MAKES HIS APPOINTM'TS

VILLAGE PRESIDENT DUBUAR ANNOUNCED THEM MONDAY NIGHT.

Little Hitch in Appointment of Health Officer.

A quorum of the Council was present Monday night for the first time in nearly two months. President Dubuar submitted his appointments for the year and there was no hitch in their confirmation until it came to the Health officer. The president submitted the name of Dr. J. M. Burgess. On confirming the vote stood: Yes, Ryder and Hutton. No, Lansing and Seeley. President Dubuar voted yes and declared the appointments confirmed.

Aaron Taft, who has made an excellent official in the past, was appointed marshal and street commissioner. The other appointments and standing committees will be found in the Council proceedings printed elsewhere in this issue.

DIED SUNDAY IN MUSKEGON

MRS. WM. NEVISON, FORMERLY OF THIS PLACE.

Remains Brought Here Tuesday and Buried in Rural Hill

Mrs. Jean Nevison, wife of Wm. Nevison, was born in Paris, Ontario in 1862 and died at her home in Muskegon, Sunday, May 3, 1908. She had been ill the past ten months with cardiac paralysis and her intense suffering was borne with great patience.

Decedent came to Northville with her family from Canada in 1884 and lived here sixteen years moving from here to Muskegon eight years ago. While here she was a member of the Presbyterian church but as there was no church of that denomination in Muskegon, she attended the Congregational church and was prominent in all of its work.

She leaves a husband and four children to mourn her death; Jay Cornick of Grand Rapids, Geneva Nevison, teacher of Domestic Science in Cincinnati, Ohio, Beverly Nevison, teacher in Karney Military Academy, Neb., and Harry Nevison of Muskegon, who were called home on account of their mother's illness. She also leaves one sister, Mrs. J. C. Cowan of Ypsilanti and three brothers, Malcolm and Henry Hutchinson of Durand and Charles Hutchinson of Toronto, Ont.

A short funeral service was held in Muskegon after which the remains were brought to Northville Tuesday and interment made in Rural Hill cemetery, Rev. Wm. S. Jerome officiating.

MRS. MARIA BRITTON

Whose Death Occurred near Salem Last Week.

Mrs. Maria Sessions-Britton, was born in England in June 1828 and came to New York state in 1836.

In September, 1843 she came to Michigan settling near Northville. In 1851 she was married to Wesley Lockwood. To them were born three children, Mrs. Flora Larkins, Will and John Lockwood. About thirty-five years ago she was married to Henry Britton. After the death of her husband she went to live with her daughter, Mrs. Larkins. A few years ago she had some serious trouble with her eyes which left her totally blind.

Besides her three children she leaves one brother, James Sessions, of this village.

She was a kind and loving mother and good neighbor and will be greatly missed by those near and dear to her.

HAD JOLLY GOOD TIME

THE M. W. A. DID LAST EVENING.

With Songs, Recitations and Toasts By Different Ones.

One of the pleasantest events of the season took place last evening when the Northville Camp of Modern Woodmen celebrated its ninth anniversary. The meeting was an open one and the members were permitted to bring their wives, sisters or sweethearts and they were all present on this occasion with their fine clothes and company manners ready to enjoy the evening's festivities.

A good program of music and recitations was given and short speeches by different members of the order made the hours pass all too quickly. Light refreshments were served.

WILL HAVE HOME COMIN'

NORTHVILLE VILLAGE COUNCIL FAVORS PROPOSITION.

Mass Meeting Called for Next Week Friday Night.

A petition was presented to the council Monday asking that body to set a date during the summer to be known as Home Coming Week so that people, from far and near, who were once residents of this place, can come back to the old town once more and find all the old friends of former days.

To this end the council has called a mass meeting to be held in the Council chamber on Friday evening, May 15, to discuss the matter and decide upon the date. Everybody invited to be present and take a part.

Presbyterian Church Notes.

(By the Pastor)

The Ladies' Aid will serve dinner on July Fourth.

The Ladies' Aid society met with Mrs. Thompson Wednesday afternoon.

All enjoyed the beautiful flowers which Mrs. Charter kindly furnished for the pulpit last Sunday.

The pastor and his family return thanks for the pretty May basket left at their door Friday evening.

The Ladies' Missionary society will hold their next meeting and quarterly tea at the home of Mrs. Penfield on Wednesday of next week. Gentlemen are invited to tea.

Next Sunday will be observed throughout the church as Labor Sunday. All workmen and members of labor organizations are cordially invited to attend a special service at 7 o'clock. Good music and a welcome to all.

Methodist Church Notes.

(By Member of the Congregation)

The Ladies' Aid society will meet Tuesday with Mrs. W. H. Hutton.

The pastor will be home and conduct the regular services next Sunday.

The ladies of the Plymouth Woman's Home Missionary society have invited our ladies to their meeting next Wednesday afternoon. There will be some of the district officers present. The members are urged to attend.

Notice to Taxpayers.

The Board of Review for the Village of Northville will meet in Sessions & Tinsam's shoe store on Tuesday and Wednesday, May 19 and 20, at ten o'clock a. m. of each of said days for the purpose of reviewing the Assessment roll of said village. Taxpayers deeming themselves aggrieved may be heard at that time. CHAS. A. SESSIONS, Assessor. Dated, Northville, May 8, 1908.

NORTHVILLE PEOPLE LIKE THE SERVICE

NO TRUTH OF DETROIT PAPER'S STATEMENT.

Big Cars New Always on Time Every Two Hours.

Northville residents say there is no truth in the statement from Plymouth in a Tuesday's Detroit paper to the effect that the people here were indignant about the two-hour service on the Plymouth Northville-Wayne division of the D. U. R., and had threatened to "tear up the tracks." Northville citizens are, to the contrary, pleased over the new service, and think that the big new Argus line cars every two hours, always on time, are preferable to the old "dinky car" service which was never on schedule and sometimes not at all.

Nothing but the kindest feelings exist between Northville people and the D. U. R. electric lines.

OPINIONS FROM THE STATE PRESS

Will the People Stand for Faithful Servants?

"Will the people stand by faithful public servants who have been marked for slaughter by powerful private interests whom they have offended or opposed? Is the claim of the professional lobbyist true that the people will forget and desert faithful public servants at the polls? The present contest affords an excellent opportunity for the people to denounce the existence among us of such a blighting doctrine. Governor Warner has been marked for slaughter by certain powerful interests of this state and their political allies because he has insisted that great corporations are entitled to no more favorable consideration by the state than is accorded the humblest citizen.

"The question of continuing unbroken the two-term rule sinks into insignificance before the greater question of whether the people of Michigan will stand squarely by a man who has stood by them and who in so doing has aroused hostile opposition of powerful private interests and their political side partners." Lt. Gov. P. H. Kelley in his Belding Address Last Week.

ELECTRIC CORN POPPER HERE.

Very Different from the Old Time Kind You Held Over a Fire.

The old fashioned wire corn popper in which you pop corn over a glowing fire, is familiar enough, but a novelty is the electric corn popper, in which you pop corn by electricity.

The electric corn popper consists of an aluminum basin with flaring sides, to which is fitted a dome shaped cover of wire gauze; this cover to keep the corn from popping out as it pops, and also to enable one to see how the popping is getting on. To the under side of the basin is permanently attached a resistance coil in which heat is produced when the electric current is turned on.

In one side of the popper are two plug holes. Into these holes you insert the two plugs at one end of a flexible electric wire, the other end of which you screw into the nearest and most convenient electric light socket.

As everybody knows, in popping corn in a wire popper you have to keep the popper moving as you hold it over the fire to keep the corn from burning; to permit keeping it agitated to the same end, the electric popper, which is used on a stand or table, is mounted on wheels.

In the Form of Strength.

It is better that joy should be spread over the whole day in the form of strength, than to be concentrated into ecstasies, full of danger and followed by reaction.—Emerson

LATEST NEWS OF MICHIGAN

JUSTICE CARPENTER TO LEAVE THE SUPREME BENCH SOON.

TRAGIC DEATH OF A BOY.

Various Matters of Major and Minor Importance Gathered in Various Parts of the State.

From a most trustworthy source it is learned that Justice William L. Carpenter, of the supreme court of Michigan, will resign in the near future. He has already discussed the matter with close personal friends to whom his attitude is not a matter of surprise, as he has contemplated such action for a long time. Those in a position to know say it is probable Judge Carpenter will time his resignation so that his successor can be nominated and elected in the fall, but there is also the intimation that he may not wait, and that in such an event Attorney General John E. Bird will be appointed to fill the vacancy. It is no secret that Justice Carpenter has felt for some time that private practice would give him much larger returns than he enjoys in his judicial position. He will of course return to Detroit, and the rumor is that he will form a partnership with Elliott G. Stevenson.

Victim of Bottle Thrower.

Little William Haverkamp's tragic death, the result of being struck on the head by a bottle hurled from the bleachers during the opening game at Grand Rapids will mean that pop and other bottle liquids will not be sold at future ball games. Willie Haverkamp, 13 years old, was seated on the grass in front of the bleachers. At an interesting play he arose and cheered. A man behind him in his seat and hurled the bottle. Young Haverkamp fell, dazed. He recovered soon after and witnessed the remainder of the game. He did not appear at supper and a brother found him in the bed, unconscious. A physician found the boy suffering from concussion of the brain. He died Saturday morning. Edward Parks, a stereotypist, was arrested and Prosecutor Powers says that the man will be charged with murder. Bert Lewis, a conductor identified Parks as the man who threw the bottle.

Murder Was Deliberate.

Charged with the murder of his wife's parents, Joseph B. Blunt pleaded guilty when arraigned in circuit court at Battle Creek but Judge North believed that he detected traces of insanity, reserved sentence in all the criminal annals of western Michigan, no more deliberate murder was ever planned and committed than that to which Blunt confessed and perpetrated. Blunt shot down his father-in-law and then directed his fire at the wife. Mr. Jones fell dead as a bullet crashed through his skull and Mrs. Jones dying from her wounds threw herself across his form and clasped him in her last embrace.

The cause of the murder primarily, was the suit of Mrs. Blunt for divorce, papers in which were served on the husband Thursday. The wife went to the parental home and took both children. There was nothing to suggest molestation until Blunt entered the room in which Mr. and Mrs. Jones, with their grandson, Homer were occupying one bed, and Mrs. Blunt and her daughter, Iva, were sleeping in the other, separated only by a narrow aisle.

Threatened Wilson.

"Look out for Wilson, for he must die," was the anonymous note received by Sheriff Davidson, which referred to William L. Wilson, defaulting secretary of the United Home Protectors' fraternity. Failure of fees do not regard it seriously. William L. Kelley, of the law firm of Sellers, Kelley & Sellers, Detroit, said he had arranged for sureties for the $25,000 bond of Wilson and that the defaulter would be released when Judge Beach arrives from San Jacinto county.

Governor Johnson in Detroit.

Governor Johnson of Minnesota, candidate for the Democratic nomination for president, was in Detroit Wednesday and delivered a lecture under the auspices of the schools, the Light Guard armory being packed to hear him. He held a reception at the Pontchartrain. Mayor Thompson and the local Democracy being out in force. It being a non-partisan affair, Governor Warner and many prominent Republicans were present and paid their respects to the distinguished Democratic governor, who made a very pleasing impression on all his callers.

MICHIGAN BRIEFS.

Big Rapids citizens raised $10,000 toward rebuilding the burned Mercy hospital.

Fred Wenzel, of Dowagiac, who attempted to board a moving train and in shipping and falling under the train sustained a fractured skull, is dead.

The one good eye of Charles Eberstein, of Battle Creek township, was blinded, and he may die from a horse kick. He is a bachelor farmer aged 50.

Riding "blind baggage," James Welch, said to be from Belmont, Mich., lost his hold when dashed with spray as the engine took water running 50 miles an hour, and fell to the tracks. He was picked up unconscious with a fractured right arm and ankle, a wound broken ribs and a six-inch scalp wound, and will likely die.

The reforesting of the 20,000 acre tract in Iosco county has been postponed a year because Attorney General Bird declared the state board of agriculture had no authority to use the college funds for the purpose. The legislature will be asked for an appropriation.

From the State Capital

Information and Gossip Furnished by Special Correspondent at Lansing.

Lansing.—The State Association of Republican Editors held its session in Lansing. The occasion was one of the regular business meetings. President J. N. McCall of Ithaca called the gathering together, and about 50 members were present when he rapped for order. The session was purely of a business nature, and all politics were on the blacklist. A hint was that Gov. Warner was in the city and that he might be invited to address the gathering met with a frigid reception. "We do not want to see any candidates," remarked President McCall. "They need not apply here." W. F. Knox of the Soo, who was in charge of the Warner publicity bureau, was present. At the deliberations, charging of candidates full advertising rates was considered, and a resolution was introduced providing that candidates must pay until after the nominations are made. The primary system came up for discussion, a resolution was adopted providing that the primary system should perpetuate party organizations. Edwin O. Shaw, who was a delegate to the constitutional convention and is an editor at Newaygo, read a paper showing why the revised constitution should receive the support of the Republican editors. A lot of questions were fired at him, but a resolution was introduced putting the matter of approval on the document.

Michigan Health Is Good.

Michigan cities are worshipping more closely at the shrine of good health. A bulletin issued by the state board of health shows there were 31 per cent. less cases of pneumonia reported during March and nine per cent. less deaths than is the average for that month. The board complains that physicians in the state do not report deaths promptly and threatens to take action against them. A battle is being fought with tuberculosis, but 226 deaths from this cause were reported during the month. Typhoid fever is raging in 57 localities, 17 less than the preceding month. Diphtheria is less prevalent. This is true regarding meningitis, whooping cough, measles and smallpox. Fewer violent deaths were reported during the month than for several months.

Dislike Title of "Aggie."

"Don't call me Aggie!" That is the cry of the engineers, the foresters, and the special course students of Michigan agricultural college. The request is to be made to the editors of all the newspapers in Michigan and some of the more prominent publications outside of the state, by the Engineering society of M. A. C., the society that a short time ago considered petitioning the legislature to change the name of the institution from Michigan State Agricultural college (which is its full name although no one ever calls it that) to Michigan State college, so as to not create the impression that all graduates of the school have specialized in farming.

To Sell School for Taxes.

On account of the oversight of a Crawford county supervisor, Land Commissioner Rose and the attorney general's department have found a difficult tangle. A school site was taken from the corner of a quarter section and a building erected in making the assessment. The supervisor neglected to except the school site and the taxes on the description of property not being paid the entire parcel school house and all, was returned delinquent. It was finally bid in by the state and is now offered for sale by the land commissioner at the public sale. The question to be straightened out is whether the school site can be excepted when the land is sold.

Report Less Earnings.

The telegraph business in Michigan is getting poorer, according to reports of the companies filed with the auditor general as a basis for taxation. The Western Union reports that last year its Michigan receipts were only $98,916.78, against $113,000 for the previous year. Its taxes will amount to $2,940.05. The Postal company reports receipts of $20,953.10, a slight decrease, and will pay a tax of $628.59. The American Express company paid taxes of $10,161 to the auditor general.

Railroads Pay Taxes.

Several of the big railroad companies contributed about $1,000,000 to the primary school fund. The Pere Marquette paid taxes to the auditor general of $496,951; the Lake Shore, $337,680; and the Grand Rapids & Indiana, $195,608.

"Bill" Lorimer Visits Soo.

Congressman "Bill" Lorimer of Illinois, member of the rivers and harbors committee, quietly dropped into Sault Ste. Marie recently, looked over both power plants and the locks and got out of town before Sooites were wise to what was going on. It is supposed he took some kind of message back to Washington with regard to the proposed canal improvements here but nobody knows what it is. It is believed some action will be taken soon. Why the Windy City politician should take the trip puzzles local people.

Question Puzzles Villages in State.

Some question has been raised by villages in Ingham and other counties as to the legality of assessing villages for work done on roads in the township. The attorney general gives the following opinion: "Our supreme court in the case of Ryerson vs. Lake, 52 Michigan, page 509, held that it was 'perfectly competent for the legislature to provide that all of the taxable property in the township should be assessed for the repairs and improvements of highways in the township, although those highways should lie wholly outside of the village.' In regard to any part of the improvement fund being expended within the limits of the township (village) we have held, owing to the fact that section 10 of act 108 of 1907 provides that the improvement fund shall be expended by the township highway commissioner under the direction of the township board, that such fund cannot be expended upon the highways and bridges within the village, except upon such bridges as the village act places under the jurisdiction of the township."

Conference Is Wreck Aftermath.

State Railway Commissioner Dickson while discussing the collision on the Detroit, Jackson & Chicago railway in which ten men were killed and 30 persons injured declared that the car-dispatching system on all the interurban trolley roads in Michigan is defective. "There will have to be a reform," continued Mr. Dickson "and we shall have all the superintendents and chief dispatchers of the various roads in Lansing for a conference and insist upon something like a standard system of dispatching."

Flint Gets Convention.

Flint was chosen as the place of holding the next state convention of the Knights and Ladies of Security. At the annual convention here Dr. W. C. Brown of Detroit and P. A. Stone of Lansing were elected delegates to the national convention to be held in Philadelphia. The convention was presided over by Dr. J. Rosenthal of Sault Ste. Marie. E. W. Munn of Big Rapids was secretary. Twelve candidates were initiated by the Lansing lodge.

Campbell Has Speaker Aspirations.

"I'd rather be a member of the legislature than prosecutor of Kent county," said Representative Cohn P. Campbell, who has just been appointed as assistant prosecuting attorney. Campbell received a suggestion that he resign from the legislature and give some one else a chance. He refused, saying, "I think my chances of being speaker, if I am sent back for another term, too good to be passed up for anything like assistant prosecutor. Campbell will try to fill both jobs."

Hundreds Hurt in Factories.

According to figures given out by the state labor commissioner there were 27 accidents in Michigan factories during the year 1907. The figures show an increase in the accidents over the previous year. Fatal accidents numbered 60, an increase of 11 over the previous year. It is stated that 192 of the persons injured received wages during their disability and that nearly all the remainder carried accident insurance or received lodge benefits.

Smallpox Among Farmers.

Dr. Shumway, secretary of the state board of health investigated three suspicious cases in among the farmers in Ashtabula township, about seven miles from Bellevue, and pronounced the disease as smallpox. The homes of the afflicted were quarantined and precautions taken against a spread of the disease.

Osborn for Lieutenant Governor.

The latest bit of political gossip here is that a movement is on foot to boom Chase S. Osborn of Sault Ste. Marie for lieutenant governor. It is pointed out that Osborn is popular in the lower peninsula as well as above the straits, and that he would receive support. It is not known whether the movement has the sanction of the Soc man.

Plan State Theater Circuit.

Practically all the managers of the vaudettes in Michigan met in Grand Rapids. The plan was to form a circuit that will include Grand Rapids, Muskegon, Bay City, Flint, Lansing, Jackson, Battle Creek, Kalamazoo and Benton Harbor, making 11 weeks, with short jumps and low railroad fares.

Michigan Bills Shelved.

Representative Denby some time ago introduced a bill into the house providing for an additional United States judge for the eastern district of Michigan. The bill is still in committee, although Denby has attempted to get it reported. Senator Smith has introduced a bill with the same provisions, but it is understood he will not attempt to pass it through the senate unless action is taken on Denby's bill by the house. Representative Ford's bill providing for a third judicial circuit is slumbering.

TWENTY LIVES LOST

From 18 to 20 lives were lost early Sunday morning when Aveline hotel, the largest in Port Wayne, Ind., was destroyed by fire. The blaze broke out at 3:30 a. m., when practically all the guests in the six-story building were asleep, and spread so rapidly that few in the upper floors were able to escape through the hotel corridors to the ground floor. The hotel was provided with fire escapes, but few seemed to know it, as hardly anyone used them, even though some of the guests have been stopping in the house occasionally for years. The hotel was 50 years old, built of brick and wood. Originally it was four stories high, two more stories being added a dozen years ago. It burned like tinder. The hotel register is not destroyed, but it is thought that 74 were there. There were many thrilling escapes, and many were injured by jumping from the windows. Charles Benjamin, of Detroit, was killed. F. C. O'Donnell, of Detroit, and F. C. Phillips, of Calumet, were among the injured. There were 13 seriously injured and a score more painfully burned or hurt.

POLITICAL NOTES.

The following statement was given out by the Taft bureau Saturday. Delegates selected, 744; instructed for Taft, 359; Knox, 68; Cannon, 44; Fairbanks, 30; La Follette, 25; Hughes, 56; uninstructed, 160.

It is claimed that the solid south will take a firm stand in Denver for prohibition. If Bryan will announce his attitude the movement will either be downed at the start or gain overwhelming strength.

Managers of John A. Johnson's campaign have issued a statement of his chances for nomination as the presidential candidate of the Democratic party. They declare the solid south is almost unanimous for Johnson.

Elaborate preparations are being made for the socialist national convention in Chicago, May 16, and which is to last about a week. A number of women delegates have been named. Two hundred and nineteen delegates, the same number of alternates and 600 persons will attend.

Without any contest the state convention of the New York Independence party, the new Hearst organization, named delegates at-large, with alternates and electors for its national convention to be held in Chicago late in July. The platform of the Chicago conference when the new party was formed was adopted. No instructions were given delegates, but the convention was for the nomination of Hearst for the presidency.

SYNOPSIS.

The story opens during a trip of the "Overland Mail" through the Rocky mountains, while efforts are being made to build up the country. "Uncle Billy" Dodge, stage driver, Alfred Vincent, a young man, and Phineas Cadwallader, introduced. They come across the remains of a massacre. Later at Anthony's station they and the redskins have carried their destructive work there also. Stella Anthony, daughter of Anthony, keeper of station is introduced. The travelers find that Anthony has been killed. Vincent with letter of introduction to Gov. Stanford is assigned his work in unearthing plans of enemies of railroad being built. He hears of safe arrival of Stella Anthony in a letter from her. Vincent visits town where railroad men are working on road and receives token of esteem from Stella, embodied in a neat lunch and a forget-me-not. "Uncle Billy" arrives in town, finding Stella. He hears news that desired railroad bill has passed. The old stage driver decides to work close to town in order that he may be able to keep fatherly watch over the young woman.

"Great Caesar! That's good news!" "Yes, Bill. That's news to pass along. Men works better on a win-win deal; only ye bosses can't talk. Huh! Where 'd all 'em come in, just from the city, seen the governor, heard the news. Sabe?"

"Certain. I'm yo' huckleberry! Hi! How the world as far as Jericho," returned the driver cordially.

"Come to our shanty after work. The ole woman 'll be powerful glad to see ye. Oh! Tie up at Sally B's. She's right smart peppery, but she'll give ye good truck; an' if she takes a shine to ye, ye 'd own mother couldn't do mo to you Stella's than, too."

Uncle Billy's face spang from De cember to May; and he turned quickly to the rocky trail that led back to town.

Stella! The lonely man sped down the red, muddy trail, his fatigue banished by the magic of her name! He looked up through the overhanging fretwork of pine and cedar to heaven's blue beyond, and the poet stirred in his heart, awakened by the memory of her face. Winter-blue skies, the thin, fragrant air, whispering pines, even the red, warm face of the uprearing mountain, all had a secret word for him to-day. Would she love him still? Or had new scenes, new faces, filled her life, left no small chamber in her heart labeled "Uncle Billy?"

CHAPTER VI.

The Genius of Bernard's.

A narrow-planned and painted strip on the largest false front in town announced "Bernard's Hotel." The personality indicated by the name "Bernard" was a miner, an incurable, always wandering in the silent mountains, always just going to "strike it rich." But Sally Bernard, his wife, was equal to her "lone hand," and scrupulously faithful to her husband's interests. For her mother and her daughter Viola she made a home, happy if rude; for her husband she made dollars that he dropped into his prospecting holes.

The hotel was the most imposing structure in the town and aggressively new. The odor of pitch met the guest before his entrance, and continued with him, a warning he wisely heeded by keeping away from all partitions. Doors and windows stood open to patrons and flies alike, for the temperature spoke of summer, though the calendar said winter.

Sally Bernard was known from Sacramento to Virginia City as Sally B., and it was in her motherly heart and home that Stella Anthony, orphaned and kinless, found her niche and her work.

"Why, Mrs. Bernard, you've only known me a few weeks. I'm not wise enough to be Viola's teacher."

They were sitting in grandma'am's room, which was family bedroom, sitting room and parlor, a conglomerate of furniture, color and uses, that none but a three-generations-bred frontier woman could have evolved. A wide shelf high above the floor extended the length of the longest wall. Under this two rough bedframes were hooked up, though the mattresses were the best that money could buy. Beside them were home-made dressing cases, a washstand with a pail for a pitcher, a gourd for a dipper and a shining brass basin. Nails adroitly disposed utilized every angle for hanging clothes.

Stella gave Sally B. no time to reply, but went on firmly: "You need a capable governess for her, one who can prepare her to meet life. Of that I am as ignorant as a little child. I'm quite satisfied with the dining-room work, Mrs. Bernard."

"Don't Mrs. me; I ain't used to it. As for knowledge, you know a heap sight more'n Viola; an' anyway, I want her to be with you. I might hire a herd of governesses, an' not git the right kind. There's more'n arithmetic an' fancy readin' a girl will learn from her teacher."

Stella's voice was grateful. "But Mrs.—but—"

"Call me Sally B., like the rest does."

"No, I'll call you Mrs. Sally. I shan't earn my living, Mrs. Sally."

Sally B.'s black eyes snapped. "If you don't you'll be the first ever took Sally B.'s money without givin' value received."

Stella smiled. She had already seen that there was no nook in Sally B.'s house where shirkers could hide; yet if one were ill or unfortunate, no other good Samaritan than Sally B.'s self was needed.

"I'll send to Auburn, an' git the same books they use in the schools there. You can put Vi through from 9 to 12, help me in the dinin' room on busy days, an' keep school agin from two to four. Here in grandma'am's room can be the place. An' I'll double your wages. How'll that suit?"

"It's not a question of how-it will suit me, it's all on my side. Let me make the beds and sweep Saturdays and it will be nearer fair."

"Sweep? Have Viola's teacher sweep? No, sirc!—An' I wouldn't let you go in that cerial for six bits a minute!"

"Viola entered, small, childish in figure, old of face, yet lively in coloring. Between her dark mother and grandmother, the latter the bent, weakened original of her daughter, the fair, hazel-eyed child seemed of another face. As foreign to them, too, were her air of delicate refinement, her soft voice and her gentle movements, inheritances from a father bred out of his proper environment. She held with butters and violets, which she carried to her grandmother."

The old face flooded with a sudden glory. She took the flowers in both hands, gently pressed them to lip and cheek, drew long whiffs of their fragrance, turned them from side to side, peered questioningly into their sun-filled hearts—it was pitiful the ecstasy a flower could bring to this shut in soul.

"Gosh Dang it Yic! Why Did You No Tellee Me Last Week?"

"Where'd you git 'em, honey?" she asked in the thick voice of the deaf.

Instantly Viola caught up her grandmother's crutch, bent back her foot, and for a step or two, imitated Alvin Carter.

"The telegrattee's boy?" the old woman asked, with an odd light in her eye.

Viola nodded.

"Here they be, child. You mustn't give away yer sweetheart's posy gift."

Viola's cheek tint deepened, but she laughed, pushing back the old hand that offered the blossoms.

"Git a tumbler of water, Vi, so's they won't wilt," her mother commanded.

As soon as Viola vanished, Sally B. began the most remarkable gesture speech Stella had ever seen. It was meaningless to her, yet the old dame evidently understood it.

"No sweethearts? That pretty gal?" The old eyes gleamed young again.

Another series of gyrations.

"Too young ter marry? She's older'n you was; though I do 'low she's powerful little."

Sally B.'s movements were more emphatic.

"Sho, Sally; she mustn't marry that little cripple, to be shore. But where there's honey, there'll be more'n one fly; and all fellers is sweethearts at 15."

Viola came in with the water and pushed up a "lightstand," leaving grandma'am with her flowers.

"Do tell me, Mrs. Sally, how you make her understand. It's wonderful!" "Yes; folks thinks it's right peart. Poor grandma'am, she can't read!"

Sally B. paused and gazed sorrowfully at the old woman. "They wa'n't no chance o' learyun' to read in Oregon in the twenties. So when she got stum deaf I was pesky cut up. It came after paw died. I laid awake o' nights studyin' how I could talk with her like the deaf an' dumb does. One day she asked me how Bill—that's my husband—come by a scar on his hand; an' I drew a picture of a horse kickin' a man."

"I wish you'd seen grandma'am's face," Viola broke in. "It was just like to-day with the flowers."

"After that I pictured out things whenever I could git the time—rough o' course; I can't draw none—but sort of one line things she'd see the meanin' of. Bime-by they got so many it took a heap o' time to hunt 'em over, an' I hid on the idee of puttin' numbers on 'em. She learned the numbers; an' now when we want to tell her anything we just call off the figgers on our fingers. One wave of both hands is ten, two waves is 20, an' so on; an' the one, two, threes we do with our fingers."

"How astonishing! May I see your picture alphabet?" Stella asked.

"Certain!" Sally B. brought out the crude "drawing." "Of course, all the easy things, such as eatin', sleepin', laughin', cryin', we just act out." The lightning panorama on Sally B.'s face showed that her mother had some things to be thankful for.

"Stella, you make Viola read them kind o' books you have read, an' understand 'em, too, if ye have to break her head a-doin' it. Think o' may just a settin' there, piecin' 'rusin' sun' quilts, an' settin' moon quilts, an' bidal wreath quilts—same ole patterns over'n over agin. Good Lord! One fella's sun's 'nough for the hull airth."

yellow face through the doorway. "Strange man—me no sabe."

Stella followed him into the narrow hall and out on the porch.

"Oh, Uncle Billy! I'm so glad!" It was almost as if her father stood before her. She threw her arms around his neck and kissed him on each cheek.

The old driver was speechless with delight. If he could only have been her father! Yet this was the next best thing. She loved him! She had kissed him!

Stella drew him into the hall, looked him up and down, patted his hand, took off his hat and peered into his face, trying to see if he was quite well, the same Uncle Billy she had known so long, ever since that wonderful journey across the mountains, when she had sat by his side, in black sandals, white stockings, pantalettes and a leghorn hat with a bride. What pride she had taken in that bride!

At last he found his voice. "Well, darn my eyes, if you haven't grown tall, you pretty little snipe, you! Here! I got a bonnet for ye."

He went to the door, picked up a small bonnet and brought it to her.

Stella opened it. Within was a scrap of scarlet silk and lace for which some milliner had swindled Uncle Billy out of $40. Stella's best gown was bright magenta, Gideon's gift. She would have to wear them both, and together.

CHAPTER VII.

A Peep Into Paradise.

In San Francisco after three years of exile Alfred found a home. Judge Harrison made him welcome as a son; and Alfred did not stay long enough to discover that other young men shared with him the judge's fatherly attitude.

Mrs. Harmon was a child-hungry woman, no longer young in years, though her heart would never forget 25. A favorite a social authority and leader, she launched Alfred immediately and successfully among the people the most needed to meet. Posing as a Boston sightseer, he was accepted with a hospitality known only in Kentucky, and in old San Francisco, and he found no lack of alluring eyes and smiles, albeit every woman was a belle.

Society, fast and feverish, curious, fascinating, opulent, was the speediest vehicle by which he could arrive at his purpose, for society in San Francisco was still too new to divorce itself from the golden enterprises that made it. His success astonished himself. Men whose intentions he expected to learn through patient acumen talked openly or then affairs with the railroad men. Even women made of the Central Pacific railroad and its projectors a continuous joke. Alfred wondered. He could not then, as afterwards, realize that, to every thorough-going San Franciscan, California was but a storehouse, a kitchen garden, at most a tribute bringing suburb of the gay city by the Golden Gate. Nothing outside mattered to them the sanduned cusp, straggled over with its flimsy, glibious houses, was as truly the whole world as ever was the Eternal City to old Roman.

So secrets fell unheeded into Alfred's keeping. Red lips told him tales between their smiles, every word a prize. Business men, talking glibly of inland transportation, dismissed the transmontane railroad with a yawn, yet went wild over the decision of San Joaquin valley petroleum. And Alfred drove, sang, dined, danced merrily to his goal; and bade good-bye to his entertainers the very day he read Phineas Cadwallader's name on the Lick house register.

He reported in Sacramento, received instructions, and incidentally commendation. Hastily he made the changes called for by the step from jasmine-hung San Francisco to ice-bound Carson City. And the second day after leaving salt water he swung into Sally B.'s to find Stella away, across the gulch, watching in a house of mourning.

All the way from Sacramento, while the little steam bantam bumped over the unsettled roadbed, Alfred had rehearsed his expected interview with Stella. He did not admit his love; he had no right to it. Friendly interest, the duty of courtesy to one so forlorn and so placed in his care—those were all. His own eyes must prove the truth of her letters, which told scanty of her good health and fine situation. He would sit by her side the short hour before the stage left, hear in detail her life in California.

On Getting Up Early.

I often hear fellows say that their life consists solely of coming down to business, and sleep, says a writer. What a different tale they would tell if they were only to get up early and go out of doors before they need think of business! Even if they only rose early once a week, that morning would stand ahead of the other six. There is a freshening and invigorating power in the early morning air which only early risers may enjoy. Ask anybody who is accustomed to rising early and going for a ride or a walk before breakfast how much fitter they feel to face their daily toil.

The Onion In Cooking.

The greatest of French cooks, being asked to give the secret of his success, answered: "The very foundation of all cooking is butter and ONION! I use them in all my sauces and gravies. They have the effect of making a customer come back for more. Butter without onion will drive the customer away after a few days. Boil the onion till it melts or entirely disappears; then add the butter, and call the mixture stock."

BARN PLAN.

Round Type of Building Has Advantages Over Other Forms.

The day is past when we can afford to be without ample barn room for all live stock. The present prices of feed prohibit the old wire fence shelter, and the prices of lumber will never be less, and now they prohibit the old style of haphazard building, having a building for each kind of stock and then most of the feed outside and the water from two to 20 rods from the barns. This is an era of concentration, and nothing can facilitate the intensive style of farming and concentrate a man's energies to his live work on a farm like a commodious, comfortable barn. Personally, I would not build a barn without a silo, nor would I advise any one else to do so, as the barn and its proper use is the mainstay of our calling, as sooner or later we must all come to the keeping of live stock to consume the greater share of our crops and then carefully save and apply the manure made. Nothing produces as much feed per acre as corn, and nothing saves corn so economically as the silo. Neither would I build a barn of suitable size for a farm of 80 acres or more any other shape than round, and have the silo in the center, but to avoid criticism on account of the silo I will say if a silo is not wanted the center space can be used either for grain or box stalls.

The round type of barn has these advantages. First, the same amount of outside surface used in square or rectangular barns will inclose a greater surface in circular form. Second, the circular form has the decided advantage of strength over the flat side. Third, the gable ends are total losses and are avoided in the circular barn. Fourth the roof of a circular barn is self supporting and does not sag, and is far less liable to damage from heavy storms. Fifth, the space inclosed is more convenient to use requiring less time and work to care for the same stock than in any other type of barn.

Here is a plan of the ground floor of a barn 68 feet in diameter, having the same outside surface that a barn 26x60 feet would have. It provides room for 12 horses and 23 cows in stalls, having three feet for each cow. This leaves eight feet behind the cows so a team and wagon can be used to clean the barn, or, if dairying is not followed, there will be 1,150 square feet floor space, which will accommodate 30 to 50 head of young stock, owing to size. Everything can be fed and watered from the one alley. I defy anyone to comfortably house such a number of stock and as convenient to feed in any other than the round type of barn, and in addition there is a space of 18 feet in diameter in the center to store feed in. Having built a round barn that has proven satisfactory in every respect, I can not speak in too high terms of it, and while I would not build a round barn if building a small one, believe that when we get to a size suitable for 80 acres or more there is only one proper style—round. If sand, gravel or crushed stone is convenient I would use cement to build the lower story of barn, and if possible build so as to have a natural elevation on one side so as to be able to drive in the second story without too much of a fill.

CAN'T EAT TOO FAST.

Feed Manger That Will Control a Greedy Horse.

A box to induce a greedy horse to eat slowly is arranged through the

A Wise Plan.

The wise man who bred two or three sows at about the same time can now attend to several young litters at once, thus saving travel, time and trouble. At feeding and fattening time also, the economy is apparent, for they may be graded and sold then in a bunch with less fussing.

Pasture for Young Pigs.

The young pigs should be gotten out on the ground as early as possible to avoid their getting too fat.

BARN FOR LAMB RAISING.

Arrangement of Building Which Will Prove Most Convenient.

In this section of the country, writes a Jefferson county, Illinois, farmer in the Breeders' Gazette, stock raising has become the leading occupation. Sheep are easily raised and pay a large profit. We keep about 70 ewes and take delight in handling them, especially during lambing season. Our main breed is the Shropshire, although we have a few Cotswolds and Hampshires. The latter are good hardy lamb raisers. We prefer Shropshires, as they have closer wool and endure more bad weather.

Our barn shown in Fig. 1, is a convenient one, and is large enough for about 125 ewes. When the ewes begin to lamb we put the first ewe in Pen 1. Then when the second lambs we put her in Pen 1, putting No. 1 in Pen 2, and so on until the pens are full. Then we begin to remove them one at a time to the large pen for ewes and lambs. When the lambs are about two weeks old they will begin to eat some small grain. A pen for this purpose has been made (Fig. 1), and is provided with small grain boxes on two sides. The ends are made of portable gates.

A small creep hole will be noticed in the gate between the lamb pen and the ewes and lambs through which the lambs can pass. These gates may be removed the next fall and again give the flock the entire barn. The gate marked X can be set back to any desired place and thereby enlarge the pen and rack room, as more of them have lambs.

The gates in the small pens can be made so that by opening them back to the right or left it will make an alley through which any sheep can be driven outside, the others are closed up in their pens.

The hay and feed racks are of a good type, those around the wall (Fig. 2) can be easily filled by leaving a space between the loft floor and the wall. Underneath the slanting board in Fig. 2 is a grain trough in which corn, oats or other grains can be fed. There is also a feed way that has this type of hay and grain rack on either side. By casting tight where the slanting line is in Fig. 2 it prevents the seeds and trash from getting in the wool when throwing down hay.

BREEDING UP IS CHEAPEST.

The Way to Get Into the Business of Raising Pure Breeds.

The farmer that intends to secure a herd of pure-bred cattle will find it cheaper to breed up than to buy pure-bred stock, especially if he is preparing to raise cattle for the purpose of making beef. If he buys all pure-bred stock, the investment will be so heavy that he cannot afford to sell the progeny for the block, but will feel constrained to go into the business of raising breeding cattle, for which he may not have taste and adaptability.

Good females of pure-bred beef stock bring high prices and he would need a considerable number of pure bred cows to make a good start. But with a bull he can in a few years have a herd of cows that will make it possible to send to market high-grade beef—market toppers. For the beef-maker, then, this is about the only course possible, and it is the course that is recommended by the breeders of pure-bred stock.

In selecting a herd of cows for breeding up, says Farmers' Review, a man should try to get animals in keeping with the breed of the bull he intends to buy. Thus, if he is going to use a pure-bred Short-horn bull, he should pick up cows having the general conformation of the Short-horns. He will find it easy to secure good animals having in them considerable Short-horn blood, though these animals would have been regarded, in his breeding operations, as without any pure blood, simply because the buyer would not generally know how much Short-horn blood such animals contained.

The same is true in the use of pure bred bulls of any breed. If a man buys a Hereford bull he should hunt up cows having some of the general conformation of Herefords and use these for his breeding operations. If such animals cannot be secured in his own vicinity he can generally find them at the big stock markets and get them at meat prices. The breeding up process offers many advantages that the other process does not offer.

A Big Difference.

The difference between blooded swine and scrubs is surprising. Good stock puts more money in your pocket than poor; it increases the interest in the business, and that is what makes things go smoothly, and keeps the boy on the farm.

Clean Water for Sows.

Clean water should be provided all the time for the sows.

Opened His Campaign.

Gov. Warner formally opened his campaign for re-nomination at Belding last week under most auspicious conditions. He was greeted by a large gathering of enthusiastic citizens of Ionia county who freely indicated their sympathy with the measures he advocated and who gave him assurances of their hearty support in his campaign for their enactment into laws. The reception accorded the governor was most friendly and his declaration of principles was enthusiastically applauded. Especially pleased was the large audience with the following statement made by Gov. Warner in the course of his address:

"Speaking now without reference to the candidacy of anyone in the state or nation, I believe that the republican party is immeasurably stronger when it stands for honest and fair legislation than when it seeks to conciliate and harmonize men and interests who have arrayed themselves against the people in the contest for better government and a more equitable distribution of its privileges and its burdens."

The proposition which has been made that there should be a getting together in the interests of harmony does not appeal in the slightest degree with the rank and file of the party who are keen enough to understand that such 'getting together' simply means a surrender to those who have thus far persistently fought the granting of the demands of the people and who have made it impossible to enact legislation designed to curb private interests and enhance the welfare of the people of the state generally. Gov. Warner never uttered a greater truth than when he said: "The people will not be inclined to grieve over the result should it turn out when the votes are counted that their nominee for governor does not inspire unbounded enthusiasm in those who fought for the retention of a clause in the primary law which could have for its only purpose the ultimate selection of a candidate for governor by the discredited convention system."

Warner Shows His Shrewdness.

Gov. Warner's announcement of his campaign plans is proof of his belief that if he comes face to face with the plain voter it will be more satisfactory than to merely drop in on the more prominent politicians of the counties and depend on their local influence to secure support for him. A candidate who has the confidence in the ordinary citizen's ability to decide between the issues of the campaign shows thereby that he has confidence in the doctrines he will advocate. The governor announces that he will make 300 towns in forty days, and of this number at least 150 will be places where he has never spoken before. Visits such as Warner makes are not only formal speechmaking appointments but calls on the people. The governor never did shine as an orator, and never will, but when a man talks to you face to face about a matter both of you are interested in you don't want rhetoric and eloquence, but plain facts and reason. This sort of campaign gets down to the ground. It makes the decision of the voter more sovereign than the party influence of the political manipulator. It cannot fail to command the interest of those 300 towns along the line of the automobile campaign.—Detroit News.

A Prescription for Constipation.

Eminent medical authorities agree that ninety per cent of their patients suffer from ailments due to clogged bowels (Constipation).

The bowels become clogged with impurities and body poisons, causing biliousness, colds, stomach trouble, headache, rheumatism, deranged liver and kidneys, etc.

A Laxative is prescribed in nearly every case. Those who need a laxative may use this prescription with the assurance that no harmful results will follow its use. It has been given to the Public in tablet form and is known as Iron-ox (Laxative Iron-ox Tablet) and are put up in aluminum pocket cases.

The formula is wrapped around the case. The action of each ingredient is explained, that you may understand why Laxative Iron-ox Tablets are the laxative to use; they strengthen the bowels, and digestion and keep the liver and kidneys healthy and active. We have secured the selling agency for Laxative Iron-ox Tablets and recommend them to our customers.

WHERE AUBURN LOCKS ABOUND.

Found in Great Numbers in North-eastern Part of Scotland.

Red hair is found in distinct excess north of the Grampians, and especially in the northeast of Scotland. A scientist who has made the question of pigmentation a special study, and has just been helped to conclude a color survey of the school children—over 50,000—of Scotland, announced this as one of his results.

In most European countries, he said, there is a distinct predominance of one type over the others. In north Germany and Sweden it is the blonde type; in Italy the brunette. No such predominance is found in Scotland. Dark hair and fair are present in equal proportions. The dominant color among Scottish children is brown, and it has to be shown how far brown is really a blend of fair and dark.

The proportion of red hair throughout the country is a little over 5 per cent—high compared with the continent. One cannot overlook the reference of Tacitus to the red haired Caledonians. Some curious facts brought to light suggest that red hair is not entirely or strictly a racial trait. It may have some peculiar physiological if not pathological connection.

Miss Wallin was out of town Monday so Mrs. A. K. Carpenter taught the Eighth grade during her absence.

The Eighth grade consider themselves a marvel grade as there have been almost no tardy marks this year.

A new attraction in the Second grade proves to be a collection of pictures of birds done in natural colors which are hung on the wall.

The First and Second grades made May baskets last Friday morning and in the afternoon went to the woods for flowers with which to fill them.

Edwards All Left-Handed.

Livingston, the great explorer of Africa, who had more chances than most men have to learn the habits of wild beasts, says in his books that they are all left-handed, so to speak, or left-pawed, if you like that way of putting it better. The lion, he says, always strikes with its left paw.

Inheritance and Environment.

Inheritance and environment are not only realities, but are the most important elements of the everyday life. The thought of yesterday fixes the tendency of to-day. The conditions of to-day are the background against which every life is projected.—Albion W. Tourgee.

Sound Advice.

Live as healthy a life as you can, that's the thing. Keep your brain and body wholesome. I don't agree that the present day boys play games too much. Boys want heaps and heaps of fresh air. They cannot have too much.—The Captain

AN OSTEOPATH

When he is called upon to make the human machine "go," does not further clog it by putting something additional into it, but adjusts it from the outside. He searches for, finds, and removes obstructions to the free flow of the blood stream and nerve currents, and health results because the machine is able to "run" properly. The treatment is neither harsh nor disagreeable, and results show that it is effective. For Osteopathic reading matter, apply to

RECIPES OF VALUE

INSTRUCTIONS FOR CONCOCTION OF EVERYDAY DISHES.

French Method of Preparing Herring as a Relish—Menu for a Good Plain Dinner—To Prepare Scallops.

To prepare herring for a relish in the French way known as herring saur mariné, choose the dried herring. Broil them and remove the skin and bones. Cut them in neat little strips. Arrange them in a dish with layers of sliced or grated onions. The former looks the better, but the grated onion seems more digestible. Dress with oil, vinegar and pepper. Serve as a relish for luncheon.

A Plain Soup.—Leeks and potatoes make a good soup. Choose such a menu as this for a good plain dinner. Leek and potato soup, beefsteak, French fried potatoes, spinach with hard-boiled eggs and radishes. For dessert, apple sauce, Swiss cheese and coffee.

If the cheaper fish must be bought for baking, such as cod, it may be much improved by baking it on a bed of vegetables and laying strips of bacon or unsmoked pickled fat pork over it, basting frequently.

Fillet of fish, nicely fried, may be served with a brown sauce hot with curry powder. Large shrimps pickles may be cut in fan-shaped slices and arranged with lemon slices for a garnish, or use sliced lemon with some chopped parsley sprinkled over it.

How to Prepare Scallops.—Scallops are a very cheap form of shellfish, obtainable in our markets, but more used by the foreign population, who know their excellence. While they require careful cleaning in more than one water, they are then available in many forms in place of clams and oysters or fish.

They must be steamed in a kettle with about a pint of water, and a bouquet of herbs is desirable. When they open they can be cooled and the meat taken out and served in a variety of ways. Save the broth in the kettle. A chowder can be made in the usual way by browning some onion in fat salt pork in a kettle, then, when both are browned, add a little water and boil a few minutes before adding some scallop broth and sliced potatoes. When the potatoes have cooked a few minutes, add the scallops and let all cook for five minutes. Season with salt and pepper and red pepper. Add some rich milk, and, if liked thicker, rub a little butter and flour together and put in the chowder. When it is served add some toasted crackers.

Dust Broom.

For the stick of the dust broom cut one from an old broom and pad the rough end, using a circle of old cloth about ten inches in diameter and put a good bit of cotton batting in the center. Insert the sticks and fasten the pad firmly on to it with heavy twine. Take old flannel underwear and cut into strips 12 inches wide, slitting each strip in two inch widths, like a fringe, leaving one and one-half inches along one edge. Cut enough of these to make a good full broom and sew them to the padding on the stick. Saturate with kerosene oil and allow it to dry completely before using. This is a great improvement over the regulation "broom bag," as the strips get into the corners, around the legs of the furniture, etc. The oil takes up the dust readily and imparts a polish to the floor.

Renewing Oilcloth.

When oilcloth has been laid for a few months and is beginning to lose its shiny surface it can be renewed and made to last twice as long. Melt a little ordinary glue in a pint of water, letting it stand on the top of the oven until it is dissolved. Wash the oilcloth thoroughly and let it dry. Then at night, when no one will walk on it, go over the entire surface carefully with a flannel dipped into the glue water. Choose a dry day for doing it, and by morning you will have a fine gloss.

To Mend a Torn Garment.

When a silk or cloth garment is torn, procure a few threads of the warp of the goods and darn as you would a stocking. If you have no pieces from which this may be obtained, perhaps there is a straight edge on one of the seams from which a few threads may be taken. In this way the repair is made of exactly the same shade as the cloth.—The Delineator.

Pie Plant Marmalade.

To each cupful of pie plant, cut up fine, add the juice and pulp of one orange, boil the orange rind cut in small pieces in weak salt water until tender. Then remove rind and p t it with the other ingredients, adding a tablespoonful of lemon juice and 1½ cupfuls sugar. Boil all rapidly until transparent and put in jelly glasses.

To Clean Matting.

To clean Japanese matting and linoleum use bran water, which is made by taking two handfuls of bran and boiling it in a gallon of water. After this has boiled 20 minutes strain and cleanse the matting or linoleum with a flannel cloth wet with bran water. Wipe immediately with a dry cloth.

To Cook Mackerel.

Wash and drain a nice fresh mackerel. Lay it in a pan of cold water and cook from 20 to 30 minutes. Take out and drain, place on a hot platter, rub with butter. Put border of mashed potatoes, then garnish with parsley and slices of lemon and serve with oyster sauce.

WHY SHOULD THIS BE NECESSARY?

Five Thousand Crates Eggs Recently Imported Into This Country from England.

Somewhere in this country there are able-bodied American hens that are shirking their duties. And they've done this for some time. Otherwise, why would America have to send to England for eggs?

There are enough hens in this country to keep us fully supplied with eggs if every hen simply attends to her business.

But often it isn't the hen's fault that she doesn't and cannot lay. Only healthy hens lay eggs. This means that poultry raisers must learn what all the hens that are not working, and then give them whatever will cure their ailment, build up their system, and help them to lay regularly.

The first thing to do is to get a reliable book about poultry, and read it. There are plenty that are so full of big words that only the scientist can understand them.

But there's one book that tells everything anybody ever wanted to find out about poultry. A practical experience of 36 years is condensed into it, and everything is explained so simply that a child can understand it. Its title is "Pratts New Poultry Book" and it is generally sold for 25c. But if WITHIN ONE WEEK you cut out this notice and take it to your dealer, he will give you one copy FREE. If your dealer is out of it, mail the notice to the Pratt Food Company, Department R, Philadelphia, and they will mail you a copy ABSOLUTELY FREE!

The Pratt Food Company, you know, are the manufacturers of the widely used "Pratts Poultry Regulator" and other poultry and live-stock preparations.

For 36 years their preparations have met with remarkable success, but this is not surprising because they are all based on practical experience.

Pratts Poultry Regulator helps hens to lay more eggs, and it also increases the size of the fowls, adds luster to their plumage, makes the eggs fertile, gives strength and quick growth to little chicks, makes the comb and wattles a bright red, prevents gapes and leg weakness, and positively cures the common poultry ailments—the latter, by the way, are interestingly described in the Pratt Book.

15 YEARS OF SUFFERING.

Burning, Painful Sores on Legs—Tortured Day and Night—Tried Many Remedies to No Avail—Cured by Cuticura.

"After an attack of rheumatism, running sores broke out on my husband's legs, from below the knees to the ankles. There are no words to tell all the discomforts and great suffering he had to endure night and day. He used every kind of remedy and three physicians treated him, one after the other, without any good results whatever. One day I ordered some Cuticura Soap, Cuticura Ointment, and Cuticura Resolvent. He began to use them and in three weeks all the sores were died up. The burning fire stopped, and the pains became bearable. After three months he was quite well. I can prove this testimonial at any time. Mrs. V. V. Albert, Upper Frenchville, Me., July 21, 1907."

Revenge's Furious Appetite.

He who, from a natural sweetness and faculty of temper, should despise injuries received, would doubtless do a very great and a very laudable thing; but he who, provoked and nettled to the quick by an offense, should fortify himself with the arms of reason against the furious appetite of revenge, and, after a great conflict, master his own passion, would doubtless do a great deal more.—Montaigne.

BUYING PAINT BLINDLY.

Many people look upon paint buying as a lottery and so it is, the way they do it. It is not necessarily so, however. Pure White Lead and linseed oil are the essential elements of good paint. Adulterants in white lead can be easily found by the use of a blowpipe. Adulterations in linseed oil can be detected with a fair degree of certainty. See that these two elements are pure and properly put on and the paint will stay put.

National Lead Company, Woodbridge, Building, New York City, will send a blowpipe outfit and instructions for testing both white lead and linseed oil, on request.

The Details.

"The particulars?"
"Well, Capt. Feebles was shot in the back, originally, and went around with his back bent a good deal like an interrogation mark, until he got a port-hyphen of back pension. Then he straightened up his back until it was decidedly concave instead of convex, ably convex, dyed his whiskers a fighting black and set out in pursuit of a burzon widow, who, being a widow, knew exactly how to be caught while maintaining all the symptoms of eluding capture to the very best of her ability."—Smart Set.

Be Your Own Roofer!

Write Today for Heppes Roofers' Book FREE

Ask for a free copy of Heppes Roofers' Book, worth dollars to any property owner or builder. This book is a practical handbook that teaches you how to lay a Heppes No-Tar Roof on any kind of a building—barn, shed, granary, residence, store, dairy barn, silo, poultry house, ice house, crib or outbuilding.

It tells How to Measure a Roof; How to Make "Valleys" and "Gutters"; How to Lay Heppes No-Tar Roofing Around Chimneys ("Chimney Flashing"), or over old Shingle Roofs, or up against the side of a building with a fire-wall ("Wall Flashing"), or how to apply No-Tar to the sides or interior of buildings, and a great many other practical points. The roofing knowledge you get out of this book is valuable—you can't get it anywhere else. Best of all, the book explains the process of making Heppes No-Tar Roofing—the grandest substitute for shingles ever known, because it gives ten times the protection against time, water, sparks, heat and cold, at a mere fraction of the cost of shingles. Write us a postal for Free Roofers' Book.

HEPPES NO-TAR ROOFING

Grandest of All Materials to Take the Place of Shingles

The prohibitive price and poor quality of the shingles now on the market has created a widespread demand for a satisfactory material to take their place. HEPPES NO-TAR ROOFING is that material. Its price is so extraordinarily low that the combined cost of buying and laying Heppes No-Tar Roofing is much less than the mere cost of shingles. The cost of laying a shingle roof is one-fourth the cost of shingles themselves, and Heppes No-Tar Roofing meets modern requirements ten times better than shingles ever did. It makes a handsome, leak-proof, weatherproof, fire-resisting and time-defying roof. It withstands the snow and ice and storms of winter. It is proof against the hottest sun. It is so easy to apply that any man, with the aid of the HEPPES ROOFERS' BOOK can be his own roofer. Its value as a fire-resister is shown by the fact that Fire Insurance Companies charge 25 per cent less for insuring buildings protected by Heppes No-Tar Roofing than for buildings with shingle roofs.

Used on All Farm Buildings

Heppes No-Tar Roofing is used on Houses, Barns, Sheds, Granaries, Hog Houses, Cow Barns, Silos, Poultry Houses, Ice Houses, Carriage Houses, Wagon Sheds, Cnbs and all other farm buildings. Cover the sides of buildings as well as roofs with it. It will pay big returns on the investment.

Unlike shingles, it does not crack, curl or rot. Unlike tin or galvanized iron, it does not rust, blow off or deteriorate. It needs no repairs and lasts as long as the building.

Heppes No-Tar Roofing Better Than Shingles—Costs 50% Less

The Popularity of Heppes No-Tar Roofing extends from ocean to ocean. Ours is the fastest-growing roofing business in the world. Dealers everywhere sell our roofing.

It is made from the strongest wool felt, water-proofed, and made fire-resisting by being soaked with pure asphalt, and reinforced with coatings of Asphalt, Flint and Mica, under tremendous heat and pressure. Its cool, gray stone color is pleasing to the eye.

Heppes No-Tar Roofing is put up in compact rolls 36 inches wide, and in 1-ply, 2-ply and 3-ply weights. Each roll contains two "squares" or 216 square feet. Each "square" is guaranteed to cover 100 square feet of surface, including a 2-inch overlap. (It is also put up in 1-square rolls.)

Free Cement for Seams and Free Large-headed Nails, with Instructions, are packed in the hollow center of each roll. Easy to lay—no experience necessary.

Look out for certain brands of "imitation" roofing now on the market which are merely building paper soaked with tar and sprinkled with sand while hot. HEPPES NO-TAR ROOFING is guaranteed to be free from Tar.

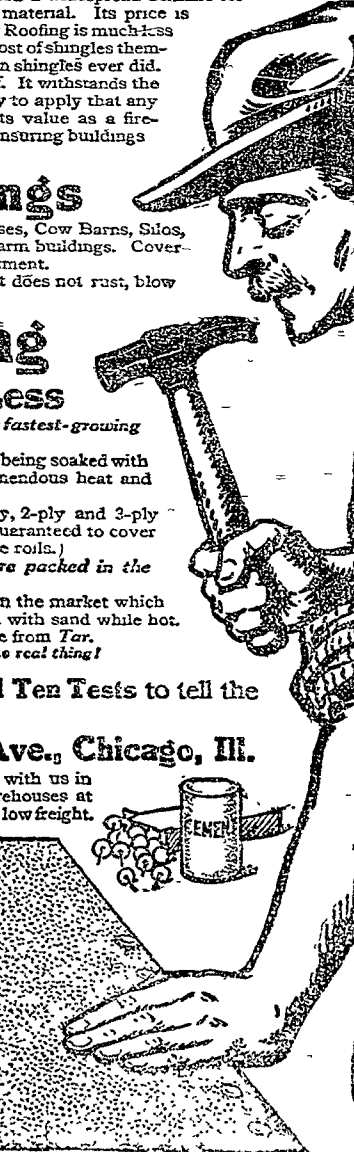

It does not contain wood pulp, or rosin, or oil. No-Tar is not an "imitation" roofing—it's the real thing!

Warning! Send today for Free Roofers' Book.

To Relieve Sore Throat.
A simple way to relieve sore throat is to take a lump of resin about as large as a walnut, put it into an old teapot, pour on boiling water, and then put the lid on and place the spout in your mouth the steam will prove beneficial in allaying inflammation.

Novels at Night Time.
A writer in Queen says that after ten o'clock at night the mind is a sieve and it does not make any difference what we read so that the type is legible, and light novels are good night caps. A detective story at bedtime is to many people as good as a sleeping powder, switching the mind away from the worries of the day and soothing it preparatory to sleep.

DANGER IN DELAY

Kidney Diseases Are Too Dangerous for Northville People to Neglect.
The great danger of kidney troubles is that they get a firm hold before the sufferer recognizes them. Health is gradually undermined. Backache, headache, nervousness, lameness, soreness, lumbago, urinary troubles, dropsy, diabetes and Bright's disease follow in merciless succession. Don't neglect your kidneys. Cure the kidneys with the certain and safe remedy, Doan's Kidney Pills which have cured people right here in Northville.

Mrs. George Brown, living two miles west of Northville, Mich., says I cannot say too much in praise of Doan's Kidney Pills. I suffered from kidney trouble for about a year, having terrible pains across my back and in my hips. The kidneys were irregular in action and my sleep at night was disturbed. After sitting for a time my back would pain me acutely if I attempted to arise. I heard of Doan's Kidney Pills and had my husband procure a box at Murdoch Bros. drug store. I obtained great relief from their use and my backache entirely left me and my kidneys became normal and regular. My health also greatly improved and I give Doan's Kidney Pills the credit.

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Where Politeness Doesn't Pay.
"French and German hats," said a hatter, "only last half as long as ours. It isn't the poor quality of the hats but the fine quality of the manners that causes this."

"Lifting the hat in salutation is the hardest work that falls on the head-piece, and the French and Germans lift it to men and women equally, thus giving it twice as much labor as we do. Naturally, then, it wears out twice as quickly. It goes in the bin in no time over the water."

TYPE THAT HAS PASSED AWAY.

Country Schoolmaster of the Early Days of America.

Apocryph of the country schoolmaster of the early days of America, an old manuscript in the New Jersey Historical society contains the following characteristic anecdote.

"A traveling person coming into a country neighborhood where was a vacant schoolhouse offered himself as a teacher. The neighbors convened to examine into his abilities. He was asked what branches he could teach. 'Almost any,' was the answer. He could instruct children how to read without first learning to spell, to write without first making marks, and it was indifferent to him in what rule they first commenced arithmetic. 'Are you acquainted with mathematics, sir?' was the next question. Supposing some great literary character was meant, the fellow assumed an air of great importance and quickly replied: 'Matthew Matlocks, sir? No, sir, I am not acquainted with Matthew, but I know his brother, Tom, very well!'"

CROCKER'S RHEUMATIC CURE.

Thomas Secrist says, under date of Jan. 31, 1906, that he had muscular Rheumatism for six years, part of the time suffered so he could not sleep nights, has taken two bottles of Crocker's Rheumatic Cure, and can sleep and has not felt the pain since. He recommends anyone suffering with Rheumatism to try a fifty cent bottle—Thomas Secrist, West Wheeling, Ohio. For sale by Murdoch Bros.

Chained Pie Head.

At a club the other day a woman told the story of her coming to a city alone and penniless, and how much she enjoyed looking in at the windows where happy families were gathered together. He declared that when he had a look of his own the curtains should be raised. "And are they?" asked a lady who was interested in the conversation. "Well, you see," hesitated the sister, "his wife objected to other people looking into her house all the time."

Muscular Energy in Sugar.

Men performing hard manual labor have a natural taste for sweets, as they supply a great amount of muscular energy, says "What to Eat." They are equally beneficial to persons exposed to severe cold. In the lumber camps and mines of Canada and the colder sections of the United States workmen consume large quantities of sugar in the form of molasses. Tea and coffee are often sweetened with molasses and in some places it is added to almost every article of food. The same is more or less true in the logging districts of the south, where molasses and rice, mixed together, have become almost a staple diet.

Itch! Itch! Itch!—Scratch! Scratch! Scratch! The more you scratch the worse the itch. Try Doan's Ointment. It cures piles, eczema, any skin itching. All druggists sell it.

DEFENSE OF THE STINGY MAN.

Wherein He Differs Considerably from the "Good Fellow."

"They say I am a stingy man. All right, let it go at that. I don't care. But did you ever hear that I was a dead beat? There was a time when I threw my money away and stood off my creditors; in order that I might be known as a good fellow; but now I save my money and pay my debts. There was a time when I spent ten dollars in an evening, bumping around with the boys, and owed the tailor for the clothes on my back; when I went riding every Sunday with a liver rig, and did not pay my board; when I thought it an evidence of smartness to buy cigars and drinks for other people, but now I think it an evidence of sound sense for a man to save the money for which he is compelled to work, in order that he may realize something from it. For this I am called stingy, but I can stand it; in fact, I rather enjoy the title, for there are so many shiftless fellows in this town who imagine that they are good fellows, hoping to realize on their wanton waste of money, that I am glad I cannot be classed among them. Ask the bill collectors about the good fellows. The bill collectors will tell you a story worth listening to and they will also tell you that the stingy man's pay is promptly there. There are a lot of old good fellows in Atchison who have not money enough to bury them, and there are stingy fellows in Atchison who began life under more unfavorable circumstances than the good fellows, and the stingy fellows are rich. I recommend that the young fellows desecrate the name of being stingy, for a stingy man seldom stints himself or his family, but he often refuses to throw his hard-earned money away, and very properly. A stingy man is seldom bothered for donations, and, altogether, I like the name." (Found among the papers of an Atchison man who died rich.)—Atchison Globe.

Parents Held Responsible.

New York has adopted very stringent rules for the preservation of the health of school children, one of the latest developments being the rule that parents who do not keep their children in good health shall be prosecuted. This seems a little autocratic at first glance, but those who have studied the subject will readily understand that it is only common justice, as many parents are utterly indifferent as to the health of their children, exposing them unnecessarily, clothing them inadequately and not providing good food for them, even when their means allow.

Against Anticipating Trouble.

Why destroy present happiness by a distant misery which may never come at all? Every substantial grief has 20 shadows, and most of them shadows of your own making.—Sydney Smith.

Marlin

WHETHER you live in the city or country, you'll find no .22 calibre repeating rifle like the Marlin Model 1897.

For the city man it is a perfect companion for the vacation or outing trip. It is light, takes down and packs in small space. The ammunition is inexpensive. The gun can be used with .22 short for target and is equally capable of handling .22 long or long-range cartridges without change of mechanism.

On the farm the rifle is a necessity. The short cartridge is sufficient for woodcock, quail and small game; and the long-range cartridge makes the Marlin Model 97 a distinctive weapon for deer, grouse, hawks, etc. up to 200 yards.

The "Marlin Book" of 136 pages, with handsome art cover, is free, full of up-to-date information for all gun-lovers and gives full description of all Marlin repeaters. It's FREE for 5 stamps postpaid.

Attractive JOB PRINTING

DON'T be foolish and think that "all Job Printing looks alike" to your friends or your customers. By no means. There's just as much difference in the quality and style of Printing as there is in clothes, hats or shoes. The price is no different. Our Printing costs no more than the other fellow's, but there's a little touch of style, neatness and attractiveness you don't get elsewhere.
