Misguided Man.

A Pennsylvania man asserts that his wife hasn't spoken to him in seven years. Yet the misguided man is suing for a divorce. —N. O. Times-Democrat.

Negro Children Like Poetry.

"Negro children are fond of poetry—more so than white children."

This is what Mrs. Carrie Whitney, public librarian, says.

"Not long ago," she continued, "I saw a negro boy in here, deeply engrossed in a rather large book. I walked gently up behind him. What do you suppose he was reading? You couldn't guess in a year. It was Dante's Inferno. His little face showed eagerness, too, to learn of that terrible picture Dante drew."

"The poems of Eugene Field are particularly attractive to the negro children. And every few days one of them makes a request for the poem which says 'An' the Goblins 'll get you, ef you don't watch out.'"

School Notes.

Professor Hornberger has been examining the pupils of the different grades in their turn this week and last.

The Eighth grade pupils are taking their final examination in reading by writing in their own words "The Merchant of Venice."

The Second grade teacher, Miss Coldren, has a fresh bouquet of panes on her desk almost every day, which is brought to her by one of her pupils.

The Third grade has this inscription on the blackboard surrounded by flowers: "The best pupils in town are in this schoolroom when they try to be good."

Miss Hall, our music teacher, attended the State Association of Music Teachers at Battle Creek last Thursday afternoon, reading a paper on the "Methods of Teaching."

The Kindergarten, First and Second grades are getting ready for their annual picnic which they will have next Thursday afternoon on their play ground. They will serve ice cream and cake. Their mothers are all invited.

The A class of the Second grade enjoyed a plum pudding for number work last Tuesday. It consisted of a pan of sawdust in which were buried cards with the multiplication tables written on them minus the answers which the children gave very quickly.

READING WITH A PURPOSE.

The Bible the Best of All Books for Culture.

"Culture," said Arnold in the preface to "Literature and Dogma," "is indispensably necessary, and culture is reading; but reading with a purpose to guide it, and with system. He does a good work who does anything to help this; indeed, it is the one essential service now to be rendered to education." The remark, whether it be the cause or effect, may stand for the type of motive underlying many a modern treatise on the subject. There have been famous lists of the 100 "best books," now depreciated by a more catholic taste; we all know of numerous pamphlets on the subject of what to read; and the literary counsel "featured" in popular periodicals for domestic consumption is beyond analysis; they all tell us what books, both classical and contemporary, it is best for us to taste, to chew, or to digest. In such aims of advice one may be reasonably certain, before opening any given treatise, to find stock ideas; books are our priceless possession; you should, in Lowell's words, "read what will make you think rather than dream;" newspapers are a public menace and should be read swiftly, merely for the sake of the important news; excessive novel reading is deleterious to the moral fiber; the Bible is the best of all books for culture. Indeed, these ideas can not too often be repeated, for we do not hear a title as much about them as we do about passing politics, the stock market, theaters and athletics; but the specific interest in the present guides to culture lies in the variations from such worthy remarks and the fresh application of them. —Forum.

The Value of Individuality in a Man

Can any man of character afford to obscure it with a nondescript appearance at first sight? Custom made clothing emphasizes it. A tailor not merely fits a man's figure—we suit the personality as well. The coat must be made for the man, otherwise it is not his in any personal sense. It may be in style, but not in his style. Consider the economy of custom made clothing. It lasts and looks well till worn out. To cheapen your appearance is poor economy at best.

ENOUGH FOR TWO LOADS.

Senator Hale's Story Goes Near Re-buke to Congressmen.

Senator Hale had been inveighing at a dinner against long speeches.

"But, senator," said a congressman, "you can't accuse me of ever having made too long a speech, can you?"

Senator Hale smiled.

"Perhaps not," he said, "and again, but did you ever hear about the temperance lecturer?"

"Well, you must know that there was a temperance lecturer in Maine who came to Ellsworth and lectured. He hit out pretty hard from the shoulder at these so-called moderate drinkers and at the end of his remarks an Ellsworth man took him aside and said in an aggrieved tone:

"Look here, Jim, I am a moderate drinker, as all the town knows, and to many people it is going to seem as if a good part of your lecture was pointed at me. What did you want to do it for, Jim? You never saw me with more on board than I could carry."

"What's that?" said the temperance lecturer.

"You never saw me with a bigger load than I could carry, did you?"

The lecturer frowned.

"Well, no," he said, slowly, "but I have seen you when I thought you'd have done better to go twice for it."

MORGAN AND THE STUTTERER.

Former Relaxed at the Clever Retort of the Latter.

A young reporter on the New York Sun, who stuttered fearfully, was sent one day to try to get a statement from Mr. J. Pierpont Morgan.

"Who and what are you?" demanded Mr. Morgan.

In moments of surprise or nervous excitement, the reporter's stammering always became acute; so he stood with jaws locked, vainly trying to speak.

Mr. Morgan began to fume, and finally he sputtered:

"What in the devil are you?"

The reporter's sense of humor did not share the clogging up of his speech, and, after much facial contortion, he managed to gurgle out:

"I-I-I—aaaaaaan elocutionist."

Mr. Morgan saw the joke, he grimly relaxed and when the reporter's speech-consciousness returned he got the statement—Saturday Evening Post.

A Calumny on Anglers.

"We fishermen," said Havelock Morton, California's famous fly-caster, "are continually being accused of intemperance. The accusation is false. No intemperate man could ever cast a fly. Yet yesterday a friend of mine had the effrontery to say to me:

"You fishermen! You fishermen!"

"What's the matter now? I asked scornfully.

"With a chuckle, he declared that, out walking in the country, he had met an angler beside a brook and had said to the man:

"How can you tell the good places from the bad when you come to a stream?"

"By the bottles," the man answered. "Wherever the most empty bottles are scattered is the best place."

Encouragement.

It is a great mistake to take a good action performed by some one else as a matter of course. If people would but realize that they are better served when they themselves are kind and considerate the world would be the better.

Never be too careless or too superior to give a word of praise, for a word of encouragement has the effect of a tonic upon drooping spirits and adds a new incentive to the worker.

Of course, injudicious praise is a mistake, but if work is badly done try to find some good point about it or point out the mistakes as kindly as possible.

THE PRESIDENT TO EDITORS

Roosevelt Delivers a Notable Address at Jamestown, Va.

Speaks Before the Delegates to the National Editorial Association—Touches Upon Important National Questions.

Jamestown, Va., June 13.—The following is the address of President Roosevelt before the National Editorial Association at this exposition here.

It is of course a mere truism to say that no other body of our countrymen wield as extensive an influence as those who write for the public and for the periodicals. It is also a truism to say that such power implies the gravest responsibility, and the man exercising it should hold himself accountable, and should be held by others accountable, as fully as if he occupied any other position of public trust. I do not intend to dwell upon your duties to-day, save that I shall permit myself to point out one matter where it seems to me that the need of our people is vital. It is essential that the man in public life and the man who writes in the public press shall both of them, if they are really good servants of the people, be prompt to assail wrongdoing and wickedness. But in thus assailing wrongdoing and wickedness, there are two conditions to be fulfilled, because if unfulfilled, harm and not good will result.

In the first place, be sure of your facts and avoid everything like hysteria or exaggeration, for to assail a decent man for something of which he is innocent is to give aid and comfort to every scoundrel, while indulgence in hysterical exaggeration serves to weaken, not strengthen, the statement of truth.

In the second place, be sure that you base your judgment on conduct and not on the social or economic position of the individual with whom you are dealing. There are good and bad men in every walk of life, and their being good or bad does not depend upon whether they have a large or small bank account. Yet this elemental fact, this fact which we all accept as self-evident, when we think each of us of the people whom he himself knows in his business and social relations, is often completely ignored by public men and certain public writers.

The men who thus ignore it, and who attack wickedness only when found in a particular class are always unsafe, and are sometimes very dangerous, leaders. Distrust equally the man who never able to discover any of the rich men to attack and who confines himself to attacking the sins and shortcomings of rich men. It is a sure sign of moral and mental dishonesty in any man if in his public assailing upon inquiry he is never able to see the man who is rapidly rising in the class; and this whether he is able only to see the crimes of arrogance and oppression in the rich or the crimes of envy and violence in the poor.

No much for what I have to say to you, but your capacity of molding and guiding of public thought, in addition I want to speak to you on two great movements in our public life which I feel must necessarily occupy no inconsiderable part of the time of our public men in the near future. One of these is the question of, in certain ways, reshaping our system of taxation so as to make it bear more heavily on those most capable of supporting the strain. The other is the question of utilizing the natural resources of the nation in the way that will be of most benefit to the nation as a whole.

Need of Foresight.

In utilizing and conserving the natural resources of the nation the one characteristic more essential than any other is foresight. Unfortunately, foresight is not usually characteristic of a young and vigorous people, and it is obviously not a marked characteristic of our young United States. Yet assuredly it should be the growing nation with a future which takes the long look ahead; and no other nation is growing so rapidly as ours or has a future so full of promise. No other nation enjoys so wonderful a measure of present prosperity which can be right treated as an earnest of future success, and for no other are the rewards of foresight so great, so certain, and so easily foretold. Yet hitherto as a nation we have been so shortsighted and so reckless waste and destruction of much of our natural wealth.

The conservation of our natural resources and their proper use constitute the fundamental problem which underlies almost every other problem of our national life. Unless we maintain an adequate material basis for our civilization, we can not maintain the institutions in which we take so great and just a pride, and to create and destroy our natural resources means to undermine this material basis. During the last five years efforts have been made in several new directions in the government service to get our people to look ahead, to exercise foresight, and to substitute a planned and orderly development of our resources in the place of a haphazard striving for immediate profit. The effort has been made through several agencies.

In the reclamation service began in 1889 the largest opportunities of the western half of our country for irrigation. The work includes all the states from the great plains through the Rocky mountains to the Pacific slope. It has been conducted with the clear and definite purpose of using the valuable water resources of the public land for the greatest good for the greatest number in the long run; in other words, for the purpose of putting upon the land permanent home makers who will use and develop it for themselves and for their children and children's children. There has been opposition, of course, to this work of the reclamation service; for we have been obliged to antagonize certain men whose interest it was to exhaust for their own temporary personal profit natural resources which ought to be developed through use, so as to be conserved for the permanent common advantage of the people as a whole. But there will be no halt in the work of preserving the waters which head in the Rocky mountain region so as to make them of most use to the people as a whole; for the policy is essential to our national welfare.

Operations of Land Laws.

The public lands of the United States should be utilized in similar fashion. Our present public land laws were passed when there was a vast surplus of vacant public land. The chief desire was to secure settlers thereon and comparative slight attention was paid to exactly how the lands were disposed of in detail. In consequence, lax execution of the laws became the rule both in the land office and in the public mind, and land frauds were common and little noted. This was especially true when a system originally designed for the fertile and well-watered regions of the middle west was applied to the dryer regions of the great plains and to the mountains and Pacific coast. In these regions the system lent itself to fraud, and much land passed out of the hands of the government without passing into the hands of the home-maker. The department of the interior and the department of justice joined in prosecuting the offenders against the law; but both the law and its administration were defective and needed to be changed. Three years ago a public lands commission was appointed to scrutinize the law, the facts, and to recommend a remedy. Their examination specifically showed the existence of great frauds upon the public domain, and their recommendations for changes in the law were made with the design of conserving the natural resources of every part of the public land by putting it to its best use. Attention was especially called to the prevention of settlement by the passage of great areas of public lands into the hands of a few men, and to forest enormous waste caused by unrestricted grazing on the open range; a system of using the natural resources of the public domain which amounts to putting a premium on its destruction. The recommendations of the public lands commission were sound, and they were especially in the interest of the actual home maker; and where the small home maker could not utilize the land, it was provided that the government should keep control of it so that it could not be sold or leased by a few wealthy men. Congress has not yet acted upon these recommendations, except for the repeal of the iniquitous lie-land-law. But the recommendations are so just and proper, so essential to our national welfare, that I believe they will surely ultimately be adopted.

In 1881 congress authorized the president to create national forests in the public domain. These forests reserves remained for a long time in charge of the general land office, which had no men properly trained in forestry. But another department, that of agriculture, possessed the trained men. In other words, the government forests were without foresters and the government foresters without forests. Waste of effort and waste of forest inevitably followed. Finally the situation was ended in 1905 by the creation of the United States forest service, which has stopped the waste, conserved the resources of the national forests, and made them available to the people. What has been managed on a coherent plan, and in a way that augurs well for the future.

The mineral fuels of the eastern United States have already passed into the hands of large private owners, and the rest of the country is rapidly following. This should not be, for such mineral resources belong in a peculiar degree to the whole people. Under private control there is much waste from the shortsighted methods of working, and the complete utilization of the fuel is sacrificed for immediate profit. The mineral fuels under our present conditions are as essential to our prosperity as the forests will always be. The difference is that the supply is definitely limited, for coal does not grow and trees do. It is obvious that the mineral fuels should be conserved, not wasted, and that enough of them should remain in the hands of the government to protect the people against unjust or extortionate prices so that they can be had by all who wish to be accomplished in the regulation of the great oil fields of the Indian territory offers a striking example of the good results of such a policy. Last summer, accordingly, I withdrew most of the coal reserves of the public domain from disposal, and asked for the legislation necessary to protect the public interest by the conservation of the mineral fuels; that is, for the power to keep the fee in the government and to regulate the coal, oil, and gas rights and to prevent their being sacrificed for a greater immediate profit. The mineral fuels legislation was passed, but I still hope that we shall ultimately get it.

Preserve Mineral Resources.

In addition to treating aright for the benefit of the whole people the forests and the mineral fuels, we should similarly try to preserve for the benefit of all the public lands which are of special value. Some three hundred million acres in all, which are unfit for cultivation by present methods and valuable only for the forage which they supply. This vast area is now open to the free grazing of cattle and horses, and is being used without restriction or regulation. When population has increased, as is now the case, such utter lack of management means that the public domain is turned over to be skinned by men whose interest is to exhaust it for their own private gain. What can be done under the present laws is now being done through the joint action of the interior department and the department of justice. But fully to accomplish the prevention of fraud there is need of further legislation and especially of a sufficient appropriation to permit the department of the interior to examine certain classes of entries on the ground before they pass into private ownership. The appropriation asked for last winter, if granted, would have put an end to the squandering of the public domain, while it would have prevented any need of causing hardship to individual settlers by holding up their claims. However, the appropriation was not given us, and in consequence it is not possible to secure, as I would like to secure, the natural resources of the public land from fraud, waste and encroachment.

So much for what we are trying to do in utilizing our public lands for the public in securing the use of the water, for forage, the coal and the timber for the public. In all four movements my chief adviser, and the man first to suggest to me the courses which have actually proved so beneficial, was Mr. Gifford Pinchot, the chief of the national forest service. Mr. Pinchot also suggested to me a movement supplementary to all of these movements; one which will itself lead the way in the general movement which he represents and with which he is so closely identified, the conservation of all our natural resources. This was the appointment of the inland waterway commission.

The inability of the railroads of the United States to meet the demands upon them has drawn public attention forcibly to the use of our waterways for transportation. But it is obvious that this is only one of their many uses, and that a planned and orderly development is impossible except by taking into account all the services they are capable of rendering. It was upon this ground that the inland waterways commission was recently appointed. Their duty is to propose a comprehensive plan for the improvement and utilization of those great waterways which are the great potential highways of the country. Their duty is also to bring together the points of view of all users of streams, and to submit a general plan for the development and conservation of the vast natural resources of the waterways of the United States. Clearly it is impossible for the waterways commission to accomplish its great task without considering the relation of streams to the conservation and use of all other natural resources, and I have asked that it do so. Here, then, for the first time, the orderly development and planned conservation of all our natural resources is presented as a single problem. One by one the individual tasks in this great problem have already been undertaken. One by one in practical fashion the methods of dealing with each of them have been worked out. National legislation has proved itself a success by its actual working. Again, actual experience has shown that the national forests will fulfill the larger purpose for which they were created. All who have thoughtfully studied the subject have come to see that the solution of the public lands question lies with the home maker, with the settler who lives on his land, and that government control of the mineral fuels and the public grazing lands is necessary. These conclusions, based on facts, and of vast importance which would confer large benefits upon the nation, but which stood by itself. They are connected together into one great fundamental problem—that of the conservation of our natural resources. Upon the wise solution of this much of our future obviously depends. Even such questions as the regulation of railway rates and the control of corporations are in reality subsidiary to the conservation of the whole people of the resources that nature has given us. If we fail to solve this problem, no skill in solving the others will in the end avail us very greatly.

Now as to the matter of taxation. Most great civilized countries have an income tax and an inheritance tax. In my judgment both should be part of our system of taxation. I speak diffidently about the income tax because one scheme for an income tax was declared unconstitutional by the supreme court by a five to four vote; and in addition it is a difficult tax to administer by its practical working, and any law would have to be exercised to see that it was not evaded by the very man whom it is most desirable to have taxed, for if so evaded it would of course be worse than no tax at all, as the least desirable of taxes is that which is not paid.

As to the inheritance tax, I speak upon the honest as compared with the dishonest man. Nevertheless, a graduated income tax of the proper type would be a desirable permanent feature of federal taxation, and I still believe that one may be devised which the supreme court will declare constitutional.

Inheritance Tax.

In my judgment, however, the inheritance tax is both a far better method of taxation, and far more important than the income tax, which bears heavily upon the honest as compared with the dishonest man. Nevertheless, a graduated income tax of the proper type would be a desirable permanent feature of federal taxation, and I still believe that one may be devised which the supreme court will declare constitutional.

The annual meeting of the Pioneer Society of Barry county will be held in Hastings on June 13. "The Girls of '58," composed of women who attended school in Hastings between the years of 1852 and 1858, will meet on June 14. The president of the association is Mrs. Elizabeth Fancher Striker, widow of the late Daniel Striker, formerly secretary of state. The women will attend in a body the exercises of the graduating class of the Hastings high school.

Not a Suicide Pact.

Mrs. John Sanders, who with her husband took chloroform at Silver Lake, which nearly resulted in their death, denies that they had made a suicide pact and says that her husband forced her to swallow the drug. Both were discovered in time and through medical aid their lives were saved, but Sanders is still in a serious condition.

Broke Her Neck.

Miss Mary Hudson, of Boardman township, stumbled, fell and broke her neck, while making an effort to escape from a bedroom in which a lamp had exploded. Death was instantaneous.

Miss Hudson had just completed her training to become a school teacher. She was graduated from the county normal May 21. She had spent the evening with her chum, and was preparing for bed when the explosion occurred.

Drunk, But Saved.

Arrest for drunkenness saved the life of Jerry Sullivan, a Detroit, last night. He was found, unconscious, under a freight car, just before it was switched to an outgoing train.

Nightwatchman McMan pulled Sullivan from the tracks and called the police.

The man's shoulder was found dislocated and he was badly bruised, from falling out of a car. He was sent to jail for ten days.

Despondent, Henry Steinback, aged 60 years, of L'Anse, Baraga county, hanged himself in the school house of which he was janitor. A widow and several children survive.

The charge of murder will be made against Bert Weinman, aged 28, and Jesse Johnson, aged 25, for alleged assault on Capt. Peter Johnson, in a Benton Harbor saloon. Capt. Johnson died in Chicago.

Valentine Wiegand, aged 55 years, who died of paralysis at his home in Petysville, was one of the oldest watchmakers in the state. He came to Petysville 60 years ago. A widow and one son survive.

SIDE LIGHTS ON MICHIGAN

AN AMENDMENT THAT AIDS THE MICHIGAN CENTRAL OPPOSED.

FORCED TO TAKE DRUG

Matters of Note Collected Here and There About the State and Briefly Told.

The Change of Venue.

Attorney General Bird opposes a change made in the senate in the change of the venue repeal bill, the McCracken bill, which as presented excludes pending cases from the operation of the repeal. This was amended in the senate so as to exclude only pending cases wherein application is made before its passage of the repeal.

The attorney general has a case in which the state is defendant against the Michigan Central railroad for $5,000,000 damages for the repeal of the charter. The case is now tied up by demurrer in the supreme court. Attorney General Bird may want an arbitrary change of venue from Wayne when the case is tried, but he cannot make application before the demurrer is decided. Hence he objects to the amendment of the senate which would tie his hands. The bill will be taken up in the house next week and the house will probably not concur in the senate amendments.

State Firemen.

The thirty-third annual convention of the Michigan State Firemen's association, closed in Detroit after the selection of Ludington as the place for holding the 1908 convention, and the election of the following officers:

Hugo R. Dells, Lansing, president; Thomas Murray, Ludington, first vice president; Edward H. Bates, Detroit, second vice president; G. W. Kepper, Ludington, third vice president; Samuel Robinson, Charlotte, statistician; A. P. Lane, Ithaca, secretary and treasurer. Guy D. Northrup, of Detroit, was elected delegate to the national convention, which will be held in Oklahoma City, Okla., in September.

Governor Will Sign It.

The Moriarty bill allowing unpermitted mining companies to own unlimited timber acreage, which passed the senate and the house with such large majorities, in spite of a decree of alarmist opposition, will probably be signed by the governor. It is said by the friends of the bill that he was consulted by the attorneys of the various conflicting interests in the north country before the bill passed the senate, and these conflicting interests, which certainly would not see one another allowed to form trusts, have agreed on the bill. The iron mines, the Calumet & Hecla and the Osceola people, are said to be agreed on the bill.

"Girls of '58."

The annual meeting of the Pioneer Society of Barry county will be held in Hastings on June 13. "The Girls of '58," composed of women who attended school in Hastings between the years of 1852 and 1858, will meet on June 14. Valentine Wiegand, aged 55 years, who died of paralysis at his home in Petysville, was one of the oldest watchmakers in the state. He came to Petysville 60 years ago. A widow and one son survive.

Condition of Crops.

The average condition of wheat is 70, according to the June crop report issued by the state department. This is 4 per cent lower than one month ago, but it shows that the entire crop will not be lost, as was feared. It is estimated that 3 per cent of the wheat sown last fall was winter killed, and that 4 per cent has been destroyed by the Hessian fly.

The condition of rye is reported at 81 per cent, corn at 63, oats at 75, meadows at 69 and potatoes at 72. The acreage of potatoes is estimated at 51 per cent, sugar beets at 89 per cent, barley at 86 per cent and corn at 9 per cent.

Early strawberries are hurt by frosts and will be a light crop and late strawberries look good; raspberries and blackberries, not over one-fourth of a crop; sour cherries will be a fair crop; near the lake, apparently no sweet cherries; peaches, very light, injured by frost and San Jose scale; plums, a light crop; early apples set very full; late apples will be a good crop; pears will be a fair crop where trees were not frozen last October; muskmelons will have probably reduced acreage.

"Call of the Wild."

In a wild and almost impenetrable swamp one and one-half miles south of the village of Suttons Bay, Leelanau county, in the midst of a thickly populated section dotted with well-titled farms and only twelve miles from a city of 12,000 inhabitants, Jack London's "Call of the Wild" has been duplicated. In this case, however, the dog is a female, the mother of six puppies and all have reverted to type.

How long ago this dog left the haunts of man and took up her abode in the wilds of the swamp is not known, but it must have been over a year. Four months ago she was noticed, and with her were seven puppies that were several months old. Since then the pack has been frequently seen, and on several occasions they have given battle to men, and it was only by strenuous efforts that they escaped being torn to pieces by the sharp teeth.

The Military Row.

The hospital corps of the Third regiment, M. N. G., is in a turmoil which may result in a court-martial before the row is ended. It all started with a "round robin" requesting the resignation of Maj. Charles T. Newkirk, M. D., captain of the corps, who, it is alleged, has been too lax in discipline and has not kept the corps up to the mark in drill. Dr. Newkirk did not take the petition seriously, but referred it to Col. Bates, who sent through Dr. Newkirk, a request to Dr. Floyd Randall, hospital steward, to resign, as the "round robin" was laid at his door.

Dr. Randall flatly declined to get out and took the matter up to the governor through his friends. Asst. Adj. Gen. Cox investigated, and it is said found that Dr. Newkirk should get out for the good of the corps.

The Allison Case.

The board of pardons considered 15 applications for parole at its two days' session in Jackson, but that of John Allison was not among the number. When applications for parole are made they receive a number, and each is considered in turn. As the board is generally behind in its business it takes considerable time to have a case considered. None of the members of the board ventured an opinion concerning the outcome in the Allison case or in any of those considered.

The Normites.

The Normites, as they are called in Standish, named from James Norm, a well-known lumberman, held a baptism in the river at that place, one girl being baptized. The peculiar tenet of their faith is that all the churches are but houses of the devil and that none are saved unless they belong to their peculiar sect. Most of them do not vote or take any part in public matters. T. D. W. Muir, of Detroit, is a leader among them.

AROUND THE STATE.

George McQuinn, 56 years old, while temporarily insane, wandered 20 miles from Bay City to Midland in one night.

John Hill, aged 34, while trying to put an ear stuck in the bottom of Kimball lake, fell backward from his boat and was drowned.

A measure has been drafted and forwarded to Senator Wetmore to give Cadillac a board of assessors in place of a single assessor.

James L. Veem came from Panama, where he is employed as a clerk, to marry Miss Minnie Zebell, of Royalton. They will reside in the canal zone.

With fireworks, speckmaking and parade, headed by bands, military organizations, the mayor of Grand Rapids and city officials, the Canal Street Improvement association will dedicate the new Grand Trunk downtown depot June 15.

The Saginaw bay sea serpent has made his appearance again. Herbert Roensch declares that the monster rose up out of the water not ten feet from his launch, and that he headed his craft for home with all possible speed.

The Bliss Electrical school, of Washington, D. C., graduates five Michigan men this year. They are: George E. Dunn, Kewadin; Osvald Goodwin, Port Huron; Marion A. Hinman, Grand Rapids; John E. Lehman, Gayeton; H. Glenn Raseley, Marshall.

The navy department has notified five congressmen that there will be a chance for five Michigan boys to enter the naval academy next year, appointments to be made before March 4 next. The examination of appointees will occur in April and June, 1908.

The city of Saginaw must help pay the expenses, if the entire brigade of state troops is to be taken there at the close of the state camp in August to help celebrate the city's semi-centennial. Adj. Gen. McGurrin says the state military fund is not large enough to permit the entire expenses to be borne by the state.

Rough Road for R. R. Commission Bill.

Unless a satisfactory get-together is reached on the railroad commission bill this week this proposed change in the manner of supervising and regulating the operations of the railroads of the state is not likely to be made this year. The senate railroad committee has concluded its hearing of this matter, but little progress has been made towards passing the bill. The subject is a big one fraught with numerous details and it will require much time for each house to digest them. This fact and the lateness of the season combine to make somewhat skeptical as to the outcome. It is still possible, however, for an agreement to be reached. The greatest obstacle in the way of the bill, however, is the fact that many members of the legislature only want just what the railroads want and the railroads do not want any railroad commission bill where they cannot appoint the commission.

Dame Gossip Busy.

For a week or more past Dame Gossip has been unusually busy in Northville, so busy in fact that many household duties must have been neglected. The fair name of any of the men and women of Northville cannot be attacked by idle gossips without some one eventually being called to account. As is usual in the recent case, when traced to its fountain head, the whole thing proved a piece of gossip. As the Record has previously stated, those who circulate gossip usually have all they can attend to in keeping their own door steps clean. Northville people should organize an anti-gossip club.

Mine Co's. in Forestry Business.

The mines of Michigan propose to go into the forestry business extensively. Timber is becoming scarce at a rapid rate and it is up to them to make some move toward insuring a supply for the needs of the coming years. As a step in this direction they have asked that the law be amended so as to remove the limit as to the real estate they may acquire and hold. The bill passed by the legislature last week permits them to hold as much real estate as their purposes shall require. It is said that these companies will reforest large tracts and possibly develop more iron and copper mines.

Binder Twine Bill Passed.

There is no more speculation as to the fate of the bill providing for a binder twine plant in the state prison at Jackson. The bill has now been reported by the senate, and was safely passed yesterday.

Valencia Fete Day Costume.

In Valencia, on the fete days, the little girls have their hair dressed just exactly like that of their older sisters, having the front locks parted and coiled up into a wheel at each temple, and the back hair elaborately arranged from the nape of the neck to a few inches above the head, the coiffure being held secure by fancy pins.

Courtship in Mexico.

Staring at the windows of their adored ones is the way Mexican lovers woo. If the young woman is agreeable, she will appear at the window after several days, and they thus become acquainted.

BODY CLEANING EVERY SPRING MORE URGENT THAN HOUSE CLEANING.

Many Women Have Discovered That a Course of Treatment With Pe-ru-na Cleanses the System of the Accumulations of Winter.

MRS. ALICE BRADLEY.

Mrs. Alice Bradley, Thorold, Ont., Can., writes: "Two years ago I became weak and rundown and as time passed I gradually failed until a year ago, when I experienced a stroke of paralysis, which affected one side and I was helpless."

"I called in professional medical treatment, but steadily grew worse."

"I had decided I never would rise again from my bed, but when Peruna was brought to me and after having taken four bottles of it, I was able to be out and a wonder to myself and friends."

"I consider Peruna a great blessing to the afflicted. I may add that my daughter has also used Peruna and has been blessed with renewed health. I believe Peruna saved our lives."

Clean Up Once a Year.

CLEANING up the body in the spring is a duty everyone owes to himself. Face powders may hide a rough skin, but Peruna helps to produce a skin that need not be hidden.

The source of good blood is good digestion. Peruna aids digestion.

Those people who have regular bodily functions have a clear and delicate skin. Peruna helps to restore these functions. Most skin deformities depend upon systemic derangements, which cannot be corrected by local treatments.

Peruna is a systemic remedy, reorganizing and regulating the whole body.

Mrs. N. P. Lawler, 423 1/2 N. Broadway, Pittsburg, Kas., writes:

"Last spring I caught a severe cold which developed into a serious case of catarrh. I felt weak and sick and could neither eat nor sleep well."

"A member of our club, who had been cured of catarrh through the use of Peruna, advised me to try it and I did so at once."

"I expected help, but nothing like the wonderful change for the better. I observed almost as soon as I started taking it."

"In three days I felt much better, and within a week I was well."

"I continued taking the entire bottle and within two weeks I was in fine health."

"Peruna is a wonderful medicine."

Mr. Lee King, R. F. D. No. 4, Farmersville, Tex., writes:

"My health has been better generally this spring and summer than it has been for four years and I have worked nearly every day."

"I suffered with dysentery and bowel trouble."

"Your remedy also cured my wife of constipation."

"I wish you continued success with your great medicine, Peruna."

"I continued taking the entire bottle and within two weeks I was in fine health."

Resolution.

For and in consideration of the many acts of kindness and true friendship accorded us in this the drawing hour to the end of our usefulness; where true friendship and charity are the greatest tokens of esteem and while our hearts are glad that we still live in this day, we realize that each year we are diminishing in numbers also in inability to stand the financial strain upon our meager incomes. We know that one by one we are falling out by the wayside and as we wander down the pathway of life, is it a wonder that reaching forth for something of support in order to keep fresh in our minds memories of dark days in the past, we grasp a kindly hand as a cheerful voice says: "Old Comrade let us help bear the burdens that are each year falling heavier upon you."

With hearts overflowed with the kindly word and loyal greeting we hereby resolve that for the acts of kindness and financial help shown that Allen M. Harmon Post No. 218 G. A. R. of Northville, Michigan, take this opportunity to extend our hearts best love to all who so nobly assisted us in making Memorial Day a success.

And to our friends and neighbors: Hon. Cassius Benton, M. N. Johnson and Wm. Ely, whom we have tried and found true we would extend the hand of fellowship and make them Honorary Members of this Post. So ordered at a regular meeting, June 7, 1907.

Also be it further resolved that a copy of the above resolutions be sent to the three named friends and also placed on file in this Post.

SERIAL STORY

THE HOUSE OF A THOUSAND CANDLES

By MEREDITH NICHOLSON

Author of "THE MAIN CHANCE," "ZELDA," "DAMERON," ETC.

Copyright 1905 by Bobbs-Merrill Co.

"Yes, and he hit me over the head with a club. It was his indiscretion, sir. He wanted to go through the library in broad daylight, and it wasn't any use, anyhow. There's nothing there."

But I don't like the looks of this thing. Morgan's sick and out of his head. But a fellow like Morgan isn't likely to shoot himself accidentally, and now that it's done the work's stopped, and the time is running on. What do you think, Glenarm suspects?"

"I can't tell, sir, but mighty little. I should say, The shot through the window the first night he was here seemed to shake him a trifle, but he's quite settled down now. I should say, sir, That shot of Morgan's was a great mistake. The young gentleman isn't to be frightened away as easily as that."

"Morgan's a fool. But what is Glenarm doing? He probably doesn't spend much time on this side of the fence—doesn't haunt the chapel, I fancy?"

"Lord, no! I hardly suspect the young gentleman of being a praying man."

"You haven't seen him prowling about the house analyzing the architecture?"

"Not a bit of it, sir! He hasn't, I should say, what his revered grandfather called the analytical mind."

Pickering stamped his feet upon the paved porch floor in a way that I remembered of old. It marked a conclusion, and precluded serious mistakes.

"Now, Bates," he said with a ring of authority and speaking in a louder key than he had yet used, "It's your duty under all circumstances to help discover the hidden assets of the estate. We've got to pluck the mystery from that architectural monster over there, and the time for doing it is short enough. Mr. Glenarm was a rich man. To my own knowledge he had a couple of millions, and he couldn't have spent it all on that house. He reduced his bank account to a few thousand dollars and swept out his safety deposit boxes with a broom before his last trip to Vermont. He didn't die with the stuff in his clothes, did he?"

"Lord bless me, no, sir! There was little enough cash to bury him, with you out of the country and me alone with him."

"He was a crank and I suppose he got a lot of satisfaction out of burying his money. But this hunt for it isn't funny. I supposed of course we'd dig it up before Glenarm got here or I shouldn't have been in such a hurry to send for him. But it's over there somewhere in the grounds. There must be a plan of the house that would help. I'll give you a thousand dollars the day you wire me you have found any sort of clue."

"Thank you, sir."

"I don't want thanks, I want the money or securities, or whatever it is. I've got to go back to my car now, and you'd better skip home. You needn't tell your young master that I've been here."

I was trying hard to remember, as I stood there with clenched hands outside the chapel porch, that Arthur Pickering's name was written in the list of directors of one of the largest trust companies in America and that he belonged to the most exclusive clubs in New York. I had come out for my walk with only an overcoat over my dinner jacket, and I was thoroughly chilled by the cold mist. I was experiencing, too, an inner cold as I reflected upon the greed and perfidy of man.

"Keep an eye on Morgan," said Pickering.

"Certainly, sir."

"And be careful what you write or wire."

"I'll mind those points, sir. But I'd suggest, if you please, sir—"

"Well?" demanded Pickering impatiently.

"That you should call at the house. It would look rather strange to the young gentleman if you'd come to St. Agatha's and not see him."

"I haven't the slightest errand with him. And besides I haven't time. If he learns that I've been here you may say that my business was with Sister Theresa and that I regretted very much not having the opportunity to call on him."

The irony of this was not lost on Bates, who chuckled softly. He came out into the open and turned away toward the Glenarm gate. Pickering passed me, so near that I might have put out my hand and touched him, and in a moment I heard the carriage drive off rapidly toward the village.

I heard Bates running home over the snow and listened to the clatter of the village hack as it bore Pickering back to Annandale.

Then out of the depths of the chapel porch—out of the depths of time and space, it seemed, so dazed I stood—some one came swiftly toward me, some one light of foot like a woman, ran down the walk a little way into the fog and paused.

An exclamation broke from me. "Eavesdropping for two!"—it was the voice of Olivia. "I'd take pretty good care of myself if I were you, Squire Glenarm! Good night!"

"Good-by!" I faltered, as she sped away in the mist toward St. Agatha's.

CHAPTER XIV.

The Girl in Gray.

My first thought was to find the crypt door and return through the tunnel before Bates could reach the house. The chapel was open, and by lighting matches I found my way to the map and panel. I slipped through and closed the opening; then ran through the passage with gratitude to the generous builder who had given it a clear floor and an ample roof. In my haste I miscalculated its length, pitching headlong into the steps under the trap beneath Glenarm House at a gait that sent me sprawling. In a moment more I had jammed the trap into place and was running up the cellar steps, breathless, with my cap smashed down over my eyes.

I heard Bates entering at the rear and knew that I had won the race by a scratch. There was but a moment in which to throw my coat and cap under the divan in the library, slap the dust from my clothes and seat myself at the great table where the candles blazed tranquilly.

Bates' step was as steady as ever—the highway Stoddard fell in with me. "Well, Mr. Glenarm, I'm glad to see you abroad so early. With that library of yours the temptation must be strong to stay within doors. But a man's got to subject himself to the sun and wind. Even a good wetting now and then is salutary."

"I try to get out every day," I answered. "But I've chiefly limited myself to my own grounds."

An ancient omnibus, filled with young women passed at a gallop, bound for the station, and we took off our hats.

"Christmas holidays," explained the chaplain, "Practically all the students go home."

"Lucky kids, to have homes with Christmas trees. I envy them."

"I suppose, Mr. Pickering got away last night?" he observed, and my pulse quickened at the name.

"I haven't seen him yet," I answered.

"Then of course he hasn't gone!" and these words, uttered in the big clergyman's deep tones, seemed wholly plausible. There was, to be sure, nothing so unlikely as that Arthur Pickering, executor of my grandfather's estate, would come to Glenarm without seeing me.

"Sister Theresa told me this morning he was there. He called on her and Miss Devereux last night. I haven't seen him myself. I thought possibly I might run into him in the village. His car's very likely on the station switch."

"Take Pretty Good Care of Myself if I Were You, Squire Glenarm."

there was not the slightest hint of excitement in it—as he came and stood within the door.

"Beg pardon, Mr. Glenarm, did you wish anything, sir?"

"Oh, no, thank you, Bates."

"I had stepped down to the village, sir, to speak to the grocer. The eggs he sent this morning were not quite up to the mark. I warned him not to send any of the storage article to this house."

"That's right, Bates." I folded my arms to hide my hands, which were black from contact with the passage, and faced my man servant. My respect for his rascally powers had increased immensely since he gave me my coffee. A contest with so clever a rogue was worth while.

"I'm grateful for your care of me, Bates. I had expected to perish of discomfort out here, but you are treating me like a lord."

"Thank you, Mr. Glenarm. I do what I can, sir."

He brought fresh candles for the table candelabra, going about with his accustomed noiseless step. I felt a cold chill creep down my spine as he passed behind me on these errands. His transition from the role of conspirator to that of my flawless servant was almost too abrupt.

I dismissed him as quickly as possible, and listened to his step through the halls as he went about locking the doors. The locking-up process had rather bored me before; to-night I listened with interest for every sound.

When I heard Bates clumping to his own quarters I quietly went the rounds of my own account and found everything as tight as a drum.

I was tired enough to sleep when I went to my room, and after an eventless night woke to a clear day, and keener air.

"I'm going to take a little run into the village, Bates," I remarked at breakfast.

"Very good, sir."

"If any should call I'll be back in an hour or so."

"Yes, sir."

"No doubt we shall find him there," I answered easily.

The Annandale station presented an appearance of unusual gaiety when we reached the main street of the village. There, to be sure, lay the private car in the siding, and on the platform was a group of 20 or more girls, with several of the brown-haired Sisters of St. Agatha. There was something a little foreign in the picture; the girls in their bright colors talking gaily, the Sisters in their somber garb hovering about, suggesting France or Italy rather than Indiana.

We stepped upon the platform. The private car lay on the opposite side of the station, having been switched into a siding of the east and west road. Pickering was certainly getting on. There is something wholly regal in a private car. Any one may boast a catboat and call it a yacht; but there is no known substitution for a private car. As I lounged across the platform with Stoddard, Pickering came out into the vestibule of his car, followed by two ladies and an elderly gentleman. They all descended and began a promenade on the plank walk.

Pickering saw me an instant later and hurried up with outstretched hand.

"This is indeed good fortune! We dropped off here last night rather unexpectedly to rest a hot box and should have been picked up by the early express for Chicago; but there was a miscarriage of orders somewhere and we now have to wait for the nine o'clock, and it's late. If I should have run out to see you. How are things going?"

"As smooth as a whistle! It really isn't so bad when you face it. And the fact is I'm actually at work."

"That's splendid. The year will go fast enough, never fear. I suppose you pine for a little human society now and then. A man can never strike the right medium in such things. In New York we are all rushed to death. I sometimes feel that I'd like a little rustication myself. I get nervous, and working for corporations is wearing. The old gentleman there is Taylor, president of the Mid-Western and Southern. The ladies are his wife and a friend of hers. I'd like to introduce you."

He ran his eyes over my corduroys and leggings in amiable acceptance of my rusticity. He had not in years addressed me so pleasantly.

As I left the grounds and gained

IN THE LIMELIGHT

A PICTURESQUE MAN

John R. Hegeman, president of the Metropolitan Life Insurance company, who has been indicted on seven counts for forgery in the third degree and three for perjury, is the most picturesque figure in the insurance game. He is long-haired, gray and swarthy. The indictments grew out of certain "rear-end" transactions in which the annual statements to the state insurance department are said to have been "doctored."

Hegeman is a striking personality, both physically and intellectually. In facial contour he bears a strong resemblance, some think, to the late Edwin Booth. His hair is worn in long ringlets which flow over his shoulders and this part of his adornment is his particular pride. The curling locks now streaked with gray are cared for as carefully as the hair of any woman, and when he sits in the sunlight his head appears to be covered with a mass of moss silk. His face is smooth shaven and the cameo-like features are accentuated by a pair of clear, gray eyes that light up wonderfully when his favorite topic—life insurance—is under discussion.

Mr. Hegeman has a remarkable memory for every detail connected with insurance statistics and without reference to books or memoranda can talk for hours on the subject, going into facts and figures with a ready accuracy and sustaining any contention he may make as to statistics with marvelous force. As a controversialist on the principals of the business in which he is engaged he has few peers.

He usually wears an old-fashioned stock and a standing collar, a long frock coat of dark material and light-colored trousers. In general appearance he has been described by one of his biographers as "a composite picture of Benjamin Franklin and Booth the actor."

His entire life since boyhood has been devoted to figures and to statistical work. He was born in New York in April, 1844, and when he was 22 years old he became the accountant of the Manhattan Life Insurance company where he first displayed those faculties which subsequently elevated him to a position at a salary of $100,000 a year. He left the Manhattan company to become the secretary of the Metropolitan Life Insurance company, and in that capacity his zeal and his unflagging energy increased the business of the company to such an extent that the directors voted to make him the vice president. He continued as vice president of the company until October, 1891, when he was elected president.

PLANS HAVEN FOR HOBOES

Dr. Bea L. Reitman, organizer of the Brotherhood Welfare association, an institution designed to uplift the "Weary Willie" band more commonly known as tramps, who recently gave an elaborate banquet at a prominent Chicago hotel to a typical gathering of "knights of the road," has aroused reformers and others by his unique plan and many are already becoming interested in his scheme.

Dr. Reitman was born in St. Paul January 1, 1879, and when 12 years old he ran away from home and took up the "Weary Willie" profession. For five years he remained at home and went to school or worked for a period of seven months out of the year and the balance of the time he put in tramping about the nation. At the age of 17 he became fireman on a tramp steamer out of Tampa, Fla., to Europe and sailed around the world several times as first, second and third class and steerage passenger, as sailor, fireman, cook, steward, ship doctor and stowaway. He also has traveled throughout different countries in the guise of tourist, companion, beggar, tramp and investigator. After obtaining knowledge of the world and the various modes of living by its inhabitants Dr. Reitman decided to take up the cause of the tramp and is now devoting his time to the uplifting of this well-known element.

HEAD OF NATIONAL W. C. T. U.

Mrs. Lillian M. N. Stevens, president of the National Woman's Christian Temperance Union and vice president of the World's Woman's Christian Temperance Union, has, by means of her talents, applied to a lifelong and unflagging fight against the curse of intoxicating drink, achieved not only national but international fame. Than Mrs. Stevens few of our Americans are more in the public eye to-day.

But her home life and surroundings at Portland, Me., few, save her most intimate friends, know of. The Stevens homestead is in Strouds water, a historic suburb of the charming city by the sea which the poet Longfellow sang of. The house is of the old Colonial style, severe in its design, but conveying an unmistakable air of gentility and comfort. It is over a century old and was built for Mrs. Stevens' husband's father, who brought his bride there.

It has always been the noted occupant's aim to preserve the old-fashioned air which characterizes the residence. Nothing modern finds a place within its four walls. While electricity is available for lighting purposes kerosene lamps are the sole illuminant.

The rooms are all large and square. Some years ago Mrs. Stevens converted what was originally the kitchen into her study. Chosen for its southern exposure and for the inspiring view obtainable from its windows it is an ideal working den. Two and sometimes three stenographers are employed receiving dictation, writing out reports, addresses, etc., for the daily mail which must be attended to is a matter of no inconsiderable magnitude.

While explaining some of the interesting features of her study Mrs. Stevens placed for me a chair which she stated was over 100 years old. In front of me was an immense fireplace which takes a four-foot log, the length of the cut in the woods. Flanking the fireplace is one of those old-fashioned brick ovens of our grandmother's days where many a steaming hot meal has been prepared for the earlier occupants of the house.

LEADS WAR ON WHITE PLAGUE

Dr. Frank Billings of Chicago, president of the Illinois state board of charities and a noted physician, has been elected president of the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis. This organization of doctors, which has already done important work toward the stamping out of the white plague, has just held a largely attended convention in Washington.

After the death of the late Marshall Field Dr. Billings sent in the following bill:

"To services rendered from January 10 to January 17, day and night attendance, time of journey to and from New York—$25,000."

This fee, one of the largest ever paid an American doctor, was allowed without question.

Dr. Billings is noted as a diagnostician. He is a member of most of the technical societies of the medical profession and is consulting physician in many of the Chicago hospitals. In 1902-3 Dr. Billings was president of the American Medical association, and he also has been president of the Chicago Medical society. He is 53 years old and was graduated from Northwestern university medical school in 1881.

Dr. Billings attracted much attention last fall by advocating state regulation of marriage. In a widely-quoted speech he said:

"I do not believe there should be such freedom of marriage. I am no lawyer, but I would like to see society put on its statute books a law forbidding two people to be married, not merely until they had secured a certificate of health from a physician, but until they had obtained a certificate of inheritance showing their antecedents."

"This sounds drastic, but the increase in the defective classes is so impressive as to warrant such a conclusion. Two per cent. of the population of Illinois is insane. The number of defectives is increasing three per cent. annually."

FEED THE BRUTE.

The Certain Way to the Heart of a Man.

Baked Potatoes.—When baking potatoes, either sweet or Irish, the skins will remain soft if, after the potatoes are carefully washed, the skin is greased with lard or butter.

Sausage and Eggs.—Don't destroy smoked sausage from a meal. When minced and fried with scrambled eggs makes a savory dish.

Egg Plant Fritters.—Peel the egg plant, cut in half inch slices, boil in hot water until soft, mash smooth, let cool; beat one egg light, add salt, pepper, one cup of flour, two spoonfuls of baking powder in the flour. Batter must be like cake; drop in smoking hot lard in iron frying pan in large spoonfuls; two spoonfuls of lard are sufficient. Cook 15 minutes.

Fried Smelts.—Wash the smelts and dry them thoroughly with a cloth, then dip them in flour. On taking from the flour cover them thoroughly with a mixture made from the beaten yolks of two eggs and a heaping teaspoonful of melted butter, then roll in hot fat until brown and crisp and serve with tartare sauce.

Toast and Cheese.—A good way to serve up stale pieces of cheese is to put them through the food-chopper (using the nut-butter grinder), place in a dish and moisten with a little milk. Put in a hot oven for ten minutes and serve hot on toast. Season with salt and pepper to taste.

Flavoring Coffee.—To give boiled coffee a delicious flavor soak the grounds in the amount of water in which it is to be boiled, at least one hour before using. Then boil hard ten minutes.

Boiled Pudding.—One cup of molasses, one cup of seeded raisins and currants mixed, one cup of sour milk or of buttermilk, one teaspoonful of soda dissolved in the milk, two cups of graham flour, salt and spice to taste. Stir all well together, pour into a buttered mold or double boiler and steam for three hours. Serve with a pudding sauce.

PEWTER A FAD.

Articles Made of This Metal Growing in Favor.

Pewter is rapidly regaining the high place it once held in the hearts of American housewives. Time was when it was much more highly regarded than silver-plated ware and ranked second only to solid silver.

Apparently that time is returning. Nor is it without reason. Pewter, while not one of the precious metals, is full of artistic possibilities. Its dull luster lends itself to all sorts of decorative effects and the burnished finish gleams almost as brilliantly as the true white metal. Moreover, it recalls the really refined simplicity of colonial days. It is particularly effective against the fine old mahogany of grandma's time, or the rosewood of the great-grandmother's.

Set against a shifting background, pewter is pleasing to those who value the aesthetic above the costly. The ware comes in graceful shapes, including tea urns, tea, coffee and chocolate pots, flagons, tankards, mugs and goblets. Pewter plates are singularly decorative and the platters and bread trays are not without their place in the general art scheme. Thus far the pewter relies dug up from the curiosity shops have been devoted largely to the adornment of walls and cabinets, but it is predicted the ware shortly will be in more practical use when womankind of to-day realizes its worth as fully as did the woman of a hundred years ago.

Summer Rugs.

Made of prairie grass are the most practical of the inexpensive assortment shown in the shops. The colors are durable, and good shades of red, green, blue and yellow are used. The borders usually are of a lighter or darker shade of the color used for the center. Rugs of cocoa fiber are the most desirable of all the styles, for the colors are in lovely soft shades and the designs are most unique. The colors are durable, for a woman who had had one of these rugs several years and was buying another remarked: "I have left the rug out in the rain, and the sun has shone on it while it was still wet and the colors did not change a particle." Although these rugs are expensive they prove economical in the end, for they wear two or three times as long as the other kinds.

This Is the Way.

To clean thread lace, sew new white muslin around a bottle, then roll lace smoothly and securely, tacking the ends. Touch the lace lightly with sweet oil while winding. Fill the bottle with cold water to keep it from bursting, and set it upright in a strong suds of cold water and castile soap. Tie a string around the neck of the bottle, and secure it to the kettle, and boil half an hour or more, or until the lace is clean. Rinse with hot water and set the bottle in the sun. When quite dry, remove the lace and lay in long folds between sheets of white paper, and press for a day or two.

To Remove Paint.

When a house is being done up paint is not infrequently spilt in door-steps, and it is sometimes found very difficult to remove. In that case make a strong solution of potash and wash the steps, simply leaving the solution to soak in. In a short time the paint will become soft, and can then be washed off with soap and water. Then use cold water. Paint which has been left on for some time will yield to this treatment.

AFRAID OF PARALYSIS

A NERVOUS SUFFERER CURED BY DR. WILLIAMS' PINK PILLS.

The Medicine That Makes Rich, Red Blood and Performs Wonders as a Tonic for the Nerves.

Why are nervous people invariably pale people? The answer to that question explains why a remedy that acts on the blood can cure nervous troubles. It explains why Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People are also for nervous people.

It is because of the intimate relation between the red corpuscles in the blood and the health of the nerves. The nervous system receives its nourishment through the blood. Let the blood become thin, weak and colorless and the nerves are starved—the victim is started on the road that leads to nervous wreck. Nervous people are pale people—but the pallor comes first. Enrich the blood and the nerves are stimulated and toned up to do their part of the work of the body. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills make red blood and transform nervous, irritable, ailing people into strong, energetic, cheerful men and women.

Mrs. Harriet E. Porter, of 20 Liberty avenue, South Medford, Mass., says: "I had never been well from childhood and a few years ago I began to have dizzy spells. At such times I could not walk straight. I was afraid of paralysis and was on the verge of nervous prostration. Then neuralgia set in and affected the side of my face. The pains in my forehead were excruciating and my heart pained me so that my doctor feared neuralgia of the heart. I tried several different kinds of treatment but they did me no good.

"One day my son brought me some of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and I found that they strengthened my nerves. I took several boxes and felt better in every way. There were no more dizzy attacks, the neuralgia left me and I have been a well woman ever since."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are invaluable in anemia, rheumatism, after-effects of the grip and fevers and in sick headaches, nervousness, neuralgia, and even partial paralysis and locomotor ataxia. Our booklet "Nervous Disorders, a Method of Home Treatment" will be sent free on request to anyone interested. Write for it today.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists, or will be sent, postpaid, on receipt of price, 50 cents per box; six boxes for $2.50, by Dr. Williams Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y.

Corporations Oust Miners.

The Klondike proper—that is, that portion of the Yukon territory in the vicinity of Dawson—as far as the individual miner is concerned, is on a rapid decline owing to the immense area of ground being acquired by dredging companies. One company alone has purchased nearly all the placer ground on the three principal creeks, namely: Bonanza, Eldorado and Hunker, and has bonded considerably more on Dominion and other creeks for various reasons. Where formerly hundreds of miners were working for wages or working their own ground, thus creating a demand for provisions, clothing, machinery, hardware, etc., and the transportation from Dawson to the different mining operations, now dredges are either operating or in course of construction. Coöperative Reports.

Whole Outfit in Harmony. "You've seen that new dress of mine," said Miss Dowdy, "now that I want to get a hat to match what would you suggest?"

"Why not get a slouch?" remarked Miss Knox.

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND

These are sure indications of female weakness or some organic derangement.

For Kidney Complaints of either sex Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a most excellent remedy.

Mrs. Pinkham's Standing Invitation to Women

Women suffering from any form of female weakness are invited to write Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., for advice. She is the Mrs. Pinkham who has been advising sick women free of charge for more than twenty years, and before that she assisted her mother-in-law Lydia E. Pinkham in advising. This she is well qualified to guide sick women back to health. Her advice is free and always helpful.

68, BUT PERFECTLY WELL.

The Happy Experience of a New Castle, Pa., Woman.

Mrs. John Mansell, 614 So. Jefferson St., New Castle, Pa., says: "For years I was running down with kidney trouble without knowing what it was, and finally got so bad I was given up. The urinary passages were painful, sometimes scanty and again very profuse. My limbs, feet and ankles bloated dreadfully, and sometimes my whole body. My heart palpitated and I had smothering spells. A week's treatment with Doan's Kidney Pills helped me and a few boxes cured me. At 68 I am strong and well."

Sold by all dealers. 50 cents a box. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

PAT SET ONLY ONE LIMIT.

Would Quit When He Was Done With All Things Earthly.

A rich man out in the suburbs who owns a large place has among the many people employed to keep it in shape an Irishman of whom he is particularly fond on account of his unconscious wit, says Harper's Weekly. This Irishman is something of a hard drinker, and as his income is limited, he is more particular as regards the quantity than the quality of his liquors. The other day the employer, who had been awaiting a good opportunity, remarked in a kind tone, as the closing sentence of a friendly lecture:

"Now, Pat, how long do you think you can keep on drinking this cheap whiskey?"

To which Pat instantly replied: "All my life, if it doesn't kill me."

The World's Dairy the Parent of Consumption.

This is the argument put forward by scientists to-day, and is causing no little alarm, because practically all the leading men who have made the subject a careful study and test are united on the statement and agree that a great per cent. of all cattle in the U. S. have Bovine Tuberculosis. In Denmark 50% of all cattle are infected. Recently The Mutual Mercantile Co., Cleveland, O., have issued a free book let showing how it is wrong to kill so many thousands of our Dairy Cows when a few cents worth of Rasawa purchased at any Drug Store will positively prevent Tuberculosis. The claim is made that it is a germicide and renders the cow immune. Ask your dealer or the above company for a free book.

The Human Shield.

The advent of Decoration day caused Admiral Dewey, at a recent dinner, to praise the bravery of the American troops during the civil war.

"Both sides alike were brave," he said. "North and south, soldiers and sailors. And the bravery of the raw recruit was a thing to be seen to be believed."

"There used to be circulated, though, a good story about a Connecticut recruit. This young man, after he had gotten initiated, fought heroically; but in his first engagement he was very nervous."

"A chum of his was in the line ahead of him, and when the bullets began to fly, the chum began to dodge."

"Thereupon the recruit shouted excitedly: 'Hey, Jim, don't duck. I'm behind ye.'"

Senator Morgan a Model.

Senator John T. Morgan, of Alabama, occasionally writes magazine articles which involve a great deal of research, but he uniformly refuses to accept pay for them. In the course of his career many railroad passes have been offered him, but he never accepted any either for himself or any member of his family. Though over 80 years old, he thinks nothing of working half the night. The senator never haunts the departments looking for jobs for constituents. Of moderate means when he entered the senate, he is now a poor man, having little or nothing but his salary.

FRILLS FOR WAISTS

THEY WILL BE POPULAR ADORNMENT.

The Plaited Ruffle or Extended Jabot Still Counted as an Important Feature.

The plaited ruffle or extended jabot which began to appear on the spring waist is now one of the most important of the characteristic features of this season's waists. In every sort of material from fine real lace to taffeta and even heavier silks it figures as a necessary part of the new waist's adornments. The plaited ruffles separate from the waist and ready to be basted, pinned or buttoned to any waist in the wardrobe at the wearer's convenience are now sold in all the shops and are as popular as the cuff and collar sets. These detachable ruffles reach from the collar band to the belt and are to be worn with silk or linen waists, according to their quality and material. There are ruffles of Valenciennes trimmed with baby Irish or guipure, Chum ruffles and hand-embroidered ruffles with insertions and edges of lace. These are for wear with fine embroidered linen, silk or pongee waists, and are meant to peep fetchingly forth from between the fronts of fancy jackets of taffeta, pongee, linen or the thin woolen goods. They are extremely expensive if bought ready-made, especially if of course, if the lace be real and the embroidery hand-work. But the fashion is a particularly good one for those who have fine laces and embroidery which they have stored for years, as even such bits may be successfully utilized to trim the ruffles of fine handkerchief linen and the fashion is not a difficult one for the amateur needle woman to follow successfully.

All that is needed is a double piece of lace edged material which may be as simple or as elaborate as one wishes. These pieces are joined up the middle and knife plaited with fine plaitings. The width of the jabot varies to suit individual taste in the style of waist or jacket with which it is to be displayed and so home materials may be better utilized to make these attractive ruffles.

For the simple shirtwaists the ruffles are of slightly heavier linen and are often embroidered with colored dots or with vines and buttonholed scalloped edges in color, pale pink, pale blue and lavender being the favorite hues. These ruffles for the heavier waists are also trimmed with narrow edges of colored material and with bands stitched down the middle of the same contrasting hue. These double edges and bands of colored linen decorate the ruffles in much the same way that handkerchief borders are used.

Although the linen employed for the ruffles for heavier shirtwaists is not quite so diaphanous as that used for the very finest and thinnest lingerie waists, it must still be both sheer and fine. Really heavy linen would not, of course, make suitable ruffles. Batiste in very fine qualities, both plain and embroidered, is used for the fine waists. Net and chiffon ruffles are used in the blouses made largely of lace.

BY WAY OF SUGGESTION.

Iceing for cake may be prevented from cracking by adding one teaspoonful of cream to each unbeaten egg. Stir all together, then add sugar until as stiff as desired.

To prevent shoes from making holes in the heels of stockings paste a piece of wash leather inside the heels of the shoes. This will also prevent the shoes from rubbing the feet.

When you have a few tablespoonsful of jam or jelly left over it makes a delicious addition to baked apples, dropping a teaspoonful into the core of each apple before they go into the oven.

Old newspapers may be used to pad the ironing board just as well as an old blanket, which cannot always be spared, or the lining felt which comes for such purposes and is rather expensive.

To clean a rope line, place it in a large pan of cold water, add a little washing soda, a little soap, and bring slowly to the boil; boil thirty minutes, rinse it thoroughly in clean, cold water, stretch between hooks to dry.

Clean hardwood with a flannel wet in turpentine and afterward rub lightly with boiled linseed oil. Take off spots with fine sand mixed in oil. Apply it with a leather and rub with clean leather afterward to bring back the polish.

To make pure baking powder of the very best quality, take one pound of pure cream of tartar, six ounces of tartaric acid, one pint of flour; mix well and sift not less than three times, place in tin cans and use as you would any other baking powder.

Washing Woolen Stockings. To wash woolen stockings so that they will not shrink is quite easy. First shred some yellow soap into a small tin saucepan. Cover it with cold water and let all boil slowly on the stove till a jelly. Take some tepid water, and with the boiled soap make a good lather. Wash the stockings in this, rubbing well and using no other soap. Rinse in tepid clear water, wring out, and set in the air to dry quickly.

Stretching Light Shoes.

Fill the shoes with old cloths as tight as you can pack them in as soon as taken off of the feet, and wet shoes well with a wet cloth. Do this two or three times, and your shoes will stretch as well as if sent to be stretched.

THERE are many remarkable women in New York, but the most remarkable of them all, probably, is Mrs. Huie Kim, the clever American wife of the superintendent of the Presbyterian Chinese mission at 26 West Ninth street.

For eighteen years she has been her husband's associate in the mission work. During this time Mrs. Huie not only has had the duties pertaining to an American household of extraordinary size to attend to, but she has had to shoulder many additional responsibilities imposed by Chinese custom.

Despite the fact that she has nine children, the last two of which are twins, and that these nine children, like most children, are enough to wear slump came the bankers whom Mr. Gates approached to assist him in arranging his affairs over the crisis, suggested that he was rich enough to retire from hazardous speculation and that his retirement would be made a condition of banking aid.

CUSTOMERS OF GATES FAILED HIM IN CRISIS

Mr. Gates agreed that this was so, and it is said, readily acquiesced to the arrangement.

As a matter of fact, Mr. Gates was thoroughly disgusted with some of his customers, who had failed to respond to his call for margins. The firm of Charles Gates & Co. had been carrying a lot of people in speculative operation who proved ungrateful when the call for funds to protect their accounts was finally made. This is said to have been one of the main causes for the retirement of the firm.

CHOICE OF TWO EVILS.

Request That Was by No Means a Compliment for Papa.

A New York scientist, the father of a large and growing family, has his troubles. One evening his youngest was "holding forth in her best style. The mother could do nothing with the child, so the man of science went to the rescue.

"I think I can quiet little Flora," he said. "There's no use humming to her in that silly way. What she wants is real music. The fact that I used to sing in the Glee club at Yale and sang, too, may make a difference."

Accordingly, the professor took the child and, striding up and down the room, sang in his best manner. He had not finished the second verse of his song, when a ring was heard. The door was opened, and there stood a girl of 14, who said:

"I'm one of the family that's just moved into the flat next to yours. There's a sick person with us, and he says, if it's all the same to you, would you mind letting the baby cry instead of singing to it?"—Success.

Made for Fat Men.

One of the narrow arches in the gallery of the chapel at Columbia university is not exactly symmetrical, although the defect is not noticeable to the casual observer, says the New York Globe. The reason for the widening of the arch after its original construction had rise in a somewhat humorous occurrence. One of the early visitors was a remarkably fat man, who found himself wedged into the arch when he tried to squeeze through and was extricated with difficulty. The builders, recognizing the possibility of other fat people being numbered among the future visitors, decided to widen the arch, sacrificing symmetry and harmony to practical need, as the pier was so constructed as to bear no loss of width on one of its sides.

Cheapens and Improves Coal.

Consul General W. R. Holloway, of Halifax, says that the Canadian commercial agent at Manchester, England, reports an invention at that place for depriving soft coal of its most objectionable feature by abstracting the oils said to produce smoke, and calling the resulting article "coalite," which is something like coke in appearance and which can be furnished at one-third the present cost of coal. Five acres of land near Manchester have been purchased, and large works will be erected for its production.—United States Consul Reports.

AN OLD EDITOR

Found $2000 Worth of Food.

The editor of a paper out in Okla., said: "Yes, it is true when I got hold of Grape-Nuts, food, it was worth more than a $2000 doctor bill to me, for it made me a well man. I have gained 25 pounds in weight, my strength has returned tenfold, my brain power has been given back to me, and that is an absolute essential, for I am an editor and have been for 35 years."

"My pen shall always be ready to speak a good word for this powerful nutritive food. I had of course often read the advertisements regarding Grape-Nuts, but never thought to apply the food to my own use, until, in my extremity and sickness the thought came to me that it might fit my case. The statements in regard to the food are absolutely correct, as I have proven in my own case. One very fortunate thing about the food is that while it is the most scientifically made and highly nourishing, concentrated food I have ever known, it has so delicious a taste that it wins and holds friends." "There's a Reason." Read "The Road to Wellville," in pgs.

Customs of Argentine. Girls and men are still kept carefully apart in Argentine, and a man does not introduce even his most intimate friend to his sisters. Marriage of girls of 12 to 14 boys of 16 or 19 are common.

Laplenders' Sacred Drums. The Laplanders venerate their sacred drums. These are hollowed from a piece of pine or birch trunk, and covered at one end. A portion of the wood on the under side is left for a handle.

Much Indian Corn Grown. The production of Indian corn in Portugal and possessions in 1906 amounted to about 20,000,000 bushels, which large crop restricted the demand for foreign corn.

Swallow Your Complexion. A good complexion cannot be rubbed in from the outside; it must be swallowed. The best way to get this is not in medicine, but in green vegetables and dandelion salad.

Suffering—That Chestnuts. To have suffered, nay, to suffer, sets a keen edge on what remains of the agreeable. This is a great truth, and has to be learned in the fire.—R. L. Stevenson.

The Best Laxative for Children.
Parents should see to it that their children have one natural, easy movement of the bowels each day.
Do not dose the child with salts or gripping pills. If they are too powerful in effect, and literally tear their little insides to pieces, the bowels become weakened and less able to act naturally than before.
Laxative Iron-ox Tablets tone and strengthen the bowels, and stimulate all the little organs to healthy activity. Chocolate coated tablets, easy to take, never gripe or nauseate. 10c, 25c and $1.00.
For sale and recommended by Murdock Bros., Druggists.

Keep Moving.
The heavens themselves run continually round; the world is never still;
the sun travels to the east and to the west; the moon is ever changing in its course; the stars and planets have their constant motions; the air we breathe is continually agitated by the wind, and the waters never cease to ebb and flow—doubtless for the purpose of their observation and to teach us that we should ever be in action.—
Burton.

Stuck Up for Her Sex.
A schoolgirl in a Massachusetts town had often been made to acknowledge the superiority of her brothers.
One day her mother remarked upon the apparent utter lack of intelligence in a hen. "You can't teach a hen anything," she said. "They have ruined more of the garden than a drove of cattle would. You can teach a cat a dog or pig something, but a hen—never!" "H'm!" exclaimed the child indignantly. "I think they know just as much as roosters!"

BACK GIVES OUT.
Plenty of Northville Readers Have
This Experience.

You tax the kidneys—overwork them.
They can't keep up the continual strain.
The back gives out—it aches and pains.
Urinary troubles set in.
Don't wait any longer—take Doan's Kidney Pills.
Northville people tell you how they act.
Mrs. Gus Bernhardt, living three miles east of Northville, Mich., says:
"For a long time my husband had kidney trouble and complained of backache. His back finally became so lame that he could hardly get around to attend to work. The action of the kidneys also became irregular. Not long ago he was compelled to stay in the house. For several days he was unable to straighten his back, and the pains extended to his legs so he could not walk without suffering. I procured Doan's Kidney Pills at Murdock Bros' drug store and they gave him wonderful relief in a short time.
His kidneys became regular and there was only slight pain in his back. He was able to attend to his work without any difficulty. I am glad to recommend Doan's Kidney Pills to others who may be in need of a remedy of this kind."
For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N.
Y. sole agents for the United States.
Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Great Man's Philosophy.
I will account virtue to be the richest,
knowledge the next, riches the worst;
and therefore will labor to be virtuous and learned without condition; as for riches, if they fall in my way, I refuse them not; but if not, I desire them not.—Bishop Hall.

$100 Reward; $100.
The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing her work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer one Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address:
