"CIRCLE N" BOYS VICTORIOUS

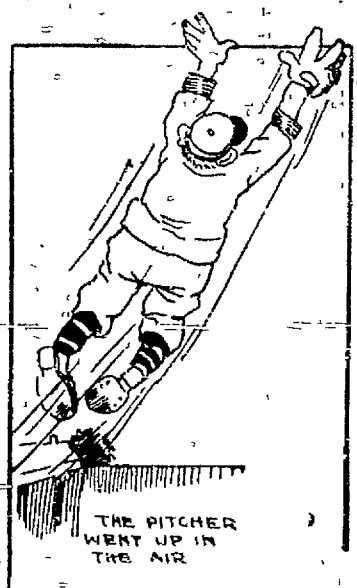

Take Game From Ypsi Team by
Score of 6 to 3.

Perhaps the defeat of the Ypsilanti town team Saturday by the "Circle N" boys was due to their late arrival, as they were held up in Wayne for two hours causing the game scheduled for three o'clock to be delayed until four. Our boys took advantage of the hour's delay by indulging in a good stiff practice, so that they were in good fighting trim.

The Ypsi team was a bunch of husky looking fellows, and from all appearances, were confident of eating the boys alive. One of them was heard to remark in the very first inning, "here goes your old ball game," and it did go—to us.

Several Ypsi rooters accompanied the visiting team and were given a warm reception by a dray load of enthusiastic local rooters. This same dray load also caused the Ypsi pitcher to "go up in the air" and stay there, too.

The batter was: Ypsilanti—Crawford and Hammarstone, Northville—Brittmeier and Stimpson.

Mrs. E. J. Simmons living east of town on the Base line, was awakened about midnight Saturday by an unusual noise and on investigation found the kitchen to be in flames. She at once awakened her husband and other members of the household, including Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Lester of Detroit, who were guests at the Simmons home. They all began to fight fire, and with the aid of a fire extinguisher soon had the blaze under control. The well was dry and the only water available on the premises was that in the cistern. The origin of the fire is unknown. The damage is considerable with about $50 insurance.

MRS. H. O. WAID DIED MONDAY

Had Been Ailing for Two Months;
Funeral Wednesday.

After an illness of more than two months, caused from grip, Mrs. H. O. Waid passed away at her home on Rogers street Monday morning. She was of a quiet, unassuming disposition which won for her many friends.

Miss Harriett Star was born in Honesoe Falls, N. Y., in 1842 and came to Michigan in 1872, settling in Northville where she has since resided. In 1881 she was united in marriage to Henry O. Waid, and to them were born three children, Mrs. Nellie Woodman of Ypsilanti, Mrs. Flora Babutt of this place and Dr. Edward Waid of Salem, all of whom, with the husband, survive.

The funeral was held from the house Wednesday afternoon, Rev. Wm. S. Jerome officiating.

Political Notes.

The Sault Ste Marie News at the time the governor was campaigning in the north in 1905, contains the following item, which was a comment made by that paper on the introduction of Gov. Warner by Chase S. Osborn, when the governor delivered a speech at the opera house in Sault Ste Marie on Tuesday, June 9, 1905, in his fight for re-nomination.

"No testimony to the governor's personal integrity and individual worth, his purity of motive and wholesome sincerity could have been more fittingly framed in words than in the eloquent introduction of the governor by the Hon. Chase S. Osborn as chairman of the meeting. His assertion that Michigan had never had a more honest, a more sincere, or a harder working governor than Warner, struck a responsive chord."

Inquiry is being made as to how the Upper Peninsula with 44,000 voters can register 58,000 republicans.

Makes No Unkindly References.

Lieutenant Governor Patrick H. Kelley, candidate for the Republican nomination for governor, is delivering "one of the most convincing addresses in his campaign, that it has been the pleasure of the thinking voters of Michigan to listen to in some time."

Clear of all unkindly references to his opponents, devoted strictly to the discussion of state questions, Mr. Kelley's remarks have met with the general approbation of Republicans all over the state.

In part he says:

"We have great interests in this state. We have 39,000 factories, giving employment to 300,000 men and their daily wage amounts to $600,000 per day. These are great interests of the state and we are glad of that. We have not as yet let the power get into the hands of any one particular interest of this state or any one particular faction, and it is essential that we do not. We have always given the upper peninsula, dominated by the mines, full share of the state government and the present time is no exception to the rule. They have a justice to the supreme court; they have the auditor-general of the state, and he has in his office one third of the patronage of the state government at his disposal; they have the superintendent of public instruction, receiving a salary of $4,000 per year, one of the highest paid offices in the state; they have a regent of the university, a member of the state board of education and a member of the state board of agriculture—six elective officers in one congressional district with only about one half of the population of Wayne county, and now in addition to the justice of the supreme court, auditor-general, member of the state board of education, superintendent of public instruction, and member of the state board of agriculture, and regent of the university, they ask us to give them also the governor of the state. This involves the power of directing legislation, of appointing the railroad commission, with supervision over $215,000,000 worth of railroad properties and the power of appointing a tax commission with general supervision over each and every parcel of land in the state. The power of appointing the banking commissioner with general supervision over the banks of the state, with power of appointing an insurance commissioner with general supervision over the insurance companies of the state, thus putting into the hands of a single congressional district, dominated by a single interest—namely mining—practically all of the vital executive powers of the state government. I leave it to you to say whether in your judgment such a course would be wise and prudent."—Detroit Courier.

LIGHTNING KILLED HOWARD SEVERANCE

WELL KNOWN RESIDENT OF NEAR WIXOM VILLAGE

He Was a Traveler, Teacher, and Writer.

While driving sheep from the pasture on the L. M. Moore farm near Wixom during the storm Wednesday afternoon, Howard Severance was struck by lightning and instantly killed. The body was carried into Mr. Moore's house and a physician summoned but life was extinct.

Mr. Severance served as teacher in the Philippines for about three years, returning about a year ago, taking a trip around the world. He recently wrote and had published a book entitled "The Four Millennial Essays," which embraced his work and travels in a political and religious sense.

He was a great favorite in the community where he lived.

The deceased was a cousin of Mrs. James Chase of this place.

White Sox-Circle "N" Series.

After August 19, the White Sox of Monroe and the Circle "N" team of this place will play a series of three games of base ball to decide the 18-year-old championship of southern Michigan. Both Monroe and Northville claim the honor and the series of games will be of great interest to local fans.

Northville has won 23 out of 28 games played. Milford, Ypsilanti, Carleton, Milan, Holly, Wyandotte, La Salle, Pere Marquette, McMillan, Acme Quilites, Tonquish and many others have suffered defeat at the Circle "N" club's hands. The club would like games with fast teams and any manager wishing a game can secure same by writing.

We would suggest that these series be played on the home grounds.

AFTER A DECADE VISITS OLD HOME

THE REAPPEARANCE OF FORMER BANKER, REVIVES AN OLD SCANDAL.

CAMP AT LUDINGTON BROKEN AND SOLDIER BOYS OFF FOR HOME.

Incidents and Happenings in Various Parts of the State Briefly Told.

Lake a ghost from the dead, H. H. Terwilliger, a gray-haired man, who was the leading figure in one of the most notorious bank scandals in the western part of the state, returned to Muskegon recently, after a disappearance of 10 years. The sensation of his coming in view of the fact that many of the aged residents of this neighborhood believed that he had been killed, felling the incidents of the Whitehall Farmers' bank scandal of 10 years ago. An investigation showed property enough to pay the bank in full and provide for his family. There was no prosecution.

Coupled with his disappearance was that of a Miss Miller, 18 years old, also of Whitehall. Officers searched the country in quest of the two, but no clue was obtained and it was not known whether their disappearance was planned or merely a coincidence.

A year after his disappearance Terwilliger's wife died and only a few months later it was discovered that Terwilliger was in Brooklyn, N. Y. Officers charged that Miss Miller was living with him as his wife. The matter taken, they said, had been investigated in the stock market. Terwilliger had met with losses it was alleged. He was working at a low salary as clerk in a bookstore. Since no depositors had lost through his flight, the complaint for his arrest was withdrawn and Terwilliger was untraced.

When he disappeared he was 35 years old. The last 10 years left him dark or him to heavily that even those who knew him best failed to recognize him at first. He refused to talk of the case beyond that he had lost track of Miss Miller several years ago and does not know where she is. This evening he took a boat for Chicago.

The Soldiers Return

Wednesday was the first day of the state movement and Thursday morning the troops for the first time. It is noted that the entire force of the Michigan National guard will probably be camped at Ludington next week. Trade Territory.

The trade territory of a town is not dependent upon the distance to neighboring trading points. The trade territory depends upon the enterprise of the merchants and the residents of the town. If a town does not reach after the trade, it will come only as fast as it is forced to. But if the merchants go after business in the surrounding country, advertising in every possible way, and making good every word of their advertising, trade will come from an ever-increasing radius, the town will gain a reputation, for being awake and it will forge to the front. It is the men in the town, and not altogether the men living within a certain number of miles from it that makes the town.

Six years ago the State of Michigan was governed by the corporation, the railroads and the mining interests of the upper peninsula. Under the administration of Governor Warner a primary election law was enacted and the ruling power has again been given back to the people.

Kind of Bottle for Him

An agent came into our sanctum yesterday to sell us a bottle that he claimed would keep anything we put into it for 72 hours, but it was a fraud; we could open it without a corkscrew even; the bottle that keeps anything in our neighborhood for 72 hours has got to be made out of armor plate and closed with a time lock—Alkan Eve.

A Good Man.

He was a good man, my father was, and his usual form of address to me was "my son," then so unadorned, and I don't know but it's helped me all my life. It sort of challenges a boy to be called "my son" by a good man. —Ruth McEnery Stuart, in Century

FOR THE UPLIFT OF JUVENILES

PROGRESS THE BRIDGE FROM THE PAST TO THE PRESENT.

Best Thought of the World Now Directed to Children.

Magazines and the daily papers, of not only this but foreign countries, are filled these days with discussion of the "Child Problem." "What can and shall be done for delinquent children?" is motive of all the articles. The discussion is now a number of years old and out of it has arisen an almost world wide movement that has already attained stupendous results. "Why," it is asked, "are children, in the usually accepted phrase "Bad?" "Why do they play truant from school?" "Why are they vicious, malicious, or immoral?" etc.

The best thought in the world has been devoted to satisfactory answers to the above enumerated enigmas and many reasons are given in explanation. It has been found, for instance, that the slight, healing and nourishment play important parts in making a truant. Eye glasses, a slight operation in the ear, a well nourished body and even a pair of shoes has converted the most habitual of truants into the most industrious of scholars. Environment, idleness, example, mental deficiency, etc., cause other acts which often give rise to complaint and bring young offenders to court.

Out of this question the juvenile court has arisen and is now a well established institution in every large city in the land. This special court established in Wayne county, but a very few years, for the purpose of dealing with neglected, delinquent, abused, destitute, homeless, abandoned, incorrigible, vicious and immoral children has already shown wonderful results in the betterment of children brought before it and has proved to the satisfaction of intelligent investigators that it is not "a fad" but an institution bringing greater results in proportion to the amount expended than any other institution supported by the tax payer.

Wayne's juvenile court is presided over by Hon. Henry S. Hulbert, who is also one of the two judges of probate for the county. Judge Hulbert has given his best thought and study to the question of child uplift. Everything that has been written regarding child reformation has been read by him and stored in his mind to help solve the numerous complaints against boys and girls coming to him daily. He is in constant touch with the leading men and women engaged in the same movement and receives the benefit of their study and experiences. Every particular charge brought against a boy or girl in his court is given special investigation. The child's environments are learned by special detailed assistants in the work. Proper medical examination is made when it is thought some mental deficiency has given rise to the act. The child's home, playmates, and habits are made subjects of inquiry and in fact everything possible is done in order that the boy or girl can be given a square deal and set on the path that will ultimately make that particular boy or girl the best of men and women.

Judge Hulbert has been connected with the probate court as clerk and register under Judge Durlee for the past 20 years and is classed among the men who best understand for purposes of interpretation the probate law of the state, while his study of the child problem almost since its inception, makes him particularly well fitted for the position of juvenile judge and associate probate judge of the county. He will be a candidate to succeed himself on the republican primary ticket to be voted on in a few weeks.

Importation of Wild Animals

THE return of Colonel Roosevelt and party from Africa, with the cargo of animal specimens which had been killed during their invasion of the jungle, caused a New York dealer in wild beasts to talk interestingly of the business in which his firm is engaged. There are nearly a dozen firms in New York city that carry on an immense business in the transportation of animals fresh from the jungle. And this number, of course, does not include such immense foreign animal firms as the Hagenbecks. It is a paying business, as indeed, are all businesses where the demand exceeds the supply. The demand for wild beasts is far greater than the supply, and as a consequence prices are good, and the dealers men of wealth. The extent of his demand may be appreciated when one considers that most of the great cities in the United States have zoological parks or menageries, and that the animals are constantly being purchased by them. Then there are private collectors and exhibitors, and the like, who are ever ready to pay the highest prices for desirable animals. The animal dealer who could secure and bring to this country three or four gorillas would make a small fortune. But no dealer has ever succeeded in doing this. The gorillas die in a few weeks in captivity; they could not stand an ocean trip for a day.

A rusty old German liner lumbered noisily into Quarantine, and then lies motionless in the tide. An officer, with broad, red, bewhiskered face, came out of the companion ladder, and he looked a perfect smile, as a husky seaman, who then came from below. "The animals are all right, hungry," he explains, "you know we have saved a hundred of them on the 'Tiger' deck. Want to see them? All right." In another minute probably the most contemptuous animal man in the world is at our side. He is not a trader, or even a hunter. He is more. He is a sort of animal cook, and his special business is the permanent management of wild animal fairs. He received them from the Hagenbecks, who they have been brought fresh from their native wilds, and not only kept them in a ship, but he also had to feed them for New York, and he sits with them in his den, and that they arrive safely and in good health. And he is sure that the tiger gets off on his diet and needs a nice fresh live rabbit to feed on his system, this man will be aware of the fact almost before the tiger is seen, and a nice big jumping bunny is sacrificed in accordance with the precepts of wild beast management. Then, too, one can never tell just when the big lion is going to house from his last gorge, when he does he wants a tooth-once young goat, and he wants it quick. It is a part of the animal man's duty to anticipate the lion's appetite with all possible expedition.

He is a quiet, unassuming man, with stoop shoulders and bushy whiskers, and he leads the way to the 'twain decks without a word. Perhaps the uninitiated may believe that a tour through the animal section of a freight-carrying vessel is an unimpressive experience. Well, let them try it and see! This can be said at the outset—it is somewhat different from a menagerie. It means something to come into close proximity to a hundred and odd wild animals that have been ruthlessly snatched from their lairs in Africa or Asia, or elsewhere, and clapped into little barred boxes, not as large as dry goods cases; slammed in and out of dark holes in the vessels of several seas on the way to Hamburg; then finally placed in the stygian 'twain decks of a German hooker.

The swinging cross-ways of the North Atlantic have not improved their tempers, or their nervous systems, and the visitor at Quarantine is quickly impressed with that fact. The howls and whines and the barks cease abruptly, as the strangers enter. For they bring the smell of land, and the great bear's snarl inquiringly, and hungrily, too.

The cages lined both sides of the gloomy space, with a little passageway between the boxes. Perhaps this passageway was three feet wide, not more. The cages were piled two and sometimes three deep. In the bottom cage, for instance, would be a tiger; in the next above a smaller animal, say, a leopard or a lynx, and above that a parrot, or a bunch of parrots. Think of it! A three-foot passageway, with ferocious animals, stretching along for 100 feet on all sides. Talk about nightmares! The reporter's hair stiffened out like so many pieces of wire, and he wished most fervently that he had not come. It was more agreeable, he felt, to see these animals in a menagerie where the cages are ample and the bars an inch thick.

"Better keep in the middle of the aisle," says one of the animal men, "these fellows sometimes reach out for you."

Words such as these, of course, hardly tended to reassure.

It really was too dark to see much. One caught a view of the cages stretching away in gloomy perspective until lost in the darkness, of rows of glowing green eyes and great teeth with the flash of red tongue, and he turned, and he turned, only to jump almost out of his skin as an elephant touched him on the other shoulder with his trunk. He was hardly over his scare when, zip! a leopard reached out after his coat tail.

In one way this lower deck section was a good place to visit, the joy and relief in being able to leave it furnished the place a good deal more than the sight of the animals. In the last few months at least.

Statens & Co., who are the largest dealers in wild beasts in this country.

"A large wild animal dealer," said our informant, "reports considerably more than a hundred large wild animals each year. For instance, our record for one year which I happen to have at hand, shows that we imported in that period 29 elephants, 23 camels, 20 tigers, 5 lions, 17 leopards, 20 panthers, 15 parrots and hundreds of birds and monkeys and small things. Cubs—lion and tiger and bear cubs—are in special demand by wealthy families. They are raised and petted like kittens, but in the end they outgrow their playfulness and the families, who bought them from us, are only too willing to pay us to come and take them away when they attain any sort of growth. We have received many orders for hippopotami, but the beasts are hard to capture and ninety-nine times out of a hundred they do not live through the voyage. In fact, menageries throughout the country have to depend on late year's upon the progeny of the hippopotami in Central Park, New York, for specimens.

"Like all animal dealers, we maintain expert animal catchers in all parts of the world, and it is these men who fill the ships which arrive here. The Hagenbecks have two collecting stations, one in Calcutta and the other in Aden, Arabia. From this point the animal catchers go forth and spend months in the wilds, returning to the stations with their catch. We ourselves send catchers direct from this country—at present we have men in South America, on the hot sands of Africa, in the Himalayas, and elsewhere, filling our orders. One of them was recently in Arabia on a camel hunt, two are now in the East Indies trapping tigers, and so they are spread about in places where wild beasts abide.

"Sometimes we receive an order for a large number of elephants. We telegraph this order to our catchers in the elephant country, who, after organizing the natives into a hunting band, proceed to collect the desired number. A huge inclosure is built in one of the main elephant paths, and at night when the big animals come to feed they are driven into the inclosure or keddah by means of fires and shouts and the firing of guns. Beaters on tame elephants then ride into the inclosure and rope the beasts, and in a short time they become accustomed to being led about. Elephants are naturally wild, and were this not the case they never could be captured, because of their great, hulking strength.

"The natives also captured elephants in pits, a barbarously cruel method in which more than 50 per cent. are killed by the fall. The animal catchers take tigers and lions in pits also. They dig a hole, cover it with matting and place on this matting a dead goat. At night the lion or tiger steals from his lair, sees the goat and springs upon it. The matting, of course, gives way and down into the pit goes the roaring beast. Then the catcher's run up and throw nets into the pit and the struggling animal soon becomes hopelessly entangled. Nooses are then lowered into the pit and the beast is dragged out to the cage. Six out of every ten are killed in this process. Leopards and jaguars and the smaller animals are caught in traps just as mice are caught, and monkeys are also trapped. Such great beasts as the rhinoceros and the like are not captured by the animal men, but are secured from native potentates, who give them away as a mark of special esteem or barter them for brass and other trifling but showy gewgaws.

"We take comparatively few lions from the wilds now. It is cheaper to buy them in captivity. Polar, grizzly and Russian bears also are mainly bought and sold in captivity, but other wild beasts are taken in their lairs."

FOOD IN LONDON IS CHEAPER.

"For many years," said a man who came back from a European tour the other day, according to an exchange, "I have been in the habit of getting into an argument with friends after my return about the prices of food in the best restaurants in New York and London. I have been contending that New York restaurants were putting up their prices all the time and some of my friends have tried to convince me that you could get a meal cheaper at the higher priced restaurants in New York than in London."

"I determined this time to collect some real data for comparison and as a result I have kept the bill of many meals I had in London. It is my intention to duplicate the meals I had over there at some of the restaurants here, item for item. I did this with one of them the other day and demonstrated that for such a meal London is a lot cheaper than New York."

"Here is the bill for a luncheon I had at one of the most expensive hotels in London:

| | | |
|-----------------------|---|---|
| Hot & cold soups | 2 | 0 |
| Plate of sweetbreads | 2 | 0 |
| Asparagus | 2 | 0 |
| Cherries (seasonable) | 1 | 0 |
| Coffee | 1 | 0 |
| Beer | 1 | 0 |

"Totals
Now, six shillings—nineteen cents at $4.85 to the pound is $1.65. As for the dishes themselves, they could not have been surpassed anywhere. For the hors d'oeuvres I had a dozen different dishes to select from."

"Did you ever find hors d'oeuvres varied on the bill of fare of a New York restaurant? Try it. Of course you may get them at a table d'hôte but I mean on the carte du jour of a restaurant where you pay separately for each thing you eat."

"In Paris there is a restaurant in the Avenue de l'Opera, where you can have about twenty different varieties of little fish and cold salads and appetizers for about 15 or 16 cents. It took me a long time to find this in a first-class house here, and then when I did so it was in a restaurant which is not usually considered among the most expensive in the city. Here hors d'oeuvres varies masqueraded under the title of 'buffet russe.' They charged me 50 cents for it, as against the 18 charged in the London restaurant."

"My plate of sweetbreads tasted exactly like that I had in London and cost exactly the same, 50 cents. I ordered some asparagus. On the bill of fare they had asparagus with Hollandaise sauce for 40 cents, but I wanted it cold, with French dressing. They did not tell me it would be any more, but for it they charged me 70 cents. For the Neufchatel cheese they charged 20 cents and for the coffee 15. The robbery came, on the beer."

"In London if you want a little pitcher of beer they serve you an excellent brew of Pilsener or Wurzbacher in a little sealed vessel holding a pint for a shilling. I asked the waiter to bring me a small pitcher of beer on draught, knowing they did not serve the beer as in London. He brought me a pitcher and charged me 70 cents for it."

"Now my bill came to $2.65, or exactly $1 more than the same food and drink had cost me in London. I gave the New York waiter a quarter and he scarcely nodded. I gave the London waiter sixpence and he thanked me so that I could hear him."

"The religion of some people is too lenient," said Bishop Heslin in a recent address in Nantucket.

"Some people suggest to me, in their view of religion, a little girl whose teacher said to her: 'Mary, what must we do, first before we can expect forgiveness for our sins?'"

"We must sin first," the little girl answered.—Nashville Banner.

DROVE HIS AUTO THROUGH FLAMES

RAN THE MACHINE FACE TO FACE WITH DEATH AND ESCAPED.

SAVED MOTHER FROM DEATH

Also Rescued Sister, Brother-in-Law and Others—Hemmed in by the Great Forest Fires That Have Been Raging for Some Time.

Chicago—A vivid story of how he drove an automobile nine miles through a flaming forest on a road not more than twenty feet wide in its widest parts, to rescue his mother, sister and brother-in-law from death amid the burning trees, while great tongues of fire shot across the road and blinding smoke assailed his eyes and nostrils, was told by Louis Nissen.

"Acres of forest and flame!" Thus Mr. Nissen summarized his realistic description of the recent forest fires in Wisconsin, in one of which he experienced his thrilling adventure. His big touring car made three trips through the heart of the blazing woods, bearing to safety, in addition to his mother, brother-in-law and sister, the latter two Mr. and Mrs. Richard Wachsmuth, a liveryman named Strube with a party of four strangers who had been touring the country.

Mr. Nissen's own people were trapped in their farmhouse nine miles north of Ogdema, Wis., situated in the north central section of the state. The liveryman and his party were in the same general neighborhood and unable to move either forward or back, as their rig, a four-seated buggy, had broken down. All were in a dangerous plight when rescued. Mr. and Mrs. Wachsmuth and Mr. Nissen's mother are now stopping at the home of Mr. Nissen.

Ogdema is about 420 miles north of Chicago," said Mr. Nissen. "I was only up in that country for a few days, but they were certainly rapids with interest. My brother-in-law, his wife and my mother were at their farmhouse some nine miles beyond Ogdema, at the time the fires began. I had gone north primarily on a pleasure trip and contemplated Reversed my Engine in a Great Hurry.

Duluth, Minn., as my destination. Needless to say, when I found out the desperate situation of my people I gave up all thought of any further joy riding."

"No one who has not seen one of the forest fires can have any conception of what a fearful thing it is. All about are burning woods and flaming marshes, and they burn morning, noon and night for days and days. It is only heavy rains which finally extinguish the big blazes."

"There is only one road leading to the 360-acre farm of my brother-in-law. There he had a sawmill, three stables, a home and 400,000 or more feet of timber, and up there he was trapped with the forest burning on all four sides of him. I went up this road for him and his wife and my mother and I had an awful time. The roadway was possibly twenty feet wide at its widest points and on either side all along the nine miles I was forced to travel the woods were burning. Great tongues of flame shot across the road at places and the smoke was awful. I was choking and half-blinded during the entire trip, but I kept the machine at top speed—or at as high a speed as I could force it along the poor road."

"Finally I reached them and just in time. I hurried them in the machine to a clearing about three miles distant, where we fixed up a shelter. Then I went back and tried to save some of the household goods, but found that next to impossible. My brother-in-law lost practically everything—his sawmill, his home and nearly everything in it, besides all his acres of timber."

"It was prior to my trip after my own people that I had heard of the plight of Strube and his party. His rig was out of whack in some way and he was stranded up on a country road in the northern part of the state; but I got to him in time and by crowding we managed to get all the party into the machine and hurried them to safety."

OWES HER LIFE TO

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Chicago, Ill.—"I was troubled with falling and inflammation, and the doctors said I could not get well unless I had an operation. I knew I could not stand the strain of one, so I wrote to you sometime ago about my health and you told me what to do. After taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Blood Purifier I am today a well woman."

—Mrs. William Atkins, 888 W. 21st St., Chicago, Ill.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs, contains no narcotics or harmful drugs, and to-day holds the record for the largest number of actual cures of female diseases of any similar medicine in the country, and thousands of voluntary testimonials are on file in the Pinkham Laboratory at Lynn, Mass., from women who have been cured from almost every form of female complaints, inflammation, ulceration, displacements, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, indigestion and nervous prostration. Every suffering woman owes it to herself to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial.

If you would like special advice about your case write a confidential letter to Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. Her advice is free, and always helpful.

MISUNDERSTOOD HIM.

"My friend," said the solemn man on the railroad train, "do you drink intoxicating liquors?"

"Sure!" cried the convivial chap.

"Much obliged for the invitation. Got a flask with you?"

A Bernhard Trick.

Mrs. Sarah Bernhard, who is supposed to be something of an artist as well as an actress, was recently called upon in one of her marvelous creations to enact the role of a sculptor, and to model a certain bust in view of the audience. This fairly electrified the critics, but when going into rhymedodies over the technical skill in handling the clay which Mrs. Bernhard exhibited they showed that they knew little of the artistic tricks of actors and actresses, as a matter of fact, she does nothing of the kind. The bust is modeled and baked, and over it is placed damp clay of the same color. This the talented actress merely pulls off, exposing the beautifully modeled head underneath.

There can be no greater mistake than to suppose that the man with $1,000,000 is a million times happier than the man with one dollar.

THE ART OF TAILORING AND DRESSMAKING

There is hardly a woman of fifty, but what, in her younger days, was taught the art of the seamstress. It was part of her education, and was not only considered an accomplishment, BUT WAS A SOURCE OF GREAT ECONOMY TO THE FAMILY. Today there is hardly a girl of twenty who knows much about such an art.

This statement was made by a man who had studied the subject thoroughly. Another man who knows said: "The dressmaker, except in large cities, is fast becoming extinct, in spite of the fact that there never was such a splendid field for trained talent as today; for the carefully dressed woman simply will NOT wear ready made Suits and Gowns."

It is not so much the fault of women today, that so few of them understand dressmaking. Ninety percent of them WANT to know how to sew and to fashion things for their personal and family wear.

BUT WHERE CAN THEY LEARN?

It is the purpose of this college to revive the art of sewing. The average woman wants to do something useful in her spare time. And there are few ways that afford such profitable returns, as in making her own clothes.

Dressmaking a Profitable Business

This college gives a course of training that enables any woman to become a good dressmaker or tailoress. The dressmaker who receives her instructions at a Keister college is always in demand. She is taught every phase of the business with a thoroughness that makes her complete mistress of the most difficult parts of the craft. She is taught the system, which enables her to take measurements and draught any kind of a pattern. She learns to cut and fit, and all that remains is a few years of experience in applying the knowledge gained, which can be done right here in the college. The cost is ridiculously small compared to what is learned. $25 FOR THE FULL COURSE. The demand for Keister pupils to take good positions is greater than we can supply. Call or write for further information.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer one Hundred Dollars for any case that is failed to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address: F. J.
