THE RETIREMENT OF GEN. R. A. ALGER

WILL LEAVE POLITICAL LIFE CROWNED WITH HONORS.

Several Successors Already Suggested for Senatorship.

Senator Alger's definite announcement that he will not be a candidate for re-election to the United States senate, practically, his retirement from political life when his present term of office shall expire as the same reasons that have impelled him to make his present decision will of course hold good in keeping him from a desire to again enter the political field in the future.

Mr. Alger has certainly earned, by long and efficient public service, the right to set aside the cares of state affairs and devote his time and strength to his individual business, the care of his health and the enjoyment of family life, as those nearest and dearest to him are so anxious for him to do. The honors that have been bestowed upon him by his fellow citizens and the chief executive of the nation make a longer list than often belongs to any one man be his ability ever so prominent and his election to the senate was the natural result of the desire of the people to express their appreciation of what he had already shown himself to be and to secure for the state a continuance of his influence in its affairs. Mr. Alger can well afford now to rest on his laurels, secure in the respect and admiration of the commonwealth, irrespective of party affiliations.

Into the field thus left open a number of good men are already preparing to enter and several others are listed as possibilities. Among those most prominently named are W. C. McMillan, Henry M. Duffield, Wm. Livingstone, D. M. Perry and Frank J. Becker of Detroit, but the fact that Wayne county has all these aspirants leads many to the opinion that Arthur J. Hill of Saginaw would be the logical candidate. Congressman Charles L. Townsend of Jackson, Wm. Alden Smith of Grand Rapids and Sam Smith of Pontiac are also mentioned besides Benton Hanchett of Saginaw and Congressman F. J. Hamilton of Niles. However, there is plenty of time for the situation to take on several aspects before the time comes for decisive announcements from all quarters.

NORTHVILLE BALL TEAM

Newly Organized One Plays First Game Saturday.

Every business man and wide awake citizen is aware that a good ball team is conducive to the welfare of a town besides the wholesome amusement it affords to lovers of athletic sports. To maintain a good club in any town, however, requires not only cash support, but the good will of the people and their attendance at the games. It is a kindly "root" whenever occasion demands. The new team represents the best available diamond talent in Northville and with something like adequate support it can only wining ball.

The team lines up as follows: "Bobbie" Brown, c; Ed Paern, p; F. J. Collins, 1 b; Miss Chapman, 2 b; James Huff, 3 b; Jones, s; DeWitt, s; "Hull" Patterson, c f; Kohler or Schoonover, c f; Walter Evans, 1 f. They play their first game Saturday, with the Burroughs Adding Machine club of Detroit, with admission 15 cents, 1000 free.

Only One Letter Wrong.

"Business men should be careful," writes a correspondent of a London newspaper, "to read their typewritten correspondence before committing it to the post. I have received a typewritten letter from a gentleman of German extraction, who informs me that he is a 'wholesale tobacconist and cigar imposter.'"

Bishop on Sunday Relaxation.

Discussing Sunday games the bishop of Ipswich asks: "Would any one say his prayers less well because he has made a nice drive to the office?" The London Globe however, remarks that that is hardly the point. It is the moral welfare of the man who makes a bad play it at has to be looked after.

To Ventilate a Hat.

A hat should be properly ventilated—not by merely a few punched holes, but by apertures so arranged that there is a current of air passing through it. You want apertures near the brain, and an exit-aperture in the crown.—Morning Leader.

Would Boycott Wagner.

The Vegetarische Worte, a vegetarian journal published at Hamburg, appeals to its readers not to attend Wagner's performances or play any of the master's music. It describes Wagner as "a gross-flesh-feeder" and a man who openly ridiculed vegetarian principles.

Mrs. Wood's daughter, Mrs. J. B. Watts, and three children of Brownwood, Texas, and Mrs. H. L. Wood and children were also present. ### Majority of Men Immoral.

A Boston scientist says that hyponatism can develop only natural instincts and that the best hyponatism in the world cannot make a really moral person do wrong. From experiments he has made he believes that 75 per cent of the human race, if unrestrained by family pride and other like considerations, would steal.

Hereros Cattle.

The native cattle of the Hereros in Southern Africa are tall, lean long-horned and of little value for beef or milk, but they are excellent for riding and carrying loads, and like camels can travel for days without water and with little food. They are guided by reins attached to a stick through the nose.

Artesian Wells.

The first one of which there is any record, was drilled in Europe in the Province of Artois, France, and has been flowing continuously since A. D. 1126. In the United States the first well was drilled in 1806. The present largest and most remarkable flowing well region is in the Pecos Valley of New Mexico.

Real Meaning of "Blindfold"

If we were asked to give the definition of the word "blindfold," as a matter of course we should respond that it comes from making a person blind by taking a cloth over the eyes. But the answer would not be correct. The original word was "blinded" that is struck blind and "fold" came to so change both terms and its significance is a puzzle.—The South Magazine.

SENATOR ALGER WILL NOT SEEK RE-ELECTION TO U. S. SENATE.

A DOCTOR'S WARNING CAUSES HIS RETIREMENT FROM ALL ACTIVITIES.

A CYCLONE WAS BUSY DOING DAMAGE NEAR SCHOOLCRAFT MONDAY.

The announcement made in the Saginaw Courier-Herald that United States Senator Russell A. Alger would not be a candidate for re-election, giving as his reason for withdrawal from the contest his continued ill health, which now causes his physicians considerable concern, was promptly confirmed by the senator. So severe is the heart trouble affecting Senator Alger that all exciting events are forbidden by his physicians and work is absolutely to be avoided. He will not participate again in senatorial committee affairs and though expecting to remain the rest of his term, will take no active part in national legislation.

"It is true," said Senator Alger, "I have decided not to again make the race for the senatorship."

"Three weeks ago I was fully confident that I would be in at the running. Since then I have been under treatment by Dr. Billings, of Chicago, a specialist in heart disease, and he tells me I should avoid all conditions that are apt to be exciting."

"For this reason I am going to retire from public life."

"My first duty is to my family. They are more to me than anything else on earth. For their sake I am going to give up public life."

"If I had been urged upon me that I continue in the race, I now have the members of my family have advised that I come back to the home life, and I feel even I shall do so."

"But if it were not only the family ties that suggest this move, the advice of my physician would make a heavy weight that I give up all public affairs."

"I shall resign my seat in the senate until my term expires. I shall have very little to do officially."

"I do not know who will succeed me, nor do I care very much. There are several candidates in the field."

"I have no other business to attend to. The last man will undoubtedly get the position, and he will be entitled to the place."

"It is a hard job, but it is one of which my own heart is proud, and I am glad I have had the opportunity to serve my country in this capacity. The short time I have been there."

"The friends of W. C. McMillan have already stridently supported and desire that he succeed his honored father in the senate."

The Straley Trial

The jury deliberated in the district court for fifteen hours in the trial of V. M. Straley, of Calverton, for the murder of Philip Miller, who died from a whipper administered by Straley at the home of the boy's mother on June 1st.

The charge against Straley was that he had killed the boy with a whipper, and that he had done so with a malicious and premeditated mind.

The defense attorneys argued that the whipper was not a deadly weapon, and that Straley was not guilty of murder.

The jury returned a verdict of guilty of murder in the second degree, and sentenced Straley to the state prison for a term of ten years.

The Tax Commission

At a meeting of the state tax commission held at Lansing last week, it was decided in view of the fact that the new law reorganizing the commission will become effective in September, to terminate the term of office of all clerks employed by the commission on September 15. Under the new law only 10 clerks will be employed. Freeman O. Gulliver, who has been secretary of the commission for several years, tendered his resignation, to take effect September 15. C. T. Bolt, of Muskegon, is very active in an effort to succeed Secretary Gulliver but it is believed that the present commission will leave the election of the secretary to the new commission.

Cyclone Swept

A cyclone struck on a farm a mile and a half north of Schoolcraft at 11 o'clock Monday morning and continued in a straight line southwest for five miles, tearing up all fences, trees, orchards and telephone wires in a path six rods wide. The house and large barn remained standing but are riddled with splinters. Doors were blown off and carried long distances. ## RUSSIAN GOVERNMENT IS AFTER THE MUTINEERS NOW.

HUNGER AND TORPEDO BOATS NOW ASSAIL THE REBEL SAILORS.

THE SLAUGHTER AT ODESSA—GENERAL DISCONTENT AND DISTURBANCE.

With Poland red with the spirit of revolt, the Caucasus already almost in a state of civil war, agrarian disorders spreading rapidly, the whole country profoundly surred and the intelligent classes solidly arrayed against the government, all conditions seem ripe for the long-predicted revolution. Great fear is expressed that many regiments are honeycombed with sedition and there is grave doubt of their loyalty should they be called upon to fire on the revolutionists. When the news reaches the armies in Manchuria it is bonad to create a deep impression.

The actions of the Kuzia Potemkine mutineers in remaining on the high seas and virtually controlling the entire Black sea has stirred the Russian government to action. Orders were sent out to the torpedo boats to sink the Potemkine at all hazards if it again refused to surrender. The situation of the men on board the Potemkine is indeed desperate. They are practically pirates and their predicament offers only limited avenue for escape. If they do not surrender it is believed they will go to some Black sea port, not in Russia, leave the ship and make their chances of getting away overseas. In doing so they would be confronted by the attitude of the power on whose shores they disembarked, at their start on being desperate, a desperate course may well be expected of them.

At Odessa the situation was much relieved after the departure of the mutineers. The British ship Cranley, seized by the naval authorities, has been released and the British consul has released the five ships which he held in readiness to remove British subjects in case of danger to them in the city. Estimates of the number killed during the fires and rioting of last week run as high as 2,000. A far larger number were shot down by peasant disturbances in the neighborhood of Odessa are giving rise to much apprehension. The peasants are forcibly occupying lands and seizing live stock. Troops have been sent to suppress the disorders.

The fact that they are credited with bomb-throwing during the recent disturbances, coupled with the fact that the police found large collections of bombs in the houses of two prominent and wealthy Jews, has served to inflame minds against them and it would not take much to start anti-Jewish demonstrations, the end of which would be most terrible.

In the other cities of the empire where mutinous outbreaks occurred, order has been fully restored. It is reported that the port of Cronstadt has been closed to foreign shipping and all commercial vessels there ordered to St. Petersburg.

Topoka Bank Failure

Qwing depositors $1,390,000, the First National bank of Topeka, Kas., of which C. J. Devlin is the principal stockholder, failed to open its doors Monday. The comptroller of the currency appointed National Bank Examiner J. T. Bradley receiver of the embarrassed bank. C. J. Devlin, who is 54 years old, was generally credited as being one of the wealthiest men in Kansas City. He was at the head of twenty-five different companies, coal mining enterprises and mercantile establishments, and for many years has been one of the most active business men in the south-west. His indebtedness is given as follows:

First National bank of Topeka	$1,170,000
Other Topeka banks	500,000
Baltimore Trust Co.	710,000
Kansas City banks	1,000,000
St. Louis banks	350,000
Chicago banks	350,000
Total	$4,020,000

Devlin is said to be worth $7,000,000 and gives up all to pay his debts.

Secretary Hay's Funeral

The body of ex-Secretary of State John Hay lay in solitary state Tuesday in the auditorium of the Chamber of Commerce, Cleveland. Everything connected with the funeral of the secretary was of the simplest character and the members of the family avoided the slightest ostentation or public display in connection with the funeral. The order of exercises in the chapel were very brief indeed, but the presence of pallbearers and members of the family being admitted. The chapel is so small that even this number taxed its capacity. For the near future the grave of Secretary Hay will be marked by a small and simple stone bearing simply the name and the years of birth and death.

Secretary Hay had a $100,000 policy in the Equitable. He had paid $57,000 in premiums since 1897.

Strike Leaders Indicted

In a scorching indictment of the method of labor leaders in holding up lines and corporations for large sums of money for the settlement of strikes in total restraint of the Cook county, Chicago, grand jury Saturday afternoon handed down about 20 indictments. The report says:

"That money was paid to Cornelius P. Shea or that money was tendered to him by representatives of the packing industries to settle the stock yards strike has been demonstrated to this body, that Shea has benefited by the means made for money on representatives of capital has been abundantly established by satisfactory evidence. That not alone Shea, but Hugh McGee, James Barry, Edward Mullen, John Gallagher, Jeremiah McCarthy and Albert Young and other and lesser satellites in the list of the world would have lived on the fat of the land, spending more money in dissipation than many an honest member of the labor union is able to earn for the support of his wife and family, has been established beyond question. The report declares slugging has been paid for by certain vicious interests at the head of certain labor organizations."

Beef Trust Indictments.

The United States grand jury in Chicago on Saturday returned indictments against 17 men prominent in the beef packing industry and including a dozen millionaires, for violation of the Sherman anti-trust law, and against four officials of Schwarzschild & Sulzberger for alleged illegal rebating agreement with railroads. Besides these individual indictments, bills were voted against Armour & Co., Swift & Co., Nelson Morris & Co., and the Fairbank Canning Co.

The Chinese Boycott.

The Chinese government has taken steps to stop the anti-American agitation and boycott against American goods. Minister Rockhill, at Peking, cabled the state department that, after repeated and urgent representations from the American legation, orders have been issued from the Chinese foreign office to all viceroys and governors in the empire to cease anti-American agitation and attempted boycott against American goods.

Under a new law, Illinois, during the next two years will spend $50,000,000 in building good roads to serve as samples of what is desirable in that respect.

John D. Mosher, of Superior township, bequeathed his seven horses to his six sons. His daughter was to select one cow from the herd, and her brothers were each to give her $10 to offset their receiving all the horses.

Pius X. like his predecessors, is a heavy investor in American securities. It is reported that his personal property of this class aggregates in value $25,000,000.

SENATOR MITCHELL WAS CONVICTED BY OREGON JURY.

HIS REMARKABLE CAREER IN LIFE WITH ITS SHADES SHOWN.

TOPEKA, KS., HAS A BANK FAILURE THAT RATTLE THE STATE.

Mitchell's Career.

U. S. Senator John Mitchell, of Oregon, was convicted by a Federal jury in Portland, Ore., on Monday night of accepting money for procuring before Federal Departments in Washington while serving as a Senator from Oregon. The jury was out eight hours and recommended him to the mercy of the court.

Senator Mitchell was born in Washington Co., Pa., in 1835, and went to Oregon in 1860, after a few years' residence in California. He became more prominent gradually, and by 1886 came within one vote of being his party's choice for United States Senator. He incurred the bitter hostility of William Lair Hill, a brilliant lawyer, who was then editor of the Portland Oregonian. Hill learned that Mitchell was living under an assumed name, and made a trip to Pennsylvania, where he traced Mitchell's antecedents. It was discovered that Mitchell's real name was John Kipple, and that while very young he had married a poor girl, the daughter of a washerwoman, by whom he had several children. He left his family and disappeared, and in due time turned up on the Pacific coast as 'John Mitchell.' His identity having been established, the Oregonian printed an exposure which caused a sensation in the state. For years afterward that paper referred to him as 'John Kipple Mitchell.'

Mitchell did not deny the truthfulness of the story. Instead he took the people of Oregon into his confidence, admitted that he had changed his name, and asked the people to judge him by his record as a man among them, rather than by the errors of his youth. He took steps to have his new name legalized and made peace with his former wife by proper legal settlement. The people of Oregon took Mitchell at his word and the attacks upon him were unavailing. In 1872 he was elected to the United States senate, and took his seat on March 4, 1873. Mitchell has been in and out several times, and every campaign, with few exceptions, has been a light in which the fur flew.

Senator Mitchell married early in his Oregon career, before the exposure of his Pennsylvania experience. His second wife was a resident of Oregon, of beauty and good family. Several daughters and one son were born to them. The son, John D. Mitchell, Jr., is a prominent lawyer in Oregon. One daughter, Nettie, was a famous beauty and belle in Washington. In 1894 she married the Duke de la Rochefort and is now living in Paris.

Secretary Hay's Funeral

The body of ex-Secretary of State John Hay lay in solitary state Tuesday in the auditorium of the Chamber of Commerce, Cleveland. Everything connected with the funeral of the secretary was of the simplest character and the members of the family avoided the slightest ostentation or public display in connection with the funeral. The order of exercises in the chapel were very brief indeed, but the presence of pallbearers and members of the family being admitted. The chapel is so small that even this number taxed its capacity. For the near future the grave of Secretary Hay will be marked by a small and simple stone bearing simply the name and the years of birth and death.

Secretary Hay had a $100,000 policy in the Equitable. He had paid $57,000 in premiums since 1897.

Strike Leaders Indicted

In a scorching indictment of the method of labor leaders in holding up lines and corporations for large sums of money for the settlement of strikes in total restraint of the Cook county, Chicago, grand jury Saturday afternoon handed down about 20 indictments. The report says:

"That money was paid to Cornelius P. Shea or that money was tendered to him by representatives of the packing industries to settle the stock yards strike has been demonstrated to this body, that Shea has benefited by the means made for money on representatives of capital has been abundantly established by satisfactory evidence. That not alone Shea, but Hugh McGee, James Barry, Edward Mullen, John Gallagher, Jeremiah McCarthy and Albert Young and other and lesser satellites in the list of the world would have lived on the fat of the land, spending more money in dissipation than many an honest member of the labor union is able to earn for the support of his wife and family, has been established beyond question. The report declares slugging has been paid for by certain vicious interests at the head of certain labor organizations."

Beef Trust Indictments.

The United States grand jury in Chicago on Saturday returned indictments against 17 men prominent in the beef packing industry and including a dozen millionaires, for violation of the Sherman anti-trust law, and against four officials of Schwarzschild & Sulzberger for alleged illegal rebating agreement with railroads. Besides these individual indictments, bills were voted against Armour & Co., Swift & Co., Nelson Morris & Co., and the Fairbank Canning Co.

Minister Rockhill, at Peking, cabled the state department that, after repeated and urgent representations from the American legation, orders have been issued from the Chinese foreign office to all viceroys and governors in the empire to cease anti-American agitation and attempted boycott against American goods.

SENATOR MITCHELL WAS CONVICTED BY OREGON JURY.

HIS REMARKABLE CAREER IN LIFE WITH ITS SHADES SHOWN.

TOPEKA, KS., HAS A BANK FAILURE THAT RATTLE THE STATE.

Mitchell's Career.

U. S. Senator John Mitchell, of Oregon, was convicted by a Federal jury in Portland, Ore., on Monday night of accepting money for procuring before Federal Departments in Washington while serving as a Senator from Oregon. The jury was out eight hours and recommended him to the mercy of the court.

Senator Mitchell was born in Washington Co., Pa., in 1835, and went to Oregon in 1860, after a few years' residence in California. He became more prominent gradually, and by 1886 came within one vote of being his party's choice for United States Senator. He incurred the bitter hostility of William Lair Hill, a brilliant lawyer, who was then editor of the Portland Oregonian. Hill learned that Mitchell was living under an assumed name, and made a trip to Pennsylvania, where he traced Mitchell's antecedents. It was discovered that Mitchell's real name was John Kipple, and that while very young he had married a poor girl, the daughter of a washerwoman, by whom he had several children. He left his family and disappeared, and in due time turned up on the Pacific coast as 'John Mitchell.' His identity having been established, the Oregonian printed an exposure which caused a sensation in the state. For years afterward that paper referred to him as 'John Kipple Mitchell.'

Mitchell did not deny the truthfulness of the story. Instead he took the people of Oregon into his confidence, admitted that he had changed his name, and asked the people to judge him by his record as a man among them, rather than by the errors of his youth. He took steps to have his new name legalized and made peace with his former wife by proper legal settlement. The people of Oregon took Mitchell at his word and the attacks upon him were unavailing. In 1872 he was elected to the United States senate, and took his seat on March 4, 1873. Mitchell has been in and out several times, and every campaign, with few exceptions, has been a light in which the fur flew.

Senator Mitchell married early in his Oregon career, before the exposure of his Pennsylvania experience. His second wife was a resident of Oregon, of beauty and good family. Several daughters and one son were born to them. The son, John D. Mitchell, Jr., is a prominent lawyer in Oregon. One daughter, Nettie, was a famous beauty and belle in Washington. In 1894 she married the Duke de la Rochefort and is now living in Paris.

THE LATE SECRETARY OF STATE JOHN HAY.

The death of Secretary John Hay at his summer home, "The Fells," on the shore of Lake Senapee, New Hampshire, Saturday morning, came with staggering suddenness. At midnight he was resting quietly. A moment later he was in a state of collapse. In less than half an hour he was lifeless. The end came so quickly that he had passed away unattended by all the members of his family save his wife. The world mourns the loss of the great secretary, whose diplomatic successes made him known to all foreign governments as a far-sighted, active, resourceful and powerful statesman. Among his great achievements may be noted these:

Established policy of "open door" in China.

Arranged the protocol of peace with Spain.

Championed the Philippine commission.

Settled clash with Great Britain on Alaskan boundary.

Brought about conclusion of five reciprocity treaties with Great Britain in connection with the British West Indies, the extension of American consular protection to British interests in South Africa and the modification of German inspection law regarding American meat.

Brought about the Franco-American reciprocity treaty.

Arranged for an important United States coaling station in Samoa.

Secured assent of England to the abrogation of the Clayton-Bulwer treaty, which made possible the construction of an isthmian canal by the United States.

Put in force the Hay-Pauncefote treaty.

Overcame the national legislature in Columbia, making Panama a free and independent republic.

A reorganization of the cabinet will now be necessary, and Judge Taft seems to be the logical successor to Mr. Hay.

Mobilizing Army.
The state department has a cablegram from Mr. Meyer, American ambassador to St. Petersburg, saying that extensive mobilization has been ordered in the districts of Kiev, St. Petersburg, Warsaw and Moscow, because of the necessity of immediately increasing the forces in the far east. It is expected that under these orders between 100,000 and 200,000 men will be called into service.

Most people are not sorry soon enough.

That Bank Inspection Bill.

Every time a private bank is obliged to close its doors, bringing ruin to business enterprises, and trouble and despair that can never be fully repaired by the public to homes and individuals, another telling argument is furnished on the affirmative side of the question of state inspection of private banks, and additional endorsement given Governor Warner's good business judgment and the wisdom of the banking department in demanding the passage of such a bill during the recent session of the legislature.

As a natural consequence of the commonest cause of leadaches is some nervous disturbance or weakness irritated by some experience which in prime condition of health would produce no perceptible effect.

Ill-Natured London Journal.

"Americans," says a London journal, "are coming over in greater swarms than ever and soon the streets will be full of curiously quiet-looking men in weird coats with padded shoulders ending on the hips long boots bloomy at the tips and straw hats with no roofs, and women with brown faces and eyes with very white whites, green vises floating in the breeze and accents that sets one's teeth on edge."

For the desert dust is not dust, but not dry dust. Compared with the awful, organic dust of New York, London or Paris, it is so pure and pure."

CHAPTER XIV.

Isle Rugen.

At eventide of the third day of their journeying the party came to a great cross. The horses picked their way warily through this tangle, the rotten sticks yielding as readily as wet mud beneath their hoofs. Pools of stagnant black water had to be evaded, treacherous yellow sands tested, bridges constructed of the firmer logs, till all suddenly they came out upon a fairylike little half moon of sand and tiny shells.

Here was a large flat bottomed boat, drawn up against the shore. In the stern a strange figure was seated, a man, tall and angular, clad in jerkin and trunks of brown tanned leather, cross gartered hose of grey cloth, and home made shoon of hide with the hair outside. He wore a black scull cap, and his head had the strange uncanny look of a wild animal. It was not at the first glance nor yet at the second that Boris and Jorian found out the cause of this curious appearance.

Meanwhile, Werner von Orseln was putting into his hand some pledge or sign which he scrutinized carefully, when Jorian gripped his companion's arm.

"Look," he whispered, "he's got no ears!"

"Nor any tongue!" responded Boris, staring with all his eyes at the prodigy.

And, indeed, the strange man was reaching to his mouth with the index finger of his right hand and signing that they were to follow him into the boat which had been waiting for them.

The Duchess leapt from her horse and stepped from the little pier of stone which the boat lay, and leaning firmly from seat to seat she reached the stern, where she sat down without seeming to have so much as glanced at any of the company.

Werner von Orseln then motioned Captains Boris and Jorian to take their places in the bow, and having fixed his head he seated himself beside his mistress. The wordless, fearless man took the oars and pushed off. The ten men left on the shore set about building a fire and making a camp of brushwood.

The boat pulled along steadily, and the Duchess, who had been leaning forward, now turned her head back and looked at the three soldiers who were seated in the bow. She had seen them before, and she knew that they were the three captains of the army who had been with her when she was captured by the Wordless Man.

She had seen them when she was in the hands of the Wordless Man, and she had seen them when she was in the hands of the Wordless Man, and she had seen them when she was in the hands of the Wordless Man.

and I do not leave this boat till I know in what place I am, and who this may be that cries 'Follow!' to the daughter of Henry the Lion!"

The tall woman turned without bowing and looked at the girl.

"I am the mother of Maurice von Lynar, and this is the Isle Rugen," she said simply, as if the answer were all-sufficient.

The woman in the crimson cloak waited for Joan to be assisted from the boat, and then, without a word of greeting, led the way up a little sand ed path to a gate which opened in a high stone wall. Through this she admitted her guests, whereupon they found themselves in an enclosure with towers and battlements rising dimly all round.

"Then came a long, grey building, another door, low and creaking heavily on unaccustomed hinges, a sudden burst of light, and lo! the wanderers found themselves within a lighted hall, wherein were many stands of arms and armor, mingled with skins of wild animals, wide-spreading, many-furred antlers, and other records of the chase.

The woman who had been their guide now set down her lantern and allowed the hood of her cloak to slide from her head. Werner and his two male companions, the captains of Plassenburg, fell back a little at the apparition. They had expected to see some hag or croone, fit companion of their wordless guide.

Instead, a woman stood before them not girlish certainly nor yet in the first bloom of her youth, but glorious even among fair women by reason of the ripeness of her beauty.

The mother of that young paladin, their Spahrbar, it seemed impossible. This woman was too youthful to be fair, too beautiful in her graceful beauty to be the mother of such a fierce young warrior as Maurice von Lynar.

"My lady Joan," she said, in the low thrilling voice, "my son has heard word that all a certain great danger is overpast you are to be able to see me here on the Isle Rugen. I have done, save for the man, Duke Max Ulrich, long since cruelly murdered at the hands of his enemies. I can offer you no suite of attendants to conduct you to my home. You must depend on the care of your own hands and feet, and on the good will of the Duke's household. might be to those whom she really loved.

"He keeps the Castle, indeed—in his mistress's absence and mine," said Werner. "He will make a good soldier. Our lady has already made him Count von Loen, that he may be the equal of those who care for such titles."

A strange flash of remembrance and emotion passed over the face of their hostess.

"And your own title, my lord?" she asked after a little pause.

"I am plain Werner von Orseln, free ritter and faithful servant of my mistress the Duchess Joan, as I was also of her father, Henry the Lion of Hohenstein."

"I have now no faithful servants," said the young Duchess at last, breaking her cold silence; "I have only traitors and jailers about me."

With that she became once more silent. A painful restraint fell upon the three who sat at table, and though their hostess and Werner von Orseln partook of the fish and brown and trout which their three servants set before them in silver platters, it was but sparingly and without appetite.

All were glad when the meal was over and they could rise from the table. As soon as possible Werner and Jorian got outside into the long passage which led to the kitchen.

Jorian said, solemnly lowering his voice to a whisper, "that Countdown fellow had known what we mean, he would have been gone so early to get her home to bed and board!"

"Yes, will he not, with Ballic?" said Werner, in a low voice.

"No, but he is a lawyer of Court, and he is not the man to do his duty as a subject's lord."

"But I know who he is," said Jorian, in a low voice, "and he is a man of honor."

"The Duke's household," said Werner, "is a man of honor."

"The Duke's household," said Werner, "is a man of honor."

They dragged the platter of brown beef to the door and dumped the mustard pot beside it upon the deal table with a resounding clap.

"That's not it," he cried, all your silliness with that, Parides! The all-time record for me, I have stood a day or two larded ignorance from you in my time, but nothing like this. You will be saying next that my Lady Duchess might take a fancy to you!"

"She might do worse!" said Jorian philosophically, as he stirred the mustard with his knife and looked about for the ale tankard.

-TOO MUCH TEA HARMFUL.

English Physicist's Classes Beverage With Alcohol.

As England is a nation of tea drinkers some vigorous words on the tea habit lately spoken by Dr. Joan H. Clarke, a London physician, have attracted much attention. "It would almost seem," says Dr. Clarke, "that the human animal is determined to assert his superiority over all the rest of creation by the ingenuity he displays in discovering or manufacturing pleasant poisons for himself. The great majority of mankind are the slaves of one or more poison habits. Of these habits the tea habit is one of the most subtle, insidious and injurious."

"I am a mooted point whether tea does not do more harm in this country than alcohol. It does not make its victims 'drunk and incapable,' but it certainly does make them drunk. To be saturated with tea, to be constantly under its influence, to be dependent on it, is to be tea drunk."

"English as She is Japanesed."

Often the Japanese imitator produces laughable labels that are worthy of noting as specimens of "English as she is Japanesed." Take, for instance, a label on a bottle in southern Japan, when the boy brought some St. Julien. The label on the bottle he brought read:

"Fogren County Wines Little Seal St. Julien, bottled by Bordeaux."

A label placed on some alleged English beer declared:

"The efficacy of this beer is, to give the health and especially the strength for stomach. The flavor is so sweet and simple that not injure for much drunk."—World's Work.

HIS JUDGMENT AT FAULT.

One Instance Where Balzac Failed as a Graphologist.

If there was one thing upon which Balzac flattered himself more than another it was his skill in reading character from handwriting.

But he made a sad mistake on one occasion. A lady brought him an extract from the exercise book of a 12-year-old schoolboy, and asked him for an opinion as to the youngster's character and prospects. Balzac inquired whether the child was her own. Answered in the negative, he examined the exercise carefully and delivered his judgment.

"Madame," he said, "this child is thick-headed and frivolous. He will never come to any good. If he were my child I would take him from school and put him to the plow."

Then it was explained to the novelist that the specimen on which he had pronounced so severely was one of his own which had been discovered hidden away between the leaves of an old lesson book.

Use for Discarded Trampcars.
Australia has found a new use for discarded trampcars. Sydney ladies have them painted green and white, hang them with baskets of flowers, train creepers over the roof and then utilize them as afternoon tearooms.

Proved Beyond a Doubt.
Middlesex, N. Y., July 3.—(Special)—That Rheumatism can be cured has been proved beyond a doubt by Mrs. Betsy A. Clawson, well known here. That Mrs. Clawson had Rheumatism and had it bad, all her acquaintances know. They also know she is now cured. Dodd's Kidney Pills did it. Mrs. Clawson tells the story of her cure as follows:

"I was an invalid for most five years caused by inflammatory Rheumatism, helpless two-thirds of the time. The first year I could not do as much as a baby could do, then I rallied a little but then a relapse. Then a year ago the gout set in my hands and feet I suffered untold agony and in August, 1903, when my husband died, I could not ride to the grave.

"I only took two boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills and in two weeks I could walk on myself and saw my own wood I dug my own potatoes and gathered my own garden last fall. Dodd's Kidney Pills cured me."

Rheumatism is caused by uric acid in the blood. Dodd's Kidney Pills put the kidneys in shape to take all the uric acid out of the blood.

Talents and Confidence.
A single talent man, supported by great self confidence, will achieve more than a ten talent man who does not believe in himself. The mind can not act with vigor in the presence of doubt. A wavering mind makes a wavering execution. There must be certainty, confidence and assurance, or there can be no efficiency. An uncertain man who believes in himself and who has faith that he can do the thing he undertakes, often puts to shame the average college bred man whose overture and wider outlook have some times increased restlessness and a lessening of self confidence whose decision has been weakened by constant weighing of conflicting theories and whose prejudices are always open to conviction.—Success.

Majority of Men Immoral.
A Boston scientist says that hypnotism can develop only natural instincts and that the best hypnotist in the world cannot make a really moral person do wrong. From experiments he has made he believes that 75 per cent of the human race, if unrestrained by family pride and other like considerations, would steal.

IN COLONEL'S TOWN.
Things Happen.
From the home of the famous "Key-nel Keeyarth of Cartersville," lay down South, comes an enthusiastic letter about Postum.

"I was in very delicate health, suffering from indigestion and a nervous trouble so severe that I could hardly sleep. The doctor ordered me to discontinue the use of the old kind of coffee, which was like poison to me, producing such extreme disturbance that I could not control myself. But such was my love for it that I could not get my own consent to give it up for some time, and continued to suffer, till my father one day brought home a package of Postum Food Coffee.

"I had the new food drink carefully prepared according to directions, and gave it a fair trial. It proved to have a rich flavor and made a healthy, wholesome and delightful drink. To my taste the addition of cream greatly improves it.

"My health began to improve as soon as the drug effect of the old coffee was removed and the Postum Coffee had time to make its influence felt. My nervous troubles were speedily relieved and the sleep which the old coffee drove from my pillow always came to soothe and strengthen me after I had drunk Postum—in a very short time I began to sleep better than I had for years before. I have now used Postum Coffee for several years and like it better and find it more beneficial than when I first began. It is an unspeakable joy to be relieved of the old distress and sickness." Name given by Postum Company, Battle Creek, Mich.

There's a reason. Read the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in each pkg.

LASTING RELIEF!

J. W. Walls, Superintendent of streets of Lebanon, Ky., says:

"My nightly rest was broken, owing to irregular action of the kidneys. I was suffering intensely from severe pains in the small of my back and through the kidneys and annoyed by painful passages of abnormal secretions. No amount of doctoring relieved this condition. I took Doan's Kidney Pills and experienced quick and lasting relief. Doan's Kidney Pills will prove a blessing to all sufferers from kidney disorders who will give them a fair trial."

Schiller's Mean Revenge.
When Schiller was a boy at school he was tormented by a Swiss tutor named Kuplig, who came from the Grisons canton. Years later, when the poet wrote "The Robbers," he revenged himself on Kuplig and the Grisons by introducing this little speech: "To be a scamp you must have genius. Moreover, a special climate is needed for the growth of scamps, and to prove this I recommend you to visit the Grisons canton: it is the veritable Athens of modern rascality." In the later editions of "The Robbers" this quaint gift of spleen does not appear. It is suggested that Schiller was not moved to expunge it by any remorseful feeling, but by a very forcible protest from the residents of the abused canton against this calumny.

Cleaning India Rubber Goods.
To clean indiarubber goods, a piece of clean, household flannel should be rubbed upon a bar of common yellow soap. When a lather is obtained, apply the flannel to the rubber, and pass it briskly over the surface. This will speedily make the article clean. Set to dry in a cool breeze.

Good Advice for Women.
George Eliot says, "To manage men one ought to have a sharp mind in a velvet sheath." But why should we everlastingly strive to manage men? Why not let men manage themselves? That would give all plenty to do and rid the world of most of its mischief.—Exchange.

THE MONTHLY TRIAL

HEADACHE, DIZZINESS, BEARING-DOWN PAIRS.

A Woman Tells How She Has Become Well and Strong After Years of Misery Due to Irrigating Functions.

The fact that one woman is afflicted, too checked, strong and cheerful, while another is pale, weak and depressed, is due more often than otherwise to the irregularity in the functions of the organs that are peculiar to the sex. When these are disturbed everything goes wrong, pain and discomfort are felt all over the body, the sensations are often terrifying.

"For four years," said Mrs. Davis recently, "I suffered indescribable misery from sick headache every month, accompanied by fainting spells, shortness of breath and severe pain in my left side. There were also bearing-down pains, at times so acute that I could not stand up, and my head was full of ringing sounds. It seemed as if everything was going to hit me in the eyes. I was compelled to lie down with closed eyes for hours to get a little relief. When I attempted to arise everything would whirl around and it would grow so dark that I could scarcely see any object."

"Could't your doctor help you?"

"Five doctors in all treated me, but I got no lasting benefit. Besides I used a lot of advertised remedies. The only medicine, however, that had the desired effect was Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and they are truly a godsend to women. I did not have much faith in them when I began to take them. I found myself, however, so much better after using two boxes that I began to believe in them. They checked right away the decline into which I was going. My troubles kept lessening and finally disappeared altogether."

"How long did it take for a cure?"

"After I had used several boxes my health was all right. I had taken on flesh and was strong and hearty. I feel today in spirits more like a girl of sixteen than a woman of my years."

Mrs. C. H. Davis' address is Carmel, Maule, R. F. D., No. 2, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are confidently offered to women for the cure of anemia, chlorosis, painful and irregular periods, and all forms of weakness. They are sold by every druggist.

tern in her hand, from which wheeling lights gleared through a score of variously colored little plates of horn. Standing still on a little wooden pier she held the lantern high, so that the light fell on those in the boat, and their faces looked strangely white in that illuminated circle, surrounded as it was by a pent house of tense blackness, black pines, black water, black sky.

"Follow me!" said the woman, in a deep, rich voice—a voice whose tones thrilled those who heard them to their hearts, so rich and low were some of the notes.

Joan of the Sword Hand rose to her feet.

IN-STRICT CONFIDENCE.

Women Obtain Mrs. Pinkham's Advice and Help.

She Has Guided Thousands to Health—How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Cured Mrs. Fred Seydel.

Mrs. F. Seydel

It is a great satisfaction for a woman to feel that she can write to another telling her the most private and confidential details about her illness, and know that her letter will be seen by a woman only, a woman full of sympathy for her sick sisters, and above all, a woman who has had more experience in treating female ills than any living person.

Over one hundred thousand cases of female diseases come before Mrs. Pinkham every year, some personally, others by mail, and this has been going on for twenty years, day after day.

Surely women are wise in seeking advice from a woman of such experience, especially when it is absolutely free.

Mrs. Pinkham never violates the confidence of women, and every testimonial letter published is done so with the written consent or request of the writer, in order that other sick women may be benefited as they have been.

Mrs. Fred Seydel, of 412 North 54th Street, West Philadelphia, Pa., writes: Dear Mrs. Pinkham—

"Over a year ago I wrote you a letter asking advice, as I had female ills and could not carry a child to maturity. I received your kind letter of instructions and followed your advice. I am not only a well woman in consequence, but have a beautiful baby girl. I wish every suffering woman in the land would write you for advice, as you have done so much for me."

Just as surely as Mrs. Seydel was cured will Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound cure every woman suffering from any form of female ills.

No other medicine in all the world has such a record of cures of female troubles as has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Therefore no prudent woman will accept any substitute which a druggist may offer.

If you are sick, write Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., for special advice. It is free and always helpful.

HOW SHE CHARMED HIM.

Girl Whose Extravagance Won Her a Wealthy Husband.

"If I knew how to write stories," says a pension office woman, to the Washington Post, "I'd write one about my cousin Mattie. We're about the same age, and for the last fifteen years we've been earning our own livings. Mattie has been a school teacher, and I've been in office. Every time we met we used to talk about what we meant to do with the money."

"If I invest it," she used to say, "I may lose. If I buy a splendid good time with it, nobody can ever rob me of the memory of it."

Two years ago our uncle died and left each of us about $4,000. I was too sensible to fool mine away. I put it into suburban lots that I couldn't sell now for more than half what I gave for them.

Mattie took four months' leave of absence, bought herself a lovely wardrobe, and went to California for the winter. She said she meant to spend every cent she had in just four months, and she did.

When her leave of absence was up she hadn't a penny left. Teaching now? No, sir-ee. She met a very rich man in California and married him. And what charmed the man was the frank way in which she told him about her money and how she was spending it.

He said he'd been looking all his life for a woman with good common sense, and Mattie was the only one he'd ever found."

The Critic and the Lady. Talleyrand, the noted Frenchman, possessed wit of so high an order that it has stood the test of time, and his jokes are still good.

Madame de Stael knew so many things, doubtless she knows how to swim.

When "Delphine" appeared, it was said that Madame de Stael had depicted herself as Delphine, and that Talleyrand was the original of Madame de Vernon.

Madame de Stael was soon after married, Talleyrand remarked, in his most gentle tone of voice.

"I fear that both you and I appear in your new book, and disguised as women!"—Montreal Herald.

A Lesson at the Primaries. Mrs. Dobbs waited until dinner was over and her husband finished his pipe before she handed over the note which he brought from the teacher.

"My boy," said Dobbs, when he had read it, "I understand from this that you are evaded from school until the Board of Education has an opportunity to consider your case."

"Yes, sir," answered Willie, who had begun to whimper.

"Do you know what the Board of Education is, my son?"

"No, sir."

Dobbs went into the kitchen and got a good stout piece of lard. Then he commenced to chop, and for several minutes he was busy with Willie.

"That is my son," he said as he finished his tea, "the only board of education we know of when I was a lad."

A Chocolate Party. A chocolate party is a new idea for a Sunday school class or a church social. The helpers serve hot chocolate and cocoa with whipped cream, chocolate cake and chocolate ice cream.

Sell chocolate candies of different varieties. It would be nice if they could make them at home. A very pretty touch could be given if the girls who wait on the tables would dress in the costume of the chocolate girl who appears on the tins of chocolate in the stores.

The dress is simple—a full skirt, a white kerchief folded over the shoulders, a full apron and a white cap. The costumes need not be made for the occasion, but may be devised from the clothes on hand, or, if you prefer to make it, cheap material may be used, and the cut is so simple that it will be little trouble to make.

He Forgot the Deaths. William R. Merriam was talking in New York about the last census.

"All sorts of odd and interesting things happen," he said.

"One of the collectors told me how he had visited a village, and how, on the completion of his work, a crowd of villagers had gathered around him, anxious to know how much their population had increased in the last ten years."

"It has increased," said the father of a large family, "about a hundred, I suppose."

INDIAN TREATMENT OF SICK.

Superstitious Ceremony That is Often a Last Resort.

In answer to inquiries as to the meaning of the word it was explained that a pachofsha is a feast and a part of the incantation and superstitious ceremony conducted over the sick by the lower class of ignorant Indians.

When a man is thought to be sick enough to require the services of a doctor he is put into a hut, and for three days no one except the doctor sees him. The doctor goes into the woods and gathers herbs, from which he prepares a potion for the sick man and then keeps a lonely vigil with him.

At the end of the third day, if the patient is not improved, the order is given to prepare a pachofsha. Corn and meat, either beef, pork or game, are put in a large kettle and stewed until the corn is soft.

All the relatives of the sick man are entitled to attend, and they gather around the kettle for the feast. The sick man is brought out and served first. He is fed as much as his stomach can hold, and the others then turn in and devour the remainder of the stew.

When this is concluded a bonfire is built and lighted, and the crowd circles around and dances to the tune of a weird chant. After this, if the sick man does not show signs of getting better, nothing more is done for him, and he dies or gets well by act of Providence.—Oklahoma Times Journal.

Profits of the Packers.

There has been a great deal of disappointment because the Garfield report shows that the profits of the packing industry only amount to about two per cent of the volume of business transacted. There is no doubt, however, that the report is correct.

The census reports compiled by the government in 1900, before the agitation regarding the "beef trust" began, throw considerable light on this question. It appears from the census that the packing industry is conducted on a smaller margin of gross profit than any other industry in America.

The gross margin of profit of $71.40 and grist mills in Illinois, in the census year, was nearly seven per cent on the volume of business. The gross margin of fifty-one wholesale slaughtering and meat packing establishments in Illinois was only about one-third as large, or a little more than two per cent on the volume of business.

The millers have not been accused of being in a "trust," and combinations would seem impossible in a business where there are several thousand mills in the United States competing actively for the four trade, but it appears that the gross profits of the millers are larger than the gross profits of the packers. It may turn out that the agitation regarding the packing industry will show the same result as the devil found in shearing the pig: "All squeal and no wool."

German Domesticity Save Money. In Germany the number of servant girls who have savings bank accounts is nearly three times as large as that of shop girls who have them.

Conviction Follows Trial

When buying loose coffee, or anything your grocer happens to have in his bin, how do you know what you are getting? Some queer stories about coffee that is sold in bulk, could be told, if the people who handle it (grocers), cared to speak out.

Could any amount of mere talk have persuaded millions of housekeepers to use Lion Coffee, the leader of all package coffees for over a quarter of a century, if they had not found it superior to all other brands in Purity, Strength, Flavor and Uniformity?

This popular success of LION COFFEE can be due only to inherent merit. There is no stronger proof of merit than continued and increasing popularity.

If the verdict of MILLIONS OF HOUSEKEEPERS does not convince you of the merits of LION COFFEE, it costs you but a trifle to buy a package. It is the easiest way to convince yourself, and to make you a PERMANENT PURCHASER.

LION COFFEE is sold only in 1 lb. sealed packages, and reaches you as pure and as good as when it left our factory.

Constipated All His Life

Wilbert Thompson never knew a well day—he had been constipated all his life—many doctors treated him, but all failed to even help him—his health failed rapidly and on January 21, 1903, Mrs. Thompson asked us to suggest a treatment for her husband. We thought the case too serious and recommended that a specialist be consulted—but he also failed to help the patient—NOW HE IS WELL.

Mull's Grape Tonic Cured Him

Mrs. Thompson first wrote us as follows: "My husband, aged 23, suffers from sharp pains in his stomach and sometimes thinks it is his heart. Let me know by return mail what causes the pain, if you can. Mr. Thompson has been treated by several doctors but they have given him up."

"We promptly advised that if it is classed as constipation, but for a bottle of Mull's Grape Tonic, because we know it will cure constipation, but for a bottle of Mull's Grape Tonic, because we know it will cure constipation, but for a bottle of Mull's Grape Tonic, because we know it will cure constipation."

"You will remember that I wrote to you last January in regard to my husband's health. It is four months since he quit taking Mull's Grape Tonic for constipation, which he suffered from since birth. He took just 24 bottles of it and is perfectly cured. He is much stronger, and has gained considerably in flesh. I cannot thank you enough for Mull's Grape Tonic. It is worth its weight in gold. Just $12 cured him and he has spent hundreds of dollars with doctors who did him no good. I did all you claimed it would."

Very respectfully yours, MRS. W. H. THOMPSON, 301 Main St., Peoria, Ill.

Mr. Thompson stopped taking Mull's Grape Tonic in June, 1903. He has been completely cured and has taken no other medicine since that date. Almost two years and no return of the disease, should prove a permanent cure.
