WILL ANOTHER GOOD APPOINTMENT

D. M. FERRY JR. ON STATE BOARD

To Do with Business End of Normal Schools.

The appointment of Dexter M. Ferry Jr., of Detroit to the state board of education in place of E. C. M. resigned, which was announced last Thursday, Governor Ford was carrying out the policy which he commented upon in this paper a few weeks ago, of appointing business positions on the management of state institutions men of high business capacity, whether or not they have been politically prominent. Mr. Hinman was the Little Creek manufacturer appointed to fill vacancy a few months ago. He has resigned at the demand of his private business. Mr. Ferry's appointment is for one year, election of his successor occurring next November. The board has the business control of all of the normal schools. Mr. Ferry is one of Detroit's best known business men, though less than thirty years of age. He is actively interested in the big Ferry feed house as well as the National Lin Co besides a dozen or more other of Detroit's important industries.

WANT BENION TO RUN

Pressure Being Brought to Make Him Register.

So much pressure has been brought to bear on Cass Benton that his friends believe it is almost certain that he will run for register. Orrin C. Gulley is getting ready to run for a third term, but he has moved from the county to the city, and the country line has been changed and had this office. Benton has demonstrated that he is one of the strongest vote-getters in the townships, and his friends figure that he will be stronger than ever now. —Detroit News.

It has been figured out that no man in all of Wayne county's history has ever sought a third term nomination for register of deeds and friends of Mr. Gulley say it is not at all sure he will break the established precedent.

Death of Well Known Editor.

J. F. Cullen, a well known at times and newspaper man who was editor and publisher of the Wayne Review, died last week after an illness of several years. Mrs. Cullen, who has pluckily carried on the publication of the Review since her husband was unable to do so, has the sincere sympathy of the newspaper fraternity in her affliction.

Better hitch on a rope ladder. A big rise is predicted in iron beds and steel springs. —Minneapolis Journal.

IS PREPARING ENROLLMENT BOOKS

SECY OF STATE PRESCOTT GETTING 'EM READY

To Be Used at the Spring Election for First Time.

The secret of state is now preparing the enrollment of voters of the various parties, to be made under direction of the registration officers at the spring election on the first Monday of April. These will be supplied to the several county clerks as provided by the law, in time for their distribution to the various polling places, and it is essential to any practical operation of the primary election method in our state, that voters shall generally enroll themselves. Those who fail to do so will cease to be voters for any of the purposes of this primary election, unless incapacitated by sickness or absence, in which case, as in the ordinary registration they will be entitled to have their names entered on election day, in June.

This is the "on year" when no state officers are to be chosen at the spring election, and the interests to call out the voters would be less than on the odd-numbered years. But there is another interest which should operate at this time to increase the attendance at the polls; we are to vote this spring upon the question of calling a convention to revise the constitution, under Act 326 of the last session.

The Ladies Aid have a few comfortable seats at the store of Mrs. J. Price that they wish to dispose of. Those wishing the same will find it to their advantage to enquire concerning them.

The pastor's Sunday school class last Sunday numbered the smallest of all the classes. We did not know that our young people had such a strong objection to a little water. They lost, however, the study of a beautiful lesson.

Presbyterian Church Notes.

(By the Pastor.)

Eight of our S. D. Circle young ladies visited the Pontiac circle on Friday evening last, and had a delightful time.

The sermon on "Lessons from the Life of Benjamin Franklin" announced for last Sunday, will be given next Sunday evening.

Mrs. Wheeler, Mrs. Jerome, Mrs. Benton and Mrs. Babbitt attended the meeting of the Presbyterian Ladies' missionary society in Detroit last week.

The stereopticon entertainment given by Rev. John B. Clark of Detroit on Tuesday evening was largely attended and all were pleased with the fine pictures of California scenery.

Send me your name, address and the amount of stock you hold in the Banner Oil and Gas company.

AS IT LOOK NOW

Situation as Regards Clerk, Treasurer and Register.

Louis Himes will have no opposition for the Republican nomination for county clerk, his friends say, though some democratic candidate may try. Conclusions with him by way of advertisement. Forbes Robertson is even less likely to have opposition for county treasurer. It is not even probable that he will have a democratic rival.

The office of register of deeds will precipitate a war. It was an objective point two years ago for candidates of all kinds. It is believed, however, that F. C. Sulman, who two years ago cut quite a figure, will be out of the reckoning this year.

Suburban News.

A chicken pox epidemic is the present affliction at Ann Arbor. It is no use quarantining the patients for they invariably break out.

A Detroit man has invented a combination of salt and pepper shaker. It is certainly a reasonable invention whether practical or not. See it.

Wayne has one roller skating rink and the people like that so well they want another. Wheels on the ice may get to be almost as numerous as wheels in the street.

A Washtenaw county woman has a man in her hen that lays two eggs every other day with unfailing regularity. The little fowl has evidently made some enormous calculations.

The Michigan correspondent of the Carlton Times enthusiastically describes a progressive party held in the first mentioned town the previous Sunday night. The month of that town must be a quiet one, it is said.

Some one would say that he had been in the land of the living and the dead. He would not say that he had been in the land of the living and the dead. He would not say that he had been in the land of the living and the dead.

John, who is a well known actor, is in the city. He is a well known actor, is in the city. He is a well known actor, is in the city. He is a well known actor, is in the city.

One of the most interesting of the soap makers is in the city. He is a well known actor, is in the city. He is a well known actor, is in the city. He is a well known actor, is in the city.

A woman in one of the Plymouth factories was knocked nearly across the room one day last week by a cake of soap she was using on a butter flying on at a tangent and giving her a big in the neighborhood of the solar plexus. It is not often one hears of soap having such an effect on a man who is using it right along or of an accident soap peculiar.

Whitney's Opera House—Detroit.

"The Great Jewel Mystery" will be the offering at the Whitney for one week, commencing Jan. 28, afternoon. The piece has been constructed to fit the Russell Bros., whose inimitable female characterization are well known. There are complications hard to solve but two Irishmen disguised as females (the Russell Bros.) clear up the mystery and all ends happily.

Matinees daily, except Wednesday.

Lyceum Theater—Detroit.

The chief interest in the performance of "Me, Him and I" next week's attraction at the Lyceum, which starts Sunday evening, Jan. 28, centers in the three comedians, Sullivan, Watson and Whitelaw, who manage to furnish a continuous round of fun.

There is plenty of variety. The music is catchy, the chorus handsomely costumed, and there is always something doing. There is a spiciness in parts of the production not seen in every musical comedy, and more than casual enjoyment in the songs of the nations.

Matinees Wednesday and Saturday.

Castles for Sale

Former Homes of the Aristocracy of France Offered in Open Market.

(Special Correspondence)

Castles in Spain are probably the cheapest in the world, for a person with a sanguine temperament and a little imagination may build them at any time. In this respect they have an advantage over the chateaux of France shown in the illustration.

But some of these French chateaux are wonderfully cheap—are, indeed, almost in the class of abandoned fairs. Castles on the Rhine used to be within the reach of moderate fortunes, but they have greatly increased in price lately. In the same way there has been an increase in the price of Italian palaces.

Neither the Rhine castles nor the Italian palaces are so numerous as the chateaux of France. There were many of them built many years ago, some of them dating from the days of Louis XIII.

That these places should be purchased at small prices is due to the centralization in the life of France which has taken so many of the population to the cities. Young men in the families that owned these houses in the past had usually enough to live on and possibly maintain the chateau in a meager fashion, that was a strange contrast to its early grandeur.

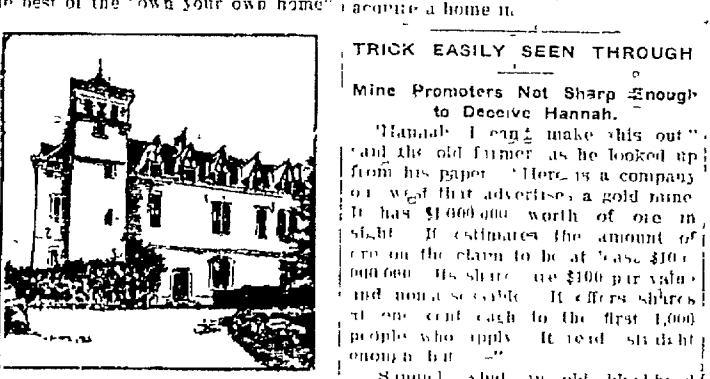

Sometimes a wealthy marriage helped the owner to hold on to the chateau. These conditions all existed until the time came when these places were offered for sale.

This was the result of the feeling among young Frenchmen that it was not beneath their dignity to work. Nowadays men of the oldest families are anxious to make a name and a fortune just as if they had not a long line of titled ancestors behind them.

Heirs Are at Work

They enter all professions. They are lawyers, engineers, architects and so on. These professions take them to Paris if they do not lead them far beyond the borders of their own country.

Such houses as those shown in the pictures are little more expensive than the best of the town your own home.

Chateau De Villandry.

It was offered for sale when New York's noble pile with the shipping room known as the Chateau de Villandry was built for $28,000. It was built toward the close of the sixteenth century and is included as a very pure specimen of that period.

The wings of the house are of a beautiful court of honor. There are ornamental gardens in the French and English style, with a long and wide landscape garden toward the close of the last century.

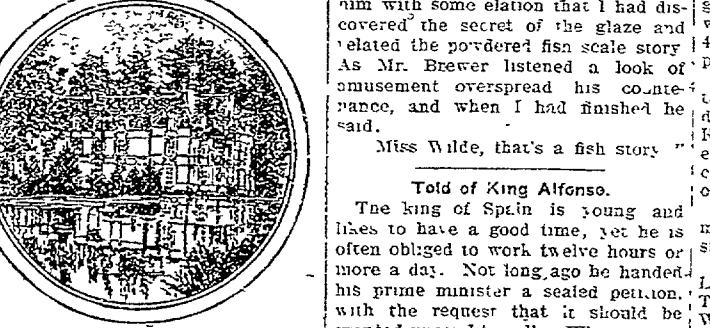

A lake lies in the woods of the large park surrounding the house and there are conservatories, terraces in the front of the chateau and several islands in the lake. One that belongs to the property.

Older still is the chateau near Dijon which was put up in the days of Louis XIII and is called a perfect specimen of the architecture of that period, having undergone no alterations or changes in any other style since it was first built. There is a court of honor, and the lake as the picture shows, stretches almost to the windows in one wing of the house.

Just as It Was Built

The principal building is two and a half stories high and is accounted remarkable both in original beauty and in its present state of preservation.

There are kitchen and fruit gardens, conservatories and a very old chapel.

Louis XIII. Castle.

antedating even the building of the main house. The park was laid out by the famous Le Notre.

Built in Sixteenth Century.

The Chateau de Farguette stands near a place famous in medieval days. The castle is medieval in architecture, having been built in the sixteenth century. It is in good preservation, however, and has been occupied until recently, when it was put on the market. The cost of this house and its twenty acres is but $18,000.

The severe and forbidding architecture of the house is proof of its antiquity, although that would not endear it to many persons who seek for more beauty in a home. To those who want a castle that not only is really old but also looks old the unadorned exterior would not be repellent.

For $30,000 there is a beautiful chateau in the style of Louis XIV, that possesses a park of twenty acres and a facade of stone columns from one end of the house to the other. There are also beautiful woods and architectural gardens attached to it.

Another chateau, that looks as big as a railroad station, can be bought for $22,000, although it was put up in 1760 by one of the most noted architects of his day. Then there are six acres of wild and ornamental ground about the house.

Another chateau more modern but beautiful can be had for $22,000 along with its twelve acres. It has existed for about a century and a half ago received the name of Le Chateau des Perriers because of its rather ecclesiastical aspect. The Seine runs at the foot of the lawn and the views from the windows stretch through the valley to Paris.

There are many other chateaux of the same kind offered for sale, but these are typical and show that next to Spain France is an easy country to acquire a home in.

THE PRIMARY LAW.

THE HOLDEN-CHANDLER SYNOPSIS OF THE ACT SHOWING HOW IT OPERATES.

This law, passed by the last legislature, changes materially the system of mode of appointing officers. It provides for party enrollment the first Monday of April, 1906, and every two years thereafter, and for two primary elections, the second Tuesday of June and first Tuesday of September, 1906, and every two years thereafter. To vote at these primaries one must be enrolled on party roll. A person may enroll on primary day if sick or unavoidably absent from precinct enrollment day, or if majority is attained after enrollment day.

Under the provisions of the act, nominations for city, county, legislative and congressional officers and governor or lieutenant governor may be made by direct vote at the primary election. Other officers must be nominated under the old convention system.

At the June primary, 1906, the question of how governor and lieutenant governor shall be nominated is determined by majority vote of the enrolled voters of each party. At the same primary the voters vote direct for their choice for party nominees for 1906, for these two officers. If the direct nomination idea receives a majority of all the votes cast by any party, then the candidates receiving a plurality of and at least 40 per cent of all the votes cast by the enrolled voters of said party shall be the nominees of said party. Otherwise the nominations of governor and lieutenant governor shall be made at state convention, as are the other state officers.

At this same primary the delegates are elected (by direct vote) to the county conventions to be held for the purpose of electing delegates to the state conventions. It is at this primary that the question of direct nomination of any officer is submitted to the enrolled voters.

That the question of direct nomination of city, county, legislative or congressional officers may be submitted at the June primary a petition for the same is required. Said petition must contain the signature of as many enrolled voters as equal 20 per cent of all the votes cast for said party's candidate for governor at last preceding election in said city, county or district. The petition must be presented to the city or county clerk or secretary of state, as the case may be, thirty days before the June primary.

The primary for nominating all county or district officers by direct vote was a law previously directed at a June primary to so nominate shall be held on the first Tuesday of September, 1906, and every two years thereafter. The primary to nominate city officers by direct vote shall be held the second Tuesday preceding the election of the same.

To secure the printing on the party roll of the name of a candidate for any office where no nomination is to be held, the direct vote candidate must place on a (blue-inked) envelope a copy of a card, and file it with the clerk of said party roll for said county or district. The card shall be equal to 2 per cent of the total party vote for governor in the last election in said county or district of state. It also shall be equal to two of them (county) the petition must have 2 per cent in each county. Petitions must be at least five days before the primary.

Nomination on papers for a candidate for a public office is held in a card of nomination, and in said card, county clerk or secretary of state.

NORTHVILLE.

The City in Brief.

Dr. T. S. Murdock is on the gain this week.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Kinyon, Jan. 21, a boy.

Mrs. Chas. Lorenz is recovering from a week's illness.

Geo. Van Sickle has been having a taste with rheumatism.

Mrs. Phoebe Devan, mother of Mrs. Henry Garfield, is very ill.

Ray Richardson is out again after an illness of two or three weeks.

Special meeting of District Chapter No. 71 O. E. S. this Friday evening at 7:30.

A handsome new flag 6 1/2 by 11 feet floats over the Northville school building.

Harry Van Aken and family will soon remove to Northville—South Lyon Road.

Mrs. E. Vradenburg has been quite ill with grip this week, but is now getting better.

Mr. and Mrs. Will G. Yerkes entertained a party of friends at dinner Tuesday evening.

John Lanning is serving on special jury in Detroit in a property condemnation suit.

Supt. S. W. Wilkinson of the electric light plant has been on the sick list back now on the mend.

Christian Science service Sunday morning in Library Hall, Subject: "Spirit". All are cordially invited.

We direct special attention to the advertisement of the Receiver's sale of Mabley & Co. bankrupts, Detroit.

Dr. Henry performed an operation on Norton Green last week for the removal of an abscess in his throat. He is getting along nicely.

Mark Seeley of Farmington who some time ago bought the house occupied by Dr. Turner and family, will move there April first.

George Hodge has sold his farm in Redford township to Mr. Ashton of Plymouth, Real Estate Agent Charles Becker negotiating the sale.

Mrs. Phila Hamilton has been suffering for the past week or two with another severe attack of neuralgia and will be obliged to undergo another operation for it.

And the robins, too, got fooled by the January summer interlude, at least it is reported that some have been seen flying around over in Oak land county during the last few days.

The ladies of the Aid society of the Presbyterian church are planning to give a reception at the pastor's home on Monday evening, Feb. 5, which promises to be a very enjoyable affair.

Mrs. Charles Parmenter has filed notice with the council of a claim for damages on account of alleged injuries received by a fall on a defective sidewalk near the Dunham place on Rouge avenue last November.

A howling team from the Wabash Cement works of Detroit came out Monday night and howled with the Northville business men's team consisting of C. A. Sessions, Jake Kimmel, Wash. Hill, E. A. Merritt, and Dr. P. B. Carruthers. The local team came out victorious in three straight games. Dr. Carruthers made the highest score—21. A return game was played last night in Detroit.

Mrs. Ira Power of Farmington, who has many relatives and friends here, met with a painful accident last week at the home of G. C. Nichols in North Farmington. Thinking she was entering a bedroom door she stepped into the cellarway door beside it, and fell into the cellar, breaking both her wrists. It is said the close proximity of the two doors in question has caused four or five similar accidents previously.

The local ice situation is rather discouraging so far to the dealers as well as the lovers of Northville-made ice cream. Not a cake of the necessary congealed aqua has as yet been secured here. The recent thaw carried out all the ice in the Yerkes pond owing to the big rush of water allowed, but six or eight inches of the old ice still remains in the Ambler pond, ready for Jack Frost to begin on when February starts in—as usual—to make up for the shortcomings of January. The Record predicts cold weather enough to make an ice crop yet.

The Michigan Shipper Co. now occupy their new factory in the building at the rear of the Cattermole

Mrs. Edgar Shafer who has been confined to her bed as the result of an operation is able to be about the house again.

Northville was not lucky in the drawing of circuit court jurors for the February term, not a name from here appearing in the list.

Michigan has once more demonstrated her climatic capabilities with the past week. From a temperature of nearly 10 on Sunday the freezing point was reached by Tuesday morning. In one hour Monday afternoon the mercury dropped 12 degrees. Great old climatic but Michigan's all right just the same.

James D. McParlane, formerly of this place, met with a peculiar accident recently in his store at Santa Cruz, California. He was standing near a heavy stepladder upon which a clerk was climbing when the whole outfit fell over, striking McParlane on the head and crushing him into a large show case, bruising and cutting him badly although not inflicting any serious injuries.

On Monday, Jan. 22, the first birthday of Mrs. L. W. Hutton was celebrated at the home of her daughter, Mrs. James Smith, all the family being present except C. A. Hutton and family of Flint. Guests from Detroit were also present. The house was tastefully decorated, the colorscheme being pink and green. A beautiful 6 o'clock dinner was served, many congratulations and good wishes given Mrs. Hutton and a very pleasant time enjoyed by all.

A Baked Soul.

A boy who had been working in a lather shop for some time was just about to finish his work. One night when the boss was out, he noticed the man's slab he noticed his leaves on. So he went to the work cart and took another slab, but he was not on as was back to work. A grave yard and as it was very dark, he jumped over and pulled up a small headstone about the right size and took it back and finished his job. The next day, after the bread had been delivered, nearly all of it was sent back. The baker looked at it and broke several leaves open, but found nothing wrong. Then he happened to turn one of the leaves over and found on the under side of every leaf the inscription:

Here lies the body of Mrs. — Born A. D. 1862, and A. D. 1740 — Lippincott.

Science of Bell Ringing.

It was Sunday morning, and the bell-ringer had just finished the chimes that called the godly to church. "Bell ringing is a science. Did you know that?" he said. "It is called campanology, and there are abstruse and technical terms in it, like 'Kent treble bob', 'Stedman cinques', 'double cour bob', 'doges', 'noils' and 'sungsos'. Each of these terms defines a certain phase or kind of bell-ringing. In England there is a society, the Central Council of Bellringers, that every campanologist desires ardently to be long to."

Maybe you think bell-ringing is simple? Do you know what a peal is? A peal in ringers' parlance, is a series of 5000 changes rung upon a chime, no change occurring more than once.

Battle of Bennington

The battle of Bennington was fought about four miles from Bennington, Vt., on a hill that rises near the New York state line. Here, Aug. 26, 1781, the British General Burgoyne's army of 1000 men was defeated by the American army of 1500 men.

CHAPTER VIII—Continued.

"If they were worth so much to you, I suppose they can't be worth any less to the G. S.," I replied.

"Fortunately, there is no way that he can learn where they are," said Mr. Cullen.

"Don't let's stand still," cried Miss Cullen. "Mr. Gordon, I'll run you a race to the end of the platform." She said this only after getting a big lead, and she got there about eight inches ahead of me, which pleased her very much. "I shall men so long to get started," was the way she explained her victory. There she walked on beyond the end of the boarding to explain the workings of a switch to her. That it was only a pretense she pretended to me the moment I had reached the bar, she said.

"Mr. Gordon, may I ask you a question?"

"Certainly," I asserted.

"It is one I should ask, para or Fred, but I am afraid they might not tell me the truth. You will, won't you?" she begged very earnestly.

"I will," I promised.

"Surprising," she continued, "that it became known that you have those letters? Would it do you side any harm?"

I thought for a moment and then shook my head. "No new proxies could arrive here in time for the election," I said, "and the ones I have will not be voted."

She smiled doubtfully, and asked, "Then why did I hear say just now 'Torture'?"

"He never meant that I was after they should know."

"Then I is better to keep it a secret?" she asked anxiously.

"I suppose so," I said, and then added, "Why should you be afraid of asking your father?"

"Because he might well, if he knew I was so, would sacrifice himself and I couldn't run the risk."

"I am not a doctor, but I don't understand it," I said.

"I don't know," she said, and then added, "I don't know."

geod temper, and when he told me that I couldn't help retorting:

"That's quite on a par with most G. S. methods."

"I'm not speaking for the G. S. young man," roared Mr. Camp. "I speak as a director of the Kansas & Arizona. What is more, I will have those letters inside of twenty-four hours."

He made an angry exit, and I said to Fred, I wish you would stroll about and spy out the proceedings of the Phoenix camp. He was telegraphing to Washington, and I tried to get a chance of the Phoenix or General's camp. He said I must go back to the station on No. 4 this afternoon.

"He shant do anything that I don't know about till he goes to bed," Fred promised. "But now the clock did not say that you had those letters?"

That was just what we were at, parading over, for only the occupants of 218 and myself, so far as I knew, were in a position to let Mr. Camp hear of that fact.

As Fred made his exit he said, "Don't tell Madge that there is a new complication, for the dear girl has had worries enough already."

Miss Cullen not rejoining us, and Lord Raltes presently doing so, I went to my own car, for he and I were not good furniture for the same room. Before I had been there long Fred came rushing in.

"Camp and Baldwin have been in consultation with a lawyer," he said, "and now the three have just boarded these cars, pointing out the window at the branch line train that was to leave for Phoenix in two minutes."

"You must go with them," I urged, "and let us know what they are going to do for the law. Ever since they got the letters on it, and the G. S. has always been the Phoenix's enemy, so they'll stick to it as long as they can."

"Have I time to fill a bag?"

"Phoebus," I answered him, and so I went out. I ordered the train to stop at the station, and I went out.

"What does it all mean?" asked Mr. Cullen, coming in.

I laughed, and replied, "I'm doing a better thing than you party did, I'm holding up a train of my own."

"But my brother said that in a moment," said he, and was starting for Phoenix.

"Let him go," I said to the conductor, and I went out.

I hope some thing was going to happen, but I don't know.

"Nothing," I said, and then added, "I don't know."

telligible, but if the Phoenix operator had been talking over the phone to me he couldn't have said any plainer: "Sheriff Javapat county ash forks Arizona be at rail road station three forty five today to meet train arriving from Phoenix prepared to immediately serve peremptory mandamus issued to night by judge Wilson sign-theodore e camp."

Mr. question being pretty thoroughly answered, I went back and continued my walk; but before five minutes had passed, the operator came out, and handed me a message. It was from Fred, and read thus:

"Camp, Baldwin, and lawyer went at once to house of Judge Wilson, where they stayed an hour. They then returned with judge to station, and after dispatching a telegram have taken seats in train for Ash Forks, leaving here at three twenty-five. I shall remain with them."

A bigger idiot than I could have understood the move. I was to be handed before Judge Wilson by means of a mandamus proceedings, and, as we were notoriously a G. S. judge, and was coming to Ash Forks solely to oblige Mr. Camp he would unquestionably declare the letters the property of Mr. Camp and over their delivery.

Apparently I had my choice of being a traitor to Madge, of going to Phoenix, or of going to Ash Forks.

I thought for a moment and then shook my head. "No new proxies could arrive here in time for the election," I said, "and the ones I have will not be voted."

She smiled doubtfully, and asked, "Then why did I hear say just now 'Torture'?"

"He never meant that I was after they should know."

"Then I is better to keep it a secret?" she asked anxiously.

"I suppose so," I said, and then added, "Why should you be afraid of asking your father?"

"Because he might well, if he knew I was so, would sacrifice himself and I couldn't run the risk."

"I am not a doctor, but I don't understand it," I said.

"I don't know," she said, and then added, "I don't know."

TRACED TO EMPEROR TIBERIUS.

Originator of Remark About "Forty-Fool and Physician."

It would appear that the Emperor Tiberius was the originator of that well known saying: "Every man at forty is either a fool or a physician." But Tiberius said thirty, not forty, so Bacon informs us in his "History of Life and Death."

Tiberius, though a drunkard and luxurious in his diet, was yet very careful of his diet and used to say that every one after thirty was either a fool or a physician."

Probably Bacon's authority was Tacitus ("Annals," book VI, chapter 46), who says of Tiberius that "He was wont to make sport of the physicians; and of people who after thirty needed others to tell them what was good or bad for them." In Tacitus, of course, the epigrammatic flavor is lost.

But why has popular usage altered the age from thirty to forty? Simply on account of the alteration so carping to the popular ear. De Quincey, who quotes the modern phrase in his "Opium-Eater" dwells upon its alliterative value, and conjectures that our forefathers emphasized that alteration by smothering physician with an F. Likely, some of them did. The strange thing is that De Quincey seems to have been ignorant of the fact that the craze for alliteration had gone so far as to change the age in the proverb—Pern Stegle in The Sunday Magazine.

Possessed of a Devil.

In a small town in one of the southern states a very good old minister of one of the churches of the town was presented with a pair of new breeches.

His old ones were not quite worn out, so the new ones were hung in an unfinished chamber to wear on state occasions. The occasion came, and the preacher donned his breeches, which in the meantime had been the abode of several hornets.

He entered the pulpit and began his three hour sermon. His "firstly" was a little uneasy, his "secondly" showed signs of a coming storm, his thirdly was a regular cake walk and before his "fourthly" was finished he said: "Brethren, I am awfully sorry but I can't finish this sermon. You'll have to excuse me. The word of God is in my mouth, but the devils in these breeches."—Washington Times.

Slow Horses.

It was during mess hour at a saw-mill camp that the slowness of horses came up for discussion.

Thomas Kelly's old gray, you couldn't whip her into a trot," said one.

"Johnson's black mare will beat that, she refuses to help herself to the halter at night for most times she isn't through eating her dinner," said another.

Old Waters' spindle-bank takes the prize," put in a third. "She don't loiter in the arena, she walks both ways at once."

I stood out on the road," droned the speaker, "until she was for his dinner for twenty times before he got to Myers, and all that time she has more never stopped." San Francisco Chronicle.

Odd Bequests in Wills.

Among the wills of early days are found bequests which are amusing in the light of the modern will.

In 1618 the widow of John Granger of Scituate, Mass., in her will gave to her son John a saw a broad axe and a yellow axe when he is 21 years of age."
