TWO OLD RESIDENTS OF NOVI DEAD

MRS. CAROLINE GOODELL AND MRS. SARAH HAMMOND.

Both Had Passed the 90th Milestone in Life's Journey.

During the past week Novi has been called upon to mourn the loss of two of its oldest inhabitants, Mrs. Caroline Goodell and Mrs. Sarah Hammond. Both had lived far beyond the allotted time of three score and ten years. The former would have passed her ninety-first birthday in May next and the latter one year older in March. These dear old ladies had been friends for many years and passed to the better land within a few hours of each other. They were loved and respected by all, and although they had long since ceased to take active part in social life, they were not forgotten, as the tender and loving care given them by their children and friends in their last days will give evidence.

BLAZE AND SMOKE AT GEO. CHADWICK'S

FIRE CAUGHT FROM BASEMENT FURNACE.

Prompt Action of Fire Dept. Saved House.

While Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Chadwick were absent from home Friday morning their house caught fire from the basement furnace and when discovered the blaze and smoke, mostly the latter, had done about $500 damage. The loss was fully covered by insurance.

Mrs. Chadwick had finished her ironing that morning before leaving home and had placed the clothes near the pipe to thoroughly dry and air and these were entirely consumed. The smoke completely ruined everything in the house and suffocated two canary birds and a couple of pet cats.

The fire department got in some excellent work, equal to any city department. Instead of flooding the rooms with water they went to the cellar where the fire originated and extinguished the blaze there.

Had it not been for their prompt action the fire would have soon been beyond control.

"500" Club Entertain Gentlemen.

One of the most enjoyable events of the season was the banquet given by the "500" club in Chadwick's hall Monday night. The decorations were pink and white and the favors were pink artificial chrysanthemums and hidden among the petals were tiny boxes of nuts. The place cards and tally cards corresponded with the other decorations.

During the banquet hour excellent music was furnished by Roy Gray, Howard West and Jamie Dubuar.

After supper dancing was enjoyed for a time and then the ever fascinating game of "500" played until the wee hours of the morning.

The club consists of sixteen ladies and each lady was privileged to invite a gentleman and the latter say "the ladies are royal entertainers."

A Musical Feast.

The members of the Northville Woman's club were given a musical feast in the library Tuesday afternoon by Mrs. Katherine Strong, one of Northville's efficient piano instructors. Mrs. Strong prepared and read a very interesting paper on "The Development of Music in America," interspersing the article with selections from some of the best composers.

Mrs. Strong was ably assisted by Mrs. E. A. Merritt with the violin, and Miss Gladys Cobb, who sang a couple of songs in a very pleasing manner.

Card of Thanks.

For the many kind offerings of assistance and for the many flowers received during my recent bereavement I express my most sincere thanks. MRS. MELVINA CARPENTER.

THE KING'S DAUGHTERS

Made a Good Showing the Past Year.

At the annual meeting of the King's Daughters Tuesday evening the following officers were elected for the year 1909:

Leader—Mrs. Stella Stanley
Second Leader—Mrs. F. S. Harmon
Secretary—Miss May Coldren
Ass't Sec'y—Mrs. Nellie Cameron
Treasurer—Mrs. Alice Hinkley
The report of the treasurer showed the club to be in good financial condition with a balance of $105.36. Since its organization in 1896 the total receipts have been $1,561.40, the total disbursements $1,456.04. The disbursements for 1908 were $224.15. All of this amount has been spent for the improvement of conditions in our own town.

Mr. Hutton has had many years of experience in the dry goods business, having been with T. J. Richardson for eight years, following which he was postmaster here for four years and in the Register of Deeds office in Detroit for six years.

Mattie Carpenter Dead.

Miss Mattie Carpenter died at the home of her mother, Mrs. Melvina Carpenter, on Cady street, Tuesday morning, aged thirty-seven years. She had been an invalid all of her life and a constant care to her mother.

The mother, who is nearly blind, has the sympathy of the community in her bereavement.

The funeral was held yesterday morning from the house, Rev. Mr. Jacklin of Detroit officiating.

ANNUAL MEETING DRIVING CLUB

The annual meeting of the Northville Driving & Athletic club will occur at the council room at 7 o'clock next Monday evening for the purpose of electing officers and the transaction of such other business as may come up.

Mrs. Little Surprised.

Mrs. Rose Little was all ready to attend the "400" club at Mrs. Chas. Coldren's Wednesday evening when in walked about sixteen ladies from the W. R. C. and informed her that she was expected to stay home and entertain them. Mrs. Little has been a faithful member and officer of this worthy organization for several years and as a token of appreciation of this fact she was presented with a beautiful salad dish.

[By the Pastor.]

B. Y. P. U. meeting at 6:00 p. m. Topic: "Life Lessons for Me from the Book of Genesis."

The cottage prayer meeting for next Tuesday evening will be announced from the pulpit.

Two new teachers have been placed in the Sunday school and one new class organized. Mr. and Mrs. Robertson are the new teachers.

The pastor will speak Sunday morning on the theme, "The Temptations of Jesus Christ, were they from the Human or Divine Standpoint?" In the evening the subject will be "The Baptism of Fire." Everybody welcome.

Our Sunday school has lately arranged for two new departments, "The Home Department" and "Cradle Roll." Mrs. Greer was elected superintendent of the former and Ethel Shater superintendent of the latter. A nice certificate is given to every lady that will be enrolled in the Sunday school and arrangements made for mothers meetings.

Card of Thanks.

We take this method of offering an expression of gratitude to all the friends who so kindly came to our assistance during the sickness and death of our dear mother.

MRS. CAROLINE GOODELL.

Caroline Brown was born in the town of Hampton, Windom Co. Conn., May 21, 1818. At the age of seven years she moved to Cherry Valley, N. Y., where she resided until 1845. She was united in marriage to David Goodell in 1835 and moved to Coldwater, Mich., in 1845. Two years later she moved to Novi where she lived until her death Jan. 16. Thirteen children are left to mourn the loss of a kind and loving mother, Chas. E., George F. and Mrs. Lillie Forbes, all of Novi. Also ten grandchildren, seventeen great-grandchildren and nine great-great-grandchildren.

The funeral was held Monday morning from the house and was largely attended. Rev. Brent Harding officiated and the remains were laid to rest in Novi cemetery.

MRS. SARAH HAMMOND.

The subject of this sketch, Mrs. Sarah Hammond, was born in Phelps, N. Y. and came to Michigan fifty-four years ago, settling on a farm near Walled Lake where she resided until her death which occurred Jan. 17. She was married to Harrison Hammond, Jan. 24, 1837 and to them were born seven children, two of whom are still living, one son, Harrison, and one daughter, Mrs. Lucinda Chapman. The funeral was held from the house Monday afternoon, Rev. N. E. Musser of Northville officiating.

A Business Proposition

Did you ever stop to think, Mr. Business Man, that the news of your business is as much a part of the local events as a wedding or a church fair? The ladies are just as much interested in a new fabric you have on the shelves as they are in any home happening. Your store news and announcements in these columns will reach a large circle of eager buyers. This will enable you to sell your goods while they are new and fresh and you will not have to sacrifice later at remnant counter prices. Think it over.

SYNOPSIS.

Mr. Solomon Pratt began a well-narrated story, introducing local notation of his town, and Edward Van Brunt and Martin Hartley, two rich New Yorkers seeking rest. Because of Pratt's lavish expenditure of money, Pratt's first impression was connected with lunatics. Van Brunt, it was learned, was the successful suitor for the hand of Miss Agnes Page, who gave Hartley up. Adventure at fourth of July celebration at Eastwich. Hartley rescued a boy, known as Reddy, from under a horse's feet and the archer proved to be one of Miss Page's charges, whom she had taken to the country for an outing. Out-riding later, Van Brunt, Pratt and Hopper were wrecked in a squall. Pratt landed safely and a search for the other two revealed an island upon which they were found. Scudder and called it Ozono Island. In charge of a company of New York poor children Miss Talford and Miss Page visited Ozono Island. In another storm Van Brunt and Hartley narrowly escaped being wrecked, having aboard chickens, pigs, etc., with which they were to start a farm. Eureka Sparrow, a country girl, was engaged as a cook and Van Brunt and Hartley paid a visit to her father, who for years had been claiming consumption as an excuse for not working.

CHAPTER XI.—Continued.

Washington Sparrow was there. There wasn't but one comfortable rocking chair in sight and he was in that, with his stocking feet resting on the ruins of a haircloth sofa. He was pretty husky looking, seemed to me, for a man complicated with consumption and nervous dyspepsia, but his face was as doleful as a crane, bonnet. And 'twas plain that he could see no hope, and was satisfied with his eyesight. He had a clay pipe in his mouth and was smoking like a peat fire.

"How are you, Mr. Sparrow?" says Martin, bright and chipper. "How's the health this morning?"

The invalid rolled his eyes around but he didn't get out of the rocker. Neither did he take them blue jars, socks off the sofa.

"Oh!" says he, groaning something awful. "I'm miserable, thank you. Set down and make yourselves at home."

There was only three settable pieces of furniture in the room. He was using two of 'em, and 'tother was a child's high chair. So we decided to stand up.

"Don't you find yourself improving this beautiful weather?" asks Hartley, sympathetic.

Washy fetched another groan, so deep that I judged it started way down in the blue socks.

"No," says he. "I'm past improving. Just lingering round now and suffering waiting for the end. I s'pose Reddy told you what I hadn't said?"

Hartley looked troubled. Why, he says, "she did say that you feared tuberculosis, but—"

"Tuber—nothing." That's just like her! making fun of her poor-sick father. What I've got is old-fashioned consumption! Here he fetched a cough that was hoarser than the groaning.

"Old-fashioned consumption and nervous dyspepsia! Can't eat a meal's vittles in comfort. But there! 'I'll be through pretty soon. The sooner the quicker I say. Everybody 'I'll be glad when I'm gone. Don't, I says to 'em, 'don't rag out in no mourning for me. Don't put no hothouse wreaths on my grave. I know how you feel and—"

Get off my feet, you everlasting young one! "Think I'm a ladder!"

The last part was to Dewey, who had come in from the kitchen, and was trying to climb onto the sofa.

Martin looked like he didn't know what to say. By and by he cleared his throat and threw out a hint concerning Eureka's coming to Ozono. The sick man shook his head.

"No," he says. "I'm self-sacrificing, and all that, but somehow I can't make up my mind to let her go. I can't bear to have her out of my sight a minute. You can't begin to think, Mr. Washy—Your Name, what a comfort 'tis to me, agonizing here and suffering, to have Reddy setting down alongside of me day after day, the way she does. You can't begin to think it, mister."

I couldn't begin to think it—not without what the doctor calls "stimulants." The amount of setting down that poor, hard-working Eureka got me for wouldn't comfort anybody much, it seemed to me.

"She's my favorite child," went on Washy, swabbing his eyes. "She always was, too. Even when she was a baby I thought more of her than I done of all the others."

Eureka must have been listening, for she called from the kitchen: "Whys, pa?" she says. "When I was a baby there wasn't any others. I'm the eldest."

The invalid bounced up straight in the rocker. "That's it!" he hollers. "Make fun of your helpless, poor old father! Go ahead! pick at me and contradict me! I s'pose when I'm dead and in my grave you'll contradict me every time I speak."

He blew off steam for much as five minutes. Didn't ever remember to stop and get his cough going. Hartley turned to the door. I could see he was disappointed.

"Very well," he says. "I'm sorry. I'm sure she is just the girl we need. Good day, Mr. Sparrow."

I callate Washy wasn't expecting that. He hitched around in his chair. It had a busted cane seat, the chair did, and he had to roost on the edge of it to keep from falling through.

"Er—er—just a minute, mister," he says. "I want you to understand how I feel about this thing. If I was able to do for myself 'twould be different, but—"

Eureka came to the door then, wiping her arms on her apron.

"Why, pa," she says, "I told you I could fix that."

She went on to tell how she'd get up early every morning and cook—the meals—before she left, and how Editha would be there, and Lycurgus would split the wood and do the chores, and how she'd be home nights, and so on. She had planned everything. I liked that girl. At last her dad gave another one of his groans.

"All right," says he. "I give in. I ain't going to stand in the way. Hadn't ought to expect nothing different, I s'pose. Work and fret and slave yourself into the boneyard bringing up children, and—educating 'em and all, and then off they go and leave you Well, I'm resigned. Mr.—Mr.—What's Your Name, she can go, Eureka can—for two dollars more a week."

I actually gasped out loud. The check of him! Why, the price Van had offered was enough to hire three girls. And now this sharp wanted more.

Even Martin Hartley seemed to be set back some. But he was game. For a "mercenary" chap he was the most liberal piece of goods on the shelf.

"Certainly, Mr. Sparrow," says he. "That will be satisfactory. Good morning. Good morning, Eureka. I presume we shall see you to-morrow."

We got out of the house finally. Washy came far as the kitchen to see us off. He was smiling and sweet as syrup now. When I'd got to the walk Eureka called me back.

"Mr. Pratt," she whispered. "You tell Mr. Hartley that of course I shan't take the extra two dollars. I'll be paid too much as 'tis. But we won't let pa know."

Afore I could answer there was a yell from the dining room. I looked in and there was Washy doubled up in that rocker with his knees under his chin. He'd forgot about the busted cane seat and had set down heavy and gone through. Editha was trying to haul him out, the baby was crying and the invalid himself was turning loose the healthiest collection of language I'd heard for a good while. Eureka dove to the rescue, and I come away.

Hartley and I walked on a spell without saying much. Then he asks "Skipper, do you suppose that fellow really has consumption?"

"Humph!" says I, disgusted; "consumption of grub."

He thought a minute longer. "Poor girl," says he. "She has a hard time of it. We must see if we can't help her in some way."

CHAPTER XII.

Miss Sparrow's Diagnosis.

Eureka was on hand bright and early the next day and it didn't take me long to see that she was worth her salt. She took hold like a good one and had breakfast—and a mighty good breakfast—ready right on time. I don't know when I've enjoyed a meal like I done that one, sure all the while that I hadn't got to turn to and wash the dishes afterwards. I went out to my gardening feeling like a sick man who had turned the corner and was on the road to getting well again.

And from then on the Natural Life was easy for all of us, for quite a spell. The new girl was a wonder, so far as doing work was concerned. She'd go through Marcellus' old home like a hurricane, sweeping and dusting and singing. She was 'most always singing—that is, when she wasn't talking. She had a queer program of music, too, running from hymn tunes to songs she'd heard the boarders use over at the hotel. One minute 'twould be, "Land Ahead! Its Fruits Are Waving," and the next meeting somebody "in the shade of the old apple tree."

One day I come in and she was piping up about how everybody in her house worked but her dad, or words to that effect.

"Hello!" says I. "Did you make that up out of your head?"

"No," she says. "It's a new one that Lycurgus heard over to the Old Home house. It sounded so as if 'twas made for our family that it kind of stuck in Lys' craw and he come home and told it to me."

"Everybody works but father, and he sets 'round all day."

"I tried it on pa last night," she went on. "Thought it might jar him some, but it didn't. He said 'twas funny. Maybe I'd think so, too, if I was him."

How Hartley laughed when he heard her singing. She tickled the Twins 'most to death, anyway. She was as sharp as a whip and as honest as a Quaker parson. When her first pay day come she set her squared-toed boot down and simply would not take the extra two dollars wages. She said even a hog knew when it had enough, and she wasn't a hog. Martin told me he was going to make it up to her some other way. The Heavenlies was mighty interested in her, but not more so than she was in them.

She said I had some great confabs when we was alone together. She asked I don't know how many questions about Hartley and Van Brunt; why they was living this way, and how they used to live and all. I told her some of what Lord James had told me, but not the whole. I left out about the engaged business because (the newspapers. She said she was going to the city some day when her "affinity" showed up.

"What's your idea of a first-class affinity?" I asks, looking for information. I didn't know whether 'twas an animal or a cart.

"Well," says she, "he's got to be good-looking and have chests and chests of gold and jewelry. Further than that I ain't made up my mind yet."

She said when she did go she would sew up her money in the waist of her dress and if a confidence man or a trust or a policeman tried to get it away from her, she bet he'd have trouble on his hands.

"Policeman?" says I. "What would he be doing trying to steal your money? 'Policemen' ain't thieves."

"They ain't, hey?" she says. "City policemen ain't? I guess you ain't read much about 'em."

She read the police committee trials in a stack of three or four-year-old newspapers and they'd fixed her, far's policemen was concerned.

She didn't take any stock in Hartley's being down our way for his health. She said she had made up her mind what was the matter with him.

"What ails him," says she, "is 'Girl'."

"Girl?" says I.

"Yup. He's in love."

I set back and looked at her. Mind you I hadn't said one word about Agnes Page or the busted engagement.

"Get out!" I says, finally. "What did he come here for, then? There ain't a female native in this neighborhood that wouldn't stop a clock—present company excepted, of course."

"It don't make no difference. He's in love, and he's come here to forget his troubles. You never read 'False, but Fair, or the Bride Bereft,' did you? I thought not. Why, East Wichmouth is Glory alongside of some places that young men in love goes to. You wait. I'll find out that girl's name some of these days."

She said that Van Brunt wasn't in love, which struck me funny, knowing what I did.

'Twa'n't so very long after this that the Heavenlies and me drove to South Eastwich to visit the Fresh Air school. I don't think Hartley would have gone if it hadn't been that his name was specially mentioned in the note from Agnes. Even then Van had to say that he wouldn't go unless his chum did.

We left Eureka to keep house. It seemed to suit her first rate.

"You wait till that Scudder man comes," she says to me. "I want to talk to him about the milk he's been leaving."

"What's the matter with it?" I asks. "Ain't it giving full measure?"

"Not of milk he ain't," she says. "It's too white to wash with and too blue to drink. I'm going to tell him we've got a pump ourselves."

The Eastwich school was a big old farmhouse with considerable land around it. The youngsters had lots of room to run and carry on. All hands was at the door to meet us, Agnes and Miss Talford and Reddy, and all the inmates. The Heavenlies had stopped in the village and got a big freezer full of ice cream—they ordered it ahead—and, well, I thought we'd got a warm welcome, but when the children saw that freezer—

The ladies shook hands with us and asked us in. Lord James was there in all his glory. You could see that his new job suited him down to his shoes. No hard work, no sailing, or such like, good easy bosses and plenty of pick-up on the side. I judged I turned the horse and carriage over to him, under protest, and we went into the house.

"First of all, Ed," said the Page girl, turning to Van Brunt. "I want to thank you, on behalf of the children, for your kindness in sending them the fruit. It is delicious. You should see the deers every day when the express man comes with the basket."

Van looked puzzled. "Fruit?" he says. "I don't understand. Do you know anything about fruit, skipper?"

I pleaded not guilty. Hartley didn't seem to hear. He was busy talking with Miss Talford.

"Why," says Agness. "Doesn't it come from you? We have been receiving the loveliest basket of fruit from Boston every morning. I thought of course you had ordered it for us. Didn't you, really?"

Van shook his head. "It takes a man with the ordinary amount of brains and thoughtfulness to do things like that," he says. "I'm miles below the average in such things. In all but carelessness and general idioity I'm a bear on the market. Here, Martin! Miss Talford, please excuse him for a moment, will you? Martin are you responsible for this fruit?"

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

A Distinction.

Five-year-old Debrah had been invited to take luncheon at a restaurant with Miss K.

"Do you like cocoa?" she was asked. When the answer was "Yes," the beverage was duly brought, but remained untasted.

At last Miss K. said: "Why don't you drink your cocoa, Deborah, when you said you wanted it?"

"I didn't say I wanted it," replied the child, politely. "I only said I liked it."—Woman's Home Companion.

Overshoes for Horses.

In large cities like Chicago and New York icy asphalt pavements cause the death of hundreds of horses every winter. Many styles and shapes of shoes are now being introduced in an endeavor to stop accidents, one of the most promising of which consists of a chain tread, which can be quickly buckled on and as quickly taken off the foot of a horse without the use of tools. It is practically self-adjusting, is strong, cheap and durable.

THE PRODIGAL.

HAT is it you remember best when, after months or years, you wander home again with smiles and, maybe, happy tears?

What picture has the dearest place in memory's gallery?

It is the table where we ate and talked and drank, just as

I can see the dining-room at home—its paper's faded green—

With spaces square and oval bright, where picture frames had been.

And mother at the table's head, and in her deep-set eyes

The light that never shone on land or sea, or in the skies.

The little lapped her milk dish with loud appreciation

And Bruno driled outside the door with And all the children talked and sang—

ah me, 'neath Heaven's dome, There is no joy, no memory, like that—

English Domestic Help.

On the principle that misery loves company," it may be consoling to the woman who has trouble with servants to know that English housewives, even those of unlimited means, find it hard to secure effective service.

Prices, however, are much lower here than with us. A capable nurse may be hired for $25 a year (equivalent to $125 of our money), and at the rate of a trifle over $2 a week!

When it is remembered that her duties include washing the baby's flannels, etc., and doing the "necessary needlework," as the advertisements say, it will be more readily seen how the average English family can afford to indulge so freely in hired service.

It is interesting to note the answers to queries asked in the home journals. "Yes, the parlour-maid would have to do the dining-room and drawing-room, the housemaid doing the third sitting-room and school-room before breakfast. You do not say whether you keep a parlour maid or house parlour-maid."

"One is tempted to call it a distinction without a difference!"

From the frequent allusions to the "schoolroom" and the "governess" we are reminded of the blessings we here in America enjoy in our public schools. Here, the school room and governess are the exception—there, the rule.

People hiring servants are often and strongly advised (in the English papers) to insist upon an "interview with the late mistress."

THE SPEAKING TUBE.

HERE is a speaking tube in our old house. Back in the hall that leads down to the kitchen

And through its wide, tin mouth, the airs of Heaven

Play with a kind of spell—strange and bewitching—

Sometimes it blows a sweet and gentle murmur,

Sometimes the wind a solemn message brings. And through that speaking tube, if you will listen,

You'll hear melodious swish of angel wings.

Again the burden—a sonorous summons That thrills you like the sound of Gabriel's trumpet—

Forbodes disaster. "Say, somebody help me!"

There isn't no water, and I've broke the pump!"

When storm is in the sky, and thunder Pours through that eerie cavern with a din

That shakes the world, you listen to the message.

"Say, is it time to put the biscuits in?"

Rules for Meringue.

The proper proportion of egg and sugar is one egg to a tablespoonful of powdered sugar. Afterwards, to obtain the tiny brown puff which makes the meringue so attractive, sprinkle a light layer of powdered sugar over it. The juice of half a lemon to one pie is an improvement.

The oven must be moderate. Too hot an oven spoils any meringue.

A cook, who was making meringue, said, "My but it gives me a pingué. When the thing ought to be brown."

To see it fall down, When the oven is closed with a bingue!

Timely Tips.

To mend a lace curtain without sewing, cut a piece of net as near as possible like the mesh of the curtain to be mended. Dip the scrap in boiled starch, and while wet place it over the torn part of the curtain and iron until dry. It will adhere a long time, and is a help in an emergency.

Do not refuse the children all the sweets (pure and wholesome, like honey, fruits, jellies, etc.) which they will eat. But see that they have them at mealtime. After a meal they will not want very much, and in moderation, sweets are healthful. They supply caloric to the system, and build the tissues.

To Dry Herbs—Have ready some paper bags, prick them all over with pin pricks to exclude air without admitting dust, tie the bags and hang them in the kitchen.

To Test Mushrooms—Place a bright silver dime in the water in which the mushrooms are cooked. If it remains bright, use the mushrooms; if it turns black, throw them out.

I can see the dining-room at home—its paper's faded green—

With spaces square and oval bright, where picture frames had been.

And mother at the table's head, and in her deep-set eyes

The light that never shone on land or sea, or in the skies.

The little lapped her milk dish with loud appreciation

And Bruno driled outside the door with And all the children talked and sang—

English Domestic Help.

On the principle that misery loves company," it may be consoling to the woman who has trouble with servants to know that English housewives, even those of unlimited means, find it hard to secure effective service.

Prices, however, are much lower here than with us. A capable nurse may be hired for $25 a year (equivalent to $125 of our money), and at the rate of a trifle over $2 a week!

When it is remembered that her duties include washing the baby's flannels, etc., and doing the "necessary needlework," as the advertisements say, it will be more readily seen how the average English family can afford to indulge so freely in hired service.

It is interesting to note the answers to queries asked in the home journals. "Yes, the parlour-maid would have to do the dining-room and drawing-room, the housemaid doing the third sitting-room and school-room before breakfast. You do not say whether you keep a parlour maid or house parlour-maid."

"One is tempted to call it a distinction without a difference!"

From the frequent allusions to the "schoolroom" and the "governess" we are reminded of the blessings we here in America enjoy in our public schools. Here, the school room and governess are the exception—there, the rule.

People hiring servants are often and strongly advised (in the English papers) to insist upon an "interview with the late mistress."

THE SPEAKING TUBE.

HERE is a speaking tube in our old house. Back in the hall that leads down to the kitchen

And through its wide, tin mouth, the airs of Heaven

Play with a kind of spell—strange and bewitching—

Sometimes it blows a sweet and gentle murmur,

Sometimes the wind a solemn message brings. And through that speaking tube, if you will listen,

You'll hear melodious swish of angel wings.

Again the burden—a sonorous summons That thrills you like the sound of Gabriel's trumpet—

Forbodes disaster. "Say, somebody help me!"

There isn't no water, and I've broke the pump!"

When storm is in the sky, and thunder Pours through that eerie cavern with a din

That shakes the world, you listen to the message.

"Say, is it time to put the biscuits in?"

NORTHVILLE, MICH., JAN. 22, '09.

Bishop Williams a "Knocker."

In a Detroit speech, Bishop Williams is quoted by Detroit papers with the following:

"In the industrial school in Lansing the boys are under military and prison discipline. The boys come in chain gang step like inmates of the penitentiary. There is the atmosphere of the prison about it. Those in charge seem to be more concerned in looking after the economic conditions than the development of the boys. They pointed with more pride to the kind of belts raised than to what had been done for the boys. The impression I got while there is more of a penal institution than a reformatory."

Either Bishop Williams has been misquoted or else he doesn't know what he is talking about and if he has no more knowledge of other subjects than he has of the Lansing Industrial school he ought to go into some other kind of business.

The inmates are not under either military or prison discipline any more than the pupils at the Agriculture college or Orchard Lake academy are. To be sure they are taught military tactics, and they are nearly as proficient in it as are the U. S. troops. To be sure the teachers do not allow 750 boys to enter the dining room, the school room or the chapel in a rough and tumble foot ball manner, but it is an insult to the militia of this state and the soldiers of the United States for Bishop Williams to refer to the perfect military bearing and marching of those 750 boys as a "chain gang step." Did the bishop ever see the military parade those boys make on national and state holidays, a regiment of soldiers led by their own brass band and officered by their own members, carrying the stars and stripes with all the pride and bearing of a soldier of the regular army—we say did the bishop ever see that army marching up through the broad streets of the capitol city or across the capitol grounds cheered by thousands of real live citizens who have fear red blood in their veins? And that is what the bishop calls "chain gang step?" "There is an atmosphere of the prison about it," says the bishop. Well, where did you see it? The writer has visited the institution no less than fifty times and has failed to notice it and the dear bishop poked in his head eleven minutes and saw it all. Why bless your soul Bishop there are no grates at the windows and no bars or locks at the doors and no fences about buildings, nothing but school buildings, farms, shops, play grounds and God's open air. The boys live in cottages and each cottage is in charge of a man and his wife. The boys go to school half a day and in the other half they are taught manual training. Some of them take up farming and we dare say help raise "sugar beets" that the bishop speaks of. Some learn one trade and some another, but there isn't a school system in the state that gives the boys such advantages in the way of education and vocations as that same Industrial school, nor is there another in the whole United States that is superior to it. Bishop Williams should visit the school one more visit and then pray for forgiveness for the slander he has heaped upon the best industrial school and the best managed one in the world and the pride of Michigan.

School Notes.

[By a Pupil.]

Louis Fair is a new pupil in the Fifth grade.

Alma Thompson is a new pupil in the Kindergarten.

The Third grade is studying the history of Michigan.

Alva Savile of the First grade is back in school after a week's illness.

Most of the pupils are beginning to feel their knees shake at the thought of final exams.

The Seventh grade pupils have taken up the reading of Shakespear's "Othello."

The Third grade has a very nice Esquimaux scene on the board, which Willie Hayes of that grade drew free handed.

"Start early and avoid the rush," is evidently the Glee Club's motto, as they are working on songs for the commencement exercises.

Lucille of the Second, Glen of the Fourth and Gertrude and Gladys Hunt of the Eleventh grade are about to move to Albion.

The Second grade pupils are studying about the Esquimaux this week and have several drawings of the subject on their blackboard.

Strauss' removal sale ends Jan. 30.

SCIATIC RHEUMATISM.

The great sciatic nerve of the thigh is first afflicted, hence the name Sciatic.

RHEUMATISM

In a disease of the blood which affects the whole system. Uric acid, the one great cause of Rheumatism; it accumulates until all parts of the body are more or less affected. To remove the acid and free the blood from all impurities is the only way Rheumatism can be cured.

A Great Mistake—The frequent rubbing on of Lotions and Liniments is a source of damage rather than help.

CROCKER'S RHEUMATIC CURE in a condensed form, acting through the blood, neutralizing the uric acid, freeing the blood from all impurities, also acting on the kidneys and bowels, which is necessary in all cases of Rheumatism.

The Law on Notes.

A note made on Sunday is void. Contracts made on Sunday cannot be enforced. A contract made with a lunatic is void. A note obtained by fraud or from a person in a state of intoxication, cannot be collected. Signatures made with a lead pencil are good in law. "Value received" is usually written in a note and should be, but is not necessary. If not written, it is presumed by law, or may be supplied by proof.

English Mint's Large Profit.

Every shilling turned out by the English mint shows a profit of nearly three pence.

THE PERFECT WAY.

Scores of Northville Citizens Have Learned It.

If you suffer from backache, There is only one way to cure it. The perfect way is to cure the kidneys.

A bad back means sick kidneys. Neglect of urinary troubles follow. Doan's Kidney Pills are made for kidneys only.

Are endorsed by Northville people. Henry Priest, living on Mill street, Northville, Mich., says "Mrs. Priest and I have as great confidence in the merits of Doan's Kidney Pills today as we had five years ago, when Mrs. Priest allowed a statement telling her experience with this remedy to be published in our local papers. I have also used them and obtained the most gratifying results. I was annoyed by a severe backache which made my work burdensome. I procured Doan's Kidney Pills at Murdock Bros' drug store, and after a short use my backache vanished and I now have no trouble of the kind. Mrs. Priest suffered from a severe aching across her back, accompanied with rheumatic pains so intense at times that she could hardly get around. After using Doan's Kidney Pills all her aches and pains disappeared. We both can heartily endorse the claims made for your remedy."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

How to Fish.

On many occasions one might imagine the fish saying to the anglers: "Take me while I am in the humor; but they take no notice of it, and often attempt the feat when they are not. It is little use trying to catch fish other in the sea or fresh water when they are not in the humor to bite.—Fishing Gazette.

Melvin King, who has been clerk in T. J. Perkins & Co.'s store nearly five years, tendered his resignation this week to take effect Saturday night. He expects to leave for the west about March 1st. Melvin has a host of warm friends here who regret to lose him, but wish him every success in whatever he undertakes.

The village council has paid to Al Bowman the sum of $215 for injuries received by breaking through the Atwater street bridge while attempting to cross with E. B. Thompson's threshing engine last summer. Mr. Bowman has been unable to work since the accident and the money was very acceptable.

While sawing wood at A. P. Scott's Monday John Milburn's left hand got mixed up with the saw in some way and he nearly lost his little finger. He was taken to the house and the finger temporarily cared for until he could return home. The doctor is afraid amputation will be necessary. Mr. Milburn is thankful that he didn't lose his hand.

For a mild, easy action of the bowels, a single dose of Doan's Regulat is enough. Treatment cures habitual constipation. 25 cents a box. Ask your druggist for them.

State fair dates Sept. 2 to 10.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Leadbeater have been quite ill this week.

Mrs. Joe Weston is gaining as rapidly as can be expected.

Wilbur Harrington, who has been laid up with a sore on his foot, is able to be out again.

Miss Mabel Felix was maid of honor at her sister's wedding in Detroit Tuesday evening.

Wilbur Harrington is agent for the new book entitled, "Story of Recent Earthquake in Sunny Italy."

B. A. Wheeler has been on the sick list the past week, although not confined to the house all of the time.

W. H. Ambler and Robt. Cameron of this place have been drawn to serve on the February term of the circuit court.

Miss Myrtle Thomas, clerk in C. E. Ryder's store, has been very ill with grip at her home in Waterford the past two weeks.

R. R. McKahan has been quite ill the past week, the result of a severe cold contracted by getting into the ice pond last week.

Al Bowman and family have moved into the brick house on Randolph street, formerly occupied by Mrs. Bessie Millard.

The W. R. C. will observe "McKinley Day" at their meeting next Wednesday evening and all members are requested to be present.

Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Merrell and family were entertained at dinner at the home of their daughter, Mrs. E. A. Kohler, Sunday. There were twenty present.

There will be a special meeting of Union Chapter, No. 35, R. A. M., Wednesday evening, Jan. 27. Work, Past Master and Most Excellent Master degrees.

Commencing at 2:00 p. m. next Tuesday, Jan. 26, the K. P.'s will confer the First, Second and Third ranks on the class of thirty-three candidates. Banquet at 6:30.

County Agent S. J. Lawrence will speak in the Farmington Methodist church Sunday morning and in the evening will address the News Boys' Association on Broadway, Detroit.

The Epworth League of the Methodist church will serve a "hash" supper in the church parlors Friday evening, Jan. 29, from five o'clock until all are served. The price will be fifteen cents.

Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Simon entertained a few Detroit friends over Sunday in honor of their daughter, Anna's, birthday. She was the recipient of many very pretty presents.

A young couple came all the way from Detroit Saturday night to have Judge Joslin tie them up in the holy bonds of matrimony. We are not at liberty to give their names as they swore the judge to secrecy on that point. However, we know the judge performed his part alright.

The dates for the state fair are fixed for September 2-10 inclusive. Owing to the fact that the Ohio state fair is held the week previous, cattle will be permitted to enter the grounds on Monday. In his annual address, President Postal stated that the net profits of last year's fair amounted to about $47,000. Four years ago when he became president of the society had an indebtedness of about $225,000, of which $100,000 was original bonded indebtedness. This has been reduced by $50,000 and in addition improvements aggregating $170,000 have been made, so that now the state fair plant is easily worth $500,000.

Mrs. W. B. Benfield entertained the "Monday Night" club at her home on Monday evening.

Mrs. Wm. Fredericks was severely bitten on her arm Wednesday while trying to reduce a couple of fighting dogs to order.

Frank Perrin has given up the express office and the prospects now are that it will be moved into either A. E. Stanley's drug store or S. W. Knapp's grocery store.

The Ideal Milking Machine company will move its plant to Lansing next week where the business will be carried on at the Reo Automobile Works which company takes stock in the new organization. Frank Shafer will move to that city and have charge of the manufacturing department. A. C. Balden & Shafer retain their interest in the new concern.

The members of the Clover Whist club entertained their gentlemen friends at a banquet in Amoler's hall Monday evening. The table just groaned under the weight of good things to eat and all did ample justice to the bill of fare. After supper several games of cards were played. They all declared they had had the "time of their lives."

Methodist Church Notes.

By the Pastor:

Epworth League devotional meeting Sunday evening at 6.00 o'clock. Everybody invited.

A teacher-training class is being formed, with prospects of good interest and enrollment.

The new class formed in the intermediate department of the Sunday school begins with a good number and every promise of success.

Don't forget the hash supper to be given by the Epworth League next Friday evening in the church parlors. See announcement elsewhere.

The sermon Sunday morning will continue the series on "The More Abundant Life" the subject for that service being "His Length, Breadth and Depth."

The pastor will speak Sunday evening on "Gordon, the Hero of Khartoum." Special music by the male quartet is expected at this service. Come.

The missionary committee of the Junior League held an interesting meeting Monday afternoon. The mercy and help department also had a meeting Tuesday afternoon.

Prompt Insurance Adjustment.

As an instance of promptness in the adjustment of fire losses the New Hampshire Insurance company is certainly justified in "pointing with pride" to the case of the fire at George Chadwick's last week. In just five days Mr. Chadwick received a check for $399.41, the adjudged amount of damage. Why not insure with us? S. W. KNAPP, Local Agt.

For Aged People

Old Folks Should be Careful in Their Selection of Regulative Medicine.

With advanced age comes inactive bowel movement and sluggish liver. Nature is unable to perform her proper functions and requires assistance. Otherwise, there is constant suffering from constipation and its attendant evils. Old folks should never use physic that is harsh and irritating.

We have a safe, dependable and altogether ideal remedy that is particularly adapted to the requirements of aged people and persons of weak constitutions who suffer from constipation or other bowel disorder. We are so certain that it will cure these complaints and give absolute satisfaction in every particular that we offer them with our personal guarantee that they shall cost the user nothing if they fail to substantiate our claims. This remedy is called REXALL ORDELLES.

Rexall Ordelles have a soothing, healing, strengthening, tonic and regulative action upon the dry, relaxed muscular coat of the bowel. They produce a natural, successive contraction and relaxation of the muscular fibres of the bowel walls, generating a wave-like motion which forces their contents onward and outward; thus stimulating nature in perfect bowel movement. They also remove all irritation, dryness, soreness and weakness. They tone up and strengthen the nerves and muscles and restore the bowels and associated organs to more vigorous and healthy activity. They may be taken at any time without inconvenience, do not cause any griping, nausea, diarrhea, excessive looseness, flatulence or other disagreeable effect. Try Rexall Ordelles on our guarantee. 36 tablets 25c and 12 tablets 10c. A. E. Stanley & Co., Northville, Mich.

Her Abiding Youth.
"I am afraid I never will grow up and look like a woman," pouted the bride-to-be. "The other day, while I was having one of my new walking suits fitted and was insisting that it would have to be finished this week, the tailor asked me 'When does your school open?' And that frock is a part of my trousseau!"

Heavy, impure blood makes a muddy, pimply complexion, headaches, nausea, indigestion. Thin blood makes you weak, pale, sickly. Burdock Blood Bitters makes the blood rich, red, pure—restores perfect health.

Vanquished Bull.
"I have been committed to the hospital without doubt at the crucial moment of my life. I have been told that a bull had appeared upon the scene and yet a woman in Indiana had one the other day with a bull and vanquished the raging beast. Her courage has excited the admiration of every woman who has heard about it."

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address, F. J. Colors and Heat
Some people add to the heat of the day by the clothes they wear," announced the woman observer. "By their lack of taste they make it worse for others as well as themselves. One recent hot day I saw a woman in a black dress and a red hat. The dress was thin and the hat light; but the colors on a broiling day proved too strong for me and I was immediately driven to a soda fountain for recovery."

Some Alcohol Questions

Is alcohol a tonic? No! Does it make the blood pure? No! Does it strengthen the nerves? No! Is Ayer's Sarsaparilla a tonic? Yes! Does it make the blood pure? Yes! Does it strengthen the nerves? Yes! Is it the only Sarsaparilla entirely free from alcohol? Yes! Ask your doctor about this non-alcoholic medicine. If he approves, your confidence will be complete. J.C. Ayer Co., Lowell, Mass.

Dull boys! Dull girls! Dull men! Dull women! Heavy-headed! Downhearted! All very often due to constipation! Yet the cure is so easy—Ayer's Pills. Ask your doctor.

American Coinage.
Ninety per cent. of the coinage by the United States in the fiscal year of 1908 consisted of gold eagles, a coin which probably not one in a hundred people sees as often as once a year. Altogether the coinage of the country comprised 17 different varieties, seven of which were for the Philippine islands in pesos and centavos, and one of which of the same denomination was for account of the Mexican government. The number of pennies turned out averaged a little less than one for each inhabitant. The total coinage for continental United States was $215,714,862. This has been one of the most active years in the history of national minting. Of this amount $179,238,327 were in gold and $16,532,477 in silver, or about the ratio of one of silver to 12 of gold—Wall Street Journal.

An Indian Alphabet.
