TOWNSHIP ELECTION BROUGHT OUT BIG VOTE

Democrats Landed the Office of Clerk.

Monday's town election brought out a big vote there being 459 voters who exercised their right of suffrage. The only real contest was that on clerk and treasurer. The democrats made a good big effort for those two offices and by the help of a hundred and fifty odd republicans pulled in the clerk job for Will Timbham but only about eighty republicans left Marvin Sloan and he was elected over A. C. Belden by thirty-five majority.

Following is the vote, the first named being republican, the second democrat:

Supervisor—
Lanning 316; Northrop 134
Clerk—
Cattermole 173; Timbham 273
Treasurer—
Sloan 242; Belden 207
Highway Commissioner—
Clark 335; Merritt 102
Overseer Highways—
Johnson 326; Cook 112
Justice—
Griswold 329; Banks 193
Board of Review—
Porter 303; Harger 122
David Barber, Horace Green, Joy Miller and Frank Perrin were elected constables by the usual big majority.

For circuit judge Codd and Van Zile led the ticket with 317 votes each. Hugh Shepard did well for a new man, pulling in 285 within four or many as Judge Donovan.

Buhrer for county auditor had 228 to 167 for Cunningham.

A number of voters evidently got Wilkins and Williams mixed. The latter was wholly unknown here and yet he pulled in more votes than Wilkins who was well known and quite a favorite.

The constitutional amendment carried here by a vote of 313 to 70. It was seemingly strange that seventy six voters could be found in the town who would vote against the proposition of bringing in some money to this school district that has heretofore been going into districts up state where it keeps piling up and can never be used there.

It was voted to raise $4,750 in all as follows:

Contingent	$1,000
Poor fund	400
Road Repair	1,000
Special Repair	800
New Roads	2,000
Woodchuck	50

The total amount is a thousand more than last year. The vote to raise $2,000 to build two miles of new state roads was carried unanimously. These roads are to be built under state supervision for which five hundred dollars per mile will be paid back as an award by the state.

Where the Tigers Play

The Detroit United Lines has again issued its famous baseball calendar showing when and where the Detroit baseball club plays. The home dates are printed in red and the days you cannot root at Bennett park are naturally done in black. As long as the supply lasts they may be had from waiting rooms along the Detroit United lines or they will be mailed from the Detroit office on receipt of a two cent stamp. Address A. D. B. VanZandt, Publicity Agent, 12 Woodward Ave., Detroit, and mention the Record.

FARMINGTON VOTES

BIG FOR GOOD ROADS

The town of Farmington with a hundred taxpayers present Monday voted to raise $8,500 for new roads and for repairs and improvements and Farmington today already has more miles of good roads than almost any other town in this part of the state.

Auction Sale.

"Gentle, persuasive methods are the best," said Uncle Allen Sparks, "if you want to accomplish anything that's worth while. You can catch more flies with a sheet of sticky paper in one afternoon than you can swat in a year."

MRS. TALMAGE

DIED SUN. MORNING

Sylvan "Slip" Birch Found Dead Saturday.

Mrs. Laura Talmage died at her home on Northside Sunday morning, aged sixty-six and one-half years. She was a native of York state but had lived in this place for many years. Some little time ago she fell and broke her hip and from this trouble she had never fully recovered. Mr. Talmage died a number of years ago.

The funeral was held from the home Tuesday afternoon, Rev. T. J. Murdock officiating. The interment was in the Yrkes cemetery.

Sylvan Birch, better known as "Slip", was found dead in his little old shack just south of the village hall on the Plymouth road. Saturday morning just how long he had been dead is not known. The last seen of him was when he was up around the village Thursday. The body was taken to the Franks Lake cemetery for interment Monday. He leaves a son at Dexter and one son and a daughter in Chicago. He was nearly seventy-nine years old.

Newly Elected Officers.

At the annual meeting of Northville Commandery, No. 39, held at Masonic hall Tuesday evening, the following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

Sent—D. F. Griswold
A special meeting will be held next Tuesday evening, for installation. There will be a social time and a little lunch served.

WIXOM NEWS.

Ruth Sleek was a Highland visitor over Sunday.

A. C. Harmon of Northville was a Wixom visitor Tuesday.

Mrs. Floyd Taylor of Rand visited her parents Tuesday and Wednesday.

Mrs. Betsey Longnecker was quite sick the first of this week, but is now on the gain.

Mrs. Henry Perry and Dorothy Madison were Rand visitors the first part of this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Watson of Detroit visited their daughter, Mrs. F. W. Lockwood, over Sunday.

The sidewalk society netted $13 from the play entitled "Clearing the Mists" last Saturday night.

Mrs. John Green and children of Farmington visited her brother, Jay Hammond, and family over Sunday.

Mrs. A. C. Harmon of Northville spent Monday and Tuesday at J. G. Madison's helping care for her mother, Mrs. Fuller.

Mrs. Katharine Fuller fell Sunday and fractured the small bone in her hip. She is as comfortable as can be expected at this writing.

Longevous Geese.

Geese will live to a great age, and some few years ago I came across a very venerable goose (male or female I cannot now say) in Westmoreland in unexpected circumstances. I was walking from Milnthorpe to Arncliffe, and at Ganaside found an acquaintance sitting on a seashore bench feeding a pet goose with biscuits steeped in ale. He told me that this goose had been in his farm for over forty years and was partial to beer stout, and even gin. One of the most remarkable records of the longevity of geese with which I am acquainted is to be found in an old book entitled "Travels in Scotland," by the Rev. James Hall, M. A., London, two volumes, 1907. On a visit to a Mr. Charles Grant of Elchies, Stirlingshire, the author was informed of a gander that had been killed by accident after living at the same place for "above eighty years."—G. W. School Notes.

[By a Pupil.]

Iris Merritt entered the First grade Monday morning.

Margaret Stimpson of the Fifth grade has left school.

Truman Garfield entered the Seventh grade Monday.

Roy Mosher of the Fifth grade returned to school Monday.

The First graders had their pictures taken in their room last week.

The Kindergarten pupils came in the First grade for opening exercises Tuesday morning.

Harold Bloom and Charles Thornton are both out of school on account of sickness.

Mrs. Gleason, Mrs. Henry and Mrs. VanValenberg were callers in the Kindergarten Monday morning.

The finances of the various classes of the High school have been audited and found to be in good condition.

A large number of pupils of the Seventh grade were neither tardy nor absent during the month of March.

New pupils in the Kindergarten are, Dorothy Hinman, Elizabeth VanValenberg, Bernice Henry, Myron Burch, Joseph Gleason.

All members of the Sixth grade were present to begin the spring term except Edna West, who is unable to be here.

Having obtained the required number of credits, Harold Tibbitts has dropped the High school work until commencement.

The Sophomores have decided upon a play for their Commencement work part. The Juniors and Freshmen will work together.

Many names have been handed in for enrollment the coming year and there will be room for but a few more. To avoid a disappointment let us know at once.

The following pupils of the Sixth grade earned one hundred for the month of March: Jackie Adams, Dorothy Dabear, Clara Gladding, Ida Morris, Peter Perkins, Jay Stimpson, Evelyn Wallington and Aletha Yrkes.

Coach Douglass is making preparation for workouts with the baseball squad. Two games each with Eastern High, Western High, Cary's Business College and Wagon have already been scheduled and two others remain to be filled. With the two Stimpsons, Johnson, Bail, Cray, Turner, Boyden, Scholtz of last year's team, and some very promising material, it looks as though some of the regulars will have to work hard to hold their places. The coach gives out that he anticipates several changes early in the season.

W. C. T. U. Notes.

Plans are now under way for an All-Day Institute and evening entertainment in the near future.

The "Daffodil" tea meeting of Mrs. Greer's Monday afternoon was a social success and netted a neat sum for the Flower fund.

The ladies of our local Union are planning to plant a park to each tree the charms of the town. Anyone wishing to donate trees or shrubs should notify the secretary, Mrs. J. E. Morse.

Mrs. and Mrs. Murdock and Mrs. Morse attended the Gold Medal contest at Novi on Wednesday evening, serving as judges in the contest. There is one serious drawback to the pleasure of such a trip, and that is lying awake nearly all night fearing to miss the, one and only, train, foregoing breakfast for the same reason, rushing to the depot hot-foot through the mud only to be told the train is late; and then the cooling off while one waits. This may look like several reasons, but the many pleasures experienced makes us decide to lump the discomforts and declare them one.

The Shapely Back.

Only only within comparatively recent years, says the London Daily Sketch, that women have come to realize the importance of the back view. Bernhardt insisted on having the backs of her gowns trimmed and it was counted an eccentricity. Many women are charming simply because the lines of their backs are good, while others get no credit for pretty faces because their backs are poorly shaped. One reason for dressing the back well is that people gaze at backs more than at faces. It is not permissible to do the latter, while nobody can object to the former.

A Typographical Error

By JANE LUDLUM LEE

"It's no use, Edna, the Lord never meant me to be very happy in this world. I'll have to take what I can get, and be thankful."

Edna looked up with a bored expression. "Some people don't deserve even what they get."

The two girls were directly opposite types. Eleanor was tall, graceful, high strung, nervous full of life and energy. Her most attractive features were her eyes, dark and deep set, with a longing, unsatisfied expression. Edna was a type much less interesting, cold, phlegmatic and clear-sighted; a much smaller woman, too, with colorless gray eyes.

On the bed lay lingerie of the most alluring kind, the sort of things that only women can appreciate. Pile upon pile of lace, stuffs were scattered about the room. Negliges so attractive that one could almost wish for an illness as an excuse to wear them. Surrounded by these pretty things that women love, sat Eleanor Godfrey, who tomorrow would be the bride of Tom Grant.

"There's one thing I can never regret," she said. "I told Tom everything before he took me. It was brutally frank, I admit, to tell your future husband that the best love of your life has been given to another."

"Poor boy," murmured Edna.

"Poor boy, indeed. Don't I have to live with him? Don't I have to see him waste his life? And is it nothing that I have to eke out an existence crushing down my sighs, forcing back my tears?"

Walking across the room to where Edna sat, she put her hands on a pair of very unsympathetic shoulders.

"How can you judge? You do not know the case. Now listen. Every breath I breathe, every prayer I utter, every beat of my aching heart is for Jack Winston. I've loved him ever since I was a little girl, but you see I couldn't very well marry him because he never asked me. Then, too, Jack is so poor, and all my life I've been longing for things that Tom Grant's money will buy for me. I didn't deceive him. I said I couldn't love him; but he, still knowing this, wants to marry me and I accepted. Now judge me if you will."

Edna straightened up a bit and the lines about her mouth seemed to grow deeper in an instant.

"One question, please, before I render the verdict. You take upon your soul the wrecking of this man's existence. You will suck the honey from the flower of his life and leave him nothing but the stem. This is easier for you than being an old maid. Then, too, supposing that Tom was in love with some other girl?"

"I plead guilty to the charge, judge, and accept the sentence of the court. Your logic is getting staler; so let's go to bed that I may get my beauty sleep and make a handsome bride. Think of a dear girl, tomorrow at this hour my visiting cards will read 'Mrs. Thomas Kemp Grant.'"

The lights were put out and Eleanor was soon fast asleep, while Edna lay wide awake, as through her brain ran the words "I do not love him and he knows it." If she only dared.

The next morning was colorless, the air heavy; in fact, just the sort of day to make a bride look out of the window and wonder if she really were superstitious. It was about 9 o'clock and Tom was whistling one minute and singing the next. He walked into the bedroom where his friend and best man lay peacefully sleeping.

"Get up, you lazy vagabond. We can't keep the bride waiting, you know. That's her privilege."

The best man rubbed his eyes, growled a bit, and finally crawled out. "Gee! I'll take a shower," he said.

"Need some sort of a brace to put me through this ordeal. I wouldn't do 'im for every fellow I know. I know," he went on, "as a brace is far superior to water in my personal and valuable opinion, but the maid or her or right object. Better take one of the other yourself old chap. You're looking pretty ragged for a bridegroom."

Tom was practically ready. After working about an hour on it, he had managed to arrange his white puff tie to his entire satisfaction. He had buttoned and unbuttoned his waistcoat until his thumbs were blistered. He had pulled it down in front and buckled it at the back until the seams threatened to give way.

"I say, old man," he yelled at the bathroom door, "do you believe in pre-nuptials?"

"Bet I do," screamed the best man. "Got one now."

"What's that?" shrieked Tom.

"A shaggy head appeared at the door and amid the soapbuds came this, 'I've a presentment that this is going to be a jolly cold proposition.'"

"What's your marriage?"

"What a conceited ass you are, Tom. I had reference to my snower."

The door closed just in time to receive a well-aimed boot.

"By 11 the men were ready and, on their way to the house as they neared it, Tom became more and more nervous. There seemed to be a weight on his heart that he could not lift. At that moment the best man was hanging out the cab window, cursing the driver for the snail-like pace they were pursuing.

"I say, Caddy, this is a wedding that we are going to, not a funeral. I'll give you an extra half dollar if you hurry."

"An extra half, is it? You talk like a politician. Well, sir, you might corrupt me, but this horse can't be bribed and wedding of funerals, his gait is all the same. Rest easy while you can, sir—the lady will drive you fast enough once she gets the reins."

The best man was about to rail at the Irish as a nation, when Tom said, "If anything should happen—"

"Jumping Jupiter, Tom, brace up. You look as if you had curvature of the spine. Pull yourself together, will you? Any girl that had such a looking object as you on her calling list would be ostracized by good society and one who would marry you would be declared mentally incompetent."

"All right, I'll pull up, but I've a beautiful idea that something is going wrong. Jack, old man, I can't do it. I'm in love with Edna Craig and not with Eleanor. I've just come to realize that."

"You old fool, then why did you ask Eleanor to marry you when you know that I have loved her all my life and I have been trying to force her for months? Night after night I went on my knees with my hands clasped in prayer, begging for something to happen. And every night, too, Tom, I went to bed because you were waiting at 11 and I had no right to keep you waiting. What are we going to do?"

"Why that's very enough," answered Jack. "I am going to be the groom and you can just screw back into your boots as best man. We'll bring the whole thing on the printer. Trust me, old man, I said I'd see you through this ordeal, and I'm going to keep my word."

As the cab finally reached the house the men stepped out and were ushered into the room where the minister was waiting for them. No word of explanation was uttered, and the men took their places by the minister, who was to pronounce them man and wife. The wedding march was played and as Eleanor in her gorgeous robes came forth to meet the man of her choice, Jack Winston stepped forth and offered her his arm. Eleanor was speechless, but too happy to resent, and before the gaping crowd the minister tied the knot that made them one "till death do them part."

Then Jack began his explanations. "Simplest thing in the world," he said. "You see, Tom ordered the invitations, and of course the printer took it for granted that it was his wedding—merely a typographical error, nothing more."

"Then may I ask why Tom gave the bachelor dinner—why Tom bought the ring?"

"Yes, mother," said Jack, with a very proprietary manner. "You see, I was broke at the time, and Tom, as you all know, is just loaded with money, so I gave him carte blanche to just go ahead as if it was his own wedding and I'd pay him back in good time. You see, I only came into my inheritance yesterday, and that would have been too late to order invitations, give dinners, etc. Anyway, how could you ever think that Tom was going to marry Eleanor? Why, he's engaged to marry Edna, and if you don't believe me, ask them for yourself. I tell you it was a typographical error—nothing more."

The color that suffused Edna's face, and the smile that glorified Jack's verified the statement, and the guests were in a flutter of pleasurable excitement when, in the corner, Jack was shaking Tom by the hand and saying, "Don't tell me I'd see you through it, old man!"

Well, married. Dramatic Critic—But your play hasn't any plot! Dramatic Author—Oh, well, most of the people in the audience haven't any brains.

SIAM HAS NEW GOD

Great Bronze Buddha Built at King's Order.

Heathen Idol is Cast From Captured Cannon and Erected in the Magnificent Royal Temple at Bangkok.

Bangkok, Siam.—Siam, the country of the white elephants, was a short time ago the scene of a very brilliant event, one of the most interesting that has taken place in the history of the country. King Chulalongkorn, the late king of Siam, while touring in the northern part of his kingdom at the end of last year visited the ancient town of Pitsanuloke, which contained within its walls a celebrated many-centuries-old figure of Buddha.

The king was so filled with enthusiasm by this statue that he made vow to place a similar figure in the royal temple, "Wat Surin Dosit," in the capital of his kingdom. He sent off some Buddhist priests immediately to Bangkok, ordering them to bring back six old bronze cannon captured during a war with Burma to Pitsanuloke. In the meantime the king so pushed on the work that by the time the cannon arrived the process of casting could be begun. Faithful Buddhists streamed from far and near and threw gold and silver into the glowing mass. Young girls took off their costly jewels and offered them as a sacrifice. Whole families would gladly have given their all. In order that the sanctity of the ancient statue should be conveyed to the new, two consecrated silver cords were fastened to the ears of the old statue and given into the charge of the highest dignitaries who watched day and night and sang and offered prayers incessantly.

During the casting the king himself held the other end of the cord, while from his outpoured lips came in the form of the new cast figure. At last, amid the endless rejoicings of the people, the casting was finished and the statue, under the guidance of the king, was conveyed in solemn procession down the river to Bangkok, where the work of art was to be completed. It is said that hundreds of chisels were broken during the work. King Chulalongkorn gilded the face himself and placed in the forehead an enormous precious stone. Then the whole figure was gilded and adorned with valuable ornaments of fiery brilliancy from the king's treasury. At last the great day came when the new Buddha was brought to his final temple.

The king, under a glow of triumph, with a smile of satisfaction, took the statue to the temple and placed it in the center of the altar. The king, with a smile of triumph, took the statue to the temple and placed it in the center of the altar.

The KITCHEN CABINET

The world is mine oyster, which I wish a sword will open. Cannot tell how an oyster makes his shell? No! I neither.

Preparing Oysters.

Divine Points.—The custom, which forbade the use of oysters in the months without an "r," no doubt originated in the fact that during the months of May, June, July and August they are poorer in quality and lack flavor, nature's way of protecting her own. May is the month when the spawning season opens.

After-Teater Oysters.—To a pint of oysters with their liquor, a dash of paprika, celery salt, salt, a squeeze of lemon juice and half a cup of rich bouillon. Cook until the edges curl, then serve on buttered toast.

Lincoln Stew.—Place a quart of milk in a double boiler, season with paprika, celery salt and salt. Grate a small onion, allowing the juice to drip into the milk, add a dozen oyster crackers well crushed and two tablespoonfuls of butter. When boiling hot add a quart of oysters with the liquor. When they commence to curl, remove them to the tureen and add a beaten egg. Serve at once.

Oyster Loaf.—Cut a box-shaped piece from a loaf of rather stale bread, brush with melted butter and brown in the oven. Fill with fried oysters or creamed oysters. To cream oysters, allow a dozen oysters to a cup of cream. Heat the cream to the boiling point, add the oysters, and when curled, remove and serve immediately. The seasoning may be added by each guest to suit his taste.

Oysters à la Creole.—Melt two tablespoonfuls of butter, add a slice of onion and cook until a pale brown. Remove the onion and add a tablespoonful of flour and when brown a cupful of tomatoes. When hot add a pint of drained oysters, cook until the edges curl, add a drap of tabasco, a tablespoonful of minced parsley and salt to taste. Serve on toast.

Oyster Cocktails.—Clean and chill 50 small oysters, mix with three tablespoonfuls of horseradish, one teaspoonful of tabasco sauce, two tablespoonfuls of vinegar, three tablespoonfuls of Worcestershire sauce, five tablespoonfuls of lemon juice, three tablespoonfuls of tomato catsup and one and a fourth teaspoonfuls of salt. Serve in lemon, or paprika, or tomato cups.

The Tea and Coffee Pots.

Many otherwise exemplary housekeepers give most credence in regard to their own pots and coffee pots. Much of our pot and coffee might be traced to an ancient recipe.

The tea and coffee pots should be as carefully washed and dried for as any of the table dishes. As both tea and coffee have so strong an odor, it is necessary in order to have the pots sweet to give them a good sunning in the air.

When the pots are not in frequent use they are apt to grow musty. Try keeping a loaf of sugar in the pot to absorb the impurities.

When the tea is brewed in the kitchen, a stove or crockery teapot is the best to use.

Coffee pots should never be allowed to stand around with the grounds in them. They should be thrown out and be pot boiled out with cold water.

There are many cooks who keep the coffee over and warm it up, with fresh water, for the next meal. This should never be permitted, as there is a bitter principle developed which is most injurious.

If the coffee is put into cheese cloth bags the grounds are then easily removed and the coffee will always be clearer and better.

Household Hints.

Cream cheese mixed with cherries or cranberries makes a nice sandwich filling.

In cooking broilers all the juice is saved and much of the flavor otherwise lost is retained by brushing the fowl well with olive oil before broiling.

Rinse laces in skimmed milk, never in bluing water. The milk adds a little stiffness and the color is soft and creamy.

Serve poached eggs on thin rounds of bread sautéed in a little butter.

There is a lab at Naples—for laboratory work for women. The object being to promote research among them. The next prize for the best thesis written by a woman on some scientific subject will be given some time in April. The value of the prize, which is given periodically, is $1,000.

Waste Land Grows Rubber.

Wide reaches of waste land on the island of Singapore are now being set out in rubber plants, which seem to do well. In Malacca there were formerly square miles of land covered with talang, the hiding place of tigers and other big game, which have been transformed into fine rubber plantations.

THE 62ND CONGRESS IN SESSION

EXTRA SESSION OPENS WITH UNUSUAL AMOUNT OF INTEREST IN THE MEETING.

CHAMP CLARK CHOSEN SPEAKER AND IS GIVEN OVATION AS HE TAKES UP GAVEL.

Tells Democrats They Must Prove to People by Deeds They Are Worthy of Confidence.

Tuesday at noon the sixty-second congress was called to order in special session in the presence of the biggest crowd that ever jammed the legislative halls, and this in spite of every attempt to limit the crush.

Each Michigan senator was on hand, Senator Townsend being sworn in and taking the seat that formerly belonged to Senator Keweenaw.

Reps. Doremus, Wedemeyer, J. M. C. Smith, Hamilton, Sweet, Sam Smith, McMorran, Fordney, Dadds and McLaughlin were present in the house, the Democrats, Doremus and Sweet, being of the new majority side. Lord and Young were absent. The blind chaplain, Rev. Mr. Coudens, of Port Huron, Mich., for 16 years holder of this office, and the only Republican appointee to be retained by the Democrats, opened the house with prayer.

In the vote for speaker the Michigan delegation, except the two Democrats, voted solidly for Rep. Mann, the new Republican leader. Reps. Doremus and Sweet shouted "Clack" when their names were called.

The opening ceremonies of the house had an unusual interest. It was the first time in 16 years that the Democrats had taken up the conduct of affairs in the lower branch of the national legislature. New hands were at the wheel. The transition from a month ago was complete. New faces were everywhere. Democrats not only filled the side of the chamber allotted to them, but poured over into the erstwhile sacred precincts of the Republicans.

Members of the house, always tardy on ordinary days, began to arrive with the earliest of the speakers and the floor was crowded almost as soon as the galleries. Every member appeared to be in the best of humor. The Democrats wore smiles that would not come off, while the Republican minority also smiled. A little sort of war, which meant that they were going to try to even up for the trouble caused by the Democrats during the days of Republican supremacy.

The opening program in the house always an interesting spectacle, followed with unbroken interest. It included the calling of the names in order by Mr. Alexander McMillan, the former Republican clerk of the house, who is now to be replaced by the calling of the roll, the election of the speaker, in speech of acceptance, the reading of the minutes by state delegations and the drawing for seats. There are always a few privileged members who are allowed to come to their seats in advance of the drawing. They include usually the oldest member of the house, in Pennsylvania the minority leader and one or two others, as the house leaders may designate.

When the drawing for seats begins the floor of the house is cleared. The members retire to the cloakroom. Numbers numbered to correspond with the alphabetical roll are placed in a large box. A man does the drawing. As each member's number is called he goes into the chamber and selects a seat on the Democratic or Republican sides, as the case may be. Oftentimes the most obscure of the new members get the choicest seats.

The weather for the opening of the new congress was atrocious. A steady rain, driven before a cold east wind, made the day one of the most disagreeable of the winter.

Visitors thronged the office of Speaker to be Clark during the two hours before the convening of the house. Among them were Mr. Mann, minority leader, who called to congratulate the man who was scheduled to beat him for the speakership; Gov. Harmon of Ohio, Wm. Jennings Bryan and Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor.

Rep. Champ Clark, of Missouri, was elected speaker by a vote of 217 against 141 for Jas. R. Mann, of Illinois; 16 for Henry A. Cooper, of Wisconsin, and 1 for George W. Norris, of Nebraska. The three last named are Republicans.

Forestalling action by the Democrats in the house, Rep. McCall, of Massachusetts, introduced the Canadian reciprocity bill which was passed by the house last session.

Scene in the Senate. Notwithstanding that the initial ceremonies in the senate were secondary in interest to those of the house, there still was a large attendance in the galleries and the scene was an animated one.

Three bluejackets were killed and four others injured in an explosion of methylated spirits aboard the iron clad cruiser York of the German navy.

Alfred Strader, convicted dynamiter, was sentenced to 10 years in the Ohio penitentiary by Judge Rogers in the criminal court at Columbus, O. Strader was convicted of attempting to blow up the South Car barns during the street car strike last summer.

A minimum sentence of five years in penitentiary was imposed by United States District Judge Bean on William F. Kettenbach and George H. Kester, formerly president, and F. Lewiston, formerly cashier of the Lewiston National bank of Lewiston, Idaho, for falsifying reports to the comptroller of the currency.

Diaz Must Stop, Down

A declaration that all talk of peace is futile so long as President Diaz refuses to resign and that the cabinet changes at Mexico City have served only to convince the insurgents of their ultimate success, was made by Francisco I. Madero, Jr., the provisional president. Madero declared he was confident of "the final triumph of arms in the overthrow of Diaz."

In all northern Mexico, he said, the insurgent movement was spreading until now the federal troops were confined to the garrison towns, at which the insurgents were preparing to strike a decisive blow.

Referring to his father and Gustavo A. Madero, his brother, who were reported to have initiated peace plans with Minister de la Barra, with a view of ending the war, the insurgent president intimated strongly that they had no authority to act for him, and he would not accept any proposals which were not addressed directly either to himself or to Dr. Vasquez Gomez, his confidential agent in the United States.

"The change of the ministry is a concession to an armed revolution," said Madero, "but it comes too late, and is not sufficient."

Harrison is Victor

Carter H. Harrison was elected mayor of Chicago for the fifth time by a plurality of over 17,000. His opponent, Charles E. Merriam, was knitted by the Republican machine men, while the expected defections of Dunne Democrats from the party did not materialize.

CONGRESS GETS TAFT'S MESSAGE

Brief Document is Transmitted to Country's Lawmakers.

IS ALL ABOUT RECIPROCITY

President Tells of Negotiations Leading to the Canadian Agreement, and Asks Early Action Confirming the Pact.

Washington, April 5.—President Taft's message to the 62nd congress in extraordinary session was transmitted today. The message in full was as follows:

"To the senate and house of representatives: I transmitted to the sixty-first congress on January 6th, last, the text of the reciprocity trade agreement which had been negotiated under my direction by the secretary of state with the representatives of the Dominion of Canada. This agreement was the consummation of earnest efforts extending over a period of nearly a year, on the part of both governments to effect a trade arrangement which, supplementing as it did the amicable settlement of various questions of a diplomatic and political character that had been reached, would mutually promote commerce and would strengthen the friendly relations now existing."

The agreement in its intent and in its terms was purely economic and commercial. While the general subject was under discussion by the commissioners, I felt assured that the sentiment of the people of the United States was such that they would welcome a measure which would result in the increase of trade on both sides of the boundary line, would open up the reserve productive resources of Canada to the great mass of our own consumers on advantageous conditions and at the same time offer a broader outlet for the excess products of our farms and many of our industries. Details regarding a negotiation of this kind necessarily could not be made public while the conferences were pending. However, the full text of the agreement with the accompanying correspondence and data of planning both in its purpose and its scope became known to the people through the message transmitted to congress."

Approved by the People. It is immediately apparent that the object of the agreement is to promote the welfare of the people of the United States and of the Dominion of Canada. This approval has been strengthened by further consideration of the terms of the agreement in all their particulars. The volume of support which has developed shows that its principle is national and is fully approved and is responsible to the popular will."

The house of representatives of the 62nd congress, after the full text of the agreement with all the details in regard to the different provisions had been before it, as they were before the American people, passed the bill confirming the agreement as negotiated and as transmitted to congress. This measure failed of action in the senate. In my transmitting message of the 26th of January, I fully set forth the character of the agreement and emphasized its appropriateness and necessity as a response to the mutual needs of the people of the two countries, as well as its common advantages. I now lay that message and the reciprocal trade agreement, as integrally a part of the present message, before the sixty-second congress and again invite earnest attention to the considerations therein expressed.

Early Action is Urged. I am constrained in deference to popular sentiment and with a realizing sense of my duty to the great masses of our people whose welfare is involved, to urge upon your consideration early action on this agreement."

In concluding the negotiations the representatives that the two countries bound themselves to use their utmost efforts to bring about the tariff changes provided for in the agreement by concurrent legislation at Washington and Ottawa. I have felt it my duty, therefore, not to acquiesce in relegation of action until the opening of the congress in December, but to use my constitutional prerogative and invoke the sixty-second congress in extra session in order that there shall be no break of continuity in considering and acting upon this most important subject."

A whist enthusiast wrote and published a book on the game and sent a copy to a famous player for his opinion of it. In about a week the book was returned to him, with the following letter:

"My Dear Sir—Your favor of the 10th instant, accompanied by your book, was duly received. I have read it very carefully. It seems to be a very good game, but I don't think it is as good a game as whist!"

A Confirmed Statement

Evidence Northville Readers will Appreciate.

Doan's Kidney Pills have done splendid work in this locality. Have merited the unstinted praise they have received. Here's evidence of their value that none can doubt.

It's testimony from this locality twice told and well confirmed. Success, endorsements are unique in the annals of medicine.

Should convince the most skeptical Northville Reader. Mrs. Henry Garfield of Northville, Mich. says: "Doan's Kidney Pills are certainly an excellent remedy and I do not hesitate to recommend them to anyone afflicted with backache and kidney complaint. For a long time I suffered from pains in the small of my back and I had no energy or ambition. I tried various remedies, but received no permanent benefit from them. Finally I read of Doan's Kidney Pills and deciding to give them a trial I procured a supply at Murdoch Bros' Drug Store. In a short time after I commenced using them, I was entirely relieved."

The above statement was given on November 28, 1906, and was confirmed by Mrs. Garfield on March 6, 1909. She also said that her cure had been permanent.

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., Sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Finding Easter Date.

Easter day is always the first Sunday after the full moon which happens upon or next after the twenty-first day of March; and if the full moon happens upon a Sunday, Easter day is the Sunday after. Easter day, therefore, can never fall earlier than March 22 nor later than April 25.
