A WARNER VICTORY

RAILROADS AND POLITICAL BOSES WERE DEFEATED.

Issue Was to Clean Up on the Governor.

The result of the state convention at Grand Rapids last week can only be looked upon with approval by fair minded people. The real issue was not between Barbour and Leland, but instead it was the state administration, opposed by the railroads, the Atwood school of politicians and Hill legislators, who were taking Levi L. Barbour the cat-in-hat of their various furies. The administration was threatened with defeat by the combined strength of these classes of "joints" and another element, the life-long friends of Mr. Barbour, whose fight was for that gentleman, rather than against the governor, and whose work was most effective.

The administration won in the first great fight, the selection of a majority of Leland men on the credentials committee. It won in the second great fight, the seating of the Leland men on the convention floor.

When this fight was won the Barbour men hastily conferred, and Rep. Norton of St. Johns, who had been selected to nominate Mr. Barbour, contented himself with delivering a long eulogy on Mr. Barbour when the time came, and then astounding everyone but the few who were in the secret by withdrawing Mr. Barbour's name.

Junius E. Beal was nominated for second regent by a sweeping majority after four days of campaigning. Beal's victory was unique, as the Leland delegates from Wayne county should be seated or the Barbour.

The Barbour people contended the Detroit caucus were unfair because in many precincts the booths were not closed before eight o'clock. But to offset that argument George B. Yerkes, who managed Leland's campaign, had affidavits from thirty policemen, who took charge of the ballot boxes in precincts when Barbour delegates won out, that the booths in those precincts were closed before supper time.

Among those instances cited was that of Mr. Barbour's own precinct and the precinct of Senator McKay (the Barbour manager).

The fact of the matter was the Barbour delegates were defeated by GEORGE B. YERKES.

Detroit Attorney who successfully managed Frank Leland's campaign in Wayne county.

A large majority and they had no kick coming about closing the booths early, for both sides did it where there was no contest or where it was mutually agreed.

No reader of this paper, who knows George B. Yerkes, will contend that he would allow any unlawful proceeding to be injected in a campaign which he had the management of and he had the full management of Mr. Leland's campaign in Wayne county and he won out in as fair a manner as any campaign ever held in any county in Michigan.

Both Mr. Beal and Mr. Leland are excellent gentlemen, men of high character and good business qualifications. They will be a credit to the great University and no act of theirs will ever cause any one to regret their nomination.

New Banking Commissioner.

On Tuesday of this week Gov. Fred M. Warner appointed Henry M. Zimmermann of Pontiac as state banking commissioner, in the place of George W. Moore, of Port Huron, the present commissioner.

Mr. Zimmermann is well qualified to fill this position, having been engaged in the banking business at Marine City for several years. The appointment is very pleasing to those who are familiar with the demands of the office. The salary is $2,500 a year.

Remember Wm. D. Floraday will sell B. Cohen's entire stock at Public Auction. Saturday Sale starts at 2 o'clock p. m. and 7 o'clock in the evening. All come.

BARBOUR WAS MADE CATSPAW

Governor Talks of Attack on Administration.

"I think the people of the state as a whole have every reason to feel pleased at the result of the convention," said Gov. Warner, at the close of the convention at Grand Rapids last week.

"I have never had anything but the greatest respect and esteem for Mr. Barbour. It is regrettable that two such gentlemen as Mr. Barbour and Mr. Leland might not have a contest strictly on their personal merits. But the fight made for Mr. Barbour was not so much for him as against the administration, in behalf of certain enemies which I am not ashamed to have made.

"Mr. Barbour and his real personal friends have been made catspaws by these hostile elements, with which to fight the administration. They hoped by the prestige and reputation which Mr. Barbour has earned for himself to be better able to crush the administration than they could hope to be with an unknown candidate for any office. They used all the reputation of Mr. Barbour as so much strength with which to overwhelm us.

But the delegates came to our side in great numbers as soon as they discovered what the real issue was. I credit the victory to this fact, that the delegates were able to see the real issue and its significance for the future of the state. Because of the issue I am gratified at the result. I am confident that every candidate nominated here today will give the best satisfaction to the people of the state."

K. of P. Banquet.

The annual banquet of Mystic Lodge, No. 100, K. of P., was held Tuesday evening, Feb. 19, it being the forty-third anniversary of the birth of the order. The banquet was held in Chadwick's hall where over one hundred were seated to a fine supper prepared by the L. O. T. M. M. Dr. T. B. Henry acted as toastmaster. A few short remarks were given by a number of the brothers, followed by a musical program. The noted Northville Male Quartet gave a few fine selections, after which they retired to the K. of P. hall and tripped the light fantastic after Tinham's orchestra until the wee sma' hours. All pronounced it the best time of the season.

A Plesant Surprise.

A very pleasant social event occurred at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Tower, 192 Cameron Ave., Detroit, Tuesday evening, Feb. 19th, the occasion being a genuine surprise on Mr. Tower in honor of his thirty-fifth birthday. In fact he was so taken back at the first glimpse of all his guests that he stepped back and looked at the street number on the door before he ventured to enter his own residence.

To look at the happy crowd one was inclined to believe that "Old Northville" was transplanted in Detroit as the party consisted of about fifty former Northville people who are now living in Detroit.

A Good Candidate.

Chas. A. Buhner, republican candidate for County Auditor, was in town Tuesday calling on his many friends. Mr. Buhner has held the office of county clerk for a number of years and has proven himself to be an efficient business man and his competency for the office of auditor is unquestioned.

THE ELECTROCUTION OF FRED CASTER ENDS A TRAGIC CAREER.

FATHER'S LAST APPEAL

Led to Chair in a Fainting Condition—All Attempts to Get a Reprieve Fruitless.

Died at Midnight.

At midnight, Thursday, Fred Caster, the Flint Mich., boy who shot Police man Dan Davis to death in Columbus, O. June, 1935, was executed in the electric chair.

Half fainting, Caster was led from the death cell by the guard and supported by Mr. Kelley, the prison chaplain. The braggadocio of the past 14 months had disappeared and he spoke in a weak voice as he thanked the warden and others about him for their kindness. The straps were placed on his legs, arms and head and the current turned on to a voltage of 1,750, then it was lowered to 350, then turned on again to the first power and kept there for several minutes. When the physicians examined the body Caster's soul had fled—and the law was expiated.

Caster's mother, brother and two sisters had arrived from Flint during the day and visited the condemned man in his cell twice. He told them that he realized that his time had come and that he had received spiritual consolation from Fr. Kelley's ministrations. The aged father did not come to see his son again, but wrote a pathetic letter to Gov. Harris which he brought to the eyes of the aged governor, but he could not see the propriety of granting a third reprieve, especially after he had communicated with Mark Stevens, of Flint, one of Caster's attorneys, who could not give assurance that the case would be carried to the supreme court even if the necessary money was forthcoming. The father's appeal was as follows:

"Please respite my poor boy and give him a chance to have the United States supreme court review his case. The supreme court judges of Ohio dissented at first hearing. Do not send him to death without a fair chance. Have mortgaged my home and am making an earnest effort to raise funds with every prospect of success."

A message was received from Mrs. H. G. Louborow, of Mt. Sterling, a widow with $500 in the bank, who only heard of Caster's plight through the newspapers, but she offered to put up all this amount, if necessary to save Caster.

STATE CONVENTION.

The Whole Fight Was On University Regents.

After six hours of practically continuous business, closing two of the live best days of convention activity ever known in Michigan, the Republican spring convention, held in Grand Rapids, adjourned at 5 p. m. Thursday. The nominations in full were as follows:

For justices of the supreme court—William L. Carpenter, of Detroit; Aaron V. McElroy, of Manistee.

For regents of the university—Frank B. Leland, of Detroit; Julius E. Beal, of Ann Arbor.

For members of the state board of education—W. A. Cotton, of Escanaba.

The fight that preceded these nominations was the state administration, opposed by the railroads, the Atwood school of politicians, the Hill and Townsend legislators, who were making Earl L. Barbour the cat's paw of their various furies. The administration was threatened with defeat by the combined strength of these three classes of "ants" and another element, the lifelong friends of Mr. Barbour, whose fight was for that gentleman rather than against the governor, and whose work was most effective.

The administration won in the first great fight of the day the selection of a majority of Leland members on the credentials committee. It won in the second great fight the seating of the Leland men on the convention floor.

When this fight was won the Barbour men hastily conferred, and Rep. Norton, of St. Johns, who nominated Townsend in the senatorial caucus and had been selected to nominate Mr. Barbour, contented himself with delivering a long eulogy on Mr. Barbour when the time came, and then astounded everyone but the few who were in the secret by withdrawing Mr. Barbour's name.

Julius E. Beal was nominated by a sweeping majority after four days of campaigning. Saginaw and many of the Hill people outside were for Dean, and this naturally rallied the governor's friends to Beal.

Justices Carpenter and McElroy were renominated by acclamation, and W. A. Cotton, of Escanaba, who has made no campaign, but was known to be the administration choice, won the nomination for the state board of education over M. O. Graves, of Petoskey, by the biggest majority of the day.

Peterson officials are tired of holding council proceedings over a horse's able in the fire and are agitating an appropriation of $25,000 for a suitable city hall and $15,000 to remodel the firemen's hall.

Frank Withey, of Hadley, has discovered that his brother for whom he had cared for 25 years, died in Port Huron in poverty in 1937.

A change is to be made in the telephone system at Vernon, and in the future the patrons of the Vernon exchange will be able to talk with Vernon and without the payment of toll.

Trouble has not come to the Iron-schub family in Alpena singly. Last week Mrs. Peter Kronschnabel stepped on a rusty nail, the baby got tonsillitis, the father has grip and Monday the four-year-old son fell in a pail of scalding hot water and is in a precarious condition.

SAD RETURN.

Miss Braidwood Not Informed of the Murder of Her Mother.

Unaware that her mother was murdered in Flint January 21, by Frank Green, and that indirectly she was the cause of the crime, Miss Bertha Braidwood, with whom Green was in love, returned last night from Cananea, Mex., to which city her parents had sent her to frustrate the love affair on the part of Green.

Miss Braidwood has been visiting former residents of Flint, now at Cananea, and they did not deliver the message sent to the girl in then care, believing it would be better to keep her in ignorance of the real state of affairs.

A letter from her father brought Miss Braidwood home. When the story of Green's murderous assault, and the subsequent successful attempt on his own life was related to Miss Braidwood she bore up well. She refused, however, to enter the house where the fatal shooting took place, the family having removed shortly after the murder. The girl absolutely refused to talk of the friendship between herself and Green.

GRADE CROSSING.

Adrian and Hillsdale Scene of Two Deaths.

Mrs. Mary Hinkley, aged 69, was instantly killed, her daughter, Miss Ida Hinkley, aged 24, was seriously injured, and Warren Stamp, aged 28, was fatally injured by an eastbound Vabash passenger train which struck their buggy at the Bradish crossing. They live in Fairfield township and were driving to the city to spend the day with A. J. Reno, son of Mrs. Hinkley, and brother-in-law of Mrs. Stamp.

W. V. Kester, of Detroit, the engineer of the train, said he did not see the buggy, until it was almost on the track and that he blew the whistle and put on the brakes. He said the train was running between 55 and 60 miles an hour.

Harry Lind, aged 27, of Coldwater, was found dead on the tracks of the Lake Shore railroad. Both legs were cut off one between the hip and knee, and the other below the knee. There was also a big cut in the head.

He had been working on the ice at Baw Beese lake.

FLYING ROLLERS.

Voliva Goes Out of Zion to Join the Other Sect.

A union between Voliva's followers in Zion City, the Flying Rollers of Benton Harbor, Mich., Los Angeles, Cal., and the Doukhobors in Canada is declared to be in progress by Voliva's enemies in Chicago.

The Flying Rollers never shave or cut their hair. The Doukhobors object to clothes, even in the winter. Overseer Voliva said that he objected to anyone who does not consider him the divinely appointed successor of Dowie.

Canadian climate is proving to be too much for the advocates of the leafy doctrines. The Flying Rollers think their sect thrives better on the Pacific coast than in Michigan. Fourteen congregations have revolted against Voliva's one-man rule.

When it became known that Voliva had visited the Flying Rollers at Benton Harbor the charges of alliance with outsiders took form and shape. Even some of Voliva's own followers are frightened.

Postmaster Elected.

Despite efforts of influential politicians both in Frankfort and at Washington to oust him from the office of postmaster which he had held for eight years, C. S. Collier was elected Monday to succeed himself. He won by three votes. Patrons of the office who are also electors did the voting.

The fight was started when it became generally believed that Congressman Bishop might be induced to recommend some person other than Collier, who has held the office eight years. Frankfort citizens say that Collier was not active during the recent campaign, when Mr. Bishop needed help in his fight with McLaughlin.

Niles Flour Mill Burned.

The large brick flour mill of the Niles Milling Co. was destroyed by fire early Tuesday morning causing a loss of $100,000. The mill was a mile outside of the center of the city and just outside of the fire hydrant line. Nothing could be done to fight the flames. A bucket brigade saved many surrounding houses which caught fire from the flying brands. Large spais were carried a mile away by the wind.

Insurance Taxes.

Taxes from insurance companies for 1935 will exceed $450,000, says insurance Commissioner Barry. The year previous taxes amounted to $444,000, and a few of the life companies in premiums in the state. About $350,000 has so far been received. This goes into the specific tax fund to be distributed, with the taxes of other corporations, to the schools.

When a brother physician called to answer the summons of Dr. Herbert A. Eades of Bay City, he found him unconscious from terrible injuries in his side when Dr. Eades saved him from being thrown against a street car stove by a lurch of the car. Dr. Eades is critically injured.

Pneumonia is epidemic throughout Midland county and many deaths have occurred from this malady recently. The disease appears to be affecting aged persons and not the young.

"Move on" is the police slogan in Kalamazoo now. Chief of Police Allen is out after the scalps of loafers and masheins who essay to inform passing young women that the evening is fair.

Marquette postoffice still leads the upper peninsula in point of receipts, Saul Ste. Marie second and Houghton third. The business done in 1936 amounted to $30,244.94, which is an increase of over 40 per cent in five years.

WANT WALKER.

The Connecticut Bank Wrecker Was Noted For Stinginess.

A reward of $5,000 for the capture alive of William F. Walker, the missing bank treasurer of New Britain, Conn., is announced. The reward was made $1,000 if Walker should be dead when found.

Walker was in the Cumberland hotel, New York, a week ago. He had shaved off his white whiskers, and had his hair trimmed and waxed. Instead of his usual modest quarters he took a suite of two rooms and bath. The clerk showed surprise and Walker said: "Oh, I have money. I might as well enjoy myself before I die." Walker left behind a grip which was afterwards taken in charge by his son. Walker had on a new suit. It has been determined that Walker had about $200,000 in ready cash in his possession. He had always been noted for stinginess.

A Cabinet Crisis.

Despite official denials of dissensions in the cabinet and among leading deputies who are ardent supporters of the government because of the religious dispute, the situation is such that a crisis may occur at any moment. It has been possible for Premier Clemenceau to patch up a tentative peace agreement, but no one believes it will last long.

Former Premier Combes and his partisans are the real disturbing element. They frankly declare their antipathy to the cabinet and are opposed to any compromise with the church in the quarrel over the separation of church and state. President Clemenceau sides with Combes and his faction.

A Great Bequest.

Mrs. Caroline Kline Galland, who died last Wednesday in Seattle, left nearly every dollar of an estate worth $1,500,000, to charity. The greater part of the estate is to be used to build and endow the Caroline Kline Galland home for aged and feeble people in Seattle.

Pendulum Swings the Other Way.

It is true as is suggested by a long interview by Henry B. Joy on Sunday's Free Press that the legitimate business interests of Michigan are injured or seriously endangered through fear of extreme movements in the direction of taxation of railroads, then are the newspapers of that city much to blame. Through recent years the would-be statesman who could in most lurid terms denounce the railroads were promptly hailed by the press of that city as he who should lead the people. One should be favorite was as rapidly exchanged for another as each in turn would display greater wrath against hated corporations of one variety or another. It was a cheap and easy path to popular favor which the newspapers provided and there has been a scramble to follow it. If the tendency is now causing anxiety it is because the teaching was accepted as a prescription for popularity. And in all this the corporations have not been altogether blameless. Not satisfied with what was fair treatment, they have been prone to overreach and take advantage whenever there was an opportunity, until the pendulum swung to its utmost extremity and now has rebounded the other way.

A Good Pension Bill.

The enactment of the service pension bill, which includes every person who served ninety days in the civil war or sixty days in the war with Mexico and which gives twelve dollars a month to every former soldier over sixty-two years of age, fifteen dollars a month to all over seventy years and twenty dollars a month to all over seventy-five years and older, will be cordially approved by the people of Michigan. It will be a pleasant memory for the girls and boys of today, who are witnessing the pathetic last march of the grand army of the republic, that these last days were marked by as generous recognition as possible of the service which preserved to them the union and the institutions which contribute to its greatness and mark it as peculiar. The new bill does not affect those who may now be drawing greater amounts than are mentioned.

Barry Stays.

The state is to be congratulated upon the decision of Insurance Commissioner James N. Barry to decline a very flattering proposition to resign his office here and accept a much more lucrative position in New York. Mr. Barry telegraphed his declaration to Hon. Paul Morton, chairman of the executive committee of the association having it upon the personal appeal of the governor, and his own sense of duty to the people of the state.

No Good In Whining.

Whining is a poor investment for a young man to make. It never pays dividends. The person who sits back and complains because things aren't different makes little progress. The man who makes the best and the most of his surroundings and keeps his nature cheery is the one who is the most likely to move up and to get ahead.

REAR-ADMIRAL HICHBORN PRAISES PE-RU-NA.

Peruna Drug Co., Columbus, Ohio.

Gentlemen:—After the use of Peruna for a short period, I can now cheerfully recommend your valuable remedy to any one who is in need of an invigorating tonic.

Very respectfully,

PHILIP HICHBORN.

REAR-ADMIRAL HICHBORN.

IF ALL the men and women who have used Peruna and found it beneficial should write testimonials giving the plain facts, we would be overwhelmed with certificates.

But only now and then one who has been benefited by Peruna stops to give any public acknowledgment of a cure.

Various considerations prevent people from writing testimonials for publication. Inordinate modesty, oversensitiveness and business considerations forbid many people from writing testimonials who otherwise would be glad to do so.

All Classes Represented.

But in spite of all these considerations, thousands of people without any solicitation whatever do write testimonials for Peruna.

We receive these from men of high degree and low degree, from the army and the navy, from the hall of congress, from the colleges, from high officials in the church, from the society belle and the washerwoman, from the military man and the civilian.

We have never put into print but a small per cent. of those actually received.

Sincere Testimony.

In presenting the testimonial of Admiral HicHBorn we appreciate the high rank of our testifier.

We feel sure that his testimonial will appeal to others as it does to us, that nothing but a genuine wish to do others good would have impelled a man in such honorable rank to give public testimony to any remedy, however valuable.

The Admiral is altogether too busy a man to answer letters of inquiry, but the reader can rest assured that his testimony is given in his exact words, over his signature.

Genuine Endorsements.

Our testimonials are and always have been given in the exact language of the testifier, with which we take no liberties whatever in adding to or changing them.

In the use of testimonials we have always received them properly signed, in good faith, have published them in good faith, and if there has arisen a slight misunderstanding concerning them, it has been some unavoidable complication occurring after the testimonial has been furnished us.

A Captain's Letter.

Rudolph B. Schwickardi, Capt. 39th N. Y. Vol. Inf., writes from Washington, D. C.:

"Having the fullest confidence in the efficacy of Peruna, both as a tonic and as a remedy for catarrhal trouble, I commend its use in the strongest possible terms. It should be in every household."

Sarah Hammond, who have been so seriously ill, are recovering.

The remains of Mrs. Ford, mother of Mrs. Will Woodworth of Detroit were brought here for burial last Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Nichols entertained the former's sister and husband. Mr. and Mrs. John Tucker of Sand Hill Sunday.

Rev. R. S. Collins left Monday for Detroit where he will take a course of study for a few months. He will occupy the pulpit here each Sunday.

The Valentine social, held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alonzo Sessions Wednesday evening for the benefit of the West Novi school library, was a success financially. Refreshments were served and a good time enjoyed by all.

HIDDEN DANGERS.

Nature Gives Timely Warnings That No Northville Citizen Can Afford to Ignore.

DANGER SIGNAL NO. 1 comes from the kidney secretions. They will warn you when the kidneys are sick. Well kidneys excrete a clear, amber fluid. Sick kidneys send out a thin, pale and foamy, or a thick, yellow, ill-smelling urine, full of sediment and irregular of passage.

DANGER SIGNAL NO. 2 comes from the back. Back pains, dull and heavy, or sharp and acute, tell you of the sick kidneys and warn you of the approach of dropsy, diabetes and Bright's disease. Doan's Kidney Pills cure sick kidneys and cure them permanently.

Thomas Bamber, living at Highland Station, Milford, Mich., says: "Several years ago I strained the cords and muscles in my loins by lifting too heavily which affected my kidneys. I suffered from sharp, aching pains across my loins and in the small of my back. My kidneys ached irregularly and in passing the secretions I had a sharp, burning pain. Many times during the night I was forced to arise by the too frequent action on the kidney secretions, thus disturbing my rest. A friend recommended Doan's Kidney Pills and I procured a box. Relief came almost immediately and soon all the trouble had disappeared. When having slight recurrences of the old trouble, a few doses of Doan's Kidney Pills straightens me out. It is a very long time since I have been bothered and know that Doan's Kidney Pills cure permanently."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50c. per box. Foster Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the U. S. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Quite a number from here attended the horse race at Walled Lake last Thursday and report a very exciting time. John D., owned by Will Ely of this place, raced against Dolly K., owned by Detroit parties and in a distance of one hundred and twenty rods, winning three straight heats, time 0:55.

William Sessions, who will be well remembered by the older residents of this village, died Thursday of last week at the farm home of his son near Williamston, aged seventy-three years. He leaves two sons, and one brother, James Sessions, and one sister, Mrs. Marie Britten both of this place. The funeral was held at the home last Sunday and was largely attended. The burial was at Laingsburg.

A Chicago federal grand jury is after the church furniture trust and R. C. Yerkes and C. A. Dolph of the Globe Co., of this place were summoned last week to tell what, if anything, they knew about a combination. The Northville company is one of the independent companies and the U. S. officials figured they might know something about a trust. They didn't but Dolph was requested to stay in Chicago for a while to see if he might not think of something.

Mrs. Archie Morris gave a Washington party Monday evening to twelve young ladies in honor of her niece, Miss Julia Holton of St. Johns. One of the games was progressive pedro and little hatchets with Washington's picture attached were used for score cards. After twelve games of pedro, a guessing contest was indulged in and Miss Pearl Little carried off the honors in both games. A dainty lunch was served after which the company left thanking their hostess for the enjoyable evening she had given them.

Judge of Probate Durfee granted the application of Byron Thompson for the discharge of his guardian and ordered him paid $200 as a starter to ascertain his financial qualifications. Byron certainly showed he was "ace high" when it came to putting money into circulation. Wednesday of last week he got his $200 and next morning he was as "poor as a church mouse". The money was all gone and Byron was just where he was when his guardian let go. Byron is industrious and works the most of the time but he is wholly incompetent to handle over about twenty-five cents at a time and Judge Durfee, who is usually so very careful in all matters, must have been misinformed as to the case.

The Cat-Meat Man.
There is a man in New York city whom every cat on the street runs to meet. Each day he calls to leave meat for the cats that are kept in warehouses on the water front as a protection against river rats. On Saturday mornings this cat caterer is always later, and the cats will not stir from home until he comes. The man thinks that the cats must read the calendars in the offices to find out when Saturday comes; if not, how do they know?

Female Doctors in Germany.
Professor von Bergmann—the great German surgeon who attended the Emperor Frederick during his last illness and had such a frightful quarrel with Morell Mackenzie—has been telling the editor of a medical journal that "I am decidedly against women entering the profession." Briefly put, his reason is that "so long as women are unable to beat crooks and tailors at the vocations which women are apt to regard as their own specialties, so long will they be unable to compete successfully with men doctors." * * * I have too high a regard for women to encourage them to become doctors."

End of Leap Year.
In 800 years leap year will have become a thing of the past. By that time the extra 11 days lost to make up the changes from the old Julian calendar to the present one will all have been duly accounted for and the world will roll round in just 365 days, with never a leap year intervening.

Grand Free Art Exhibition

Millions of people have seen the "Crucifixion of Christ" and "The Village Blacksmith," two of the world's most famous paintings. Both will be on free exhibition at our store for two weeks beginning February 15th.

The price last paid for the "Crucifixion" (which has changed hands nine times) is reputed to have been $72,500. It was painted by Franz A. Lundahl, who has done a number of Bible pictures that rank as masterpieces. The canvas is 9x14 ft. in size. From every point of view this picture is deemed superior to the work of other modern artists or the old masters. It is different, yet correct and wonderful in its power.

Art connoisseurs are all familiar with the wonderful fire-light pictures painted by H. de Mareau, the French artist who died in Lyons in 1897. His most famous painting, "The Village Blacksmith," was completed about three months before his death. When first brought to America it was exhibited at Wanamaker's in Philadelphia, and has since been viewed by over 12,000,000 who have been permitted to see it in the big stores of the great American cities. The present owner, E. M. Tholis, of Boston, is said to have paid $42,500 for the canvas.

We have arranged to give visitors to our store a free view of these great paintings under the most favorable conditions. They will be exhibited on the fifth (Furniture) floor. Everybody is invited to see them. The subjects will appeal to all and cannot fail to create general admiration and wonderment. Boys and girls are especially requested to accompany their parents, and school teachers will find in this exhibition an opportunity for giving the pupils an artistic and instructive treat.

SERIAL STORY

THE HOUSE OF A THOUSAND CANDLES

By MEREDITH NICHOLSON

Author of "THE MAIN CHANCE," "ZELDA DAMERON," ETC.

CHAPTER I.

The Will of John Marshall Glenarm. Pickering's letter bringing news of my grandfather's death found me at Naples early in October. John Marshall Glenarm had died in June, leaving a will which gave me his property conditionally. Pickering wrote, and it was necessary for me to return immediately to qualify as legatee. It was by the merest luck that the letter came to my hands at all, for it had been sent to Constantinople in care of the consul general instead of my banker there, and it was not Pickering's fault that the consul was a friend of mine who kept track of my wanderings and was able to hurry the executor's letter after me to Italy where I had gone to meet an English financier who had been advised, unthinkingly, to spend of African railways. I am an engineer, a graduate of an American institution familiarly known as "The Tech," and my funds were running low. I naturally turned to my profession for employment.

But this letter changed my plans and the following day I cabled Pickering of my departure and was, outward bound on a steamer for New York. Fourteen days later I sat in Pickering's office in the Alveo Building and listened intently while he read, with much ponderous emphasis, the provisions of my grandfather's will. When he concluded I laughed. Pickering was a serious man and I was glad to see that my levity pained him. I had for that matter always been a source of annoyance to him and his look of disgust and rebuke did not trouble me in the least.

I reached across the table for the paper, and he gave me the sealed and ribboned copy of John Marshall Glenarm's will into my hands. I read it through and myself feeling conscious, meanwhile, that Pickering's cool gaze was bent intently upon me. These are the paragraphs that interested me most.

"I give and devise unto my said grandson John Glenarm, sometime a resident of the city and State of New York, and later a vagabond of parts unknown, a certain property known as Glenarm House, with the lands and hereditaments thereto pertaining and hereafter more particularly described and all personal effects, goods and other property that may be located at the premises and on the farm hereon described—the said realty lying in the county of Wabasha in the State of Indiana—upon this condition, faithfully and honestly performed."

"That said John Glenarm shall remain an occupant of said Glenarm House and of his lands appurtenant thereto, demeaning himself meanwhile in an orderly and temperate manner. Should he fail at any time during said year to comply with this provision, said property shall at once revert to my general estate shall become with out reservation and without necessity for any process of law the property, absolutely, of Marian Devereux of the county and State of New York."

"Well," he demanded, striking his hands upon the arms of his chair, "what do you think of it?"

For the life of me I could not help laughing again. There was in the first place a delicious irony in the fact that I should learn through him of my grandfather's wishes with respect to myself. Pickering and I had grown up in the same town in Vermont; we had attended the same preparatory school but there had been from childhood a certain antagonism between us. He had always succeeded where I failed, which is to say I must admit that he had succeeded pretty frequently. When I refused to settle down to my profession but chose to see something of the world first, Pickering gave himself seriously to the law, and there was, I knew from the beginning, no manner of chance that he would fail.

I am not more or less than human, and I remembered with joy that once I had thrashed him soundly at the prep school for bullying a smaller boy, but our score from school days was not without talismans on his side. He was cast, the better scholar—I grant him that, and he was shrewd and plausible. You never quite knew the extent of his powers and resources, and he had, I always maintained, the most amazing good luck—as witness the fact that John Marshall Glenarm had taken a friendly interest in him. It was wholly like my grandfather, who was a man of many whims, to give his affairs into Pickering's keeping; and I could not complain for I had missed my own chance with him. It was I knew readily enough part of my punishment for having succeeded so signally in incurring my grandfather's displeasure that he had made a necessity for me to treat with Arthur Pickering in this matter of the will; and Pickering was enjoying the situation to the full.

But there was something not wholly honest in my mirth, for my conduct during the three preceding years had been reprehensible. I had used my grandfather shabbily. My parents died when I was a child, and he had cared for me as far back as my memory ran. He had suffered me to spend the fortune left by my father without restraint; he had expected much of me, and I had grievously disappointed him. It was his hope that I should devote myself to architecture, a profession for which he had the greatest admiration, whereas I had insisted on engineering.

I am not writing an apology for my life, and I shall not attempt to extenuate my conduct in going abroad at the end of my course at Tech and, making Laurence Donovan's acquaintance, setting off with him on a career of adventure. I do not regret, though possibly it would be more to my credit if I did, the months spent in leisurely following the Danube east of the Iron Gate—Laurence Donovan always with me, while we urged the villagers and innkeepers to all manner of sedition, acquitting ourselves so well that when we came out into the Black sea for further pleasure, Russia did us the honor to keep a spy at our heels. I should like, for my own satisfaction, at least, to set down an account of certain affairs in which we were concerned at Belgrad, but without Larry's consent I am not at liberty to do so. Nor shall I take time here to describe our travels in Africa, though our study of the Atlas mountain dwarfs won us honorable mention by the British Ethnological Society.

These were my yesterday's; but today I sat in Arthur Pickering's office in the towering Alveo Building, conscious of the muffled roar of Broadway discussing the terms of my grandfather Glenarm's will with a man whom I disliked as heartily as it is safe for one man to dislike another. Pickering had asked me a question, and I was suddenly aware that his an old friend of his—Miss Evans, known as Sister Theresa. Miss Devereux is Sister Theresa's niece."

I whistled. I had a dim recollection that during my grandfather's long widowhood there were occasional reports that he was about to marry. The name of Miss Evans had been mentioned in this connection. I had heard it spoken of in my family, and not, I remembered, with much kindness. Later I heard of her joining a Sisterhood, and opening a school somewhere in the West.

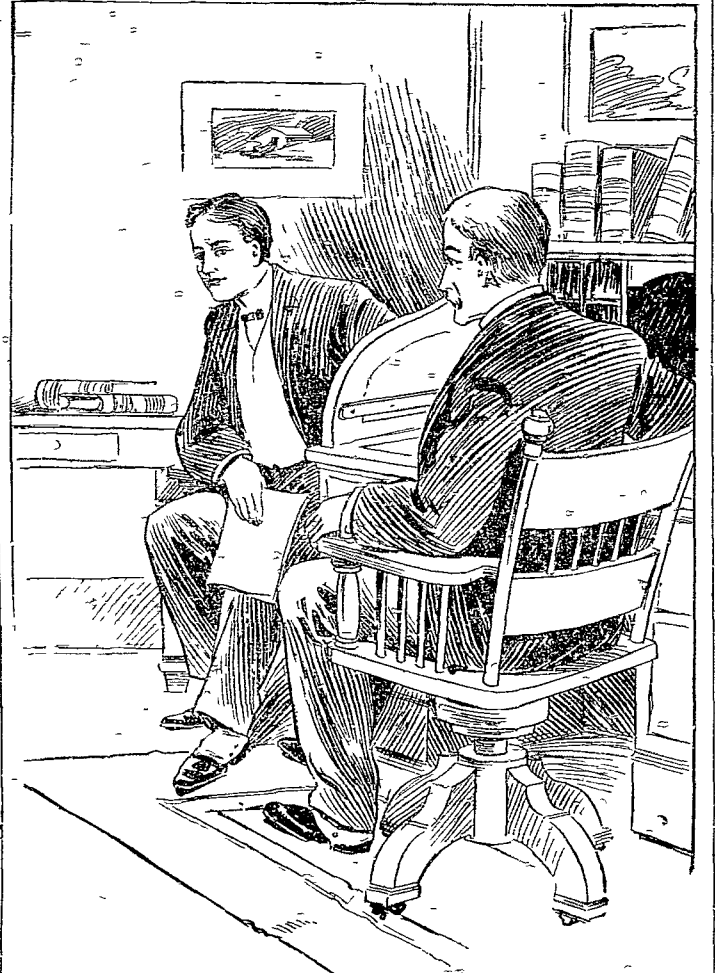

"And Miss Devereux—is she an elderly nun, too?"

"I don't know how elderly she is, but she isn't a nun at present. Still, she's very much alone in the world, and she and Sister Theresa are very intimate."

"Pass the will again," Pickering, while I make sure I grasp these divergent ideas—Sister Theresa isn't the one I mustn't marry is she? It's the other ecclesiastical embroidery artist—the one with the 'x' in her name, suggesting the algebra of my vanishing youth."

"I read aloud this paragraph: 'Provided, further, that in event said John Glenarm aforesaid shall marry the said Marian Devereux, or in the event of any promise, or contract of marriage between said persons within five years from the date of said John Glenarm's acceptance of the provisions of this will, the whole estate shall become the property absolutely of St. Agatha's School, at Anandale, Wabasha county, Indiana, a corporation under the laws of said state.'"

"For a touch of comedy commend me to my grandfather," Pickering, you always were a well-meaning fellow—I'll turn over to you all my right, interest and title in and to these an-eyes were fixed upon me and that he awaited my answer.

"What do I think of it?" I repeated. "I don't know that it makes any difference what I think, but I'll tell you, if you want to know, that I call it infamous, outrageous, that a man should leave a ridiculous will of that sort behind him. All the old money-bags who pile up fortunes magnify the importance of their money. They imagine that every kindness, every ordinary courtesy shown them, is merely a bid for a slice of the cake. I'm disappointed in my grandfather. He was a splendid old man, though God knows he had his queer ways. I'll bet a thousand dollars, if I have so much money in the world, that this scheme is yours, Pickering, and not his. It smacks of your ancient vindictiveness, and John Marshall Glenarm had none of that in his blood. That stipulation about my residence out there is fantastic. I don't have to be a lawyer to know that, and no doubt I could break the will. I've a good notion to try it, anyhow."

"To be sure," You can tie up the estate for a half dozen years if you like," he replied coolly. He did not look upon me as likely to become a formidable litigant. My staying qualities had been proved weak long ago, as Pickering knew well enough.

"No doubt you would like that," I answered. "But I'm not going to give you the pleasure I abide by the terms of the will. My grandfather was a fine old gentleman. I shan't drag his name through the courts—not even to please you, Arthur Pickering," I declared hotly.

"The sentiment is worthy of a good man, Glenarm," he rejoined.

But this woman who is to succeed to my rights—I don't seem to remember her."

"It is not surprising that you never heard of her."

"Then she's not a connection of the family, no long-lost cousin whom I ought to remember?"

"No, she was a late acquaintance of your grandfather. He met her through gelic Sisters. Marry! I like the ideal I suppose some one will try to marry me for my money. Marriage, Pickering, is not embraced in my scheme of life!"

"I should hardly call you a marry man," he observed.

"Perfectly right, my friend! Sister Theresa was, considered a possible match for my grandfather in my youth. I'm quite out of it with her. And the other lady with the fascinating algebraic climax to her name—she too, is impossible, it seems that can get the money by marrying her. I'd better let her take it. She's as poor as the devil I dare say."

"I imagine not. The Evanses are a wealthy family, in spots, and she ought to have some money of her own if her aunt doesn't coax it out of her for educational schemes."

"And where on the map are these lovely creatures to be found?"

"Sister Theresa's school adjoins your preserve; Miss Devereux has, I think, some of your own weakness for travel. Sister Theresa is her nearest relative, and she occasionally visits St. Agatha's—that's the school."

"I suppose they embroider altar-cloths together and otherwise labor valiantly to bring confusion upon Satan and his cohorts. Just the people to pull the wool over the eyes of my grandfather!"

Pickering smiled at my resentment. "You'd better give them a wide berth; they might catch you in their net. Sister Theresa is said to have quite a winning way. She certainly plucked your grandfather."

"Nuns in spectacles, the gentle educators of youth and that sort of thing, with a good-natured old man for their prey. None of them for me!"

"I rather thought so," remarked Pickering, and he pulled his watch from his pocket and turned the stem with his heavy fingers. He was short, thickset and sleek, with a square jaw hair already thin and a close-cropped mustache. Age, I mentally reflected, was not improving him.

PERMANENTLY CURED

Of Kidney Disease by Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy.

Mr. C. M. Bartholomew, of Kalkaska, Mich., was a sufferer in 1886 with what, all, including physicians, called Bright's Disease of the Kidneys. Doctors said there was no help for him. As a last resort he used Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy. The symptoms disappeared and he was permanently cured by this great remedy. His case was a remarkable one and attracted great attention. Now, in 1906 (20 years after) Mr. Bartholomew writes that he confirms all that he said in favor of Favorite Remedy in 1886, and again endorses its use. Not a "patent" medicine.

EARLY NORTHWEST VOYAGES.

Some Account of the Arctic Trips That Have Been Made.

Beginning with the American discoveries of John Cabot in 1497, the search for the northwest passage was for many years the object of rival expeditions from Denmark, England, France and Portugal, says A. W. Greely, in the Century. It was Frobiisher, however, who in 1576-78 first gave a distinct national character to the quest. John Davis of Davis' strait, followed in three voyages, 1585-88, and then, in 1612, came the illustrious and hapless Henry Hudson, whose motto was that explorers should "achieve what they had undertaken or else give reasons wherefore it will not be."

The search for the Atlantic side closed for two centuries with the voyage of a great seaman, William Baffin, who, in a tiny boat of 55 tons, with a miserable equipment, but an undaunted heart, attained, in 1616, the highest north in the western hemisphere 77 degrees 45 minutes N., and discovered three radiating sounds, Jones, Smith and Lancaster, the last being the eastern entrance to the long-sought passage.

HOME-MADE CATARRH CURE.

Sufferers Should Make This Up and Try It Anyway.

Any one can mix right at home the best remedy of its kind known. The name "Cyclone" is given to the following prescription, it is supposed, because of its promptness in driving from the blood and system every vestige of catarrhal poison, relieving this foul and dread disease, no matter where located. To prepare the mixture Get from any good pharmacy one half-ounce Fluid Extract Dandelion, one ounce Compound Kargou and three ounces Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla. Shake well and use in teaspoonful doses after each meal and at bedtime.

This is a harmless, inexpensive mixture, which has a peculiar action upon the eliminative tissues of the kidneys, assisting them to filter and strain from the blood and system all catarrhal poisons, which, if not eradicated, are absorbed by the mucous membrane, and an open sore or catarrh is the result.

Prepare some and try it, as it is the prescription of an eminent catarrh specialist of national reputation.

The "Thunderer."

Judge Rentoul's reference on the bench to the Times as the "Thunderer" reminds us how remarkably this nickname has persisted. The Morning Post is no longer "Jeames," the Standard has not been "Mrs. Gamp" since the decease of the Morning Herald—the "Mrs. Harris" to whom it would allude as an independent authority, and the two represented the same proprietor. But the Times is still the "Thunderer." It owes that name to Captain Edward Sterling, who is said to have begun a Times article with the words: "We thundered forth the other day an article on the subject of social and political reform."—London Chronicle.

The revelations regarding fraudulent paint materials which have been made by the Agricultural Experiment Station of Fargo, N. D., and published by Prof. E. F. Ladd, state commissioner, have occasioned almost as much of a sensation as the exposure of adulteration in food products did when the latter first began to appear. It has been shown that kegs marked "Pure White Lead" often contain other substances such as chalk, barytes, silica, etc., and that oil supposed to be linseed often contains petroleum adulterants, to say nothing of water in large proportions. Sometimes, so-called "White Leads" contain not a lot of genuine White Lead.

The farmer is a large user of paint. No one is more interested than he is, that the label should enable him to get what he supposes he is paying for. There should be a law in every state requiring that all paint packages be labeled exactly according to their contents. That would enable every paint-buyer to buy intelligently.

"Is your husband up yet?" asked the sour-faced woman at the door. "I expect he is," was the reply. "I'd like to see him for a few minutes." "So would I. He hasn't come home yet."—Milwaukee Sentinel.
