NORTHVILLE WALLOPS DETROIT TEAM

"COLUMBIAS" AHEAD UNTIL THE SEVENTH INNING.

The Score was 7 to 11 in Favor of the "Circle N's"

A large and enthusiastic bunch of fans, headed by the band, bled themselves to athletic park Saturday to witness the game played by the "Circle N" boys with the "Columbias" of Detroit, in the latest Tiger fashion.

The first inning went by with neither side scoring. However, in the second, Detroit warmed up and began piling up the scores. Northville watched the "Columbias" get almost "tickled to death," while they themselves laughed up their sleeves. The score stood 6 to 2 in Detroit's favor for some time. Finally the "Circle N" boys did the tiger stunt and brought in runs that tied the score by the end of the seventh inning, much to the amusement of the two hundred odd fans present. This so incensed the Detroit players that they lost their playing ability and Northville battered them all over the grounds. Boyden and E. Simpson featuring at the bat.

Our boys easily won the game with a score of 7 to 11 and the "Columbias" went home, a saddened and disappointed bunch. However, they were one of the best natured teams that have ever visited Northville and we hope to meet them again.

The "Circle N" boys were defeated at Ypsilanti by the Normal team Wednesday afternoon. Johnson, in the box, was so troubled by his weak heart he was compelled to quit the game. Jones was put in, but he, too, proved ineffective, as shown by the resulting score, 13 to 4, in Ypsilanti's favor. Our boys motored to Ypsilanti and enjoyed the trip, regardless of the results.

Saturday, July 22, they will play the Y. M. C. A. of Detroit on the home grounds.

OIL INSPECTION PAYS WELL

Balance of $8,525 Turned Over to State for Six Months.

The quarterly report of State Oil Inspector Neal for the term ending June 30, 1911, shows the inspection of 4,750,139 gallons, 109 of which was condemned as dangerous and returned to the refineries.

The total fees collected were $9,637.07; interest, $92.28. There was paid out for salaries, office and traveling expenses, $7,279.15, leaving a net balance to turn into the state treasury of $2,430.47. This makes a total net balance of the first six months of $8,525.81.

The department has also investigated fifty eight accidents resulting from the use of kerosene and gasoline, the majority of which were brought about through carelessness.

Card of Thanks.

I wish to thank the people who so kindly assisted me in any way during the Record's piano contest.

And We Get Reciprocity.

The U. S. Senate, with the almost unanimous Democratic vote, coupled with a minority of the Republican senators, have passed the Canadian reciprocity bill, and now the parliament of that country will wrestle with the question of a while before the beef packers, the milling trusts, the railroads and the lumber interests can commence to reap the benefits.

The Detroit Times of July 24 has a good summary of it as follows: "Eventually the consumer may benefit, but when he does what is there contained in the bill is of benefit for the farmer in return for what a cheaper cost of living for the consumer will mean for him."

Breasted lumber is not going to be any cheaper, his farm machinery isn't going to be any cheaper, his milk cans aren't going to be any cheaper, his horse isn't going to be any cheaper, the clothing and the shoes in his wardrobe aren't going to be any cheaper.

This reciprocity pact is all right as far as it goes, but it doesn't go far enough.

Detroit business men are to be congratulated, but the farmers have a long and hard road ahead.

No Demand.

"Why don't people write poems like 'Paradise Lost' or 'Dante's Inferno'?" asked the sincerely literary person. "What's the use?" rejoined the confident scribbler. "All the people I know of who bought the works you mention had to be persuaded to buy them for the sake of the pictures."

Trees of Liberty.

The last of the Trees of Liberty, several of which were planted in Paris to commemorate the revolution in 1848, is no more. The little tree, planted with much ceremony, flourished and became one of the tallest in Paris. Of later years the Tree of Liberty was only a tree of liberty in theory for it was really a prisoner surrounded by houses, and these year after year have increased in height, making the struggle of the tree the harder and death has been the conqueror. The roots, however, spread and became a danger to a house of eight stories, so in its attempt to rival the house in height the tree was vanquished and has fallen to the axe of the tree feller.

Mrs. E. Y. Holcomb, who recently suffered a stroke of paralysis, is getting along nicely. She is at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Sumner Power.

The Pettibone Auto Garage Co. has a new air pressure pump in working order and your auto will be supplied with pure Northville air, free of charge.

Monday's wind storm did thousands of dollars' worth of damage to the fruit crop in this vicinity.

Ed Hinkler, who has conducted a pool room at Plymouth for some time, has sold out to his partner and will now become a gentleman of leisure in Northville.

After a while only six teams will be allowed in the streets of Detroit. A man has been arrested for driving an auto sixteen miles per hour. The street cars are still allowed to speed up to fifty miles per.

They say that the kissing habit breeds cholera and typhoid and death. Maybe it does but microbes and germs and death and then some couldn't scare a man who looked down into a vent of pooping life.

T. J. Blumhagen and L. K. Simons have sprinkled the road in front of their residences with calcium chloride, a new preparation for the laying of dust. This is a great improvement over the old dust system.

An exchange remarks that a man can start out any day and inside of an hour and thirty minutes he can engage a woman to work for him at nothing a week, while it will take two weeks of solid search to get one to work at high wages and hard.

Loy Ambler and Charlie Schoultz are joint owners of an auto to go. During the first try-out of the machine the boys observed a horse and buggy in front of them and gave the signal for the right of way. They went to Plymouth and met the boys when returning. Roy says that the machine is safe.

The "Circus N" ball team, with Dr. T. H. Turner as a fan, has entered the Detroit News coting contest, and asks every body in Northville to save their coupons for them. The team having the most votes at the close of the contest will be given free transportation for ten men of the team and the fan to the world series game.

"There is a feeling in the village that the assessor and supervisor should go together and personally visit next year every place of taxable property in Northville," said a well known business man to The Record this week. "There is now a lot of property assessed to wrong parties and this method would not only get them right but would also tend to get the valuations alike."

Plymouth is also following the oil system of sprinkling. The following are just a few of the citizens who are having the roads in front of their residences and places of business oiled: J. R. A Queer Case.

An Ohio boy, 12 years old, who was crossing a field on his father's farm was suddenly attacked by two robins, and though he fought them off as well as he could and eventually drove them away, he had one eye so badly injured that he will lose the sight of it. His face was also badly marked.

This is perhaps the first instance known where a bird like the robin ever attacked a human being, and the cause is hard to understand. They had no nest near where the attack took place.

There's a birthday cake on the table,

DEEP DRAINAGE INCREASES ROOT SPACE

By R. J. BALDWIN, Michigan Farm School.

Fig. 1—In wet soil the roots grow near the surface and are left without water supply during drought.

Fig. 2—Roots grow deep in well-drained soil and are not so much affected by drought.

Roots, as well as all plant tissues, require air, warmth, moisture in order to live and grow. The part of the soil which contains these things in the proper amounts will induce most rapid growth and soon become permeated with an interlacing system of rootlets. Unless soil is naturally underlain by a porous subsoil, or artificially by tile, the lower strata will contain an excess of water, filling up the air spaces and making the soil cold and unfit for root growth. As a result the roots will grow as in Fig. 1, near the surface, where there is air and warmth. In case of drought later in the season, this will result seriously because the top layer of soil, where the roots are, will dry out and the plant, lacking deep roots, will suffer for the water it cannot reach. On the other hand, a plant growing in well-drained soil, as Fig. 2, will develop a deep root system little affected by changes in weather. An additional advantage of a deep-rooted system is that the feeder roots have access to a food supply several feet below the surface, thus not depending entirely on the fertility of the surface soil. Heavy rains and spring thaws wash much plant food into the subsoil and unless subsoil conditions are suitable for root growth this fertility is lost. In this way deep drainage makes soils longer lived by increasing their depth, and thus bringing a greater supply of food within reach of plant roots.

Lime for Agricultural Purposes

By A. J. PATTEN, Experiment Station Chemist

Just at this time a great interest is being taken by farmers all over Michigan in the subject of lime for agricultural purposes. The practice of using lime is almost as old as agriculture itself. The Chinese were probably the first to use lime on the soil. It was also used by the Romans and by them the practice was introduced into England and France. In England the practice of marling, the soil has been followed for centuries and often with very marked results. The first mention of lime in connection with American agriculture is found in the contributions of Rufus in the American Farmer, in 1815.

Although lime has been used more or less extensively by the farmers of the United States for the past century its action upon the soil is not generally understood. Lime should never be considered as a fertilizer in the same way that barnyard manure or commercial fertilizers are. It can never take the place of these materials, but should be used in connection with them. Generally speaking all soils contain a sufficient amount of lime to meet the plant food requirements of crops for all time; consequently the benefits from lime are shown in another way and it is usually spoken of as an amendment or modifier because it is capable of correcting conditions that may be inimical to the best growth of plants.

Lime may act upon the soil in three ways, viz., chemically, physically and biologically.

Chemical Action.—Lime acts upon the insoluble potash compounds in the soil and changes them into forms available as plant food. This action should not be depended upon, however, as a means of supplying the crops with available potash to the exclusion of commercial fertilizers, for unless the soil contains an almost unlimited supply of potash we are only hastening the time when the soil will be depleted of this form of plant food. Whether or not lime effects the availability of the insoluble phosphoric acid compounds is a disputed question. The most important chemical action of lime upon the soils is to correct acidity. Soils that have been cultivated for a great many years may become acid, due to the accumulation of organic acids produced by the decomposition of organic matter. Many crops are affected by an acid condition of the soil and in such cases are greatly benefited by the addition of some form of lime or material containing lime, such as marl or hard wood ashes.

Physical Action.—Heavy clay soils that puddle and bake after a rain are benefited by the addition of lime. It acts beneficially upon a soil in this condition by binding the fine particles together, thus making the soil more friable and easy of cultivation. It also makes it more open and porous, thus facilitating the movement of air and water in the soil. The action of lime on sandy soils is quite the reverse of that on clay soils, since it binds together the loose particles of sand and makes the soil more retentive of moisture.

Biological Action.—The decomposition of organic matter added to the soil in the form of barnyard manure, green manure, stubble, etc., is brought about by the action of the numberless bacteria that live in the soil. Certain of the soil bacteria living in connection with the roots of legumes, such as the clovers, vetches, alfalfa, beans and peas, are able to take nitrogen from the air and change it into a form that is available to plants. In order for these bacteria to accomplish the most good the soil condition must be favorable for their best development, and this condition is brought about by the addition of some form of lime.

There are several forms of lime that may be used for agricultural purposes and the choice of the form should depend upon the purpose for which it is to be used and also upon the price.

Burned Lime.—Burned lime is known also as stone lime, lump lime, quick lime and caustic lime. This form of lime is produced from the raw lime rock by burning. This is the most active form of lime and may be used at the rate of 700 to 1,000 pounds per acre. Much larger quantities are sometimes used, but the above amount should be sufficient in most cases. This form is usually obtained in large lumps and must be slaked before being applied to the soil.

Hydrated Lime.—When burned lime is treated with water it forms what is known as hydrated lime. This form is somewhat less caustic than burned lime and is always in a powdery form and may be readily applied to the soil. Seventy-four pounds of this form of lime are equivalent to 55 pounds of burned lime, consequently it should be used at the rate of about 950 to 1,200 pounds per acre.

Air Slaked Lime.—When burned lime is left to the action of the air it takes up moisture and carbon dioxide and gradually breaks down into a fine powder. This form of lime should be applied in about the same quantities as the hydrated lime.

Ground Limestone.—When ground limestone is used it should be pulverized so that at least 75 per cent will pass through a sieve of 80 meshes to the inch. The value of the ground limestone depends quite largely upon its fineness. This form of lime is not caustic and it may be applied to the soil in almost any quantity without fear of causing harm. However, the usual application would be 1,500 to 2,000 pounds per acre. One hundred pounds of ground limestone are equivalent to 55 pounds of burned lime or 74 pounds of hydrated lime.

Refuse Lime From Sugar Factories.—This form of lime, when it can be obtained dry and in powder form, is a good source of lime. It is partly hydrated and partly carbonated, and is consequently very similar to air-slaked lime and should be used in about the same amounts. This lime also contains a small amount of nitrogen, phosphoric acid and potash absorbed from the beet juices.

Marl is found quite extensively throughout the state and many of the deposits are very pure calcium carbonate. In a dry, powdery form marl may be used as a substitute for lime and in the proportions recommended for ground limestone.

The burned lime, hydrated lime and air-slaked lime are caustic, diminishing in degree, however, in the order named. When the lime is to be applied to heavy clay soils to correct the physical condition, the burned lime or hydrated lime are recommended, as these forms act more rapidly than the ground limestone. However, where the lime is to be used for correcting the acidity the ground limestone is recommended, providing it can be bought at a reasonable rate. It should cost, laid down at the nearest railroad station, not more than half as much per ton as the burned lime.

MICHIGAN HAPPENINGS

Flint.—That Harry Updike was superintendent of a "necktie party" that nearly resulted in the lynching of Louis Bader, aged twelve, is the charge made by Adolph Bader, father of the boy, in Justice Haise's court. The elder Bader alleges that Updike hired a gang of boys to put a rope around the neck of young Bader and haul him up the side of a tree. Bader avers his son was subjected to the hanging process until his tongue stuck out of his mouth. Updike denies that he superintended the near-lynching. He declares the gang of boys were playing "Indian" and had the Bader boy as their "victim."

Grand Rapids.—The striking furniture workers of Grand Rapids have voted to amend the demands they made upon the furniture manufacturers April 1. By an overwhelmingly large vote, secretly taken, the idle workers decided to alter their original demands so that the offer of the Fancy Furniture company might be accepted. According to the terms of the Uhl proposition, they were to return to work on the basis of 55 hours per week, with 60 hours' pay, until January 1, 1912, when the 54-hour week with 60 hours' pay would be granted.

Calumet.—H. W. Powers, in a Curtiss biplane, made a flight at Hancock over a circular course extending several miles, landing and stopping the machine within four feet of the point from which he started, which is claimed to be a new American record for accuracy in landing. The flight was made during a 20-mile breeze.

Muskegon.—Losing his balance while trying to land a big fish, Samuel Levy of Chicago, fell into Muskegon lake and narrowly escaped drowning. Several of his friends pulled him back into the boat. Then, after a 15-minute battle, he landed the 15 pound fish.

Vassar.—Joseph Randall, aged sixty-five years, told his wife that he was going to the barn to the door. A short time afterwards his wife went to the barn and found his father dead, hanging from a beam. The recent loss of property is given as the cause.

Vassar.—Deputy Sheriff Harvey Clark of Kingston has been arrested on a warrant charging him with assault and battery. The warrant was sworn to by John W. Harrett of Kingston, who alleges that Clark struck him over the head with a pair of handcuffs in the Fourth, without provocation.

Ann Arbor.—At the convention of the Michigan Federation of Labor Clubs, Detroit, Mrs. M. D. McCarty, study class, Grand Rapids; Mrs. Grace Grooms, Ingham; Mrs. C. L. DeWolf, Mrs. Adah Johnson, Palm Leaf club, Ypsilanti; Mrs. Mary Jones, Lydian Association, Detroit; Mrs. F. B. Daily, Young Ladies Embroidery club, Battle Creek; Mrs. Cook.

Charlotte.—Self confessed murderer of his wife over six years ago, W. D. Lonsberry is in a cell in the Eaton County Jail. Several days ago he was arrested on the accusation of his own mother, who swore to a warrant charging him with having slain his wife on January 5, 1907. He steadfastly denied his guilt, and asserted that his wife was not dead, but had run away. However, the officers unearthed the body of the woman under the floor of a shed on the Lonsberry farm in Windsor township, and when confronted with this fact, Lonsberry made a clean breast of the whole affair.

Bay City.—A federal public health and marine hospital will be established in this city by the treasury department and Dr. W. Herriek of this city has been appointed physician in charge. For the present the hospital will be located in Mercy hospital, but eventually a building will be erected by the government. The establishment of the hospital has been a matter of effort for over five years. Now the growing marine business has forced the government to act.

Grand Rapids.—Edward R. Bogg, a clerk in the probate court, has disappeared. An investigation is being made of his books and affairs. It is alleged he has illegally charged notary fees of patrons of the office and appropriated them to his own use. The county board of auditors and Judge McDonald are conducting the investigation.

Ann Arbor.—Three people were painfully injured and a number of passengers were more or less severely bruised when the "pung pong" resort train on the Ann Arbor road running between Lakeland and this town, was smashed into—by some freight cars running wild near the depot. The injured were: Baggage Master Kelley of Sidney, O.; Engineer Crocker of this city; and Mrs. Burden of Whitmore Lake, who was cut about the head and one ear. She was the only one of the passengers to be seriously injured.

RECIPROCITY GOES THROUGH WITH EASE

SENATE PASSES THE CANADIAN RECIPROCITY AGREEMENT BY VOTE OF 53 TO 27.

CANADA'S ACTION IS NOW AWAITED.

When Accepted by Ottawa's Parliament, Measure Will Be Proclaimed Law and Become Effective.

The Canadian reciprocity trade agreement was passed by a vote of 53 to 27, after every amendment to it had been voted down. Thus the purpose of President Taft in calling the special session of the congress was attained.

The striking feature of the vote is that a majority of the Republican senators were against the measure as were the Republicans in the house. 24 Republican senators opposing the pact while 21 voted for it. Had the pact been in the form of a treaty it would have failed in that it carried by less than a two-thirds vote. Being in the form of a bill only a majority was necessary.

The Canadian parliament has not yet acted on the agreement and with one exception the provisions of the bill as passed by congress will not become effective until the president issues a proclamation that Canada has ratified the pact. The exception to this procedure is in the paper and pulp section of the bill, which it is announced will become immediately effective when the president signs the law.

From the White House President Taft followed the votes on the various amendments and on the final passage of the bill with the keenest interest. "I am very much gratified and delighted that the bill is passed," he said. "It indicates the increase in mutually beneficial relations between Canada and this country."

Senator Penrose ventured the prediction that congress would adjourn not later than August 9 or 10.

Optic McManigal Near Collapse.

Optic McManigal, the self confessed dynamiter, whose statements implicated John J. McManama secretary of the Ironworkers' union and his brother James B. McManama, as co-conspirators in the dynamiting of the Los Angeles Times plant and the Llewellyn iron works of Los Angeles, and numerous other outrages throughout the country, in a union labor war may never tell his story on the witness stand.

McManigal, whose wife was recently freed by court from the necessity of giving testimony of her knowledge of the alleged dynamiting conspiracy, is on the verge of a collapse and his mind is said to be unable to listen to the testimony of his own past.

McManigal fails to remember his memory of the events which he witnessed, the case of the conspiracy will be knocked out, say legal counsel.

Other Nations to Join Peace Pact.

President Taft faced an audience at Manila, P. I., made up largely of veterans who wore the blue and the gray, with in a few miles of the scene of the first great conflict of the civil war, and was applauded and cheered when he made a plea for international peace. He was covered with mud after a strenuous trip by auto from Washington.

The president declared that a general arbitration treaty with Great Britain and with France probably would be signed within the next ten days. He added that he hoped within the next few days to announce that three other great powers would enter into similar agreements with the United States. He did not go so far as to indicate the nations that he had in mind but it was generally believed that he referred to Germany, Italy and The Netherlands. Japan ultimately may come into the far-reaching peace pact, but the negotiations with that empire as yet are said to be merely tentative.

Poison Bottle Stoppers.

The new law requiring pharmacists to provide all poison bottles with a distinctive stopper that shall give warning of the nature of the contents of the bottle also requires the state board of health to pass on such inventions or appliances as may be submitted for its approval. The board has thus far approved two. The inventor, having the board's approval is privileged under the law to bring in circulars describing his patent, and this, under the law, the board mails to pharmacists. A Lansing druggist is the inventor of one of the devices. The law was fathered during the last session by Rep. D. H. Hinchley, a well-to-do lumberman in Emmet county.

FALSE HUNGER
A Symptom of Stomach Trouble Corrected by Good Food.

There is, with some forms of stomach trouble, an abnormal craving for food which is frequently mistaken for a "good appetite." A lady teacher writes from Carthage, Mo., to explain how with good food she dealt with this sort of hurtful hunger.

"I have taught school for fifteen years, and up to nine years ago had good, average health. Nine years ago, however, my health began to fail, and continued to grow worse steadily, in spite of doctor's prescriptions, and everything I could do. During all this time my appetite continued good, only the more I ate the more I wanted to eat—I was always hungry."

"The first symptoms of my breakdown were a distressing nervousness and a loss of flesh. The nervousness grew so bad that finally it amounted to actual prostration. Then came stomach troubles, which were very painful, constipation which brought on piles, dyspepsia and severe nervous headaches."

"The doctors seemed powerless to help me, and I was overworked, and at last urged me to give up teaching. If I wished to save my life."

"But this I could not do. I kept on at it as well as I could, each day growing more wretched, my willpower alone keeping me up, till at last a good angel suggested that I try a diet of Grape-Nuts food, and from that day to this I have found it delicious always appetizing and satisfying."

"I owe my restoration to health to Grape-Nuts. My weight has returned and for more than two years I have been free from the nervousness, constipation, piles, headaches, and all the ailments that used to punish me so, and have been able to work freely and easily." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.
