Vol. XL. No. 34.

NORTHLVILLE MICH., FRIDAY, MARCH 25, 1910.

$1.00 Per Year in Advance

School Notes.

[By a Pupil.]

Blanche Meyers is a new pupil in the Kindergarten.

Mary Sowles and Helen Cunningham are new Third grade pupils.

The Fourth grade pupils are studying the life of Alexander the Great.

Miss Sadie Hughes of Detroit visited the First grade one day this week.

Mrs. Milo Johnston and Mrs. Bert Phillips visited the Kindergarten this week.

Bina Hayes, Gladys Robins, Floyd Lanning of the Sixth grade received 100 in Spelling last month.

Miss Withey, the Second grade teacher, was ill part of this week and Ceci Johnson taught in her place.

The A class of the Sixth grade are making maps of the Central States, putting the product of each state on the maps.

A practice game of base ball between the First and Second boys' teams will be held in the Athletic Park Saturday afternoon.

The Third grade pupils, with Henry Holmes and Margery Dick as captains, held a Spelling contest one day last week, in which Henry's side won.

Elmer Hollis, Marlan Power, Thelma Ambler, Lydella Murdock and Helen Scherer of the Seventh grade received 100 in Spelling last month.

A course of study and year book will be out next month if the present arrangements materialize and will contain detailed courses of study for all the grades.

The Seniors who had charge of the Friday exercises last week gave a fine literary program. The Juniors are planning a debate for this week upon the question, "Resolved, that Speaker Cannon should be forced to resign."

The new aeroplane will be ready to take its first flight next Saturday. Much interest seems manifested in the machinery and construction of a platform which is being built on the grade building, on which the "Flyers" may land.

The girls were beaten at New Baltimore last Friday evening by a score of 21 to 13. The New Baltimore people were good, clean rooters and the girls feel well satisfied with the game. The N. B. girls proved to be fine entertainers and the home girls had a fine time.

Instead of the regular teachers' meeting last Monday night they enjoyed a field trip out First avenue to the other side of the new cemetery. That part of our town contains proof of having once been a glaciated area. This trip was in preparation for similar work by the pupils under the direction of the teachers.

Arrangements have been made for a clay paved tennis court back of the High school. All who have become members of the association and kept up their dues, are entitled to the use of the court and rackets on the condition of using tennis shoes when playing on the court. Balls must be furnished by the players after they have learned the game. Jess Clark has been engaged to do the work.

School Savings deposit last Friday was $88.46 making a total of over $520. The deposit by grades was as follows: Kindergarten $45; First $96; Second $150; Third $826; Fourth $127; Fifth $108; Sixth $29; Seventh $133; Eighth $629; High school $720.

A contract has been closed with Max Johnston of Livingston county, a graduate of the M. A. C. who will have charge of the Agriculture work in the High school, and grades, also Physics. It is anticipated that the Agriculture course will be made a strong attraction in the High school and the superintendent advised that applications should be made soon by those planning to enter.

Friday evening, April 20, has been set upon as the date of the Junior play, which is an amusing story of school life. The play will be given in the Opera House by the Junior class for the purpose of raising funds for the Senior reception. We are setting the date so far ahead in order that every one may begin to save up their money to come. The price of admission will be given later, an announcement appearing each week until the stated time.

Mother of Sixteen Soldiers.

Mrs. Sarah Braillob of Moundsville, W. Va., aged 100, holds the United States record as the mother of the largest number of Civil war soldiers. No less than sixteen of her sons served in the battles of that war, fourteen on the union side and two with the confederates, while her total family was twenty-three.

Value of Advertising.

Probate Clerk Charles C. Chadwick: "I never saw the value so well demonstrated as in the case of a Northville farmer who had some chickens to sell. Somebody advised him to try a liner in the paper. The farmer declared it would be a sheer waste of money. But finally he tried it. The next morning after the ad appeared, he was able to sell his seventy-eight chickens for $78. $1.00 apiece, which is most astonishing for a chicken when bought in such large lots, when you come to think of it. Now that farmer is a big 'bug' on advertising and is clearing up his farm of all the turkeys he does not want through the medium of liners."

The ad mentioned appeared in the Record.

WETS AND DRIES CLASH IN U.P.

VIGOROUS CAMPAIGN BEING WAGED IN EVERY ONE OF EIGHT NORTHERN COUNTIES.

ROSE, PECK, DARROW AND TOWNE ENLISTED ON SIDE OF LIQUOR INTERESTS' BATTLE.

Dr. Samuel Dickie, President of Albion College, Heads Prohibition Invaders—Will Fight Until Eve of Election.

Vigorous campaigns are being waged by the Wets and Dries in the eight upper Michigan counties in which the question of prohibition is to be submitted to the vote of the people at the April election. More oratory is being heard than ever before in an appeal to the electorate. Prominent speakers are being sent into the peninsula, and whether arguing the saloon or anti-saloon side of the question, they are being greeted by large crowds. This is taken to indicate a lively interest in the respective campaigns and as pointing to a vote materially larger than is ordinarily cast in spring elections.

The big gun of the dry side is Dr. Samuel Dickie, president of Albion College, and he is supported by a large contingent of effective speakers, among them legislators, attorneys and educators. Mayor David S. Rose of Milwaukee has fed the charge of the wet forces, and he is being followed by former Gov. George W. Peck of Wisconsin. Clarence Darrow of Chicago, also is enlisted in the liquor men's heavy artillery, and so is former Congressman Charles A. Towne of New York. One of Marquette and upper Michigan. The orators will roll now until the very eve of the election.

State Has Trees to Give Away.

At a meeting of the public domain commission March 10, it was decided to dispose of all the surplus nursery stock over and above that which the commission would plant out during the coming year, at the actual cost of production plus the cost of packing and delivery to the railroad stations. There are about 2,000,000 seedlings; that, on account of their age, should be planted the coming spring. They are as follows:

Western yellow pine, three years old; red spruce, three; western cedar, four; eastern hemlock, four; balsam spruce, four; blue spruce, four; Scotch pine, two; white pine, two; western yellow pine, two; strand-panned Norway spruce, and transplanted Norway spruce and transplanted western yellow pine.

Trees will be given on application to A. C. Carlton, secretary public domain commission, Lansing. Fifty percent will be added to the price of these seedlings provided they are to be planted outside the state.

Railroad Has Trees to Give Away. The Detroit & Mackinac Railroad Co. has for the past five years experimented with a forestry nursery on its Tawas Beach property. They have on hand trees of the following kind for transplanting: White pine, Scotch pine, Western yellow pine, spruce and western cedar. They desire to dispose of these trees and will give them to parties who will plant them and see that they are properly taken care of. The only charge made, the railroad company says, will be for the expense of packing and freight charges from East Tawas to destination. G. W. Luce, superintendent, has the matter in charge.

Will Investigate Express Companies. Chairman Glasgow of the state railway commission will soon begin a campaign against the excessive and indiscriminate rates charged by express companies in Michigan. The decision of the supreme court relative to the commission having power to determine the rates to be charged by the railroads of the state regarding excess baggage was held as a signal victory for the commission, as the court plainly gives the commission the power which Mr. Glasgow has contended all along that it had a perfect right to.

Cash Burnt in Haymow. The barn of Palmer Cook, on his farm, just north of Allegan, burned together with all its contents, and $1,600 in cash, which was secreted in the haymow. The fire occurred during the noon hour while the family was at dinner and was not discovered until entry to the barn was impossible. The blaze started of sparks from a passing locomotive setting fire to the dry grass in a meadow, and the flames swept to the barn by the strong wind blowing directly towards the structure.

Mildred Maulsbury, 8 years old of Clio, while returning to her home with her parents, was sitting beside her father's horse when the animal kicked backwards, killing the child.

By the breaking of elevator cables at the plant of the Fuller Buggy Co. at Flint, the lift, which contained two men and an automobile, dropped 15 feet. Fred Durese received a bad scalp wound and Clayton Rutledge was cut over the eye and had an ankle fractured.

The village of Brant, 30 miles north of Chesaning, is undergoing a siege of smallpox. The physicians have organized and accepted the ruling of the county association to increase the fees of medical visits. A charge of 50 cents a mile will be made for country visits, with an additional fee for night visits.

STATE BRIEFS.

The Michigan State Poultry Breeders' association will hold their first show in Detroit in January, 1911.

The school board of Flint is so well satisfied with its present corps of teachers that no change will be made this year.

Miss Lulu Grafeau, 21 years old, was instantly killed by a G. R. & I. switch engine at Traverse City. Three cars went over the young woman's body.

Because he blew the top of a man's derby out with blank cartridges, Frank Seighardt, giving his residence as Columbus, O., was arrested at Flint.

C. M. Hunt is at the head of a corporation to be formed at Eaton Rapids for the manufacture of a solution for orchard spraying. A new factory will be built for the industry.

After struggling for five years to clear up a debt of $2,000, the Holland Reformed church, at Montague, has received the entire estate of Mrs. Richard Haun, valued at $10,000.

The Port Huron Salt Co. has merged with the Morton Salt Co. and the new organization will continue under the name of the former. It is planned to produce 100,000 barrels of salt a day.

Over 500 attended the annual St. Patrick's Day banquet at Kalamazoo. Speeches were made by John Hennigan of Jackson, Lawton T. Hemans of Mason, Judge Purbaugh of South Bend and N. Devereaux of Chesa-

53.50 RECIPE CURES WEAK KIDNEYS, FREE

RELIEVES URINARY AND KIDNEY TROUBLES, BACKACHE, STRAINING, SWELLING, ETC.

Stop Pain in the Bladder, Kidneys and Back.

Wouldn't it be nice within a week or so to begin to say goodbye forever to the scalding, dribbling, straining, or too frequent passage of urine; the forehead, and the back-of-the-head aches, the stitches and pains in the back; the growing muscle weakness; spots before the eyes; yellow skin; sluggish bowels; swollen eyelids or ankles; leg cramps; unnatural short breath; sleeplessness and the despondency?

I have a recipe for these troubles that you can depend on, and if you want to make a quick recovery, you ought to write and get a copy of it.

Many a doctor would charge you $3.50 just for writing this prescription, but I have it and will be glad to send it to you entirely free. Just drop me a line like this: Dr. A. E. Robinson, K-256 Luck Building, Detroit, Mich., and I will send it by return mail in a plain envelope. As you will see when you get it, this recipe contains only pure, harmless remedies, but it has great healing and pain-conquering power.

I will quickly show you its power once you use it so I think you had better see what it is without delay. I will send you a copy free you can use it and cure yourself at home.

A Consolation.

A young woman who had been in the habit of spending her summers recently in a hill village of Connecticut recently encountered a rural neighbor in a city store.

"How's your wife, Mr. Green?" inquired the young woman graciously.

"Why, don't you know," said Mr. Green, "I lost her three months ago?"

"Oh, said the shocked young woman, "I didn't know. I beg your pardon, Mr. Green, for being so thoughtless."

"Well," said the disconsolate widower, "nothing's going to help it but time."

"Well," said the disconsolate widower, "nothing's going to help it but time."

"Record for Strangeness."

A Niagara Falls man tells this story:

"A Buffalo man brought a relative from Scotland here to see our grand spectacle. The two gazed at the fall in silence a long time. Then the Buffalo man heaved a sigh and said:

"Ah, Cousin Donald, did you ever see anything so beautiful and strange?"

"The Scotchman, after a moment's thought, answered calmly:

"'Weel, for bonnie, yon's n richt; but for strange, no—for I once saw in the Town o' Peebles a peacock wi' a wooden leg."

"How Sharper Than Serpent's Tooth."

An irritable old farmer and his ungrateful, short-tempered wife were busy grubbing turnips one hot, sultry day, when the old man suddenly stumbled over a small stump.

"Gosh darn that everlasting stump!" he exclaimed. "I wish it was hell!"

The son slowly straightened up from his work and gazed reproachfully at his father.

"Why, you oughtn't to say that, pap," he drawled. "You might stumble over that stump again some day."

Everybody's.

Determining Sex.

Mark Twain says that he has always taken woman's part.

"For instance," he relates, "I once strongly reprimanded a woman out in Hannibal, Mo. Here was the occasion:

"So this is a little girl, eh? I said to her as she displayed her children to me. 'And this sturdy little prichin in the bib belongs, I suppose, to the contrary sex?'

"Yassah," the woman replied. "Yassah, dat's a girl, too!"—Everybody's Magazine.

Desperate Remedy.

"Yes," said the musician in a reminiscent mood; "my wife fell in love with me and married me when I was learning to play the cornet."

"Are you sure," asked his friend, "that she married you because she loved you, or to make you stop practicing on the cornet?"

A LITTLE THING.

Changes the Home Feeling.

Coffee blots out the sunshine from many a home by making the mother, or some other member of the household, dyspeptic, nervous and irritable. There are thousands of cases where the proof is absolutely undeniable. Here is one.

A Wis. mother writes:

"I was taught to drink coffee at an early age, and also at an early age became a victim to headaches, and as I grew to womanhood these headaches became a part of me, as I was scarcely ever free from them."

"About five years ago a friend urged me to try Postum. I made the trial and the result was so satisfactory that we have used it ever since."

"My husband and little daughter were subject to bilious attacks, but they have both been entirely free from them since we began using Postum instead of coffee. I no longer have headaches and my health is perfect."

If some of these tired, nervous, irritable women would only leave off coffee absolutely and try Postum they would find a wonderful change in their life. It would then be filled with sunshine and happiness rather than weariness and discontent. And think what an effect it would have on the family, for the mood of the mother is largely responsible for the temper of the children.

Read "The Road to Wellville," in "Post." There's a Reason.

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

Need Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Brookfield, Mo.—"Two years ago I was unable to do any kind of work and only weighed 118 pounds. My trouble dates back to the time that women may expect nature to bring them on the Change of Life. I got a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it made me feel much better, and I have continued its use. I am very grateful to you for the good health I am now enjoying."—Mrs. SARAH LOUISIANE, 143 Livingston Street, Brookfield, Mo.

The Change of Life is the most critical period of a woman's existence, and neglect of health at this time invites disease and pain.

Women everywhere should remember that there is no other remedy known to medicine that will so successfully carry women through this trying period as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs.

For 50 years it has been curing women from the worst forms of female ills—Inflammation, ulceration, discharges, fibroid tumors, irregular periods, periodic pains, backache, and nervous prostration.

If you would like special advice about your case write a confidential letter to Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. Her advice is free, and always helpful.

For Lame

An aching back is instantly relieved by an application of Sloan's Liniment.

This liniment takes the place of massage and is better than sticky plasters. It penetrates—without rubbing—through the skin and muscular tissue right to the bone, quickens the blood, relieves congestion, and gives permanent as well as temporary relief.

Here's the Proof.
Mr. JAMES C. LEE, of 1100 1st St., Atlanta, Ga., writes: "I was suffering from rheumatism and constantly injured my back. I suffered terribly at times; from the small of my back all around my stomach was just as if I had been hit in the ribs. I could go with it and kept them apart for many years. Donovan refused to give him any relief.

"I am now doing as much labor work as any man in the shop, thanks to Sloan's Liniment."

Sloan's Liniment

Mr. J. P. Evans, of Mt. Airy, Ga., writes: "I suffered for three years with rheumatism. I used Sloan's Liniment, and was cured sound and well, and am glad to say I haven't been troubled with rheumatism since. My doctor said he had never seen such a case. One-half a bottle took the pain and swelling out."

Sloan's Liniment has no equal as a remedy for Rheumatism, Neuralgia or any pain or stiffness in the muscles or joints. Price, 25c, 50c, and $1.00.

Sloan's book on horses, cattle, sheep, dogs, cats, goats, etc., is sent free. Address Dr. Earl S. Sloan, Boston, Mass., U.S.A.

What is Warnerism?

"I am not in favor of Warnerism, though I am personally a great admirer of Governor Warner himself," said Chase Osborn at the Detroit banquet. Well, Chase is not alone in not favoring "Warnerism."

The big railroad companies are not in favor of Warnerism which compelled them to reduce their rates of fare to two cents per mile.

The big binder twine trusts are against Warnerism because it established a state binder twine plant at Jackson, which compelled the reduction of binder twine to the farmers of Michigan of from two to three cents per pound.

The big corporations like the telegraph, telephone and express companies do not like Warnerism because it has compelled them to pay their just share of the taxes.

Possibly the big mining corporations of the Upper Peninsula do not favor Warnerism because their tax assessments have been increased under it.

The men who formerly controlled conventions and nominations do not like Warnerism either. Why? Because under the "Warnerism" administration a primary law has been enacted providing for nominations by the people.

The big corporations do not like Warnerism because they can no longer control legislation, for as the result of the Warner administration, the people now select the members of the legislature instead of special interests doing it for them.

The few men who formerly dominated governors and U. S. senators are against Warnerism because under the Warner administration the power to make those nominations by the people was enacted into law.

Warnerism has created a dairy and food department that materially helped to place the dairying interests of Michigan on a paying basis, which is the admiration and astonishment of neighboring states.

It was just the same with Pingreeism. Pingree fought for the people's interests, while the trusts, corporations and railroads fought Pingreeism and he went out of office almost discredited and without friends. Today monuments are erected to his memory and he is hailed as Michigan's greatest governor.

Yell against Warnerism and every foe of primary reform, every foe of equal taxation, every foe of equitable railroad fares, every enemy of just freight rates, every enemy of the nomination of governors and U. S. senators by the people and every enemy of about everything else for people's interests, will echo the yell.

Townsend Proves His Fighting Qualities.

Newspapers and political opponents of Congressman Townsend who have been proclaiming that Mr. Townsend was an "insurgent" at home and a truckling worshiper of the speaker at Washington, will doubtless change their opinion now and at least give Mr. Townsend credit for consistency. In support of his motion, Mr. Townsend made one of the most stirring speeches that has been heard in the house this session. In closing he said:

"It will be a great mistake for this house to bring in here a proposition that is not at all closely connected with the great constitutional question which has been involved in the past, and to let the decision of the chair decide whether or not we are going to dispense with calendar Wednesday hereafter. For myself I have been satisfied that this rule has been a most wholesome one, and under it more boldness has been considered in an orderly and careful manner than has been considered in the same length of time during any Congress of which I have been a member.

"I say to you, Mr. Speaker, if we are to be governed by precedent, it is about time we set a correct precedent in this house, in order that that matter hereafter may be properly considered. (Applause.)

A majority of the house agreed with Mr. Townsend and they proceeded to put Uncle Joe Cannon down and out.

Nothing uncertain about the work of Doan's Kidney Pills in Northville. There is plenty of positive proof of this in the testimony of citizens. Such evidence should convince the most skeptical doubter. Read the following statement:

Mrs. George Brown, of Northville, Mich., says: "I cannot say too much in praise of Doan's Kidney Pills. For almost a year I suffered from kidney complaint. I had acute pains across my back and hips and the kidney secretions were unnatural, showing that my kidneys were disordered. Often at night the muscles in my back contracted and the pain was so terrible that I was obliged to get up and walk the floor. I had often heard about Doan's Kidney Pills and finally I had my husband procure a supply at Murdock Bros' Drug store. They soon brought relief and I continued taking them until my condition had improved in every way. I heartily recommend Doan's Kidney Pills to other sufferers from kidney complaint."

The above statement was given on November 28, 1909 and on March 6, 1909, it was confirmed in detail by Mrs. Brown.

New York was guest of honor. The rail sawing contest was easily won by Lou Babbitt with Ed. Lapham a close second. Charlie Booth came out a winner in the egg contest while Will Verkes and Jack Johnson were tied as the largest consumers of hot sugar. Frank Harmon was backed as the best stoker and Bob Verkes as the most skillful chef and Will Penfield as the punkiest player. Anyhow everybody had a fine time as they always do at these annual gatherings.

Putting up a stove pipe is easy enough if you only go at it right. In the morning breakfast or some light nutritious diet and drink two cups of hot coffee after which put on a coat of old clothes or news ones. If you can't get them on time put on an old pair of buckskin gloves, and when everything is ready to strike the fatal blow go and get a good hardware man who understands his business. If this rule is strictly adhered to, the gorgeous cigar stem winding profably off the present day would be diminished and the world be profited thereby.

The Harmony Whist club was entertained at a six o'clock dinner at F. S. Harmon's Wednesday evening and a delightful time was had by all.

Wm. Gortee, the clothier, will donate ten per cent of his gross sales tomorrow, Saturday, to the building fund of the Presbyterian church society. This will include goods in all departments. Clothing, gents furnishings, hats, neckwear, collars, summer-weight underwear, etc.

Mrs. Lizzie Teague was given a neat surprise one afternoon last week by the assembling at her home of twenty or more friends from Detroit and Northville. As usual Mrs. T. was made a "goose" of by being invited out for dinner and supper and a few other side stunts, all of which she tumbled into like an easy mark.

Robbers are held responsible for two burglaries in Plymouth Sunday night. The Conner Hardware store was entered by prying open a rear door with a chisel, and knives, soup ladles, berry spoons, etc. were carried away. From there the burglars went to the tailor shop of Felix Freydi, where suits of clothes, pants patterns and numerous other articles were removed. The robbers made their escape and their work was not discovered until the next morning. Loss nearly $500.

Governor Warner is taking a firm stand against pool-selling and prize fights in Michigan. During the past few days he had to call upon the authorities of Macomb county to look after an alleged pool sales room and several times has been obliged to inform officers of various counties to see that no scheduled prize fights were allowed to take place. Michigan is at the top in educational lines and Governor Warner proposes to see that degrading and unlawful abuses are not allowed to blot the state.

Alma Washed Egg and Nut excels all other soft coals for domestic purposes. $5.50 per ton delivered.

SYNOPSIS

A young woman cast ashore on a lonely island, where she finds a man who is a savage and unable to speak in any known language. She decides to educate him and mold his mind to her own ideals. She finds a human skeleton, the skeleton of a man who had tried to live a life of virtue, but had failed. She concludes that her companion was cast ashore on the island when a child, and that his name is John Revell Charnock of Virginia. Near the skeleton she finds two women's bones, one white and one black. — See page C to M. P. Sept. 10, 1883. Katherine Brenton was a highly specialized product of a leading university. Her writings on the sex problem had attracted wide attention. Her son, John, had married a woman he had met in a barbershop, and they decide to put her theories into practice. With no other ceremony than a hand-clasp they go away together. A few days on his yacht shows her that the man can practice lofty ideals to those who are willing to accept them. The man is married. While drunk he attempts to kiss her. She knocks him down and leaves him unconscious and escapes in the darkness in a gasoline launch.

Her training had not been manual, but she was bright enough to supplement her lack of skill and after some hours of hard work she actually got one car in an upright position and securely lashed. Out of the heavy cloak more huge circular than anything else—she improvised a sail with the other car as a boom thrust across the boat between the mast and the little fore-and-aft deck. The coat had been heavily braided. She ripped the silk traid from the edge, cut off the hood of the cloak and fashioned a triangular sail faced by the silk braid to mast and boom.

The boom was immobile and the only way she could sail was straight before the wind. If the wind shifted, she would shift with it. She had some slight control over the vessel with the helm, but that was all. It was noon when she finished her labors, but she was more than satisfied with what she had accomplished, for the cloak was big enough to give an appreciable way to the boat. She guessed it might be three or four knots an hour. That would be nearly 100 miles a day. She could eke out her provisions and water for five or six days longer and she could go without for two or three days after the last drop and incisor had vanished. Perhaps she might run down a habitable island in that time. Possibly, although this possibility was more faint than the other, she might be seen by some vessel and picked up.

At any rate, all she could do was wait. She felt better, too, because she had made a human contribution to the determination of her fate. She was no longer absolutely at the play of chance. For five days she sailed steadily on, the helms remaining even and holding invariably true for that period. She learned the trick of leaning the wheel at night and so was able to take as much rest as her tired worn and racked body permitted in the confinement of the little boat.

She had abundance of time for thought. Time was when she had revelled in such opportunities, but there was less enjoyment in the chances afforded her now. That she who had lived in the high realm of speculation should suddenly become a woman of action, fighting for life, struck her as a strange thing. Insensibly the conditions of her present existence modified her philosophy. It seemed different, a smaller thing. She was less sure and confident of herself alone in the great immensity than in the crowded city. There were no applauding thousands. She breathed no air of adulation. She was alone with her soul. The man who is alone is always face to face with God, though his eyes may be hidden so that he cannot see the Divine. It was so with this woman.

Never had she so craved other companionship. She would have been happy if she could have believed that there was a God, for had there been a God, she would not have felt so deserted. So she fought on against her soul and her circumstances—a losing battle.

The sixth day opened dark and gloomy. The wind had risen during the night. The day broke heavily overcast. Even to her inexperience she could realize that a storm was at hand. She had seen nothing during the period; that is, nothing of which she could avail herself. Twice, once to starboard and another time to port, she had passed low lying islands, dim on the horizon. She had no way of checking the boat or of changing its course to run down either of them. She had to go on just as she was. She realized that she could never land in loss she were driven directly upon some island that might lie in her course. She knew, too, that the chances that might happen were very remote. She had daily diminished the portion of food and drink she allotted to herself. She had husbanded everything with the utmost care. On the sixth day they were gone. She awoke with a frightful craving which intensified as the day drew on.

She was thankful for one thing that the sun was veiled, although the heat in the humid, heavy, overcast air was something almost unbearable. Under the freshening breeze the boat went much more swiftly than heretofore. She had that satisfaction, but she had the apprehension that if the wind grew any stronger her sail, service waves seemed suddenly to have lost their power. She did not know that she had been thrown past a barrier reef and carried over a lagoon and dropped on a sea beach; that the most unusual and gigantic waves come reach her. She could not take down the sail. In the first place she was afraid to leave the helm and in the second place she realized that if she started to furl it she could only do it by cutting the lashing and at the first cut the whole thing would blow away. So she held on. There was nothing else to do.

The night fell in a burst of rain which was most grateful to her, but which was a forecast of a fiercer blow, and at midnight the hurricane broke full force upon the little boat. The first blast tore the sail from the lashings. By a lightning flash she caught a glimpse of it for a second, whirled away like a great bird. For some reason, perhaps because one or two shreds of cloth still clung to the mast, and perhaps because the broad blade of the oar offered some surface for the thrust of the wind, she was able by the exercise of constant vigilance and all the strength of which she was capable, to keep the boat before the wind. Hitherto she had no idea of the violence of the wave motion. It was with difficulty that she kept herself from being dashed to pieces against the sides or hurled overboard in the mad whirling and plunging to which the launch was suddenly subjected. It was caught up by one wave after another and driven on for hours. She could not tell how long. She lost all consciousness of time and of everything else except that she must cling to the helm. The boat was still hurled forward. One great wave after another would seize her, uplift her and bear her on. The strain upon her arms was terrific. She locked her teeth and hung on, breathless, exhausted, yet determined.

But there was a limit to her powers and she felt that it had been reached. Yet she did not deliberately let go. One final and terrible heave jerked her away from the wheel. She fell sprawling in the bottom of the boat, but had sense enough to look her hands around a thwart and lie there. The launch broached-to in an instant. She was turned broadside to the waves. Fortunately she did not capsize instantly and the next breaker splashed her. She lay, her gauze flushed with water. Her motion was still vigorous, but less jerky. She was swept ever onward by the vast whirlwinds. The indomitable woman clinging to the thwart managed to keep her head out of the water. She realized that that was the end, and yet while she had a remnant of strength, while she could draw a quivering breath, she would not give up. The boat, though water-logged, still kept pitch, go much as before and she was able to maintain her hold, although every wave that broke over her drenched her afresh again.

She wondered why the boat did not sink and then she realized that the ample gasoline tanks which she had closed and buried prevented the final catastrophe, that the boat was in a certain sense a life boat; that it would float so long as the water pressure did not succeed in opening the tanks. Therefore, she was for the moment safe. The only immediate danger would be the capsizing of the boat which would throw her out. Since her launch was already full of water the woman did not think this was likely to happen.

She held on, her vitality gradually growing weaker, hoping for the morning and an abatement of the storm. She had no idea of time, of course. She could not tell what the hour was. It was still dark, however, when a strange sound smote her ear. She heard it above the wild scream of the wind and the awful beat of the waves. It was a crashing sound, a battering sound, a fearful, portentous sound.

The boat ran forward, more swiftly now. She wondered the reason. Taking advantage of a brief lull, she abandoned her grip on the thwart and rose to her knees. Immediately in front of her she saw a white wall disclosed to her by the lightning flashes. She did not know what it was. The roaring sound came from thence. She was being borne rapidly toward it.

She was nearing it with astonishing swiftness. The boat was moving more quickly now than at any time since she had been in it. At last it broke upon her consciousness that the white wall was a mass of foam; that the sea was crashing against some hidden shore and that great breakers were there.

The land that she had longed for indeed lay astern her course. In another moment she would be in that mass of boiling foam. Well, she had fought a good fight. The end was at hand. With some instinct of the heroic, death would not find her lying down. Desperately she struggled to her feet and stood, balancing herself to the wild onward rush of the boat. The wall of foam was close at hand. For one second she threw out her arms and the next moment, with a crash which she could feel if not hear, the boat beneath her feet was lifted up and hurled on, something fearfully solid. She was thrown through the air like a bolt from a catapult. A wave struck her in the back and beat her almost into insensibility. She was tossed and driven half unconscious over the space of shallow water and rolling sea upon a sandy shore. Blindly she crawled on. The waves seemed suddenly to have lost their power. She did not know that she had been thrown past a barrier reef and carried over a lagoon and dropped on a sea beach; that the most unusual and gigantic waves come reach her. She could not take down the sail. In the first place she was afraid to leave the helm and in the second place she realized that if she started to furl it she could only do it by cutting the lashing and at the first cut the whole thing would blow away. So she held on. There was nothing else to do.

CHAPTER IX.

Latent Passions.

The three years which had elapsed had made a vast change in the relations between the man and the woman.

In the beginning and for a long time heres had been the dominant position.

So absolutely had she ruled that to him she had been as a god. So entirely had he obeyed that to her he had been a devotee. Once she discovered his ductility and had begun to trust him, the relationships had commented to change. Gradually each had recognized the humanity of the other.

Together students they had naturally approached a common level. Every new knowledge she imparted to him was an abdication of some of her premacy. Every new knowledge he acquired was an inspiration to her high level.

But the change in the relations between the two were not greater than the change in the woman herself.

She was no longer a philosopher.

That which she had disdained, she admired, that which she had abhorred, she loved;

that which she had refused, she accepted.

She was a Christian in belief as last. Alone, or practically so, face to face with God in his world, God in his Book, God in humanity, her specious ideas of life and her relationship to it had broken down. She had learned to kneel beside that man and pray. She had learned to seek else where than in herself for power to enable her to live her life and fulfil her tasks.

She had not wished to be a Christian. She had fought against it, struggled with it agonized over it, but a compelling necessity was upon her.

The convictions of her conversion tor-med the veil from before her face, dispelled

the mist that hung about her.

She saw herself as she was, a woman who under the influence of strong ideas false conceptions, had pitied herself forever. No, not in the eyes of that man. Certain dividing lines clearly established and understood marked which was his and which was hers.

At supper time they met again and passed the time together in conversation until the rest period arrived.

Things had to be this way else life would have been unendurable. They lived on the natural products of the island which were varied and sufficiently abundant to fulfill all dietary requirements.

She had also taught him things not learned from books. Among them, truth, honor, duty and dignity—all the virtues. Her instruction had been first, that which was natural—ethical merely, but afterward it had grown spiritual. Unspotted from the world he, and she washed white she hoped and prayed in spite of spots, they lived a life of idyllic innocence. Yet because he was a man and she was a woman, strange fires glowed beneath the outward calm, strange ideas and desires and thoughts rose from both hearts. This was inevitable. Her original relation to the man had been one of no great superiority as to be fatal to the early development of any feeling, but the material. Even now she possessed the superiority which association with her kind, her longer training and her greater opportunities had given her.

And yet she could only know him as a good man, this young boy, this was a gentleman, this was a christian, this was a

The Cross In History, Art And Legend

AT THIS season when all the world over people of many races and tongues are meditating on the Cross of Christ; when long services are being held in memory of the greatest tragedy on earth, the nations are solemnly marching to the stations of the Cross; bearing banners and crucifixes, and bowing reverently before altars and pictures commemmorating the sorrowful walk to Calvary; when in the Holy Land thousands of pilgrims from every nation are treading the very "Via Dolorosa" on which he trod as he left the Holy City forever, carrying his cross to the "Accursed Hill" outside the walls; it may be of interest to consider the history and traditions of this wonderful symbol under which we live and in the name of which so much has been wrought of world-wide good to humanity, and, alas! of great harm through Christian fanaticism.

Perhaps there is no other object on earth about which there has been more controversy, more dissensions, and more superstitions than about this one great object for reverence on the one side, and for derision on the other. Ever since the crucifixion it has left a strong impress on the history of the nations and has been revered in the religion of all the sects bearing the name of Christ. It has been surrounded by traditions and mysticism and endowed with supernatural and miraculous attributes. It has been taken as the emblem of a faith, under the banner of which great deeds of heroism have been done, as in olden days when pioneer messengers of the Story of the Cross filled with religious zeal entered bravely into uncivilized and barbarian lands, fearlessly ignoring great dangers.

Heralded by Christian banners the procession of civilization has spread to all parts of the world. Romans carried it to the Britons and Saxons. The worship of the sun, as observed by the Indians was brought to an end through the ascendancy of Spanish bearers of the cross.

In more recent times Spanish monks, with peace in their hearts, amid many hardships, wrested from the aborigines the western coast of our own country where they erected many missions to spread the teachings of Christianity. The influence of the cross so entirely filled the minds of its followers that it became the central subject of the paintings of the old masters and in time permeated not only the spirit of this art, but also that of architecture, for we find throughout the great Christian architecture of the Middle Ages and in all forms of mediæval decoration this sign of the cross standing out conspicuously. The very foundations of the edifices which were erected in commemoration of faith in this symbol followed the lines of a cross, so that the very walls from their foundation upward might carry with them as they rose the image of the sacred sign, to receive its crowning figure displayed in the ridge line of its roofs. Crosses, in an endless variety of forms, still surmount the loftiest and finest parts of the architecture of the cathedrals and churches of Europe. Above the tombs of the departed or even in the pavements of the church above the monumental vaults in these cathedrals this same sign proclaims the faith of those who rest beneath.

Being the keynote and the glory of the Christian religion this emblem soon became prized in other directions besides those ecclesiastic. With the triumph of Christianity, the cross at once was recognized as a universal symbol of highest nobility and honor. It was now considered to add dignity to the crowns and scepters of emperors and princes. It became the proudest emblem of knightly rank. The greatest warriors were proud to see the cross on the hilts of their swords as well as on the banners under which they fought. It also became a sign of merit for valor and bravery—a reward for deeds of honor, as the iron cross of Prussia established by William III. for patriotic bravery in war.

It was worn also as protection in times of trouble. To denote the consecration of these devoted to the aid of the suffering and needy; the Red Cross was the confederation of societies in different countries for the betterment of conditions of the wounded soldiers in campaigns on land and sea. In Crusader days, beginning with Peter the Hermit, in 1094, starting out to deliver the Holy Land from the dominion of the infidel, the brave warriors were thus named because of the red cross they wore as badges on their right shoulders.

The archbishop's crozier—the ensign of his office—is the staff with a cross head, distinguishing it from the "pastoral" staff of bishops and abbots, which have a shepherd's crook.

This has been experienced the saying of Justin Martyr so many years ago, that the sign of the cross was impressed upon the whole of nature. There is hardly a handcraftsman also but uses the figure of it among the implements of his industry. "It forms a part of man himself." Man has been created in this form as has been beautifully illustrated by Emily Collier in the painting depicting the Holy Child's expression of his love. So wide is my love."

In the middle ages and in Crusaders days the cross was the distinctive symbol of the Christian. In contradiction to the Crescent of the Mohammedan:

The custom of marking one's signature by a cross was first adopted by Christians in the year 110 to distinguish them from the pagans and it stood for a silent oath.

The early Christians immediately used this sign which was connected with their religion, as a secret message to one another in their first days of persecution. Mingling with the persecutors of their faith, they could thus make themselves known to each other without calling the attention of those around them. In visiting the catacombs in Rome, where they hid from fear of their persecutors, it is intensely interesting to notice that the sign so sacred to them is carved and engraved all around the walls of their prison cells and above the tombs of their brethren.

Follow this advice.

Quaker Oats is the best of all foods; it is also the cheapest. When such men as Prof. Fisher of Yale University and Sir James Crichton Browne, LL.D., F.R.S. of London spend the best part of their lives in studying the great question of the nourishing and strengthening qualities of different foods, it is certain that their advice is absolutely safe to follow.

Professor Fisher found in his experiments for testing the strength and endurance of athletes that the meat eaters were exhausted long before the men who were fed on such food as Quaker Oats. The powers of endurance of the non-meat eaters were about eight times those of the meat eaters.

Sir James Crichton Browne says eat more oatmeal, eat plenty of it and eat it frequently.

A WONDERFUL CHANGE.

From Daily Wretchedness and Pain to Normal Health.

Mrs. R. Crouse, Manchester, La., says: "For two years my back was weak. Rheumatic pains racked my lower limbs, day and night. The action of the kidneys was annoyingly irregular. When I started using Doan's Kidney Pills, these troubles soon lessened and the dull backache vanished. The kidneys act normally and I give Doan's Kidney Pills credit for this wonderful change."

"MAW'S" RECIPE FOR PEACE.

Simple and Direct Method by Which Quarreling Was Discouraged in Her Household.

"No'm," said old Mammy Collier, "I ain't never had no trouble bringin' up my family of eight gals."

"Mah gals was good gals till dey got gin' wid them sassy beans. Then you couldn't git along wif 'em. They wa'n't satisfied to quarrel wif me, but dey had to go an' get married an' quarrel wif dese husbands."

"Now, I never sta'd no such doin's, an' I tell 'em so."

"I says, 'Now, gals, you know best what my principles is. You knows best how Ise tried to bring you up; an' you know jest how peacful atways lives wif your paw. Me an' him never had no querrelid. I never excuses it nor encourages it. When the old man would kinder fergit hisself an' go to givin' me back talk, I'd jest pick up the lamp on somethin' handy and throw it at him. He knew dat was a quitation for him to keep still, so we never had no trouble."

"I tell my gals, an' I tell 'em dey must manage to live peaceful, same as their maw did."—Illustrated "Sunday Magazine" of the Los Angeles Herald.

A BIG SHORTAGE IN SEEDS.

From almost all sections come the report of plentiful shortages of seed corn, also in some varieties of seed barley, oats, rye, wheat, barley, clovers, and the early varieties of potatoes.

This is particularly noticeable in the great corn and oat and potato growing states.

"Thus the great states of Nebraska and Iowa are suffering from a dearth of seed corn as never before.

The corn crop is formed in part in these states and other states are placing their orders for those seeds in order to be on the safe side, and we can but urge farmers to write at once to the John A. Salter Seed Co., Dept. 32, 340 Congress, Wash., D. C., for a good and reliable seed.

The magnitude of the business of this firm established here can be somewhat estimated when one knows that in ordinary years they sell:

50,000 bushels of seed corn,

100,000 bushels of seed oats,

100,000 bushels of seed wheat,

THE RIGHT SPIRIT.

Apropos of Valentine's day, a parson on the Bermudian said:

Mark Twain once told me, in a little Valentine day speech on this boat, of an Irish woman who had the right Valentine spirit? Acceptance of refection, he could take with equal grace.

"Scripture name," rejoined the happy mother, with a confident grin.

"I never saw it in the Bible."

Simple Prescription Said to Work Wonders for Rheumatism.

This has been well known to the best doctors for years and is now given to the public. "Get one ounce of syrup of Sarsaparilla compound and one ounce Tonic compound. Then get half a pint of good whiskey and put the other two ingredients into it. Take a tablespoonful of this mixture before each meal and at bed time. Shake the bottle before using." Good effects are felt the first day. Many of the worst cases here have been cured by this. Any druggist has these ingredients on hand or will quickly get them from his wholesale house.

Now You Know What Whisky Really Is

The term "whisky," however, is restricted to distillates from grain, and under the regulations distillates from other substances if labeled "whisky" are misbranded and the person guilty of misbranding may be prosecuted. The regulation follows:

"Under the food and drugs act of June 30, 1906, all unmixed distilled spirits from grain, colored and flavored with harmless color and flavor, in the customary ways, either by the charred barrel process or by the addition of caramel and harmless flavor, if not potable strength and not less than 80 proof, are entitled to the name whisky without qualification.

"If the proof be less than 80, that is, if more water be added, the actual proof must be stated upon the label and this requirement applied as well to blends and compounds of whisky.

"Whisky of the same or different kinds, that is, straight whisky, rectified whisky, redistilled whisky, and neutral spirits whisky or like substances and mixtures of such whiskies, with or without harmless color flavor used for purposes of coloring and flavoring only, are blends under the law and must be so labeled."

Clare, on making a post-mortem examination, stated that everything pointed to the fact that death was due to exhaustion and exposure. The little fellow had wandered among the growing beans, could not find his way out, and had sunk down and starved to death.—London Mail.

"Mr. Harriman, for all his wealth, was not purse proud," said a New York broker. "Let me tell you, Mr. Harriman's Russian ambassador, who was very rich, said with a scornful laugh:

Don't Be Bald

Almost Anyone May Secure a Splendid Growth of Hair.

You can easily find out for yourself if your hair needs nourishment. If it is thinning, getting dry, harsh and brittle, or splitting at the ends. You simply have to pull a hair from the top of your head and examine its root. If the bulb is plump and rosy, it is all right. If it is white and shrunk, your hair is diseased and needs nourishment.

We have a remedy for bald troubles that cannot be surpassed. It has a record of growing hair and curing baldness in 93 out of 100 cases, where used according to directions for a reasonable length of time. It will even grow hair on bald heads. If the scalp is not glazed and shiny, that may seem like a strong statement; it is, and we mean it to be, and no one should doubt it until they have put our claims to an actual test.

We are so sure that Rexall "93" Hair Tonic will completely eradicate baldness, prevent baldness, stimulate the scalp and hair roots, stop falling hair and grow new hair, that we personally give our positive guarantee to refund every penny paid us for Rexall "93" Hair Tonic in every instance where it does not do as we claim or fails to give entire satisfaction to the user.

Rexall "93" Hair Tonic is as pleasant to use as clear spring water. It is perfumed with a pleasant odor, and does not grease or gum the hair. We have it in two sizes, prices 50 cents and $1.00. We urge you to try Rexall "93" Hair Tonic on our recommendation and with our guarantee back of it. You certainly take no risk. Remember, you can obtain Rexall Remedies in Northville only at our store—The Rexall Store, A. E. Stanley & Co.
