Latest returns from newspaper compilations give Warner a majority of some where near 1,000, though it may take an official count to determine the exact figures.

GAVE WARNER BIG MAJORITY

NORTHVILLE PEOPLE SHOWED LOYALTY TO HIM.

Almost Three Hundred Votes Cast
Here.

Northville people showed their loyalty to Fred Warner of the neighboring village of Farmington at Tuesday's primaries. There were 297 votes cast, a big vote considering the busy season for the farmers, out of which Warner received 231 to 54 for Bradley and 7 for Earle.

Over at Plymouth where it was supposed to be all against the governor, he only lost by four votes. The governor carried the country part of Wayne county by about 800 but lost the city of Detroit.

The Northville vote gave Kelley 263 votes for lieutenant governor, 267 for Townsend for congress, 12 for Heemans for governor (dem) and 2 for T. E. Murdock for lieutenant governor (dem).

INCREASED BUSINESS

Cattermole, the Machine Man, Makes Big Gain.

W. H. Cattermole is certainly doing a great business this year. Last year his receipts of machinery, tools and material was sixteen car loads. So far this year he has received twenty-six car loads and there are five more yet to arrive.

Mr. Cattermole has the greatest line of farm machinery displayed by any dealer in the state in a town the size of Northville and but few of the big cities even have dealers with larger or better displays or a better line of goods.

Pianos at a Discount of 20 to 40 Per Cent

When Lyon & Healy of Chicago bought for cash the entire retail stocks of three leading Chicago piano houses, viz: The Thompson Music Co., the Healy Music Co., and the F. G. Thearle Co., the entire piano trade of the United States wondered what Lyon & Healy could do with such a vast collection of fine instruments in addition to their own big stock, for these are no cheap factory pianos, but pianos of makes of the highest reputation.

What Lyon & Healy have done is to mark all these pianos, and there are hundreds of them, at a discount of 20 to 40 per cent. The response upon the part of the public is marvelous.

If you know the names of good standard makes of pianos and the prices always paid, you will need no second invitation to write to Lyon & Healy, 77 Adams street, Chicago, for lists and terms. For you can secure a genuine $300 upright for $180 or other bargains in proportion.

Lyon & Healy give their own guarantee with every one of these pianos no matter whether it is from the Thompson, or the Healy, or the Thearle stock. Nothing like this opportunity has ever been given to music teachers, students and music lovers heretofore.

Is Thankful.

I wish to thank Mr. McKahn's Sunday school class, the Juniors and neighbors and friends for the beautiful flowers sent me.

EARL STIMPSON.

SPEAKS ON HOME - COMING DAYS.

Urges Northville People to Show
the Village.

I wish through the columns of the Record to say a word regarding the Home Coming which we are to have on Sept. 24 and 25. This should mean more to us than two days of fun and frolic. We expect to entertain those who have been residents of Northville in past days, who come back to see the old town and to meet old friends and relatives. Some likely will not have relatives to meet them, for they may have passed away and the old friends may have long since died. They will be strangers perhaps to most of us. Our duty will be to make ourselves known to them, make their stay pleasant and entertain them hospitably, so that when they again leave, it will be with a feeling that they have made new friends and that the old town with its many changes is dearer to them than ever before.

I hope that the churches, the school and the many societies which are here, will arrange to have gatherings and reunions and so fill the two days full of those things that will bring pleasant memories for days to come.

The Village Council wishes to send an invitation to every old resident of the place, which should be done within the next few days, and in order that all those may be reached every person, especially those that have lived here for a number of years, should think up the names of these old residents and hand them either to Chas. Dolph, secretary, or leave them if more convenient, at the Record office.

Let us all unite in doing what we can towards bringing into these two days much joy and happiness.

J. A. DUBUAR.

Chairman Home Coming Executive Committee.

CROPS AND TIMBER ARE DESTROYED

FOREST FIRES SWEEPING UP
THE HOMES AND CROPS OF FARMERS.

WIDE SPREAD DISASTER.

Some Villages Are Saved Only by Strenuous Fighting Against the Furious Fires Fed by the Dry Forests.

Forest fires started four miles east of Atlanta, the county seat of Montgomery county, Saturday, and in spite of all efforts to stop the flames, they reached what is known as the Big swamp, swept through and over the intervening country and reached Atlanta Monday. Frank Dooly, fire warden, with 100 men battled all day and could not have saved the town but for the veering of the wind, which carried it southward to the Avery swamp, where it still rages. If not checked there is danger of its sweeping across the plains to Hillman, while Atlanta is still in danger.

Hand, three miles south of Atlanta, lost his house, barn and contents, loss $2,000. The unprotected crops of all intervening farms were destroyed and meadows and pastures burned black. At present $20,000 will not cover loss of destroyed timber.

Heavy forest fires are sweeping the territory in the farming section on Hemlock road, near East Tawas, and more than 700 acres have been burned over. Barns and crops have been destroyed, but as yet the farmhouses have not been reached. A large force of men is fighting the flames. Wilber village, which was threatened, was saved by twenty-four hours of valiant work by the farmers and a crew of men from here in charge of Deputy Fire Warden Ash.

Thousands of acres of slashing and jack pine land was burned over Monday night. For a time the village was threatened, but all of the able population turned out and by plowing and back-firing saved the town. Farms in the vicinity, however, are still in danger. There has been no rain for several weeks and the dry vegetation furnished easy fuel for the flames.

With telephone and telegraph communication cut off meager reports of disastrous forest fires have been received from various sections of Alpena, Presque Isle and Cheboygan counties. Dense clouds of smoke hang over vast areas. About 50,000 cords of timber piled on the skidways are threatened or have been destroyed. A large amount of other timber product have burned.

Old Engine Blew Up.

By the explosion of the firebox of switch engine No. 20 on the Ann Arbor railroad Engineer George H. Groh, of Ann Arbor, was horribly scalded by a cloud of steam Saturday morning at the first street crossing. The engine is an old one and the force of the explosion pulled out the tension rods of the interior. Groh was taken to the city hospital. His condition is serious. Elmer Whitford, the fireman, had just stepped out of the engine when the explosion came, and thus escaped injury.

Crawford's Career.

Battle Creek officers declare that they have proof that George Crawford, who escaped from Sheriff Graham by jumping from a Michigan Central train going 60 miles an hour, is a bigamist. Crawford is held on a charge of house stealing, eloped with Miss Rilla Badger, of Redford, leaving behind a wife and three little children. It is said that Crawford and Mrs. Badger were married in New York, although neither of them had obtained a divorce.

Illegal Fees Collected.

Charges of collecting illegal fees made against Probate Judge Brown of Lapeer are said to be substantiated by the report of Julius Dresser, Detroit expert accountant, who completed his investigation of the judge's books Saturday. According to Prosecutor Attorney Reed the report shows that Judge Brown has collected nearly $700 illegal fees during his incumbency.

Victim Will Die.

Wants His Money.

Suit has been started by Everett Feldman, a prominent young Muskegon man, against Miss Mary Brown to recover $500 in cash which she alleges he entrusted to her care. They were to have been married, Feldman claims, and he gave the girl his money. She later broke the engagement and refused to refund the cash, he says.

James C. Haffield, of Kalamazoo, began suit for $25,000 against the Michigan Central for injuries in an accident in which his auto was demolished and he was nearly killed.

The rate department of the national commission has received notices from all the railroads in the state that they will accept the new rates on cream and butter fats.

About 5,000 farmers of Washtenaw, Wayne, Oakland, Livingston, Monroe, Lenawee and Jackson counties held their annual picnic at Whitmore lake. Saloonkeepers refused to contribute toward the expenses this year because Vernon Randall, Detroit, a prohibitionist, had been invited to speak. Other speakers beside Randall were Lawton T. Hemans, Mason, Joseph Gruessel, Detroit; H. Wirt Newkirk, Ann Arbor, and Frank Shields, Howell.

WENT ASTRAY.

Clergyman Deserted His Family and Eloped with His Wife's Sister.

Employed as a laundry hand in a Sault Ste. Marie laundry Rev. Wm. A. Cummings, an Episcopal minister of Clarksville, was arrested Monday on a charge of non-support brought by his wife, and taken to the county jail in Ionia by Sheriff Cilley of that county.

With them went Miss Yelma Taylor, daughter of a Clarksville physician and sister of Mrs. Cummings, who was living with the minister as his wife. The couple disappeared August 16 and about a week later Mrs. Cummings notified Sheriff Cilley. He traced them to the Soo and brought with him a picture of Miss Taylor. This was shown to Police Chief Swart, who recognized the photo as that of a young lady living near his home.

He went there and asked for Mrs. Cummings. Miss Taylor responded and when told that she was not the past wife broke down and confessed.

"You would blame me if you knew all the facts in the case," she said.

She then told where Cummings was employed and his arrest followed. The girl was not placed under arrest. Cummings first met Miss Taylor at Olivet college, where he received his early theological training. Later he went to Linden, where he met Mabel Taylor, oldest daughter of Dr. Taylor.

Cummings afterward opened up a store in Clarksville and married Miss Taylor. He later sold the store to his father-in-law and took the pastorate of the Congregational church in Waco, Texas.

In 1905 he resigned and went to Grand Rapids, where he was employed as a street car conductor. He became a lay reader in the Episcopal church and drew the attention of influential members of the diocese, who sent him to a Chicago theological seminary. He recently occupied the pulpit of the Episcopal church in Elk Rapids.

Miss Taylor went to Grand Rapids supposedly to visit friends. Her sister left her there and she was joined by Cummings.

Ready for Camp.

Only three weeks remain for the troops composing the Michigan National Guard to prepare for the camp of instruction to be held this year with United States troops at Camp Fort Benjamin Harrison, near Indianapolis, Ind.

With the exception of instructing the recruits in guard duty, field maneuvers, etc., the National Guard is now ready for camp. Most of the companies this year will have nearly full quotas, and it is expected that Michigan troops will camp with the Michigan soldiers.

Burned the Works.

With bricks falling around them and two narrow escapes from death, Muskegon firemen fought a fire which destroyed the old water works building at an early hour Saturday morning. Friday evening fire was discovered in four places, but was extinguished. Five hours later incendiaries again fired the building. The loss is $30,000.

Dr. James B. Bradley, of Eaton Rapids, will be the Republican nominee for governor. While the returns of the state primary though not complete on Wednesday were sufficient to show the plurality of Dr. Bradley over Gov. Fred M. Warner will be approximately 2,500.

It was the city against the country, and the cities won. The vote received by Dr. Bradley in Detroit and Grand Rapids gave him a lead that could not be overcome by the smaller vote from the rural districts. Horatio S. Earle cut little figure in the election but he undoubtedly pulled strength from Gov. Warner.

The British steamer Duncarn and 51 of her crew of 52 went down in the typhoon that lashed off the island of Kure, Japan, Wednesday. The survivors are Engineer Wm. Phillips and Seaman John London, who were picked up exhausted by the Japanese steamer Sakyo Maru. The Duncarn, a 2,220-ton steel screw steamer, was en route to Singapore. She sailed into the very center of the terrific typhoon.

Dr. James B. Bradley.

The vote was a disappointment in the amount of interest shown, as the total will not exceed 175,000, although the Republican enrollment, exclusive of those enrolled Saturday, was 246,201.

But very few Democrats turned out to vote for Hemans as he had no opposition. The same was true of Dr. Gray, the prohibition candidate, who was almost unnoticed in the voting.

Many Democrats voted in the Republican primary. In some counties they were for Warner, in others their strength was thrown to Bradley.

Both Bradley and Warner received more than 40 per cent of the vote so there is no danger of the nomination going to a convention.

After the battle Dr. Bradley said: "Please say for me to the people of Michigan that I shall continue the fight which I have taken during my campaign for the nomination, namely to stand for economy in the administration of state affairs, for equal taxation for the passage of an anti-bill by bill and for direct primaries. I naturally feel well pleased at my selection for the head of the ticket by the Republicans of the state."

Governor Warner said: "A primary election is for the purpose of having the people decide for themselves whom they wish to represent their parties. They should abide by the result of the primary. That is what I will do. I thank my friends for what they did for me throughout the state and am glad, at least, that the result is so close. It was the adverse vote in the cities which defeated me."

Evelyn's Sad Plight.

Her once famous beauty gone, her nerves wrecked and her income cut off, Mrs. Evelyn Nesbit Thaw is in a sanitarium in New York trying to win back her good looks wiped out by wrinkles and deep shadows which tell tales of a lively life and worry over money matters.

Her nerves are ragged and she is reduced almost to skin and bone. Worried over the loss of her income of $12,000 she received from Harry Thaw, but which has been stopped since the bankruptcy proceedings, is responsible for her breakdown.

In the sanitarium she is known as Mrs. Fitzgerald. She talks little and goes through the rigid system prescribed for her with ardent fervor. If strict attention to the doctor's orders may win her back the looks that have brought her so much fame and trouble, young Mrs. Thaw means to get them.

The Persian Revolt.

The latest news from Persia confirms the report that the revolution is in full swing in the western and southern parts of the country.

All the tribes in Persian Kurdistan have raised the banner of revolt under the leadership of the constitutionalists, and demand the immediate convocation of a parliament; otherwise they threaten to declare for independence.

The government offices are falling into the hands of the insurgents everywhere and a large number of soldiers have been killed. The governor of Sul-taneh has fled with a small remnant of loyal troops, the remainder of the troops have joined the insurgents. The governor's residence was pillaged and burned.

July 1, 1908, the U. S. still had undisposed 751,895,296 acres of public lands distributed in 26 states.

There was a light fall of snow Wednesday in the suburbs of Baltimore and flurries were reported from other points in the state.

Wandering for 48 hours in the mountains of Colorado without food and shelter, afraid to lay down for fear of freezing to death, Judge R. E. Roman, of St. Louis, aged 74, staggered into the Drake hotel in Estes Park, Col., half dead. With careful nursing he will recover. The judge had lost the trail.

WIRELETS.

The geographical commission appointed by the African government seven years ago to map all the towns of the country has reported that they have discovered 7,679 towns not officially known to exist before. Many are of considerable size, population ranging from 5,000 to 15,000.

Samuel Brackett, of Trenton, N. J., said to be the oldest office boy in the world, is 89 years old. He is employed in the office of the Anvil works of Mrs. Clark Fisher, and is known as an "heirloom" of the family, having been in its employ for the last 69 years. He occupies the same position he did when he first went to work. He has not been office boy all the time, however, merely returning to that position when age unfitted him for work in the shop.

A case of tetanus in advanced stages, has just been cured in St. John's hospital, Brooklyn, through the use of sodium chloride. The patient was Allen Kollock, 15, of Woodhaven, L. I., and he became infected three weeks ago. He was first treated for rheumatism but one day his jaw set tightly. The injured toe was amputated and a 25 per cent solution of sodium chloride was injected directly into his spinal cord and in a few days he began to get better.

Fifty-one Drowned.

The British steamer Duncarn and 51 of her crew of 52 went down in the typhoon that lashed off the island of Kure, Japan, Wednesday. The survivors are Engineer Wm. Phillips and Seaman John London, who were picked up exhausted by the Japanese steamer Sakyo Maru. The Duncarn, a 2,220-ton steel screw steamer, was en route to Singapore. KEEP THE KIDNEYS WELL.

Health Is Worth Saving, and Some Northville People Knew How to Save It.

Many Northville people take their lives in their hands by neglecting the kidneys when they know these organs need help. Sick kidneys are responsible for a vast amount of suffering and all health, but there is no need to suffer nor to remain in danger when all diseases and aches and pains due to weak kidneys can be quickly and permanently cured by the use of Doan's Kidney Pills. Here is a Northville citizen's recommendation.

J. M. Ambler, living on Main street, Northville, Mich., says: "Some five years ago Doan's Kidney Pills, which I procured at Murdock Bros' drug store were used by Mrs. Ambler and myself with most satisfactory results. We both suffered from sort of rheumatic pains in the back over the region of the kidneys. I often felt as though it was impossible to go about my work. We tried several remedies but were not benefited until we began using Doan's Kidney Pills. Their use gave us prompt relief. At that time I gave a statement telling our experience for publication in Northville. I can only add now that our faith in this remedy is as great as it was at that time."

HOME REMODELING.

INCREASED FACILITIES OF THE BARTON-NETTING CO., DETROIT.

Their New and Magnificent Quarters are Among the Finest in the Country—Every Latest Design in Grates, Mantels and Lighting Fixtures—Installed the Lighting Furnishings of the New Steamer "City of Cleveland."

The new business establishment of the Barton-Netting Co., 256 Woodward Avenue, Detroit (three doors north of their former location), is not excelled in beauty and completeness in the country. The entrance is especially noteworthy, being the handsomest in that city, and all the details of complete showrooms have been fully carried out. The stock is equally worthy of special mention. Large and fully assorted, it offers the best choice of all that is latest and handsomest in every line. A visit to the warerooms will delight all who appreciate elegance and convenience in the home or place of business, and our readers will be cordially welcomed at the new showrooms.

The Barton-Netting Co. installed the entire furnishings of electrolights and electric lamps on the new steamer "City of Cleveland." This magnificent vessel, the finest steamship on fresh water in the world, is 444 feet long and 96 feet 6 inches wide. There are four passenger decks; 500 staterooms, each with telephone and running water, shower baths, grate fires, washed air ventilators, electric elevators, wireless telegraph, convention hall, private dining rooms and Venetian gardens. The speed of the "City of Cleveland" is 25 miles per hour, and she cost $1,250,000. At night the interior is a blaze of light emanating from the hundreds of electrolights and electric lamps. The original designs and the complete and exceptionally beautiful lighting effects produced are in keeping with the other superb appointments.

In selecting a mantle, grate or thing, the advantage of a choice from the largest assortment is obvious. Those who offer the largest lines can afford to make the lowest prices, on account of the more extensive volume of their business. The Barton-Netting Co. have long been known for the completeness and variety of their lines in wood and special tile mantels. The house exhibits the largest and finest assortment of electric and combination lighting fixtures in Michigan. These comprise handsome art-glass domes, beautiful side brackets, and every style of fixture, whether for a mansion or a cottage, an office building or a bank.

A very important consideration is the installation of the fittings. The trouble and danger caused by imperfect workmanship are patent facts. The Barton-Netting Co. send none but experienced and competent workmen to renovate, remodel or install fittings. This is especially necessary in refitting bathrooms, in order to have a perfect tile ceiling tile wall or tile floor. Of these the house makes a specialty, either in new residences or houses that are being remodeled.

Inquirers can learn from their neighbors in almost every community in Michigan about the high quality of material and workmanship and the thoroughly satisfactory character of their dealings with this firm. Catalogues and any information desired may be had free on request.

TWO CLASSES.

Shoes may be divided into two classes—one represented by the shoe the foot holds, the other by the shoe that holds the foot.

Already too many are familiar with the first—to their sorrow. A shoe that simply covers and generally hurts the foot; a limp bit of leather that does not support the foot in any way. Such a shoe is a constant source of weariness, for the foot is forced to do all the work unaided.

The second class is best represented by the "Queen Quality"—a shoe that fits snugly yet easily at every point; that braces, supports and aids the foot so that half the fatigue of walking is overcome.

"But, Gideon, you won't like that life!"

"Like? Life? he repeated gloomily. "I shall do no harm there. That is all."

Utter hopelessness was in voice and face. Yet Esther could think of no adequate word and drove on in silence till they stopped at the doorway.

"Will you come in?"

No, Stella. I shall not annoy you further. This is farewell."

She looked into his sad face and saw two generations of tragedy there. Resentment, aversion died. "Oh, Gideon, you are of my blood, the only one, my almost brother. Whatever you have done, will do, is mine to bear by right of kinship. Don't think I shall reproach you. Come to see me! I will be good to you."

His face lifted for a flashing instant, his eyes softened with glad tears. But the transformation passed almost as it came. "No, no, Stella! Thank you for those dear words. But I—I have only to atone. It's impossible! Good bye."

He started hurriedly down the walk, but halted, turned back. "I saved Vincent's life once, here in the city. Never speak of it. I've only told you because—because I want you to know—I'm trying to even up the game."

He wheeled and went swiftly through the gate.

CHAPTER XXVII.

The Conquest of the Heart of Sally B.

Forty years ago, daring surgeons did not so often undertake to better nature's work, make joints where none had been, remake organs that had not fulfilled their functions.

Alvin Carter, despite his cheerfulness had ever silently rebelled against his crutch. And when the idea was born to him that he might have his leg broken and made straight, he never halted till he found a surgeon willing to add his skill to Alvin's money and pluck.

Three years with scarcely a day's vacation had won for him promotion and the confidence of officers as well as of fellow employes. Thus Alvin had the great eye and sympathy of the governor himself behind his brave venture into unfamiliar realms of surgery. When Alvin came through with two straight legs the trifling shortness of one being corrected by a high heel, he gladly accepted the diversion of a trip to the Front while he was learning to walk on two feet.

Fresh from those exciting scenes, he presented himself at Sally B's home. Not for one moment had he faltered in his determination to win Viola, if she remained true, and he never doubted her. Yet now, sitting in the most beautiful room he had ever seen, perturbed by the obsequious butler's ill-concealed disdain when he had to send up his name instead of the requested card—all in an instant Viola grew remote, his aspiration to her preposterous. The modest cottage he had thought out—the plans were in his pocket waiting her approval—seemed but a miserable hut beside this magnificent palace.

Time for his heart to congeal had been ample when Sally B. swept into the room, passed a chilling instant, and came forward with her most imposing society manner.

"Why, Mr. Carter! This is elegant to see you! Elegant weather, isn't it? When did you come to the Bay? Elegant time of year to visit at the Bay, now, ain't it?"

With an astonishing swing of her sable crapes she seated herself back to the light, her face dimly outlined, while the late afternoon sun shone full upon him.

"I read of the crack operation the doctors performed on you, Mr. Carter. I congratulate you on it's being O. K. It's an elegant improvement. Won't you set—sit?"

She did not even look at him, he thought. Blindly he groped for a chair, his eyes burning as if she had slapped them with a hard hand. Had he but known, Sally B.'s keen vision had instantly noted and approved his erect manliness; his resolute countenance. Her heart warmed to him. He belonged to her world, appreciated her. Yet ambition held the reins. She suspected his errand, and purposely put him at a disadvantage, plying him with questions, intending to leave him no opportunity for personal topics. But for once she met her equal. She took the one topic that could best fire him; and in turn he caught her spirit in the flame of his enthusiasm, and consumed her society veil in a single sentence.

"Do tell me something about the railroad. I miss it powerful—ly."

"I've just returned from the Front, got back yesterday."

"Oh, go—She hesitated. He could see her eyes shine, knew she

"Oh, go—She hesitated. He could see her eyes shine, knew she

That lot of rails the Washoe took up. I don't last any time."

"Say! That was a snifty trick, the way they snopped them 500 Chinamen straight from the ship to the train and got 'em to the Front before they knew where they were going. I read about it in the paper." She moved her chair a little and the light reached her face. Alvin saw the old spirit looking out of it.

"It's awful, what our folks have to buck against. They can't build shops for lack of men and stuff—stuff that's coming in those ironships. And there's freeze-ups, slides, and wrecks—nothing settled and finished—and the immense cost of repairs, when they're nothing fixed right to make 'em. Why, a waterspout over on the desert sliced out a mile and a half of track as clean as a piece of cheese! And then—the papers, and San Francisco!"

"The Lord pizen them Clarion men! I wish 'em would! There!"

"So do I!" Alvin assented heartily.

Sally B.'s answering smile held a world of craft. She drew a deep breath of satisfaction. "By jinks! It's plumb good to talk railroad once more. Bill don't keef for it, but I do. I'd rather live—"

She changed the topic abruptly. "Is Billy Dodge over there anywhere?"

"He's conductor on the Humboldt division; makes a bully one, too!"

"I bet he does. He—"

Alvin squared about in his chair and interrupted her. "Mrs. Bernard—it was her turn to win at her surname—"

"I've come for Viola. Will you let me have her peacefully, or must I make a row about it?"

He was quite himself; and Sally B. knew very well that no glamour of luxury or shadow of Vanity Fair could frighten him now. Yet she had one bomb left.

"She won't have you, Al. I'm sorry, but—"

"No, you ain't sorry; and that isn't the truth, anyway. It's you that won't have me; and I'll break her heart to—"

Alvin felt her changed attitude, and when he came back to her and spoke his voice was very gentle. "May I see Viola before I go? I'll be my last chance, you know?"

"Oh, Al!" she cried out, and stopped. Alvin was astonished at her emotion, yet waited.

Almost, ambition had lost, not quite. "Al, boy! Do you think you'd better? Won't it be harder for you?"

An for her, too?" she added after a breath.

Alvin's face contracted. Gave her up without one more look into her dear face? Not see for himself that it was well with her? That she could love—at least, be content with—the man her mother would secure for her? His heart beat clamorously, and he told himself he would see her, would see her!

Yet he took up his hat, looked calmly for his gloves and turned steady eyes to where Sally B. stood, her white knuckled hands grasping a chair-back desperately.

"Tell Vi—tell Vi—no, don't tell her anything!" he said, with forced calmness. "Good-bye, Sally B." He bowed slightly and walked out of the door.

"Oh, Al-Carter, you're the best man I ever—"

She caught her breath and stopped, staring after him.

Neither to the right nor to the left did he turn his eyes as he walked down the winding, rose-lined avenue to the iron gates. Life seemed at an end!

"Al! Al Carter!" screamed a shrill voice behind him. Through the gates Sally B. flew, her hair-disordered, her full draperies billowing to the wind like pirate sails, her crape ruffles dragging out behind her. "Al, come back!" she cried breathlessly, catching him by the arm, hurrying him through the iron gates again, through the rose-lined avenue to the house. "Come back and see Vi! Gosh darn it, Al! I throw up the game! What does a shamming old Greaser like me want of a big bug for a son-in-law? You're good enough, right smart better'n I deserve; an' good enough for Vi, too. Go 'long in the music room there, an' find Vi. Tell her if she's said 'Yes' to Reg Lawrence or to Freddy Bryan, or to any other feller, I'll say 'No' to him! Go!"

She dragged him into the hall, pushed him toward the music room; and, sobbing wildly, ran up the soundless stairs.

Alvin stood still, dazed, half-conscious of ripping, tearing ruffles on the stair, when a little figure sprang forward to meet him.

"Oh, Alvin!" she cried in quick rapture, then halted questioningly.

"Viola, your mother has accepted me for you," he said softly, and took her in his arms. And long years of misery were cut from the lovers' calendar.

"And Vi? I suppose she'd never want to see her father and mother. She'd be quite happy without them."

He turned contemptuous eyes upon Sally B.'s quivering face. "Lord! She ought to be happy without you! It's worse than Abraham's sacrifice if there had been no lamb! At least, Isaac would have burned quickly!"

He saw Sally B.'s face drop and gray shadows creep in. At last she found speech, and her words were steady.

"What's the use of money and beauty, an' Vi's aristocratic way, if Bill an' me was ready to tie her down to our kind? To life on the desert; maybe—Bill ain't no flandseer—to tough luck an' pore grub. That's what's bound to come if Bill's luck turns. Do you think that's lovin' her? That lord blongs to folks that's always had money, an' always looked it. An' if he fails, there's Freddy Bryan; he's a man, the right kind. If he loses his money, he'll make it again—he's buckin' bright—an' she'll live genteel."

I s'pose you'd call it lovin' her to drag her away from all that, an' tie her up to a little four-by-six life with you a-trampin' along the railroad!"

It was her turn for scorn, and it burned deep.

Alvin walked abruptly away to the open window. The beautiful palm garden with its waxen-crested calla hedge and vine-wrapped trellises was full of winter bloom and fragrance; but he saw nothing. His eyes were misty. He was looking into a dim future with-out Viola, a future never before contemplated.

Sally B., watching, saw her battle woe; and a quick revulsion of feeling set in. She admired his square, many shoulders. Freddy Bryan was thin, and stooped a little, and the lord was small for an Englishman. Alvin's plain, well-fitting business suit had a wholesome, honest look that appealed to her. She remembered how valiantly he had fought his way on a crutch through half-starved boyhood to manhood, honorable manhood. Even his straightness touched a new chord—she was proud of the courage that had pioneered an operation that was the talk of the papers. And he had done it for Vi!

Alvin felt her changed attitude, and when he came back to her and spoke his voice was very gentle. "May I see Viola before I go? I'll be my last chance, you know?"

"Oh, Al!" she cried out, and stopped. Alvin was astonished at her emotion, yet waited.

Driving a Good Bargain.

The barber's small son was in the habit of playing around his father's shop, and he was always keenly interested in the patrons. Many a stray penny found its way into the little chubby hand, and sticks of gum were dropped in quite as though by accident. Judge Williams drifted into the shop the other afternoon for a hair cut. The lad recognized the fact that the judge was a new patron, and so was more than ordinarily interested in him. He hung at the foot of the chair and looked musingly at the judge's bald head. Then he walked slowly to the back of the chair and surveyed the scanty fringe of hair from that point of vantage. He could contain himself no longer and burst out incredulously: "Father, do you—get a quarter for cutting that?"—Lawrence's

THE LAND OF GRAIN

—BY—

JAMES OLIVER CURWOOD

Author of "American Farmers Building a New Nation in the North"

"Canada—The Land of Greater Hope"—"The Invasion of Canada by American Farmers"—"A Thousand Miles on Horseback Across the Dominion Provinces," Etc., Etc.

Not so very many years ago the majority of people in the United States laughed at the prediction that the day was coming when Western Canada would far outstrip this country in the raising of grain—when, in other words, it would become the great bread-basket of the world. During the past three or four years the enormous production of grain in the Dominion West has thinned the ranks of those who doubted the destiny of Canada's vast grain-growing regions; the crops of this year will dispel the doubts of the remaining few. From Winnipeg westward to the foothills of Alberta, over a country nearly a thousand miles in width, the grain production this year will be something to almost stagger the belief of those hundreds of thousands of American farmers whose average yield is not more than from ten to fifteen bushels of wheat to the acre, and who are finding that their product is also "outclassed" in quality by that of their northern neighbors.

The enormous grain crop of this year in the Canadian West may truthfully be said to be the production of "a few pioneers." Only a small percentage of the unnumbered millions of acres of grain land are under cultivation, notwithstanding the fact that tens of thousands of homesteads were taken up last year. And yet, when all the figures are in, it will be found that the settlers of the western prairies have raised this year more than 125,000,000 bushels of wheat, 100,000,000 bushels of oats and 25,000,000 bushels of barley. It has been a "fortune making year" for thousands of American farmers who two or three years ago owned hardly more than the clothes upon their backs, and whose bumper crops from their homesteads will yield them this season anywhere from $1,500 to $2,500 each, more money than many of them have seen at one time in all their lives.

Very recently I passed through the western provinces from Winnipeg to Calgary, and in the words of a fellow passenger, who was astonished by what he saw from the car windows in Manitoba, we were, metaphorically speaking, in a "land of milk and honey." The country was one great sweep of ripening grain. In fact, so enormous was the crop, that at the time there were grave doubts as to the possibility of GETTING ENOUGH BINDER TWINE TO SUPPLY THE DEMAND. A situation like this has never before been known in the agricultural history of any country.

Before I made my first trip through the Dominion west I doubted very much the stories that I had heard of this so-called "grain wonderland," across the border. I believed, as unnumbered thousands of others believed, that the stories were circulated mostly to induce immigration. I quickly found that I was wrong. As one Alberta farmer said to me a few weeks ago, "If the whole truth were told about this country I don't suppose you could find one American in ten who would believe it."

This year the prospects of the wheat crop of Saskatchewan, Manitoba and Alberta are an average of over TWENTY FIVE BUSHELS TO THE ACRE, and that this grain is far superior to that raised in the states is proved by our own government statistics, which show that American millers are importing millions of bushels of B "Canadian hard" to mix with the home product in order that THIS HOME PRODUCT MAY BE RAISED TO THE REQUIRED STANDARD. It is a peculiar fact that while the Dominion Government is anxious for its western provinces to fill up with the very best of immigrants, there has been no blatant or sensational advertising of those lands. For this reason it is probable that not one American farmer out of fifty knows that Canada wheat now holds the world's record of value—that, in other words, it is the best wheat on earth, and that more of it is grown to the acre than anywhere else in the world.

A brief study of climatic conditions, and those things which go to make a climate, will show that the farther one travels northward from the Montana border the milder the climate becomes—up to a certain point. In other words, the climate at Edmonton, Alberta, is far better than that of Denver, 1,500 miles south; and while thousands of cattle and sheep are dying because of the severity of the winters in Wyoming, Montana and other western states, the cattle, sheep and horses of Alberta GRAZE ON THE RANGES ALL WINTER WITH ABSOLUTELY NO SHELTER. This is all largely because sea-currents and air-currents have to do with the making of the climate of temperate regions. For instance, why is it that California possesses such a beautiful climate, with no winter at all, while the New England states on a parallel with it have practically six months of winter out of twelve?

It is because of that great sweep of warm water known as the "Japan current," and this same current not only affects the westernmost of the Dominion provinces, but added to its influence are what are known as the "chinook winds"—steady and undeviating air-currents which sweep over the great wheat regions of Western Canada. There are good scientific reasons why these regions are capable of producing better crops than our own western and central states, but best of all are the proofs of it in actual results. This year, for instance, as high as one hundred bushels of oats to the acre will be gathered in Manitoba, Saskatchewan, and Alberta, and some wheat will go AS HIGH AS FIFTY BUSHELS TO THE ACRE, though of course this is an unusual

"Preserved" Drama.

One of the provisions for old age which will soon be made by every actor and actress is the record of his or her best work by means of the cinematograph. Imagine the triumph with which an old actress would produce her film and her phonograph, and let the young ones know what she was at her best.

With Humorous Intent.

The sense of the comic is much blunted by habits of punning and of using humorous phrase; the trick of employing Johnsonian polysyllables to treat of the infinitely little. And it really may be humorous, of a kind, yet it will miss the point by going too much round about it.—George Meredith, in "An Essay on Comedy."

A Universal Workman.

I believe in a spade and an acre of good ground. Whoso cuts a straight path to his own living by the help of God, in the sun and rain and sprouting grain, seems to me a universal working man. He solves the problem of life not for one, but for all men of sound body.—Emerson.

PICNIC FOR THE PUP.

His Devotion to Duty Rewarded by Strange Luxuries.

A Boston bulldog owned by George H. Clapp was so determined to capture a woodchuck which he had chased into its den that he followed after and staid in the hole all night.

When the dog had got his jaws about the enemy he found that he could not get out owing to the small size of the animal's hole.

Rather than lose his prey the dog retained his hold on the woodchuck over night, and was helped out by his master in the morning. The dog was nearly exhausted, and revived after feeding and drinking in a curious manner.

He consumed about two quarts of unguaranteed ice cream, which had been set aside for a party, and capped the climax by falling into a bucket of lemonade.—Worcester (Mass.) Telegram.

CURED HER CHILDREN.

Girls Suffered with Itching Eczema—Baby Had a Tender Skin, Too—Relied on Cuticura Remedies.

"Some years ago my three little girls had a very bad form of eczema. Itching eruptions formed on the backs of their heads which were simply covered. I tried almost everything, but failed. Then my mother recommended the Cuticura Remedies. I washed my children's heads with Cuticura Soap and then applied the wonderful ointment, Cuticura. I did this four or five times and I can say that they have been entirely cured. Another baby who is so plump that the folds of skin on his neck were broken and even bled. I used Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment and the next morning the trouble had disappeared. Mme. Napoleon Duceppe, 41 Duluth St., Montreal, Que., May 21, 1907."

Small Boy—There now! I knew I'd forgotten something.

Important to Mothers.

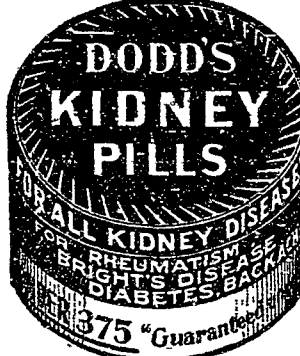

Examine carefully every bottle of CASTORIA, a safe and sure remedy for infants and children, and see that it bears the Signature of Dr. J. C. Williams. In Use For Over 30 Years.

The Kind You Have Always Bought.

Instruments of Torture.

"You don't seem to be keeping up very well this summer," said Father's Cane to Mother's shipper.

"True," acknowledged the banjo spanker, regretfully, "I've been falling atern lately."

The KITCHEN CABINET

NORAH AND THE SPAGHETTI.

WENT out to the kitchen once. Found Norah scolding the sausage. Spaghetti on the table lay. "Bada!" says Norah, "I'm no dago!"

"The nasty stuff—it makes me sick. Indeed, mum, and I'll never cook it. They say it isn't wormy, but excuse me, I'm long sticks de look it!"

I told her how to fix it up. With cheese and with tomato sauce, and scatter more cheese on the top. But here again—the cook was cross.

"And sure ma'am, but I think the chaze is mighty good—and thim tomatoes, but I trow the old spaghetti out." And she old Norah—Irish prates!"

TIMELY TIPS.

Any dish (pudding, custard, etc.), which has been flavored with lemon juice or rind, should be kept covered until quite cold, to prevent the escape of the volatile oil during the cooling process.

Pineapple that is to be preserved should be boiled in clear water until quite tender. Putting it into the boiling syrup while raw makes it tough and leathery.

Any of the washing powders on the market are better if used in this way. Place the contents of a package in a wide-mouthed jar; pour over it a pint of boiling water. When it is cool it will be a convenient soft soap, ready for use.

To keep the egg beater, the grater, or the vegetable strainer, clean, tie them in a bag, and hang up. They will keep free from dust—and this is a serious matter with these articles which are so hard to wash.

DELIVER US

From a boiled dinner when the cabbage is cooked in the pot with the meat; when the latter is cold it will taste too strong of the cabbage. Boil only delicate vegetables with the meat.

From mason jars that are not thoroughly sterilized before putting in the fruit. Cans and tops should be put in cold water and allowed to come to a boil.

From very fresh bread for sandwiches. They should be made of bread baked the day before.

From the housewife who takes a thick peeling from potatoes, the best of the vegetable is next the skin.

From the very pure white flour, the best is cream yellow.

From meat put into a cold oven—thereby allowing the heat to come gradually and extract all the rich juices.

Old-Fashioned Top-Tops.

Beat slightly the yolks of three eggs, then gradually two cups of very cold water, and beat until foamy. Stir this into two cups well sifted flour, making a smooth batter, then strain through a sieve. Add one half teaspoon salt and one tablespoon melted butter. Mix well, stir in one heaping teaspoon baking powder and the egg whites, beaten to a froth. Bake in hot gem pans.

"Dicky Birds."

Take lean pieces of veal, pound thin and season with salt and pepper, put one good sized oyster in each piece, fold over and fasten a piece of bacon on top with a toothpick. Pack snugly in pan with one-half cup hot water. Season well, and bake about half an hour, or until brown. This is a nice picnic dish.

Cider Jelly in Apples.

To three pints of sweet cider, add one cup of sugar, the juice of two lemons and enough gelatine to stiffen. Strain, and cool. For each guest prepare a large red apple by scooping out the pulp, leaving the form compact; fill the apple cup with cider jelly and replace end of the apple. Serve very cold with whipped cream.

MARKING THE PIES.

THERE was a woman in our town, And she was wondrous wise; She made and put away to cool, Some mince and apple pies.

This home-made mince-meat she had made: Two pounds lean beef, one suet, Of apples five pounds, raisins three, Add spice and citron to it.

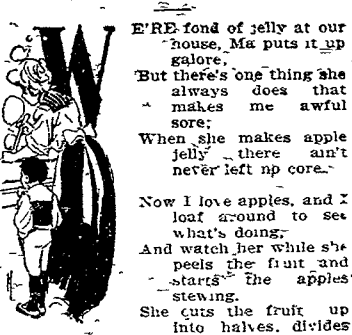

Put salt and sugar, too, to taste, Some sherry wine and brandy.

About a pint of each will make The mince-meat taste just dandy!

Those made of apple were good, I really wanted them, But on a shelf she put the pies Marked all alike: T. M.

"You've marked them both the same," I said. The lady did not wince, "One means 'Tis mince,'" she said, "And one Oh well, it means, 'Tain't mince!'"

HIS ECONOMICAL MA.

WENT out to the kitchen once. Found Ma puts it up afore. But there's one thing she always does that makes me awful sore: When she makes apple jelly, she never left no core.

Now I love apples, and I loaf around to see what's doing. And watch her while she peels the fruit and starts the apples stewing. She cuts the fruit up into halves, divides them, starts them brewing.

And then my trouble starts, I ask: "What are those apples for?" "For making pies all winter, child, I've put these up before, and of the peeling I make jelly—and even use the core."

And when she cans the cherries—it's just the same old thing. She even grinds the pits to make some almond-flavoring. The cores, the peels, pits—all used, and only get-a sting.

BEAR IN MIND

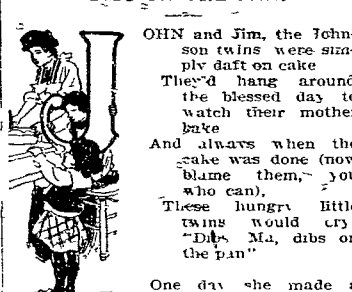

That most vegetables should be boiled in a great deal of water, otherwise they will turn dark. It is not enough to barely cover—cabbage, onions, carrots, turnips, etc.

That boiled potatoes, meant to be creamed, or fried afterward, are not so good if sliced hot. Let them get perfectly cold.

That if fowl is dressed sometime before using, and there is a "musty" tang, all taint may be removed by washing the inside with vinegar.

That a dash of Worcestershire sauce improves any brown stew, and is excellent in soups.

That if corned beef is to be eaten cold, it must not be taken out of the liquor until it has thoroughly cooled.

"DIBS ON THE PAN!"

OH, and Jim, the Johnson twins were simply daff on cake. They'd hang around the blessed day to watch their mother bake.

And always when the cake was done (you blame them, you can), the hungry little twins would cry "Dibs! Ma, dibs on the pan!"

One day she made a "Hard Times" cake. Get me just one egg, Jim.

An ounce of butter, a cupful sugar and milk," she said to him.

"Two teaspoons baking powder, and some flour to make it thick. The stove's not hot enough—now, John, your turn, some more wood—quick!"

But naughty John rebelled. "I think you ought send Jim," he said.

"The wood is awful heavy! I just hate that old woodshed!"

But at the last when both the boys cried "Dibs! dibs on the pan!"

The mother said: Jim earned it—he is mother's little man."

Pudding Pointers.

In puddings, where wine, brandy, lemon juice or any acid is used, stir it in last, and gradually, or it may curdle the eggs or the milk.

Before you put a pudding in to bake, stop and ask if it will not be as good boiled? The chances are it will be better. But remember that boiling takes twice as long as baking and the pudding should never be touched after it is put in to boil, a jar of the kettle will spoil it.

Remember to put a dash of salt in all sweet puddings.

Always leave room in the bag for the pudding to swell.

In adding water to the kettle care must be taken to use only water which is boiling.

While chopping suet for pudding, always keep it very cold.

After washing currants thoroughly (as is most essential), dry them on a towel; it hardens them to dry them in the oven. To make them plump, pour boiling water over them before drying.

Parsnips.

This is a common vegetable, not commonly served. When well prepared few things are more wholesome or palatable.

Parsnips may be boiled and served with a sauce of melted butter, or they are excellent baked with meat.

But an extra good way to prepare them is to boil, mash, and mix with a little flour and a beaten egg. Fry them in lard or beef drippings, and serve with a tiny bit of the grease poured over them.

Tomato Scramble.

Boil and season six tomatoes; just before serving, add two or three well-beaten eggs. Stir all together and serve hot.

Eggs in Ramekins.

This is an easy dish to serve for lunch, or for the woman who has no servant. It saves service as the eggs are already set before each place.

In the ramekins put a tablespoonful cream (each), and on this drop each fully one egg; season with salt, pepper, paprika and a dash of nutmeg.

FROZEN TEA NEW DAINTY.

Introduced at Washington by Wife of Chinese Minister.

Frozen tea is among the delicacies of the season, and is regarded as delightful. The way Mme. Wu, wife of the Chinese diplomat and wit, serves it is interesting. The tea is made as carefully as if an empress was to imbibe it.

Freshly-boiled water is poured on the leaves and is permitted to steep for exactly six minutes, when it is poured into an ice-cold mold and put into the freezer.

Frozen tea is served with one tablespoonful of frozen unflavored cream and one of frozen ice out of the regular frozen-dainty saucer. It is the coming ice and already is growing in popularity.

Another frozen food fad relates to nutmeg canteloupe. The meat of the melon is scraped out and frozen with a slight taste of sugar, cinnamon and nutmeg, and is then put back in the rind and served daintily with leaves and flowers at the edges.

A HOT SUPPER DISH.

Surtable for Simple Meal So Popular on Sunday Nights.

For the simple little supper that every one wants on Sunday nights when the maid is out and no one wants to work the following dish is most acceptable:

It is a regular chafing dish bit of cookeny and is frequently concocted by clubmen for an after-theater supper.

Good-sized tomatoes are skinned, chopped into tiny pieces and put on the ice. Half a dozen eggs are beaten up, seasoned with salt and paprika and a small quantity of thick cream. Is slowly poured in and beaten up.

This mixture is poured into the hot chafing dish and flaked with a fork until it is nearly cooked, then the tomatoes are poured in, and if one likes the taste of green peppers, a few shreds are added.

These are flaked in with the egg mixture and almost instantly served on hot plates.

Tomato Jelly.

With gelatine, may be cut in squares and served with lettuce and celery and mayonnaise for a salad. It is easily made by dissolving half a box of gelatine in a cupful of cold water.

Cook the tomato, season and strain it, and then heat it again. Use a quart of this to a cup of gelatine and stir well until the latter is dissolved. Pour into shallow dishes or little molds and serve in individual plates prettily arranged.

An old fashioned way to make tomato jelly, without gelatine is to fill a stone jar with ripe tomatoes sliced. Cover it tightly, put the jar in a pot of water, and boil for four or five hours.

Strain the juice through a fine sieve and to each pint of juice put a pound of brown sugar. Add the whites of six eggs to each gallon of juice and boil until thick, then put it in glasses. This is a rich, odd jelly. If preferred more spicy, put only half as much sugar, pepper, and salt to taste, and mace and nutmeg.

Hungarian Gulyas.

One pound of beef cut into inch cubes. Put one tablespoon dripping into a saucepan and place over the fire. When hot put, in two finely-minced onions, dredge with quarter teaspoon paprika, stir until onions are thoroughly heated, then add meat. When meat is brown push the saucepan to a part of the range where it will cook slowly. Add two medium-sized potatoes cut into cubes, two level teaspoons of salt and cover closely. Do not add water, as the meat and potatoes and onions should form sufficient gravy to cook the potatoes. Dish on hot platter, garnish with triangles of toast, serve very hot. It should have about three hours' cooking and be made with raw beef.

Science in Housework.

There used to be a time when the young housewife was content to do things just as her mother did them, but in this day of scientific expedients the object should be to have a way of one's own, making sure that it is better than the old way before adopting it. Above all things the right state of mind should be brought to the problem of housework and the young housekeeper should make up her mind that her work must be well done, but that she is not going to be a drudge. Make it as interesting as possible by planning each thing to be done, not as a task, but as a problem to be solved by getting the best results with the least expenditure of energy.

New Peach Pudding.

A peach and chocolate pudding is an English novelty that will appeal to those fond of the latter, and withal it is inexpensive, as canned or tinned peaches are used.

Take one pint tin of peaches, add an ounce of butter, and stew until soft; sweeten if liked and then beat them to a pulp. Boil four ounces of chocolate in a pint of milk until it is smooth. Beat four eggs and add to the chocolate, and after well mixing place the peaches in a deep pie dish, pour the chocolate over them, and bake from ten to twelve minutes in a moderate oven.

Caramel Ice Cream.

For those who wish a change from the regular run of ice cream flavors, there is this recipe:

Three tablespoonfuls of sugar are added to the usual cup, and this is browned in a saucepan, then mixed with a little boiling water, enough to dissolve the sugar.

This is added to the cream mixture and all is iced.

WHAT THE TRADE MARK MEANS TO THE BUYER

Few people realize the importance of the words Trade Mark stamped on the goods they buy. If they did it would save them many a dollar spent for worthless goods and put a lot of unscrupulous manufacturers out of the business.

When a manufacturer adopts a trade mark he assumes the entire responsibility for the merit of his product. He takes his business reputation in his hands—out in the sunlight—"on the square" with the buyer of his goods, with the dealer, and with himself.

The other manufacturer—the "one who holds out inducements,"—offering to brand all goods purchased with each local dealer's brand—sidesteps responsibility, and when these inferior goods "come back" it's the local dealer that must pay the penalty.

A good example of the kind of protection afforded the public by a trade mark is that offered in connection with National Lead Company's advertising of pure White Lead as the best paint material.

That the Dutch Boy Painter trade mark is an absolute guaranty of purity in White Lead is proved to the most skeptical by the offer National Lead Company make to send free to any address a blow-pipe and instructions how to test the white lead for themselves. The testing outfit is being sent out from the New York office of the company, Woodbridge Building.

FULLY FILLED THE BILL.

Aunt Mandy Was Thoroughly Satisfied with New Husband.

Aunt Mandy is an old colored woman who for years has done washing for several families. She has had several matrimonial experiences, and when her last husband died one of her customers attempted to console with her.

"I was very sorry to hear of your husband's death, Aunt Mandy," she said.

"Ya'as, ma'am," said Aunt Mandy. "He was a pow'ful good man."

"What did he die of?"

"Ah really don't know, ma'am." "You don't know? Gracious! Couldn't the doctor tell you?"

On the Doctors.

Mrs. Mary G. Baker Eddy, who, of course, has no faith in medicine, told a Western Christian Scientist, at one of her latest audiences, an anecdote about a friend of hers.

This friend, a thin and nervous woman, could not sleep. She visited her physician and the man said:

"Do you eat anything just before going to bed?"

"Oh, no, doctor," the patient replied.

"Well," said the physician, "just keep a pitcher of milk and some biscuit beside you, and every night, the last thing you do, make a light meal."

"But doctor," cried the lady, "you told me on no account to eat anything before retiring."

"Pooh, pooh," said the doctor, "that was three months ago. Science has made enormous strides since then."

This woman says that sick women should not fail to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as she did.

Mrs. A. Gregory, of 2355 Lawrence St., Denver, Col., writes to Mrs. Pinkham:

"I was practically an invalid for six years, on account of female troubles. I underwent an operation by the doctor's advice, but in a few months I was worse than before. A friend advised Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it restored me to perfect health, such as I have not enjoyed in many years. I did with backache, bearing-down pains, and periodic pains, should not fail to use Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."

FACTS FOR SICK WOMEN. For thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has positively cured thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, dizziness or nervous prostration.

Why don't you try it? Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health. Address, Lynn, Mass.
