NOBODY OWNS HIM.

LETTER FROM CONG. TOWNSEND

REASONS FOR WITHDRAWING FROM CONGRESSIONAL RACE.

Will Devote Entire Time to Sena- torial Ambition.

Congressman Charles E. Townsend has sent the Record the following letter from Washington which will be of much interest to the people of this district.

Washington, D. C., April 12, 1910.
To the people of the second congressional district of Michigan.

During the seven years in which I have been honored by you, ties of friendship and love have bound me to you which will endure throughout the remainder of my life, be that long or short. Your confidence and esteem have given me the inspiration to conceive, courage to attempt, and strength to accomplish whatever good it has been my honor to experience.
You have been most economical of censure, most prodigal of praise, and public service for such a constituency has been a most delightful duty. My faults by you have been covered by the broad mantle of charity and my little virtues have been given more than their full need of praise. As I look back over the years in which I have endeavored to represent you in the American Congress, a panorama of beautiful visions passes in review with scarcely a blot to mar the picture. Unselfish friendships, which, after all are the dearest treasures of life, press thick and fast upon the scene, and toil, anxiety and doubt have no place in memories treasure house.
In voluntarily severing my relations with you it is proper and just that I should not only express my gratitude to you for the great honors which you have bestowed upon me, but I should state the reasons which have prompted my decision not to stand as a candidate for the lower house at the coming primaries.

From the almost universal expressions which have come to me from every part of the district, I am convinced that my renomination and re-election were assured if I had not withdrawn, and many of my best and most influential friends have expresed their desire that I follow the example set by both of our United States senators and by nearly all of the senators from other states, who have been promoted from the house to the senate, and stand as candidate for representative at the November election while seeking endorsement

for election in the senate in January.
I appreciate the advice of these friends and shall regret if my action shall seem a disregard of their wishes.

For some time I have cherished an ambition to represent Michigan in the United States senate. That ambition has been encouraged by thousands of men throughout the state and it has seemed to me that our people desire more than passive representation in the upper branch of congress. The present, in our new and progressive ideas. The great questions involved in modern industrial and commercial life, both foreign and domestic must be met and solved and no representative has any right either to turn his responsibilities over to another, or while "standing pat" close his eyes to the correct solution which only the present can supply.

I have never claimed superior abilities, but I trust the record will disclose that I have been industrious and that I have not been afraid to follow my convictions of duty wherever the path has led. I hope I have convinced you that I have tried to meet responsibility fearlessly and with whatever intelligence I possessed.

Many have been good enough to repose confidence in me and to express their belief that I would make an acceptable United States senator.
From every part of Michigan has come such assurance of support that those who have been closely identified with my campaign believe that I shall receive a substantial endorsement by the people at the September primaries, and sincerity compels me to state that I share in that belief.

It is probable that I would have followed the example to which I have heretofore referred and which I am bound to believe was the desire of a majority of our people, and stood for re-election had it not been for two reasons. First, several gentlemen are desirous of entering the race to succeed me, all but one of whom have refused to declare themselves as candidates so long as I was considered, and all these should be placed on an equality. I do not wish to be directly or indirectly a means of prejudice to any prospective candidate. Second,—Those who are actively in charge of my senatorial campaign were meeting the false and malicious statements, published and circulated by interested parties, to the effect that I had no faith in my senatorial prospects and would ultimately retire from the race for senator.

For the purpose of leaving an open field from which you may select my successor and to silence,—so far as truth may silence falsehood,—I have felt it my duty to cast my political fortune upon an undivided attempt to reach the United States senate.

I need not tell you that it costs no little heartache voluntarily to sever relations which have been so pleasant and honorable. I shall, however, I hope, continue to live in the second

HON. CHARLES E. TOWNSEND Candidate for the nomination of U. S. Senator.

congressional district of Michigan and it with your aid I shall be elected to the senate, I shall have a strong hope that I may still serve you to the very best of my ability and that the bonds of friendship will be strengthened with the passing years.

Whatever political fate may overtake me, I shall hold in sweetest enduring memory the people who selected me a novice in legislation as their representative in congress; who held up my hands during the eight years of public service and who have borne with my failings and been generous with their support and confidence.

It shall be my aim to so conduct myself whether in public or private life as to preserve and strengthen the sincere friendship which I am sure mutually exists between us.

Respectfully,
CHAS. E. TOWNSEND

Death of Wm. Holcomb.

Wm. Holcomb, a former resident

Tonic or Stimulant?

There is an immense difference between a tonic and a stimulant. Up one day, way back the next, that's a stimulant. Steady progress day by day toward perfect health; that's a tonic. Ayer's Sarsaparilla is a tonic, a strong tonic. The only Sarsaparilla entirely free from alcohol. Do not stimulate unless your doctor says so.
He knows. Ask him. Do as he says. J.C. Ayer Co., Lowell, Mass.

Constipation is the great cause of sick-headache, biliousness, indigestion, bad taste, debility, nervousness. Has your doctor ever recommended Ayer's Pills to you?

The R. F. D's

The rural routes were established for the benefit of rural homes, or in other words the farmers. They have proven a greater benefit and blessing to the farmers than was anticipated by the most sanguine. A farmer who has once enjoyed the advantages of the rural mail service would hardly know how to live without it. It did not come to the farmer, however, until he had many times earned it. The farmers are our heaviest taxpayers. What property they have is in plain sight and is taxed, while the city gent, at least many of them, who deal in notes and bonds is enabled to hide his wealth from the assessor. For a quarter of a century the mail has been carried to the city, not once, but many times each day. Finally the big heart of Uncle Sam has reached out to the men who feed the world.

Methodist Church Notes

(By the Pastor.)
Miss Barton is giving excellent service as organist.
The adjourned meeting of the Woman's Home Missionary society will be held at the parsonage next Tuesday afternoon.
The Epworth League devotional meeting Sunday evening will consist of a Missionary program. Every Leaguer is urged to be present.
Mr. Melsner's address to the Sunday school on the Temptation of Christ was a very practical and helpful discussion of the subject.
The Tiesot pictures on the life of Christ last Sunday evening were enjoyed by a congregation that came near testing our seating capacity. More of these pictures will be shown later.
The subject for Sunday morning will be "A Recipe for the atness." In the evening the pastor will begin a short series of sermons on "Tragedies in Bible History." You are invited to hear them.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured.

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When the tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; none cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that can not be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circular, free.

It's Your Kidneys.

Don't Mistake the Cause of your Troubles. A Northville Citizen Shows how to Cure Them.

Many people never suspect their kidneys. If suffering from a lame back or aching back they think that it is only a muscular weakness; when urinary trouble sets in they think it will soon correct itself. And so it is with all the other symptoms of kidney disorders. That is just where the danger lies. You must cure these troubles or they may lead to diabetes or Bright's disease. The best remedy to use is Doan's Kidney Pills. It cures all ills which are caused by weak or diseased kidneys. Northville people testify to permanent cures.

Mrs. H. V. Kingsley, Randolph street, Northville, Mich., says: "My first experience with Doan's Kidney Pills took place about a year ago. I had a severe attack of backache and I also suffered from headaches and pains across my loins. Doan's Kidney Pills were finally procured from Murdock Bros' drug store and they soon removed the backache and annoyances. Another member of my family has also taken this remedy with satisfactory results."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-McMinn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

NORTHVILLE.

The City in Brief.

Mrs. H. C. Pepper is recovering from a two weeks' illness.

George Gibson has his new tenant house nearly completed on his farm a mile south of town.

Several from here attended the Christian Science lecture in the Detroit Opera House, Detroit, Sunday. Jas. Taylor has secured a job with the Detroit Auto Truck company and will commence work there this week.

Special Communication of Northville Lodge No. 186 F. & A. M. next Monday evening. Work in E. A. degree.

The B. Circle of the Presbyterian church will give a bake sale tomorrow, Saturday, April 23, at Sam Knapp's store.

The "First 500" club was very pleasantly entertained by Miss Celia Withy at the home of Mrs. Lydia Hubbard Wednesday.

Milford Baker will soon commence the erection of a new residence on the Johnson farm which he recently purchased southwest of town.

Warner Leavenworth of (Arleton) is agent at the Pere Marquette depot here in the absence of W. L. Bishop, who is taking a month's vacation.

The "Old Melodion" will be repeated in the Presbyterian church this (Friday) evening at 8 o'clock. Change of program. Admission ten cents.

Dr. Lee S. McCollister will preach in the Universalist church at Farmington next Sunday afternoon, April 24, at 8 o'clock, standard. All are invited to attend.

The following Northville township people have been drawn to serve on the May and June terms of the circuit court in Detroit: Merritt Stanley, Rev. Wm. S. Jerome, Robt. Neelands and Chas. Waterman.

Will Kay had a little mix-up with a lively calf in his yard last week and in the fracas the calf didn't come out second best. Will's arm was nearly pulled out of the socket, besides bruising him up in general.

Mrs. W. G. Yerkes entertained twenty-four ladies last Thursday afternoon in honor of her sister, Mrs. R. C. Yerkes, and on Saturday gave a luncheon at 12:30 to ten ladies where the same lady was guest of honor.

Carl Gaines of Detroit was in town Monday in the interest of the Men's delusion club, one of Detroit's best musical societies. The club would like to come to Northville to give an entertainment if arrangements could be made.

Northville will probably again celebrate the fourth of July this year. The Driving association will take hold of the work in the near future with a view of giving Northville something in this line that will eclipse all past records.

Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Yerkes entertained eight couples Friday evening at a farewell to Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Yerkes, who will leave soon for an extended trip in Colorado. During his absence W. G. Yerkes will have the management of the Globe factory.

The members of the Northville K. O. T. M. and L. O. T. M. gave Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Vanatta a surprise last Thursday evening and presented them a silver berry spoon as a token of esteem in which they have always been held. Mr. and Mrs. Vanatta leave the fore part of next week for Leadville, Colo., where Mr. Vanatta has a position with the U. S. fish commission.

Oh, dear to our hearts are the sad days of springtime, when the annual house cleaning recurs to our view. When we "leap on the sofa and eat off the maple. In an atmosphere strongly suggestive of glue we think of the stove-pipe, the soot that came with it and sweet expressions so fluent and fine but the saddest and most bitter of all recollections is the dusty old carpet that hung on the line. Oh, that dusty old carpet, that rusty old carpet, that rusty old carpet that hung on the line! We remember how, armed with a little flagellator, in the morning we blithely advanced to the fray, in the muscular pride of our heart, little dreaming that cleaning that carpet would take the whole day; we sweat and we kicked and our band badly blistered, while the sun lent his countenance, warmly benign, but the harder we pounded the more it was needed by that dusty old carpet that hung on the line. Oh, that dusty old carpet, that rusty old carpet, that rusty old carpet, that hung on the line!

"Widow McCarty" will appear at Opera house Monday evening, April 25. 25c, 35c and 50c.

FOR FLETCHER'S
CASTORIA

Letters for the following persons are advertised at the postoffice this week:

Mrs. Laurie Trueman.
Fred Blauvelt.
Jas. Roy.
Mr. J. Chipman.

Miss Ora Hayes is the new operator at the Independent Telephone office.

The much needed rain came down in big doses from Saturday night until Wednesday.

Henry Vansickle and family have moved onto the Heptner farm east of town on the base line.

Miss Ruth Chadwick, who sprained her knee about six weeks ago, is still confined to her home.

R. Althe McCully entertained the Pickwick club of Detroit, of which she is a member, from Friday until Sunday.

Catholic services will be held in their house, corner Dunlap and Center streets, Sunday morning at 8 o'clock standard.

John Lockwood and wife have moved into the Judd Lanning house on North Center street, recently vacated by Henry Vansickle and family.

C. C. Chadwick was one of the lucky guessers on the first day's attendance at the Detroit ball game. Chad was the eighteenth-best man and is now smoking up a box of real good cigars.

Under the auspices of the Northville K. P.'s, the Polmatz Sisters (five) will give an entertainment in the Northville Opera House Tuesday evening, May 3. Admission, 35 cents; reserved seats, 15 cents extra.

Several Northville people attended the opening of the Alselum Theatre at Plymouth Wednesday evening. A fine exhibition of moving pictures was given, interspersed with illustrated songs by R. A. Grant of this place.

The April committee of the Baptist Aid society will give an entertainment at the Alselum Monday evening, April 25. The program will consist of moving pictures and several musical selections by local talent.

Mrs. W. B. Penfield heard on Monday of the sudden death of her father, Mr. Richards at Atlanta, Ga. She had just returned on Saturday night from a visit to her home in that city, leaving her father in fairly good health.

In order to give everyone a fair chance to get reserved seats for the Polmatz Sisters K. P. entertainment on May 3, the reserved seats will not be open until 7:30 p. m. Saturday, April 30, and no one person can reserve more than four seats. Admission tickets for sale by members of committee or at Murdock's. Reserved seats at Murdock's.

Married, March 30, in the district of Columbia, in Detroit, Mr. Arthur Bruske and Miss Vera Mae Fisher, both formerly of this place. The bride was attended by Miss Freda Bruske of Saginaw and Mr. Arthur Fisher. The bride is a niece of Mrs. G. W. Miller of this place. They will reside in Detroit, where the groom has a position with the Michigan Central R. R.

The alarm of the engine house going was sounded Monday for the marsh but some one got posted on the signals thought it was a fire and pulled on the big bell and called out the fire department. The signal for the marsh is several short rings on the electric gong. Marshal Bogart asks the public to post up on the alarms which are published in this issue. Short rings mean Marshal Long rings mean fire.

The entertainment given by the B. Circle of the Presbyterian church in the Alselum theatre, Monday evening, was one of the finest ever given here. There was a large attendance present to enjoy the excellent program. The principle feature was the "Midnet" speaker, who is one of the best in her role as an entertainer. The other participants on the program did themselves justice and their selections were well received. At the close of the program the Alselum people kindly gave a free exhibition of moving pictures which was greatly enjoyed.

Ward Cook of the Northville U. S. fish station has just received notice of his promotion to the car service. The past year or two has seen many changes in employees at the Northville station. Ernest Miller left to become assistant cashier in the Lapham Bank. Ed. Fuller has been promoted to the field service; Bert Phillips resigned a few months ago to go into the real estate business at Flint; Clyde Vanatta was recently promoted to the Leadville, Colorado, station and now Ward Cook goes to the car service. Of the old men B. G. Filkins and A. T. Stewart are alone left of the Northville assignment and Will Thayer and S. E. Cranson of the Alpena assignment.

Don't think that piles can't be cured. Thousands of obstinate cases have been cured by Doan's Ointment, 50 cents at any drug store.
—Mrs. Chas. Freitoy, Moosup, Conn.

Why doesn't some one in Northville buy a paper press and bale up all the waste paper in the village instead of allowing it all to be burned. The press costs $65 and the paper mills pay $10 per ton for the baled product.

When the trees begin to blossom and the violets to bloom; when the bullfrog in the meadow warbles boom-ab-boom ab-boom; when the ducks are flying northward and bright butterflies are out, and when the robins go housekeeping in the broken water spouts; when grasshoppers are hopping and black bats come out at night and venture in your bedroom attracted by the light, when birds fly down the chimney and hens walk in the door, beetles hold conventions in the center of the floor; when the mud is over your shoe tops as you cross the new ploughed land—you may count on it certain sweet spring is right at hand.

AT SCHRADER'S

Here now is another talk from Schrad. Have just thought of a few people who haven't called yet in response to our many invitations. Just a few but really even that few ought to come in and see what we have anyhow. We don't ask you to buy—just to look.

Rugs! Rugs! Rugs!

Another Big Line Bought This Week. Elegant Patterns and lots of them. They are expected by the time you read this ad. Let us at least show them to you. If you have seen our Rug Line recently, just come in again and see the new line. Prices to suit your pocketbook and Rugs to fit your rooms.

Mattresses

We insist that the All Cotton Felt is the best Mattress made irrespective of price. If this is true—you want it. If you want it be sure you get it.

Makes the most comfortable bed ever slept on—soft, yielding, but springy and resilient—never packs or gets lumpy, or loses its feeling of newness. That is because it is made up of hard-laid sheets, built—not stuffed. They are Absolutely Sanitary. Dust cannot work into it; no vermin can live in it; an occasional sun-bath is all the renovating it needs; it will not absorb dampness, disease germs, or any poison from perspiration or the atmosphere. It is Always Guaranteed Just as Good as A $15.00 Ostermoor and our price is but

$9.00

Kitchen Furniture and Floor Coverings

Of course we have a lot of nice furnishings for the kitchen as well as for the Parlor, the Dining and Sitting Rooms. For instance, Kitchen Cabinets, Kitchen Chairs, Tables, Fiber Carpets, Mattings, Linoleums, Rugs etc. One of the nice kind of these Cabinets now in the window.

Anyhow you come in and see the line. You don't have to buy. We will be pleased just for the call.

The R. F. D.

The rural routes were established for the benefit of rural homes, or in other words the farmers. They have proven a greater benefit and blessing to the farmers than was anticipated by the most sanguine. A farmer who has once enjoyed the advantages of the rural mail service would hardly know how to live without it. It did not come to the farmer, however, until he had many times earned it. The farmers are our heaviest taxpayers. What property they have is in plain sight and is taxed while the city gent, at least many of them, who deal in notes and bonds is enabled to hide his wealth from the assessor. For a quarter of a century the mail has been carried to the city, not once, but many times each day. Finally the big heart of Uncle Sam has reached out to the men who feed the world.

Methodist Church Notes.

Miss Barton is giving excellent service as organist. The adjourned meeting of the Woman's Home Missionary society will be held at the parsonage next Tuesday afternoon. The Epworth League devotion meeting Sunday evening will consist of a Missionary program. Every Leaguer is urged to be present. Mr. Meisner's address to the Sunday school on the Temptation of Christ was a very practical and helpful discussion of the subject. The Tissot pictures on the life of Christ last Sunday evening were enjoyed by a congregation that came near testing our seating capacity. More of these pictures will be shown later. The subject for Sunday morning will be "A Recipe for Greatness." In the evening the pastor will begin a short series of sermons on "Tragedies in Bible History." You are invited to hear them.

The "Diamonds," one of the High school baseball teams will play Wayne here April 30 at the Athletic Park, while another team, the "Peewees" have a game scheduled with Ann Arbor High May 7. This is the first time in some years that a regular High school baseball team has been found, so that people interested in this sport should give the boys encouragement. Mr. Seddon is coaching the players.

The Junior wish to ask a favor of you. They have not asked a single one of you this winter but have put all their efforts in one entertainment, a college comedy entitled, "A Case of Suspicion," to be given in the Opera House next Friday evening, April 29. Tickets 25c for downstairs, seats reserved free at Mr. Seddon's, and 50c upstairs. Those taking part in the play have spent two months of still practice on it, so that if time and work will make it good, it will certainly be worth your while. See advertisement on one of the pages of this Record or bills for particulars.

It is with pleasure that we announce that H. H. Kelley for our commencement orator. All the exercises of the week will be held in the Opera House which seats about 300. Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflammation of the mucous lining of the Eustachian tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a running ear or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; use cases of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

"We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that can not be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free."

It's Your Kidneys.

Don't Mistake the Cause of your Troubles. A Northville Citizen Shows how to Cure Them.

Many people never suspect their kidneys. If suffering from a lame back or aching back they think that it is only a muscular weakness; when urinary trouble sets in they think it will soon correct itself. And so it is with all the other symptoms of kidney disorders. That is just where the danger lies. You must cure these troubles or they may lead to diabetes or Bright's disease. The best remedy to use is Doan's Kidney Pills. It cures all ills which are caused by weak or diseased kidneys. Northville people testify to permanent cures.

Mrs. H. V. Kingsley, Randolph street, Northville, Mich., says: "My first experience with Doan's Kidney Pills took place about a year ago. I had a severe attack of backache and pains across my loins. Doan's Kidney Pills were finally procured from Murdock Bros' drug store and they soon removed the backache and aches. Another member of my family has also taken this remedy with satisfactory results." For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-McMurray Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

The "First 500" club was very pleasantly entertained by Miss Celia Wilkey at the home of Mrs. Lydia Hubbard Wednesday.

Milford Baker will soon commence the erection of a new residence on the Johnson farm which he recently purchased southwest of town.

Warner Leavenworth, of Carleton is agent at the Pere Marquette depot here in the absence of W. L. Bishop, who is taking a month's vacation.

The "Old Melodeon" will be repeated in the Presbyterian church this (Friday) evening at 8 o'clock. Change of program. Admission ten cents.

Dr. Lee S. McCollister will preach in the Universalist church at Farmington next Sunday afternoon, April 24, at 3 o'clock standard. All are invited to attend.

The following Northville township people have been drawn to serve on the May and June terms of the circuit court in Detroit: Merritt Stanley, Rev. Wm. S. Jerome, Robt. Neeland and Chas. Waterman.

Will Ray had a little mix-up with a lively calf in his yard last week and in the fracas the calf didn't come out second best. Will's arm was nearly pulled out of the socket, badger bruising him up in general.

Mrs. W. G. Yerkes entertained twenty-four ladies last Thursday afternoon in honor of her sister, Mrs. J. C. Yerkes, and on Saturday gave a luncheon at 12:30 to ten ladies where the same lady was guest of honor.

Carl Dimes of Detroit was in town Monday in the interest of the Men's Glee Club, one of Detroit's best musical societies. The club would like to come to Northville to give an entertainment if arrangements could be made.

Northville will probably again celebrate the Fourth of July this year. The driving association will take hold of the work in the near future with a view of giving Northville something in this line that will eclipse all past records.

Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Yerkes entertained eight couples Friday evening as a farewell to Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Yerkes, who will leave soon for an extended trip in Colorado. During his absence W. G. Yerkes will have the management of the Glee factory.

The members of the Northville K. O. T. M. and L. O. T. M. gave Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Vanatta a surprise last Thursday evening and presented them a silver berry spoon as a token of esteem in which they have always been held. Mr. and Mrs. Vanatta leave the fore part of next week for Leadville, Colo., where Mr. Vanatta has a position with the U. S. fish commission.

Oh, dear to our hearts are the sad days of springtime, when the annual house cleaning recurs to our view, when we sleep on the sofa and eat off the mantle, in an atmosphere strongly suggestive of glue; we think of the stove-pipe, the soot that came with it and sweet expressions so fluent and fine but the saddest and most bitter of all recollections is the dusty old carpet that hung on the line. Oh, that dusty old carpet, that rusty old carpet that hung on the line! We remember how, armed with a little flagelator, in the morning we bitly advanced to it, in the muscular pride of our heart, little dreaming that cleaning that carpet would take the whole day; we sweat and we kicked and our hand badly blistered, while the sun lent his countenance, warmly benign, but the harder we pounded the more it was needed by that dusty old carpet that hung on the line. Oh, that dusty old carpet, that rusty old carpet, that hung on the line!

The alarm on the engine house going was sounded Monday for the fire department. The signal thought it was a fire and pulled out the big bell and called out the fire department. The signal to the marshal several short rings on the electric gong. Marshal Bogart asks the public to post up on the alarms which were published in this issue. Short rings mean Marshal Long rings mean fire.

The entertainment given by the B. Circle of the Presbyterian church in the Alselum theatre Monday evening was one of the finest ever given here. There was a large attendance present to enjoy the excellent program. The principle feature was the "Midget" speaker, who is one of the best in her role as an entertainer. The other participants on the program did themselves justice and their selections were well received. At the close of the program the Alselum people kindly gave a free exhibition of moving pictures which was greatly enjoyed.

Ward Cook of the Northville U. S. fish station has just received notice of his promotion to the car service. The past year or two has seen many changes in employees at the Northville station. Ernest Miller left to become assistant cashier in the Lapham Bank; Ed. Fuller has been promoted to the field service; Bert Phillips resigned a few months ago to go into the real estate business at Flint; Clyde Vayatta was recently promoted to the Leadville, Colorado, station and now Ward Cook goes to the car service. Of the old men B. G. Filkins and A. T. Stewart are alone left of the Northville assignment and Will Thayer and S. E. Cranson of the Alpena assignment.

SYNOPSIS.

A young woman cast ashore on a lonely island, and a solitary inhabitant, a young white man, dressed like a savage and unable to speak, are known to each other. She decides to educate him and mold his mind to her own ideals. She finds evidence that leads her to believe that the man is John Revell Charnock of Virginia, and that he was cast ashore when a child. Katharine Brenton was a highly specialized product of a leading university. Her writings on the sex problem attracted wide attention. The son of a multi-millionaire becomes infatuated with her and she decides to put her theories into practice. With no other ceremony than a handshake, they go away together. A few days on his yacht reveals to her that the only professed ideal to possess her. While drunk he attempts to kiss her. She knocks him down and leaves him unconscious, escaping in the darkness in a gasoline launch. During a storm she is cast ashore on an island. Three years teaching gives the man a splendid education. Their love for each other is revealed when he rescues her from a cave where she had been imprisoned by an earthquake. A ship is sighted and they light a beacon to summon it. Langford, on his yacht, sights the beacon and orders his yacht put in.

"Because," she hesitated.
"Are you afraid to tell me?"
"Yes," she said.
"Afraid of what?"
"Of losing you?"
"Banish that fear."
"But 'tis not that that keeps me silent."
"What then?"
"I would have the world's comment on what I say when I say it."
"The world's comment! What is the world's comment to me?"
"A test, a trial of your feelings! If it breaks my heart, you must know."
"If you feel that way about it," said the man resolutely, "you need tell me nothing at all."

It was a brave thing to say, for her mysterious words filled him with dubiety and dismay. He had no idea what it was that she could tell him. He had no experience by and through which to embody her vague hints into something real and tangible. He knew that he was terribly grieved, and but that he had no way to describe the pain of jealousy, he would have said that he was racking with that unhappy emotion.

"Tell me nothing," she repeated again, "if it grieves you."
"Are you afraid of the test?" she asked, swiftly.
"I am afraid of nothing, except losing you."
"I am not worthy of you," returned the woman, "as I told you, but if you will still have me if you will take me when I have said what I must say, and when the world has said what it will say, then I shall be yours as long as I live."

"It is well," said the man. "I wait the ship now eagerly that I may show you that what I have said is true."
"The vessel is nearer now," she said at last, rising from where they had been seated together upon the grass absorbed in each other, and pointing seaward.

"Yes," he answered, "I can even see the figures upon the deck."
"Your brother men?"
"Will there be some women on the ship?"

"I do not know," she answered, quickly. "It isn't likely. Do you wish to see other women?"

"None," was the instant answer. "I wondered if my brothers would bring you sisters. That was all."

There was absolutely no dissimulation about the man. There had been no coquetry about her. He would simply have failed entirely to understand what it was. He was as honest, as straightforward, as absolute simplicity and sincerity must ever be, and she had met him exactly on his own ground. It was impossible therefore, for her to misapprehend his mere casual interest.

She stood quietly studying the approaching vessel. As she did so, it came to her mind that there was something strangely familiar about the coming ship. She stated longer, and the conviction grew upon her. When she realized it she clasped her hand to her heart with a sudden gasp and turned a white face upon him. He was all solicitude in an instant.

"What is the matter?" he cried. "Your face is white, you look so strangely."

"It is a sudden pain," she gasped, terror and dismay constricting her throat.

She wavered. He thought she was going to fall. He stepped closer to her and put his arm about her.

"No, no!" she said, repulsing.

It was the first command she had given him in those bygone days when he had stood dumbly before her.

"No, no!" she pushed him away. "I shall be all right."

"And has the approach of men deprived me of the privilege of touching you?" he asked, wistfully. "What is the matter?"

"Don't ask me now," she answered. "I—I cannot explain."

The vessel was nearer now and she stared it came to a stop and swung broadside to the reef. There was no mistaking it. It was the Southern Cross. She knew it as well as she knew her own face. The thing which she had dreaded so when she fled from that vessel in the launch, which she had dreaded for a time in the first period of her sojourn on the island, had come to pass. It was the very yacht from which she had escaped. Undoubtedly it bore the man from whom she had fled. He had come to claim her. Of all the terrifying millions which the world held, this was he whom she would fain have avoided. Rather anyone and every one had come to her than he! What would happen when these men met? The story that she would have told him to-day, in her own way, had the ship not appeared, the story that she would have told him on her decks, had that ship been other than it was, he must now learn by the brutal force of circumstances, through some compelling necessity which she could not in any way influence or alter. She loathed the man who was coming to aid her. Her Christianity trembled in the balance. She would fain have called invectives down upon his head, and for the moment she swept the whole sex together in one unreasoning hatred and resentment in which the man of the island participated. What sorry jest had blind fate played upon her?

She moved farther away from her companion under the constraint of these thoughts, and when he would have approached her nearer, she flamed upon him in sudden anger that left him appalled. But under the influence of it he kept his distance. She saw the way of the yacht checked. She saw the boat dropped from the davits and manœvered by the men. She saw a figure, too far off to recognize, but which she divined must be his, descend the ladders from the gangway. She saw the little boat headed toward the shore. Then she turned to the man. He was standing with folded arms, his brow black as midnight, staring out to sea. He knew nothing, understood nothing, comprehended nothing; suspected nothing. His only realization was that she, his gentle goddess, whom he had loved, was angry with him, so far as he was concerned, without rhyme or reason or cause.

The stoppage of the ship, the lowering of the boat, its approach to the island—were now matters of indifference to him. She was angry. He could think of nothing else and there was bewilderment in his dismay. Nothing had given him power to solve the enigma of her conduct. Where she gazed, with serious intentness, he looked listlessly. Her heart smote her again. The sense of justice upon which she prided herself came to her rescue. She stepped close to him and laid her hand upon his arm.

"Forgive me," she murmured, and her hand trembled within her bosom to meet the great flush of pleasure in his face as he responded instantly to her caress and her appeal.

"You said you knew men," the man asked as they threaded their way through the trees and down the hill along the familiar path, "do you know anyone on that ship, do you think?"

The question was an absurd one under almost any other circumstances than that. Yet chance had shown him the one point in her armor and his innocent and casual question had driven into her soul a stab. Division should have been easy indeed, his trust in her was so great that deceit would have been simple. But she had always told him the truth and she could not begin now.

"Yes," she said, "I think I do."

He stopped abruptly, illumination and anguish, the light of pain in his soul.

"Was it because you know that man that you suffered so on the hill?"

"Yes," she said, again forcing herself to speak.

"Is he one of those who loved you?"

"He said so, but—"

"And you, did you love him?"

"I hate him."

"Why?" asked the man sternly. "Had he injured you in some way?"

"In the greatest way," she answered, with deepening gravity. "And here he sinned of justice pricked her. But it was partly my fault."

"And have you forgiven him?" he asked with a little stiffening of his voice.

To him forgiveness was as natural and inevitable as breathing. In his ethics there was no other course. He had never had anything to forgive, he remembered. She was not so true to her standards as the man she had taught. The pool was more devoted than the mist.

"There are some things," she replied bitterly, "that a woman cannot forgive, never forgives."

"What things?" he persisted, wondering ignorantly as to her meaning.

"Don't ask me," she answered impatiently. "I told you I would tell you the story to-day and you will have to wait until then."

"But that comment of the world?"

"You will hear it from that man's lips, if I mistake not," said the woman, wearily, "but you must press me no further. See, they are close to the reef. We must hasten."

She drew her hand away from his and ran rapidly to the beach. Naturally he followed, overtaking her in a few swift steps and running as was his wont by her side. If he had stopped to indulge in the luxury of self-examination, he would have found his feelings in such a turmoil of such strange emotions as would have defied classification and description. Of but two things was he very clear; that he loved this woman, and that in some way, for causes unfathomable and not present to him, he hated the man or the men in the boat off shore.

By the woman's directions just before they reached the shore, the man picked up two fallen branches of palm. They ran to the beach opposite the entrance and waved the palm branches above their heads. It was too far for the voice to carry and there was too much noise from the breakers on the reef if the distance had been shorter. But the men in the boat evidently caught sight of the signals and understood them, for she was presently about, and in a few moments they saw her, prow out the blue waters of the lagoon through the one entrance to the barrier. The man and woman stood silently, a little apart, watching the swift approach. Unerringly steered, the boat struck the gently shelving beach bows on, and a last sturdy pull drove her fairly out of the water. The man in the stern sheets rose, stepped forward between the oarsmen and leaped out on the sand.

The present was in touch with the past, conventional faced the unconventional, civilization and primitive confronted one another.

CHAPTER XV.

Accusation and Admission.

Now that the great moment had come—for Langford had at last recognized the woman whom he sought in spite of her strange garb—he became suddenly acutely conscious of trivial details and accurately responsible to matters of no moment. He stepped, for instance, near the bow of the boat, told the coxswain that he might allow the men to land, but that they must remain close to the beach and within easy call and see that the boat was properly secured. Then he turned and walked slowly—singular how eager he had been for that moment and how tardy he was in availing himself of it when it came—toward the two who stood silently watching a little distance away.

He was dressed in a boating suit of white and wore a white yachting cap. He was distinctly good looking. His repentance, his anxiety, his disappointment had refined his face to a certain degree and he was not an unworthy specimen of humanity in appearance. The man looked at him with vivid curiosity and a sudden sense of dismay to find the new comer so worthy of respect on the ground of appearance at least.

The glance that Langford gave the man was at once casual and indifferent. His whole interest was centered upon the woman. He found himself trembling violently in spite of the superhuman efforts he put forth to control it. It was only the most, the faintest, the least that enabled him to approach her at all. As he drew near to her, he took off his cap, bowed to her and spoke to speak.

"Katharine," he said at last hoarsely. "I think God that I have found you!"

"Woman," said the man by her side, stepping swiftly forward and confronting Langford, "who is this man?"

"His name," returned the woman steadily, "is Valentine Arthur Langford."

"What did you do to her," asked the man with the bluntest possible directness, "that she weeps at the thought of you, that she is filled with horror as you approach; that she looks at you as she does now? I have never seen that look upon her face since we have been upon this island."

Langford turned and faced the man as these singular queries were put to him.

"Who is this man, Katharine?" he asked, an angry flush in his face.

"I don't know for certain," the woman answered, "but I think his name is—"

"What has my name to do with it?" interrupted the man, persistently. "Will you answer my questions?"

"When I know who you are and by what right you put them, I will decide," was Langford's contemptuous answer.

The woman had never seen her companion in a temper, but he was positively near the breaking point now, and Langford, although he realized it, had never been and would never be in so much danger as at that instant. A swift glance showed her the man strung to the very outbreathing point. The woman laid her hand upon his arm, a calming touch.

"In the world," she said, "people are presented to one another."

How she loathed Langford! She thought for a moment that she had only to say the word and her island companion would fear him to pieces. She wondered how far, after all she had succeeded in insinuating into his mind the restraints of civilization. She began to see dimly that such an achievement was beyond the power of any single individual; that it had been in the past and would always be in the future the result of the co-operation and restraint of the many. Yet she forced herself to speak evenly to the visitor.

"Mr. Langford, I believe this man's name to be John Revell Charnock. I believe him to be an American, a Virginian. I found him here upon the island."

"This matters nothing," said the islander. "I don't care what this man's name is, or who he is. I want to know why he distresses you."

"Sir," said Langford, wondering what was the best time to take, with this singular being, "play let us withdraw yonder to the shade of the trees where we can be more private."

The men in the boat who had scrambled out, upon the sands had been eager spectators and auditors of everything that had gone on. Their curiosity was greatly excited and their propriety was evidently distasteful to Langford.

"You are refusing to answer my questions," said the man. "I will not be put off further."

"Man," said the woman, laying her hand upon his arm, "it is my wish."

"Oh, if you wish it."

He turned without a word and led the way rapidly across the beach out of the trees.

"Now," he said turning and facing the other two.

He noticed that the woman was greatly white and that Langford was scarcely less pale.

"Sir," said Langford firmly, "I decline to answer your question. I have business with this lady and with her alone. It does not concern you and I beg you to withdraw for a moment and give me free speech with her. After that I may have some questions to put to you."

Everything that concerns her concerns me," said the man, sternly. "What you have to say to her must be said to me. Speak on."

For a moment Langford looked as if he would have sprung upon the other, but he was so clearly no match for the wild stranger that discretion came to his aid and kept him still. Besides he had no wish for vulgar brawling then. He turned to the woman.

"Katharine," he said, "I have much to say to you. Can't you make this man hear reason?"

Stood Silently, a Little Apart, Watching the Swift Approach.

"She has made me hear reason for three years," answered the man for her before she could speak, "but her power ends in this hour."

The woman looked at him piteously and nodded her head. She realized that the thread of destiny was taken from her hands and forever.

"Mr. Langford, you will have to say to me whatever you wish before this man," she said at last.

"Why, 'tis impossible," cried the other.

"It must be."

"Ah," interposed the man, "you shall say nothing to her until you have answered my questions."

"There must be no violence," cried the woman, stepping between the two. "No violence!"

For answer the man gently, but with irresistible force, lifted her out of the way. She knew now where he got the strength to tear down the rocky wall, and while she trembled, she thrilled.

"Katharine," said Langford—to do him justice he was not afraid—"what is this man to you?"

"I am nothing to her," answered the man, "except that I love her."

"And you?" said Langford, hotly, still addressing the woman.

"She loves me," again answered the other, "and we were happy until you brought the world to our shores. Since then she has wept. Look at her now."

"My God," exclaimed Langford, "is it possible?"

"It is true," said the woman, finding voice at last and looking steadily from one to the other.

Langford's emotion now passed all bounds. He had trembled before; he shook now as if with the palsy. He reached out and caught the trunk of one of the trees to steady himself.

"What are you to this man, in God's name?" he cried.

"Nothing. Ever since I fled from the ship on that fateful night and landed on this island, we have been friends, good friends. He was a castaway. He had forgotten his speech. He had lived here since he was a child. I taught him everything."

"To love you?" queried Langford in hot and bitter jealousy.

"That was one thing I learned myself," answered the man. "And yesterday, you might call it chance, but I call it God," said the man gravely, "discovered to us the love we bore each other and that is all."

"Are you—forgive the question," said Langford, addressing the woman, "and there was agony in his voice, 'as you were when I left you?'"

"I am a different woman, thank God!"

"Different?"

"Yes, but in the sense in which you mean the question, I am just as I was, save that I love this man."

"But you had no right to love him or any one," burst forth Langford bitterly.

"And do you reproach me with that?"

"Do I?"

"Think of your wife."

"She's dead," said the man hoarsely. "I have searched the world for you. I have come back here to make amends, to own my fault, to marry you before God and man, to take you back to do for you as long as I shall live all that a man can do."

"There was such genuine passion in his voice and in his appeal that the most inimical and indifferent would have recognized it, but there was no response to it in the woman's heart. A greater love than his had come into her soul. The whole current of her being flowed to the man by her side."

"No," she said. "Your words have no appeal for me. They awaken no response in my heart. I love this man, not you."

"Have you thought," cried Langford meaningly, "that you are not free to love any one but me?"

"By heaven!" cried the man springing forward, "this time I will be answered. Why is she not free to love me or any one?"

"Because," said the other resolutely, "before she came into your life she belonged to me."

"Belonged to you?"

"Yes, to me."

"And by what tie?"

Langford hesitated. He was furiously wrought up. He saw that it was necessary to make a break, a rupture between these two. He thought that if he could do so, his own suit might be better prospered. He was in deadly earnest and therefore he took the risk. How frightful it was, he had no pre-conceptions. He did not understand that he was dealing with a primitive man. How should he? He did not understand what passions slept beneath the surface. And perhaps if he had understood, to do him justice, for he was a fearless man, he would have ventured just the same.

"She was my mistress!" he said through his teeth.

"Shame! Shame!" cried the woman, and then fell silent, clasping her hands and waiting for what might come. The hour of her travail was upon her.

Langford flashed a look at her and then his gaze reverted to the man. The expected outbreak did not instantly come.

"Mistress!" said the other. "I know not what that means, but 'tis a word of bitterness. Say further and more clearly your intent."

"Why, you fool!"

"He that calleth his brother a fool shall be damned," said the man. Langford stared at him.

"Where, have you lived," he cried, "that you don't know the meaning of words?"

"I have lived nowhere but here and I have known no language but what this woman has taught me."

"Yet she could easily have taught you the meaning of that word," the other responded with cruel, ruthless meaning.

"I will take the lesson from you."

"You will have it then?"

"I will."

"She was my wife, but without the blessing of God or the law of man. I owned her, do you understand? I possessed her body and soul."

"Not soul," said the woman, but the protest was lost.

"You lie!" cried the man, swiftly leaping upon her.

No tiger ever sprang with such swiftness or such ferocity. Langford

"Woman, Shall I Throw Him Down and Kill Him?"

was prepared for an attack. He dealt a blow at the oncoming figure with all the force of his arm, and skill and training enabled him to put into it more than one would have fancied from the slightness of his figure. He struck the man fairly in the chest. The blow apparently might have staggered an ox, it had no effect whatever upon the other. In an instant Langford was caught as if in the grasp of a whirlwind. He was lifted from the earth and held high in the air. For one tense moment, unable to struggle, he hung upon uplifted arms. He heard a voice beneath him cry

"Do him no hurt," said the woman, "for what he has said, as he sees it, is true."

CHAPTER XVI.

Confronted.

At these appalling words the strength seemed all at once to go out of the man's arm. Heavily, but not with purposeful ungiveness, he slowly set Langford down upon his feet on the sand.

"You brute!" cried the other man, trembling with impotent anger.

There was nothing that he could do personally. If he had possessed a weapon he would have killed the islander, but he was unarmed and helpless. Therefore he turned toward the beach and called to his men. They had seen the sudden attack and were already running across the sands.

"No," said the woman, "that word belongs to you. You have told the truth, and yet not all." She turned to her companion of the island.

Man, she said, "you have loved me. You must hear what I have to say."

"You have said that it was true," he muttered, hoarsely. "And the man who has said it lives. Lives!"

His voice rose to a cry. He turned toward Langford again. But by this time the six blue jackets who made up the crew were close at hand.

"Haley," cried Langford to the coxswain, "seize that brute yonder, and—"

The woman was still wearing the knife that she habitually carried. She used it often and kept the blade bright and of keen edge. She whipped it out on the instant, her civilization falling from her like a discarded garment when the man she loved was threatened.

"Let no one lay hand upon him," she cried, aflame to defend him. "I swear that I will drive it into my own heart if he be touched."

"Give me the knife," said her companion, suddenly.

Before she could prevent him, he whipped it out of her hand.

"And now," he said, springing toward the huddled group of sailors, the bright blade lifted, "which of you will touch me?"

The men shrank back. There was something so furious in the aspect of the man, his power was so evident and his temper as well that none wished to precipitate the fray.

from an intestinal ailment and his physicians have informed him that participation in a campaign would be unwise if not dangerous. The senator decided some days ago to withdraw, but it was only on Monday that he committed his decision to writing and mailed it in Washington to Chairman Boyd.

Aldrich to Go, Too.

Official sanction was given to the announcement of his retirement by Senator Aldrich, who declared that he will not be a candidate for reelection to the senate and that he will possibly retire at the expiration of his present term March 3, 1911. This statement was made on his return to Washington from Rhode Island where he had been in consultation with his political associates.

NELSON W. ALDRICH.
U. S. Senator from Rhode Island.

Mr. Aldrich said ill-health alone dictated his decision. During his service in the civil war he had a long siege of typhoid fever and as a result he has suffered periodically with intermittent trouble. These discomforts have manifested themselves when he has worked particularly hard and he has caused him considerable worry.

One week ago the senator went to New York, where he consulted with his physicians. They were insistent that he rid himself of the more exasperating of his burdens and devote a large share of his time to outdoor exercise.

Who Will Lead.

There will be speculation in the senate at once over the question of leadership after Mr. Aldrich's term expires. There is no rule or precedent under which the mantle of leadership goes with the chairmanship of the finance committee. In fact, there was no "one man" leadership in the senate prior to the last few years. The control was exercised by half a dozen men, including Senators Spooner and the late Senators Platt of Connecticut, Hanna of Ohio and Allison of Iowa.

Corporal J. D. Lohman 115th company, coast artillery, on duty at Fort Rosecrans Cal., won the broad sword clash of the United States army and of the world by defeating Major Duncan C. Ross in a 25-minute contest. During the contest Lohman twice disarmed Ross.

Lieut. Gen. S. B. Young, retired, has been appointed governor of the soldiers home in Washington in place of Gen. Hawkins, deceased. Major General Randall retired was appointed to the vacant position.

An explosion of dynamite under the framework of the Utah hotel, Salt Lake, buildings shook the city and shattered windows in all surrounding structures. The steel work of the hotel does not seem to have suffered great damage. No one was hurt.
A similar attempt to wreck the new hotel was made a few months ago and two men were convicted of the crime.

Philadelphia Strike Is On.

The strike of the employes of the Philadelphia Rapid Transit company, which began February 19, was settled
Thursday night.

The committee of 19, composed of representatives of striking motormen and conductors from each of the wards
of the Philadelphia Rapid Transit company, met and voted, in favor of accepting a settlement offered by the company, through representatives of the American Federation of Labor.

The terms of the settlement have not been made public, but it is said to include many of the features of the proposal made through Mayor Resburn, on March 20, when the company agreed to take back all the strikers and to guarantee them $2 a day until regular runs could be secured for them. The cases of the 174 men whose discharge precipitated the strike on February 19 will be submitted to arbitration.

30 Earthquakes in Costa Rica.

A series of earthquakes, varying in intensity, swept over Costa Rica on Thursday, doing vast damage, the extent of which can only be estimated at more than $1,000,000.

So far there has been no report of loss of life, but the people in the cities were panic-stricken and abandoned their homes for the hillsides.

In all, there were more than 30 shocks. Property in San Jose to the value of several hundred thousand dollars has been destroyed, but it is feared that it will total far more than this, as the vibrations of the earth
have not yet ceased.

The Gould-Drexel Wedding.

In a downtown of rain, Miss Marjorie Gould was married to Anthony J. Drexel, Jr., in New York, this morning, to a ceremony totaling $40,000,000 and bringing into relationship two of the richest families of the United States.

A few weddings had attracted a larger or more eagerly curious street crowd. Thousands of women and some hundreds of men were so intent in taking a peep at Miss Gould and the society folk that they stood for hours in a steady downpour. They endured the sudden weather for three hours, and occasionally rushed the police lines.

Mark Twain Very Ill.

Samuel L. Clemens, otherwise known as Mark Twain, the humorist, was a very ill man in his storeroom
on board the Oceana, when the ship arrived in New York from Bermuda.
Mr. Clemens, who has been spending the winter in Bermuda, made the trip in his berth and when the ship docked was too ill to be moved until the physicians should examine him and give their consent. Heart trouble and an affection of the respiratory organs are said to be the causes of his illness.

Japanese sealers reaching Vancouver, B. C., report that motor boats are being used for seal hunting this year by some of the 10 vessels sent from Japan to Bering sea. International sealing regulations provide that only sailing craft may be used for pelagic sealing, but Japan is not a party to the treaty and maintains that the regulations do not apply to Japanese vessels.

$200,000 was raised for the African Methodist Episcopal church in the last year just closed, according to a report made to the church board in session at Washington. After expenditures for educational purposes, church extension, support of ministers and provisions for their widows and orphaned children, $100,000 was reserved for the general treasury of the church for payment of salaries of bishops, episcopal officers and denominational work.

Cheapness vs. Quality

In the matter of food, you can't afford to sacrifice Quality for Cheapness. Economy is right and good but inferior food products are dear at any price.

KC BAKING POWDER

TO THE POINT.

The Editor's Paradise.

Frederick C. Beyer, a well known Cleveland editor, told at a recent press banquet a newspaper story.

"A Medina editor died," he said, "and was, of course, directed to ascend to the Abode of the Just. But during the ascent the editor's journalistic curiosity asserted itself and he said:

"Is it permitted for one to have a look at—er—the other place?"

"Certainly," was the gracious reply, and accordingly a descent to the other place was made. Here the editor found much to interest him. He scurried about, and was soon lost to view.

"His angelic escort got worried at last, and began a systematic search for his charge. He found him at last seated before a furnace, fanning himself and gazing at the people in the fire. On the door of the furnace was a plate saying, 'Delinquent Subscribers.'

"Come," said the angel to the editor, "we must be going."

"You go on," the editor answered, without lifting his eyes. "I'm not coming. This is heaven enough for me!"—Louisville Times.
