declined to employ union men because of disturbances about eleven years ago, and the union men now in the city are among the best citizens.

No city in the state of Michigan pays such high salaries to its Battle Creek, no city of its size in its progress and no city has had to import a population of the best of mechanics who ever lived on this planet.

As the work people turned their backs on the labor union, the labor union turned its back on the citizens and on the following: From 1884 to 1894 the strike maintained by labor union in Battle Creek, Michigan, was the longest and most costly in the history of the world.

When the year 1894 rolled the citizens of Battle Creek, by public subscription, set out to protect the maintenance of strikes and labor union disturbances which have been prevalent since 1894.

When the employers of this city have gradually refused to place the maintenance of their business under the control of labor unions, but have maintained the highest standard of wages paid under the conditions anywhere in the United States, and have by unanimous declared their intent to maintain such policy; and the employees of this city, a large percentage of whom own homes and have families, are educated under conditions of peace and the well-earned prosperity of steady employment, have steadfastly maintained their right as free American citizens to work without the dictation and tyranny of labor union leaders, the bitter experience of the past offering sufficient reason for a determined stand for freedom;

Whereas, The attitude of the citizens on this subject has been the means of preserving peaceful conditions and continuous prosperity, in marked contrast to the conditions existing in other cities suffering from the dictation of trades unionism; it is therefore

Resolved, That the continuance of peace and prosperity in Battle Creek be maintained, and the destructive work of outside interference avoided under the combined effort and action of all our people, by the formation of a Citizens' Association.

CONSTITUTION.

Article 1.—Name.

Article 2.—Objects.

First.—To insure, so far as possible,

a permanent condition of peace, prosperity and steady employment to the people of Battle Creek.

Second.—To energetically assist in maintaining law and order at all times and under all conditions.

Third.—To protect its members in their rights to manage their property and to dispose of their labor in a legal, lawful manner without restraint or interference.

Fourth.—To insure and permanently maintain fair, just treatment, one with another, in all the relations of life.

Fifth.—To preserve the existing right of any capable person to obtain employment and sell his labor, without being obliged to join any particular church, secret society, labor union or any other organization, and to support all such persons in their efforts to resist compulsory methods on the part of any organized body whatsoever.

Sixth.—To promote among employers a spirit of fairness, friendship and desire for the best interests of their employees, and to promote among workmen the spirit of industry, faithfulness to their employers and good citizenship.

Seventh.—To so amalgamate the public sentiment of all of the best citizens of Battle Creek, that a guarantee can be given to the world of a continuance of peaceful conditions; and that under such guarantee and protection manufacturers and capitalists can be induced to locate their business enterprises in Battle Creek.

Then follows articles relating to membership, officers, duties, etc., etc., etc.

This constitution has been signed by the great majority of representative citizens, including our workpeople.

A number of manufacturers from other cities, where they have been suffering all sorts of indignities, inconvenience and losses from the general hall of labor union strikes, picketing, assaults and other interference, proposed to move, providing they could be guaranteed protection.

The subject grew in importance until it had reached a place where absolute protection can be guaranteed by the citizens of Battle Creek on the following broad and evenly balanced terms, which guarantees to the workman and to the manufacturer fairness, justice, steady work and regularity of output:

The manufacturing manufacturer agrees to maintain the standard rate of wages paid elsewhere for like work, under similar conditions, the rate to be determined from time to time from well authenticated reports from competing cities. The standard was popularly fixed by the Government Department of Commerce and Labor and it is to be shown the standard rate, and it is reported later on that this government bureau will furnish to any reports of the labor market from different centers, so that the workman which he is to receive in his labor and the employer when he is to pay, may each have reliable information as to the standard of the day.

The working manufacturing manufacturer is to maintain the standard rate of wages paid elsewhere for like work, under similar conditions, the rate to be determined from time to time from well authenticated reports from competing cities. The standard was popularly fixed by the Government Department of Commerce and Labor and it is to be shown the standard rate, and it is reported later on that this government bureau will furnish to any reports of the labor market from different centers, so that the workman which he is to receive in his labor and the employer when he is to pay, may each have reliable information as to the standard of the day.

The Citizens' Association on its part agrees to furnish, in any number as it is possible to obtain, list of names of workmen who will contract to sell their labor at the standard rate for such period as may be fixed upon, saving the right to strike, picket, assault other workmen, destroy property, or do any of the criminal acts common to labor unions. Each workman consenting to himself the right to quit work for cause, and the Citizens' Association further pledges its members to use its associated power to enforce the contracts between employer and employee, and to act in access to uphold the law at all times.

The new industries located in Battle Creek will not start under any sort of labor union dictation whatsoever, but will make individual contracts with each employe, those contracts being fair and equitable and guaranteed on both sides.

Thus from the abuses of labor unions and their insane efforts to ruin everyone who does not "obey" has evolved this plan which replaces the old conditions of injustice, lockouts, strikes, violence, loss of money and property, and general industrial warfare, and inaugurates an era of perfect balance and fairness between employer and employe, a steady continuance of industry and consequent prosperity. The entire community pledged by public sentiment and private act to restore to each man his ancient right to "peace, freedom and the pursuit of happiness."

Other cities will be driven to protect their workpeople, merchants and citizens as well as their industries from the blight of strikes, violence and the losses brought on by labor unionism.

run amuck, by adopting the "Battle Creek plan," but this city offers industrial peace now, with cheap coal and good water, first-class railroad facilities and the best grade of fair-curable and peaceable mechanics known.

Identification.

The public should remember that there are a few labor unions conducted on peaceful lines and in proportion as they are worthy, they have won esteem for us, as a people, are strongly in sympathy with any right act that has for its purpose better conditions for wage workers. But we do not forget that we seek the good of all and not those alone who belong to some organization; whereas, even the law-abiding unions show undeniable evidences of tyranny and oppression when they are strong enough, while many of the unions harbor and encourage originals in their efforts to force a yoke of slavery upon the American people. As a public speaker lately said: "The arrogance of the English King, that roused the fiery eloquence of Odis, that inspired the immortal declaration of Jefferson, that left Warren dying on the slopes of Bunker Hill, was not more outrageous than the conditions that a closed shop would force upon the community. These men burst into rebellion when the king did not touch their pockets. Imagine if you can their indignation if they had sought to prohibit or restrict their occupation or determine the conditions under which they should earn their livelihood, and to assault, beat and murder them, blow up their houses and poison their food if they did not submit."

The public should also remember that good, true American citizens can be found in the unions and that they denigrate the criminal acts of their fellow members, but they are often in bad company.

Only hurts sore spots. So the honest, law-abiding union man is not hurt when the criminals are denounced, but when you hear a union man "boiler" because the facts are made public, he has branded himself as either one of the lawbreakers or a sympathizer, and therefore with the mind of the law-breaker, and likely to become one when opportunity offers. That is one reason employers decline to hire such men.

A short time ago inquiry came from the union leaders to know if Mr. Post would "keep still" if they would call off the boycott on Postum and Grape-Nuts.

This is the reply: "The labor trust has seen fit to try to ruin our business because we would not join its criminal conspiracy. We are plain American citizens and obey from the labor union plan in that we do not force people to strike, picket, boycott, assault, blow up property or commit any crime."

We do not pay things $20 to break in the face of any man who tries to support his family nor $20 for an eye scratched on.

We try to show our plain, honest regard for steady and independent workmen by paying the highest wages in the state.

We have a steady, unvarying respect for the law-abiding, peaceable union man and a most earnest desire to see him gain power enough to purge the unions of their criminal practices, that have brought down upon them the righteous denunciation of a long-suffering and outraged public, but we will not law, truckle, bend the knee, wear the hated collar of white-slavery, the union label, nor prostitute our American citizenship under "orders" of any labor trust.

You order to remove the restriction on our business and with "union" gold choke the throat, and still the voice raised in stern denunciation of the despotism which tramples beneath its iron heel the freedom of our brothers.

You would gag us with a silver bar, and muffle the appeal to the American people to harken to the cries for bread of the "little children whose faithful fathers were beaten to death while striving to earn food for them."

Your boycott may perhaps succeed in throwing our people out of work and driving us from business; but you cannot wrench from us that priceless jewel our fathers fought for and which every true son guards with his life. Therefore, speaking for our workpeople and ourselves, the infamous offer is declined.

Traced For Murder.

Mrs. Mary Brown, charged with the murder of her husband, John Brown, in Hancock, last November, will be tried this week. The victim was a barber, employed at Houghton, but residing in Hancock, and from all accounts he and his wife did not get along well together. On the night of the killing, Brown went to Houghton, and when he did not return at the time expected, his wife went after him, finding the man, it is said, in an intoxicated condition. However, Brown accompanied the woman home shortly after midnight. Mrs. Brown alarmed other lodgers in the house by calling for assistance, saying that she had shot her husband. The weapon employed was a small revolver of 22 calibre. The bullet entered the man's head, and he died shortly after the shooting. Mrs. Brown's explanation is that she shot Brown in self-defense, as he was attacking her, and the woman's appearance when the police arrived at the scene directly after the shooting would seem to substantiate her statement. Her eyes were blackened, her clothing was torn, and she had the appearance of having been terribly beaten.

FARMERS' LAND WAS SOUR.

Simple Test With Litmus Paper Showed Acid.

The state experiment stations are doing a great work for the farmer. The following incident shows how simple some of the tests are "when you know how," says a writer in Country Life in America. A station official was going over a farm with the owner when they came to a crawfishy piece of land just back of the barn, the very weeds looked yellow and unwholesome.

"I am inclined to think," remarked the agriculturist, "that this land is too acid for productivity. We can determine this in a moment."

Taking a piece of paper from his pocket he stooped and dipped the paper in some of the soil water that was standing in a cow track. To the owner's astonishment the blue paper changed to a red color as soon as it was immersed.

"There," said the agriculturist, "we have our proof. This is just a piece of litmus paper. For 5 cents you can buy a similar piece at any drug store. Its change of color shows that the land is sour. Crops cannot thrive on sour land, any more than children can thrive on sour milk."

There is more calcium in this section of the country than anywhere else in the world. It is a great many years ago that a certain farmer discovered that his cows were producing more milk than ever before. He found that the soil was rich in calcium and that the cows were getting their calcium from the soil. He decided to sell his cows and to start a business of selling calcium to the farmers of the country. He has since become a very rich man and his business is one of the most successful in the country.
