W. C. T. U. BANQUET GREAT SUCCESS

PEOPLE PRESENT FROM DETROIT,
WYANDOTTE AND PLYMOUTH.

Toasts, Recitations and Music Greatly Enjoyed by All.

Notwithstanding the severe storm Monday night there was a large attendance at the W. C. T. U. banquet held in Ambler's hall. Mrs. Harrington, district president from Wyandotte, was present and gave a short talk on the progress of the society since its organization. Rev. J. W. Turner responded to the Toast, "Christian Citizenship." Rev. N. E. Musser, to "Spirits on Morality" and Rev. Wm. S. Jerome, "A Hard Master," each handling their subjects in an able manner. Mrs. M. E. Butler of Detroit, district contest superintendent, gave a couple of recitations which were greatly enjoyed. The program was interspersed with vocal and instrumental music.

The local order was re-organized about two years ago with eight members enrolled and it now has a membership of fifty-seven and twelve honorary members. There were also district officers present from Plymouth.

The supper was all that could be desired and everyone declared it was a feast of good things all round. Clara Kingsley and Guy Filkins furnished music during the supper hour.

Steinhebel—Thomas.

Mr. Charles Steinhebel of Plymouth and Miss Myrtle Thomas of Northville were married in Detroit Monday by Justice Ott. The groom is an employe of the Daley Mfg. Co. at Plymouth and the bride is clerk in C. E. Ryder's store here. They expect to make Plymouth their home in the future.

Dr. Spinney to Give Talk.

Dr. A. B. Spinney of the Belding Sanitarium will lecture before the W. C. T. U. in the Baptist church in Northville Sunday evening, Feb. 21. The doctor was the first professor of anatomy and physiology in the Detroit Homeopathic college. He contends that the medical profession can dispense with alcohol in handling medicines.

Card of Thanks.

To my many friends who so kindly remembered me during my recent illness and on the occasion of my eighty-first birthday, Feb. 11, I wish to herein express my appreciation. It is good to know that when one has passed the three score and ten and even the four score mark on the time clock, we still have a place in the memory of all friends and townsmen.

Sincerely Yours,
L. W. HUTTON.

THE TICKLERS BAFFLED.

HERE'S THE LATEST QUARANTINE PROC.

WAYNE, OAKLAND, MACOMB AND PART OF WASHTENAW.

Still Comes Under Regulations of Commission.

So many questions are asked relative to the quarantine regulations on live stock by persons having auction sales in view that the Record publishes the law as herewith:

The Counties of Wayne, Oakland, Macomb and the Townships of Salem Superior, Ypsilanti and Augusta in Washtenaw county are hereby quarantined and the movement of cattle, sheep, other ruminants or swine OUT of this quarantined territory is prohibited until further orders; but can be moved IN said territory.

The shipment of so-called hog-dressed calves and lambs from the counties above named is prohibited.

The movement of all live stock, hides, skins, hay, straw and other forage upon or across any public highway in the Township of Livonia, Wayne county, is prohibited except by the written permit of the State Live Stock Sanitary Commission.

All federal and state quarantine placed upon the live stock, hides, skins and forage of the state, on account of foot-and-mouth disease, excepting in the counties above named, are raised.

(Signed) H. H. HINDS,
C. A. TYLER,

Members of State Live Stock Sanitary Commission.

Funeral Largely Attended.

The funeral of Mrs. Gerry Spencer was held in the Baptist church Saturday afternoon and was largely attended. Rev. N. E. Musser officiating.

Mrs. Spencer was born in Pontiac Sept. 6, 1879, and was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Parks. In 1893 she was married to Frederick Worden. To them were born six children, four of whom still survive her. April 2, 1908 she was married to Wm. Gerry Spencer of this place. She was very highly respected and leaves a large circle of friends to mourn her untimely death.

Signed by John Quincy Adams.

A few days ago as Mrs. Alfred Cramer was going through a lot of old papers which once belonged to her father, she discovered a relic of more than usual interest, it being the original land grant by the United States, signed by John Quincy Adams when he was president, to Ebenezer Stone of New York, of the southeast quarter of section thirteen, town one south, range eight east. The land would not be far from the village of Northville in which was formerly the township of Plymouth, Wayne county. The document came to Mrs. Cramer's father through some exchange of property by him with either Mr. Stone or some of his heirs, when she was a girl thirteen years old. Although the paper is now eighty-three years old and yellowed by time, the signature of President Adams is as plain as it was the day it was written.—Sparta Sentinel.

Card of Thanks.

I thank the King's Daughters for their beautiful flowers.

MRS. L. W. SIMMONS.

Card of Thanks.

I wish to thank the many friends and neighbors who so kindly assisted me during the illness and death of my wife; also for the beautiful flowers.

W. G. SPENCER.

SUDDEN DEATH OF REV. FRANCIS ARNOLD

Former Pastor of the Baptist Church
Here.

The sudden death of Rev. Francis E. Arnold of Ypsilanti Sunday morning has severely shocked the community, where he was so highly regarded. Mr. Arnold had been subject to heart failure, and Sunday morning after a hearty breakfast at his boarding house, started to return to his home, struggling against the heavy wind. It is thought the exertion of facing the gale was too much for his weak heart.

Mr. Arnold was pastor of the Baptist church here several years ago and was well liked by everyone. He is survived by a widow and several nieces and nephews but no children.

Registration Notice.

Notice is hereby given that the Board of Registration for the Village of Northville, County of Wayne, Michigan, will meet in Murdock Bros' drug store, in the Village of Northville, in said county and state, on Saturday, March 6th, 1909, from 9:00 o'clock a. m. to 5:00 o'clock p. m. for the purpose of registering the electors of said village.

Keeps Heat "Just Right" Both Day and Night

This "boss" of the heating plant looks after your comfort, stands guard over your coal bin and safeguards the family from colds due to uneven temperature in the home.

The Jewell Controller with Time Clock attachment

is the only device that automatically provides for a higher temperature in the morning without losing thermostatic control through the night.

For example: Suppose you want to reduce the temperature of the house to 60 degrees during the night, but would like to have it at 70 degrees by the time the family arises.

Before retiring, you set back the controller to 60 degrees. Then you set the time clock attachment to bring the temperature up to 70 at seven o'clock.

In spite of any sudden changes out-doors during the night, the Controller will maintain the temperature you wish, and the faithful clock will open the drafts in time to give you the desired warmth in the morning.

And then all day the Controller goes right on keeping your house warmed "just right."

It is adapted for use with steam, hot water or hot air.

Why not unload your heating worries on the "Jewell" and save money too?

Investigate this wonderful device.

The Editor's Lot.

An exchange says: "A lawyer charges a man ten dollars for ten minutes conversation—the man insists on paying it. A doctor charges a dollar for a prescription and the patient says: 'Oh, pshaw! is that enough?' An undertaker charges a hundred dollars for conducting a funeral and he is just perfectly lovely with everybody inside and outside the family—A man buys a gold brick and apologizes for not having bitten before. An editor works a little in the hot sun to get the facts of a death or wedding or social function and spends three hours writing it up. Then if he makes an insignificant omission or charges five cents straight for three extra copies, he is a stingy, careless, good-for-nothing old cuss, who never gets anything right and charges four times the price of city paper twice as large. In fact he's confounded most any old thing and ought to be run out of town. Talk about the ice man—how would you like to run a news paper?"

Models' Earnings.

Nowadays all the leading firms of modistes employ living models. A good model can earn five to six pounds a week, the minimum wage for a "show lady" being two pounds a week. There are some models in London who are paid as much as £10 a week, and in Paris the salary of a good model in some of the best establishments runs to £12 a week. As long as a model is young and attractive her position as such is secure enough, and often very well paid, but at 30 and sometimes before, she is generally regarded as too old for the particular work required of her—that is, showing the effect of dresses when made; but if she has acquired a good knowledge of a modiste's business she is almost certain to obtain further and far more permanent employment with her own firm or elsewhere—London Tit-Bits.

Napoleon's Plan for Success.

Once in speaking of military affairs, Bonaparte told him:

"There is no more pusillanimous man than I when I make a military plan. I exaggerate all the dangers and all the mishaps possible under the circumstances. I am in a painful state of agitation. But that does not prevent me from appearing quite serene to those about me. And when my mind is made up all is forgotten except whatever may help success."—From the Journal of Count Pierre Louis Roederer.

HIGH IN CIVILIZATION'S SCALE.

Unknown Peoples of America Who Have Perished Utterly.

Between the region occupied of old by the Aztecs and the realm far to the south over which the Incas ruled lies an immense stretch of territory, a thousand miles long and 800 wide, where the remains of unknown and wonderful civilizations are being discovered, says a writer in Van Norden's Magazine. This region extends from the northern boundaries of Peru to the southern limits of Costa Rica. In one section alone along the coast of Ecuador six entirely unknown civilizations were recently brought to light by Prof. Marshall H. Saville, and vast collection of relics has been brought to New York. This collection is to be the nucleus of a great American museum, which will represent the history of ancient peoples who attained an extraordinarily high degree of civilization, yet whose very existence has been hitherto lost in antiquity.

The famed marble chairs of Rome at its zenith were not more symmetrical or beautifully carved than those of one of these unknown civilizations. No pottery of any other patterned than that found in vast quantities, as numerous almost as pebbles, on the sites where these extinct peoples dwelt. Their cloth was of truly marvelous weave; in beauty of design, richness of color and fineness of texture no fabric of to-day surpasses it.

Zinklefoot's Find

By JAMES FRANCIS DWYER

(Copyright, by Shortstory Pub. Co.)

More than ten thousand men, whose lives lost their savor through the attainment of something which they had pursued for years, have pointed out that the joy of pursuit is a thousand times greater than that of possession. Preacher Zinklefoot recognized this when a black head rose from the mosaic of white faces in response to the call of "Henry Hutton." Zinklefoot suddenly discovered that he didn't want Hutton—he only wanted to look for him.

His hunt for Hutton had commenced in a peculiar manner. Five years before, while addressing a revivalist meeting at Decatur, Tenn., a white-haired woman had asked the preacher to call the name of her wandering son at every meeting he addressed. Zinklefoot promised. "Quite unconsciously the woman had provided him with a trump act for his oratorical turn.

For the first few weeks after the duty had been put upon him, he told the story in as few words as possible, and called the name of the prodigal in a matter-of-fact way. Then the dramatic possibilities of the incident stirred him. He realized that he had a gem in his repertoire. He put on subtle touches. He braced the story with little pillars of pathos. With vivid oratorical flashes he pictured the waiting mother, and flung upon the minds of his audiences, a picture of the storm-tossed prodigal for whose return she waited. It was a unique turn. The telling of the incident and the solemn calling of the name tore the crust off the little pools of sentiment in the hearts of his male listeners, and threw the women into hysterics. It was a grand climax to his orations. It left the crowd gasping, hoping, praying and feeling mighty well disposed towards Zinklefoot, the unpaid scout of the white-haired mother of Decatur.

And after five years' of uninterrupted possession of this act that he had adapted and brought to perfection, the preacher saw it suddenly torn away from him, and the mighty kudos lost for ever. No wonder that the uprising of the black head chilled him. A hate for the stranger surged up within him. Instinctively he knew that here was the long lost Hutton, and he also knew that the white-haired mother story was gone for ever.

The black-headed man appeared at Weehawville. Zinklefoot was winding up a successful meeting, and it was the moment for the "Henry Hutton" act. He advanced to the edge of the platform and waited till the smallest whispers had been choked by the silence.

"Friends," he cried, "some years ago when speaking at Decatur, Tenn., a white-haired mother asked me to call the name of her wandering son at every meeting I addressed. She, poor woman, filled with maternal love—hungry, motherly love, stored and gathered through the years, ready to be lavished upon the prodigal, thought that he might be guided to one of my meetings to hear her message. I promised her, and I have kept my promise. Night after night, year after year, over the broad breast of the Union I have called his name, listening, waiting, hoping always to hear the answering voice that will bring joy to the heart of the little white-haired woman in far off Tennessee."

The sound of suppressed sobs came from the audience, and Zinklefoot swept up the dizzy heights of oratory that he had built up before reaching the climax. The mother at Decatur shone out like a snowy-headed angel, and tears dropped upon the green grass as he thrilled his hearers with the story of her love and devotion. At last he straightened himself and called the name of the prodigal.

"Henry Hutton!" The call went ringing through the night, and the listeners held their breath. "Henry Hutton! Henry—"

Zinklefoot's voice seemed to fall into a bottomless chasm as a black head rose in the center of the crowd. The head had the same effect upon him as a blow from a clenched fist, and he staggered.

"I'm Henry Hutton of Decatur," said the man standing.

Weehawville will not forget the scene that followed. The discovery of the prodigal was intensely dramatic, and as the inhabitants of the town had few opportunities for letting themselves go, they seized upon the one made by Zinklefoot. Men struggled to get near the wanderer; women wept hysterically. Hutton was carried shoulder high to the platform, and the preacher's commands for silence were lost in cheers and sobs. Women sobbed, men sobbed, and the prodigal sobbed. Only Zinklefoot was calm, but Zinklefoot's endeavors to calm the others were unheeded. He had stirred a monster tidal wave of sentiment that billowed around Hutton and left Zinklefoot stranded on the cold stones of neglect. Instead of being the leading actor he dropped back into the shade and stood there without a part.

The genius who always discovered the psychological moment, discovered it at that instant in the interest of Henry Hutton. He may have been a friend of the prodigal, for Weehawville was unsuccessful in locating him amongst its citizens on the following day, but over the tumult the genius announced that the wanderer would go back to the white-haired mother in Decatur at once if he had his transportation.

Weehawville shouted the information, and then proceeded to demolish the little barrier that stood between the reunion of the white-haired mother and the long lost son. Weehawville was in a generous mood. Weehawville had been tapped on its deepest vein of sentiment, and with cheers and sobs they proved that the ore was good. When silence was at last restored, the wanderer was stammering his thanks for the $33 that had been stuffed into the pockets of his ragged clothes. Then Weehawville sobbed again, and after carrying the stranger to a hotel, the inhabitants went home, still sobbing as their imaginations pictured the meeting in far off Tennessee.

At daybreak next morning Preacher Zinklefoot startled the lodgers at the hotel by banging heavily at the front entrance, and when the annoyed landlord admitted him, he yelled loudly for the prodigal.

"Left by the three o'clock mail," snapped the proprietor. "Real anxious to see his old woman again."

Zinklefoot clung to the door. "Read that," he gasped.

The landlord took the sheet of yellow paper and read aloud.

Zinklefoot, Weehawville's Henry Hutton returned two years ago. Mother dead nine months. Your man evidently a fraud.

CHIEF OF POLICE, Decatur.

The landlord stared at the distressed preacher. "If I was you," he said solemnly, "I wouldn't show that to the crowd. They'll lynch you for putting the bait on the hook so that bunco guy could land them."

But Zinklefoot didn't hear the advice. He had fainted.

GREAT GLACIER IN CANADA.

Formation of Ice Archway an Annual Phenomenon.

Eight thousand and four feet of ice high is the Yoho glacier of Canada. Since the first discovery of this largest of Canada's glaciers it has maintained a grand archway of ice at its lowest extremity. The span of this arch is no less than 250 feet and its height is estimated at 70 feet, while from beneath the arch the drainage escapes.

The formation of the arch seems to be an annual phenomenon. Toward the close of the summer it becomes weakened by melting and the whole structure collapses. The ice gradually is broken up and finally removed, and the formation of a new archway is commenced.

From the archway issues the Yoho river. It is calculated that an avalanche must have occurred in 1850 or 1860. Since then the retreat of the glacier has been at the average rate of five or six feet a year. From August, 1901, to August, 1904, it was found that the retreat had been 111 feet, or 37 feet a year. Between August, 1904, and August, 1905, the glacier receded but nine feet, and is now thought to be checked.

About the nose of the glacier there is evidence of a bodily disruption of the rock strata, to which the term "plucking" is applied. Rock layers are ripped off where the layers are thin bedded and pointed, and the fragments are pressed into the ice to assist in further work.

The Yoho glacier is an almost if not entirely isolated example of a glacier as a great engine of erosion. Other glaciers move forward and are engines of transportation.

Education Has Proved Value.

In a letter to the Boston Transcript favoring humane education in the public schools, a correspondent says: "In one public school in London, England, where, in the course of 20 years, 7,000 children were given a thorough humane education (during this period, which would make many of these boys men of 25 and 35), not one of them was ever arrested for a criminal offense, demonstrating the value of humane education to prevent crime, as well as cruelty."

Electricity for Railroads.

A company has been organized in Georgia, with a capital of $3,000,000, for the purpose of developing Suwannee falls to furnish electricity for the operation of electric railroads to be constructed in South Georgia and Florida.

Indigestion is

Ended Forever.

All Stomach Misery Vanishes
Five Minutes Later.

Eat your favorite foods without fear of Dyspepsia or any other Stomach distress.

Why not start now—today, and forever rid yourself of Stomach trouble and indigestion? A dieted stomach gets the blues and grumbles. Give it a good eat, then take Pape's Diapiesin to start the digestive juices working. There will be no dyspepsia or belching of Gas or eructations of undigested food; no feeling like a lump of lead in the stomach or heartburn, sick headache and dizziness, and your food will not ferment and poison your breath with nauseous odors.

Pape's Diapiesin costs only 50 cents for a large case at any drug store here, and will relieve the most obstinate case of Indigestion and Upset Stomach in five minutes.

There is nothing else better to take Gas from Stomach and cleanse the stomach and intestines, and, besides, one triangule will digest and prepare for assimilation into the blood all your food the same as a sound, healthy stomach would do it.

When Diapiesin works, your stomach rests—gets itself in order, cleans up—and then you feel like eating when you come to the table, and what you eat will do you good.

Absolute relief from All Stomach Misery is waiting for you as soon as you decide to begin taking Diapiesin. Tell your druggist that you want Pape's Diapiesin, because you want to be thoroughly cured of Indigestion. 29 32

The New England Spirit.

In every crisis that has come to this country the "New England spirit" has risen to the top. It may have been dormant for a time, but whenever the necessity arose it manifested itself. In the great internecine struggle it predominated; in more recent times it has asserted itself. The pilgrim blood and the pilgrim spirit have overcome all difficulties. Without them the west would be a wilderness. The pioneers of the western states were actuated by the spirit that settled New England.—Denver Republican.

Simple Recipe

In Rheumatism.

This Easily Prepared Mixture
Said to Be Splendid.

Effective in Kidney or Bladder
Trouble and makes Rheumatism vanish promptly.

To relieve the worst forms of Rheumatism, take a teaspoonful of the following mixture after each meal and at bedtime:

Fluid-Extract Dandelion, one half ounce; Compound Kargon, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces.

These harmless ingredients can be obtained from our home druggists, and are easily mixed by shaking them well in a bottle. Relief is generally felt from the first few doses.

This prescription forces the clogged, up, inactive kidneys to filter and strain from the blood the poisonous waste matter and uric acid, which causes Rheumatism.

As Rheumatism is not only the most painful and tortuous disease, but dangerous to life, this simple recipe will no doubt be greatly valued by many sufferers here at home, who should at once prepare the mixture to get this relief.

It is said that a person who would take this prescription regularly, a dose or two daily, or even a few times a week, would never have serious Kidney or Urinary disorders or Rheumatism.

Cut this out and preserve it. Good Rheumatism prescriptions which really relieve are scarce, indeed, and when you need it, you want it badly. 29-32

Her Abiding Youth.

"I am afraid I never will grow up and look like a woman," pouted the bride-to-be. "The other day, while I was having one of my new walking suits fitted and was insisting that it would have to be finished this week, the tailor asked me: 'When does your school open?' And that frock is a part of my trousseau!"

The City in Brief.

Village election March 8.
Mrs. S. D. Meersault is still very ill.
Mrs. W. E. Ambler is quite ill with grip.

The old bear and his shadow was no fake this time.

Regular meeting of Orient Chapter, O. E. S., this (Friday) evening.

Mrs. Lester Cook is much better and able to be around the house.

Bert Bradley has accepted a position with an automobile factory in Detroit.

Andrew Harmon has been confined to the house the past ten days with rheumatism.

Mrs. W. H. Ambler was seriously ill with rheumatism of the heart last week but is better.

Mrs. L. W. Simmons is ill with inflammation of the knee cap and has been confined to the bed most of the week.

The "400" club was entertained at a six o'clock dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Asa Smith Wednesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Conroy have moved from the Seeley farm near Salem and occupy a house on south Center street.

James W. Davis would like to know if any of the Record readers can tell when the night of the big wind took place in Ireland.

It kept Joe Montgomery busy cleaning off sidewalks Tuesday and then he didn't get all around. The snow was several inches deep in some places.

There will be a special communication of Northville Lodge No. 186, F. & A. M., held on Monday evening, Feb. 22, for work in the third degree. Social hour after work.

Hon. S. J. Lawrence spoke on Lincoln at Ecorse Friday afternoon and in the evening on the same subject at the Iriquois club in Detroit. He was accompanied by Mrs. Lawrence.

At the village caucuses soon to be held there will be nominated a village president and three trustees to succeed R. A. Northrop, Wm. Wattermole and C. E. Ryder, village clerk, treasurer and assessor.

While at work in the American Bell Foundry shop Saturday, John McCully fell from a step ladder and broke his knee cap. He is doing very nicely but it is a bad break and will lay him up for some time.

Paul S. L. Johnson, a converted Hebrew, will deliver a discourse on the subject of "The Bible Highway of Holiness" in the Presbyterian church Saturday evening, Feb. 20, at 7 o'clock. All welcome. Seats free. No collection.

Floyd Northrop entertained about twenty of his gentlemen friends Monday evening in honor of Harry Clark who is soon to become a benedict. Mr. Clark was presented with a beautiful leather chair as a token of the high esteem in which he is held.

Mable Birch, aged fifteen, jumped off the 3:30 D. U. R. electric as it was pulling out of the station here yesterday afternoon and struck against a telephone pole breaking her nose quite badly. Dr. Henry was called and reduced the fracture in nice shape so that no disfigurement will result.

B. O. Webster has resigned from the Pennsylvania Fish Com. at Bellefont and has accepted a place at Wild Rose, Wis., at an increased salary and a much better position as superintendent of the state hatchery at that place. Orr is a Northville boy and for many years was an employee of the U. S. fish station here.

A regular old northeast blizzard struck this place early Sunday morning and kept it up all day and all night, the snow freezing so hard that one could walk all over it. About noon Monday the storm began again and it blowed and drifted until the roads were in a bad condition, but at this time they are fine and the sleighing excellent.

The "miscellaneous" shower given Miss Elizabeth Taft Friday afternoon by Mrs. Wm. Yerkes, Mrs. Ed. Thompson, Mrs. Bert Phillips, Mrs. A. J. Riddle, Mrs. Angie Hueston, Mrs. Will Stark and Mrs. Jessie Power at the home of the latter was attended by nearly fifty ladies. Miss Taft was requested to search the house for her gifts and when at last the "hunt" was ended, she found herself in possession of a large number of beautiful and useful presents. The house was prettily decorated in pink and white. Ice cream, cake and coffee were served.

Itching piles provoke profanity, but profanity won't cure them. Doan's Ointment cures itching, bleeding or protruding piles after years of suffering. At any drug store.

SICK PEOPLE SHOULD INVESTIGATE

I Know the Diseases of Both Sexes Like an Open Book. I have Been Curing Them for 49 Years. In fact, My Entire Life Has Been Devoted to Curing Where Others Have Failed.

I Have Changed Hundreds Upon Hundreds of Nervous Wrecks Into Fine, Strong Men and Women. I Accept No Case I Cannot Cure.

ESPECIALLY invite all discouraged and dissatisfied ones who have been treated without a cure to write me fully and frankly about their case. It will cost you nothing to write me, and I will gladly tell you your condition, truthfully, honestly—accepting no case that I cannot cure—holding out no false promises. I have spent my whole life in the study and cure of chronic diseases, and my study and investigations have been blessed by the discovery of many new and marvelous methods of treating disease. For twenty years I have graduated from the Western Homeopathic Medical College of Cleveland, O., for many long years as a specialist, treating chronic diseases of all kinds with wonderful success, and am now owner of one of the largest sanitariums in the country, giving my entire time to the treatment of Nervous Diseases of both sexes. I cure the worst forms of Epilepsy, St. Vitus Dance, Paralysis, etc.

My long experience in diagnosing cases and my understanding of the different diseases that I treat enable me in almost every case to prescribe by mail a perfect, thorough cure. All correspondence in plain envelopes and sacredly confidential.

I CURE NERVOUS TROUBLES—Wasting Away, Loss of Vitality in Both Sexes. Whether from excesses or overwork, I promptly and positively cure, no matter how long standing.

I CURE BLOOD POISON—Cure Blood Poison in the first, second and third stages—driving the poison from the system, the taint from the blood; curing pimples, copper spots, sores in the mouth, tumors &c.

I CURE FITS—Epilepsy, St. Vitus Dance, Paralysis, etc., by striking direct at the cause, restoring the diseased nerves to perfect health.

I CURE PILES—in 30 days to stay cured and to never return.

I CURE CONSUMPTION, the Great White Plague, in the first and second stages. I made a special study of this disease for fifty years. Have cured hundreds of cases. Those I cannot treat at home by seeing or by mail, I will, if you send me where best of medical skill, nursing and private rooms are given, to cure you.

I GUARANTEE TO CURE, to stay cured, liquor, morphine, cocaine, etc., etc., are habits. Most cases treated at home.

Call and see me or write to either Sanitarium as below.

No matter what disease you are suffering from, write me full particulars, and my advice, which costs you nothing, may be worth hundreds of dollars. If I cannot cure you I will tell you so. WRITE TODAY.

Faithfully yours,

ANDREW B. SPINNEY, M. D.

BRINGING HIM OUT.

Asker—How is it you never speak to Duffy? I'm sure he's a diamond in the rough.
Miss Trimm—Yes, I think so, too—that's why I'm cutting him.

IN AGONY WITH ECZEMA.

Whole Body a Mass of Raw, Bleeding, Torturing Humor—Hoped Death Would End Fearful Suffering.

In Despair; Cured by Cuticura.

"Words cannot describe the terrible eczema I suffered with. It broke out on my head and kept spreading until it covered my whole body. I was almost a solid mass of sores from head to foot. I looked more like a piece of raw beef than a human being. The pain and agony endured seemed more than I could bear. Blood and pus oozed from the great sores on my scalp, from under my finger nails, and nearly all over my body. My ears were so crusted and swollen I was afraid they would break off. Every hair in my head fell out. I could not sit down, for my clothes would stick to the raw and bleeding flesh, making me cry out from the pain. My family doctor did all he could, but I got worse and worse. My condition was awful. I did not think I could live, and wanted death to come and end my frightful sufferings. "In this condition my mother-in-law begged me to try the Cuticura Remedies. I said I would, but had no hope of recovery. But oh, what blessed relief I experienced after applying Cuticura Ointment. It cooled the bleeding and itching flesh, and brought me the first real sleep I had had in weeks. It was as grateful as ice to a burning tongue. I would bathe with warm water and Cuticura Soap, then apply the Ointment freely. I also took Cuticura Resolvent for the blood. In a short time the sores stopped running, the flesh began to heal, and I knew I was to get well again. Then the hair on my head began to grow, and in a short time I was completely cured. I wish I could tell everybody who has eczema to use Cuticura. Mrs. Wm. Hunt, 135 Thomas St., Newark, N. J., Sept. 28, 1908."

When Mr. Beeton asked if he did not find many unreasonable people among his summer boarders, Farmer Joy quickly assented.

"Lots of 'em are never satisfied anyway," he said. "No matter what's done for 'em, there'll always be something wrong somewhere."

"Now last summer," he went on, with a gleaming eye, "we had a man here that was so fond of grumbling that one day he actually called for a toothpick after he'd had a glass of milk."—Youth's Companion

GEORGE WASHINGTON ANCESTORS

BY EMORY HARRING DUNLAP

WASHINGTON FAMILY ARMS

ENGLISH HOME OF THE WASHINGTON FAMILY

TRACING families to their earliest beginnings is a favorite pastime with many Americans. There are not a few who claim descent from some noble or king. European houses go back to Edward III of England some go to Alfred the Great, while millions of good people believe that they are descended direct from Adam and Eve, by way of Noah. The profession of pedigree tracing depends upon the dollar. If the price can be paid a genealogical tree will be drawn up, which finally will strike its roots into some royal tomb.

There is one famous name which can be traced back for more than 700 years. The family boasts of no royal ancestor, and it never held any hereditary title, but all through this long time its members were people of position.

In 1183—before surnames were thought of—a Norman knight named William of Herburn bought the manor of Wessington from the bishop of Durham in England. He paid four pounds in good cash for it, and also agreed to attend the bishop with two greyhounds on occasions of state huntings, and to furnish a man-at-arms when the lord bishop had any fighting on hand. This William, hereafter known as Sir William of Wessington, was the first man to bear the name, and was the direct ancestor of George Washington. The name is pure Saxon meaning the town on the marshy meadow, and the village now known as Wessington is in the coal-mining district about ten miles from Durham. The Washingtons soon spread all over the north of England, where the name still is common, and one branch of the family settled in the county of Lancashire.

From Lancashire one Lawrence Washington went up to London, to study law in Gray's Inn. He made his mark and, leaving London for Northampton, was so successful there that he twice became mayor of that city. This was in the days of King Henry the Eighth—blunt King Hal—the man who could not make his marriage ideas fit in with the ideas of the church, and so quarreled with it. Church property was confiscated on all hands, and among other fertile spots the mayor of Solgrave fell into his clutches. It was bestowed upon Lawrence Washington, who thus became lord of the manor of Solgrave in Northamptonshire and was revered by the community.

The manor house still stands. Lawrence Washington altered it to suit his own tastes, and in the carvings of both stone and woodwork and the decorations of the windows he wove his arms of Stars and Stripes.

Old fashioned folk shook their heads and said that property taken from the church never could prosper. However that may be, the family only held Solgrave for three generations. The first Lawrence had a large family of four sons and seven daughters, and his family twice intermarried with the noble Spencer family—direct ancestors of the present Earl Spencer. So when trouble came on the family the earl built a home for his kinsman in the little village of Brington in the same county. Here in the old village church Lawrence Washington, grandson of the first Lawrence, is buried, according to tradition.

Though "reduced" the family was not impoverished nor did its members lose their worthy standing. This Lawrence exceeded his grandfather in the number of his children, for 16 were born to him. Two of his sons became knights, some of his daughters married knights or other men of distinction and his fourth son also named Lawrence became a fellow of Brasenose college Oxford, and a clergyman.

Times changed quickly in those old days. Henry the Eighth and his children long were in their graves and Charles the First was on his troubled throne. As became an old country family the Washingtons, one and all were for their king, and several fought bravely against Cromwell and his parliamentary troops. While the knights fought the clergyman preached, and it is evident that he did not mince words. The parliamentarians writhed under his home-thrusts, and when they got the upper hand they did not forget him. His church was taken from him, and not content with that they published his iniquities in a book of "Malignants," a sort of rogues' gallery of those who were staunchest in the support of their king. The politicians of those days were worse than those of today. In the quaint language of the time they said that the Rev. Lawrence was a common frequenter of ale houses, not only himself sitting daily tipping there, but also encouraging others in that beastly vice, and hath often been drunk. He hath said that the parliament have more rapings belonging to them in their armies than the king had about him or in his army, and that the parliament's army did more "burn" than the king's, and that they did none at all; and hath published them to be traitors that lend to or assist the parliament.

The reverend gentleman never again made his peace with the traitors and when he died in the height of Cromwell's power, his two eldest sons, seeing their prospects blighted at home, turned longing eyes to the west. There is a suspicion that they engaged in some wild attempt to upset the government, but it failed, and they escaped on a British ship in 1657 and sailed for Virginia. The eldest boy John, a young man of about 24 when he left the old country, was the great-grandfather of George Washington. He had a son Lawrence, whose son Augustine married Mary Bell for his second wife, and to them George Washington was born on February 22, 1732. The arms of the Washingtons, woven in to the fabric of Solgrave manor house, show three stars and two red stripes on a white ground. In the little church at Brington they appear three times. In the mortuary chapel of the Spencers there, amid many noble tombs, is one tomb on which repose full length figures of Baron Spencer and his wife, who was a Washington. Among the arms carved on this tomb the Washington and Spencer arms are quartered together. In the chapel of the church they appear again over the tomb of Lawrence Washington and under the matting in the center aisle, down which the feet of the villagers pass every Sunday, they cover the remains of Robert Washington, brother of Lawrence. There they are engraved on a brass shield of which the picture here published is a rubbing. The simple inscription, touching a record of happy life, reads: "Here lies interred ye bodies of Elizabeth Washington, widow, who changed this life for immortal life ye 19th of March, 1622. As also ye body of Robert Washington, gent., her late husband, second sonne of Robert Washington of Solgrave in ye county of North, who departed this life ye 10th of March, 1622 after they lived lovingly together in this parish."

The arms of the knights of Washington—the stars and bars—were worn on their shields. On their helmets they bore a crest—sometimes a raven, sometimes an eagle. The Herald's college of London, the authority on all matters of heraldry, says: "In the red and white bars, and the stars of the shield, and the eagle issuant of his crest, borne later by General Washington, the framers of the constitution got the idea of the Stars and Stripes and the Spread Eagle of the national emblem."

PERSONAL GLIMPSES OF WASHINGTON.

In a historical tribute of more than usual interest on Washington as a Colonial Magnate, written by E. N. Vallandigham, the following is the striking introductory sentence: "That great river, the Potomac, in its tidal course, seems fitly to typify the life and character of the majestic man, Washington, who was born within sight of its banks, whose permanent home for most of his life overlooked many miles of its course, and whose tomb now dominates its waters."

The sketch concerns itself almost exclusively with the home side of Washington's career and will be read with interest by many persons accustomed to think of the father of his country only in his regimental uniform or in the presidential chair at the capital.

"Magnate as he was and the neighbor of other magnates who were notoriously pleasure-loving and fond of display," says Mr. Vallandigham, as his interesting article is near its close, "Washington retained the business instincts and habits of his family. Before he was 14 he had familiarized himself with business forms and methods, and from his early youth he was a strict and minutely careful accountant. During much of his life at Mt. Vernon he rose at daylight, breakfasted at seven in summer and eight in winter, dined at two upon meat and vegetables, drinking beer or cider, and two glasses of old Madeira, and went early to bed. He helped Peter, the slave blacksmith, to make a new kind of plow, and was so eager to try it that he actually harnessed to the invention a pair of his best horses.

Washington was essentially a man of business after he ceased to be a colonial soldier. Mt. Vernon had ten miles of water front, most of which, as the owner told a correspondent, was a fishing shore. The seine was hauled and the gill nets and purse nets were tended by the slaves, but we may be sure from Washington's habits that he often superintended the work. The Potomac of to day, in the region of Washington's birth and residence, has miles of nets staked out just as his were staked when his dusky fishermen fared forth and returned laden with the miscellaneous catch. Washington himself, according to Irving, seized a poacher whom he found in a boat on his premises lying in wait for crabsback ducks. Flour with the name of Washington stamped upon the barrel passed without inspection in British West Indian ports. Washington had great tobacco barns, such as to day show their gray shingles on the slopes as one sails the Potomac, and he shipped his tobacco, in just such hogheads as are shipped to day from half a hundred ports on the Potomac and its tributaries. These hogheads are no longer trundled directly upon their own staves over roads impracticable for wheeled vehicles, but they are still made with perpendicular, unbosomed sides just as they were in the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries.

"The world well knows the steps that converted the well contented and loyal colonial magnate of 1760, who had everything to gain from continued good relations with the mother country, into the patriot leader of 1775 and the next eight years. All through the revolutionary struggle Washington kept himself informed of the doings at Mt. Vernon, and he returned to it at the close of the war determined to resume his old occupations. His dissipation as a colonial magnate had been dinners at Belvoir and other neighboring plantations and an occasional visit with Mrs. Washington to the gay little state capital at Annapolis; whither the belles of Maryland were accustomed to ride on horseback with their hoops looped up somehow, in order to dance all night at the balls for which the infant city was famous. Even the long war the anxieties of the critical period that followed, and the burdens of the presidency, left Washington with the simple instincts and habits of the country magnate and man of business. He wrote to a friend in those latter days that he had found Mt. Vernon in need of careful attention on his return from the army. Friends were welcome, but they must expect simple fare—a bit of mutton and a glass of wine were all the table boasted. Later still, after Washington had definitely laid aside the cares of state, Col. Carrington found at Mt. Vernon still marked simplicity. The veteran upon the occasion of Carrington's visit went to bed at midnight instead of nine o'clock, extending his time three hours in honor of his guest. Mrs. Washington always spoke of her official life with its loves and formalities as "her lost days" and Mrs. Carrington found her in her own rooms, with a chambermaid knitting in one corner, and a little negro learning to sew in another. The first lady of the White House was even then knitting gloves and stockings for friends and dependents. It was of this period, or perhaps a few years earlier, that an English actor tells a pleasant story. He was on the public road somewhere near Mt. Vernon when a private coach was upset. The occupants, a fine lady and her escort, almost angrily demanded help. While the actor was doing what he could, a large man rode up on horseback, dismounted, rendered effectual aid for which he received scant thanks, and started the ill-mannered pair upon their journey. Then the stranger turned to the actor, recognized him and recalled the fact of having seen him more than once upon the stage. By this time the actor in turn had recognized the man on horseback as Gen. Washington. The incident closed with the actor on his way to dine at Mt. Vernon.

For most of us to-day that giant figure in the background of our short national history suffices to hide the perspective of the earlier Washington in his successive stages as a colonial American. Nevertheless, the plain planter and provincial soldier, called upon to lead a new nation in war and in peace, and to take an unwilling hand in world politics, must always have thought of his later life in relation with his humbler past. Whoever would know Washington in his entirety must not content himself with reading American history from Bunker Hill to the middle of John Adams' administration, and standing bare before the tomb at Mt. Vernon.

"He must visit the Northern Neck, where Washington, even at his greatest, loved to live an equal among his neighbors; he must see Fredericksburg, with the still standing homestead of Washington's mother and the house of his sister; he must take the delicious walk from Wakefield wharf to the lonely birthplace monument in the great wheat field overlooking the Potomac, see the very plantations that the schoolboy of 1740 looked upon, hear the mad mockingbirds as he must have heard them. Above all, such a student must navigate the lovely waters of the Potomac in its lower course, where the stream and its tributaries spread and branch like an inland sea; must hear the homely speech of the native population to whom the name Washington connects not only the dead hero, but their living neighbors of one blood with the first president."

BROKEN REST.

A Back That Aches All Day Disturbs Sleep at Night.

Thomas N. McCullough, 321 So. Weber St., Colorado Springs, Colo., says: "Attacks of backache and kidney trouble began to come on me, lasting often for three weeks at a time, and I would be unable to turn in bed."

The urine was much disordered, containing sediment, and my rest was broken at night. Relief from these troubles came soon after I started taking Doan's Kidney Pills, and continued treatment entirely freed me from kidney trouble. The cure has been permanent."

Divine Right of Kings.

The divine right of kings is a doctrine promulgated in England in the seventeenth century, which asserts that kings held their authority by divine appointment and as earthly representatives of the deity. This doctrine relieved the sovereign of all responsibility toward his subjects and gave him absolute claim to their obedience.

Origin of "Simon Pure."

Simon Pure is a character in Mrs. Centlivre's comedy, "A Bold Stroke for a Wife." He fell in love with a charming girl and after being counterfeited by an impostor succeeded in establishing his identity, proving himself to be the Simon Pure. The expression then came to be used to mean the real article, or something genuine.

A Bad Catch.

Harrying out on hearing a commotion, I found that it was my little three-year-old sister, Muriel, whose cap and hair were covered with blood. Interesting Facts

A. E. Stanley & Co. Offer to Cure Catarrh. The Medicine Costs Nothing if They Fail.

When a medicine effects a cure in 98 per cent of cases, and when we offer that medicine on our own personal guarantee that it will cure the user nothing if it does not cure Catarrh, it is only reasonable that people should believe us, or at least put our claim to a practical test when we take all the risk. These are facts which we want the people of Northville to substantiate. We want them to try Rexall Muc-Tone, a medicine prepared from a prescription of a physician whose specialty was Catarrh and who has a record of thirty years of cures to his credit.

We sell more bottles and receive more good reports about Rexall Muc-Tone than we do of all other catarrh remedies sold in our store, and if more people only knew what a thoroughly dependable remedy Rexall Muc-Tone is, it would be the only catarrh medicine we would have any demand for.

Rexall-Muc-Tone is quickly absorbed and carried by the blood until it thoroughly disintegrates and cleanses the entire mucous membranous tract, destroys and removes the parasites which injure and destroy the membranous tissues, soothes and heals the irritation and soreness, stops the mucus discharge, builds up strong, healthy tissue, relieves the blood and system of diseased matter, stimulates the mucous cells, aids digestion and improves nutrition until the whole body vibrates with healthy activity. In a comparatively short time there is a most noticeable gain in weight, strength, good color and feeling of buoyancy.

We urge you to try Muc-Tone, beginning a treatment today. At any time you are not satisfied, simply come and tell us, and we will quickly refund your money without question or quibble. We have Rexall Muc-Tone in two sizes, 50c and $1.00. A. E. Stanley & Co., Northville.

WHEN HER BACK ACHES.

A Woman Finds All Her Energy and Ambition Slipping Away.

Northville women know how the aches and pains that come when the kidneys fail make life a burden. Back ache, hip pains, headaches, dizzy spells, distressing urinary troubles, all tell of sick kidneys and warn you of the stealthy approach of diabetes, kidney and Bright's disease. Doan's Kidney Pills promptly cure all these disorders. Here's proof of it in a Northville woman's words.

Mrs. A. J. Harger, Center St., Northville, Mich., says: "I have known of Doan's Kidney Pills for some time and can recommend them as a most valuable remedy for backache. For a long time I suffered from pains in my back, often so severe that it was hard for me to do my housework. Doan's Kidney Pills procured at Durand Bros' drug store, gave me the only remedy that ever gave me relief. Since using them I have been in better health than for a long time." Education in America. Board speaking, the educational systems and institutions of the United States, public and private, enrolled in 1906-07 in the neighborhood of 19,000,000 pupils of all grades and classes. About 20 per cent. of the total population attended the common schools for a longer or a shorter period. This percentage had been pretty nearly stationary for 30 years. In the meantime, however, the average length of the common school year had advanced from 130 days to a little over 150 days, and the percentage of those enrolled who were on the average in actual attendance each day of this longer school year had advanced from 62 per cent to 70 per cent.—Report of the Commissioner of Education.

Fishes of the Zambesi.

Two important collections of fishes recently received at the London Natural History museum will permit for the first time a complete study of the ichthyology of the Zambesi region of Africa. Among the 168 specimens of the two collections, 19 new species are represented, and they give a total of 140 species of the Zambesi. Among the most interesting species of the region are fresh water representatives of two essentially marine genera, the pipe-fish and the shark.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address, F. J. We the undersigned, having been appointed by the Probate Court for the County of Wayne, State of Michigan, commissioners to receive, examine and adjust all claims and demands of all persons against said deceased, do hereby give notice that we will meet at the residence of Stephen V. Miller, No. 740-14th avenue, Detroit, in said County, on Thursday the 16th day of April A. D. 1909, and on Friday the 17th day of June A. D. 1909, at 10 o'clock a. m. of each of said days, for the purpose of examining and allowing said claims, and that four months from the 11th day of February A. D. 1909 were allowed by said court for creditors to present their claims to us for examination and allowance. Dated, February 11, 1909. JOHN E. CRAWFORD, WM. H. HUTTON, Commissioners.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that on January 28th, 1909, there was filed with the Clerk of the Circuit Court for the County of Wayne, State of Michigan, the petition of Mary E. Fuller, trustee, Cameron D. Waterman and Ernest T. Tappay, the undersigned for the vacation of the following described property: All those certain lands and premises situate and being in the Village of Northville, County of Wayne, State of Michigan, described as Blocks A and B, except lot number 22 of Block B, of Clover Condensed Milk Company's Addition to the Village of Northville, Wayne County, Michigan, according to the plat thereof recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds for the County of Wayne, State of Michigan, in Liber 18 of Plats on page 47, being and constituting the entire said Clover Condensed Milk Company's Addition to the Village of Northville, County of Wayne, State of Michigan, except lot number 22 of Block B, of said addition, being situate in the said Village of Northville, together with all and singular the hereditaments, appurtenances, reversion and reversions thereunto belonging, in any wise appertaining. The said petition is now pending in said court, and the said petitioners will make application to said court upon and in pursuance to said petition on Monday, the first day of March, A. D. 1909, at the opening of said court on said day or as soon thereafter as counsel can be heard. Dated, Northville, Wayne County, Michigan the 28th day of January, 1909. MARY E. FULLER, trustee, CAMERON D. WATERMAN, ERNEST T. TAPPAY.
