Vol. XXXVIII. No. 46.

NORTHVILLE, MICH., FRIDAY, JUNE 21, 1907.

$1.00 Per Year in Advance

SHEEPSKINS AWARDED

TEN GRADUATES RECEIVED COVETED CREDENTIALS.

Commencement Exercises Well Carried Out.

This has been a busy week for the graduates of the Northville High school as the closing exercises have been held various evenings in the Methodist church.

Sunday evening occurred the baccalaureate sermon by Rev. W. G. Stephens in the presence of a large audience. His subject was "Education" which he handled well.

Monday evening the Juniors held a reception for the Seniors in the library rooms where toasts and musical selections were given and a fine banquet served.

The church was again filled Tuesday evening with a crowd of anxious people to hear the essays, orations, prophecies, etc., of the Class of 1907. The decorations of palms, plants, flowers and class colors of green and white were very pretty. The Class Motto, "Out of School Life into Life's School" was artistically arranged across the front of the church. Each member of the class did his or her part in a very pleasing manner reflecting much credit on both teachers and pupils. The program was interspersed with several musical selections from the Northville Male quartet, Miss Jerome and the ladies' orchestra, which were much enjoyed.

The Commencement address was given Thursday evening by Dr. John Merritt Driver of Chicago. This was the last of the lecture course series given by the Seniors and it was greatly enjoyed by all. Several fine musical selections were also given. L. A. Babbitt, president of the board of education, in a few well chosen words presented the class with their diplomas. Thus will the Class of '07 step "Out of School Life into Life's School."

Kinney-Sump.

Mr. Albert Kinney of South Lyon and Miss Anna Sump were married Wednesday evening at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Sump of Northville, by Rev. S. F. Dimmock, pastor of the Baptist church, in the presence of about forty relatives and friends from Detroit, Big Rapids, South Lyon and Mt. Pleasant. After congratulations a fine wedding supper was served.

They were the recipients of many valuable and useful presents, among which was sixty dollars in money, forty dollars being in gold.

It is reported as being one of the finest weddings we have had in the place for many a day.

The happy couple have the best wishes of a host of friends.

Children with Firearms.

After reading in the papers day after day of the many fatal accidents that befall children who are allowed the use of firearms, it seems strange that parents will persist in placing these dangerous weapons where children can get them. There are a goodly number of boys in Northville from eight to fifteen years of age who are seen every Sunday with guns and revolvers going to the woods or some place to shoot birds and whatever else they can find and if some terrible accident or tragedy does not occur, it will be very strange indeed.

Parents, take warning before it is too late and put the firearms away where the children cannot get them, for if you do not, you may be sorry.

Married Five Years.

Relatives and friends numbering about twenty-seven from Detroit and Port Huron gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Boehl Sunday to help them celebrate the fifth anniversary of their marriage and the day was very pleasantly spent.

Mr. Boehl is secretary and treasurer of the Michigan Slipper Co. of this place.

They were the recipients of a number of handsome and useful presents. A sumptuous repast was served.

THE HORRIBLE DILEMMA OF LITTLE WILLIE.

A sketch of him just as he has been given a ticket to the baseball game by one uncle, and another to the circus by another uncle, both tickets being for the same afternoon. —Webster in Chicago Inter Ocean.

A CHARMING JUNE WEDDING

MR. CHARLES PAUL—MISS CAMILLA WHEELER MARRIED.

Leave Tonight for Their Home in LaMesa, Montana.

A charming June wedding was that of Miss Camilla A. Wheeler and Mr. Charles H. Paul of Malden, Mass., on Wednesday evening, June 19. The pleasant home of Mr. and Mrs. B. A. Wheeler was beautifully decorated and filled with a company of sixty relatives and friends. The ceremony was performed at six o'clock by Rev. Wm. S. Jerome, pastor of the Presbyterian church, the full ring service being used. Before the ceremony Miss Maud Buchner sang "O Promise Me", accompanied by the Clara Schumann club. Little Frances Horton of Detroit, cousin of the bride, was ring-bearer.

The bride's gown was white net over white silk and she carried a shower bouquet of bride roses.

An elegant supper was served. The floral decorations in the parlor were green and white and in the dining room sweet peas and maiden-hair fern.

Mr. Paul is a graduate of the Boston Institution of Technology and is engaged in the United States Reclamation service. He is at present located at LaMesa, Montana, where a beautiful home is provided for himself and wife by the government.

The bride is well known in Northville having been born, reared and married in the same house. She is a worthy granddaughter of a noble minister, who for twenty years molded the religious life and character of the village. Early home influences, college education and travel have fitted Mrs. Paul for any station in life and the best wishes of many friends follow her to her western home. She will be greatly missed in society and in the church. Mr. and Mrs. Paul will leave tonight for their new home in LaMesa, Montana.

The guests from out of town were Mrs. Paul, mother of the groom, Mrs. Morrill of Somerville, Mass., Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Horton, Miss Randolph and the Misses Williams of Detroit, Miss Maude Buchner of Jackson, Miss Pinckney of Plymouth and Mrs. Sidney Liddell of Milford.

A Good Entertainment.

The Daly Musical Comedy Co. has been secured to appear in the Opera house Wednesday, June 26, in their great college play, "Up to Ferdie."

This is a musical farce comedy right up to the minute and full of the funniest situations handled by an all star company. The company ten in number, six ladies and four gentlemen, are especially strong on their vocal numbers which are distributed through the play. Manager Gardner says this show comes well recommended and prices are reasonable.

Get your seats now for the "Up to Ferdie" show. 25c at Murdock's.

JOHN LEAVENWORTH.

Well and Favorably Known Novi Man Dies Suddenly.

John Leavenworth, whose illness was mentioned in last week's Record, died at St. Mary's hospital in Detroit Friday evening from the effects of an operation for the removal of an abscess from his ear. He had been a terrible sufferer all winter and had consulted several physicians whose efforts to relieve him were in vain and at last he was advised to have the operation.

Mr. Leavenworth was fifty-three years of age, and had spent nearly his life on the farm in Novi with the exception of about seven years, when he moved to Northville where he was employed as engineer in the factory of the Columbia Refrigerator company. Here he won a host of friends by his pleasant and genial manner. He leaves a wife, two daughters, Mrs. Bert Clark of Northville and Mrs. Clarence Williams of Carleton, four sons, Warner of Carleton, Bert Jay and Loren, and three brothers, Jay, Delos and Job, all of Novi. He was a devoted and loving husband and father and his sudden death has nearly prostrated the family who have the sympathy of the entire community.

The funeral occurred Sunday at 2 p. m. in the Novi Baptist church. Rev. R. S. Collins officiating and interment in Novi cemetery. Mr. Leavenworth was very highly respected and will be greatly missed by his many friends.

A NEW INDUSTRY.

Northville is Fast Getting to the Front in this Respect.

S. J. Lawrence, County Agent, has started a new industry on his farm near the fish hatchery, having gone into the duck and chicken raising quite extensively. He already has about two hundred young ducks and three hundred chickens and several hundred eggs set.

He has any amount of watercress growing on his farm and is using that as a portion of food for the ducks as Eastern markets will pay a better price for ducks fed on watercress than for those fed on clover.

Mr. Lawrence contemplates building his barn over into a large hatchery and by so doing will have room for ten or twenty hundred of the feathery tribe.

Card of Thanks.

We wish to sincerely thank all who so kindly assisted us in our late bereavement, also the singers and those who sent the beautiful flowers.

MRS. JOHN LEAVENWORTH AND FAMILY.

Thankful.

I wish to thank the Baptist ladies, Maccabees and King's Daughters for beautiful flowers sent me during my recent illness. Mrs. JOE WESTON.

FINE RECORD WAS MADE

ADMINISTRATIONISTS IN LEGISLATION WON THE BATTLE.

People's Interest As a Whole, Cared for.

The legislature just closed has probably more good legislation to its credit, and less bad, than most of its predecessors. Governor Warner and his friends in both houses have, by continued fighting, been able to accomplish much in the people's interests and have prevented laws being enacted that would have worked injury to the best interests of the state.

Everything the governor advocated—barring the primary election law eliminating the 40 per cent clause, for which Governor Warner will later call a special session—has been made into a law.

The "limited liability" law has been repealed.

The "change of venue" law has been repealed.

A 2 cent railroad bill has been passed.

A railroad commission to regulate freight rates and prevent discrimination in the furnishing of cars has been passed.

A binder twine plant is to be established in the Jackson prison. A constitutional convention bill has been passed.

And not least of dozens of other good measures is the concurrent resolution giving the people a vote whether they shall nominate governor, lieutenant governor and U. S. senator by direct vote regardless of the 40 per cent clause.

The people have cause for rejoicing. Governor Warner, Lieutenant Governor Kelley, the faithful sixteen in the Senate and the seventy-three or more in the House return to the people with clear consciences and an enviable record for faithful work.

Methodist Church Notes.

(By the Pastor.)

Service next Sunday morning at the usual hour. In the evening a sermon will be delivered to the Sir Knights and Ladies of the Modern Maccabees.

Baptist Church Notes.

The Value of Individuality in a Man

Can any man of character afford to obscure it with a nondescript appearance at first sight? Custom made Clothing emphasizes it. A tailor not merely fits a man's figure—we suit the personality as well. The coat must be made for the man, otherwise it is not his in any personal sense. It may be in style, but not in his style. Consider the economy of custom made clothing. It lasts and looks well till worn out. To cheapen your appearance is poor economy at best.

FAST ELECTRIC EXPRESS

Operated over the Detroit United Railway and Rapid Railway System, giving prompt express service to all points on above electric lines.

Local express office corner Main and Griswold streets.
For rates and other information apply to
G. H. Baker or Geo. W. Parker,
Local Agent, G. E. & P. Co.,
Northville, Mich., Detroit.
Subject to change without notice.

Walls Papered with Bank Checks.

A new design in fancy wall paper comes from Kansas City also a way to utilize cancelled checks. A firm has had all its offices papered with old checks, placed nearly edge to edge. The face figures of the checks vary from $20,000 to $1,000, and the total for one room is $8,000,000. As a gift moulding runs around the edges of each check panel the general effect is rather pleasing.

Shocking Fog Away.

Fog dissipation by electric discharges has proven more effective when the fog contains dust or smoke than when it is water off, the solid particles seeming to become charged and to be then repelled, precipitating particles of vapor with which they collide. With a bundle of spikes as radiator, a space of some yards can be cleared in a few seconds.

A Merry War.

The merry war goes on all over the country in regard to the salaries of teachers. The Pennsylvania legislature has passed a law in regard to the salaries, making the minimum $40 a month. When teachers hold a professional or permanent certificate the minimum is to be $50. This to come after two years' teaching.

To Soften Old Leather.

Old leather may be softened by washing with warm milk and gently rubbing till dry. Also a mixture of boiled linseed oil and half the quantity of vinegar is a good renovator for shabby leather. Care must be taken not to rub hard enough to open the cracks or split them farther.

Meteor vs. Meter.

"Pop."
"Yes, my son."
"This paper says a meteor travels so fast it can't be seen."
"That's right, my son."
"Then how does the gas company know how much gas we've used?"
Yonkers Statesman.

The Black Hand.

"You say you had an experience with the black hand" while in New York?
"Yes. And a terrible experience it was. I had three aces and the other man had five clubs."—Washington Star.

Useful Unique Bandbox.

One woman has a bandbox in which she keeps her good hat so arranged that the side opens like a swinging door, so that she can readily remove the hat from the box without the awkward necessity of taking the latter down from the high closet shelf.

Anxious to Please.

"Young men who call on my daughter are expected to say good night at 9:30."
"I'll do it, sir, and then it won't be necessary to say it when I get ready to go."—Houston Post.

No Right to Wear Them.

Dr. James M. Green, principal of the New Jersey Normal school, has refused to allow the girls to wear caps and gowns, which he says are wholly wrong in schools below the college rank.

How He Got Them.

"Dat feller Rastus Skinnah done bin talkin' a powahful 'bout how he's a-raisin' chickens."
"Sho' he doan' mean 'raisin' he means 'liftin'."—Philadelphia Press.

Vacation Fun.

"What are you going to do on your vacation this summer?"
"Same old thing, I suppose. Sit in a tent and smoke and watch it rain."—Cleveland Leader.

There are lots of good points about a man we never suspect till we read his obituary.

THE HAYWOOD TRIAL.

The Haywood trial was suspended one day that Harry Orchard might be taken to court at Caldwell, and the case against him for murdering Steunenberg postponed to the next term of court.

The prosecution in the Steunenberg murder trial, entering in earnest upon the substantiation and corroboration of Harry Orchard's testimony, showed a continuous thread of evidence connecting George Pettibone's store in Denver with Orchard at San Francisco engaged on the Bradley murder plot, partly another direct line by which it is hoped to show that Haywood engaged and paid Steve Adams for the same desperate work, and added special touches of confirmation to Orchard's general story.

The Haywood defense closed the cross-examination of Harry Orchard by a fierce attack on his motives in confessing. He was moved to tears, but maintained that he was actuated solely by a desire to make reparation for his crimes and save his soul.

The Haywood defense carried the cross-examination of Orchard down to the Steunenberg murder. The witness told of a plot to kidnap the children of a rich miner for ransom and said it was suggested by David Coates, former lieutenant governor of Colorado.

MISCELLANEOUS.

The San Francisco board of supervisors adopted a resolution declaring Mayor Eugene Schmitz temporarily unable to perform his official duties and appointing Supervisor James L. Gallagher acting mayor.

RUNAWAY CLERGYMAN-REPENTS NOW THAT HE IS BROUGHT BACK.

WIFE DESERTER'S STORY

Fled With His Wife's Sister Whom He Loved Best and Was Living With Her in Honolulu.

The Shameful Story.

"I am guilty and glad to come back because I repent and wish to pay the penalty of my misdeeds."

So said Rev. Wm. D. Clark, the former Congregational minister of Freeport, Barry county, who has been brought from Honolulu to answer to the charge of passing a $300 bogus check.

He fled from the village with his wife's sister, went to Korea and returned as far as Honolulu. He had just finished conducting a service when arrested there. "I never knew whether I loved my wife more than her sister, whom I forged and stole for," Clark says. "We all met while at school, and I loved both. I married the one that responded to my feelings, only to learn that the other was playing the coquette, and during my 15 years of married life I loved my sister-in-law more than my wife. It was no longer bearable, and I stole and took her away with never a thought of my wife and children. But I have suffered the mental tortures of the damned since. I would have gone back the first of the year, but friends advised against it. I had fully intended to go back within a few months, when I was arrested, and I am glad it is all over."

"After I left Freeport I went to Dayton, O., because I had some business with Nettie. We eloped and went straight to Honolulu. There I took up teaching for a time and did considerable missionary work. My sister-in-law and I were known as man and wife on the island. She had never been married and I did not add the crime of bigamy to my other offenses. My sister-in-law is Miss Nettie Gettard. She is a few years younger than I. Clark's deserted wife and two small children are living near Dayton.

The Snake Hunt.

More than 100 men and boys joined in the hunt for the Carter snake which has terrorized the country since about Carter lake, near Hastings, at times for the past 17 years. They spent all of Sunday beating the bushes, trailing through swamp and woods and returned at night tired out and hungry, without getting a glimpse of the 20-foot monster which is said to have been seen by several reputable persons recently about his old haunts.

While this "snake drive" was unsuccessful, a campaign has been mapped out for future attempts to round up the old fellow. When the snake is seen the fortunate person is to at once phone to town and the fire bells will sound the alarm and the entire town is expected to take to arms and rush to the scene.

Dangerously Insane.

Mrs. Lizzie Spaulding, of Owosso, has been taken to Corunna by Chief Hodges on account of dangerous insanity. A few weeks ago she conceived a violent dislike for her uncle, James Barton, and is alleged to have threatened him Saturday night she secured a revolver and because of the threats Barton applied to the police for protection. Her husband, William Spaulding, a street car conductor in Lansing, having left the city two years ago. The separation is believed to be partially responsible for her condition. Application will be made to have her admitted to Pontiac asylum.

A Great School.

Fractional school district Nos. 6 and 7, of Green Oak township, is a close second to District No. 2, Muskegon.

Legally speaking, there is just one pupil belonging to the district. Two others, brother and sister, belong to Lyon district in Brighton. These two are neighbors of the teacher, Miss Mary Stanfield, who takes them in for company.

The actual cost of 7-year-old Geo. Richards' education this year is $1 per day. Frank Russell, of Detroit, and his brother received the rudiments of their education in this same school.

A Detroit Horror.

Enraged because his wife had determined to leave him, taking their two children with her, William Roulo, a Detroit carpenter, 35 years old, killed her in her bedroom Sunday night. He cut her throat, almost severing the head from the body, and then slashed his own throat, with fatal results.

The murder and suicide occurred before the eyes of the 7-year-old daughter, Marie, who, with her younger sister, Lillian, 5 years old, was in bed with Mrs. Roulo.

Ward Has Gastritis.

Dr. Geo. W. Goss, the family physician of Rev. C. E. Ward, reports that his patient is suffering from acute gastritis and is able to retain but part of the very lightest, easily digested foods. Consequently, the gain in strength is very slow. The doctor emphatically denies that Mr. Ward will be able to see anybody inside of a week.

Most fathers try to bring up their children in the way they should have gone.

Whole Mr. and Mrs. Fred Polley were fishing in Pigeon river their 3-year-old son crawled out of the buggy and fell into the creek and was drowned.

During the parade of the Eagles in state convention in Jackson pennies were being showered from an automobile. One lad, Frank Russo, aged 8 years, made a scramble for one of the bright coppers and was run down by the auto and had one leg badly fractured.

Found Dead Body.

Lumber handlers in an Ionia yard found the dead body of a man, his features distorted as though he died in agony and a poison bottle near at hand.

The dead man was Floyd Donaldson, aged 30 years. In a pocket over his heart was found a picture of a girl, with whom it is known Donaldson was in love, but who had refused to marry him. The girl is a waitress in a local restaurant.

Donaldson lived with his mother on Front street. She says that her son's great disappointment in love three or four times led him to attempt to take his life.

AROUND THE STATE.

Rockwood business men are preparing to hold a fair this fall.

The State Fish commission has planted 50,000 perch and pike in Huron river.

Bay City school census shows 11,612 persons of school age, an increase of 158 over last year.

James A. O'Connor, of Seney, one of the graduates at West Point this year, stood sixth in the class.

Cheboygan citizens like the $50,000 worth of pavement laid last year so well that $10,000 more will be laid this summer.

Noile Barton, aged 15, son of a prominent Linden farmer, fell off a cart and broke his neck. He got up, walked 12 rods and then fell dead.

Sixteen girls walked out of a Grand Rapids store because the company discharged two for gum chewing. The whole 16 have now been discharged.

An employee of a Barle Creek laundry, swore so much that the girls had to plug their ears with cotton to keep out the profanity and he has been fined $10.

The Seventh-Day Adventists have finally given up, and disposed of the Convict church to the township of Convis for $200, after holding it since 1868.

Mrs. Jessie Krueger, of Cheboygan, is on trial for shooting and killing Frank Van Houten, a frequenter of her resort. Little interest is being taken in the case.

Seneca are scouring the woods, and livesavers are dragging Pere Marquette lake for the body of the 8-year-old son of Morris Davis, who has been missing nearly a week.

Two horses belonging to Charles R. Horton, of Ann Arbor, and valued at $500, were instantly killed by lightning, and his son rendered unconscious, during a thunderstorm.

Walter Jackson, a Boston youth wanted there on a charge of embezzlement, and who moved in "good society" in Battle Creek, was so shocked on being locked up in the jail that he fainted twice and was moved to the women's ward.

Howard Spencer, aged 28, a farmer who lived alone on his farm seven miles from Williamston, was found dead in the doorway of his barn by neighbors and it is thought he was struck by lightning just after milking his cows on Wednesday.

CHAPTER XIII—Continued.

To all purposes, I was a caged prisoner. The risk I had run to spy on them would be to no purpose unless I could surprise them at their night's work.

I raged at my impotence. Then I thought of the window. Perhaps there was a balcony.

There was no blind at the window, but wooden shutters that fastened with a catch. I pushed open the French windows. Yes, there was the balcony, and to my joy I saw that it extended the length of the suite.

And now a new difficulty stared me in the face. At any moment they might enter the bedroom, and when I had gained the balcony, outside the salon, would shutters prevent my seeing within?

As to the first risk I must take it. The door had jammed before; it would jam again. The noise made in opening it would give me some warning.

I gained the balcony; there were shutters, but I could see readily through the interstices.

It was the apartment we had first entered; and it bore unmistakable signs of having been minutely ransacked. A large empire desk had been pried open. Papers had been abstracted from the drawers and pigeonholes; they lay about in confusion. In more than one place the carpet had been torn up at the edges.

As I peered cautiously within, Dr Starva was lowering the Venetian blind of another window. Evidently they were searching the room with the knowledge that an article of value was hidden there.

I heard Madame de Varnier cry out excitedly. A packet, concealed between the slats of a Venetian blind, had fallen to the floor.

Without a doubt it was for this packet of papers that they had been searching. Madame de Varnier tore the envelope in feverish haste. She scanned the contents of the papers with intense eagerness. Dr. Starva looking over her shoulder. As they read, their faces expressed disappointment and chagrin. Dr. Starva questioned Madame de Varnier repeatedly. She put aside his fierce inquiries with impatience.

And now I made a second discovery. I thought I understood the meaning of this extraordinary plot in coming to the hotel at Vitznau. I had guessed long since that I bore a sufficiently striking resemblance to Sir Mortimer Brett to deceive at least the first casual glance. Otherwise, why the amazement of the Bretts and Madame de Varnier in first seeing me? How else could I explain the events of the night? They had drugged me, or at tempted to do so; that I might be oblivious to inconvenient inquiries or greetings. The hat and cloak of Sir Mortimer, which Dr. Starva had procured in some manner, were unusual enough in character to be readily recognized by the servants of the hotel. Sir Mortimer was known to be ill, and my condition would arouse no suspicion.

All the facts as I swiftly reviewed them fitted neatly. The inference was unmistakable.

This was the suite of Sir Mortimer Brett. They had come for the packet of papers they were now reading. The presence of Sir Mortimer Brett with them had gained them ready admission to his rooms.

And now that they had found the papers?

Had I served my purpose? Was the invitation to Madame de Varnier's chateau a ruse cleverly planned simply to bring me to this hotel as Sir Mortimer?

In that case I must be alert that they did not slip through my hands, leaving me here in Sir Mortimer's rooms to explain my predicament on the morrow as best I might.

Or was this the prelude to other adventures even more exciting? Was the game only just begun?

Still I watched them intently, while these perplexing questions demanded an answer. They had finished the papers now. Dr. Starva was seated in sullen gloom; Madame de Varnier glided to and fro in angry indecision.

A loud knock on the door opening into the hall startled me almost as much as themselves. Madame de Varnier thrust the papers into the bosom of her dress; then, while Dr. Starva at a sign from her answered the summons, she hastily restored the room to outward signs of order.

"What is it? Who is there?" Starva demanded in an agitated voice.

"It is Henri, the concierge," replied the intruder.

"To-morrow, to-morrow."

"But there is an English gentleman who says that he must see his Excellency."

It would be difficult to say whether this startling request alarmed them more than it did myself. I listened breathlessly. Dr. Starva's presence of mind seemed to have quite deserted him. He drew a revolver from his pocket. Madame de Varnier made a contemptuous sign expressive of his folly. He thrust it into his coat again, renewed his expostulations to the con-cierge. But the man was persistent. At last, at a signal from Madame de Varnier, he was admitted to the room. The presence of Madame de Varnier startled him. For the first time she spoke.

"My dear man, be discreet. Behold me, a woman, and at this hour of the night in a gentleman's apartment. Is not that a reason that you exercise your discretion?"

It was cleverly done, her perturbation and distraction. She made her appeal dramatically, her hands clasped in her anxiety.

"Madam is mistaken if she thinks I am not discreet," protested the little man. "If it were possible I would shield madam. But he stands without, in the hall, this stubborn Englishman. Madam can save her reputation only by retreating to the bedroom. Have no fear, I shall not betray madam."

It was time for me to beat a hasty retreat. But my curiosity still held me.

"Have I not told you," fiercely interrupted Dr. Starva, "that it is not his Excellency who is here with madam? It is a Mr. Haddon, and madam is his nurse and I am his physician. Tell this stubborn Englishman that, imbecile."

"Your Excellency!" He said

"Monsieur will please be reasonable. I cannot help using my eyes."

"Use them yourself if you will," desperately replied Starva. "But at least you need not tell this Englishman the truth."

"It is impossible to deceive him," persisted the concierge. "All day he has been waiting for his Excellency. A quarter of an hour ago he was smoking in the garden below. He has seen the light shining through the shutters of his Excellency's apartment. He knows that it is the apartment of his Excellency."

"You can tell him that you have placed Mr. Haddon in these rooms for the night only," persuaded Dr. Starva, producing his pocketbook.

"No, monsieur," replied the concierge sorrowfully, his eyes on the notes held toward him, "it is impossible. He will tell the manager and I shall lose my place."

"Go to this Englishman," interrupted Madame de Varnier; "demand his business. Say that his Excellency is ill, very ill. There have been days that he has not slept. His physician and his nurse have grave fears for his life if he is aroused. To awaken him is perhaps to bring on again a crisis of the nerves. But as soon as he awakes we will summon the Englishman."

"I go," the servant assented reluctantly. "But it will be useless."

I dared not await the result of his errand. I returned deliberately to my bed, deliberately, so that I might not lose my breath. I was in a terrible predicament. To rescue myself from it I must make known my true identity without an instant's delay. The knowledge that I certainly should not be believed made me hesitate. No; I had gone too far to retreat now. If my stratagem proved absolutely desperate and a confession was inevitable I should be believed as readily later as now. In the meantime chance might favor me; and my ruse be not wholly in vain.

CHAPTER XIV.

The King's Messenger.

A minute passed and the bedroom door was again opened. Madame de Varnier and Dr. Starva conversed in hurried whispers, the electric light shining full on my face. I moved about restlessly, but did not open my eyes. Presently the woman seated herself at my bedside. Dr. Starva left the room, the door being slightly ajar.

I could not resist the temptation to half open my eyes. Madame de Varnier was praying fervently, regarding with passionate adoration a jeweled cross held before her eyes. A peremptory knock at the door of the drawing-room opening on the corridor put an abrupt end to these devotions, which seemed to me so incongruous. She clasped her hands; she listened, rigid with anxiety. It may be imagined that I myself listened, scarcely less anxiously. It was the concierge again.

"Here is the Englishman's card. He says he is a king's messenger. He brings important dispatches. He insists that were his Excellency at the point of death he must none the less place these dispatches in his hands, tonight."

"But as his Excellency's physician I forbid it," replied Dr. Starva, with determination.

"And," entreated the woman gliding to the door, "can you not make him understand how disagreeable it would be for me to be surprised in these rooms, and that it would annoy Sir Mortimer beyond measure?"

"It is useless, madam. Have I not told him that embarrassing circumstances make it impossible that his are moments when he is delirious. To bring him sleep it was necessary to give him an opiate, you understand. If he is awakened he may be sane or he may deny his very identity."

"Which is his room?"

"Captain Forbes, I forbid it. It is impossible. I warn you."

Madame de Varnier opened the door of the bedroom quietly.

"If the gentleman insists on awakening Sir Mortimer we are powerless," she said gently. "But at least let him not be excited more than necessary, sir."

"I shall endeavor to follow your instructions, madam," said Forbes stiffly. He strode to my bedside. I could imagine with what breathless anxiety the adventurers watched him. Was he sufficiently intimate with Sir Mortimer Brett to denounce me instantly as an impostor?

"Your Excellency!" he said gently. "Your Excellency!"

The immediate danger of discovery was past. At least he had not detected the deception so far. He called me again; he shook my shoulder respectfully. I opened my eyes.

"What is it?" I demanded, bewildered. I am horrified to-day when I think of the facility that was mine in playing this game of intrigue. I looked languidly from Captain Forbes to Madame de Varnier, who had resumed her seat at the bedside. The question was addressed to her.

She took my hand. "This is Captain Forbes, a king's messenger. He has brought you dispatches of importance."

"Ah, yes," I said wearily, and looked at him with dull eyes.

"I am sorry to arouse you, sir." Content for the man struggled with respect for his office. "But my orders at the Foreign Office were to give you these papers at the earliest possible moment. The business is urgent. May I suggest that you read them at once?"

My eyes unconsciously turned to Madame de Varnier for guidance. She stroked my hand gently.

"Do you not see that he is in no condition to be disturbed tonight?" she asked indignantly.

For the first time Captain Forbes hesitated. He placed one sunburned hand on his breast as if to guard jealously the dispatches he bore. That he should hesitate at all seemed to me incredible. But Captain Forbes seemed a fair example of that type of Englishman who performs his duty with the stubbornness and obstinacy of a fool as well as a hero. Chance often determines which of the two characters he shall assume. It is true he had not the remotest suspicion that I was not Sir Mortimer. But surely he must see that I was in the power of these adventurers.

All my fears reached a climax when, looking steadily at me a moment, he turned to the others.

"I must speak to Sir Mortimer alone."

I saw Starva grasp the revolver concealed beneath his coat. Madame de Varnier silenced the protests on his lips with a meaning glance. She realized the uselessness of further resistance.

"You will not excite him more than necessary," she entreated anxiously. "And you must not be surprised to find his mind still confused as a result of the opiate given him."

"I shall spare him as far as possible," Forbes replied with some sternness. Drawing himself erect, his arms folded, he waited until the door had closed behind them.

My first impulse was to put an end to this farce. But again I hesitated. They were listening outside that door; every suspicion was alert, the slightest cause would fan the suspicion to a flame.

And then, what? I should have made myself ridiculous to no purpose. I had gone far in my reckless venture—too far to risk all by attempting to warn Captain Forbes at this crucial moment. His brain worked too slowly—he was too deficient in imagination—too much lacking in subtlety and finesse. I refused—recklessly, if you will—but deliberately—to risk the success of my scheme by drumming into the dull brain of Captain Forbes the true state of affairs. It would have taken him a good quarter of an hour to grasp merely the facts. At that time he would understand just enough of them to be stubbornly convinced that I was equally involved with the other two, but he would think my nerve had failed me and that I was attempting to purchase my own freedom from punishment at the expense of the others. And certainly they would drag me down with them, if for no other purpose than revenge.

No; this was not the hour for confidences. Captain Forbes was not the man to be made a confidant at such an hour.

He looked down at me with cold respect. Outwardly I met his steady look with something of fortitude and composure, but beneath the clothes my two hands were clenched rigid.

From a silk bag suspended about his neck he produced two envelopes. He weighed them in his hand a moment; then he placed the bulkier of the two in its silk case. The other he held toward me.

"The Foreign Office, sir, has entrusted to me two dispatches. My orders are to place them in your hands at the earliest opportunity. But one of these dispatches I know to be of great importance. I shall therefore keep it for the present, unless you demand it."

"No, no," I muttered hoarsely. "I cannot receive it now."

"Then to-morrow, sir, I shall hope to find you in better health. Then I shall give you the second dispatch. This one I leave with you now, and may I suggest that you read it at your earliest convenience?"

"I am not to be disturbed."

"I am not to be disturbed."

"I am not to be disturbed."

From the State Capital

Information and Gossip Furnished by Special Correspondent at Lansing.

Lansing—The house committee on private corporations decided to report out the amendment to the banking law, sought by the Michigan United railway, without recommendation. This was done later in the house and the bill placed at the foot of the general order. At the present rate it would hardly be reached before final adjournment, but efforts are likely to be made to have it placed on special order for a day certain. M. W. O'Brien wired the formal protest of the Detroit bankers against the bill. Attorneys for the M. U. R. assert that the amendment is being misrepresented; they say that the amendment simply provides for the approval of bonds on roads which show earning capacity 50 per cent. above the amount necessary to meet the interest in addition to all operating expenses, instead of the qualification being to earn four per cent. on the capital stock. "If a road costs $2,000,000," said Judge Walcott, of Port Huron, "the amendment provides that it must be able to earn interest on $8,000,000, above all operating expenses, instead of simply earning four per cent. on the capital stock, which might be very small. We contend that this is a safer method than the present one." In spite of their protestations the M. U. R. people do not seem able to convince any bankers or those familiar with the subject that it would be a good thing for the state banks to be permitted to buy such bonds and the banking commissioner holds that banks should only be permitted to purchase securities about which there can be no such speculative feature.

Constitutional Convention Plans.

By the action of the house in agreeing to the conference report a constitutional convention is assured. The vote stood 64 to 23. Under the terms of the bill the convention will be made up of 96 delegates, on the basis of three from each senatorial district. The primary for the nomination of delegates will be held on August 13 and the election on September 17. The convention will assemble on October 22 at the capitol and delegates will be paid $10 per day until January 31. The constitution adopted will be submitted to the electors for ratification at the April election, 1938. Some of Speaker Whelan's friends are already talking of him for president of the convention, but this is purely tentative, although he will undoubtedly have the support of all the legislators who become delegates. Paul King, journal clerk of the house, will be a candidate for clerk of the convention.

To Change Primary Fund.

The house is considering one of the most important bills of the session, a substitute for the house bill which would apportion the primary school money by the number of teachers in a school district, instead of by the number of pupils, as now. The substitute allows the money of the state to be apportioned among the counties by school population, but gives the supervisors of the county power to elect whether the county's share shall be distributed according to teachers or pupils. The purpose of the change of plan first devised, and of this new scheme, is to protect poorer districts. But large cities like Detroit would lose considerable money by apportionment by teachers, and city members from various counties are likely to vote down the plan, fearing that the cities might suffer at supervisors' meetings.

Military Bill O. K. Now.

The senate finally passed the military bill as amended by the committee and under the agreement made the house will concur. It provides $40,000 a year to be raised for state armories on the basis of $10,000 to a company and makes a number of other changes, but does not provide for promotion by seniority as some members of the military board wanted. The term of the rifle inspector is made four years instead of for life, members of the military board and their assistants will hereafter receive grade pay only during camp and the quartermaster general is made absolutely responsible for the issuance of military transportation and the discretionary power claimed by certain subordinates is wiped out.

Bill Aimed at Loan Sharks.

After bucking in committee for a long time the senate passed the bill reducing the rate of interest to be charged by pawnbrokers and loan sharks to two per cent. a month on loans under $50 and one per cent. on larger amounts.

Have Millions Put Away.

Michigan people have a total of $105,132,958 stored up in savings in state banks and trust companies, according to a tabulation issued by Banking Commissioner Zimmerman. 20 returns from 17 banks, six trust companies and one society for savings.

Want New Cell Block in Prison.

Thomas J. Navin and Warden Armstrong are in Lansing working for an appropriation for a new steel cell block to replace the old stone block.

Opposes McCracken Bill.

Attorney General Bird opposes a change made in the senate in the change of venue repeal bill, the McCracken bill, which as presented excludes pending cases from the operation of the repeal. This was amended in the senate so as to exclude only pending cases wherein application is made before the passage of the repeal. The attorney general has a case in which the state is defendant against the Michigan Central railroad for $6,000,000 damages for the repeal of the charter. The case is now tied up by demurrer in the supreme court. Attorney General Bird may want an arbitrary change of venue from Wayne when the case is tried, but he cannot make application before the demurrer is decided. Hence he objects to the amendment of the senate which would "tie his hands."

Governor Will Approve Measure.

The Moriarty bill allowing upper peninsula mining companies to own unlimited timber acreage, which passed the senate and the house with such large majorities, in spite of a degree of alarmist opposition, will probably be signed by the governor. It is said by the friends of the bill that he was consulted by the attorneys of the various conflicting interests in the north country before the bill passed the senate, and these conflicting interests, which certainly would not see one another allowed to form trusts, have agreed on the bill. The Iron mines, the Calumet & Mecla and the Osceola people are said to be agreed on the bill.

Graft in School Funds?

Steps will soon be taken by state authorities to prosecute a number of local school officers in the state who are alleged to be short in their accounts. It is said that there is no public fund in which there is so much graft as in the school funds. The case of Henry Breuckmann, former treasurer of district No. 3 Martini township, Mecosta county, was laid before the attorney general by the department of public instruction. The prosecuting attorney of the county has been directed to take such steps as the circumstances warrant. It is claimed that Breuckmann owes the district $972.

Get Around Supreme Court.

At the meeting of the representative of insurance companies and manufacturers of Michigan an agreement was reached in regard to a bill to legalize the use of the so-called co-insurance rider in this state, which was recently declared illegal by the supreme court. The bill provides that the insurer shall be given the option between two kinds of fire insurance policies and that a lower rate shall be given on policies bearing the co-insurance clause.

Amend Indeterminate Act.

An important bill passed by the senate amends the indeterminate act by giving judges authority to fix maximum sentences which are now fixed by statute. It also provides that the minimum sentence must be at least half the maximum, and that prisoners who have good behavior to their credit must be released at the expiration of the minimum period. Machinery is also provided that will assure prisoners securing a hearing.

Against Ad Valorem Tax.

Representative Dust made an effort to have his bill placing telephone, telegraph and express companies under the ad valorem system for taxation purposes but his motion was tabled 44 to 34. A majority of the members are convinced that the telephone companies are now paying their proportion of the taxes and want to encourage the industry, but they would like to see telegraph and express companies made to pay more taxes.

Historical Society Meeting.

The annual meeting of the State Pioneer and Historical society will be held in Lansing June 26 and 27, the date having been postponed on account of the legislative session. A feature of the meeting this year will be the presentation to the society of the portrait of I. E. Cray, the father of Michigan's public school system.

End of Long Squabble.

The state medical registration bill passed the senate without amendment, ending a long series of squabbles between the various factions. Michigan will now have the best medical law of any state in the country and the board will be in a position to force its ruling regarding the standard of requirements.

Will Hear Many Kicks.

Several complaints of unequal assessments have been made to the state tax commission and at the next meeting of the commission arrangements will be made for reviewing the assessments which are claimed to be excessive.

New Use for Liquor Tax.

Representative Wayne, of Midland, introduced a bill to have the liquor tax of his county apply to the erection of county buildings, and to allow the county to bond on this credit.

NORTHVILLE, MICH., JUNE 21, '07.

Appropriations for 1907.

The people of Michigan should expect and did expect a reasonable increase in the total of appropriations required to meet the demands of the enlarging state institutions and of general expenses made necessary by the growth of the state in all directions. But they further expected that this increase should be held to the lowest possible limit. They know that institution officers think it their duty to urge the largest degree of generosity for the interests they separately represent and that criticism of an excessive total is never silenced by reference to the individual merit of the appropriation items. Another very important consideration to keep in mind is that the large provision of this year in most directions is quite sure to be followed by more eager demands for still larger provision in the same directions for the years to come. The heavy appropriations were all passed at the last moment and did not reach the governor until after the legislature had adjourned. This left Governor Warner no alternative but to approve them. When they were for maintenance of public institutions Governor Warner used his best efforts to keep appropriations down but at the last moment the members seemed to have lost their heads and everything went. Rep Cass Benton of Northville, who was a member of the Ways and Means committee of the House was a loyal supporter of Governor Warner's policy for economy but all his pleading and voting in the committee was in vain and bills were tumbled out this week and last week in a manner that was certainly startling.

Legislature Good to Telegraph Co's.

There is no justice to the taxpayers of Michigan in the action of the committee on taxation of the house of representatives at Lansing, in refusing to require of the Western Union and Postal telegraph companies of the state, the payment of their share of taxation on the same basis as other properties are taxed. Kindness and favor in matters of taxation should not be given to the few at the expense of the many. It is quite certain that the wishes of the voters of the state are being considered in this matter.

Promise Fulfilled.

The fulfillment of another promise made to the people of Michigan by Governor Warner and the republican party two years ago has been accomplished through the repeal of the limited liability law. Practical experience with that law proved it to possess possibilities undesirable so far as the larger portion of the people of the state were concerned. Its repeal was therefore accomplished in accordance with the assurance officially given by the republicans of Michigan that it would be.

Valencia Fete Day Costume.

In Valencia, on the fete days, the little girls have their hair dressed just exactly like that of their older sisters, having the front locks parted and coiled up into a wheel at each temple, and the back hair elaborately arranged from the nape of the neck to a few inches above the head, the entire being held secure by fancy pins.

Wanted, to Rent, For Sale, Etc.

I Took Pe-ru-na, Hardly Daring to Believe

So Writes Mr. Newhof, of Albany.

Pelvic Diseases in Men.

Many an invalid is dragging out a miserable existence with catarrh of the kidneys, catarrh of the bladder, or both.

There is no disease equal to catarrh of the bladder in producing complete wretchedness, absolute despair, haggard misery and stubborn weakness.

An army of this sort of victims have one by one discovered that Peru-na could be relied upon to relieve such cases.

One man tells another man, and in this way the news spreads until in all parts of the country are to be found men who have been permanently liberated from the thralldom of catarrh of the bladder by a course of Peru-na.

Many cases of catarrh of the stomach, kidneys and other abdominal organs have reported themselves as cured.

We give below two prominent testimonials which illustrate the benefit of Peru-na in these cases.

H. L. EMERY

Catarrh of Stomach and Kidneys.

Mr. H. L. Emery, Vice Chancellor and Master of Arms, K. P.'s, of Omaha, Neb., writes from 205 North Sixteenth street, the following words of praise for Peru-na as a tonic. He says:

It is with pleasure I recommend Peru-na as a tonic of unusual merit. A large number of prominent members of the different orders with which I have been connected have been cured by the use of Peru-na in case of catarrh of the stomach and head; also in kidney complaints and weakness of the pelvic organs. Peru-na tones up the system, aids digestion, induces sleep, and is well worthy the confidence of sufferers of the above complaints.

Catarrh of the Bladder.

Mr. C. B. Newhof, 30 Delaware street, Albany, N. Y., President Montefiore Club, writes:

"Since my advanced age I find that I have been frequently troubled with urinary ailments. The bladder seemed irritated, and my physician said that it was catarrh caused by a protracted cold which would be difficult to overcome on account of my advanced age. I took Peru-na, hardly daring to believe that I would be helped, but found to my relief that I soon began to mend. The irritation gradually subsided, and the urinary difficulties passed away. I have enjoyed excellent health now for the past seven months. I enjoy my meals, sleep soundly, and am as well as I was twenty years ago. I give all praise to Peru-na."

Catarrh of the Bladder.

Mr. C. B. Newhof, 30 Delaware street, Albany, N. Y., President Montefiore Club, writes:

"I was in good health until about four years ago, when my back became lame and sore. The pains kept increasing, with severe twitches and slow exhaustive aches. Urine was highly colored and passed with great irregularity. I knew this must be inflammation of the bladder. Having read of Peru-na I decided to try it. I found relief from the pain within ten days. The aches gradually diminished, and it was a blessed relief I can assure you. Within three months I was well once more. My appetite had returned, nervousness and irritability were things of the past, and for over two years now I have been a healthy man. I give all thanks to your Peru-na, and believe that it is a blessing to mankind."

Mr. David L. Jaycox, Chaplain Clarinda I. O. G. T. and Chaplain C. A. R., 865 Broadway, Oakland, Cal., writes:

"I am an old war veteran. I contracted severe bladder and kidney trouble. I spent hundreds of dollars and consulted a host of doctors, but neither did me any good.

"Finally some of my comrades who had been cured by Peru-na advised me to try it. I at once bought a bottle, and found it helped me so much that I kept using it for nearly four months.

"Peru-na has proven the best medicine I ever used. My pains are gone and I believe myself to be cured. I feel well, and would not be without a bottle in case of need for ten times its cost."

Mr. Robert E. Hanvey, Treasurer Knights of Industrial Freedom, also a well known writer and lecturer, writes

Mrs. P. Fitzpatrick of Detroit has been the guest of Mrs. Angie Smith this week.

Dr. W. H. Yarnall, wife and baby of Detroit spent Saturday with Dr. and Mrs. Ball.

Mrs. Herbert Renshaw and baby of Detroit spent Friday with Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Yerkes.

Rev. S. F. Dimmock officiated at the funeral of Frank Darrow at Farmington yesterday morning.

Mrs. W. H. Catermole attended the Commencement exercises of the Wayne High school this week.

Mrs. Catherine Wing of Ann Arbor spent Sunday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. C. A. McCullough.

Mrs. Miller and daughter of Detroit have returned home after a few days' visit at the home of Frank Sutton.

Mrs. Bert Wilkinson and children of Ovid are here for several weeks' visit. Mr. Wilkinson was here over Sunday and until Wednesday.

Attorney K. C. Babbitt of Colorado Springs is here this week on a visit to his brother, L. A. Babbitt, and mother, Mrs. E. L. Babbitt.

Mrs. J. B. Morrison of DeWitt came Wednesday night to help care for her mother, Mrs. Sarah Lapham, who still remains about the same.

Ernest Miller, who has been working in the fish hatchery in Detroit the past few weeks, has returned home and resumed his work in the Northville hatchery.

Mrs. Phila Hamilton has returned from a four weeks' visit in Grand Rapids and Kalamazoo. She was accompanied by her granddaughter, Bernice Burgess.

Mrs. A. P. Scott and daughter, Ethel, and Roy Clark attended the Commencement exercises at Ypsilanti Wednesday where the former's daughter, Edith, was one of the class of four hundred to graduate from the Normal.

Cheap prices but not a cheap show. "Up to Ferdie" Wednesday night at Opera House. Reserved seats 25c at Murdock's.

The Best Laxative for Children. Parents should see to it that their children have one natural, easy movement of the bowels each day. Do not dose the child with salts or other pills as they are too powerful in effect, and literally tear the little's insides to pieces, leaving the bowels weakened and less able to act naturally than before.

Laxative from the Tablets does not weaken the bowels, and stimulates all the little organs to healthy activity. Chocolate coated tablets, easy to take, never gripes or vomits. 10c, 50c and $1.00.

For sale and recommended by Murdock Bros. Druggists.

Messrs Charles Tapp, Albert Tapp and Samard Rice spent Sunday with Northville relatives.

Mr. Taylor and family of Reed City are visiting at the home of his brother, Myron Taylor in Beal town.

Miss Elele Woytych spent Monday in Detroit.

The City in Brief.

Fred W. Jones, of Northville and Miss May White of Detroit were recently married.

Special Convocation of Union Chapter, No. 55 R. A. M., will occur Wednesday evening, June 26.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Truhaft Friday, June 14, a daughter. Everybody perfectly happy and doing well.

Orient Chapter, No. 77 O. E. S., will hold its regular meeting this evening. Members requested to be present.

Catholic services will be held in their house, corner Dunlap and Center streets, Sunday morning at 7.30 standard time.

Edward Gay has purchased the house and lot on the corner of Main and High streets owned and occupied by Mrs. Estella Harrington.

Mrs. Floyd Shafer returned home Friday from the hospital in Detroit, where she had been for an operation, and is getting along very nicely.

Flag Day was pretty generally observed here Friday and many residences and business places were decorated with the stars and stripes.

Don Ball is getting to be an expert shot with stones. The other day he threw a stone at a chicken and hit another about a rod away and killed it.

Mrs. L. A. Clark gave a Flinch party to twenty of her lady friends Friday evening. The decorations were flags and the favors were tiny flags. Refreshments were served.

Regular Communication of Northville Lodge No. 186 F. & A. M. occurs Monday evening, June 24. Let every member of the order take due notice and govern himself accordingly.

At last people have taken down their coal stoves, put up screen doors, ordered the ice man to stop at their place, etc. How long it will last we can't tell, but we are thankful for small favors.

Mrs. Frank Brown remains about the same. Tuesday she was carried out on the porch where she could enjoy the fresh air. The doctor has ordered this treatment thinking it would be a benefit to her.

An effort was made this week to combine the two county game wardens in Wayne county into one and the friends of Charlie Daniels of Springwells believe he will get the plum. Charlie has certainly made a good deputy.

Mrs. Chas. Sessions underwent another operation at her home Sunday and Dr. Turner assisted by Dr. Henry removed three small tumors from her side. She is doing nicely and her many friends will be pleased to hear of a speedy recovery.

Mrs. O. N. Barnhart is in possession of a diary kept by her father, J. C. Emery, in the year of 1883 and the weather was much the same as it has been this spring. May 21 of that year was cold and stormy, snowing a good share of the day and the mercury was only thirty-six above freezing while on June 1 there was quite a severe frost. During July and August it was very hot most of the time. September sixth to tenth there were very hard frosts.

WANTED—Strawberry pickers about June 27. Leave names at my residence or phone 3 (Bell.) W. Pitt Johnson. 46w1p

"Had dyspepsia or indigestion for years. No appetite and what I did eat distressed me terribly. Burdock Blood Bitters cured me."—J. H. Walker, Sunbury, Ohio.

Stanley Wheeler is quite sick with tonsillitis.

Mr. Henry, recently of Detroit, is assisting E. C. Murdock in his barber shop.

Mrs. T. H. Turner, who has been quite ill the past week, is slowly recovering.

About a dozen members of Northville Commandery K. T. visited Pontiac Commandery, Tuesday evening.

A large number of our citizens attended the Barnum & Bailey circus in Detroit Monday. They report it as being one of the best shows ever held there.

Christian Science service, Sunday morning at ten o'clock and Wednesday at seven p. m. at 559 Center street. Subject for Sunday: "Christian Science." All are cordially invited.

Miss Cole, Seventh grade teacher, was given a pleasant surprise Monday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Vandyne by about sixteen of her friends from the Baptist church. The evening was spent in a social way after which a light lunch was served.

How about a "home coming" day for Northville? Seemingly one here would be a great success. Nearly all of Northville's former residents would be glad to come back for a day when they could have an opportunity of meeting former day friends and relatives.

The ball game here Saturday afternoon between Northville and Wayne teams was won by the latter in a score of four to three. The game was not as agreeable as had been anticipated as one man in particular in the visiting team was a chronic kicker and kept the others in a turmoil from start to finish.

Mrs. Ida Joslin was very pleasantly entertained by the Farmington Chapter, O. E. S., last Thursday evening in their hall at Farmington. After a short program the members presented Mrs. Joslin with a beautiful souvenir spoon as a token of gratitude for her many kindnesses in assisting them on various occasions. Ice cream and cake were served.

Some of our citizens are asking the Record to say something about a band Northville has had some very fine aggregations and there ought to be enough talent here now to make a very creditable showing along that line. A teacher is about the only thing needed as there would be a tendency on the part of the business men, it is believed, to support a good band.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Neelands are in receipt of a letter from their son, John, who is in Montana and he gives a fine description of his travels in Yellowstone Park and of the many beautiful and wonderful sights he has seen while there. He thinks the geysers are wonderful but the greatest sight was the Great Canyon and Lower Falls of the Yellowstone. The scene was very impressive.

M. E. Beebe and Henry VanAllen were fishing for bull heads in Union Lake one day last week, using beef steak for bait. Beebe felt a good bite and hauling in his line found two bull heads fast on the hook and neither one had the hook in its mouth. That's the best one yet and we take off our hat to Mr. Beebe.

The Sellings & May base ball team of Detroit will come out Saturday and play a game of ball with the Northville team. This game was advertised to come off a few weeks ago, but owing to bad weather it was postponed. This promises to be one of the best games of the season and everybody should go and see it.

Another birthday supper will be given next Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Fred Tonsey on Dubuque street. This is given under the direction of the ladies of the Baptist church and everybody is invited to come and bring ten cents and stay for supper. The business session will be held from two until four o'clock and the birthday party and lunch will follow.

Gov. Warner makes no concealment of his purpose to convene the legislature in special session after the constitutional convention concludes its labors unless satisfactory, good faith primary and railroad commission bills are passed at the present session. He has declared his purpose not to accept any subterfuges or make shifts. He does not propose that the people shall, be either hoodwinked or bamboozled but to see to it that they secure what they demand.

Greatest Sale of the Year

A STUPENDOUS SACRIFICE OF SPRING AND SUMMER MERCHANDISE EXCESSIVE STOCKS DUE TO UNFAVORABLE WEATHER MUST BE REDUCED AT ONCE TO THEIR PROPER LEVEL. WHAT THE GOODS COST HAS NOTHING TO DO WITH WHAT YOU CAN BUY THEM FOR DURING THE BALANCE OF THIS MONTH.

Retail trade all over the country has suffered from this backward season. Dealers in the largest cities for two months past have been making frantic efforts to unload stock and keep their business up to something near its regular volume. We consider ourselves fortunate in having been able, right through the cold wet weather, to stimulate trade in nearly every line. "The Heart of Detroit" has been busy when other stores found it almost impossible to interest the public in their offerings. But we haven't sold as much merchandise as would have been disposed of under ordinary conditions. What use have people had for hot-weather wearables; how much housecleaning and refurnishing has been done this spring as compared to other years; how many women have completed their summer sewing? No matter now, the thing is to unload our surplus stocks, AND THIS WE WILL DO WITH ALL THE FORCE THAT CUT PRICES CAN COMMAND. Nearly all departments are involved—every line of goods that is larger than it should be now has been marked down for a quick and decisive clearance. Come to the store and see for yourself the great money saving opportunities that await prompt buyers. The season's newest and choicest goods to be had now at genuine reductions from prices that were not only low, but LOWEST.

Mrs. George Thomas is still quite poorly.

Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Taft are improving slowly.

Mrs. Minnie Cameron is very low with no hope of recovery. Miss E. Woytych, nurse, is caring for her.

A fine new bell has been placed in the tower of the Firemen's hall. It is much larger and of a more recent make than the old one.

School Notes.

[By a Pup.]

Ruth Brown of the Second grade celebrated her birthday Wednesday afternoon.

Dr. Driver delivered the last lecture on the lecture course to the Seniors last night.

Raymond Wheaton of the First grade gave a treat to his school mates Wednesday afternoon.

The picnic of the Kindergarten, First and Second grades was greatly enjoyed by the pupils and their parents.

Vacation has, or rather is about to begin, and as there will be no more school this summer, there will be no more school notes.

The pupils of the Seventh grade gave their teacher, Miss Cole, a souvenir spoon and a box of stationery as a parting gift.

Alice Cunningham of the Second grade has not been absent or tardy all the year. There are eighteen other pupils that have not been tardy.

The teacher and pupils of the Third grade extend sympathy to their little schoolmate, Lillie Clark, in the death of her grandfather, John Leavenworth.

There were twenty-five pupils excused from the Fifth grade Wednesday afternoon for having stood up three times each Friday afternoon in the month on the multiplication tables.

Too Much Evidence.

Anthony Pressynski produced his wife's ashes and a certificate from a crematory company as evidence of her death when he tried to withdraw her deposit from a Vienna bank. The cashier has since posted a notice explaining that an affidavit is all that is necessary.—Wiener Caricature.

A Daily Thought.

It is only living that teaches us the right of our friends to help us. Mutual obligation is like rotation of crops, and saves friendship from sterility.—Gustave Thannet.

Allen, the Stove Man.

Am located in Northville and am prepared to do all kinds of repairing: Stoves, lawn mowers, clothes wringers and sewing machines. Castings for all stoves 12c per lb. in store. Second hand gasolines stoves for sale. Phone residence, 943.

A Little Printer's Ink Makes Millions Think—Think—Think!

More truth than poetry. A little Printer's Ink prints a little advertisement in a little "magazine" that circulates at a little price and goes into a million little homes, chiefly in the little cities and towns and country places.

The millions of people in these homes are caused by the Printer's Ink to think that they can get big bargains for their money by sending it away by mail, ordering the things advertised by the little pinch of Printer's Ink.

Sometimes when they receive the stuff they order by mail they have another Think coming. They think, "What fools we mortals be," and apply the Think to themselves. And sometimes some of them think something like this:

"Wonder why Mister Man, our local dealer in many things we need, doesn't advertise these things in our local paper? Maybe if he did we wouldn't be tempted to send to the big city for these same things. If we were sure we could buy them at home for about the same price and have a chance to see the goods before taking, we think we'd prefer to buy them at home."

Now, Mister Man, what do you think—think—think?

CHAPTER XIV.—Continued.

Stoddard had left me to go to the other end of the platform to speak to some of the students. I followed Pickering rather reluctantly to where the companions of his travels were pacing and fro in the crisp morning air.

As soon as Pickering had got me well under way in conversation with Taylor, he excused himself hurriedly and went off, as I assumed, to be sure the station agent had received orders for attaching the private car to the Chicago express. Taylor proved to be a supercilious person. I believe they call him Chilly Billy at the Metropolitan club, and our efforts to converse were pathetically unfruitful. The two ladies stood by, making no concealment of their impatience. Their eyes were upon the girls from St. Agatha's on the other platform, whom they could see beyond me. I had jumped her conversation from Indiana farm values to the recent disorders in Bulgaria, which interested me more, when Mrs. Taylor, ignoring me, spoke abruptly to her sister.

"That's she—the one in the gray coat talking to the clergyman. She came a moment ago in the carriage."

"The one with the umbrella? I thought you said—"

Mrs. Taylor glanced at her sister warningly, and they both looked at me. Then they detached themselves and moved away. There was some one in the farther platform whom they wished to see, and Taylor not understanding their maneuver—he was really anxious, I think not to be left alone with me—started down the platform after them. I following Mrs. Taylor and her sister walked to the end of the platform and looked across, a bit out of place, to where Stoddard stood talking to the girl I had already heard described as wearing a gray coat and carrying an umbrella.

The girl in gray crossed the track quickly and addressed the two women cordially. Taylor's back was to her and he was growing eloquent in a mild, will-bied way over the dullness of our stationmen in not seeing the advantages that would accrue to the United States in fostering our shipping industry. His wife, her sister and the girl in gray were so near that I could hear plainly what they were saying. They were returning apparently to the girl's refusal of an invitation to accompany them to California.

"So you can't go—it's too bad! We had hoped that when you really saw us on the way you would relent," said Mrs. Taylor.

But there are many reasons; and above all Sister Theresa needs me.

It was the voice of Olivia, a little lover, a little more restrained than I had known it, but undeniably it was she.

But think of the rose gardens that are waiting for us out there!" said the other lady. They were showing her the deference that elderly women always have for pretty girls.

Alas, and again alas!" exclaimed Olivia. "Please don't make it harder for me than necessary. But I gave my promise a year ago to spend these holidays in Cincinnati."

She ignored me wholly and after shaking hands with the ladies returned to the other platform. I wondered whether she was overlooking Taylor on purpose to cut me.

Taylor was still at his lecture on the needs of our American merchant marine when Pickering passed hurriedly, crossed the track and began speaking earnestly to the girl in gray.

The American flag should command the seas. What we need is not more battleships but more freight carriers—Taylor was saying.

But I was watching Olivia Gladys Armstrong. In a long skirt, with her hair caught up under a gray toque that matched her coat perfectly, she was not my Olivia of the tam-o-shanter who had pursued the rabbit, nor yet the unsophisticated school girl, who had snatched my idiotic babble, nor again, the dreamy, rapt organist of the chapel. She was a grown woman with at least 20 summers to her credit, and there was about her an air of knowing the world, and of not being at all a person one would mind a foolish speech to. She spoke to Pickering gravely. Once she smiled doubtfully and shook her head and I vaguely strove to remember where I had seen that look in her eyes before. Her gold beads, which I had once carried in my pocket, were clasped tight about the close collar of her dress; and I was glad, very glad, that I had ever touched anything that belonged to her.

Who was Olivia Gladys Armstrong and what was Arthur Pickering's business with her? And what was it she had said to me that evening when I had found her playing on the chapel organ? So much happened that day that I had almost forgotten, and, indeed, I had tried to forget that I made a fool of myself for the edification of an amusing little school girl. "Then you prefer to ignore the first three I ever saw you," she had said; and if I had thought of it at all it had been with righteous self-contempt. Or, I may have flattered my vanity with the reflection that she had eyed me—her hero, perhaps—with wistful admiration across the wall.

Meanwhile the Chicago express roared into Annandale and the private car, was attached. Taylor watched the trainmen with the cool interest of a man for whom the proceeding had no novelty, while he continued to dilate upon the nation's commercial opportunities. I turned, perforce, and walked with him back toward the station, where Mrs. Taylor and her sister were talking to the conductor.

Pickering came running across the platform with several telegrams in his hand.

"I'm awfully sorry, Glenarm, that our stop's so short," and Pickering's face wore a worried look as he addressed me, his eyes on the conductor.

"How far do you go?" I asked.

"California. We have large interests out there and I have to attend some stockholders' meetings in Colorado in January."

"Ah, you business men! You business men!" I said reproachfully. I wished to call him a blackguard then and there, and it was on my tongue to do so, but I concluded that to wait until he had shown his hand fully was the better game.

The ladies entered the car and I shook hands with Taylor, who threatened to send me his pamphlet on The Needs of American Shipping when he got back to New York.

"It's too bad she wouldn't go with

"I didn't know they ever grow up so fast—in a day and a night!"

I was glad I remembered the number of beads in her chain; the item seemed at once to become important.

"It's the am I suppose. It's praised by excellent critics," she laughed.

"But you are going to an amplifier, a diviner air. You have attained the beatific state and at once take flight. If they confer perfection like an academic degree at St. Agatha's, then—"

I had never felt so stupidly helpless in my life. There were a thousand things I wished to say to her; there were countless questions I wished to ask; but her calmness and poise were disconcerting. Her eyes met mine easily, their azure depths puzzled me. She was almost, but not quite, some one I had seen before, and it was not my woodland Olivia. Her eyes, the soft curve of her cheek, the light in her hair—but the memory of another time, another place, another girl, dared only to baffle me.

She laughed—a little murmuring laugh.

"I'll never tell if you won't," she said.

"But I don't see how that helps me with you?"

"It certainly does not! That is a much more serious matter, Mr. Glenarm."

"And the worst of it is that I haven't a single thing to say for myself. It wasn't the not knowing that was so utterly dull—"

"Certainly not! It was talking that ridiculous twaddle. It was trying to us. Poor girl! this must be a dreary hole for her," he said to Pickering, who helped him upon the platform of the car with what seemed to be unnecessary precipitation.

"You little know us," I declared, for Pickering's benefit. "Life in Annandale is nothing if not exciting. The people here are indifferent marksmen or there'd be murders galore."

"Mr. Glenarm is a good deal of a wag," explained Pickering, hastily swinging himself aboard as the train started.

"Yes, it's my humor that keeps me alive," I responded and taking off my hat I saluted Arthur Pickering with my broadest salutation.

CHAPTER XV.

I Make an Engagement.

The south bound train was now due in ten minutes. A few students had boarded the Chicago train, but a greater number still waited on the farther platform. The girl in gray was surrounded by half a dozen students, all talking animatedly. As I walked toward them I could not justify my stupidity in mistaking a school girl of 15 or 16 for a grown woman, but it was the tam-o-shanter, the short skirt, the youthful girl in the outdoor world that had disguised her as effectually as Rosalind to the eyes of Orlando. She was probably a teacher—quite likely the teacher of music, I argued, who had amused herself at my expense.

It had seemed the easiest thing in the world to approach her with an apology or a farewell, but those few inches added to her skirt and that pretty gray toque substituted for the tam-o-shanter set up a barrier that did not yield at all as I drew nearer. At the last moment, as I crossed the track and stepped upon the other platform, it occurred to me that while I might have some claim upon the attention of Olivia Gladys Armstrong, a wayward school girl of athletic tastes, I had none whatever upon a person whom it was proper to address as Miss Armstrong—who was, I felt sure, quite capable of snubbing me if snubbing fell in with her mood.

She glanced toward me and bowed instantly, and her young companions withdrew to a conservative distance. I will say this for the students at St. Agatha's, Annandale. Their manners are beyond criticism, and an affable discretion is one of their most admirable traits.

flirt with a silly school girl. What will do for 15 is somewhat vacuous for—"

She paused abruptly, colored and laughed.

"I am 27!"

"And I am just the usual age," she said.

"Ages don't count, but time is important. There are many things I wish you would tell me—who you hold the key of the gate of mystery?"

"Then you'll have to pick the lock!" She laughed lightly. The somber Sisters patrolling the platform with their charges heeded us little.

"I had no idea you knew Arthur Pickering—when you were just Olivia in the tam-o-shanter!"

"Maybe you think he wouldn't have cared for my acquaintance—as Olivia in the tam-o-shanter. Men are very queer!"

"But Arthur Pickering is an old friend of mine."

"So not to me."

"We were neighbors in our youth."

"I believe I have heard him mention it."

"And we did our prep school together, and then parted!"

"You tell exactly the same story, so it must be true. He went to college and you went to Tech."

"And you knew him?" I began, my curiosity thoroughly aroused.

"Not at college, any more than I knew you at Tech."

"The trains coming," I said earnestly, "and I wish you would tell me when I shall see you again!"

"Before we part for ever!" There was a mischievous hint of the Olivia in short skirts in her tone.

"Please don't suggest it! Our times have been strange and few. There was that first night when you called to me from the lake."

"How impertinent! How dare you remember that?"

"And there was the snow storm and at the chapel porch last night. Neither you nor I had the slightest business there. But you spoke as though you understood what you must have heard, and you say you know Arthur Pickering. It is important for me to know—I have a right to know just what you meant by that warning."

Real distress showed in her face for an instant. The agent and his helpers rushed the last baggage down the platform as the rails hummed their warning of the approaching train.

GOOD IDEA FOR MATCHES.

Double Enders Popular Among Smokers in Mexico.

"Mexico may be behind us in some things, but she has us lashed to the wheel when it comes to making matches," said a man just in from the land of the Montezumas as he handed out a wax lucifer with a head on each end.

"I saw nothing but double ended matches while I was away, and I can tell you that they save one's record with the Recording Angel. If you dig down in your pocket and find one match the chances are that you are sure of a light, because if one end goes out the other is left. These old time matches, just revived, that splutter brilliant sparks may be all right when it comes to pleasing the baby, but the fellow who puts on the market a double ended match will find a ready demand."

PURIFIED LIFE INSURANCE.

Benefits from New Law, Which Remains Substantially Unchanged.

Through the influence of Gov. Hughes, the New York Legislature decided to make no radical changes in the new insurance law. It was pointed out by Gov. Hughes that the New York law has already accomplished widespread reforms, with proportionate benefits to policyholders, and that it should be given a thorough trial before any amendments were seriously considered. It is estimated that the cost of the mismanagement of the past did not average more than 20 cents to each policyholder, while the benefits to present and future policyholders will amount to many times more and be cumulative besides. The speed craze of the big companies and the excessive cost of securing new business was the most extravagant evil of the old managements. Under the new regime the cost of new business has already been greatly reduced, along with other economies.

The showing made by the Equitable Life Assurance Society in its report for 1906 was a strong argument against meddling with the new law. In the Equitable alone there was a saving of over $2,000,000 in expenses, besides an increase in the income from the Society's assets amounting to as much more. The ratios of the Equitable's total expenses to its total income was 19.42% in 1904, 17.38% in 1905, and only 14.48% in 1906. The dividends paid to Equitable policyholders in 1906 amounted to $7,239,734, which was an increase of more than 9% over 1905.

While the Equitable made a better showing than any other big company, all reported radical economies and under such conditions the Legislature wisely decided to leave the law substantially as it stands.

FAILED IN SMALL THINGS.

Congressman Evidently Was No Hero to His Wife.

There is a certain congressman who, whatever authority he may hold in the councils of state, is of comparatively minor importance in his own household. Indeed, it has been unkindly intimated that his wife is "the whole thing" in their establishment.

Representative and Mrs. Blank had been to Baltimore one afternoon. When they left the train at Washington, on their return, Mrs. Blank discovered that her umbrella, which had been entrusted to the care of her husband, was missing.

"Where's my umbrella?" she demanded.

"I'm afraid I've forgotten it, my dear," meekly answered the congressman. "It must still be in the train."

"In the train?" snorted the lady. "And to think that the affairs of the nation are entrusted to a man who doesn't know enough to take care of a woman's umbrella!"—Success Magazine.

Not Partial to Nursing.

Not long ago a young Irishman was seeking work in western Illinois, and among those to whom he applied was a farmer near Cairo.

"The farmer was attracted by the Celt's frank, cheery manner, and, while he was not in need of help, he asked, after a pause:

"Can you cradle?"

"Cradle!" repeated the Irishman. "Sure, I can! But, sir," he added, persuasively, "couldn't ye give me a job out-of-dures?"—Harper's Weekly.

WENT TO TEA

And It Wound Her Bobbin.

Tea drinking frequently affects people as badly as coffee. A lady in Salisbury, Md., says that she was compelled to abandon the use of coffee a good many years ago, because it threatened to ruin her health and that she went over to tea drinking, but finally, she had dyspepsia so bad that she had lost twenty-five pounds and no food seemed to agree with her.

She further says: "As this time I was induced to take up the famous food drink, Postum, and was so much pleased with the results that I have never been without it since. I commenced to improve at once, regained my twenty-five pounds of flesh and went some beyond my usual weight. 'I know Postum to be good, pure, and healthful, and there never was an article, and never will be, I believe, that does so surely take the place of coffee as Postum Food Coffee. The beauty of it all is that it is satisfying and wonderfully nourishing. I feel as if I could not sing its praises too loud.' Read 'The Road to Wellville,' in pictures. 'There's a Reason.'"

TABLE DELICACIES

RECIPES RECOMMENDED BY GOOD COOKS.

Fruit Punch a Pleasant Mixture for Warm Afternoons—Utilizing Left-Over Meat—To Revive Crispness of Cereals.

Fruit Punch.—One-half can grated pineapple, one-half dozen oranges, one-half dozen lemons; strain the juice of the oranges and lemons, add the pineapple, sweeten to taste. Ice to chill, then pour into a punch bowl and serve in glasses.

Left-Over Dish.—Use a cupful of cold meat (boiled is better than roasted or fried) and some broth or gravy. Cut the meat in dice; place in the broth on the stove to heat. Take flour, shortening, and baking powder, as for rich biscuit; mix and roll out, cutting into rounds rather thinner than for biscuit. Cut out the center of every other round (use a napkin ring for this), moisten the top of a whole one with a little water, and place one of the rings upon it, fill with the hot meat and set in a hot oven to bake. Reserve a portion of the gravy to pour over them when done. If you have no gravy to begin with, put the meat on to boil a few minutes in water, well seasoned with pepper and salt, with a small spoonful of butter; then thicken slightly before dipping into the little patties. If carefully and daintily baked these are attractive and appetizing.

Make Cereals Crisp.—When cereals lose their crispness put them on the radiator in the original paper package for an hour or so. The heat is sufficient to make them as crisp as when fresh, and serves as necessary for heating the oven. The flavor is not injured if the packages are left on the radiator over night, but improved by the gentle heat. Crackers that have lost their freshness also can be made crisp and delicious in this simple way.

Bread in Hash.—A few pieces of bread chopped with the meat and potatoes in making hash lends a pleasing variety.

Boston Mafelines.—One and one-half tumblers of sugar, one and one-half tumblers of flour, one-half tumbler cornstarch, one-half tumbler butter, three-fourths tumbler milk, yolks of eight or nine eggs, two teaspoons baking powder. Flavor with orange extract. Bake in deep patty tins. Make frosting from yolks of two eggs with sugar beaten, into which add grated orange peel.

Put Veal in Dripping Pan.—Instead of trying your breaded veal chops in the ordinary way, put them in a dripping pan, with a little lard or butter, and bake in the oven.

Uses for Green Peppers.

Egg salad served in green pepper cups is most attractive. The eggs, of course, should be chopped, and one end of the pepper cut off to make the cup stand firmly on the plate.

Another use for peppers is placing them in grapefruit glasses, deeply sunk in crushed ice. Care should be taken to select peppers with stems, and these form handles to the lids of the peppers, which, when lifted, disclose an oyster or clam cocktail with it. The seeds must be removed, leaving considerable space for the cocktail.

Angel Parfait.

Place over the fire in a small saucepan one-half cupful each of water and sugar, stir until the sugar dissolves, then boil without stirring until it threads. Meanwhile beat until stiff and dry the whites of three eggs and add to them slowly the hot syrup after it has been taken from the fire for about half a minute. Beat well and flavor with vanilla. Put into a mold and pack at once in ice and salt for about four hours.

Stuffed Celery.

Take good sized but tender stalks of celery, cut them in six-inch lengths and stuff them with a paste composed of some tasty cheese that has been creamed and to which some chopped nuts and a little Worcestershire sauce have been added. As a variation, the Worcestershire sauce is sometimes omitted, and the paste is made by the addition of a little mayonnaise. To make this dish almost any kind of creamy cheese from a good American to a Parmesan may be used.

To Make Muttonettes.

Cut from a leg of mutton slices half an inch thick. On each slice lay a generous spoonful of stuffing, made with bread crumbs, beaten egg, butter, salt and pepper; roll up slices; pin with toothpicks to keep dressing in; put a little water and butter in baking pan. Put in muttonettes and bake in hot oven three-quarters of an hour. Baste often. When done, place on hot platter, thicken the gravy; pour over the meat. Garnish with parsley, and serve.

Strawberry Nectar.

To each quart of mashed strawberries, add the juice of one lemon, two tablespoons of orange juice, and three pints of water. Let it stand three hours; then strain upon three-quarters of a pound of powdered sugar and stir until dissolved. Serve ice cold.

Coffee Bags.

Get one yard of cheesecloth, fold to make it double, then sew in squares to make little bags to put your coffee in. Every morning take a fresh one, and thus keep the coffee pot nice and clean, your coffee always nice and clear, ready to serve at once.

AT A WAYSIDE HOSTELRY.

Darky Servitor Most Obliging Under the Circumstances.

A traveling man stopped recently at a little country hamlet some miles from a Texas city to sell a merchant a bill of goods. There was only one hotel in the place, and this had an unsavory reputation. He had only one night to stay, however, so he concluded to make the best of a bad bargain.

He went to his room early, and, feeling the need of some hot water to remove the stains of his journey, cast his eye about the wall for an electric button, which, of course, was conspicuous by its absence.

He happened to think that he had seen a negro porter below, and, sticking his head out of the door, he yelled lustily:

"Hey, you black rascal, come up here!"

"Yas'r, yas'r, I's comin'," was the quick response, and a moment later the old darkey appeared before the drummer, bowing obsequiously, cap in hand.

"I want some hot water, and I want it quick," said the drummer.

"T's awful sorry, boss, pow'ful sorry," replied the negro, his voice trembling. "We ain't got no hot water, but I kin hot yah some."

HE ALSO WAS A COLLECTOR.

Cleveland Artist Came Back with a Counter Proposition.

A local newspaper artist got a letter one day from a man over in Indiana who said he was making a collection of sketches, says the Cleveland Plain Dealer. "I have drawings from well known newspaper artists in nearly every state in the union," the Indiana man wrote, "but I have none from Ohio. I have seen some of your work and I think it is good. If you will send me some little sketch for my collection I shall have it framed."

The artist noticed from the letterhead that the Indiana man was connected with a bank in one of the small towns in the State of literature. That gave him a hunch, and he wrote back as follows:

"I am making a collection of ten dollar bills. I haven't secured specimens from every state in the union, but I have several tens and a few twenties, and I am particularly anxious to have a ten dollar bill from Indiana. I notice that you are employed in a place where ten dollar bills are kept, and if you send me one for my collection I shall be glad to have it framed."

BLACK, ITCHING SPOTS ON FACE.

Physician Called It Eczema in Worst Form—Patient Despaired of Cure—Cuticura Remedies Cured Her.

About four years ago I was afflicted with black spots all over my face and a few covering my body, which produced a severe itching irritation, and which caused me a great deal of suffering, to such an extent that I was forced to call in two of the leading physicians of — After a thorough examination of the dreaded complaint they announced it to be skin eczema in the worst form. Their treatment did me no good. Finally I became despondent and decided to discontinue their services. My husband purchased a single set of the Cuticura Remedies, which entirely stopped the breaking out. I continued the use of the Cuticura Remedies for six months, and after that every spot was entirely gone. I have not felt a symptom of the eczema since, which was three years ago. Mrs. Lizzie E. Sledge, 540 Jones Ave., Selma, Ala., Oct. 28, 1905."

Campaign Against Rats.

The French admiralty is preparing a campaign against the rats which swarm in seaport towns and undoubtedly spread the infection of various devastating diseases in their passage from one country to another on board ship. It is announced that it will soon be compulsory for every vessel entering a French harbor from certain other ports to have all its rats exterminated.

On the Honeymoon.

"So you were well pleased with the train on which you took your wedding trip?" said the bosom friend. "Was it an accommodation train?" The young man's face beamed with delight.

"I should say it was an accommodation train," he confided. "Why, the porter put the light out every time we reached a tunnel."

TIME TO ACT.

Don't Wait for the Fatal Stages of Kidney Illness—Profit by Northville People's Experiences.

Occasional attacks of backache, irregular urination, headaches and dizzy spells are common early symptoms of kidney disorders. It's an error to neglect these ills. The attacks may pass off for a time, but return with greater intensity. If there are symptoms of dropsy—puffy swellings below the eyes, bloating of limbs and ankles, or any part of the body, don't delay a minute. Begin taking Doan's Kidney Pills and keep up the treatment until the kidneys are well, when your old-time health and vigor will return. Cures in Northville prove the effectiveness of this great kidney remedy.

Mrs. George Brown, living two miles west of Northville, Mich., says: "I cannot say too much in praise of Doan's Kidney Pills on account of what they have done for me. I suffered with kidney trouble for about a year, having terrible pains across my back and in my hips. The kidneys were irregular in action and my sleep at nights was disturbed. After sitting for a time my back pained me acutely when I attempted to arise. I heard of Doan's Kidney Pills and sent my husband to Murdock Bros. drug store for a supply. I soon felt great relief from their use. The backache entirely left me and my kidneys became normal and regular. My health became greatly improved generally, and I give Doan's Kidney Pills all the credit, and am glad to recommend them to others."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

An Ideal Laxative.

Physics and Cathartics which purge, unload the bowels, and give temporary relief, but irritate and weaken the digestive and expulsive organs. Laxative Ecodor Tablets are a different effect as truth is from falsehood. They unload the bowels muscles and nerves, giving them strength and vigor to do the work nature intended, thus effecting a permanent cure by perfectly safe and natural means. The best laxative for children. Chocolate coated tablets, easy to take, never gripe or nauseate. 10c, 25c and $1.00 at all drug stores.

STORKS DEALT OUT JUSTICE.

Evidently Formal Proceedings Ended in Death of Culprit.

In Germany, where storks abound, they are in the habit of collecting in one spot before migrating in autumn. On one of these occasions an observer, who had concealed himself so as to watch their departure, saw that something important was on hand. About fifty storks had assembled, and suddenly a ring was formed—one bird in the center showing every sign of being in great terror. One of the storks then appeared to address the party by clapping its wings for some minutes. Then all the storks began to clap their wings, and with a sudden rush fell upon the culprit, and, with a general thrusting of their long beaks, quickly put him to death. When this was done, they flew away to the south in their usual manner.

Keep Moving.

The heavens themselves run continually round, the world is never still; the sun travels to the east and to the west; the moon is ever changing in its course; the stars and planets have their constant motions; the air we breathe is continually agitated by the wind, and the waters never cease to ebb and flow—doubtless for the purpose of their observation and to teach us that we should ever be in action—Dutton.

WALLED LAKE NEWS.

There will be Baptisms at Walled Lake Sunday after the morning service and Sunday school. The theme for the morning is "The Subject of Christian Baptism." Some time spent discussing the two covenants and which one is now in vogue. The evening sermon on "Miriam the Remarkable Old Maid." All made welcome.

$100 Reward, $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer one Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address: F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O. Sold by Druggists, 75c. Hall's Family Pills are the best.

Stuck Up for Her Sex.

A schoolgirl in a Massachusetts town had often been made to acknowledge the superiority of her brothers. One day her mother remarked upon the apparent utter lack of intelligence in a hen. "You can't teach a hen anything," she said. "They have ruined more of the garden than a drove of cattle would. You can teach a cat, a dog or pig something, but a hen—never." "H'm!" exclaimed the child indignantly, "I think they know just as much as roosters!"

Hydrophobia in Europe.

Hydrophobia, which has practically been stamped out in England, still flourishes in most continental countries. Germany tops the list with an annual average of 2,682 dogs and cats destroyed for this reason, while the figures of France are 2,263. In Belgium, Switzerland, and Holland cases of hydrophobia are rare the total for all three countries combined being under fifty.
