Auction Sale.

James Boyle, on the Chas. Coldren farm 1 1/2 mile east and 1/2 mile south of Salem, will have an auction sale Monday, Mar. 15, commencing at 12 o'clock noon. Horses, cows, sheep, hogs, farm implements, grain, etc. Frank Boyle, auctioneer.

Death of William Tapp.

The many friends of William Tapp were pained to hear of his death which occurred at the home of his mother, Mrs. A. Tapp, of New Hudson on March 1, after a long and painful illness.

Mr. Tapp was born in Bremer Co., Iowa, on Feb. 12, 1874 and came to Michigan in 1891 and for a few years resided in Northville and was a member of the Northville Methodist church.

He was particularly devoted to his mother, who has the sympathy of the many friends in her sad bereavement, he being the first to pass to the great beyond of a family of eight children.

William Tapp was married to Miss Minnie Foreman of Salem in 1901, her death having occurred three years ago.

He is survived by a mother, three sisters and four brothers as follows: Mrs. Georgia Bennett of Ruddell, Canada, Richard of Northville, Wilbur, Charles and Bert Tapp. Mrs. Larnard Rice and Mrs. Wesley Worden of New Hudson.

The funeral was held from the Methodist church at New Hudson last week Wednesday and was largely attended. Rev. W. G. Stephens of Fowlerville assisted by Rev. Mr. Bartrum of South Lyon officiating. The remains were laid to rest by the side of his wife in the New Hudson cemetery.

Card of Thanks.

We desire to thank the F. & A. M. for flowers sent during the illness of Mr. Smitherman.

MR. AND MRS. GEO. SMITHERMAN.

OIL DEPT. MADE GOOD SHOWING

TURNED IN NEARLY $12,000 ABOVE EXPENSES.

Department Has Inspected Over 21,000,000 Gallons.

State Oil Inspector Neal has made his final yearly report to the department at Lansing and paid to the State Treasurer above all expenses the neat little sum of $11,765.32.

In detail the financial part of the report is as follows:

Gallons inspected and approved 21,131,206. Rejected 2,550.

Receipts $42,710.70; Interest $185.58.

Total $42,896.28.

Expenses and salaries $31,130.96.

Paid to state treasurer $11,765.32.

A bill has been introduced and has passed the House providing that merchants shall keep gasoline for sale in tanks, barrels, etc., that are bright red and labeled gasoline, and oil companies are required to deliver gasoline to dealers in red-painted buckets, etc. The legislature believes this will be an additional safety to the public, in connection with the present law requiring the delivery to customers be made only in red cans.

An Enjoyable Event.

Mrs. Louis Haab and Mrs. Bert Stanbro gave a "miscellaneous" shower on Saturday at the Stanbro home for Miss Beatie Clark of Salem. Just before the dinner hour all were invited into the parlor, where a mock marriage took place. Miss Freda Waters acted as the groom and Miss Dawn Clark as the bride. Mrs. Jay Clark recited the ceremony that united the "affinities" for the time being. Miss Flora Waters played the wedding march. After the happy couple had been deluged with congratulations and advice all repaired to the dining room where an elaborate and faultless dinner was served to the thirty invited guests. The rooms were tastefully decorated in pink and white. Miss Clark received many beautiful and useful presents, which in the future will serve to remind her of the associates of her girlhood days.

Rare Treat for Northville.

One of the finest literary and musical treats Northville has ever enjoyed has been secured for next Tuesday evening, March 16, by the Library board, as the ladies fully believe. All who love beautiful thoughts beautifully expressed should hear Ivan Swift, the celebrated author of "Fagots of Cedar" in his readings and impersonations in the Library. Mr. Swift, who, by the way, is a relative of the late Dr. J. M. Swift, is a northern Michigan poet-artist whose writings are sought by our highest class magazines and who is unmistakably a genius. He is recognized as one of the foremost nature poets of his day—or any other. His gift of insight for the beauty and poetry of the familiar and homely things of life and for giving these again to the world in their true, glorified meaning, seems little short of marvelous.

A scarcely less important feature is that Mr. Swift is to be accompanied by the well known violin artist, Wm. Leggett of the Detroit conservatory of music, which fact is of itself an attraction worth the price of admission. The ladies are not this time appealing for patronage on behalf of the Library. They feel that the intellectual benefit to the community conferred by a high-class entertainment like this will be a sufficient reward to all concerned.

The general price of admission has been placed at 25 cents, but tickets will be sold to all school pupils at 15 cents.

Mrs. Joseph Leadbeater Died Wednesday.

Mrs. Maria Leadbeater, nee Harwood, wife of Joseph Leadbeater, departed this life Wednesday, March 10. Their former home was in Canada but years ago they moved to Michigan settling on a farm near Novi but about twenty years ago they came to Northville where they have since lived near the P. M. railway on the north side of the town. She was mother of four children, two of whom with her husband and two brothers besides a host of relatives and friends survive her.

The funeral was held this morning from the Baptist church; interment in the Yerkes cemetery east of town. Rev. N. E. Maser officiated.

Bookworms.

There is no doubt that all books kept for a long time in libraries and other places become the abode of the germ and microbe.

William Maloin Dead.

William Maloin, a former well known Northville resident, died last Thursday in Toronto, Canada, where he with his family moved some time ago in search of better health. Mr. Maloin was brother-in-law of Mrs. Myron Taylor of this place. He was about 40 years of age and was an industrious and kindly man.

ANYTHING IN YOUR EYE?

Many people who come to us for Eye examination imagine that there is some foreign substance in their eyes. We can sometimes hardly convince them that these gritty, sandy, scratching, irritating conditions are symptoms and effects due to refractive errors which may be corrected by the use of proper glasses.

LET US TAKE THE GRIT OUT.

Keeps Heat "Just Right" Both Day and Night

This "boss" of the heating plant looks after your comfort, stands guard over your coal bin and safeguards the family from colds due to uneven temperature in the home.

The Jewell Controller with Time Clock attachment is the only device that automatically provides for a higher temperature in the morning without losing thermostatic control through the night.

For example: Suppose you want to reduce the temperature of the house to 60 degrees during the night, but would like to have it at 70 degrees by the time the family arises. Before retiring, you set back the controller to 60 degrees. Then you set the time clock attachment to bring the temperature up to 70 at seven o'clock.

In spite of any sudden changes out-doors during the night, the Controller will maintain the temperature you wish, and the faithful clock will open the drafts in time to give you the desired warmth in the morning.

And then all day the Controller goes right on keeping your house warmed "just right."

It is adapted for use with steam, hot water or hot air.

Why not unload your heating worries on the "Jewell" and save money too?

Investigate this wonderful device.

A Real Man.
A real man is one who reaching his home is met at the gate, door, or in the house by his children, who grab him around the neck, hug and kiss him and maul him in general; their action to be followed by a hearty reception by the wife and mother. It is possible for such a man to be a gentleman, but many "gentlemen" are not real men.

Hung by Wedding Ring
While a woman named Gregson, of Swadlinco, England, was placing a penny in her gas meter she slipped, and her wedding ring caught on a nail in the wall. She remained hanging for some time before help arrived. The ring had to be removed by a jeweler before the doctor could dress her injured hand.

Concrete Also Is New-Old.
Concrete itself is, of course, very old. The concrete stairs of Colchester and Rochester castles still show the marks of the encasing boards; the dome of Agrippa's Pantheon, which is 143 feet in diameter, is of concrete; and fragments of concrete buildings are found in Mexico and Peru.

Command Respect and Love.
Beauty of achievement, whether in overcoming a hasty temper, a habit of exaggeration, in exploring a continent or guiding well the ship of state, is always fascinating, and those who are in this fashion beautiful are never desolate, and some one always loves them.—Frances E. Willard.

Gives Strength to Character.
Poverty is uncomfortable, as I can testify; but nine times out of ten the best thing that can happen to a young man is to be tossed overboard and compelled to sink or swim for himself.—James A. Garfield.

Ocean Waters.
A ton of water from the Atlantic ocean, when evaporated, will yield eight pounds of salt; a ton from the Pacific, 79 pounds, and a ton from the Dead sea, 187 pounds.

Mother Knows.
When the children are told what a smart man their father is they look at their mother as if asking her if they are to believe it.—Alchison Globe.

Highest of All Duties.
To bring a child to the realization of the divine nature within him seems to me to be the highest duty of parents and educators.—Channing.

The Voice of Experience?
One trouble about knowing too much is that you waste a lot of valuable time trying to explain things that others can understand them.

Inexorable.
"Absent-minded, is she?" "I should say so. She's the kind of woman who would go to a bridge party without her rings."—Bellman.

SYNOPSIS.
Mr. Solomon Pratt began comical narration of story, introducing well-to-do Nathan Scudder of his town, and Edward Van Brunt, a New Yorker seeking rest. Because of latter pair's lavish expenditure of money, Pratt's impression was connected with lunatics Van Brunt, it was learned was the successful suitor for the hand of Miss Agnes Page, who gave Hartley, up a farm. Eureka Sparrow, a county girl, was engaged as a cook and Van Brunt and Hartley paid a visit to her father, who for years had been claiming credit as an excuse for not working. Upon another island visit by Miss Page, Eureka diagnosed Hartley's case as one of love for Agnes. At a lawn fete, Van Brunt shocked the church community by raising a quilt for the church's benefit. Hartley invented a plan to save Washington Sparrow from the wrath of Miss Page, for whom the "sick man" sent. Agnes then appealed to Van Brunt, Sparrow to escape the treatment proclaimed himself well and went to work. Storm-bound on Ozone island, Van Brunt and Hartley tried of the "Natural Life."

CHAPTER XVII.—Continued.
I expected for sure that they'd lick Nate Scudder for charging his dry season rates for secret keeping. But they never mentioned it to him. When I spoke of it to Van Brunt, he laughed. "Oh, Scudder's all right," he says. "He had a corner in secrets and squeezed the shorts, that's all. That's legitimate. Scudder has a talent of his own."

"Yes, and he's making it ten talents in a hurry, like the feller in Scripture," says I.

"Well, he doesn't hide it in a napkin, anyway," laughs Van.

"No," says I. "I believe he uses one of Huddy Ann's stockings."

About three o'clock we got into the skiff, the three of us, and rowed to the main. "Twas a hard wet row. I judged the gale wa'n't all over yet. We waked up as far as Nate's and there he was waiting in his buggy to drive Van Brunt to the Wellmouth depot. Martin and Van said good-by and had a final pow-wow over the Tea Lead. "Good-by," says I. "Ain't got any real gilded expensive secrets you want kept while you're gone, have you?" I'd like to squeeze a short or two, myself."

You ought to have seen Nate Scudder bristle up and glare at me. But his passenger only laughed as usual.

"No," he says, "not a one. My conscience is clear. But I may unearth a few while I'm away."

Well, he did. But not the kind he expected.

I had to step into Nate's house to get a few eggs. Our own hens was too weighted down under the Natural to be working overtime. Huddy Ann had the remnants of a nipped blue set of dishes that was handed down from her great aunt on her grandmother's side, and she thought maybe Hartley'd be interested at a dollar a rick. It took so long to make her believe he wa'n't, that we wasted an hour or more there. When we got to the hill by the beach 'twas 'most five o'clock.

"The wind's hauled clear around,"

"We was silent for a second. Then Eureka jumped up in the buggy and clapped her hands.

"You can get him!" she cried, her black eyes snapping sparks. "Oh, you can!"

"How?" Martin and me said together.

She pointed towards Ozone island. "The sailboat!" she said. "The Dora Bassett! Sail over in her. Then he'll come on the morning train."

I swung around and looked at the waves and the clouds. Wapatomac was clear across the bay miles and miles away. And a night like this was likely to be!

"Lord!" says I. "It's crazy. AWe'd never live."

But Martin Hartley was already half way to the skiff. Of course he didn't know the risk, and I did, but—well, there.

"I'll go," says I to Eureka. "You head for the school fast as your horse can travel. Tell the Page girl not to let Duncan touch the boy till the Jordan man comes or the tram comes without him. You understand?"

"Got bet you!" says she. "It's splendid! We'll save the boy and Mr. Hartley will be all right with her. Oh, I'm so glad Mr. Van Brunt wa'n't here!"

She whirled the horse around and off she went. I gave one more look at the weather and then ran after Hartley. Save the boy! A considerable bigger chance of not saving ourselves. Well, my school teacher always used to say I'd be drowned some day. If I wa'n't hung first.

I had one reef in when the Dora Bassett swung clear of the outside point of Ozone island cove. I hated to take another, for I wanted to make time. But I had to take it afore we tackled at the end of the first leg. 'Twas pretty nigh a dead beat and the sloop was laying over till I thought sure she'd fill. The waves was as big, almost, as ever I see in the bay; and when one would fetch us on the starboard bow the biggest half of it would shoot clean from stem to stern. We was soaked afore we'd hardly started. It couldn't have been much worse unless 'twas the middle of February.

I had the tiller and Hartley was for'ard in the cockpit. I was using the mainsail altogether, although later on I did use some of the jib to help her point up to wind'ard. There was plenty of water and would be for hours, so I could give her the centerboard full. That didn't bother us—not then.

I was too busy to speak and Martin didn't seem to care to. He set there, looking out ahead, and when he turned, so's I could see his face, it was set and quiet. And in his eyes was the look that I'd seen there once afore—the day of the pig race. I wouldn't have known him for the reckless, lazy chap he'd been for the last month or so.

The only thing he said to me at this time was, as I remember it, something like this:

"I know that Dr. Jordan," he says. "I met him at Cambridge at a football game. I was there at college and father came over for the game. The doctor was one of father's friends."

"That's lucky," says I. "Maybe that'll give you some pull."

"Perhaps so," says he. "If he won't come," I asks, "what'll you do?"

"He'll have to come," was all the answer he made.

Even this little mite of talk meant hollering your lungs loose. The wind was rising all the time, the sea kept getting more rugged as we got where the bay was wider, and the splashing and banging was worse than a water-wheel working double watches. After awhile I made Hartley set side of me, so that, when I wanted anything, I could grab his arm.

This was after it got dark. And it got dark early. Likewise it begun to rain. The storm that we'd had for the last few days seemed to be blowing back over us. Seems as if it ought to have rained and blown itself out by this time, but we had proof that it hadn't.

We wa'n't making scarcely anything on our tanks. The Dora Bassett's a good wind'ard boat, too, but she'd fall off and fall off. By and by the dark and rain got so thick that I couldn't see the shore lights, and I had to run by compass and guess. There wa'n't likely to be any other blame fools afloat to run into us, still I gave Hartley a horn to blow in case there should be.

"Twas lucky I did. Along about 12, when we was somewhere in the middle of the bay—off Sandy Bend, I should think—it seemed to me that I heard a toot in answer to one of Hartley's. He heard it, too, I guess, for he commenced to blow hard and fast. I wa'n't much use, for anything that was to wind'ard of us wouldn't have heard a sound and we only heard that one, I judge, as the noise was blown past us down the gale. We listened and listened, but no more come.

All at once we both yelled. Out of the muddle of rain and black comes poking a big jumbo and a bowsprit. Next minute a two-master, with only a jib and reefed to sail set, went booming by us just under our stern. I could see a wink of her for'ard lights and a glimpse of a feller holding a lantern by her rail and staring down at us. His face was big-eyed and scared. I've wondered since how ours looked to him. All the rest was black hull and waves and roaring. A mackerel boat trying to run into Naubekick harbor, I guess she was. I callate the afternoon hull had fooled 'em into trying.

We didn't say nothing. Only Hartley looked up at me and grinned. I could see him in the lantern light. I shook my head and grinned back. All the time I kept thinking to myself: "Sol Pratt, you old gray-headed School Notes.

(By a Pupil.)

The Fifth grade has new reading books.

The B Sixth pupils are learning "Snowflakes."

The Seventh A pupils are reading the "Tempest."

The Sixth grade pupils are making relief maps of the United States.

The Fourth grade pupils have been drawing and painting soldiers.

George Mincer and Opal Merritt are new pupils in the Kindergarten.

Walter Ryder of the Third grade, who has been ill, is back in school again.

The Sixth grade has a shamrock calendar and border on their black board.

Alene Thompson of the First grade, who has been absent four weeks, has returned.

The Savvie twins of the First grade are back in school after having the measles.

The B Fifth pupils are learning "School Days" and the A class "Lullaby of an Infant Child."

The Junior Musical Friday afternoon was a decided success, the net receipts being a little over $16.

Electric lights are now being put in the High school room which adds greatly to the appearance of that room.

When the birds come back from the south the Second grade pupils hang a picture of them on their blackboard.

Daniel Parmenter and Walter Elliott of the Kindergarten celebrated their birthdays on Friday and Wednesday afternoons.

The Second grade pupils are studying about Holland this week and have several drawings on their blackboard, among them tulips, windmills and Dutch children.

Choate's Humorous Comparison. Chief Justice Shaw of Massachusetts, one of the greatest lawyers of his time, was a plain, practical man, and looked in his old age, as he sat on the bench, somewhat like a Chinese idol, and he used frequently to cut off Mr. Choate's eloquence by calling him back to the plain facts. At a bar dinner Choate was called upon to toast the chief justice, and what he said was this: "We regard our chief justice as the heathen regards his idol. We know that he is ugly, but we feel that he is great."

Pipe Lines for Oil.

The first pipe line used for oil in the United States was a small affair—six-inch in diameter. This was in 1865. By 1879 there were lines five inches in diameter and 100 miles long. To-day the line from Oklahoma to New York, by way of Chicago, measures nearly 1,500 miles, and our enormous annual production of petroleum is transported chiefly through these lines. The price of this transportation, from the oil fields to the Atlantic coast, is only about three cents a barrel, or, if interest and cost of replacement every 14 years be taken into account, 11 cents a barrel. Pipe lines are now common in other petroleum-producing countries, notably in the neighborhood of Baku, where one line across the Caucasus range is nearly 600 miles long.

DOING THEIR DUTY.

Scores of Northville Readers Are Learning the Duty of the Kidneys.

To filter the blood is the kidney's duty.

When they fail to do this the kidneys are sick.

Backache and many kidney ills follow.

Urinary trouble, diabetes.

Doan's Kidney Pills cure them all.

Northville people endorse our claim.

Henry Priest, Mill St., Northville, Mich., says: "I have, as much confidence in Doan's Kidney Pills today as I had five years ago. At that time I was annoyed by severe backache which made my work difficult to perform. I at last procured Doan's Kidney Pills at Murdoch Bros. drug store and in a short time the backache vanished. There has been no return of the trouble since and I am pleased again to recommend Doan's Kidney Pills."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents.

Simple Recipe
In Rheumatism.

This Easily Prepared Mixture
Said to be Splendid.

Effective in Kidney or Bladder
Trouble and makes Rheumatism vanish promptly.

To relieve the worst forms of Rheumatism, take a teaspoonful of the following mixture after each meal and at bedtime:

Fluid Extract Dandelion, one half ounce; Compound Kargon, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces.

These harmless ingredients can be obtained from our home druggists, and are easily mixed by shaking them well in a bottle. Relief is generally felt from the first few doses.

This prescription forces the clogged-up, inactive kidneys to filter and strain from the blood the poisonous waste matter and uric acid, which causes Rheumatism.

As Rheumatism is not only the most painful and tortuous disease, but dangerous to life, this simple recipe will no doubt be greatly valued by many sufferers here at home, who should at once prepare the mixture to get this relief.

It is said that a person who would take this prescription regularly, a dose or two daily, or even a few times a week, would never have serious Kidney or Urinary disorders or Rheumatism.

Cut this out and preserve it. Good Rheumatism prescriptions which really relieve are scarce. Indeed, and when you need it, you want it badly.

The Publisher's Claims Sustained

UNITED STATES COURT OF CLAIMS
The Publishers of Webster's International Dictionary allege that in fact, the popular Unabridged Dictionary is not the highest authority in accuracy of definition, and that in fact it is the lowest. We are of the opinion that this allegation is most clearly and accurately described in the work that has been accomplished and the result that has been reached. The Dictionary, as it now stands, has been thoroughly revised in every detail, has been corrected in every part, and is admirably adapted to the larger and more comprehensive requirements of a generation which demands more of popular philological knowledge than any generation that the world has ever contained.

It is perhaps needless to add that we refer to the Dictionary in our judicial work as the highest authority, in accuracy of definition, and that in fact it is the lowest in the last it will be the source of constant reference.

THE GRAND PRIZE (the highest award) was given to the International at the World's Fair, St. Louis.

The City in Brief.

Rain Tuesday and a blizzard Wednesday.

Cardboard of the St. Patrick green for sale at the Record office.

Fred L. West has been confined to his home by sickness the past two weeks.

Mrs. Moserall is much improved in health and is able to be out of doors a little bit.

The B. U. R. will put on hourly service via Plymouth and Wayne commencing May 1st next.

Mrs. Lydia Hubbard was again called to Midland Tuesday by the serious illness of her grandchild.

Geo. Herrick has sold his farm west of Northville to E. C. Dickinson. Chas. Decker negotiated the sale.

Mr. and Mrs. George L. Darby have moved into Mrs. Predmore's house, corner Cady and Church streets.

Win Gorton's new store on Main street is a fine looking and the display of clothing and gents furnishings is simply swell.

The coal season ought to be over with but isn't by any means. The ice season ought to be most here but that, too, isn't.

Next thing on the program is township election. It is understood that all the present officers will be candidates for re-election.

B. Freydl is fitting up his store and will open Saturday with a big line of clothing, furnishings and tailor goods. See ad. in this issue.

Mrs. Alice Postal was taken ill Monday and was confined to the house for a few days. She is better now and able to be out again.

Mrs. Hansford has been ill with a severe attack of grip at the home of her daughter, Mrs. R. A. Grant, the past week. She is some better now.

The Methodist Ladies Aid will give a St. Patrick party in Ambler's hall next Wednesday afternoon and evening. A good time is promised to those who attend.

Special Communication of Northville Lodge, No. 186 F. & A. M., will be held in Masonic Temple, Monday evening, Mar. 15th, for work in the E. A. degree. 7 o'clock sharp.

Through the efforts of Congressman Townsend, Harry Wood has been granted a special pension of sixteen dollars per month. Harry was in the late war in the Philippines and had a good record.

The fourth annual meeting of the American Berkshire Congress will be held in the Michigan Agricultural college 16th, 17th and 18th of this month. All farmers and breeders of swine are invited to be present.

Through the efforts of Congressman Townsend, James Hamilton has been granted a pension of thirty dollars per month. The case is a very worthy one and congress never granted a more worthy act than that.

This section of the country was visited by a severe sleet storm early Tuesday morning, which did considerable damage to telephone wires. The sidewalks were one glare of ice making it almost impossible for pedestrians to stand up.

Why doesn't some of the Northville young ladies learn stenography, typewriting and bookkeeping. There is generally positions awaiting bright students of this profession. A good position in Northville could be obtained now if there was some one ready to fill it.

The ladies will give a dancing party in the rink next week Wednesday night, with Stone's orchestra of five pieces and a soloist as a part of the event which is sure to be very enjoyable. The ladies will serve a lunch in one end of the rink to their guests and there will be the usual cozy corners for those who "set one out" and those who do not dance. Personal invitations have been issued to about 100 ladies who will in turn invite their husbands or sweethearts.

About forty Northville club women responded to the invitation of the Plymouth Literary club last Friday afternoon and were most charmingly entertained. The meeting was held in the pretty Plymouth Presbyterian church, and the entertainer was Mrs. Edna Chaffee Noble of Detroit, whose ability requires no comment. A nice luncheon was very daintily served in the church parlors at the close of the afternoon. That the Plymouth ladies thoroughly understand the art of hospitality their Northville club sisters heartily attest.

The Wanderer.
When the world has grown troubled and weary,
And sorrow tugs deep at the breast;
When the unending road grows more dreary
With never a moment for rest;
When friends from one's side have deserted,
Who once were regarded as true,
It is good to creep back—
On the rough, rugged track
To the glad, warm caresses of you.
When comes the long hour of sorrow,
And night settles down like a pall,
And thoughts of a happy tomorrow
With sunshine, drift in over all;
Ah, then it is good to be dreaming
Of love and its pleasures anew,
But the happiness rare,
Comes again when I share
Just the old-time caresses of you.

Special meeting of Orient Chapter, No. 77 O. E. S., this (Friday) evening. Initiatory work.

The Winter Night club will this evening debate the question: "Resolved that trial by jury should be abolished."

W. E. Ambler, who has rented the corner store recently occupied by Wm Gorton, is having some repairs made on the inside.

Regular meeting of the W. C. T. U. in the Baptist church parlors next Monday afternoon. Subject, "The Trysting Hour." Leader, Mrs. Elizabeth Burgess.

Mrs. Dunham, mother of Mrs. Nellie D. Yerkes of Ypsilanti, died at her home in that city the fore part of the week. Mrs. Yerkes is well known in Northville.

"The King's Own" bible class of the Methodist church was very pleasantly entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Savage Monday evening. Warm maple sugar was generously served and everyone was "just too sweet for anything" all the evening.

Ran Holmington of Detroit, a brother of Mrs. T. B. Henry of this place, fell from a building upon which he was at work last Friday and died Saturday night. He had been married but three years and the widow is prostrated from the shock. Mr. Holmington was a carpenter by trade but because of illness had been unable to work all winter and this was his first week of employment.

When Mrs. Frank Harmon said to the ladies of the Merry-Go-Round "come early when you meet at my house" she little thought they would take her literally. There was a merry time of it when they all walked in Wednesday morning with their lunch and announced they had come to spend the day and evening. The gentlemen joined them at six o'clock dinner.

The "500" club was entertained at a St. Patrick's party Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. C. A. Dolph. Floyd Evans and Royale Wright of Holly and Clare Kingsley and Guy Filkins of this place as an orchestra furnished some fine music for the occasion. A dainty three course lunch was served, also a delicious birthday cake in honor of one of the members whose anniversary occurred on that day. The house was decorated in green. As a means of choosing partners for lunch, a part of the guests were given fancy paper sunbonnets and the others had neckties to match. All had a royal good time.

"I suffered habitually from constipation. Doan's Regulets relieved and strengthened the bowels, so that they have been regular ever since." A. E. Davis, grocer, Sulphur Springs, Tex.

Divorce.
"Divorce is a remedy for evil rather than an evil in itself," declared Chief Justice Emery of Maine, in a recent address. Marriage he defined as a civil institution, established by law for the benefit of man, and he suggested that the divorce laws could be perfected in three ways—first, by granting no divorce until husband and wife had lived apart for a year; second, by publishing the suits in the daily papers; third, by giving the court authority to delay hearings, if necessary, so that they cannot be rushed through as is sometimes the case now.—New York Tribune.

Life Isn't Worth Living

This Statement May be Generally Attributed to the Lack of Good Health.

We want to talk to people who are nervous, who suffer frequent headaches, who don't enjoy their food, who are irritable, quickly lose their temper, are so tired and worn out that they feel they must give up, and have become so despondent that life doesn't seem worth living. We know exactly what is the matter with people in this condition, and if they will follow our advice, we can tell them how to regain good health and that buoyancy of feeling which makes life seem all sunshine and happiness.

Most of the above described conditions are chiefly caused by catarrhal inflammation of the mucous membranes. This delicate web-like lining of the body becomes inflamed, and congested until weakness and mental depression follows. The only way that this can be overcome is through a treatment of the blood. We have the treatment, and we are so positive that it will produce the results we claim for it that we will supply it to anyone with the understanding that we will return to them every penny they paid us in every instance where the treatment is not in every way satisfactory and beneficial to them.

We want you to try Rexall Muc-Tone, which is a powerful nutritive tonic and body builder, and a mucous membrane alternative that cleanses these membranes and restores their natural and healthy functions.

Rexall Muc-Tone drives out all the catarrhal poison, restores the mucous cells to good health, tones up the whole system, allays inflammation, removes congestion, and stimulates the whole system to healthy activity. It is splendid for building up flesh and muscle tissue and removing all weaknesses.

Come to our store today and get a bottle of Muc-Tone, and after giving it a reasonable trial, if you are not satisfied simply tell us so, and we will hand back your money without question. Surely, nothing could be more fair than this. Two sizes, 50 cents and $1.00. A. E. Stanley & Co., Main St., Northville.

Junk Ev'dently Built to Last.
Although 110 years old, the Whangho, a Chinese junk, has since April, 1908, twice crossed the Pacific ocean. The ship is but 121 feet long and is the first vessel of this size to accomplish the feat. Its three masts are made of Formosan mahogany.

Indigestion is Ended Forever.

All Stomach Misery Vanishes Five Minutes Later.

Eat your favorite foods without fear of Dyspepsia or any other Stomach distress.

Why not start now—today, and forever rid yourself of Stomach trouble and indigestion? A dieted stomach gets the blues and grumbles. Give it a good start, then take Pape's Diapiesin to start the digestive juices working. There will be no dyspepsia or belching of Gas or eructations of undigested food; no feeling like a lump of lead in the stomach or heartburn, sick headache and Dizziness, and your food will not ferment and poison your breath with nauseous odors.

Pape's Diapiesin costs only 50 cents for a large case at any drug store here, and will relieve the most obstinate case of Indigestion and Upset Stomach in five minutes.

There is nothing else better to take Gas from Stomach and cleanse the stomach and intestines, and, besides, one triangle will digest and prepare for assimilation into the blood all your food the same as a sound, healthy stomach would do it.

When Diapiesin works, your stomach rests—gets itself in order, cleans up—and then you feel like eating when you come to the table, and what you eat will do you good.

Absolute relief from all Stomach Misery is waiting for you as soon as you decide to begin taking Diapiesin. Tell your druggist that you want Pape's Diapiesin, because you want to be thoroughly cured of Indigestion.

Flaw in Glass.
News comes from Pasadena that the great 100-inch glass for the Mount Wilson Solar observatory is defective. After the first grinding began, a large flaw was found, so that a new casting will have to be made. This will delay for many months the construction of the great eight foot reflecting mirror on the peak. The casting of the great glass disk was done in Goblain, France, and the cost was $50,000.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is a one-draw disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and driving the bacteria strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. It is the only safe and reliable remedy for Catarrh. Take Hall's Catarrh Cure for Catarrh.

SYNOPSIS:

Three girls—Elizabeth, Gabrielle and Elise—started for Canada to spend the summer there. On board steamer they were frightened by an apparently demented stranger, who, finding a bag belonging to one of them, took enjoyment in searching it. The bag was introduced to Lord Wilfrid and Lady Edith. A cottage by the ocean was rented. Two men called. They proved to be John Bennett and Gordon Bennett, one a friend of Elizabeth's father, a vessel of yellow hair from Mr. Graham's pocket fell into the hands of Elise. Mrs. Graham's hair was black. Fearing for the safety of some gems, Lady Edith left them in the hands of Elise. Mr. Gordon Bennett was properly introduced, explained his actions on board ship. Elise, alone, explored the cellar, discovering a concealed door. She opened it, and a man, a man, he proved to be her son, charged with murder. At a supper, which was held on the rocks, Elizabeth rather mysteriously lost her ring, causing a search by the entire party. Gabrielle witnessed a stormy scene between Lady Edith and Lord Wilfrid, jealousy being the cause. Mary Anne brought back Elizabeth's ring. Elise went sailing with Gordon Bennett. Elise tried to persuade her to return the jewels left in the girl's care by Lady Edith. At midnight Elise and Gordon Bennett were introduced to their bathhouse. She admitted to herself that she had nearly loved him and had loved her for another woman. Gordon Bennett and Elise returned with Mr. Graham's body. He had been murdered. Lord Wilfrid grew sulky. Lady Edith confided to Elise that Elise and Gordon were thieves. Lady Edith led her to where they were trying to break in. The girls were awakened late at night by a noise in the cottage. They found Elise and Bennett awaiting Lady Edith, who alone in the cottage. Lord Wilfrid, a notorious crook, and Gordon, a smuggler, waited for murder. They refused to believe Elise proved to be a government officer. Bennett surprised Lady Edith and Lord Wilfrid taking the lost jewels from the safe. Both confessed their guilt. Lady Edith's love for Gordon was told, also his love for Elise. Gordon was prepared to go home. Bennett proposed to Elise and was accepted.

CHAPTER XVII.

We were going home. Our trunks were packed and our passage engaged. We told each other we were glad to go, but if the truth were known, we were all very melancholy and wandered around picking up stray last articles in a resigned silence which grew more and more depressing as the afternoon advanced.

"It might have been clear, our last day," observed Elizabeth, flattening her nose against the window pane as she peered out into the gray drizzle which harmonized so well with our state of mind.

"It is like our first week on the island," replied Gabrielle. "Do you remember how we went out into the rain and found the cottage? It seems a thousand years ago."

"Dear little house!" said Elizabeth, almost tearfully. "I can't help loving it. After all, it was nice while it lasted."

We echoed her sigh; this was our last day, and it was raining. The ocean looked gray and angry, and the wind blew so mournfully that at last Gabrielle cast herself upon the couch and refused to be comforted.

It was then I announced my intention of walking to the village, to get any mail which might have accumulated in the two days since we had visited the post office. So I got my rain-coat and umbrella, and as I fastened my veil I heard a gloomy voice from the next room.

"What have I done with my life? When I get back to Washington I intend to make a fresh start. I will read to the blind, and—"

Smothering the first inclination to laugh which I had for some days, I left Elizabeth to struggle with the blue devils which had got possession of her alter ego, and went up to the village.

I was glad I went, for, heavy though the atmosphere undoubtedly was it seemed less depressing than our pretty little rooms, and, besides, I wanted to be alone. So I got the mail, and wandered slowly back along the familiar path, with my heart strangely heavy and a very suspicious lump in my throat, which made me thankful I was not obliged to talk to anyone.

When I got to the steps leading down to our little slip I paused and looked wistfully toward it, but the fog was so thick I could see nothing.

"I'm going down," I remarked decidedly, as though some one had objected.

And I went down, impelled by some irresistible force. The boat-house door stood wide open now, and only the two little boats inside showed traces of its recent occupancy. I looked at them, vaguely wondering how they could seem so calm and unconcerned when so much of importance had been connected with them, and then walked to the end of the slip and sat dejectedly down upon the raised ledge, my dripping umbrella over my shoulder, and my damp skirts falling abjectly about me. I am very sure that never before or since have I looked so forlorn or so utterly friendless.

I felt friendless, too, and as though nobody wanted me, and I wanted to be wanted, although I was not just sure by whom. So I sat, cold and miserable, on the ledge, and to this day I don't know whether the moisture on my face came from the clouds above or my own two eyes, but I am inclined to believe it was a combination, and I took solid comfort in the fact that I was exceedingly uncomfortable, and would probably catch a heavy cold.

I sat with my face turned toward the ocean, so I did not see a figure follow me down the steps, cross the ship, and stand directly behind me, quite obscured by my umbrella, which I held very loosely indeed until a sudden puff of wind almost wrenched it away from me.

I clutched at the handle in an incompetent sort of way, and tried to lower it, since it was difficult to hold and I was already very wet, but the catch would not work, and I struggled vainly until a strong brown hand quietly closed over mine and I recognized the signet ring with the Bennett crest.

"Allow me," he remarked, just as he had said to Gabrielle when she was fishing for the comb.

I could only stare dumbly, all at once acutely conscious of my dragged appearance. He lowered the umbrella and calmly seated himself upon the ledge beside me, raising his own as he did so.

"This," he said, adjusting it at an angle which let cold water drip down my neck, "will shield us both."

I wriggled ungratefully, and tried to assume a careless air.

"I'm not much shielded," I replied, "but, then, I did not ask to be."

I was not prepared to answer his question, so I parried it by another.

"Where did you come from?"

"From the village. I saw you there, and followed humbly in the rear, as a stranger should. But, on my soul, I don't know what I've done, except—"

"Don't," I interrupted; "I do not wish to talk about it."

"Well, I won't. But you might admit you were just a little unreasonable that night. We really meant well."

"We are going away," I said, abruptly.

"I know."

"And we're never coming back any more."

"Oh, yes, you are—next summer."

"Never any more."

"I am coming back next summer," he said, positively, "but not by myself. I hope. My island is a very jolly little place, but it's a bit lonely, even when a fellow wants to rest after his winter's work."

"What is your work?" I inquired, suddenly conscious that none of us knew or had cared to ask.

"Well, I draw a bit sometimes, just enough to keep the jam-pot full, since my parents insured my bread and butter."

I sat up straight with surprise and pushed aside the umbrella.

"Not Bennett, the illustrator?" I exclaimed.

"Why not, please?"

"Well," I gasped, quite overcome, for I knew and loved his illustrations in the leading magazines, and had read everything about him I could lay my hands upon. "And to think we first thought you insane, and I even doubted your honesty, while all the time you were—"

"A very spoiled, lazy fellow," he interrupted gravely, "and a lonely fellow, too, for success like mine brings many acquaintances and few friends."

"You can always have Mr. Blake," I suggested pointedly, as he paused.

Blake is all very well in his place," he returned, shifting the umbrella to his left hand and feeling abstractedly in his pocket, "but I want something lots better, and I think I've found my heart's desire. I want you to see her picture."

"So you are going to be married?" I scarcely recognized my own voice, it sounded so staid and mechanical.

I truly hope so, but I have not ventured to ask her yet. Will you look at the picture and tell me whether you think she will be kind? You see, I'm by no means certain, and it is very vital to me."

"How can I tell?" I began petulantly, then paused abruptly, for it was our picture he laid upon my lap, the one he had so shamelessly abstracted from Gabrielle's shopping bag. So I stared wide-eyed and speechless, with a clutching at my heart I could not understand. Was it Gabrielle or Elizabeth?

"The one in the middle," he said, gently. "Elise—will she be kind?"

And then I realized he was not speaking of some remote, shadowy paragon of a girl, but of me—just as I was, in my old rain-coat and dripping hat. I realized something else, too, for when I looked up and met his eyes, I tried to speak, but could not, because my heart was too full.

But words were quite unnecessary, for we were looking into each other's eyes, and of course we understood.

"And now," he remarked, some time later, when we were back to earth, or rather to water, by the fine soft drizzle changing into a brisk shower—"and now you really must go in, or you will have pneumonia, and then what should I do? But first it's up to me to return that side-comb. I said I'd do it in my own way, you know, so I'm going to put it in myself."

"But not now. Think how wet and horrid my hair must be."

And then—well, I don't believe it is necessary for me to say any more. Things which are very sweet and natural, and often form cherished memories, are apt to look very different in cold hard print, and, moreover, what would become of the little shrine we erected for ourselves that rainy afternoon if I took the world into our confidence and allowed it to be desecrated by the critical outsider?

CHAPTER XVIII.

Mary Anne made us our farewell fire that night, almost putting it out with the tears she shed as she arranged the driftwood. For Mary Anne was a veritable Niobe these last days, poor soul, and every spare moment was given over to weeping. She was, she told us as she struck the match, going home to England, where she hoped she might die happy some day, if only she could learn to forget. She could live on her savings, and if not, work was always to be had when one looked for it. And she hung lovingly about us, too, with protestations of affection and regret at all that had happened.

"I looked out for you," she said; "I done what I could, fur I come to love you all, and 'ow could I 'elp it? I miss em'—back your ring, Miss Elise, which she took off her finger before you very, 'eyes, miss, when you was 'olding of 'er 'and on the rocks in the moonlight. Oh, she was clever, she was. But I made 'er give it up. I went out that night, but she was away wif 'Arry Graham and I couldn't git it till next day. Which it was my shadder and Willy's you seen that night, Miss Elise. 'Ee, 'alf crazy, pore lad, because 'is as soon as you was out of sight 'is and 'is 'Arry Graham and went out on the water wif 'im. And them red roses, Miss Gabrielle—you seen 'ow it was. And she alwiz 'ad 'em, alwiz. 'Arry Graham seen to that, and Willy couldn't do nothing."

Here she paused for breath.

"And I never, never, drugged you but the once," she continued—"in the chocolate, you know. I wouldn't do it for neither of 'em, and very 'ard they thought of me for it, too; but 'ow could I go for to do it and you—trustin' me, even when you 'eard me and Willy talkin' in the cellar? And I brought you the tea myself that last night, Miss Elise, when she wanted to give it to you 'erself and put a powder in it to send you to sleep; but I wouldn't let 'er, for all she was my son's wife. Oh, Willy, Willy!"

We got rid of her after awhile, and settled down for our last evening, while the fire burned with its green, blue, lavender, and red lights, where in I now found wonderful pictures and not so very remote either, and the ocean rolled monotonously outside.

In the first long silence I told the girls about it—glad that the lamp was not lighted, and glad also that the firelight did not shine upon my face. Well, they were very, very nice, and considerate enough to ask but few searching questions—although they have since told me they were consumed with the desire to do so.

So the evening passed, and at last we went unwillingly upstairs, careful not to mention that it was our last night in the little cottage, which, in spite of everything, we still loved.

I lay broad awake for a long time, listening to the washing of the waves and thinking the thoughts that come to a girl but once in a lifetime, when I heard a low voice from the next room, and knew the others were awake also.

"Were you surprised, Elizabeth?"

"Yes, I certainly was"—the emphasis in Elizabeth's tone left no room for doubt. "Somehow, I never associated Elise with marriage—or men, either, for that matter."

"Neither did I. She'll never be the same again, but oh, Elizabeth, if it had been you, what should I have done?"

"And I was just lying here thinking how dreadful it would have been if it had happened to you. So long as we have each other, nothing else matters."

"No, nothing else matters. I hope she'll be very happy, but Elise is—well, she's Elise, and I can't help wondering how she is going to like married life."

And I wonder, too, for, after all, it is always like starting a very small ship across a very broad ocean. But I am not afraid of the voyage, for Gordon is going with me, and we have engaged a pilot whose name is spelled with four letters; he is warranted to steer a safe course through every sort of weather, and we both believe he will bring us safe into port at last.

THE END.

STANDARD OIL ESCAPES FINE

HAT TWENTY-NINE MILLION DOLLAR VERDICT IS A NULLITY.

GOVERNMENT CASE LOST.

Judge Anderson instructed the Jury to Return a Verdict of Not Guilty and Case Ends.

Judge Anderson decided to instruct the jury in the Standard Oil $29,000,000 case to find the company not guilty.

The decision of the court was announced at the close of the long argument by Assistant District Attorney Wilkerson, and the jury was immediately summoned and instructed to return a verdict of not guilty.

This means that all but two of the pending indictments against the Standard Oil Co. of Indiana are void and will be abandoned by the government.

The two cases not affected by the decision are cases involving the shipment of 1,125 carloads of oil from Whiting, Ind., to Evansville, Ind., via Dolton Junction, over the Chicago & Eastern Illinois railroad.

"There is absolutely nothing on which a conviction in this case could stand, before any court in this country," the court said in concluding his charge to the jurors. "The government has failed to prove its contention that the 18-cent rate was the lawful rate between Whiting and East St. Louis and that the defendant had wilfully accepted a lower rate, and there is nothing to do but for the jury to bring in a verdict of not guilty."

In the face of repeated rulings by Judge Anderson tending to make more difficult the proving of their case, the government attorneys had over night decided to abandon the idea of additions to the bill of particulars, covering the defects pointed out by the court, and began arguments in the hope of inducing Judge Anderson to reverse his decision.

The first line of argument was against the court's indicated decision that the 18-cent freight rate, under which the indictment was drawn, could not be established by the Illinois classification. According to the government's point of view, the published rate on oil from Whiting, Ind., to East St. Louis was 18 cents. This was established by means of tariff 24 in its application to the Illinois classification issued in 1899. In 1900 a new Illinois classification was issued and the interpretation of the court's opinion is that this invalidated the old tariffs.

Without the legal published rate the oil company could not be prosecuted.

The Inauguration.

William H. Taft, of Ohio, and James S. Sherman, of New York, were in August Thursday as president and vice president of the United States. Sherman took the oath at 11:12 p. m. and Taft at 12:35.

The ceremony of the inauguration was accompanied with all due formality and dignity, but under most unusual conditions, owing to a terrible blizzard which swept over the national capital, paralyzing street traffic, destroying communication with the outside world and bringing dismay to the thousands of assembled visitors who had gathered in expectation of the usual spectacular demonstration.

Notwithstanding the adverse conditions, all of the main features of the inauguration were accomplished. The main change was in modifying the original program so that the inaugural address, usually delivered from the east portico of the capitol, was pronounced by Mr. Taft in the senate chamber, where he also took the oath of office.

Roosevelt Again!

A mysterious and anonymous campaign for the renomination and re-election of Theodore Roosevelt to the presidency after President Taft shall have served four years has begun in Chicago. The identity of those behind the movement is carefully concealed and those who are distributing the literature calling on the voters to get in line for the former president, refuse to say by whom they are employed.

The first campaign document is in the form of a yellow card on which in large black letters appears the following:

"Teddy again, following Taft." At the top appear the words "1912" and at the side and bottom: "The campaign has begun," and "Do your part."

The Oklahoma Land Cases.

The government's prosecution of over 23,000 defendants in Oklahoma in an effort to recover millions of acres of land said to have been secured from members of the five civilized tribes before it was subject to allotment, is being pressed with vigor. Assistant Attorney General Russell will leave in a few days to argue these cases before District Judge Campbell, in Muskogee.

Want Navy Yards Open.

As a result of appeals to President Taft and Secretary of the Navy Meyer by a southern delegation from Louisiana and Florida, the first business to come before the new naval secretary is the reconsideration of the order closing the navy yards in New Orleans and Pensacola.

Ernest Leffingwell, government explorer, hydrographer and scientist of the University of Chicago, has arrived in Pasadena. He comes from Chicago to organize another expedition to the bleak northern coast of Alaska, an expedition of which he will be the chief, and which is being financed by the University of Chicago and John D. Rockefeller.

Hirschel Hogg, confessed member of the band of Tennessee nightriders that killed Capt. Quentin N. R. in October, escaped from the jail in Dresden, Tenn., and has not been recaptured.

A NURSE'S EXPERIENCE.

Backache, Pains in the Kidneys, Bloating, Etc., Overcome.

A nurse is expected to know what to do for common ailments, and women who suffer backache, constant languor, and other common symptoms of kidney complaint, should be grateful to Mrs. M. A. Turner, of St. Anadarko, Okla., for pointing out the way to find quick relief.

Mrs. Turner used Doan's Kidney Pills for a run-down condition, backache, pains in the sides and kidneys, bloated limbs, etc. "The way they have built me up is simply marvelous," says Mrs. Turner, who is a nurse. "My health improved rapidly. Five boxes did so much for me. I am telling everybody about it."

TROUBLES OF JUNGLE DENTIST.

Dentist—I wonder does he really want that tooth pulled, or is he scheming for a breakfast?

Why There Was a Funeral.

"That looks like a newly made grave—that little hummock over there on the desert," said the traveler from the east.

"That's just what it is, neighbor," answered Arizona Al. "The editor of the Weekly Cactus Spine was buried over there last week."

"What was his complaint?"

"He didn't have none. It was Corota Cal that had the complaint. You see, there was a baby born up to Cal's house a spell ago, and the editor wrote an item about it, sayin' a tow-headed little girl had come to make Cal and his woman happy, but it 'pears that the printer got the letters mixed somehow. Leastways it said 'a paper when Cal read it that it was a tow-headed baby, and him bein' an impulsive cuss, there wan't nothin' to do but hold the funeral the next day but one."

Less Majestic.

A teacher in one of the schools of Berlin has given to the papers of that city a composition written by one of the pupils in his school on the subject, "The Kaiser," in the course of which the young author says: "Prince Wilhelm was born on the kaiser's birthday. From the dome of the castle 101 salute shots were fired. The old grandfather and old Wrangel hopped into a cab and went to the Schloss, and old Wrangel said: 'The boy is all right,' and the father made a bow from the balcony, and it was awful cold. And when the boy was baptized his father held his watch to front of the little fellow's nose, and he grabbed it and never let go again, because he is a Hohenzollern."

Truthful Bessie.

There had been a lovers' quarrel and it was his first visit in two weeks.

"I guess you know there was a difference between your sister and myself," he ventured, trying to pump the little sister.

"Yes, indeed," responded the latter without hesitation.

"Well—do you think Clara will make up when she comes down?"

Little Bessie leaned over nearer and whispered:

"She ought to, Mr. Bilkins. She is upstairs making up now."

CONGENIAL WORK

And Strength to Perform It.

A person in good health is likely to have a genial disposition, ambition and enjoy work.

On the other hand, if the digestive organs have been upset by wrong food, work becomes drudgery.

"Until recently," writes a Washington girl, "I was a railroad stenographer, which means full work every day."

"Like many other girls alone in a large city, I lived at a boarding house. For breakfast it was mush, greasy meat, soggy cakes, black coffee, etc."

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only original cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address, F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio. Sold by Druggists. 75c. SPRAYING has become a necessity with

Successful Fruit Growers

J. H. Hill in his address before the American Association of Nurserymen, July, 1904, said—

"Peach leaf curl seems to cause immense losses each year in spite of the ease of controlling it by a single spraying. In Ohio the loss was complete on such varieties as Alberta, Ellis Chili and Chautauque when unsprayed. In Ottawa county alone the loss from leaf curl was $50,000. The losses in New York were also heavy. In California the disease prevailed where preventative spraying was neglected. Many growers saved their entire crops by giving a single spraying, while their neighbors who did not spray lost everything." These losses extend to every state in the Union and all classes of fruit, shade trees and vegetables.

In speaking of the potato crop in New York state, Prof. Stewart of the New York Station, says that an accurate estimate of the loss from potato blight amounted to 30 bushels per acre, making a total loss in New York state alone of $10,000,000 for the season of 1902, all of which he says could have been saved by spraying. Experiment Station says that including materials and labor the cost of spraying potatoes will not exceed sixty cents per acre.
