Vol. XXXVI, No. 36

NORTHVILLE, MICH., FRIDAY, APRIL 14, 1905

$1.00 Per Year in Advance.

YARNALL INSTITUTE'S THIRTEENTH BIRTHDAY

IT WAS ESTABLISHED HERE APRIL 12, 1892.

Has Rescued Its Hundreds from the Bondage of Inebriety.

One of the institutions which has long called Northville prominently to the attention of the outside world and which has given our pretty little town a distinctive nomenclature in many places all over the United States—and perhaps farther—has just rounded out a "baker's dozen" houses and degraded or destroyed some of the most brilliant intellects of the world.

Dr. Yarnall has not only demonstrated his own financial ability and reliability in his conduct of this useful enterprise, but has made it one of the solid and reliable business concerns of the place, and one which our community could not afford to do without, aside from what it means to the many unfortunate men who are continually seeking its aid. The good it has done and is doing can never be estimated, but its large percentage of successful cures of the alcohol habit make it a boon to humanity that admits of no question. It is now the only institution of its kind in Michigan, and calls patronage from a wide field which is constantly enlarging in area and usefulness.

The Yarnall Gold Cure, Northville, which has just completed its successful thirteenth year.

years of usefulness to mankind, having reached its thirteenth birthday on Wednesday of this week, April 12. While our village has plenty of desirable features and natural beauties to recommend it to the admiration of visitors and home-makers, it must be admitted that

Death of Mrs. Mary Wilcox.

Mrs. Mary Wilcox, who had been sick for some weeks, died Tuesday at her home in this village. She was the widow of the late George Wilcox, a former well known and long time resident here, and was born 64 years ago while her parents were crossing the Atlantic ocean, her father being a sea captain. She was highly educated at a ladies' seminary in Boston.

The funeral was held at the late residence Thursday afternoon, Rev. S. T. Blumock conducting the service.

Village Appointments.

Village President Harmon has made the following appointments and the council has confirmed them: Marshal and street commissioner—Aron Taft; Health officer—Dr. T. B. Henry; Fire chief—James Ford; Supt. water works—Jas. Hub; Supt. electric light works—Samuel Wilkinson; Asst. for 1 month—Benj. Wilkinson; Fire wardens—W. J. Lanning, A. K. Carpenter; Cemetery trustee—Eugene Andrew Rasch; Board review—B. A. Wheeler, Oscar Harger; City attorney—C. C. Yerkes; Night watchman—C. Blackburn.

Death of Former Resident.

Burial services for Mrs. Augusta Hall, formerly of this place, whose body was brought here from Harbor Beach for interment in Rural Hill cemetery, were held from the home of George Bradley Tuesday. Mrs. Hall was a sister of the late Mrs. Bradley and many former friends attended the brief funeral services, which were conducted by Rev. Wm. S. Jerome.

WALLED LAKE NEWS.

Miss May Moyer is visiting in Detroit.

J. D. Church is recovering from his illness.

Mrs. Tucker of Greenfield is the guest of her father, H. D. Nichols.

A. J. Clark and Miss Beatrice Austin of Pontiac have been recently entertained at the home of the latter's sister, Mrs. J. A. Devereaux. The local Epworth League gave a largely attended reception to Lakeside lodge, I. O. O. F., Tuesday evening in the church as a testimonial to the order for the use by the M. E. society of the Odd Fellows' hall for the past three months. The pastor, Rev. J. R. Brumm, was toastmaster at the elegant banquet which was served to 100 people and which happy responses were made to the themes selected.

A UNIQUE PARTY

Was Given Friday by the N. W. C. at the Library.

Last Friday afternoon after their annual election of officers, the members of the Northville Woman's club and their guests, a company of about 80 ladies, who had received from the committee in charge, of which Mrs. Mary L. Ambler was chairman, invitations to "A Tabby Matinee" enjoyed a very pleasant afternoon at the library. The room was decorated with pictures of cats of every conceivable variety and with the pretty little blooms of the pussy willows, a tiny branch of which was given as a gift or corsage ornament to each lady. The "tickets" to the "matinee" which were on sale at the "box office" were slips for a guessing contest and were also decorated with pretty cat pictures, as were the large placards containing the problems, the answers to which brought to light all sorts of felines. The winning guessers were Mrs. Pierce of Farmington, Mesdames Elizabeth Blackburn and Alice Jerome and Misses Genevieve Clark and Lida Richardson. A literary and musical program and the serving of delicious fruit punch were other pleasant features of the afternoon. The proceeds were for the Lucinda H. Stone memorial scholarship fund at the Ann Arbor University, which has been raised by the club women of Michigan.

The officers and directors elected by the club for the ensuing year are: President—Della F. Harmon; Vice President—Narcis Dabour; Secretary—Minnie M. Hutton; Treasurer—Lena Sloan; Directors—Elizabeth Knapp, Allen Hinkley, Sophia Benton, Katherine Hornberger, Ellen Northrop, Sarah Parsons.

Suburban News.

Oakland county has 36 divorce suits on for the present circuit court term.

Wyandotte church societies have already commenced giving ice cream socials, but the townships have met with a chilling reception from the public so far.

Birmingham Village Improvement society has sent for over 500 packages of flower seeds this spring. The village ought to be as flowery as a hake shop this summer.

A little Wayne girl threw her little pet dog out doors with such force as to break his leg. They must hit some strenuous kids over there and it must also be a desirable situation to be a "pet" in that family.

Holly hedges are threatened with "rot" for gathering about the doors and in the vestibule of the Methodist church in that village and making so much noise as to disturb the meetings. A good big man with a good long horse hair would be a good solution to the situation.

Lyon township elected a "noxious weed commissioner" at the recent election. Weed all be glad if every township would do a similar act, provided the officer would attend effectively to business, it being distinctly understood, of course, that the adjective should apply to the undesirable vegetation, not to the commissioner.

Plymouth is rapidly becoming the champion "hold-up" town in this section. A citizen there was recently snatched over the head with a club right in his own door yard and knocked down, as he was returning home about ten o'clock in the evening, but succeeded in scaring his assailant away by the use of a revolver. Might almost as well live in Detroit.

The many squirrels that live in the trees of Ann Arbor are one of the institutions of the University City and great care has been taken to protect the little frisky quadrupeds from destruction. Lately, for some unexplainable reason, the favored animals have formed the curious habit of gnawing the lead coverings of the telephone cables where the latter are attached to the poles and biting off the wires. The telephone men are now studying on some way to prevent the mischief.

Baptist Church Notes.

(By a Member)

Services as usual Sunday morning and evening.

The increasing attendance at the Sunday evening services is very gratifying both to pastor and people.

The pastor and Mr. Brock were the delegates from our church to the recognition meeting at the Novi church Tuesday.

Rev. C. H. Irving, state superintendent of missions, gave an interesting address in the church Tuesday evening. Six clergymen were present at the meeting all having attended the meeting at Novi that day.

Presbyterian Church Notes.

(By the Pastor)

This is the last day of the Easter Fair. Get supper at the rink this evening.

The offering next Sunday morning will be for the annual Presbyterian assessment.

The S. D. Cycle will meet at the parsonage tomorrow afternoon at three o'clock.

The Presbytery of Detroit will meet in St. Andrew's church, Detroit, next Monday evening at 7:45 o'clock.

The report of the treasurer of the Sunday school shows that the school gave over $22 during the last quarter.

Mrs. J. E. Timm has kindly consented to take charge of the young ladies' bible class in the Sunday school.

Methodist Church Notes.

(By the Pastor)

The Epworth League service begins at 6:30 every Sunday evening. The young people are cordially invited to be present. They will find it a good place to attend.

Rev. John M. Wilson of Farmington will occupy the pulpit next Sunday morning. The choir will render the anthem, "Blessed Be the King," by Chas. H. Gabriel.

A fitting party will be held at the home of Mrs. E. Cobb on Friday afternoon, April 21. Each member of the Ladies Aid has the privilege of inviting another lady.

Forty-five new books have just been added to our Sunday school library. This is the result of the birthday collection which is taken up in the school every Sunday.

The interest and attendance at our services last Sabbath were very gratifying. Five new members were received into the church and given the right hand of fellowship.

The pastor was called to Detroit on Tuesday to officiate at the funeral of Rufus Canine, one of the veterans of the civil war. The services were held at the home and the remains were laid to rest in Riverside cemetery in Plymouth.

The Ladies Aid met at the parsonage Tuesday afternoon. The attendance was quite large and a very pleasant and profitable time was spent. Two new members were added to the society. The spirit and interest in church work which is being manifested by the ladies is very gratifying.

The First Knife.

The first knife was of course a flint flake and the earliest spoon a shell, to which primitive man learned in the course of ages to fasten a handle of wood, says Lordon Answers.

Little Lydella Murdock entertained about thirty of her little friends at a birthday party last Monday from four until six. After a pleasant hour of games all joined in a merry peanut hunt in which Misses Marlon Johnstone and Hester Power carried off the prize.

Harvey Connell, who was born in this village about 23 years ago, died Saturday in Pontiac of jaundice. He leaves a wife and one child. The young man and his parents had a large circle of friends here, where they lived for many years, and great sympathy is expressed for the bereaved family.

A great deal of commendation has been heard from those who attended the Presbyterian church last Sunday evening for the thoroughly patriotic and instructive sermon given by the pastor on that occasion. In his advocacy of the complete elimination of that back-number sentiment, post-bellum sectionalism, Mr. Jerome has not only the approval of all truly patriotic citizens but the example of such men as our lamented Grant and Lincoln—and the honored president of a united country, Theodore Roosevelt.

Vaudeville at the Whitney.

A. R. Warner, business manager of the Lyceum theatre and Chas. A. Altman, who occupies the same position at the Whitney have leased the latter theatre for a spring and summer engagement of popular priced vaudeville, and the policy of the house will change May 14. It is the intention of the management to give the theater going people of Detroit and nearby towns a line of the best and most expensive vaudeville acts that can be had at the lowest prices ever introduced in the country, the scale of which will be 5c and 10c and a few seats at 15c. Several acts have already been billed for the opening week, which will be one of the best ever seen on a vaudeville stage.

Big Show at Detroit.

The matinee April 16th will introduce a new stock company (Van Dyke & Eaton Co.) to the patrons of the Lafayette Theatre, Detroit. The new company not only bring new faces and plays, but new ideas as well to this popular theatre. During the engagement frequent change of plays will be made and the vaudeville features introduced between the acts of each dramatic offering will be renewed with each change of play. Special bargain matinee will be given each day and should prove immensely popular.

Whitney's Opera House—Detroit.

"Why Girls Leave Home" is the novel title of a drama, which will be seen at the Whitney next week. The theme is taken from life and so handled that nature flows through every part of it. The plot hinges upon a young girl who submits to the attentions of a travelling salesman, against the wishes of her family. Her elder brother in particular, the man of the house, takes it upon himself to rule her with a rod of iron to which she as resolutely objects, and out of which the denouement of the play grows. Matinees daily except on Wednesday.

Lyceum Theater—Detroit.

That great musical comedy, "The Burgomaster," will again delight amusement lovers at the Lyceum all next week. In the cast is one of the most promising young actors in America, who has not only given evidence of the most nutritious humor as a comedian but who promises to be one of the leading stage producers of the country. He is Oscar L. Figman, and he has already reached the distinction of being "featured" with "The Burgomaster."

Punishes Catholic Leg.

Mr. Campbell, the Irish solicitor-general, speaking upon delusions, told a story of a north of Ireland Protestant who was perfectly sane save on one point. This stanch Protestant endorsed the delusion that one of his legs belonged to a Roman Catholic and therefore when he went to bed every night he used to leave the Catholic leg outside the blanket by way of punishment.

CAL-CURA FREE IF IT DOES NOT CURE.

So uniformly successful is Cal-cura Solvent, Dr. David Kennedy's latest medicine, in curing kidney disease, as well as urinary troubles, that we feel there is no risk to us in offering to pay for the medicine ourselves should it fail to cure.

Cal-cura Solvent's wonderful power to cure diseases of the kidney and bladder is the happy result of the efforts of that skilled physician and surgeon, Dr. David Kennedy, to make a medicine that would dissolve and expel from the system stone, gravel and uric acid. In this way, Cal-cura Solvent not only cures the disease but also removes all irritating causes. It is not a patent medicine, it is a prescription used in the private practice of Dr. Kennedy, with the greatest of success.

Wine of Cardui Cured Her.

213 South Prior Street, ATLANTA, GA., March 21, 1905. I suffered for four months with extreme nervousness and lassitude. I had a sinking feeling in my stomach which no medicine seemed to relieve, and losing my appetite I became weak and lost my vitality. In three weeks I lost fourteen pounds of flesh and felt that I must find speedy relief to regain my health. Having heard Wine of Cardui praised by several of my friends, I sent for a bottle and was certainly very pleased with the results. Within three days my appetite returned and my stomach troubled me no more. I could digest my food without difficulty and the nervousness gradually diminished. Nature performed her functions without difficulty and I am once more a happy and well woman.

OPERATION AVOIDED

EXPERIENCE OF MISS MERKLEY

She Was Told That an Operation Was Inevitable How She Escaped It

When a physician tells a woman suffering with ovarian or womb trouble that an operation is necessary, the very thought of the knife and the operating table strikes terror to her heart, and her hospites are full of women coming for ovarian or womb operations.

Miss Margaret Merkley

There are cases where an operation is the only resource, but when one considers the great number of cases of ovarian and womb trouble cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound after physicians have advised operations, no woman should submit to one without first trying the Vegetable Compound and writing Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., for advice, which is free.

Miss Margaret Merkley of 275 Third Street, Milwaukee Wis., writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—Loss of strength, extreme nervousness, shooting pains through the pelvic organs, bearing down pains and cramps compelled me to seek medical advice. The doctor, after making an examination, said I had ovarian trouble and ulceration and advised an operation. To this I strongly objected and decided to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. The operation quickly healed, all the bad symptoms disappeared and I am once more strong, vigorous and well.

Ovarian and womb troubles are steadily on the increase among women. If the monthly periods are very painful, or too frequent and excessive—if you have pain or swelling low down in the left side, bearing down pains, leucorrhoea don't neglect yourself—try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

WHO OWNS THE RAILROADS?

H. T. Newcomb of the District of Columbia Bar, has compiled statistics showing that $174,718 depositors in savings banks of six eastern states are directly interested in the joint ownership of $42,354,086 of steam railroad securities, that insurance companies doing business in Massachusetts hold $845,689,038 of steam railroad stocks and bonds and 74 educational institutions depend on $47,468,327 invested in similar securities for a portion of their income. Other fiduciary institutions own enough railroad securities to bring such holding up to more than a billion and a half dollars, about one-sixth of the entire capital invested in railroad property. These investments represent the savings of the masses, there being twenty million holders of life insurance policies in the country, as many more of fire insurance policies, and an even greater number of depositors in banking and trust institutions, where investments are largely in railroad securities.

SHAKESPEARE UP TO DATE.

"Twelfth Night" Shipwreck Changed Into a Railway Wreck.

The people of India are inveterate theater goers—that is, in the large towns, where they have theaters, and devoted to Shakespeare, whose plays they had and adapt to suit popular taste, precisely as a Broadway manager would make over a Sanscrit play if he were going to produce it here. Viola and Sebastian are introduced, not by means of a shipwreck, as per Shakespeare, but through the medium of a railroad smashup. The great central Bombay station is first, second, intermediate and third-class carriages. Viola and Sebastian are seen to hurry down the platform, carrying their dress suit cases and to settle themselves in one of the second-class cars. A later scene shows their train crossing a lofty railroad bridge. The bridge breaks in two, letting them down into the ravine below and from the wreck the two are saved by different wrecking parties, who carry them in opposite directions unknown to each other.

Thus is Shakespeare brought up to date in India.—New York Tribune.

In the Spring.

Lowndes, Mo., April 10th.—Mrs H. C. Harty of this place, says:

"For years I was in very bad health. Every spring I would get so low that I was unable to do my own work. It seemed to be worse in the spring than any other time of the year. I was very weak and miserable and had much pain in my back and head. I saw Dodd's Kidney Pills advertised last spring and began treatment of them and they have certainly done me more good than anything I have ever used."

I was all right last spring and feel better than I have for over ten years. I am fifty years of age and am strong, and to-day than I have been for many years and I give Dodd's Kidney Pills credit for the wonderful improvement."

The statement of Mrs. Harty is only one of a great many where Dodd's Kidney Pills have proven their value to be the very best family medicine. They are in pressed as a tonic and are the only medicine used at the hands of families.

It is well to remember that you can't throw mud without soiling your own hands.

Washing Blankets.

Have ready three tubs of moderately warm water, for the best water makes strong suds by using plenty of Ivory Soap. In this put a pair of blankets and stir with the clothes stick until clean; then rinse through the other two waters, putting a little soap in each. Wring by hand and stretch carefully on the line. ELEANOR R. PARKER.

PUSH, DON'T KNOCK.

Upon the door I saw a sign; I cried, "A motto! And it's mine!" No wiser thing I never saw—A median or Persian law—While cruising o'er life's restless sea; Push, always push, with goal in view; Don't knock—avoid the hammer crew. This rule will save you many a shock: "Push—don't knock."

But what a guide for life was that—Strong, philosophical and pat; How safe a chart for you and me While cruising o'er life's restless sea; Push, always push, with goal in view; Don't knock—avoid the hammer crew. This rule will save you many a shock: "Push—don't knock."

When on that door I see the sign, I say, "Great motto, you are mine!" No stronger sermon ever fell From human lips; no sage could tell The hothead youth more nearly how To point always his vessel's prow; There are no wiser words in stock: "Push—don't knock."

When Wits Won

A True Story of the Great Western Blizzard

The little clock on the mantel had chimed "the hour of four," when Beth Day became suddenly aware of a strange, distant roar, which grew momentarily louder. She passed into the kitchen and opened the outer door. All day the skies had been threatening, with swollen, gray-colored clouds banked in the west, in an angry somber-looking mass. The wind had risen—it was rising more and more; it moaned around the corners of the house, blending with that distant muffled roar, the source of which Beth could not understand.

As she stood in the kitchen doorway, braving the keen air, her brother Jack came flying up the south drive. His head was bent, his warm cap powdered thick with snow flakes. As he reached the door he drew one arm around his sister's waist, pulled her into the kitchen, and slammed the door, setting his back against it. At that very moment the force of the storm broke upon them. The house shook in the blast, the air was dense with whirling snow. Through the windows the terrified eyes of the children saw nothing except one swirling blur of white. The door was wrenched back by the terrific wind, all Jack's young strength could hardly close it again and turn the key in the shaking lock and slip the bolt.

"A close shave, Beth," he said, his voice a trifle unsteady. "I ran every step of the way from school—a good half mile—and just made it. Where would I have been if the storm had struck five minutes sooner? Look, Beth, look! There is nothing out but drifting snow in all the world outside. Everything is swallowed up! Not even the wind is to be seen!"

Beth wrung her hands in sudden, acute distress.

"Uncle Will went to town to pay off the mortgage," she said wildly. "He rode Black Joe. He has been gone two hours. Oh, look what if the kind of home again in the teeth of the storm? That lonely stretch of road across the prairie! He will be lost!"

Tears of fright stopped further speech. Jack's bright young face clouded with anxiety. He was only 14 but he felt all a man's responsibility resting on his slight shoulders as he peered forth into the storm.

"Did he have to go?"

"Oh, yes! It was the last day of grace, and the money for the corn was paid into the bank yesterday afternoon. The farm is safe now, safe for you and me, if anything happens to him, Uncle Will said as he rode away."

Tears stood in her eyes and her voice choked with sobs. She was only sixteen. For the last year she and her orphan brother had learned to "love their big, bluff, bachelor Uncle Will who had offered them a home on his Nebraska farm. Beth was the housekeeper and her uncle's confidant in business matters.

"Oh, what is to be done, Jack?" she cried again. "How can Uncle Will—how could anybody—reach us in this storm? He will lose his bearings completely. He might wander round and round within a few feet of the door and never find it," sobbed the girl.

"A horse surely ought to find his way home," said Jack, anxiously, as he again took his station at the south window of the kitchen. "Black Joe is old, but he is smart. If Uncle Will gives him his own way he ought to find the stable. Beth, is there a rope about the house—a long one? I might try to get as far as the stable and see if they are there, and throw down some feed for the stock. The poor cattle will never get home. They will suffer to-night, I'm afraid."

"There is the clothesline," said his sister. "But I fear it's too short. We can try it after supper. You must have some hot coffee if you are going out into the storm. I am afraid you cannot stand on your feet against this wind."

But when the supper had been eaten they got the clothesline and lengthened it with stout strips of denim from some old overalls. Jack tied one end around his waist, and taking a lighted lantern, went bravely forth into the storm.

The great barn and the stock sheds stood south of the house, nearly a quarter of a mile. Jack had to fight the wind all the way. He groped his way along the side of the fence, and then, by means of a line of small cedars, until he reached the gate of the corral. Not an inch of the way was visible, for it had grown rapidly dark, and the snow was falling so thick and fast that the air was like one moving, muffled, terrible snow bank. He stumbled into huge drifts, fell and rose, only to fall again and yet again, while the wind stung his face, nipped his ears, and seemed to fill his eyes, even beneath the protecting lids which he kept closed. Blindly the slight, boyish figure fought its way through the fearful storm.

It seemed to Beth that she waited hours, kneeling on the floor close to the kitchen door, the end of the rope in her hand. Again and again she opened the door, only to be met by the wild storm of wind and snow. When Jack finally staggered against the door, having made the return trip with much greater facility, by fastening his end of the rope to the gate of the corral, the relief was so great that the overwrought nerves of the girl gave way, and she fainted. A dash of cold water brought her to.

Jack had reached the barn in safety, but found no trace of Black Joe and his rider. But he had a plan which he eagerly proceeded to unfold.

"There's a small straw stack at the east end of the corral," he said. "It has a rack built around it to keep the stock from scattering it, you remember and the rack is of green willow saplings nailed firm. If you can help me make life enough to reach that stack—I shall have to grope and grovel like a mole to do it—I will try to set it afire. If Uncle Will and Joe are anywhere close they will see it and make for it."

"But the storm—the snow!" objected Beth, aghast at the daring project. "You could not light it, brother; it would not burn if you did. It must be one mass of snow by this time."

"It can be done," insisted her brother, stoutly. "Anyway, it's worth trying, and it's the only hope. See, Beth, I will take this little covered tin pail, half full of tallow, and then put in some live coals from the stove. I will take a bottle of coal oil in my pocket. We must hurry! No time to lose."

This time two stout sheets were torn up for a line, which Jack coiled around his waist. He tied the end of his first cable to a post by the door and taking the bucket of coals plunged forth once more.

Another slow half hour went by. Beth watched the south kitchen window for the first gleam of Jack's beacon fire. Despair clutched at her heart as the moments crept along. Had she lost brother as well as uncle? Half frantic with suspense, her wild eyes stared hopelessly forth at the white blur of the storm. At length her patience was rewarded. A slow glow glowed in the southeast, deepened, mounted and fought with the spirit of the storm. Plainly visible from the window, a mass of dull red through the falling snow, it held its own against the whirling elements. And, shortly afterward, the kitchen door was thrown wide once more and two snow-covered figures instead of one tumbled within. Uncle Will had got safe home at last!

His story was that he had left town just before the storm broke and had traversed perhaps half the distance, when he lost his bearings. For nearly three hours he and his horse had wandered about in a circle how wide he could not tell. Half frozen with cold and all but exhausted with the buffeting of wind and snow, he had, as a forlorn hope, given his horse rein. Suddenly a dull light appeared, scarce a rod distant. He turned toward it, fearing the house might be on fire, and discovered his nephew and the burning stack.

"I had a time getting that stack to burn," said the boy. "It was a mass of snow, of course, just like a huge drift. I managed to scrape some off the side opposite the wind and burrowed a hole in the straw. I did it by feeling, for I couldn't see a wink. The lantern was no good. Then I uncorked the oil, poured it into the hole, and dropped the fire in on it. It blazed in my face before I could dodge, but I was snow clad and it didn't hurt. In a moment the whole thing was on fire and the wind was scattering it so I was afraid the barn would go, but I guess there was too much snow for that. I'd have felt foolish if the barn had burned," said Jack.

"Oh, barns!" cried Beth, scornfully. "Who cares for barns! I'd burn a dozen barns for lanterns to guide Uncle Will home." She had helped him off with his overcoat and opened the open door of the kitchen stove for him to warm his half frozen feet. Uncle Will laughed.

"Well, chicken, I suppose you think we could build another, now that the mortgage is paid off. But I'm glad we don't have to, for the father of a promising family of youngsters has a lot of expenses."

"The cows were in the stock pen. Beth, bellowing with cold and frost I got them all into the barn and threw down some feed. They'll be all right if this storm holds for two days."

It was a happy family that sat down to Beth's hot, savory supper a half hour later. To be safe and warm and together again served to show them how precious they were to one another.—Elsie Robertson in Little Chronicle.

When Bossy Comes Marching Home. One summer day little John and Mary were having a ride in the country and enjoying the freshness as only city children can. Finally they met a large drove of cattle which were vigorously switching their tails against the flies. Instantly little John, used to parades, exclaimed: "Wave, Mary! Wave! They're waving to us!"—Little Chronicle.

FIFTY CENTS

IN some conditions the gain from the use of Scott's Emulsion is very rapid.

For this reason we put up a fifty-cent size, which is enough for an ordinary cough or cold or useful as a trial for babies and children.

In such cases Scott's Emulsion must be taken as nourishment; a food rather than a medicine. It's a food for tired and weak digestions.
