OAKLAND COUNTY

HUNTING LAW

SYNOPSIS OF SEELEY ACT PROHIBITING SUNDAY SPORT.

No Warrants Required for Arrest of Violators.

The Record has been requested to publish the Seeley law for the prevention of Sunday hunting in Oakland county and in compliance gives the following synopsis of the act approved April 18, 1905:

On Sunday in said county no one may hunt "with firearms, dogs or otherwise," unless by permission of the owner or lessee of the premises.

Any person found with firearms in his possession on property where he has not been accorded permission as stated, is a hunter in the eyes of the law and liable to arrest, but the complaint must be made by owner or lessee of property.

Any duly authorized officer, game and fish warden and deputies included, may arrest violators without warrant when requested by the persons specified, and on Sunday if so desired. Complaints must be made before justices of peace in jurisdiction, on a week day following arrest.

The penalty attached is a fine of a possible $25 and costs, or imprisonment in the county jail not more than thirty days, or both, as the court may determine.

A Unique R. R. Trip.

One of the most novel and delightful parties ever held here was the "trip to Portland" given the Clover Whist club and Jolly Euchre club by Mrs. C. J. Sessions and Mrs. A. W. Olde at the former's home Monday night. Twenty-two ladies participating. From the "passes" issued as invitations to the final bringing in of the prizes by the baggage man on a truck, all was strictly in keeping, even the omnibus time tables, bulletin board, "don't" signs and uniformed officials with foghorn vocal powers.

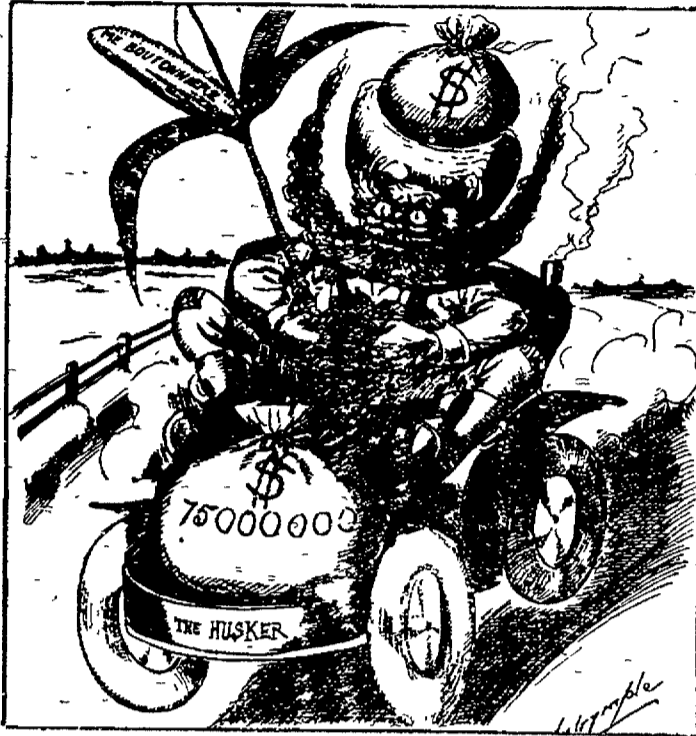

The guests were met at the door by the "conductor" with lantern and shown to the ticket office, waiting and baggage rooms. The card tables bore the names of the cities along the route, the wall by each decorated with varied and beautiful views of the same. At "Salt Lake City" a real Mormon bible was in evidence. The delicious "buffet" luncheon was put up in the cutest tourist style imaginable.

Some of the "traveling costumes" were so "recherché" as to nearly send the company into hysterics and the "baggage" was "careful and wonderful" to behold, both as to material and quantity. Two "traveling men," gotten up regardless, were so fetching as to be embarrassingly admired. To make the affair complete, even a regulation lights-out-money-r-yer-life train robbery was sprung on the unsuspecting "passengers," who were relieved of their "valuables" at the points of revolvers, in spite of wails of protest.

The prizes, pretty souvenirs railroadly appropriate, went to Mesdames May Filkins, Catherine Carrothers and Pearl Miller.

The avardups of every one present should have been considerably increased if laughing would do it.

Death of Mrs. Peter Cook.

Mrs. Peter Cook of Midland, a former resident of Northville, died Thursday night, Oct. 26, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. James Leadbeter, where she was visiting, on her 79th birthday. She is survived by two daughters and two sons. She had been a widow for some years. The funeral was held from Mrs. Leadbeter's home on Sunday afternoon, Rev. S. F. Dismock of the Baptist church conducting the services. The interment was in Rural Hill cemetery.

Presbyterian Church Notes.

(By the Pastor.)
The Ladies' Aid society met at Mrs. Horton's Wednesday afternoon. "The Birth of a Nation" will be the subject of the sermon next Sunday evening.

Baptist Church Notes.

(By a Brother.)
Public services as usual next Sunday.

The B. Y. P. U. are planning to give a "Poverty Party" soon. Time and place will be announced later.
U. V. Sillaway, an evangelist, from Grand Rapids occupied the pulpit Sunday morning and gave us a good talk.

There was a good turnout at the B. Y. P. U. business meeting at the parsonage Wednesday evening. After the business was dispensed with all enjoyed a pleasant social time for an hour or more.

Methodist Church Notes.

(By the Pastor.)
We hope the parents of children realize the importance of Sunday school work and will see that their children are attending regularly.

Dr. John Sweet, presiding elder of the Detroit district will preach in the church on Friday evening. Come and hear him. You will be much profited.

The sacrament of the Lord's supper will be administered next Sunday morning. Love Feast will begin at 9 o'clock. These important services should be well attended.

The week evening services which have been going on for the past two weeks have been well attended, and those who have attended speak of them as being very helpful.

The first-Quarterly Conference for the year will be held in the chapel on Friday evening immediately at the close of the evening service. A full attendance of the officials is requested.

Our address on Sunday evening will be to young men and women. It would give us pleasure to see a large number of such present. Come, let us give you a plain, earnest, honest, talk. Others may attend if they wish. Everyone made welcome.

A meeting for the young people will be held in the church on Saturday afternoon at 2:30. We would like to see a large number of young people present. The parents if they wish to attend will be made welcome. Gospel singing and an address by the pastor will be the program.

INDEPENDENT TELEPHONE MEETING

ONE HELD IN DETROIT ON TUESDAY

Chamber of Commerce Doesn't Favor Two Systems.

There seems to be little prospect for any new phone company to get started in Detroit to an extent that will be of any real benefit to the independent companies of the state. The people of Detroit seem to be opposed to the two phone system. On the proposition Acting President John A. Hagley of the Board of Commerce chimed in with public sentiment in Detroit in the following speech:

"My personal opinion is that it would be a serious annoyance to business men and telephone users generally to have even a duplicate of telephones. In cities such as Cleveland where more than one system is in use, confusion exists, and the simple result is that the public supports two systems when one would be better. What we want in Detroit is one efficient telephone system under proper control. In my opinion there is no real danger of the introduction of a competitive system since the people are opposed to it. If subscribers cannot be obtained, the system cannot exist, and I do not believe that a new company could get subscribers."

The Co-operative company however claim they have millions back of them and will make a success of it.

Representatives of Independent telephone companies in the state met at the Normandie hotel in Detroit Tuesday and talked over the phone situation. Notwithstanding the protest by the Chamber of Commerce against a second phone system in the city, the Independent people say they will yet have an exchange in Detroit, though it may take some time to get it.

Those in attendance from Northville were M. A. Porter and R. C. Yerkes of the Northville Telephone company and L. A. Babbitt, T. G. Richardson, Wm. Phillips and Wm. Ely of the Northville business men.

The Michigan company has offered to connect with the Northville company so that Northville subscribers can talk to Detroit, out some of the Northville company's directors and a number of the business men of the village appear to be opposed to any connection with the Michigan company under any circumstances, preferring to wait for the Independent exchange.

Suburban News.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Waltz of Waltz celebrated their 40th wedding anniversary last week. They can still "waltz" and don't polka round about it either.

A Farmington-Novl couple who were married last March have just told of it. They are sorry now they didn't March right home and own up to their August parents, as any one may.

The Fenton Independent office is still a receiving depot for prize agricultural specimens. The latest is a beet two feet in circumference. That certainly might be called a beat for the Independent.

Judging from the Record's exchanges whose editors were among the fortunate ones to take the Press trip to Dayton, Ohio, a few weeks ago, that city is a pretty good place to live in. It will be strange if it doesn't receive an influx of population within a few months from the Dayton which the visit occurred.

The Plymouth Mall, in commenting on the fact that Fowlerville has passed an ordinance with a $15 fine attached for expectorating on the sidewalks, shows that one popular corner in Plymouth would represent enough cash to run the village affairs for six months if the aforesaid amount per expect. could be collected for just one Saturday night. 'S' pity folks will be so regardless of decency.

Trouble is brewing in Pontiac. A voting contest is in progress to determine who is the most popular "paleslady" in that city. All the sales gentlemen and coal gentlemen and ice gentlemen and section gentlemen and brake gentlemen and wash ladies and scrub ladies and factory ladies and all the other ladies and gentlemen in town and out can vote, and there's bound to be somebody who knows it "wasn't fair."

Oxford has lost her infant industry in the shape of an automobile factory and an Ohio town gets it. The cause of the removal was the lack of inclination on the part of the Oxford millowners to whack up for the pecuniary capital, and a corresponding degree of willingness on the part of the Ohio ditties. The Leader made a number of remarks about it last week that required dots and dashes to express. In brief:

A Whitmore Lake woman who sued a local suburban keeper for heavy damages on account of her husband's death by drowning after falling up with said s. k.'s whiskey, lost her case last week in the circuit court at Ann Arbor. The jury decided the man wasn't worth the price she asked for him and then of course water was the cause of his death, anyway. He was probably one of the kind that who say couldn't drown.

The Hicks Almanac for 1906.

The Rev. Irl R. Hicks Almanac will not be published for 1906, but his Monthly Journal, Word and Work, has been changed into a large and costly Magazine, and it will contain his storm and weather forecasts and other astronomical features complete. The November number, now ready, contains the forecasts from January to June, 1906. The January number, ready December 20th, will contain the forecasts from July to December 1906. The price of this splendid Magazine is One-Dollar a Year. See it and you will love it. The November and January numbers containing the Rev. Irl R. Hicks forecasts for the whole year, and more complete than ever, can be had by sending at once 25 cents to WORD AND WORK PUBLISHING COMPANY, 2201 Locust St., St. Louis Mo.

CAPT. LYMAN A. YERKES.

The sudden death of Capt. Yerkes was noted in last week's Record. The funeral occurred Friday afternoon, October 27.

THE LAND OF REGRET.

There is a city whose gates are wide,
Its pavements pure and clean,
Where shadows form its side by side
On the road called "Might Have Been."
But there walk there with their heads
Bowed low,
And heavy eyelids wet
For every corner is haunted so
In this, "The Land of Regret."

They meet the ghosts of other years
In dreams of memory sweet,
And wet with passionate, frenzied tears
The graves which lie at their feet.
But ne'er, long as their lives shall last,
Can they again forget
Who once have walked with ghosts of the Past,
In this, "The Land of Regret."

THE CREW THAT SUFFERED FROM THIRST

It is sixty years since I was serving as a midshipman on board H. M. S. Xenophon in the South Seas. She was one of the finest frigates then afloat. From Callao, twelve degrees south latitude, we were ordered to proceed to San Blas, a port on the coast of Mexico, in twenty-three and one-half degrees north latitude. The distance being about 2400 miles; the passage through both trade winds as a rule occupied three weeks, and for this the Xenophon carried more than a full supply of water, so that it occurred to no one to suppose we should run short of the fluid necessary of life. We left Callao on February 16, and on the eleventh day out the Galapagos group was sighted, and we came to an anchor in Post Office Bay, Charles Island. Here we hoped to replenish our water tanks, but no water could be obtained, and we sailed without any further supply. It was from this time that our ill luck began.

For sixteen days we remained becalmed within sight of land, drifting to and fro crossing and recrossing the equator with wearying irritation. On the seventeenth day we got a glint of wind, and losing sight of the islands, hoped we were fairly off at last. But it was not to be. In two days the wind dropped again and we lay once more becalmed. Thirty-six days out, and hardly one-third of the distance done! On March 20 the order was given to stop all water for waster purposes. It was a necessity, and as such it was accepted, but when it was seen that Captain Lording had no intention of setting an example, and that his own abstinence continued daily, it is not surprising that he became unpopular. Another week passed and still we lay at the mercy of the weather, and in its meantime had a very bad day. It was on the 27th of March that all the sailors' eyes looked in vain for signs of a cooling breeze. The sails were furled, for they were only hindering themselves through the heavy sea. We slipped against the masts and began to come on deck, and glancing at the stillness yards made it clear to a mockery of being at anchor in a life port. The sun stared with ill at us from a steel blue sky and under the double awnings the watch ran liquid from the seams, drenching our feet as we walked the deck.

And in the midst of these surroundings the order was given to reduce the allowance of drinking water to one pint a day for each officer and man. This allowance was served out in one issue at noon, during the men's dinner hour. The meal consisted of salt junk, so long in bite and so hard that it could take a handsome polish on skilful hands, or of pork that shriveled in the boiling to little more than hard lard. The result of such a diet, of course, was that when their dinners were over not a drop of water remained to the poor fellows for the next twenty-four hours of burning heat. The few who tried to save some found it impossible, for they had no place in which to secure it from their improvident shipmates. In this strait the men fell back on vinegar, of which each mess had a liberal allowance, but in their trying thirst they were not satisfied merely to moisten their mouths with the strong acid; they mixed it with salt water and drank it in large quantities, and the terrible effect may be imagined as they roiled in agonies in the forecastle. With the officers, of course, it was different, although the allowance of water was the same. Their food was not so thirst provoking; they could save the precious pint, and even take it out with a little wine or beer. Mine I locked in my sea chest, and had it been the Koh-i-noor I could scarcely have valued it more highly.

But Captain Lording for himself reserved not only an unlimited supply of drinking water, but also an ample sufficiency for washing purposes. Every morning the steward used to carry the dirty, soapy water down the ladder on the way to his sanctum and every day from the marines' berth at the foot of the ladder, half a dozen or more stalwart Jews were on the lookout for his appearance. The instant he descended the vessel was dragged from him and its contents eagerly divided among the thirsty crew. The steward complained to the Captain, but nothing came of it. It was decided to make for Yostapa,

JOKE THAT BROUGHT A RAISE.

Humorlet's Night of Worry Was All Un-necessary. "The question is," said the young man, "whether the joke is on me or Jones."

"You see Jones came to me. 'I ought to have my pay raised five a week,' says he, 'but I hate to tackle the boss. How would you go about it?'"

"Why don't you write to him, saying that Mr. Jones is a deserving young man, who has done good work for the firm and ought to have his pay raised $5 a week?" says I. "Then sign it 'Lewis Jarvis' and send it in."

"By Jove, that's a great idea," says he. "I thought he'd take it as a joke, of course? But that night Jones came up to me, grinning all over."

"Well, I sent that Lewis Jarvis letter," says he. "Sent it through the mail, too."

"Say, I felt rotten. Here I'd let a young and inexperienced man like Jones get gay with the boss, and may be ruined all his prospects. I lay awake half that night, and the more I thought the more it seemed to me that it was going to be up to Willie to 'mess up and save the job for Jones."

"I didn't see Jones until noon next day. He came to me with his hand out."

"Say," says he, "the boss thinks it's the greatest ever! He's showing it to the big boss now and they're splitting their sides. And he made the raise $7.50!"—New York Sun.

ITALIANS KILL SINGING BIRDS.

Goldfinches, Bluejays and Bats Shot and Sold in the Market. The olive trees around Lucca are not nearly so old or so gnarled looking as those familiar to visitors on the Riviera, probably because owing to the proximity of the mountains, the climate in which they grow is more temperate.

There would be a great many beautiful singing birds in the groves and mountain sides around Lucca were it not for the passion which the Tuscan contadini have for la caccia—the chase. The sport they indulge in all day long is shooting at goldfinches and linnets and other little birds, all of which are sold and eaten.

In the markets at Lucca I have seen jays for sale. For my expressing a doubt as to their succulence I was assured that they were excellent—when boiled.

There is apparently no rule in Tuscany as to not shooting on the high road. Indeed on every mile or two of roadway you will probably meet at least one cazacuato with a gun upon his shoulder.

They will fire at anything even a cat. I myself saw my friend's cook, Tizio by name, shoot a cat on the high road. He said if he could only get enough of them they would make a good pie. No gods but pie and hot pie what a dinner!—Chatterbox.

Slightly Misunderstood. The haze recollections of dim impressions and people not overburdened with a fund of general information retain of things they have seen or heard or frequently read in analytic descriptions and definitions.

The little book with the 'y' and 'eys' scattered all over it was fairly suggestive of alchemy, even though it betrayed ignorance of the science of alchemy in the part of him who thus described it.

When watches were not as plentiful in Scotland as they are today a peasant who had taken a watch from the pocket of an officer who was killed during a campaign in the Highlands was mystified by the unceasing noise it made. On taking it home he told his friends that he had found a beautiful snuffbox with a fly inside.

AGRICULTURE

Green Manuring.

A discussion has started as to whether or not the turning under of green growths is to be considered a practical and profitable practice in the attempt to add to the fertility of the land. One states that the acidity resulting from this plan of fertilization is injurious to soils of certain character. Another says that green clover has two values, viz, a feeding value and a manurial value, neither of which should be lost, and he thinks both can be conserved by making the clover into hay and feeding it to cattle, the resultant manure being returned to the ground. As to the acidity it seems unlikely that where green manuring is done early in the fall much acid will be left in spring, writes A. S. Alexander in Farmers' Review.

If the manuring is done very late in fall, so that little decomposition occurs before frost locks up the soil, or if it be done in spring, so that decomposition is active soon after plowing the crop under, acid may be injurious, as claimed. It may also be stated that in certain conditions acid is beneficial and in most cases the injury from acid will be so small that the good effects of green manuring will not be seriously offset. The argument that one loses the feeding value of green manuring and that both may be perfectly saved by feeding the green growth and returning the resultant manure to the land is erroneous for the reason that the animals eating the green crop or hay made from it utilize a large quantity of its chemical constituents so that their manure does not return all of the constituents to the soil.

Clover as a green manure, gives to the soil more than it gathers from it. It grows it borrows from the air and enriches the soil with this free nitrogen, while everyone knows that its roots are rich in the same constituent. It is made into hay and fed to animals whose manure goes back to the soil, much valuable fertilizing material is lost. This however, is but one consideration, for in addition to soil nutrition green manuring has a beneficial effect in both light and clay soils. In the former it binds and increases power to absorb and hold moisture, besides increasing the supply of humus; in the latter it opens up the soil, lessens its stickiness, and assists in draining, besides adding fertility. Green manuring in our opinion is advisable in that it has the above mechanical value and at the same time helps to retard the soil impoverishment following the selling of crops and animal products.

Good Farm Machinery.

The American farmer is holding the world today because he has a vast domain of rich soil and because conditions have forced him to adopt machines to help him in his work. In some parts of the world agriculture is still dependent on hand labor and the returns from the land are small. The farm laborer is poorly paid because his is able to produce little. After all, it is what a man produces that counts, and prices gradually come to that basis. Had the American farmer refused to adopt new machines as have the farmers of some other lands, we would still be a poor nation, and the farmer would be hardly more than the peasant he is in other lands.

But the American farmer has had the genius of his race and has been forward to try every new thing. He has been so forward that the confidence man has found him an easy being to fleece, but it is better to be fleeced once in a while than to make no progress at all. Every new machine that appears on the market should be thoroughly investigated before purchase or rejection. Happily at this time we have sixty experiment stations, at each one of which are men that understand farm machinery. At some of these stations are large collections of farm machinery, and in several instances agricultural schools have courses including the study of farm machinery. Any farmer that wants information concerning a new or an old machine can get it by writing to the experiment station of his state. The experimenters are a little backward about condemning or approving machines, because they do not care to have their reports used as advertisements, but the inquirer that is playing fair can usually find out what he wants to about the quality of a machine. This is especially true of machines that have little or no merit.

The American farmer has made progress by this readiness to use farm machinery, and he will make further progress in the same way. Good farm machinery is more abundant today than ever before, and we believe that there are fewer poor machines on the market than ever before. This is a cause for congratulation on the part of the American farmer.

The permanent pasture may be made one of the most profitable pieces of land on the farm.

For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment pronounced it incurable.

Byron Milken's School Oration.

It is told of Byron Milken (brother of the late Seth E.) that, when a boy in Camden, he began a school oration thus: "To quote the immortal words of Daniel Webster, 'I am't dead yet.'"

Never can tell when you'll mash a finger or suffer a cut, bruise, burn or scald. Be prepared. Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil instantly relieves the pain - quickly cures the wound.

A man nation the old post-poned. He wore a tattered coat. He smiled a smile of grim intensity. He coughed clear throats. And warbled in an idle strain.

The Ballade of a Broom. When Susan starts a broom, A cap about her curls The broom goes fairly leaping. The dust - it falls, she cries. She thrives the broom - "The play-piece must be clean, And steadily not an atom of dirt is to be seen."

One Thing Lacking. "At the time I was wearing the garb of a school teacher, I had a grand-grand and an automobile. Now I have a car and a job. I have a car, she'll be perfect later." - At Lake Court.

Remarkable Cures Effected By Per-na.

Under date of January 10, 1927, Dr. Harman received the following letter: "My wife has been a sufferer from a complication of diseases for the past twenty-five years. Her case has baffled the skill of some of the most noted physicians. One of her worst troubles was chronic constipation of several years' standing. She was also passing through that most critical period in the life of a woman - chance of life."

Union Thanksgiving services are to be held again this year on Thanksgiving evening, November 31, in the Baptist church, with sermon by Rev. W. S. Jerome.

Mr. Ward, the purchaser of the Buchner residence, who has been occupying it for some months, moved his own household goods here from Detroit Monday.

American Jubilee Singers next Monday evening in the Opera House. Season ticket holders should be sure to take their tickets with them when going to Murdock's to get reserved seats.

An informal farewell dance was held in the rink Tuesday evening by a party of our young and middle aged people, their last chance to "trip the light fantastic" there this winter.

Mrs. W. S. Jerome gives the "Midsummer Night's Dream" at Pontiac this evening for the benefit of the Pontiac High school, with Miss Babbitt as reader and Mrs. Merritt as violinist.

Harry (Hells) and wife have moved into the Shepard house at the corner of Dunlap and Center streets and John McCully has bought the house on Yerkes street occupied by the former and has moved there.

It won't bother Northville people any to remember on what date the first snow came this year in this corner of Michigan, since it was a sort of "Halloween prank" on the part of the weather department to usher in November.

Married on Tuesday evening Oct. 31, at the home of Frank Lyon, Mr. Dean L. Milbourn of Plymouth and Mrs. Sarah Leverington Shiel of Northville. The ceremony was performed by Rev. W. G. Stephens.

A Northville young man, who belongs to the class who work hard for their money has bought two season tickets for the library course as a surprise gift to his father and mother. Such kind thoughtfulness toward parents is all too infrequent on the part of young people.

An examination of candidates to supply the vacancy on R. F. D. route No. 1 from this village, caused by the resignation of Carrier Brooks will be held on the 25th of the present month. All applications for the position must be filed with Postmaster Johnson before November 15.

The meeting of the Wayne county O. E. S. held with the local chapter last Friday afternoon and evening was very successful and well attended. Nearly 200 stars were present at the evening meeting. At the close of the afternoon meeting supper was served in Princess rink by the ladies of the Baptist church.

Will Barley has been promoted to the position of foreman of the machine shops of the D. U. R. at Rochester and transferred from Birmingham to that place.

The Starkweather stock farm has recently sold from its Holstein herd a cow to F. R. Crandall of Howell for $100 and a cow and calf to F. C. Smith of Byron, Mich. for $125.

Northville has a new business firm, Cattermole, Dart & Phillips, William Phillips having purchased an equal interest with the others in the black smithing, carriage and harness business.

President Roosevelt's opinion that foot ball is too strenuously played certainly applies to the Northville team, Greig Taft having brought home a broken nose and Geo. Dole a ditto thumb as souvenirs of the game at South Lyon Saturday.

W. L. Becker has demonstrated that sweet potatoes can be successfully raised in this latitude by growing a quantity of fine tubers of that variety which are all that can be desired in size and flavor, and are a decided credit to Mr. Becker's enterprise in gardening.

Halloween mischief in Northville this year appears to have been principally confined to very mild performances, such as the removal of front steps, tipping over lawn swings etc. The "spirits" have pretty thoroughly "caught on" to Marshal Taft's methods of "watching" out.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank S. Harmon acted as impromptu host and hostess Wednesday evening to a jolly party of about thirty of their "old crowd" who suddenly appeared at their pretty new home to remind them that November 1 was the eighteenth anniversary of their marriage. It is superfluous to say that everybody had a most enjoyable time.

Miss Pearl Johnson, who is a "Halloween girl" gave a very enjoyable "ghost party" Tuesday evening to 17 of her young friends in celebration of her 18th birthday. The house was prettily and appropriately decorated and Halloween games were the evening's program. Miss Viola McCully won the prize for guessing the identity of the greatest number of ghostly guests. The young hostess received a handsome birthday ring from her teachers and schoolmates.

All the non-attendant school children in this district except three had been rounded up by Erant Oiler Taft last week, and next week will probably see all of them properly accounted for in compliance with the law. In regard to the age limit, about which some are inclined to dispute, the phrase "from 7 to 15 inclusive" has been officially construed to mean that a child is fifteen years old until its sixteenth birthday.

A Prolific Pumpkin Seed.
 Henry Garner of Mill street has the champion pumpkin raising record so far from a single seed. He has a stock with ten pumpkins, the combined weight of which is 454 pounds, the heaviest weighing 66 and the lightest 20 pounds, making an average weight of about 45 pounds. This is certainly considerably more than the proverbial hundred fold. It would make one dizzy to think how many pounds of pie timber he might have next year from this one seed, in equal ratio.

Case of Longevity.
 A family living in the city of Tiflis, in the Caucasus, consists of five members whose combined age is 395 years. The father is 105 years, the mother is 95 and three sons are over 60.

L. L. S. Show.

The International Live Stock exposition is to be held in Chicago the week of December 16-23, instead of beginning two weeks earlier as intended. The events will take place in the sequence previously arranged. The big amphitheatre could not be finished in time for the original date.

Lyceum Theater—Detroit.

Ernest Hogan, who has appropriately been given the title of the "unbleached comedian" will be seen at this theatre next week in a musical extravaganza entitled "Eufus Lastus," with a company of six of the best colored comedians and "pretty show girls" never brought together. Catchy and popular songs will be introduced, which range from popular Southern melodies and Coon Songs to an Av-Atlantic Hogan's laugh provoking antics and his unusual ability as an exponent of coon songs is well known.

Whitney's Opera House—Detroit.

The central figure in the melodramatic hit, "After Midnight" is a unique character in stage heroics, being a plain, big-hearted young man, country bred, but polished by life and business associations in New York. The leading female role is one of sympathetic interest, a young girl, who falls into the hands of evil doers on the first visit to the metropolis. These two parts are admirably acted by Al Phillips and Alice Meredith. At the Whitney all next week, commencing Sunday afternoon. Matinees daily except Wednesday.

False Call on Bugle.

A bugle in a parison town in the south of England was all torn up and only by the sounding of the "fire alarm" on a bugle. The excitement disappeared when it was ascertained that the bugle had sounded the call in mistake for "Fall in."

SUFFERINGS UNTOLED.

A Kansas City Woman's Terrible Experience with Kidney Sickness.

Mrs. Mary Cogan, 20th st. and Cleveland ave., Kansas City, Mo., says:

"For years I was run down, weak, lame and sore. The kidney secretions were too frequent, then dropsy, and I was up to my ankles in water until they were a sight to behold. Doctors gave me up, but I began using Doan's Kidney Pills, and the remedy cured me so that I have been well ever since, and have had a fine baby, the first in five that was not prematurely born."

LAW URGED BY SELF-SEEKERS.

Real Animsus of Movement Against Remedies Deservedly Popular.

An adroit but plausible scheme by which it is hoped to prejudice the sale of proprietary medicines is the proposition to prohibit the sale of any remedy which "contains poison" unless each package or bottle is expressly labeled "poison." Such bills are also well designed to impose upon men who have no familiarity with the subject matter. The pretense of protecting the public health put forth in support of such bills is generally the merest subterfuge; and whenever you hear a demand for a law of this kind it originates with those who have a direct pecuniary interest to serve by destroying the sale of proprietary remedies.

Some of the best and most widely used remedies in the world contain some one ingredient which, if taken in sufficient quantities, might be poisonous, and yet the preparation as a whole is not poisonous at all. Opium, for instance, is used in small quantities in many of the best cures for coughs, colic, diarrhea, etc., in tooth-ache drops and in almost all liniments. To require such medicines to be falsely labeled "poison" would be merely a cunning device to alarm the public and thus bring about the destruction of the sale of those remedies, and indirectly to compel people to procure the medicine they want by the more expensive method of consulting a physician and getting his prescription. In other words, it is an effort to prevent them from getting cheaply the remedies which they and their fathers before them have used for many years.—Medical Exchange

KEEP OUT OF RUTS

NARROWMINDED PERSON NEVER IS POPULAR.

At Least Have Some Form of Diversified Interest on Which You Can Converse With a Friend—Mistakes of Some Women.

"Do you live in a rut? Women are very apt to do so, although the majority of them are loath to admit it. Narrowmindedness, which is so often a result of a life spent within contracted limits, is common to women, they say, but the accused will answer, 'Why, my life is not narrow! I have my house, or my profession, or my social circle. Do you call that living in a rut?'"

Any or all of these interests may, however, result in stagnation, mental and physically, and what is worse, conversationally. Either a woman or a man is at liberty to devote all of his or her interest to a certain object. But what about the friends of that person? One may have a sympathetic interest in a friend's occupation or in her children, or in her bridge playing, but one occasionally becomes a little wearied of a repetition, a constant recurrence to that pet subject of the innocent but shortsighted woman who harps eternally upon one subject. She devotes her mind and energies to that subject to the exclusion of all others. She dreams of it, she ponders over it, and only too readily she reverts to it so constantly that her friends at last wish themselves miles away.

A schoolgirl is apt to be blamed because her conversation is limited to her school—her friends there and her studies and pleasures, which are shadowed by the walls of the schoolhouse. But is her mother free from blame when she herself finds a continual source of conversation in her servants and her household gods? Does it interest her friends any more to discuss the children's bright sayings, to praise her waitress' neatness and her cook's superiority, than to listen to a school girl's prattle?

The society devotee is quite as apt to overdo the matter as her more domestic sister, and the woman with a profession talks "shop" entirely too much as a rule.

But she should not allow herself to dwell entirely upon one phase of life. There is plenty of interest in other people's affairs, there are gay and absorbing pictures in the vista of daily life, and every woman should watch herself carefully lest she fall into a rut of one sort or another. It is surprising to find how readily the habit is formed—more readily, of course, by women than by men, as the latter are thrown more into the world's happenings.

A woman should ever beware of making herself the central subject of her talk—her home, her profession, her health, how naturally she comes to consider them. And it is quite natural that she should. But before she burdens her friends too much with her history let her stop and wonder whether she would like to listen to her friend Mrs. X and her personal troubles or her sewing society problems for hours at a stretch.

It is not meant by this that one should not speak of or ask sympathy for one's own interests, but there is a limit to patience, and if a woman must have a "hobby" she should not expect her friends to abide it constantly too.—Philadelphia Ledger

Dividing Up the Honey-moon. Charles Felton Pidgin, the statistician of Massachusetts, is studying the question of race suicide.

"It is a wonder," Mr. Pidgin said the other day, "that we hear nothing of race suicide in Scotland. The Scotch are a prosaic people. The French, on the other hand, are as romantic as a poet. Yet it is the French and not the Scotch who are permitting the race to die out. The opposite is what we might expect for the Scotch and little of glamor, even in the honey-moon. I knew in Roxbury when I lived there a Scotch tobaccoist who got married. Meeting him a few days after the wedding I said: 'Why, don't you think you were away on your honeymoon?'"

"Well, so we are," the simple young fellow answered. "Mary is down at Cousin Tam's for a week, and I'm going to take a week when she comes back."

Twilight Hour. The sunlight on a waveless sea—The softened radiance fades slowly; The folded flower, the mist-crowned tree, Proclaim the gathering of night.

It is the hour when passion bows, A solemn stillness round us lingers; And on our wildly throbbing brows We feel the touch of angel fingers.

It is the hour when lovers fond (For love its native air is breathing) Drags with four ropes life's great eye and Gay garlands for the future weaving.

It is the hour when in far land The wanderer, tired of ceaseless roaming, Longs for the dear home enwrapped in gloaming.

It is the hour when mankind hears Amid earth's mingled means and laughter, Chords which will swell when unborn years Are buried in the great hereafter.—Undenied.

New Use for Flypaper. Iris is the poetic name of a fluffy Angola cat which has a bad habit of running away. Little Betty, who has a proprietary interest in the animal, greeted her mother the other day with startling news.

"I tried to run away," she said, "and the wath bad and wouldn't mind, and I thicked I rith to the flypaper tha the couldn't get away."

HEALTHY CHILDREN.

Without good health life is not worth living. Sickly, peevish children are a source of endless trouble and anxiety to their parents, yet the children's condition is frequently due to their parents' ignorance or thoughtlessness, or both.

To make children healthy and to keep them in that condition it is necessary to feed them proper food and to see that they get plenty of exercise and fresh air. Meat is very bad for children. It should be avoided and food rich in phosphates, such as Pillsbury's Vitos, should be given in its place.

This food is truly the "meat of the wheat" it is made by the world's greatest millers and is free from artificial coloring or adulteration. It is not especially a child's food. Your whole family will enjoy this common sense cereal. It makes a wholesome, substantial breakfast or an appetizing dessert and can be prepared in one hundred different ways.

Every good grocer will supply you with Pillsbury's Vitos. Large packages—enough to make twelve pounds of strength-building food 15c. Ask your grocer about it to-day.

ECZEMA FOR TWO YEARS.

Little Girl's Awful Suffering With Terrible, Skin Humors—Sleepless Nights for Mother—Speedy Cure by Cuticura.

"My little girl had been suffering for two years from eczema, and during that time I could not get a night's sleep, as her ailment was very severe. I had tried so many remedies, deriving no benefit, I had given up all hope. But as a last resort I was persuaded to try Cuticura, and one box of the Ointment and two bottles of the Soap, together with the Soap of Regal, a permanent cure.—Mrs. I. B. Jones, Addington, Ind. 7"

OPERATIONS AVOIDED

Two Grateful Letters from Women Who Avoided Serious Operations.—Many Women Suffering from Like Conditions Will Be Interested.

When a physician tells a woman suffering from ovarian or womb trouble, that an operation is necessary it, of course, frightens her.

The very thought of the operating table and the knife strikes terror to her heart. As one woman expressed it, when told by her physician that she must undergo an operation, she felt that her death knell had sounded.

Our hospitals are full of women who are there for ovarian or womb operations!

It is quite true that these troubles may reach a stage where an operation is the only resource; but such cases are much rarer than is generally supposed, because a great many women have been cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound after the doctors had said an operation must be performed.

In fact, up to the point where the knife must be used to secure instant relief, this medicine is certain to help.

The strongest and most grateful statements possible to make come from women who, by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, have escaped serious operations.

Margrite Ryan, Treasurer of St. Andrew's Society, Hotel English, Indianapolis, Ind., writes of her cure as follows:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham— I cannot find words to express my thanks for the good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did for me. The doctor said I could not get well unless I had an operation for ovarian and female troubles. I knew I could not stand the strain of an operation and made up my mind I would be an invalid for life.

Ask Mrs. Pinkham's Advice—A Woman Best Understands a Woman's Ills.

Margret Merkley of 275 3d Street, Milwaukee, Wis., writes:

Hearing how Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had saved other women from serious operations I decided to try it, and in less than four months I was entirely cured; and would fail to express my thankfulness.

Dear Mrs. Pinkham— Loss of strength, extreme nervousness, severe shooting pains through the pelvic organs, cramps, bearing down pains, and extreme irritation compelled me to seek medical advice. The doctor, after making an examination, said that I had ovarian trouble and ulceration, and advised an operation as my only hope. To this I strongly objected—and decided as a last resort to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

To my surprise the ulceration healed, all the bad symptoms disappeared, and I am once again strong, vigorous and well, and I cannot express my thanks for what it has done for me.

Ovarian and womb troubles are steadily on the increase among women—and before submitting to an operation every woman should try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and write Mrs. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass. for advice.

For thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been curing the worst forms of female complaints, all ovarian troubles, inflammation, ulceration, falling and displacement of the womb, leucorrhoea, irregularities, indigestion and nervous prostration. Any woman who could read the many grateful letters on file in Mrs. Pinkham's office would be convinced of the efficiency of her advice and Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.
