KELLEY FORCES SEE VICTORY

FRIENDS HELD ENTHUSIASTIC MEETING IN DETROIT.

Nearly Every County in State was Represented.

[From Lansing Journal]

A big surprise awaited Patrick H. Kelley at Detroit, where a conference of a few of his friends was called to be held at Attorney Haggerty's office last week. The response was so much greater than was ever thought of the meeting was adjourned from Mr. Haggerty's to the parlor of the Griswold House and before the gathering could get down to business it was necessary to again adjourn to the dining room. Scarcely a county below the straits but what was represented by one or more enthusiastic Kelley men.

Ex-Speaker Nicholas Whelan of Ottawa was made chairman and Senator F. B. Kline of Lenawee was secretary. A call of congressional districts was had and the reports were indeed very satisfactory. Plans were laid for a complete organization to prosecute a thorough and systematic campaign in Mr. Kelley's behalf. The meeting was somewhat of an innovation in Michigan politics, made necessary by the primary method of selecting a candidate, and took on the form of a primary convention by those interested, making the organization themselves and not the candidate. The thought was very clearly expressed by one who said that "this campaign was our campaign and not Mr. Kelley's—that Mr. Kelley was our candidate." Provisions were made for a campaign committee of 100 and an executive committee of five and who will have full charge. Mr. Haggerty was elected treasurer of the organization.

A glowing tribute was paid Mr. Kelley by Hon. W. W. Wedemeyer of Ann Arbor when he said that after years of service as a faithful and conscientious public officer, holding the most important office in the state, that of lieutenant governor, it was indeed to his credit that Mr. Kelley was a poor man. Mr. Kelley might well feel proud to note that over a hundred of his friends were gathered here of their own volition, seeking ways and means to promote his candidacy. It shows, that we have confidence in the man, and are willing to back that confidence in a substantial way.

It is a long time in Michigan since the common people rallied to the support of a common man of their own stripe in every way, and he predicted that hundreds of others were only waiting for the opportunity to present itself to show their approval.

Before the meeting adjourned, Mr. Kelley spoke briefly. He said: "There is one thing, my friends, we must all bear in mind and that is the other candidates are Republicans, having equal rights with you and me. Let our campaign be so conducted that when the people have made their choice, this organization will stand intact for the candidate so selected."

Auction Sale.

Harrison Johnson will sell at public auction, on the premises 1 1/2 miles south of Power's Station, on Wednesday, Feb. 2, farm implements, horses and fourteen head of cattle. John E. Wedow, auctioneer.

Very Small and Struggling.

"What's this?" demanded the customs officer, pointing to a package at the bottom of the trunk. "That is a foreign book entitled 'Politeness,'" answered the man who had just landed. "I guess I'll have to charge you a duty on it," rejoined the inspector. "It competes with a small and struggling industry in this country."

TOWNSEND WON PRESIDENT'S FIGHT

HOUSE PASSED BILL MAKING
PRESIDENT SUPREME

In Panama Zone; "Congress Can't Afford to Interfere."

Congressman Townsend put in a few licks in Congress last week in his character as spokesman for and defender of the president. The Mann canal bill, which later was passed by the house, was pending and the democrats were trying to amend it so as to take away from the president the right to make the laws for the Isthmus. They wanted to have those laws enacted by congress.

"While these democratic amendments were pending Townsend took the floor and for a few minutes proceeded to rip the democratic argument to pieces. At the end of his speech a vote was taken and the amendments lost decisively. Townsend said:

"We are down on the Isthmus at the present time for the purpose of constructing a canal. It is necessarily a temporary undertaking. We are not establishing a government as the very terms of the bill express, for all time, but we are doing that which experience thus far has taught us was necessary to be done in order to construct that canal in the most economical and expeditious way possible. Men have charged that without any authority of law the president of the United States for a number of years has conducted the work down there on the Isthmus. That has been denied and has been proven not to be the fact. But this congress is now asked at this time to declare the express intent of congress in reference of the building of the canal."

AT REGULAR STOPS ONLY

PLYMOUTH DIVISION OF D. U. R.
MAKES NEW RULES.

Hereafter Will Not Stop at Every Home for Passengers.

Regular stops have been established on the Plymouth division of the Detroit, Jackson & Chicago Ry. and hereafter cars will, when signalled, stop only at these designated points to let off and take on passengers.

This regulation makes the Plymouth division conform to all other divisions of the Detroit United Lines. In a bulletin issued, announcing the new rule the car crews were instructed to stop at other places and notify the people of the rule so that they might all become familiar with the rule in as short a time as possible.

OSBORN ISSUES A CHALLENGE

WANTS TO FIGHT DUEL OF WORDS
WITH JUDGE

"Montgomery's Candidacy Inspired by Lawyers."

Chase Osborn, one of the republican candidates for governor has given out another letter which he has written to Justice Montgomery on the latter's candidacy for the same place that Chase is seeking. He says: "Justice Montgomery's candidacy was inspired by lawyers who should have known better. It has been fostered by and among lawyers and therein lies the great harm of it. A prominent lawyer said to me referring to Justice Montgomery's candidacy:

"It placed any lawyer who did not sign his petition or support him after having been written to by him or his manager in an unfair position. No client would retain a lawyer who was personal non grata to the chief justice, etc., etc."

"I will challenge Justice Montgomery to debate the question in public in Detroit, Saginaw, Lansing or Grand Rapids. The question of preserving inviolate the highest court in Michigan is far more important than that any one should be chosen governor."

As yet Judge Montgomery has made no reply to Mr. Osborn's last cutting epistle.

A. M. HARMON POST.

Great Time at Their Annual Installation.

Allen M. Harmon Post installed officers January 4 for the ensuing year. Past Commander, C. L. Brigham, acting as installing officer. After the exercises the Old Boys partook of a very elaborate banquet provided by the honorary members of the Post. Comrade Cassius Benton filled the position of toastmaster to the entire satisfaction of the members of the Post. Comrades Henry and Harmon made eloquent responses to the different subjects given them. Also comrades Lawrence, Starkweather, Simonds, Wald and Shaw interested the Old Boys until a late hour and it goes without saying that we never had another like it before. Following are the officers:

Com.—Andrew Houk
S. V.—Geo. F. Goodell
J. V.—Daniel Craft
Chap.—E. K. Simonds
Sergt.—Abraham Moshmer
Q. M.—James H. Taylor
O. D.—H. O. Wald
O. G.—John Gill
Adjt.—B. G. Webster
Sergt. Major—S. J. Lawrence
Q. M. Sergt.—George Smitherman
—BY ONE OF THEM.

The King's Daughters Annual.

The annual meeting of The King's Daughters was held Tuesday in Ambler's hall.

Reports from the various branches show the circle to be doing more work than in any preceding year. Thanks is due the loyal friends who so generously respond to the calls for help. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

Leader—Mrs. Grace Dolph
2nd Leader—Mrs. Nellie Cameron
Secretary—Mrs. Edna Rickel
Ass't Sec.—Mrs. Minnie Lyke
Treasurer—Mrs. Alice Hinkley

He Knows It All.

When you hear a man running down his home paper or any other local industry, take a good look at him. Ten to one he will have a chin as long as a rail, an eye as restless as a horse thief, and he will hitch around in his chair as though he had a touch of St. Anthony's dance. Talk with him a while and you will discover that he has made a failure of everything he ever tried (except being disagreeable), and nine times out of ten he is dependent on the public for favors or support; you will find him of a meddlesome, peevish, jealous, hateful and unreliable nature; a man who is always complaining, and although he has but little, if anything of his own, one would imagine to hear him talk, that he had a quit claim deed to the earth and a first mortgage on heaven. He knows everybody's business and why shouldn't he? He has none of his own to take up his time. Such people, like mosquitoes, were not created in vain, perhaps, but one fact remains egaple, they do not add materially to the pleasures of conducting legitimate business.

Twine Plant Makes Money.

The blinder twine plant at Jackson prison shows a good profit for the last season's output and as a matter of fact this industry has been a money maker for the state from the very beginning. A Detroit paper has repeated the erroneous statement that there was a claim made by Governor Warner during the campaign that there had been a profit made of fifty thousand dollars at that time. No such statement was ever made by the Governor or any one else connected with the twine factory. The fifty thousand dollars was a part of the "revolving fund" provided for by the legislature and no one claimed that it represented earnings. The statement is made for the purpose of discrediting the plant and by those who would be pleased to see the twine plant fall.

Kator Reunion.

A reunion of the Kator family was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Thompson, nee Kator, Wednesday, Jan 12.

Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Kator of Northville, Mrs. Mattie Ingersoll of Livonia, Mr. and Mrs. Dan D. Blauvelt of Wheeler, Mr. and Mrs. Jere Kator and Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Kator of Detroit.

The combined ages of these five brothers and sisters being 331 years. Jesse Chilson of Livonia, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Kator, Mrs. F. S. Marsh and Forrest M. Kator of Northville and Mr. and Mrs. George Blauvelt of Detroit were also present.

A sumptuous three course dinner was served to which all did ample justice. Many pleasant memories were recalled and all reported a very enjoyable time.

Methodist Church Notes.

(By the Pastor.)

Miss Springer will have charge of the Epworth League meeting Sunday evening at 6:00 o'clock.

A very interesting and helpful meeting for children was held Monday afternoon. Miss Springer gave an object lesson by means of which some greatly needed teachings were conveyed.

Wm. Stephens, a well known Detroit merchant and Sunday school worker, will address the Sunday school at 11:30 Sunday. Next week Sunday Homer Warren comes.

Other well known speakers will come through February.

The meeting of "The King's Own" bible class has been postponed from Wednesday, Jan. 26, to some evening in February, on account of the special services now being held in the church. The entertainment committees for January and February will hold a joint meeting.

The gospel meetings, this week have been well attended and full of interest and inspiration from the beginning. A surprisingly good congregation turned out through the rain Monday night, and the interest has grown through the week. Miss Springer's work meets all expectations. As one who can sing the gospel and who knows the gospel she sings, we have not met her superior. In leading the stagg of the people, too, she is perfectly at home. The meetings will continue over Sunday and next week. Come and invite your friends.

Cure Your Kidneys

Do not Endanger Life When a Northville Citizen Shows you the Cure.

Why will people continue to suffer the agonies of kidney complaint, backache, urinary disorders, lumbago, headaches, languor, why allow themselves to become chronic invalids, when a certain cure is offered them?

Doan's Kidney Pills is the remedy to use, because it gives to the kidneys the help they need to perform their work.

If you have any, even one, of the symptoms of kidney disease, cure yourself now, before diabetes, dropsy or Bright's disease sets in. Read this Northville testimony:

W. H. Denton, Horton Ave., Northville, Mich., says: "Some years ago my kidneys were badly disordered and I was annoyed by too frequent and painful passages of the kidney secretions. I suffered from severe pains in the small of my back and I was unable to get relief. Finally, I obtained Doan's Kidney Pills from Murdock Bros. drug store and they soon drove away the pain. I'm back and strong and am recommending this valuable kidney medicine to anyone afflicted with kidney complaint."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Postpaid, 60 cents. Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

MORTGAGE SALE.

Whereas default has been made in the payment of the money secured by a mortgage dated the 21st day of February, in the year 1900 executed by Fanny Brady and Frank Brady, her husband, of Wayne County, Michigan to Albert I. Lawbaugh of Houghton County, Michigan, which said mortgage was recorded in the office of the register of deeds of Wayne County, Michigan, in liber 221 of Mortgages, on page 300, on the 23rd day of February, in the year 1900, at one o'clock p. m.

And whereas the said mortgage has been duly assigned by the said Albert I. Lawbaugh to Milton A. McKee, by assignment bearing date, the 4th day of June, in the year 1908, and recorded in the office of the register of deeds of said county of Wayne, on the 27th day of November, in the year 1908, at 12:15 o'clock, p. m. in liber 52 of Assignment of Mortgages, on page 598.

And whereas the said mortgage has again been duly assigned by the said Milton A. McKee, by assignment, bearing date, the 30th day of March, in the year 1909, to Ella B. McKinney, which said assignment is recorded in the office of the register of deeds of said Wayne County, on the 23rd day of December, in the year 1909, at 10:35 o'clock, a. m. in liber 58 of assignments on page 292, and that the same is now owned by her, and on which mortgage there is claimed to be due at the date of the notice the sum of Four Hundred ($400.00) Dollars of principal and interest, and an attorney's fee of Fifteen ($15.00) Dollars as provided by law; and no suit or proceedings at law having been instituted to recover the money secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof, whereby the power of sale contained in said mortgage has become operative.

Now, therefore, notice is hereby given, that by virtue of said power of sale, and in pursuance of the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by sale of the premises therein described, at public auction, to the highest bidder, at the southerly end of Congress Street entrance to the Wayne County Building in the City of Detroit (that being the place where the Circuit Court for the County of Wayne is held) on Tuesday, the 19th day of April, A. D. 1910, at 12 o'clock (noon) standard time, of that day, which said premises are described in said mortgage as follows, to-wit: Lot eighty three (83) of Guilfoyle and Whitaker's Subdivision of Lot number twelve (12) Quarter section fifty-eight (58) and part of Quarter section forty-three (43) Ten Thousand and Acre Tract, as per plat of said subdivision recorded in the office of the register of deeds of said County of Wayne in book eight (8) of plats on page 31; said lot lying on the westerly side of Guilfoyle Street, between Clay Avenue and Sidney Avenue, in said City of Detroit, Wayne County, State of Michigan.

These dates are only a few of what Hon. Pat will accept between now and the primaries.

The following scrap was picked up the other day and is probably some school boy's composition: "The human body is made up of the head, the thorax and the abdomen. The head contains the brains when there is any. The thorax contains the heart, lungs and diaphragm. The abdomen contains the vowels of which there are five—a, e, i, o, u and sometimes w and y."

It is mighty mean to patronize a merchant who will trust you until you get so far in debt to him that you are ashamed to see him, and then go and spend your cash somewhere else where you could not get credit; but there are people who do it. The honorable way would be to spend your cash with the merchant who trusted you, even if you never expected to square up the old account.

Two sleigh loads of Henry Garfield's neighbors and friends gave him a complete surprise last Thursday evening and although the snow was so drifted that the boys were obliged to shovel a road for the teams, it did not lessen the pleasures of the evening. Dancing was one of the features of entertainment. Mr. Garfield was the recipient of a beautiful rocker as a memento of the occasion.

While all the world is topsy-turvy, jerky and panicky, we hear of but mighty few farmers making assignments. And while they often feel they are the oppressed of the nation, yet, after all, how little they know of the sudden reverses of fortune, from wealth to pauperism, and a struggle for life in the uncertain speculative world. They are the "reserves" which the army of the nation can drop back to and start anew to victory.

Rep. Townsend and Senator Burrows seem to be causing a big stir in the state Senator Burrows now has a force of clerks copying poll lists of the state to begin his "postage campaign." Last fall Mr. Clapp made the best record ever made by a Michigan Berkshire herd with the Hupp herd, being on the show circuit 14 weeks, traveling over 4,500 miles, and showing at, besides several smaller fairs, State Fairs of Ohio, Michigan, New York, Missouri, the American Royal at Kansas City and International at Chicago, winning a total of 184 prizes.

A few days ago one of our citizens cut into a pound of butter which he had purchased at a grocery whose proprietor does not advertise, and found therein a small tin box, which contained a small piece of paper bearing the following, written in a neat, feminine hand, "I am a girl of eighteen years, good looking, and an excellent housekeeper. Should this be found by some unmarried Christian gentleman, will he please write to the following address," etc. The finder being a bachelor, decided to unravel the affair, and succeeded, only to destroy the romance. The girl who had written the note had died many years ago, leaving an aged husband and a grownup family.

90,000 AMERICAN SETTLERS GO TO CANADA

THE YEAR 1909 HAS SHOWN AN INCREASE OF OVER EIGHTY PER CENT IN AMERICAN SETTLEMENT.

Recent advices from Canada, our next door neighbour, the neighbouring country across the boundary line, are that upwards of ninety thousand settlers from the United States went into Western Canada during the past year, most of them for the purpose of taking up and settling upon the vacant lands, 160 acres of which are given free by the government, and lands adjoining held by railway and land companies are selling at from nine to fifteen and twenty dollars per acre. Even if thirty and forty dollars per acre were paid, the price would be low, as the lands produce wonderfully, and at these higher figures there is a large interest on the money and labor invested. The ninety thousand settlers of last year, followed about sixty thousand of the previous year, and for several years the number has been running into these large figures. There must be a reason for it. It may be found in the single phrase: "they are satisfied." Nothing attracts people more than the success of others, and the news of this reaching other thousands, causes them to investigate. The investigation in this case is always satisfactory. The splendid land of Iowa, of Indiana, of Nebraska, Kansas, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Michigan, Ohio and other States has risen to a high value, and it is worth every dollar asked for it. But there is not room now for all on these lands. With the ever increasing demand for grain, there comes the ever increasing demand for land. Canada is the only country on the continent in a position to supply it. Land there that costs, say fifteen dollars an acre, produces on a reasonable calculation, 25 bushels of wheat to the acre, or about $200. The most liberal calculation as to cost makes the cost to produce $7.50 per acre, leaving a balance of $12.50 per acre. The $7.50 carries good wages for the farmer, and all other conceivable contingencies. With conditions like this, covering the entire area of about 500,000 square miles, it is readily understood why 90,000 Americans should follow the sixty thousand of the previous year. Canadian Government Agencies at different points in the Union are always ready to give information regarding the free homestead lands, ready to advise the settler as to the districts which would suit him best.

"Well, he wasn't disappointed. The next day, in a prominent place on the first page of the Enterprise, I inserted this paragraph:

"John H. Ferguson's Christmas gifts to his wife are being much admired. They include a diamond stomach-acher and many other beautiful specimens of cut glass."

SYNOPSIS.

Miss Patricia Holbrook and Miss Helen Holbrook, her niece, were entrusted to the care of Laurence Donovan, a writer, summering near Port Annandale, Miss Patricia confided to Donovan that she had been hurt, Henry, who, ruined by a bank failure, had constantly threatened her for money from his father's will, of which Miss Patricia was guardian. They came to Port Annandale to escape Henry. Donovan sympathized with the two women. He learned of Miss Helen's annoying suitors. Donovan discovered and captured an intruder, who proved to be Reginald Gillespie, suitor for the hand of Miss Helen Holbrook. Gillespie disappeared the following morning. A rough sailor appeared and was ordered away. Donovan saw Miss Holbrook and her father meet on friendly terms. He met the man he supposed was Holbrook, but who said he was Hartidge, a canoe-maker. After a short discussion, Donovan left. Gillespie was discovered by Donovan presenting a country church, with $1,000 Gillespie admitted he knew of Holbrook's presence. Miss Pat acknowledged to Donovan that Miss Helen had been missing for a few hours. While riding in a launch, the Italian sailor attempted to molest the trio, but failed. Miss Pat announced her intention of fighting Henry Holbrook and not seeking another hiding place. Donovan met Helen in garden at night. Duplicitous of Helen was confessed by the young lady. She admitted consorting with her father. Despite her aunt's objections, in a night meeting with Donovan. The three went for a long ride the following day. That night, disguised as Helen stole from the house. She met Reginald Gillespie, who told her his love. Gillespie was confronted by Donovan.

CHAPTER IX—Continued.

It was plain that he saw nothing out of the way in thus conveying with Helen Holbrook against her aunt, and that he had not been struck by the enormity of the girl's conduct in taking money from him. He drew in his canoe as I debated with myself what to do with him.

"You've got to leave the lake," I said.

"Then I'm going, thank you!"

He sprang into the canoe, driving it far out of my reach, his paddle splashed, and he was gone.

"Is that you, sir?" called Ima behind me. "I thought I heard some one talking."

"It is nothing, Ima."

CHAPTER X.

The Flutter of a Handkerchief.

The next morning at eight o'clock I sent a note to Miss Pat, asking if she and the other ladies of her house would not take breakfast with me at nine, and she replied, on her quaint visiting card, in an old-fashioned hand, that she and Helen would be glad to come, but that Sister Margaret begged to be excused. It had been in my mind from the first to ask them to dine at Glenarm, and now I wished to see this girl, to test, weigh, study her, as soon as possible after her meeting with Gillespie. I wished to see how she would bear herself before her aunt and me with that dark transaction on her conscience.

Breakfast seems to be, in common experience, the most difficult meal of the day, and yet that hour hangs in memory still as one of the brightest I ever spent. The table was set on the terrace, and its white napery, the best Glenarm silver and crystal, and a bowl of red roses still dewy from the night, all blended coolly with the morning. As the strawberries were passed I felt that the little table had brought us together in a new intimacy. It was delightful to sit face to face with Miss Pat, and not less agreeable to have at my right hand this bewildering girl, whose eyes laughed at me when I sought shame in their depths. Miss Pat poured the coffee, and when I took my cup I felt that it carried benediction with it. I was glad to see her so at peace with the world, and her heart was not older, I could have sworn, than the roses before her.

"I shall refuse to leave when my time is up!" she declared. "Do you think you could spend a winter here, Helen?"

"I should love it!" the girl replied. "It would be perfectly splendid to watch the seasons march across the lake. We can both enroll ourselves at St. Agatha's as post-graduate students, and take a special course in weather here."

"If I didn't sometimes hear trains passing Annandale in the night, I should forget that there's a great busy world off there somewhere," said Miss Pat. "I am ashamed of myself for having been so long discovering this spot. Except one journey to California, I was never west of Philadelphia until I came here."

Helen stood by the line of scarlet geraniums that marked the balustrade, at a point whence the best view of the lake was obtainable—her hands clasped behind her, her head turned slightly.

"There is no one quite like her!" exclaimed Miss Pat.

"She is beautiful!" I acquiesced.

Miss Pat talked on quickly, as though our silence might cause Helen to turn and thus deprive us of the picture.

"Should you like to look over the house?" I asked a little later, when Helen had come back to the table. "It is said to be one of the finest houses in interior America, and there are some good pictures."

"We should be very glad," said Miss Pat, and Helen murmured assent.

"But we must not stay too long, Aunt Pat. Mr. Donovan has his own

"There is No One Quite Like Her!"

affairs. We must not tax his generosity too far."

"And we are going to send some letters off to-day. If it isn't asking too much, I should like to drive to the village later," said Miss Pat.

"Yes; and I should like a paper of pins and a new magazine," said Helen, a little, a very little eagerness in her tone.

"Certainly. The stable is at your disposal, and our entire marine."

"But we must see the Glenarm pictures first," said Miss Pat, and we went at once into the great cool house, coming at last to the gallery on the third floor.

"Whistler!" Miss Pat exclaimed in delight before the famous "Lady in the Gray Cloak." "I thought that picture was owned in England."

"It was, but old Mr. Glenarm had to have it." That Melsonnier is supposed to be in Paris, but you see it's here."

"It's wonderful!" said Miss Pat. She returned to the Whistler and studied it with rapt attention, and I stood by, enjoying her pleasure. Helen had passed on while Miss Pat hung upon the Whistler.

"How beautifully those draperies are suggested, Helen. That is one of the best of all his things."

But Helen was not beside her, as she had thought. There were several recesses in the room, and I thought the girl had stepped into one of these, but just then I saw her shadow outside.

"Miss Holbrook is on the balcony," I said.

"Oh, very well. We must go," she replied, quietly, but lingered before the picture.

I left Miss Pat and crossed the room to the balcony. As I approached one of the doors I saw Helen, standing tiptoe for greater height, slowly raise and lower her handkerchief thrice, as though signaling to some one on the water.

I laughed outright as I stepped beside her.

"It's better to be a picture than to look at one, Miss Holbrook! Allow me!"

In her confusion she had dropped her handkerchief, and when I returned it she slipped it into her cuff with a murmur of thanks. A flash of anger lighted her eyes and she colored slightly; but she was composed in an instant. And, looking off beyond the water-tower, I was not surprised to see the Stiletto quite near our shore, her white sails filling lazily in the scant wind. A tiny flag flashed recognition and answer to the girl's signal, and was hauled down at once.

We were both silent as we watched it; then I turned to the girl, who bent her head a moment, tucking the handkerchief a trifle more securely into her sleeve. She smiled quizzically, with a compression of the lips.

"The view here is fine, isn't it?"

We regarded each other with entire good humor. I heard Miss Pat within, slowly crossing the bare floor of the gallery.

"You are incomparable!" I exclaimed. "Verily, a daughter of Janus has come among us!"

"The best pictures are outdoors, after all," commented Miss Pat; and after a further ramble about the house they returned to St. Agatha's, whence we were to drive together to Annandale in half an hour.

I went to the stone water-tower and scanned the movements of the Stiletto with a glass while I waited. The sloop was tacking slowly away toward Annandale, her skipper managing his sheet with an expert hand. It may have been the ugly business in which the pretty toy was engaged, or it may have been the lazy deliberation of her oblique progress over the water, but I felt then and afterward that there was something sinister in every line of the Stiletto. The more I deliberated the less certain I became of anything that pertained to the Holbrooks; and I tested my memory by repeating the alphabet and counting ten, to make sure that my wits were still equal to such exercises.

We drove into Annandale without incident and with no apparent timidity on Miss Pat's part. Helen was all amiability and cheer. I turned perforce to address her now and then, and to find that the lurking smile about her lips, and a challenging light in her eyes, woke no resentment in me.

I left Miss Pat and Helen at the general store while I sought the hardware merchant with a list of trifles required for Glenarm. I was detained some time longer than I had expected, and in leaving I stood for a moment on the platform before the shop, gazing with the merchant of village affairs. I glanced down the street to see if the ladies had appeared, and observed at the same time my team and wagon standing at the curb in charge of the driver, just as I had left them.

While I still talked to the merchant, Helen came out of the general store, glanced hurriedly up and down the street, and crossed quickly to the post-office, which lay opposite. I watched her as I made my adieux to the shopkeeper, and just then I witnessed something that interested me at once. Within the open door of the post-office the Italian sailor lounged idly. Helen carried a number of letters in her hand, and as she entered the post-office I was sure my eyes played me no trick—definitely, almost imperceptibly, an envelope passed from her hand to the Italian's. He stood immovable, as he had been, while the girl passed on into the office. She reappeared at once, recrossed the street and met her aunt at the door of the general store. I rejoined them, and as we all met by the waiting trap the Italian left the post-office and strolled slowly away toward the lake.

I was not sure whether Miss Pat saw him. If she did she made no sign, but began describing with much amusement an odd countryman she had seen in the shop.

"You mailed our letters, did you, Helen? Then I believe we have quite finished, Mr. Donovan. I like your little village; I'm disposed to love everything about this beautiful lake."

"Yes; even the town hall, where the Old Georgia Minstrels seem to have appeared for one night only, some time last December, is a shrine worthy of pilgrimages," remarked Helen. "And postage stamps cost no more here than in Stamford. I had really expected that they would be a trifle dearer."

I laughed rather more than was required, for those wonderful eyes of hers were filled with something as honest fun. She was proud of herself, and was even flushed the least with her success.

As we passed the village pier I saw the Stiletto lying at the edge of the inlet that made a miniature harbor for the village, and, rowing swiftly toward it, his oars flashing brightly, was the Italian, still plainly in sight. Whether Miss Pat saw the boat and ignored it, or failed to see, I did not know, for when I turned she was studying the cover of a magazine that lay in her lap. Helen fell to talking vivaciously of the contrasts between American and English landscape; and so we drove back to St. Agatha's.

CHAPTER XI.

The Carnival of Canoes.

I had dined alone and was lounging about the grounds when I heard voices near the Glenarm wall. There was no formal walk there, and my steps were silenced by the turf. The heavy scent of flowers from within gave me a hint of my whereabouts; there was, I remembered, at this point on the school lawn a rustic bench embowered in honeysuckle, and Miss Pat and Helen were, I surmised, taking their coffee there. I started away, thinking to enter by the gate and join them, when Helen's voice rose angrily—there was no mistaking it, and she said in a tone that rang oddly on my ears:

"But you are unkind to him! You are unjust! It is not fair to blame father for his ill fortune."

"That is true, Helen; but it is not your father's ill fortune that I hold against him. All I ask of him is to be sane, reasonable, to change his manner of life, and to come to me in a spirit of fairness."

"But he is proud, just as you are; and Uncle Arthur ruined him! It was not father, but Uncle Arthur, who brought all these hideous things upon us."

I passed rapidly on, and resumed my walk elsewhere. It was a sad business, the shadowy father, the criminal uncle, who had, as Helen said, brought ruin upon them all; the sweet, motherly, older sister, driven in desperation to hide; and, not less melancholy, this beautiful girl, the pathos of whose position had struck me increasingly. Perhaps Miss Pat was too severe, and I half accused her of I know not what crimes of rapacity and greed for withholding her brother's money; then I set my teeth hard into my pipe as my slumbering loyalty to Miss Pat warmed my heart again.

"It's the night of the carnival, sir," Ima reminded me, seeking me at the water-tower.

"Very good, Ima. You needn't look the boat-house. I may go out later."

The cottagers at Port Annandale hold once every summer a canoe fête, and this was the appointed night. I was in no mood for gaiety of any sort, but it occurred to me that I might relieve the strained relations between Helen and her aunt by taking them out to watch the procession of boats. I passed through the gate and took a turn or two, not to appear to know of the whereabouts of the women, and to my surprise met Miss Pat walking alone.

She greeted me with her usual kindness, but I knew that I had broken upon sad reflections. Helen was not in sight, but I strolled back and forth with Miss Pat, thinking the girl might appear.

"I had a note from Father Stoddard to-day," said Miss Pat.

"I congratulate you," I laughed. "He doesn't honor me."

"He's much occupied," she remarked, defensively; "and I suppose he doesn't indulge in many letters. Mine was only ten lines long, not more!"

"Father Stoddard feels that he has a mission in the world, and he has little time for people like us, who have food, clothes and drink in plenty. He gives his life to the hungry, unclothed and thirsty."

And now, quite abruptly, Miss Pat spoke of her brother.

"Has Henry gone?"

"Yes; he left ten days ago."

She nodded several times, then looked at me and smiled.

"You frightened him off! I am your you!"—and I was glad in that she did not know that one had sent him away.

Sweet Maid—You must remember that ours was a summer engagement. The Man—That means, if you see anyone you like better, you'll break it? Sweet Maid—Yes.

The Man—And if I see anyone I like better—

Sweet Maid—I'll sue you for breach of promise.

SOFT, WHITE HANDS

May be Obtained in One Night.

For preserving the hands as well as for preventing redness, roughness, and chapping, and imparting that velvety softness and whiteness much desired by women Cuticura Soap, assisted by Cuticura Ointment, is believed to be superior to all other skin soaps. For those who work in corrosive liquids, or at occupations which tend to injure the hands, it is invaluable.

Treatment.—Bathe and soak the hands on retiring in a strong, hot, creamy lather of Cuticura Soap. Dry and anoint freely with Cuticura Ointment, and in severe cases spread the Cuticura Ointment on thin pieces of old linen or cotton. Wear during the night old, loose gloves, or a tight bandage of old cotton or linen to protect the clothing from stain. For red, rough, and chapped hands, dry, fissured, itching, feverish palms, and shapeless nails with painful finger ends, this treatment is most effective. Cuticura Remedies are sold throughout the world, Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., sole proprietors, Boston, Mass.

Fight Against Plague Goes On.

Although the survey of the past year's anti-tuberculosis work shows that much has been done, the reports from all parts of the country indicate that this year the amount of money to be expended, and the actual number of patients that will be treated will be more than double that of the past year. For instance, special appropriations have been made in the various municipalities for next year's anti-tuberculosis work, aggregating $3,976,500. In addition to these appropriations, over $4,000,000 has been set aside by the different state legislatures for the campaign against tuberculosis this year. Besides these sums, a large number of the present existing institutions and associations are planning enlargements of their work, and new organizations are being formed daily.

A Good Head for Business.

"I want a hat-pin," said little Mary of four years, as she gazed eagerly at the cushion full of sparkling ornaments on the milliner's showcase. "How much is it?" she asked, after making a very deliberate choice and laying her purchase money, a bright penny, on the counter. "Oh, nothing," returned the kind-hearted Mrs. Briggs, as Mary's mother was one of her regular customers. Imagine her amusement as the little "bargain hunter" said most eagerly: "I'll take two, then."—Delmeator.

The Worst of It.

"Oh, she's awful. Whenever she tries to sing a song she simply murders it."

"But that's not the worst of it. If she'd only murder us outright I wouldn't mind, but she tortures it so long."

Evidently So.

"What do you suppose is behind this refrigerator trust?"

"A cold deal for somebody."

Enthusiasm is the poultice men apply of their scars.

WHEN DINNER COMES

One Ought to Have a Good Appetite.

A good appetite is the best sauce. It goes a long way toward helping in the digestive process, and that is absolutely essential to health and strength. Many persons have found that Grape-Nuts food is not only nourishing but is a great appetizer. Even children like the taste of it and grow strong and rosy from its use.

It is especially the food to make a weak stomach strong and create an appetite for dinner.

"I am 57 years old," writes a Tenn. grandmother, "and have had a weak stomach from childhood. By great care as to my diet I enjoyed a reasonable degree of health, but never found anything to equal Grape-Nuts as a standby."

"When I have no appetite for breakfast and just eat to keep up my strength, I take 4 teaspoonsful of Grape-Nuts with good rich milk and when dinner comes I am hungry. While if I go without any breakfast I never feel like eating dinner. Grape-Nuts for breakfast seems to make a healthy appetite for dinner."

"My 13-months-old grandson had been very sick with stomach trouble during the past summer, and finally we put him on Grape-Nuts. Now he is growing plump and well. When asked if he wants his nurse or Grape-Nuts, he brightens up and points to the cupboard. He was no trouble to wean at all—thanks to Grape-Nuts." Read the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs. "Above a Reason."

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

70 Years with Coughs

We have had nearly seventy years of experience with Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. That makes us have great confidence in it for coughs, colds, bronchitis, weak throats, and weak lungs. Ask your own doctor what experience he has had with it. He knows. He can advise you wisely. Keep in close touch with your family physician. No alcohol in this cough medicine. J.C. Australia's Waste Land.

Universal experience has proved that no country can progress or be held safe from invasion where population is sparse and the lands are not utilized. Our future prosperity is vitally dependent on the sort of use to which we put our lands—Age, Melbourne.

"Lounging Cars" Put On.

A leading western railroad has had constructed four novel coaches termed "lounging cars" for use upon four of its through trains, a particular feature of which will be the installation in each of a small library to include Dr. Eliot's famous "five feet of books."

Avoid Harsh Drugs

Many Cathartics Tend to Cause Injury to the Bowels.

If you are subject to constipation you should avoid strong drugs and cathartics. They only give temporary relief and their reaction is harmful and sometimes more annoying than constipation. They in no way effect a cure and their tendency is to weaken the already organs with which they come in contact.

We honestly believe that we have the best constipation treatment ever devised. Our faith in it is so strong that we sell it on the positive guarantee that it shall not cost the user a cent if it does not give entire satisfaction and completely remedy constipation. This preparation is called Rexall Orderlies. These are prompt, soothing and most effective in action. They are made of a recent chemical discovery. Their principal ingredient is odorless, tasteless and colorless. Combined with other well known ingredients, long established for their usefulness in the treatment of constipation, it forms a tablet which is eaten just like candy. They may be taken at any time, either day or night, without fear of their causing any inconvenience whatever. They do not gripe, purge nor cause nausea. They act without causing any pain or excessive looseness of the bowels. They are ideal for children, weak, delicate persons and aged people as well as for the most hearty person.

They come in two size packages, 12 tablets 10 cents, 36 tablets 25 cents. Remember you can obtain them only at our store.—The Rexall Store. A. E. Stanley & Co.
