LEGISLATURE FOR BENTON

WILL SEEK SECOND TERM IN THE LEGISLATURE.

Comes Out for Townsend for U. S. Senator.

Representative Cass Benton of this place announces he is a candidate for re-nomination to the state Legislature from this district which he very ably represented in the session of 1905.

Mr. Benton has withdrawn from the race for Register of Deeds and will seek the re-nomination for Representative in the State Legislature on the platform of his past record and that of L. Townsend for the U. S. Senator.

In speaking of his candidacy, Mr. Benton in a straight forward manner says:

"In announcing my candidacy for re-nomination on the republican ticket for representative in the state legislature, I want to say to the people of the third district of Wayne that I have no personal axes to grind nor selfish interests to promote."

"I believe that the people of Michigan as a whole are in favor of the nomination of United States senators by a direct vote and I also believe that if it were possible for that to be done this year Charles E. Townsend of Jackson, would be the choice by a very large majority."

"I believe the people of the third district of Wayne county, could they have a direct vote on the question, would be practically unanimous for Mr. Townsend."

"I also believe that President Roosevelt, in whom he lent such loyal and telling support in the last session of congress, would like to see Mr. Townsend in the senate."

"Believing this and recognizing the fact that the third district is practically wholly in Mr. Townsend's congressional district, I should feel ready in my duty and loyalty toward my people did I not seek re-nomination to the state legislature at this time."

"In conclusion let me say that beyond endeavoring to faithfully and diligently look after the interests of this district as I have in the past, I shall be for Congressman Charles E. Townsend for the United States senate and in behalf of that gentleman's candidacy and my own past record. I ask the voters of the third representative district of Wayne county for their support."

THREE CANDIDATES

Three Republicans Want to Be Representative.

Besides Cass Benton of this place, John McMullen of Taylor township and Jas. Viles of Canton have filed applications for places on the ticket for Representative in the State Legislature.

'Novi Farmers' Club in Northville.

The annual picnic of the Novi Farmers club was held Wednesday at the hospitable home of Mr and Mrs. N. A. Clapp on north Center street. The attendance was good considering the intensely hot day, between forty and fifty being present including several guests from this place and Farmington.

Following the beautiful dinner, which was served out on the lawn and consisted of almost all the good things imaginable in the culinary line a program of music, recitations and interesting discussions was given and a picture of the gathering was taken by Photographer Ball.

Children Taught to Smoke.

In the seventeenth century children at Worcester, Eng. took their pipes and tobacco to school, where the master taught them "how to hold their pipes and draw in their tobacco."

Currency of Long Ago.

In Russia the earliest currency known was the whole-skins, with claws and teeth intact, of squirrels, martens and other fur-bearing animals. Cloth money was also a medium of trade exchange among some of the Slav races. Among the Carthaginians, Spartans and Romans leather sometimes used as a form of Death of Wm. D. Withington.

William D. Withington, a former well known resident of this village died August 16, at the home of his daughter, Mrs. M. M. Smith, in Toledo after a long and painful illness.

He was 72 years of age and was a veteran of the civil war and a member of Fairbanks Post G. A. R. of Detroit.

Mr. Withington was an earnest christian and a man who held the highest respect of all who knew him. He was for many years a valued employe of the Page Fence Co. of Adrian, holding the responsible position of District Manager for that concern for a long time.

The funeral services were held on Friday, with interment in his family lot at Quincy on Saturday. The bereaved family have the sincere sympathy of many friends in Northville.

Pontiac Blue Ribbon Meet.

The Pontiac Blue Ribbon races have been dated for next week, Aug. 28-31 inclusive and as usual will be worth attending. There are to be three races each day, with purses aggregating $6,000. Reduced rates have been secured on all railroads to the track at the fair grounds in excellent condition and everything favorable for a first class meet.

Primary Elections.

The Northville township primary election for the nomination of Republican Congressman from this Second district will be held in the village hall on Tuesday, September 11 next, from 7 a. m. to 5 p. m. Only enrolled voters may vote at this election.

On the 17th of September the primary election for the nomination of county officers, Representatives and State Senators for all parties will be held in the same place from 8 a. m. to 8:30 p. m. at which all qualified electors may vote whether enrolled or not.

To Whom It May Concern.

This is to certify that my wife, Elizabeth (formerly the Widow Wild), is too wild to be steered by my compass, but one of her own making, and as she has the devil for her pilot she has altered her course and steered away from me, so that I will pay no debts of her contracting after this date.—Richard Jenkins.—Clyde (N. BAR PLACED ON SPECULATION.

Necessities of Life Under Protection in France.

What is popularly known in the United States as "cornering" such commercial commodities as are termed necessities of life is a criminal offence in France, and has been since 1793, with varying forms of penalties.

The law applies to all who destroy or permit to perish any merchandise of prime necessity, whether it is the property of the offender or not. Among the articles thus protected are grain, bread, meat, wine, vegetables, fruit, butter, coal, wood and others, but not tobacco as that is a government monopoly.

The law also prohibits manipulations tending to bring about an advance or fall in price not warranted by supply and demand.

The punishment is by both fine and imprisonment, and the offender has his factory or business establishment placed under police supervision at his own expense for from two to five years.

There is no more trouble in handling corporations that are offenders than individuals. Every director and employe in a managerial capacity are held equally responsible. For a second offence the penalty is so severe that it would result in the extermination of almost any establishment.

TO NOMINATE CHARLIE TOWNSEND

SECOND DIST. PRIMARIES TO BE HELD SEPT. 4.

Will Probably Be Only Candidate On Ticket.

The attention of the enrolled republican voters of this second district of Wayne county is called to the primary election to be held on September 4 all day, for the nomination of congressman.

The fact that Hon. Charles E. Townsend will be the only man on the ticket should not deter his friends from making it a point to give him the compliment of a full vote, as his record in the service of the state in that capacity entitles him to all the honors in this line.

His constituency has every reason to be proud of him and should not neglect to give him the hearty endorsement he so fully deserves.

Methodist Church Notes.

By the Pastor: The official board will meet on Monday evening next in the Chapel of the church at 7 o'clock for the transaction of business. A full attendance desired.

The Ladies' Aid will hold a birthday jubilee party at the home of Mrs. James Savage on Monday afternoon next. The ladies are planning for a pleasant time. A business session will also be held.

We very much appreciated the confidence and good wishes of the members of the quarterly conference, which called forth the resolution that was carried unanimously requesting our return for another year.

Brigadier Blanche B. Cox in command of the Salvation Army of Michigan and Indiana will occupy the pulpit next Sunday morning and evening. All who can should not fail to hear this noted woman speak. Obliging ushers at the door.

Presbyterian Church Notes.

By the Pastor: Union service Sunday evening in the Methodist church.

The usual services will be resumed next Sunday at 10:30 a. m. The morning sermon will be on "Simon and Satan." Sunday school at 11:45. It is hoped that all who possibly can will be present.

Baptist Church Notes.

Mr. Gladstone's Cigarette.

"I never knew him to smoke but once, and that on the occasion of the prince of Wales dining with him in Downing street," says Sir Algernon West of Mr. Gladstone in an article in the Cornhill Magazine. "With an old-fashioned courtliness, wishing to place his royal guest at his ease, he smoked a cigarette, which gave him more pain than pleasure; indeed, he hated the smell of tobacco."

Law was just a little too much for medicine at Pontiac the other day, the M. D. of that city being defeated at a ball game 15 to 14. Evidently the art of legal healing is held superior to that of physical healing at the Oakland county capital.

Another of Oakland county's "well preserved" is James Watking of Oxford who did a job of ridding our last week in spite of the fact that there have been 80 out burrs since he became a dweller on this mundane sphere. Some of the younger men who think they can get along with out all the latest machinery, should make an out of this.

A cup of "ing" dollars" from Detroit in a new kind of rag collecting over at 3 p. m. last week. While one of the interesting pair engaged the attention of the house-walk at the front of the residence the other was behind the house gathering the family washing from the line. It is hoped that the others who are after the pair will line them up and loathe in on them very soon.

Ring a dinner bell is not usually considered a very perilous occupation but the Birmingham Eccentric tells of a man in that vicinity who has a fractured skull as the result of performing that act. The bell tumbled on top of his head, cracked it—the head and inflicted a bad scalp wound. He is unable to decide whether he "rung off" too soon or not soon enough.

Lyceum Theater—Detroit.

Wm. B. Gray's beautiful play, "The Volunteer Organist" will be at the Lyceum for one week, commencing August 26. The play is an idyll in its way. The story is simple, blended with genuine comedy and exceptional pathos. The theme is the reclaiming of a fallen man and the love plot concerns this man's daughter, her persecutions and trials. Among the special features are many beautiful solos, the Trinity church choir boys and the introduction of two handsome St. Bernard dogs in a live saving act. Matinees Wednesday and Saturday.

Whitney's Opera House—Detroit.

"Uncle Tom's Cabin" will be at the Whitney for one week, commencing August 26. This is one of the oldest plays extant and it is doubtful if any other drama has been presented as many times upon an American stage. It is under the direction of Al. W. Martin, who has provided a large and adequate scenic outfit and a strong company. Matinees daily except Wednesday.

PENINSULAR HAPPENINGS

THE TAX COMMISSION'S VALUES BEFORE THE BOARD OF EQUALIZATION.

EACH COUNTY GETS RAISE

Commission Raised Values Millions and the Equalizers Will Have Some Strenuous Work

Here Are the Figures

After working until 3 o'clock Tuesday morning the state tax commission completed its estimated valuations of the properties of the state, which were presented to the state board of equalization in the forenoon. The tax commission acts in an advisory capacity, but it looks as if the board of equalization is inclined to accept the advice in addition to the figures submitted, the tax commission will recommend at what the various counties shall be equalized.

Every county in the state is given a boost in the estimated valuations. Wayne county is up $30,000,000 and the recommendations of the tax commission are accepted, will bear 20 per cent of the state tax, compared with 18.82 per cent at present. Other notable increases in valuation are:

Kent, $25,000,000; Houghton, $17,000,000; Marquette, $9,600,000; Gogebic, $6,000,000; Montcalm, $5,000,000; Senawee, $12,000,000; Berrien, $12,000,000.

The total valuation of state property is placed at $1,921,568,000. This is an increase of about $300,000,000, the valuation as equalized by the boards of supervisors being $1,565,011,750.

The following table shows the commission's valuation of the state by counties:

Nashville will hold a two-day harvest festival, August 31 and September 1.

Farmers report the watermelon and cantaloupe crops will be short, due to dry weather.

John R. Gordon and John Garvin and Wm. McFarlane, of Ontonagon will cut 50,000 acres of pine in New Mexico the coming winter.

Coming home week will be celebrated August 27 to September 1, in Eaton Rapids. Gov. Warner and Gov. Cummins, of Iowa will attend.

Chies is threatened with an ice famine. Wurz Bros., the only dealers, say their supply is nearly exhausted and that they are unable to buy a pound elsewhere.

No trace of the bodies of Guy Warner and Ella Squires, who were supposed to have been drowned at Reid's lake Thursday night, has yet been found. The belief that perhaps they have eloped is gaining ground. The lake was dragged all day, but without result.

AROUND THE STATE

After Many Years.

James Jordan, who, in 1850, at 23 years of age, left Atlas for the gold fields of California, has returned to end his days in the little town where he was reared. Like Rip Van Winkle, he finds everything strange.

Traveling by stage and rail from Atlas to New York, he secured passage on a ship bound for Nicaragua, whence he went across the isthmus on the back of a mule, suffering untold hardship and privation. He encountered many savage beasts and, as he describes it, even more savage men, many of whom had been driven mad from illness due to the fever-infested swamps.

He reached California by ship on the Pacific, only to find conditions vastly different from what he expected in the New Eldorado. Scores were dying from hunger and disease and desperate men, gathered there from all quarters of the globe, made human life a cheap thing. He saw the work of the vigilantes bring order out of chaos and he finally secured work as a miner in time getting enough ahead to start out as a prospector on his own hook. He soon found himself possessed of a fortune, which is now, however, gone.

All these 56 years he has remained in California. He had little idea of the changes time had worked back in Michigan when he left his home, was surrounded by dense forests and the Indians were his neighbors. Now the land is all cleared and beautiful homes take the place of the wigwams. It is all strange to him.

Morphined Himself

Despondent over a quarrel with his sweetheart, John Ripley, of Olivet, purchased a bottle of morphine and, driving away from the annual farmers' picnic, went to the town pump and consumed the entire contents in spite of the crowd that witnessed the act. He started to drive away in his buggy but was stopped and medical aid summoned. Physicians made every effort to save his life, but he died about two hours later.

Ripley, who was about 18 years old, and who worked for Lewis Day, several miles west of town, came to the picnic at Elme Lake in company with Laura Hinkley. The couple became involved in some altercation and the young lady started to walk home, about seven miles distant. Slung by her side the young man swallowed the poison and ended his life.

Caught the Three

Armed to the teeth with shotguns, pitchforks and shingles, 200 citizens of Bellaire furnished three suspicious characters, thinking they were the Alpa postoffice robbers, could recover enough to speak. It was learned that one was an umbrella vender, one an escaped lunatic from the Traverse City asylum and the last Clarence Holmstedt, of Mayfield, wanted by local officers on a disorderly charge.

The umbrella vender is released, the crazy man taken in charge by an attendant and Holmstedt brought to the jail at Bellaire. He had not yet recovered from the spite of having shotguns almost poked down his throat.

Planned Murder.

Later developments indicate that Thomas Roach, who suicided in Jackson, had actually planned to kill his wife and himself and that the act was part of one of sudden passion.

He was so ill that a doctor advised his wife his name and he got the advice of a friend to make a will a few days ago, before he died. His personal property is various friends, and making the will the beneficiary of life insurance policy for $50,000, deposited his will.

Mrs. Roach, who seems to be recovering, although the bullet in her head may yet cause trouble. Her physician has given her a respite.

Heavy Losses.

The storm knocked thousands of cords of peaches and other fruit from heavily laden trees in Oceana county.

A Sully seven houses were struck by lightning. The barn contents and two horses of H. Sauers were burned. The Congregational church steeple was struck and wrecked and every independent telephone in the village was burned out.

The loss in Shelby is $5,000. Roebury, Meats, Pentwater and other towns suffered.

Vicious Colts.

Benjamin Laracy aged 12 years, living just outside of Kawakawa, was attacked by two colts which teed off them. They kicked him badly, fracturing two ribs and breaking an arm. His mother went to help him and they both attacked her, jumping upon her and seriously injuring her internally. Mother and son may both die.

At Husband's Bier.

Mrs. Thomas Roach, of Jackson, whose husband attempted to murder her and then committed suicide, grieves deeply over him, and had her father consented would have had his funeral at her home. Although suffering from a bullet in her head, she came down town to see her husband's remains at the undertaker's. Later developments show that Roach had planned the crime for many weeks.

Wm. Brower aged 17, of Holland, was killed by lightning while working in the barn on his father's farm. His mother, seeing the barn in flames, rescued the body.

Quincy mine workers resume work, after being on strike for three weeks, at wages offered by the company.

The Fourth Michigan Cavalry's reunion will be held in Fowlerville September 12. This regiment was commanded by Gen. Benj. D. Pritchard and engaged the enemy 97 times. Its most notable exploit was the capture of Jeff Davis.

By an order modifying a decree of divorce granted four years ago, Mrs. Carrie M. Newman, of Detroit, obtains the custody of her 12-year-old daughter. The father, James E. Newman, of Flint, must pay $150 per week for the support of the child.

Ovid School House Burned.

The Ovid public school building was destroyed by fire of mysterious origin last night. The loss is $25,000, with $11,000 insurance. School is not in session and the building was deserted, as far as is known. No other cause is advanced than incendiarism. It is not known in what part of the building the fire started, as when it was discovered the whole interior was ablaze.

Killed by a Hunter.

Near Lathrop, Sunday, Guy Harlow, of that town, was shot and killed by Joseph Sheedo, a homesteader, in mistake for a deer. Sheedo confessed to the killing, which was purely accidental and will be arrested as soon as the sheriff arrives on the scene.

The maximum penalty on conviction under a special statute covering these cases, is 10 years.

Ex-Gov. Bliss' condition is improving, after a relapse early in the week. His physician predicts that if he with stands the summer's heat he will regain his health when cool weather comes.

Resigning as lieutenant of the navy of Norway, Johannes Schlotz became a chauffeur at Bridgeport, Conn., and thus met May Esther Bedford, daughter of a Standard Oil Co. director. Now they are engaged with the consent of Miss Bedford's parents.

THE MARKETS.

Detroit.—The live stock market was specially noteworthy for a heavy run of sheep and lambs and a moderate run in other departments. In the cattle yards the trade was active and choice heavy grades were a trifle higher. Shipping cattle and bulls brought steady prices. There was an active demand for stockers and feeders and they brought full steady prices. Choice heavy common cow and calf grades of milk cows sold strong to $3 per head higher, $55 being paid for good ones. Common grades were dull and no higher.

Sleep.—The sheep and lamb trade opened with last week's prices being paid, but it became apparent that the run would be large. Prices took a slump and early in the day were from 50c to 75c lower than at the opening. At the close they had recovered to the very best. Buck lambs are selling 10c.

Hogs.—The hog trade was very unsettled. The market was very active and prices were high. One dealer bought a few at $20, and another paid $25 for a few at $20. The general market was from 25c to 30c lower than last week and very dull.

Chicago.—Common to prime steers $12.00; cows $12.00; heifers $12.00; bulls $12.00; calves $12.00; stockers and feeders $12.00; pigs $12.00; hams $12.00; shoulders $12.00; ribs $12.00; lard $12.00; tallow $12.00; hides $12.00; skins $12.00; wool $12.00; tallow $12.00; hides $12.00; skins $12.00; wool $12.00.

Grain, Etc.—Wheat No. 1 $1.00; No. 2 $1.00; No. 3 $1.00; No. 4 $1.00; No. 5 $1.00; No. 6 $1.00; No. 7 $1.00; No. 8 $1.00; No. 9 $1.00; No. 10 $1.00; No. 11 $1.00; No. 12 $1.00; No. 13 $1.00; No. 14 $1.00; No. 15 $1.00; No. 16 $1.00; No. 17 $1.00; No. 18 $1.00; No. 19 $1.00; No. 20 $1.00.

The Scenes of Horror.

Refugees from Valparaiso report that 500 are dead in that city and the loss in surrounding cities is likely to bring the total up to 1,000. The monetary loss in Valparaiso will reach into the tens of millions, possibly $100,000,000 or more. In Santiago the death list will not exceed 20.

Other cities partly destroyed are Vina del Mar, three miles from Valparaiso, population over 10,000; Quilhue, 225 miles southward, population 2,500; Limache, 15 miles northwest, population 6,500, where 17 perished; Quilota, 15 miles northwest, population 10,000, with 30 dead, and at Petorca, where 11 perished.

A telephone message from Vina del Mar says that the portion of that town that the Royal hotel and the custom house is not seriously damaged but that the rest of Vina del Mar is almost totally destroyed.

A great deal of damage has been done at the mines in the Nogalés and Calera districts. A number of houses have fallen at Talca, 50 persons were killed there and 150 were wounded. At Melipilla it is believed that all the houses will have to be pulled down, and at Salvador and Santa Turnino a number of public buildings will have to be razed. At Lillaloi 70 houses fell. A number of small villages in the Teremote district were totally destroyed.

President Riesco has dispatched saying that the majority of the houses in the Amagada district have collapsed, as did a hill between Valparaiso and Vina del Mar, destroying a railroad communication between those two places.

The Volcano Woun has become very active and threatens Valparaiso. The earthquake caused great damage throughout the Andean region. It is probable that there has been considerable loss of life and destruction of property at remote points which have not yet been heard from. All of Chile was apparently affected by the shocks as well as numerous points in Argentina in the vicinity of the Andes.

When the earthquake shook Santiago the prisoners in the penitentiary began striking blows. There was no loss of life, but at Valparaiso the prison walls fell and crushed 140 prisoners to death.

Carlos Edwards proprietor of the Mercurio of Valparaiso, arrived at Santiago on horseback and confirming the reports that the Alameda quarter and the principal avenue of Valparaiso have been transformed into heaps of ruins. When he left the city, the inhabitants were wandering about looking for relatives and friends.

The administration building of the Victoria theater had disappeared even to its foundations and none of the masonry to be seen on the hillside.

In place of the dissolution of the water was in fact a deluge of mud which was blown on Grand avenue and Alameda square. The military ambulances were gathering up the wounded and dead.

When Mr. Edwards left it was impossible to determine the number of persons killed, but according to his estimate the number of lives lost was comparatively small when the extent of the catastrophe was taken into consideration. At the depot he saw 50 bodies as being unrecognizable to the officers.

The free use of dynamite was very effective against the progress of the fire at Valparaiso. The firemen were thoroughly exhausted when the flames were finally subdued. Hundreds of people took refuge on the ships in the harbor.

Most of the damage was due to fire which started immediately after the first shock. The whole population is sleeping in the halls, the parks or on the streets. Food is very scarce. Milk costs two Chilean dollars a liter and it is almost impossible to obtain meat. The nights are very cold and windy, and the people sleeping in the open are suffering greatly.

Two Were Killed.

Michael J. Moriarty, former city treasurer of Muskegon, and Pietro Algonzo, an Italian laborer, were instantly killed by a gas explosion at the Union Carbide Co's plant at Sault Ste. Marie. The building was wrecked. The explosion is supposed to have been caused by water coming in contact with carbide in the packing room.

Moriarty was prominent in local politics. He had been in charge of the packing room but a few hours.

Mrs. Fred S. Sanger fell head first into a Detroit well on her husband's farm near St. Johns and stuck in the mud. She was hauled out feet first and was recovered.

Isaac Cicego machinist of Cheboygan, was nursed through several weeks' illness at Mercy hospital, Bay City and given employment; then, it is charged, he stole two watches from a patient and a nurse who attended him. He was arrested.

Kansas wheat crop is estimated at 31,387,676 bushels, 41 per cent more than the 1904 yield.

Samuel M. Hendricks, 59 years and 4 months old, has joined the Los Angeles Bricklayers' union so that he could do some journeyman work. One of his five children, a girl, was born four years ago.

Man wants but little here below, but that "little" is a "little more."

In the valleys of the Grand Gunnison, North Fork and Roaring Fork Rivers and in the San Luis and Uncompahgre Valleys, of Colorado, and the Farmington district of New Mexico, farming, stockraising and fruit growing are carried on in a way that is a revelation to the farmer in the east. For those who desire to make new homes, there is no other region that offers better advantages than western Colorado—a land of blue skies and sunshine, with a temperate and even climate, where the erstwhile desert needs but to be tilled and watered in order to verify "blossom as the rose." Several illustrated publications, giving valuable information in regard to the agricultural, horticultural and live stock interests of this great western section, have been prepared by the DENVER & RIO GRANDE RAILROAD, and can be obtained by addressing S.K. THE SHOW OF THE STATE.

A VIEW OF THE STATE FAIR GROUNDS AND ITS EQUIPMENT.

MICHIGAN'S GREATEST FAIR WILL SOON OPEN.

A visit to the grounds on which will be held the Michigan State Fair of 1906 and an inspection of the many new buildings recently erected for exhibition purposes impressed one with the marvelous progress of the Michigan State Agricultural Society, which had its origin in the pioneer days of the commonwealth.

Earlier Days.
In the earlier years it was the custom of the society to locate the yearly fair in a city, somewhat remote from where the fair was held the year previous, believing that in this way alone would these expositions of improved stock and agricultural products be brought nearer the greatest number of people. Lack of transportation and great expense made it difficult for farmers to travel long distances.

Fair of 1905.
When the dates for the 1905 fair came about the buildings were few and incomplete. Little had been accomplished in the way of grading and beautifying the grounds.

Transformation.
But the State Fair grounds of today are far different from those which the visitors at previous exhibitions of the Michigan State Agricultural Society have known.

SURPRISED OLD MAN HYNES.

President's Message Unlike Anything He Had Ever Heard.

Davy," said the old man Hynes to his young nephew, the other morning, they say the president has sent a special message to congress, and it's in the papers this morning.

"Lord save me, but I never heard a president's message start out that way before!" gasped the old man.

"But they can start most any old way, can't they?" replied Davy, and he went on to read:

"During the year 3,264,657 acres of the public domain have been given over to the railroads, and you will save money by patronizing Brown's shoe store. Great bargains in shop-worn goods. Come to the red front store."

"By gum, Davy, but does the message read that way?" exclaimed the old man.

"You can read for yourself and see."

"I never heard of a president puffing a shoe store before, but maybe I'm getting behind the age. Go on."

"There are 17,452 survivors of the Mexican war, all of whom are on the pension rolls, and Parker & Taylor have just received another lot of those colored shirts at 75 cents. They are the equal of any one dollar shirt bought elsewhere."

"Hold on, Davy—Stop right there! You needn't read another word of that special message. I've had enough."

NORTHVILLE.

The City in Brief.

Roy Sackett has gone to Detroit to work.

Louise Hurton and wife have moved back to Detroit.

Services as usual in the Presbyterian church Sunday morning.

Fred Wilkinson has bought the Clarkson property on Cady street.

The Ladies' Library looks very neat in its new covering of white paint.

The W. R. C. resumed its regular semi-monthly meetings Wednesday evening.

Harry Taft has been suffering with a bad abscess on his face the past two weeks.

The regular monthly board meeting of the Library association occurs next week Saturday, Sept. 1.

Mrs. Fred Tousey entertained Saturday afternoon for her sister, Mrs. Stevens of Spokane, Wash.

A cow belonging to Charles Yerkes was struck by lightning during the terrific electric storm Friday night.

No one disputes the fact that there has been a hot time in the old town part of last week and this.

The stores were closed Wednesday from eight o'clock a. m. to six p. m. on account of the tri-Sunday school picnic.

Gorton, the clothier, has put in a large stock of boys clothing and is offering inducements in this week's issue.

Catholic services will be held in their house, corner of Dunlap and Center streets, at 7:30 standard time, Sunday.

Mrs. D. M. Hurry scalded herself quite severely Wednesday by spilling some hot water which she was carrying.

Chas. Bristol had the unpleasant experience while in Detroit Wednesday of seeing a man drop dead on the street from heat prostration.

The work of installing the machinery at the Stimpson Scale company's plant is being rapidly pushed and the factory will soon be in operation full goes well.

The problem of a cool wave given us by the weather man early in the week helped out a good deal even though the wave was delayed in transit.

The Pere Marquette Sunday excursions to Detroit continue to be very popular, judging from the crowds that went from Northville and other points last Sunday.

The famous "Fighting Fifth" Michigan cavalry holds its annual reunion at Awosso next Friday. Northville members of the regiment still living are Capt. P. K. Simonds, Andrew Houk, L. K. Starkweather and Henry M. White.

Mr. Barnhart of Grand Rapids has bought the old Randolph place on Wing street, adjoining the Library property and is repairing the house, which will be rented when completed. Part of the building has been torn away and the remainder will be thoroughly renovated and put in habitable shape.

No many folks wanted to go on the Sunday school picnic excursion Wednesday that the four cars engaged for the trip were entirely inadequate even when crowded to the limit and another load of passengers had to wait for an extra car later. At least 500 people took advantage of the occasion.

Hives, eczema, itch or salt rheum sets you crazy. Can't bear the touch of your clothing. Doan's Ointment cures the most obstinate cases. Why suffer. All druggists sell it.

Le tans for the following persons are advertised at the postoffice this week:

- C. G. Kester
- Mrs. E. Green.
- Mrs. Alice Byington.

"The Sherrids" by George Barr McCutcheon has been added to the Ladies' library this week.

Twenty-five tickets were sold here for the excursion to the Agricultural College at Lansing Monday.

H. A. DesAutelle and family have moved to Detroit this week, greatly to the regret of their many friends here.

Dr. and Mrs. T. B. Henry entertained at cards one evening last week for Mr. and Mrs. Henry Fry of Detroit.

T. G. Richardson is painting and otherwise re-modelling the house which he recently purchased on Randolph street.

Christian Science service Sunday morning at 10 o'clock at 70 Center street. Subject: "Man". All are cordially invited.

Mr. and Mrs. John Colquhoun left last Friday for Gowaston, Ont., where they will make their home near their children.

W. F. Stimpson of the Scale Co. has rented the Mrs. Blackwood house on Main street and will move his family there from Milan.

The circuit court jury department evidently wanted to have plenty of good men for the September term as Northville was drawn on for five of them.

A number of Northville lovers of speedy horses are expecting to attend the Blue Ribbon races at Pontiac next week, August 28, 29, 30, and 31.

The following from the Fenton Independent shows that a former Northville pastor is not alone successful as one of the "Flabers of men". Rev. G. M. Thrasher of Wilhamston holds the record for catching fish at Long Lake having caught 480 in three weeks.

Pastor Shank was, at Wednesday's quarterly conference, Aug. 15, by rising vote, unanimously invited to return to St. Ignace for another year, with the privilege of three months' leave of absence in which time he is to travel in the Holy Land and Europe. He expects to spend March, April and May abroad—St. Ignace News.

Justice Joslin is receiving general commendation for his policy in regard to the management of the many petty cases that are brought before him. Great expense is saved not only to the county but to the litigants themselves by the settlement of their differences whenever possible instead of bringing them to trial.

At a meeting held last week in the parlor of the Methodist church, presided over by the presiding elder of the Detroit district, a unanimous request was made for the return of the pastor, Rev. W. G. Stephens, for another year. The Presiding Elder was requested to make known the wishes of the church at the annual conference which is to take place on the 20th of September.

The demand for houses is stimulating property-owners to a great deal of renovating, repairing and re-adding. But complaint is made that rent prices are being raised to a restrictive degree. This is a condition that should be avoided for the good of the town, as it might either lead to a building boom that would leave present renters in the lurch or bring about the same result by driving the factory people to rent in near-by towns and get to their work by the electric lines.

Can't look well, eat well or feel well with impure blood feeding your body. Keep the blood pure with Burdock Blood Bitters. Eat simply, take exercise, keep clean and you will have long life.

Northville's G. A. R. and W. R. C. were invited to join in the annual picnic today at Fenton of those orders in that place, Milford and Holly.

B. G. Filkins has purchased the handsome Yarnall house on Dunlap street of Dr. Claude Burgess and the family will occupy it in the near future.

Rob't. L. Lanning, Wm. Gardner, Cell McCullough, Jarvis Palmer and G. W. Hills have all been drawn to serve on the September panel of the circuit court in Detroit.

The work of repapering the Ladies' Library is now in progress, the job having been let to Ed Wood as the result of a special board meeting called Saturday to consider the bids submitted for the work.

The Northville Record was thirty seven years old last week and shows no symptoms of "old age"—Plymouth Mail.

Thanks, I like ladies of that age the Record doesn't even object to new wrinkles, however.

About the Bell Foundry and the Scale works a busy scene is enacted these days. The foundation for the new addition for the foundry is completed and the Argo Mill is being torn down to make room for the extensions.

A barn on Sumner Power's farm was struck by lightning and burned during Friday evening's severe thunderstorm. The building was full of hay and grain belonging to the tenant of the farm. The loss is mostly covered by insurance.

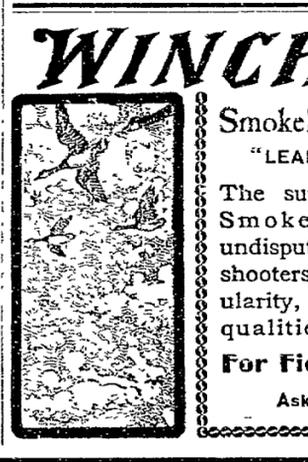

Chicken-thieves have invaded Northville even. Friday night Mrs. F. N. Perrin's chicken coop was raided and several fowls abstracted but the owner heard the noise and raised an alarm which caused the invaders to drop the chickens and "skiddoo".

Announcements have been received here of the wedding of Miss Gertrude May McCutcheon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. McCutcheon, formerly of Northville to Mr. Archie Merton Adams of Saginaw on Sept. 2, at the home of the bride's parents in Detroit. They will reside in Saginaw.

Prof. and Mrs. J. Henry Stetson were guests last Friday evening at a farewell reception given Mr. Smith by the Methodist church choir of Pontiac of which he has been director for three years past. Sixty guests participated in the event which was in the form of an elaborate luncheon preceded by a band concert and followed by a program of instrumental and vocal music by the choir.

A free boat ride on the river and Lake St. Clair was one of the features of the union S. S. picnic Wednesday. The entire affair was an unqualified success and the local management is highly pleased with the courteous and efficient manner in which the D. L. R. and B. & C. people carried out their part of the contract. It is already being planned to extend the trip another year, going to Belle Isle or some other of the pleasant resorts up or down the river.

Carpenter & Huff have a talk this week on "bugs".

Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Huff have moved to Detroit.

Fred L. Cook & Co. are having a "Mush Underwear sale" this week. See page 8.

The Stimpson Scale Co. has already about twenty men at work and machinery is being put in as fast as labor can handle it.

Henry Johnston, who is having a Slaughter Sale of his dry goods at his center street store, is making another big cut in this week's ad.

Those who are in favor of Charlie Townsend for congress should not fail to attend the primary election which is to nominate him September 1.

E. Ryder donated his advertising space in this paper to the Sunday school picnic last week but is occupying it again this week with something that will interest people.

H. O. Ward has been held up for the past few days with a badly bruised foot. The injury was received while moving a piano to the old Randolph house on Wing street where he was at work on the repairs.

The storm last Friday was one of the most magnificent displays of electricity ever seen here. The terrific flood played havoc with the south side lights and also put a number of telephones out of commission, but everything is now in working order again.

Once again has the efficiency of the Record as an advertising medium been demonstrated. A Northville man lost a valuable diamond setting from a ring Wednesday and no sooner was his advertisement in type, offering a reward for its recovery, than he found the gem.

The annual picnic of the W. R. C. at the home of its president, Mrs. L. G. Richardson Friday, was like its predecessors, a very pleasant occasion, notwithstanding the very hot day. About 15 were in attendance, although a number of the members were away on their summer vacations.

A NOVEL BY EDGAR EARL CHRISTOPHER

COPYRIGHT, 1906, BY THE SAUNDERS PUBLISHING COMPANY

"Thank God, this is over," sighed De Tavener. "I could not think of anything else until every member of the Council had been summoned—until every committee had been warned. But has it not been trying on your nerves?"

"Don't mention it, sir," I said, glad in my heart that it was over. "I only regret my want of familiarity with the cipher, which has impeded the work."

"At last we had dinner, and it so happened that Marie had wanted and sat at her father's side, where she served him as was her custom."

Mr De Tavener, despite the unusual amount of work he had performed, was in excellent spirits while Marie added a charming vivacity to the occasion. It was one of the most delightful dinners, and the wine—well, I have told you of that wine, but there are things better than wine. Then we left the table.

In the parlor sat Marie at the piano, her beautiful face lifted heavenward, and the sweet words of a Creole love-song fell like a shower of pearls from her lips, while the lights from the prisms of the chandelier played upon her golden hair.

"Papa, do you know," she said, "that Mr. Rodin actually made sport of my singing—he said that I sang 'Annie Laurie' with an English Annie and a French Laurie—Laurée, you know, and, by the way, I have promised that you should play for him, but you must practice, father mine, for he is a most analytical critic. He will have you play the violin in French and English—then she laughed, he laughed, we all three laughed, the idea of playing a violin in two tongues, but, mind you, I was not laughing because of mirth but because of that comfort, which makes laughter contagious."

"Indeed, you are welcome to play this one, Rodin," I said, "for I play the violin in the same manner that Marie plays. I play what I love to do and what appeals to me most. I can play you have heard of the 'Ball of the Red Rover'?"

"When I was a child I had a little and I still retain a fragment of it of his wonderful. If I had had my little hand, and my recollection of her beautiful voice, I could play a world."

"And you, old M. De Tavener, I fancy that you would do even better more to my taste. I have heard that all members of the Death Committee are of the most analytical nature, and of my own small delicate and sensitive to the last note of a note, even to the faintest in the distance, between its faint throbs the power of its

I Sat as in a Dream.

the great pure organ and a variety of sounds beyond calculation."

"Ah," I replied, "you are preparing me for a great performance, and I shall esteem it a special favor."

The night had grown old, for the hours had sped away unnoticed. Marie had gone to fetch the violin.

The birds warbled without. The distant rumble of vehicles had ceased. The rear seats had returned and old Gabe slumbered heavily in the hall.

Marie had returned with an old leather case, and Mr. De Tavener opened the case and drew forth with a tender hand, an old brown violin and a long bow. Marie turned her face upward as she always did when inspired, and the low murmur of the piano mingled with a cadence of fifths, sixths, and seconds, and a few lightly arpeggios from the violin.

I felt that strange sensation at the roots of my hair—that thrill of the blood—that indescribable something which passes through the veins under the powerful influence of music. I caught a vague glimpse of Marie, her fair face uplifted as though the sounds came from above.

I sat as in a dream. I saw the lean form of Mr. De Tavener, the silent listening girl at the piano, the staring eyes of the big black, who had been aroused from his sleep—all, as in a dream I heard the groans, the screams, and the laughter of the music, as if they came from afar, wailing, crying, pleading, supplicating, weeping, sobbing, like human voices in a death chamber—or shouting, screaming, and defiant, like the battle cry of an army—the great four string harmonies, the matchless cantabile passages, the cackling staccato, and the great detached movements, shouting and clamorous, had died away, followed by a wondrous melody, and then some sweet fugitive melody, with a wailing portamento—that seemed to have escaped the cruelty of the furious bow—plaintive, and appealing, twined itself about my heart and carried me as it were to heaven. The finale died plaintively away, and all was as still as death, save for the heavy breathing of the small audience, over whom the spell still lingered.

I heard a low sob—a soft laugh, and vaguely I saw Marie with her arms about the old man's neck, weeping.

The great house of Mr. De Tavener was alive with visitors, strange men were coming and going; most of them speaking in a foreign accent.

On the fifth day after we had sent out the telegrams and cablegrams, warning the several committees who had been chosen to participate in the removing of the treasure from the caverns, they arrived at the house a band of five men, whose peculiar duties I shudder to recall.

These men formed what was known as the Death Committee, or the Thirteenth Committee of 'The Invisible Hand.'

I was presented to these, one by one, by Mr. De Tavener himself, who had received them with marked cordiality.

The chief of this committee was a man who had passed three-score years, and though his face was marked by trials and sorrows, his form was erect, his eyes were bright, and his step firm. It was he, with his four associates, who had received Hershburg the traitor, on the borders of the Russian Empire. It was he who had been summoned as a last and un-failing resource to relieve 'The Invisible Hand' of the vigilance of Victor Deneau. He was an alchemist, one had called him a sorcerer, others a magician.

There was no subtle poison in the hands of toxicology with which he was un-familiar. His face was but a study in itself, his voice deep and mellow, his eyes, his mouth, his hands, a dignity which commanded attention and respect. His eyes were ever ready to obey his will, and his voice was not without a certain quality which commanded attention and respect. His eyes were ever ready to obey his will, and his voice was not without a certain quality which commanded attention and respect.

It seemed that nothing could escape the eye of the Death Committee. Its means were infallible, its methods swift and terrible, and now as I held the cold still hand of its leader in mine, I shook as with an ague; I felt an inward thrill of horror as I looked into his cold bright eyes.

Partially concealed by the long white hair which framed near the center of his massive forehead, I saw the great scar of the Siberian convict who had been burnt into the flesh, leaving the ghastly furrows of his cruel moustaches and branded their helpless victims.

And then came the very form of a most evil-looking man—a hunchback, whose spine had been broken by the cruelties of his keepers. In his big black eyes there was a wealth of evil, horrible, inhuman, feverish, burning; a constant glitter, on his brow a frown; a frozen curse on his pale lips; a nervous tremor in his long hands. He could not stand still for one moment; his words were impatient; he seemed in haste to kill; he looked an anarchist—I discovered he was once the richest, the most rabid members of 'The Invisible Hand.'

He turned suddenly away, and I met the third member, a tall, soldierly man, one who self-possessed to a remarkable degree. His soldierly gait was impeded by a peculiar drag of the left foot. I afterward learned that he wore an artificial leg. His heavy shackles had so worn the flesh from his ankles as to necessitate amputation. His wife had committed suicide at the mines, driven to insanity by untold tortures. How he could withhold his hand—how he could speak calmly—how he could smile—was inconceivable to me.

Then he left me, and a man of forbidding presence stood before me. An empty socket—hollow and horrible, from which it seemed an eye had been dragged by force—left him but one bright, gleaming orb, which gazed with a terrible fixity upon me. A long hooked nose, blue and enlarged at the bridge, a ghastly scar across the cheek, a frowning brow, heavy iron gray hair, a great black mustache and whiskers, increased the fierceness of his scarred and disfigured face.

He said no word, but the force of his grasp was like a vise, and fixing his one fierce eye upon me for a brief moment he passed on.

The fifth member of the Death Committee was a man who had not reached his thirty-second year, and who had served the committee for only five years, having succeeded one of the original members who had died of injuries received at Kara.

This man was tall, youthful in appearance, with wavy brown hair, and the most polished manners. He presented a strange contrast in appearance to his wretched, disfigured associate. He spoke several languages with great fluency, and his conversation was charming and instructive. His manner was frank and ingenuous. His dress showed scrupulous care, and his conduct inspired admiration.

He never referred to his connection with the Death Committee or 'The Invisible Hand.' I had begun to admire his many qualities and had fallen under the spell of his charming personality when an event occurred which turned my heart against him, and though I knew the meanness of my nature for this sudden revulsion, and hated myself for harboring so unjust a sentiment, I found myself powerless to repress this unworthy feeling against the fifth member of the Thirteenth Committee—who was known in the Order as Alexander.

As we stood talking together, he in his pleasant, un-fettered manner I saw Marie enter the room, and as she did so her eyes fell upon Alexander, whose face was toward the door.

I Gazed for One Brief Second.

Such hesitancy of glance and turned to look at her, and I saw her eyes, I felt her hand, and I felt her heart.

My heart had turned against him and I felt such a hatred for this man as to convulse me. I seized my hat and left the house, walking aimlessly in the direction of the street.

The streets were busy with traffic, as the great Mardi Gras was approaching, and strangers were coming into the city from all directions to attend this peculiar, and to me, unknown ceremony.

After vainly, madly trying to bring myself to a condition of common decency I at last returned to the house as insane, as when I left it. When I entered the hall the house seemed deserted. I timidly approached the parlor, and peered among the great chairs and divans.

At her favorite seat in the recess of the window sat Marie, her face toward the West, and the soft light of the dying sun falling upon her hair. I gazed for one brief second and turned to leave, but without a movement she bade me draw near. My heart fluttered.

"Ah, is it not beautiful," she said, her eyes fixed upon the great billows of pink tinted clouds in the West, "what a lovely ending to an unhappy day."

"Unhappy?" I said, and my voice must have choked for she turned her eyes upon me, saying:

"Yes, I say unhappy, for have we not met—have we not seen with our own eyes—oh, I have touched with my own hands the horrible—oh it makes me shudder—hands of the Death Committee—a tremor shook her, and her face was white, her eyes filled with a look of horror."

I drew near her, and as I did so I plucked a great white rose from a cluster which clung to the casements and handed it to her.

"Will you take this from my hand. It is white—it is pure—it will wash away the stain of the Death Committee."

Her hand trembled as she unconsciously clutched the frail stem and pressed the flower to her bosom.

"Ah, Mr. Rodin, I am glad—I am glad—that all are not members of that body—that inexorable tribunal whose decrees its death—who only know one verdict—Death!"

I made no answer, but my soul was aflame.

Pushing Cape to Cairo Line.

In a report in the London Times it is stated that the Cape to Cairo rail way in South Africa has been opened so as to run over the Kafue river on a bridge which spans on 13 spans, each 100 feet with pillars rising on a bed 16 feet under the water. Kafue river is 256 miles north of Victoria falls, and the distance from Cape Town is 1905 miles. The railroad however is now at Broken Hill 347 miles beyond the falls, the line having been pushed on while the bridge was building over the Kafue river.

PUTTING IT RAATHER ROUGHLY.

Leading Question Asked of Methodical Writer.

There is a certain writer in Boston—a man of remarkable versatility—who once gave a friend in the publishing business in New York a resume of the details of his average day's work.

"I am as methodical in my work," said the Boston writer, "as any business man. My daily tasks are so diversified and so arranged that I am able to afford myself considerable variety during the 12 hours per diem that I employ in authorship. For instance, from eight in the morning to ten I do my verse, from ten to 12 my criticisms; from three to five I am engaged upon a history of the world intended for perusal by children. And so he continued to give his visitor the whole scheme. When he had concluded, the New Yorker, an exceedingly blunt individual, rather untidily inquired:

"And when, sir, do you think?"

MORE THAN MONEY.

A Minister Talks About Grape-Nuts.

"My first stomach trouble began back in 1895," writes a minister in Nebr., "resulting from hasty eating and eating too much. I found no relief from medicine and grew so bad that all food gave me great distress. It was that sore, gnawing, hungry feeling in my stomach that was so distressing and I became a sick man. Grape-Nuts was recommended as a food that could be easily digested."

"Leaving the old diet that had given me so much trouble, I began to eat Grape-Nuts with a little cream and sugar. The change effected in 24 hours was truly remarkable, and in a few weeks I was back to health again."

"My work as a minister calls me away from home a great deal, and recently I drifted back to fat meat and indigestible foods, which put me again on the sick list."

"So I went back to Grape-Nuts and cream and in four days I was out right again. The old dail headaches are gone, stomach comfortable, head clear, and it is a delight to pursue my studies and work."

"Grape-Nuts food is worth more than money to me, and I hope this may induce some sufferer to follow the same course I have."

PROVE BIBLE RIGHT

RESULT OF EXCAVATIONS IN BURIED CITY OF GEZER.

Narratives of Scripture, by Many Regarded as Myths, Shown to Be Veracious—Light Shined on Little Known Races.

The romantic work of ascertaining the light which modern exploration can throw upon the Palestine of the biblical age and upon Old Testament narratives adds to-day another volume to the library that has accumulated since these researches began in 1864.

The new volume, "Bible Sidelights from the Mound of Gezer," is by the well-known antiquary, R. A. Stewart Macalister, director of excavations of the Palestine exploration fund.

The site of the ancient and buried city of Gezer was identified 36 years back, but its excavation is the most recent enterprise, begun in 1902 and brought down to last summer, when some glimpses of the results achieved were given at the annual meeting of the Palestine exploration fund. The present book is the forerunner and popular summary of the complete memoir now in preparation on a scale of considerable magnitude.

The excavations have added 1,500 years to the early history of Gezer, dating it back to 2,000 B. C., when a diminutive cave dwelling race lived there. A landmark in its biblical history is that the city was given by the king of Egypt to his daughter when she married Solomon. It stood on the verge of the territory inhabited by that mysterious race, the Philistines, and when David routed them he went in pursuit as far as Gezer.

Among the many Old Testament stories which have fascinated humanity are the idyll of Rebecca (Genesis 24) and the exploits of Samson.

Rebecca, who went to draw water from a well, was picked out from other maidens by the servant of Abraham, who was in quest of a wife for his master's son. She thus became the wife of the patriarch Isaac, and the mother of Esau and Jacob. The unearthing of houses at Gezer helps experts to fill in the story of the wooing of Rebecca by reconstructing for us the home of the maiden and her interesting brother Laban.

The death of Samson, narrated in the Book of Judges, has been ranked as a myth by critics, who could not accept the possibility of his supposed achievement in putting down the pillars and killing so many Philistines. But in a stadium at Gezer, some 300 years older than the time of Samson, the excavators have found a forum of building which appears to a remarkable extent the conditions of the story. It is a temple with a portico supported by four wooden pillars.

The excavations at Gezer also enable experts to form a far clearer conception of the home, a hitherto unknown race of cave dwellers referred to in Genesis and Deuteronomy. The Amorites, who are mentioned for their mightiness in Genesis, now stand in clearer light for their many forms of idolatry and more abominations are better understood by the digging out of the "High Place" of Gezer, which is the largest early Palestinian sanctuary or place of worship yet unearthed.

Striking Clocks and Billiard Players.

The salesman in the jewelry store was talking of the merits of various wall clocks to a patron and finally pointed out one as a great bargain. "Not for me," interrupted the customer, "that clock strikes and I wouldn't have it as a gift." "You're different from the usual run of purchasers; they prefer striking clocks," commented the salesman.

"Yes, but they don't keep pool rooms," explained the customer. "I want the clock for my establishment and a striking clock would lose me money. Pool and billiards are fascinating games and players get so absorbed they forget all about time, which they wouldn't do if there was a clock striking regularly. A clock striking every hour in my place would make a big hole in the receipts, and I guess a clock that struck half hours would put me out of business. No, sir, you don't find a wise poolroom keeper hanging a striking clock in his place." — Philadelphia Record.

Lawn Tennis and Tennis.

There are thousands who imagine that tennis and lawn tennis are identical. In America tennis, the mother game, is always known as "court tennis," whereas lawn tennis is generally known as "tennis." The games are in many respects very different.

The court, which in lawn tennis is open, in tennis is closed at the back and sides, by the walls, and almost invariably above by a roof. There is a considerable amount of play off the back and side walls. The balls are harder than lawn tennis balls, being, in fact, of the consistency of cricket balls. Hence the rackets are heavier and the gut is thicker. — Fry's Magazine.

They showed sediment. I became discouraged, weak, languid and depressed, so sick and weak that I could not keep up. As doctors did not cure me I decided to try Doan's Kidney Pills, and with such success that my troubles were all gone after using eight boxes, and my strength, ambition and general health is fine."

POPE'S STRONG COMMON SENSE.

Pontiff Refused to Be Made an Invalid by a Pen Prick.

The following story is told of Pius X., by the Rome correspondent of the London Fall Mail Gazette:

The other day he was writing at his desk, when his pen began to splutter. He decided to change it, but it stuck, and it was only after a strong pull that it came out, promptly pricking him under his nail, for which probably he would have followed the natural impulse to put it in his mouth, and we would have heard nothing more of the incident had there not been an ink-stain also. His exclamation brought his secretary, who washed away the blood with disinfectants, to obviate microbes, and bound it up, at the same time suggesting a doctor's visit.

"No no," said the pontiff laughing, "it would be known to the press at once, I should be killed and buried by them before he could arrive!" Those surrounding him would have liked to make the slight mishap an excuse for stopping the audience, but Pius X. was somewhat annoyed at the suggestion, saying, "Enough, enough! What is a penprick! You make me ridiculous. I have not ceased to be a man and become a baby!" So he was present at the ceremony in commemoration of his predecessor making jokes about his hand-god finger.

Another Dig at Powers.

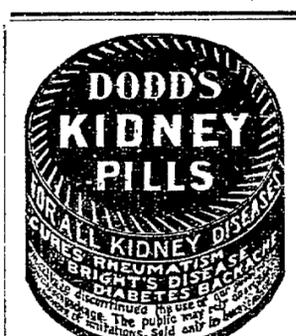

A few days ago Gov. Cobb, of Maine, and Hon. W. R. Pittsburg, prominent in politics in the Maine state, were together on a train. Mr. Pittsburg is a lawyer and an editor, the writer of the humorous "Muddy Bumps Letters" appearing in his paper, the St. Louis Union.

In the course of conversation, Gov. Cobb remarked to Mr. Pittsburg, "I don't see why you and Libby's Pills should be so extremely antagonistic to each other. Neither of you ever fails to give the other a rap when there is opportunity."

At this point an interested listener in the car leaned toward their chairs and asked, "Is it really true that ex-Gov. Powers is of Indian descent?" "Well, the Indians deny it," Mr. Pittsburg answered, in his inimitable manner.

Important News From Glover's Flats
By F. R. BAGLEY

"I hear the Clarion's got a new lease of life," says Si Budlong to Elmer Harriot, as they met at the post-office.

"Yaas," replied Elmer, reflectively, as he shifted his cud to the other cheek. "Know the circumstances?"

"Why, no; can't say I do. Cart-right was tellin' me they was a woman in it."

"Waal, as to that, it was yes and no. You see, that young editor, Ridley, just out o' college, didn't calculate they was anything that was 'with knowin' in the journalistic line that he didn't hev cornered. He begun by bein' independent in politics. Now, Bowdin county's voters ain't got any yellin' streak o' independence in 'em—'t's straight dummymat or Republican for all males over 21, except them that's in the insane asylum or the cemetery. So the Clarion's subscription list didn't grow so everlastin' swift as the advertiser's patronage kinder dwindled.

"Paper and ink bills were put in an attorney's hands for collection, an' the end was near. Ridley was feelin' blue. He 'ad about made up his mind to quit the independence racket. Last Wednesday mornin' he was actually writin' up a 'leader'-showin' the inevitable trend o' public sentiment, an' proposin' Judge Holcomb, of Cedarville, as runnin' mate for Bryan, when in comes a black-eyed young woman to his office, an' she was madder'n a wet hen. She flashes a copy of the previous week's Clarion in front o' Ridley an' sez, in a voice quaverin' with emotion—'Read that!'

"Ridley was gettin' used to demonstartions of this sort, so he didn't show no particular feelin' as he noted a marked item in the letter from Glover's Flats—

"Reported, that Eb Harder, and Fanny Brice are aget on speakin' terms. That's right, youngsters; kiss, an' make up."

"Did you write that?" asks the lady.

"Personally, not guilty," says Ridley.

"It's scandalous," says she, "that you newspaper men don't hold nothin' sacred. What do you mean by flauntin' the private affairs of the respectable citizens of Glover's Flats before the whole world? I haven't spoken to Ebenezer Harder for six months, and unless he—explains—I shall never speak to him again. But how did you—what will he think? And with that she burst right out cryin'."

"Ridley started to apologize, but she rushes out the door and slams it after her. Then she comes back in an instant, seized to death, an' she says, 'I've got more money than I can use, but I don't do a stroke o' work the rest o' my days. But I want fam a Journalism is my long suit, journalism I worked two years of the Clarion and I've repented for the city paper and I've got the writin' fever. I've been watchin' the Clarion right 'long, an' you're all right, but you ain't gettin' on. You've got to quit independence. I kin see you've got dummymat leanin' an' it's easy to flop. Do that an' we'll win. I say we because you're goin' to take me in as a workin' partner. I'll pay the bills to-morrow an' we'll start her off on a new track. I kin get into the kind o' work I love an' we'll have her up to 3,000 a week in a year's time. Is it a go?'

"They was a haze in front o' Ridley's eyes an' he didn't say nothin' for a spell. Then they just clasped hands across the table an' looked at each other hard.

"After a pause Ridley says, in a low tone, 'Harder, you're an angel. How about the girl?'

"The girl?" says Harder, surprised.

"What girl? Oh, yes," he continues.

"There's a girl. I'll confide. This is all for her. Six months ago, after she had been naggin' me to go an' do somethin' and be somebody, she says, 'Have you the makin' of a real man in you, anyway?' 'Yes, I have,' I says, 'but if that's the way you feel about it the less we see of each other the better for both of us.' An' I've kept out of her sight from that day to this. But she's there yet, an' I know she's true blue, an' if the Clarion was—"

"Ridley had his eye on the closet door.

"Six months without a word's rather rubbin' it in, don't you think?" says he.

"It is," says Harder. "But on the strength of our prospects, by George! I can break the ice when I get home to-day. Eh? Why not?'

"Ridley points to a printed card over his desk, which read, 'Do It Now.'"

"Eh?" says Harder, lookin' puzzled. But her arms was about his neck.

"By the way," says Harder, with a mischievous smile, as five minutes later the two rose to go, "I've been kind o' leadin' up to this, as you may have noticed in last week's Clarion."

"How's that?" asks Ridley.

"Why, you ought to know," says Harder, "that for three months I've been your correspondent from Glover's Flats."—Chicago Daily News.

GAS USED UNDER LIME KILNS.
Innovation by Connecticut Company is a Success.

The New England Lime company, of Winstead, Conn., asserts that it is the first to introduce gas as fuel for lime burning. The method is pronounced an entire success. The growing scarcity of wood fuel led to the discovery of gas as a substitute for wood, and the company no longer considers the gas method an experiment. The efficacy and reliability of gas have been demonstrated beyond a doubt. Had it been impossible to find a substitute for wood, said a member of the company, it would have meant the restriction and perhaps the total abandonment of the business. Gas fires are absolutely clean at all times—no clinkers and no cinders—and the lime produced is much whiter than that burned by wood. Gas also produces a more intense heat, and consequently increases the capacity of the kilns. The daily output at the company's kilns is increased from 80 barrels per kiln to 100 barrels, or a total of 700 barrels daily.

BOYISH MIND WAS WORKING.
Youngster on His First Sail Over the "Raging Main."

None of us ever quite forget those days—when our years were few—of dreaming about life on the raging main, when the imagination revelled in pirates and plunder from the galleons and valorous deeds done on storm-swept decks says a writer in the New York Times. Recollection of this period is, at any rate, still clearly vivid so that the remark of a small boy could contribute markedly to the gaiety of nations, among the passengers on one of the excursion steamers running from Manhattan across the harbor to Coney Island.

The steamers made her way across the bay, dousing tugs and scurvy boats—fortunately meeting no pirate craft. The passengers, escaping gladly from the city's heat, nibbled their sandwiches and enjoyed the breeze. The waiters moved about the deck with their trays. The boy just from the inland town, where his life so far had been spent, sat next and wide-eyed. If one could but know fully the mental content from which sprang his words at last!

"Ma!" he cried, hoarsely, "tell me which one of 'em is the skipper!"

SALLOW FACES
Often Caused by Coffee Drinking.

How many persons realize that coffee so disturbs digestion that it produces a muddy, yellow complexion? A ten days' trial of Postum Food Coffee has proven a means, in thousands of cases, of clearing up bad complexions.

A Washin. young lady tells her experience.

"All of us—father, mother, sister and brother—had used tea and coffee for many years until finally we all had stomach troubles more or less."

"We were all sallow and troubled with pimples, breath bad, disagreeable taste in the mouth, and all of us simply so many bundles of nerves."

"We didn't realize that coffee was the cause of the trouble until one day we ran out of coffee and went to borrow some from a neighbor. She gave us some Postum and told us to try that."

"Although we started to make it, we all felt sure we would be sick if we missed our strong coffee, but we were forced to try Postum and were surprised to find it delicious."

"We read the statements on the pkg., got more and in a month and a half you wouldn't have known us. We were all able to digest our food without any trouble, each one's skin became clear, tongues cleaned off and nerves in fine condition. We never use anything now but Postum. There is nothing like it." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. Read the little book, "The Road to Wellville." "There's a reason,"

"PEN AND INK" BET WAS EASY.

Colonel "Ike" Hill Quite Ready to Increase the Amount.

Col. "Ike" Hill, assistant sergeant-at-arms for the Democrats in the house of representatives, has violent political prejudices and at election time is wont to back them with money.

He got into a political discussion in the lobby of the Hoffman house in New York a short time ago and made an assertion that was disputed by a man in the gathering.

Col. "Ike" reached down into his pocket, pulled out a roll of money and peeled off five $100 bills.

"I will just bet you $500 I am right," he said.

"I'll take you," said the other. "Wait until I get a pen and ink."

A cold look came into Col. "Ike's" eyes.

"What do you want a pen and ink for?" he asked.

"Why, I want to write a check for $500 to cover your bet."

Col. "Ike" put his money back in his pocket.

"Bring me a pen and ink, too," he said, "for if this is going to be a check bet I'll make it $5,000."—Saturday Evening Post.

DOCTOR CURED OF ECZEMA.

Maryland Physician Cures Himself. Dr. Fisher Says: "Cuticura Remedies Possess True Merit."

"My face was afflicted with eczema in the year 1897. I used the Cuticura Remedies, and was entirely cured. I am a practicing physician, and very often prescribe Cuticura Resolvent and Cuticura Soap in cases of eczema, and they have cured where other formulas have failed. I am not in the habit of endorsing patent medicines, but when I find remedies possessing true merit, such as the Cuticura Remedies do, I am broad-minded enough to proclaim their virtues to the world. I have been practicing medicine for sixteen years, and must say I find your Remedies A No. 1. You are at liberty to publish this letter. G. M. Fisher, M. D., Big Pool, Md., May 24, 1905."

His Interest Was Personal.

An eccentric member of the British parliament who died recently endeavored valiantly during a quarter of a century to get passed into law a bill for preventing persons from standing outside windows while cleaning them. During his last session the old fellow complained to a colleague that his object in introducing the bill had been quite misunderstood by the house for these 25 years "I introduced the bill," said he, "not for the sake of the people below, on whom they might fall. The idea of the bill was suggested to me by the fear that a window cleaner might fall on myself."

Heavy Movement of Iron Ore.

The movement of Lake Superior iron ore during the month of June was the heaviest during the history of the trade. Nearly 5,600,000 tons were forwarded to the lower lakes, a gain of almost 500,000 tons over the corresponding period last year. The total movement this season up to the first of July aggregated 11,241,796 tons, compared with 10,814,054 tons for the same period last year.

GOOD COLORS FOR HOUSES.

It is not generally known—not even among painters—why certain tints and colors wear much better than others on houses, and the knowledge of just what tints are best to use is, therefore, rather hazy.

One writer on paint, in a recent book, says that experiments seem to show that those colors which resist or turn back the heat rays of the sun, will protect a house better than those which allow these rays to pass through the film.

Thus red is a good color because it turns back, or reflects, the red rays, and the red rays are the hot rays.

In general, therefore, the warm tones are good and the cold tones are poor, so far as wear is concerned. In choosing the color of paint for your house, select reds, browns, grays and olives, which, considering the various tones these tints will produce, will give a wide range from which to choose.

Avoid the harsh tints, such as cold yellows (like lemon), cold greens (like grass green etc.), and the blues.

It must be understood that no virtue is claimed for tints in themselves, irrespective of the materials used in the paint. Any color will fade, and the paint will scale off, if adulterated with lead or canned paint is used, but if one is careful to use the best white lead—some well-known brand of a reliable manufacturer—and genuine linseed oil, the warm tints mentioned above will outwear the same materials tinted with the cold colors.

Suffered for "White Lie."

Is a white lie ever justified? That at least some people believe it has no excuse is proved by the following tale: An ancient rabbi came to a city where all the people were truthful, married one of the inhabitants, had two children and prospered. One day a neighbor called when the rabbi's wife was washing her head, and the rabbi, going to the door, was seized by false modesty and said that she had gone out. Thereupon both of his children died, and, as no one died in that city before reaching old age, the neighbors made inquiries, the rabbi confessed what he had done, and was ordered to leave the city immediately.

Origin of Knighthood.

Knighthood was intended to serve as a mark of distinction for deeds of renown and merit. Knight properly signifies a person who, for his virtue and martial prowess, is raised from the rank of patrician into a higher class of dignity and honor.

A man never notices the goodness of his net until he is sick.

How Emperor William is Battling Against a Dangerous Heredity.

Emperor William's father died of cancer of the throat.

Emperor William himself had infantile paralysis, and has had to struggle with many infirmities.

It has been whispered that he himself is troubled with the same malady which carried off his father. Royal blood is unfortunately more generally deteriorated blood. Emperor William knows this; as well as any body, and is doing his best to eradicate the bad blood from himself and his family by the adoption of simple life principles.

Through the visit of a countryman of his to Battle Creek, Michigan, while in Chicago in 1893, Emperor William became acquainted with the Battle Creek idea of simple living and has to a large extent adopted the methods in his family. His wife and children live the simple life and take Battle Creek light baths. Their Uncle King Edward, also has these baths installed in his Windsor and Buckingham Palaces for the use of himself and Queen Alexandra.

Among other things GOOD HEALTH, the oldest health journal in the world, tells about the Battle Creek idea and the simple life. Every number is brimful of up-to-date ideas. Sample copy 10 cents. One dollar a year.

If you will cut this out and send to GOOD HEALTH PUBLISHING CO., Battle Creek, Mich., with a quarter-year subscription a trial three months' subscription to this handsome illustrated monthly health magazine. Write to day.

Change the Entire Clothing to Get a Thorough Rest—The Food That Refreshes.

Every woman should learn how to change her clothing. Take off the shoes you have been wearing all day and put on different shoes. The pinch will come in a different place. Take off the blouse you have worn all day, and the collar which has been round your throat since morning, and put on a different blouse and a different collar. You have no idea how a fresh blouse rests one, and especially a fresh piece of neckgear. The pinch goes on a different set of muscles. Changing the underwear is a good plan, and best of all is changing the corsets. The bones will rub, no matter how carefully you plan things, and a new corset makes you feel as though you were just beginning a day instead of finishing one. The tired out woman usually eats the wrong kind of food. When tired one should select food not for their food value alone but for their recuperative powers. Hot soup of any kind quickly refreshes the tired woman.

WINSTON CHURCHILL, AMERICA

Scribbling and politics not infrequently go hand in hand these days, a man dividing his time between the two. And we would speak of Winston Churchill, author and new candidate for election as governor of New Hampshire (And over in England there's the other Winston Churchill—undoubtedly the gentleman calls himself the Winston Churchill—who in his time has played soldier, war correspondent, author and politician).

Our Winston Churchill gave up a naval career to engage in literary work and now may have to surrender his literature if he takes earnestly to politics. The author politician was born in St. Louis, in 1871 after preliminary schooling entered the United States Naval Academy, graduated there from in 1891. Among his early writings were about naval stories which attracted considerable attention. "Richard Carvel" was his first great success in the world of letters. "The Celebrity" "Richard Carvel" was followed by "The Crest" "The Crossings" and last the political novel "Constantinople."

Mr. Churchill in 1902, now in London for his writings, entered politics, made a successful campaign for election to the New Hampshire legislature, having for several years made his home in Concord, N. H. He served in the legislature two years, was a delegate to the last Republican national convention.

Mr. Churchill has shown much interest in American history of the past and is to take a trip in the autumn of some history. Probably the American voter will not consider able tribute to the man with the pen.

THE LAXATIVE OF KNOWN QUALITY

There are two classes of remedies; those of known quality and which are permanently beneficial in effect, acting gently, in harmony with nature, when nature needs assistance; and another class, composed of preparations of unknown, uncertain and inferior character, acting temporarily, but injuriously, as a result of forcing the natural functions unnecessarily. One of the most exceptional of the remedies of known quality and excellence is the ever pleasant Syrup of Figs, manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co., which represents the active principles of plants, known to act most beneficially, in a pleasant syrup, in which the wholesome Californian blue figs are used to contribute their rich, yet delicate, fruity flavor. It is the remedy of all remedies to sweeten and refresh and cleanse the system gently and naturally, and to assist one in overcoming constipation and the many ills resulting therefrom. Its active principles and quality are known to physicians generally, and the remedy has therefore met with their approval, as well as with the favor of many millions of well informed persons who know of their own personal knowledge and from actual experience that it is a most excellent laxative remedy. We do not claim that it will cure all manner of ills, but recommend it for what it really represents, a laxative remedy of known quality and excellence, containing nothing of an objectionable or injurious character.

There are two classes of purchasers; those who are informed as to the quality of what they buy and the reasons for the excellence of articles of exceptional merit, and who do not lack courage to go elsewhere when a dealer offers an imitation of any well known article; but, unfortunately, there are some people who do not know, and who allow themselves to be imposed upon. They cannot expect its beneficial effects if they do not get the genuine remedy.

To the credit of the druggists of the United States be it said that nearly all of them value their reputation for professional integrity and the good will of their customers too highly to offer imitations of the manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co., and in order to buy the genuine article and to get its beneficial effects, one has only to note, when purchasing, the full name of the Company—California Fig Syrup Co.—plainly printed on the front of every package. Price, 50c. per bottle. One size only.

PIMPLES BLACKHEADS

Prevented by

Cuticura SOAP

To treat Pimples and Blackheads, Red, Rough, Oily Complexions, gently smear the face with Cuticura Ointment, the Great Skin Cure, but do not rub. Wash off the Ointment in five minutes with Cuticura Soap and hot water, and bathe freely for some minutes. Repeat morning and evening. At other times use Cuticura Soap for bathing the face as often as agreeable. No other Skin Soap so pure, so sweet, so speedily effective.

Cuticura Soap contains the most powerful medicinal and emollient properties of the most refined and purest of the great Skin Cures, with the purest of cleaning ingredients and the most refreshing of flower essences. Two soaps in one—the Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment. Cuticura Soap is sold in 1 lb. boxes, 50c. per box. Cuticura Ointment is sold in 1 lb. boxes, 50c. per box. A Hair Dressing

Nearly every one likes a fine hair dressing. Something to make the hair more manageable; to keep it from being too rough, or from splitting at the ends. Something, too, that will feed the hair at the same time, a regular hair-food. Well-fed hair will be strong, and will remain where it belongs—on the head, not on the comb!

The results of orthodontia are that the individual, inter-fering clearness of speech, impair the ability to masticate the food thoroughly, and by reason of their crowded or abnormal position afford favorable lodgment for food particles and thereby induce decay.

When a child presents itself I study the features and the irregularities and oral deformities. I look at the child's face and then at its profile, and endeavor to ascertain, if possible, what facial change will be brought about by any corrective art that may be applied to the case. In my judgment more is lost than gained by the removal of teeth for the correction of irregularity and should never be done, except, possibly, in extreme cases. NOVI NEWS.

Munro Family Reunion. The seventh annual reunion of the Munro family was held Thursday August 16th at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Munro and was one of the most enjoyable among family reunions.

Members from Saginaw, Detroit, Owosso, Lexington, Birmingham, and other points began gathering early in the week and by Thursday noon over thirty relatives and a dozen or more other friends had gathered on the pretty lawn at the Munro home where a bountiful dinner was served.

After dinner the meeting was called to order by Mrs. Daniel Munro of Chesaning, the secretary reporting the discovery since the last meeting of a new branch of the family.

As historian, Mrs. James Munro gave an interesting account of the coming to America from Scotland of the founder of the family in this country, Donald Munro, as a soldier in the French and English war during which he was awarded a 200 acre tract of land in Kent county, N. Y., for saving the life of an officer. Following down to the present Master Hugh Munro of Owosso was shown to be the youngest of the sixth generation bearing the name and little Norma McMillan of Saginaw the youngest descendant.

John and Delos Leavenworth are camping at Cooley Lake. Mrs. Alice Flint and daughter have moved to Pleasant, Mich., to the resort of Novi people.

largely attended and all report an enjoyable time. Mrs. Ed Burt of Pinckney is visiting Novi friends. Parke Barrett and daughter, Ruth, are visiting at Midland.

Mrs. Delos Leavenworth is spending the week with Howell friends. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Chapman have returned from their trip to New York. Ethel and George Waite have been camping at Selma Leary's near Milford for the past week.

The visitors remained until Friday and with Novi friends spent a very pleasant day at Walled Lake. The annual picnic of the Hazen and Green families is to take place at the Club grounds at Walled Lake next week Tuesday, August 28.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Carpenter and son spent Saturday with Mr. and Mrs. Jud Richardson and party at their camp at Union Lake.

Mrs. Mary Putnam, who has been keeping house for her daughter, Mrs. Maroon Chapman, during the latter's absence, has returned home. A program of recreations and music, and a social afternoon interspersed with games followed. The next reunion is to be held with Robert Harmon and family near St. Johns.

Among the relatives from a distance were Geo. Mulholland and family and Mr. Fox and children of Saginaw. Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Munro and Mrs. Munro of Chesaning, Robt. Harmon, wife and son of St. Johns, Mrs. Andrew Munro and son, Preston of Detroit, Clark Munro and son of Owosso and Solomon Munro of Birmingham.
