The National Policy.

In our reflections and comments concerning the wonderful production; of wealth on the farms of the I nited States during the year just closed. reaching totals never touched before in the history of divilization, it is well to keep in mind that much of the value of the product of the farm is derived from the ability of the American consumer, to pay good prices. Ninety eight per centrof the products of American farms are sold to the farmers' American neighbors and fellow citizens, and his interest in their continued ability to buy is almost as great as in bla own ability to produce. When there is work in the mill and in the factory and down in the mine at better wages than are paid in May other country the products of the American farm can be sold at profitable prices. The luterests of all the producers of our country are allied, and all are united or should be in the preservation of a national which has materially assisted in making all tids pros perity põssible

Sabers for the Savages.

It appears that the discarded milltary sabers of Europe find their way to Germany. Thence they are distributed all over the world-to the savage tribes of Africa, to Arabian rebels in Yenem, even to Russian révolutionists. One German firm bought in one-lot 20,000 condemned French sabers.

UNCONSCIOUS POISONING.

How It Often Happens From Coffee.

"I had no idea," writes a Duluth man, "that it was the coffee I had been drinking all my life that was responsible for the headaches which were growing upon me, for the dyspepsia that no medicines would relieve and for the acute nervousness which unfitted me not only for work but also for the most ordinary social functions.

"But at last the truth dawned upon me I forthwith bade the harmful beverage a prompt farewell, ordered in some Postum and began to use it The good effects of the new food drink were apparent within a very few days. My headaches grew less frequent, and decreased in violence, my stomach grew strong and able to digest my food without distress of any kind. my nervousness has gone and I am able to enjoy life with my neighborz and sleep soundly o' nights. physical strength and nerve power have increased so much that I can de double the work I used to do, and feel no undue fatigue afterwards.

"This improvement set in just as soon as the old coffee poison had so worked out of my system as to allow the food elements in the Postum to get a hold to build me, up again. I cheerfully testify that it was Postum and Postom alone that did all this, for when I began to drink it I threw physic to the dogs." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

There's a reason. Read the famous little book "The Road to Wellville" in Early Hatching.

We endervor to mate up our breeding pens the first of January, and we believe that it is safe as a rule-to save eggs for hatching in four weeks Now if you have artificial heat in your laying house, or if you live in a cli-mate where the eggs will not chill you are in position to save eggs for hatching and should reasonably expect good results. At this season of the year it is hard to get setting hens, so the incubator comes into play for early hatching. I think it the best, as you can put it into a room in your house and operate it there, while it would be difficult to operate the sitting hen in one of your rooms. Now by the time the incubator hatches usually the severe cold weather has gone, and if you have a good grade of a brooder you can raise the young chicks very nicely. Place the brooder in a protected shed or outbuilding, so that the wind will not strike it directly, and then be very particular to keep the brooder well cleaned and ventilated, with temperature at about ninety as near as you can run it, and you will have no cause for complaint if the chicks are properly fed and watered. The first week feed them four or five times a day what they will eat up clean each time, so that when you come to feed next time they appear hungry and glad to see you.

For winter layers we much prefer the March and April hatched chicks, as they are fully developed and have the age, so that when winter comes they are ready for business, and when provided with a warm living house and rustling place, they do business in good shape; while with a later hatch-you may force the growth and size, but you have not got the age or vitality back of the egg machine to tun it successfully. Of course they will lay eggs, but not with the March and April batches

Now as to setting hens in cold weather: We use what we call a set ting box or nest. It is movable, so that we can place it wherever we think will best suit according to weather. These nests are 18 inches square, a dull heavy pain across my loins, and 18 inches high on back and six inches high in front with a hinged door to each nest. We build four nests together in this way. We cut the lumber six feet. We line the nests with several thicknesses of paper, and then fill most full of oats chaff. We also put in nests a few cigar stubs or about two ounces of strong smoking tobacco and this keeps the lice off, so you have no trouble with them Now as to the number of eggs we place under a her in cold weather, we would not put more than thirteen under a common sized bird of the Amerclass, and in waimer weather say fifteen. Take them all off to feed at the same time and if cold weather cover the eggs with some warm wool en cloth so they will not become chilled while biday is off eating with grit and water. We think the corn helps in keeping up biddy's heat for the eggs Don't let them stay off over ten minutes if cold or chilly, and ot over fifteen minutes any time, un less it is in warm weather in sum mer. In this way one can feed half a Jozen or a dozen hens as easily as he can one, providing they ran together before you set them, as they will not fight much, but if they did not run together before they will spend a good deal of the time at first finding out who is boss of the crowd. We prefer the incubator to do the batchng, but like to have hens ready to take them when the hatch comes off. as we think it less trouble in this manner, if you have a 100-size incubator, four hens will usually take care of all that you will get out of something about his ill luck and shab- a hatch and in this way you save the bother of watching and cleaning the cleaning the brooder.-J. C. Bergen, Humboldt Co, Iowa, in Farmers' Re-

> The Old Hen as a Brooder. First and last we will not be able to find any better brooder than the old hen. It is true that she will now and then step on a chick, but she never has to regulate her temperature. There is no danger of her brooder getting so hot that the chicks will be roasted or so cold that they will be chilled. Nature has, after all, adjusted things better than man-can do. The temperature of the body of the old hen regu lates itself and the thermometer is a useless instrument in the enterprises of which the hen is the center.

Th wheat-crop has run very near to th 100,000,000 bushel limit that was look ed upon as too sanguine an estimate only a short time ago, and the area that has been broken to fall wheat for the coming harvest will go a long way towards enabling the farmers of the West to overlap on the 100,000,000 bushel estimate next year. Fear for Earth's Water Supply.

A shrinkage in the world's water supply is predicted by M. Martel, the rench explorer of caves. Through the erosion and corrosion of the earth's surface, he says, the water level is being continually lowered, and, unless measures for preventing this are adopted, a large part of the world will, a few centuries hence, die of thirst.

Co.—printed on the front or every package. They know that in cases of colds and he ideches attended by binousness and consultation and of weakness or torpidity of the liver and bowels, an sing from irregular labits, in digestion, or over-eating, that there is no other remedy so pleasant, prompt and beneficial in its effects as

Syrup of Figs, and they are glid to sell it tecanse it gives universal satisfaction Owing to the excellence of Syrup of Figs, the universal satisfaction which is gives and the immense demand for it. imitations have been made, tried and condemned, but there are individual druggists to be found, here and there, who do not maintain the dignity and principles of the profession and whose greed gets the better of their judgment, and who do not hesitate to recommend and try to sell the imitation, in order to make a larger profit. Such preparations sometimes have the name—" Syrup of Figs —or "Fig Syrup" and of some pinatical concern, or fictitious fig sytup company, printed on the package, but they never have the full name of the Company—California Fig Sytup Co.—printed on the front of the package. The imitations should be rejected because they are injurious to the system. In order to sell the imitations. they find it necessary to resort to misrepresentation or deception and whenever a dealer passes off on a customer a preparation under the name of Syrup of Figs" or "Fig Syrup," which does not bear the full name of the California Fig Syrup Co. printed on the faint of the package, he is attempting to deceive and mislead the patron who has been so unfortunate as to enter his establishment, whether it be large or small, for if the dealer resorts to misrepresentation and and deception in one case he will do so with other, medie ral agents and in the filling of physicians' prescriptions, and should be avoided by every one who values health and happiness. Knowing that the great majority of drucgists are tehanle, we supply the immense demand for our excellent remedy entirely through the druggists, of whom it may be purchased everywhere, in original packages only, at the regular price of fifty cents per bottle, but as exceptions exist it is necessary to inform the public of the facts, in order that all may decline or letura any imitation which may be sold to them If it does not bear the full name of the Company-California Fig Syrup Co-printed on the front of every package do not hesitate to return the article and to demand the return of your money, and in inture go to one of the better class of druggists who will sell you what you wish and the best of everything in his line at reasonable prices
