"CIRCLE N'S" WIN IN DOUBLE-HEADER

DEFEAT WYANDOTTE IN FORE-NOON 6 to 5.

And in Afternoon the Loraine's 7 to 1.

It was decided to leave the Labor Day celebration for this year to the "Circle N" boys, and it couldn't have been in better hands.

In the morning game each "Circle N" boy took his place in the field, determined to win the game. The cause of this setting of teeth and hardening of muscle, was that they were to play the Wyandotte team which, until very recently, was giving our boys a close run in the Detroit News contest.

Moffitt and E. Stimpson made up the battery for Northville.

It was a close game from start to finish. There was a great deal of excitement at one time when the Wyandotte pitcher attempted to reach the home plate from third base. Ky, Kelly and Jamie chased him from one base to the other until he gave up the ghost.

In the last of the ninth the score stood 5 to 5. Reid had reached first base when Kelly grabbed a bat and swatted out a three bagger, bringing Reid to the home plate, and the score stood 6 to 5 in our favor.

The afternoon game was played with the Loraine club of Detroit. There were several players in this team who did not seem to be able to pick up a ball without miffing it about sixteen times. Northville stole bases until Marshal Bogart worried today over the safety of Northville property. The Loraine's also tried to get a reputation for base stealing but they simply weren't in it.

In the third inning three Detroit men stood on bases and another was up to bat with no one out. Everyone held his breath when the batter hit a long one, but Turner went up in the air and got it.

The final score was 7 to 1, the one being allowed the Loraine's for consolation. O'Neil and Stimpson pitched and caught for Northville.

The Carters of Pontiac defeated the "Circle N" team here Saturday. Our team was badly crippled up for want of a battery. The game started out with Moffitt behind the bat and R. Johnson in the box. The latter soon gave out and Turner took his place, while Fuzz played second with Reid as short stop.

Ferguson and Alexander of the "All Stars" played in the field. Ferguson later took a turn at pitching. However, all these changes were without result, as the score, 11 to 4, indicates. Bad decisions by the Pontiac umpire on bases did not help us any, in fact, they caused the loss of a good many scores for the "Circle N" boys.

Wants Auto Offinace.

Editor Record:

There is urgent need for an adequate ordinance to regulate the driving of automobiles across the sidewalks, other than across walks. Several very narrow escapes from being run down have occurred at the Northville garage on North Center street, where the position of the doorway prevents the driver from seeing any pedestrian about to pass in front of same. With the hundreds of school children passing this point daily, a serious accident is positive to result, unless we can have an ordinance compelling the driver to give warning before driving a car upon the sidewalk.

SEVEN PROMINENT TOLEDO MEN DROWN

THIRTY-FIVE-FOOT LAUNCH SUNK BY 500-FOOT FREIGHTER IN THE MAUMEE RIVER.

COUNCILMAN, SUPERINTENDENT AND PROMINENT CITIZEN LOST.

Toledo Party Bound for Kelley's Island, Where They Expected to Fish for Bass Over Labor Day Holiday.

Seven men were drowned in the Maumee river about one-half mile north of the Red Can buoy, Toledo, when the 35-foot launch, Nemo, owned by Michael Mayer, was struck by the 500-foot freighter, Philip Finch, inbound for the C. H. & D. dock. The party was bound for Kelley's island where they expected to fish for bass over the Labor Day holiday. With the exception of Michael Mayer, owner of the launch, all were lost. Mayer was saved by members of the crew of the Nemo. The members of the unfortunate party boarded the Nemo shortly after midnight. The crash came as the launch left the dock and crossed the channel in midriver to straighten away on her course down stream.

Capt. L. B. Cummings of the Nemo, his brother, R. H. Finch, the first mate, Abner Byster, the watchman and August Swan, the wheelman were on the forward deck of the freighter, and were eyewitnesses of the accident.

Capt. Cummings says that the wheelman was throwing the searchlight across the river channel, looking for fish net stakes when they first espied the launch which he thought was a mule and a half distant. The launch was then 170 feet out of the course of the channel to the westward.

The steamer hit the launch before it could slow up, and the eight occupants of the little boat were thrown into the river.

Geogeb County Enters Protest.

Corroboration at the action of the state equalization board just closed at Lansing in raising the valuation of Geogeb county from its present figure of $15,900,000 to $16,000,000 has forced all property owners to examine their tax returns. Under this new state equalization, and if local assessors are not changed, the state tax commission, local taxpayers must pay a tax rate this year of 1.75 to 1.80 percent of the value of their property. It is said that a vote of the board of supervisors would be taken to change the assessors.

Women Forced to Work 14 Hours a Day.

State Labor commission after having held a hearing on the matter, has ruled that the hour of work of women is to be limited to eight hours a day. The commission has also ruled that the day of the week shall be the same for all women workers. A letter from the commission to the employers of the women workers in the state, says that the commission has decided that the day of the week shall be the same for all women workers. A letter from the commission to the employers of the women workers in the state, says that the commission has decided that the day of the week shall be the same for all women workers.

Three Killed Three Injured in P. M. Wreck.

Engineer Charles Lassfolk of Benton Harbor was killed, Fireman James Sater of St. Joseph was killed, and two women passengers were injured, when a train No. 12, Pere Marquette local northbound, jumped the track near Hand, 15 miles north of Benton Harbor. Spreading rails were believed the cause of the accident. The engine went over a six-foot embankment and Lassfolk, jumping the great weight of steel, his body, hardly recognizable, was recovered two hours later. Fireman Sater saved his life by jumping.

30,000 Die of Cholera in Italy.

Since the beginning of the present year the total number of deaths from cholera in Italy has passed the 30,000 mark. Terror and superstition are causing outbreaks of violence among the inhabitants, who consider the authorities responsible for the scourge.

Health measures are opposed by the people, who think that the measures have been put into effect for the purpose of spreading the infection, from believing that it is the desire of the authorities to kill through poison, and in that way get rid of the poor.

The most energetic measures have been accepted by the Italian government to maintain order.

The garden board is in session in Marquette. About 60 convicts are asking for paroles.

A vault in the Central high school, Traverse City, was opened for the first time in 11 years. When Superintendent C. H. Horn left the vault was locked and the combination lost. It was opened by tearing through the wall and unlocking it from the inside. When Superintendent Tyler arrived he found the present vault full and ordered the old vault opened. Many valuable records, the existence of which had been forgotten, were found.

Gotch Downs Hackenschmidt.

Frank Gotch won the world's wrestling championship victory over George Hackenschmidt, "the Russian Lion," in less than 20 minutes in Chicago.

Hackenschmidt's own statement, that it was the easiest world's championship ever won, tells the story of the bout almost as well as it could be told. Gotch never was in serious difficulty at any time during the match. Neither was he forced to extend himself to win. The Iowa secured in all, perhaps, half a dozen dangerous holds on his antagonist. While it took Gotch 14 minutes and 18 seconds to gain the first fall, the second fall required only 5 minutes and 21 seconds, which Hackenschmidt's friends assert, proved that his knee was in bad condition.

60,000 Men May Strike.

Announcement was made in Chicago that a strike of mechanical workers on the Harriman railroads and two other systems was expected in the near future as a result of the final refusal of Julius Kruttschnitt, vice-president of the Union Pacific, to recognize the new Federation of Mechanical Trades. In any case, Kruttschnitt's stand was taken after a conference in San Francisco with the five international union presidents.

In event a strike is called, some 60,000 men will be called out, and every railroad in the west will suffer. Shops will have to be closed and traffic tied up completely. The strike, it was estimated, would cost $90,000,000.

Roger Q. Mills Dead.

Roger Q. Mills, confederate soldier, able lawyer, Democratic statesman and one of the foremost men of the southwest, died in Corsicana, Tex., aged 78 years.

Since his retirement from the United States senate in 1897, Mr. Mills had devoted himself to the care of his estate and had come into a considerable fortune through the discovery of rich oil wells on the property. He had been in ill health for the past few years and had been rapidly failing of late.

After the Lumber "Trust"

On his last day at district attorney for the Eastern Michigan district, of the United States circuit court, Frank H. Watson, began proceedings against the so-called lumber "trust." He seeks an injunction against the alleged unlawful activities of the lumbermen charging a conspiracy to restrain trade and commerce.

LOCAL OPTION FIGHT IN 28 COUNTIES

DRYS TO FORCE SUBMISSION IN ELEVEN, WETS IN SEVENTEEN NEXT SPRING.

ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE FEELS CONFIDENT OF SIX COUNTIES.

The League Will Confine Most of Its Efforts to Annexing Dry Territory in Northwestern Part of the State.

Counties Where Wets Will Fight.

Lapeer, Shiawassee, St. Joseph, Osgoda, Ogemaw, Missaukee, Ingham, Kalamazoo, Presque Isle, Alcona, Otsego, Branch, Arenac, Hillsdale, Gratiot, Midland, Lenawee.

Counties Where Drys Will Fight.

Leelanau, Lake, Grand Traverse, Mecosta, Manistee, Roscommon, Wexford, Washtenaw, Mason, Ottawa, Berrien.

Twenty-eight counties of Michigan are feeling the pressure of either the Michigan Anti-Saloon league or the Michigan Brewers' association in the effort to force them into the local option fight next spring. It is very probable that in all these counties the question will be submitted to the people for a vote.

Of the 28 counties 11 are wet and the drys are circulating petition for submission or re-submission of the question of saloons or no saloons. The remaining 17 are dry, and the brewers are organizing them for the campaign to throw them back into the wet column.

In all the counties the boards of supervisors will meet Oct. 9 and the petition for submission of the local option question, signed by one-third of the voters, must be in by that date to be acted upon.

This gives the workers about one month to obtain the number of signatures required by law to the petitions, and with the return of the "wet" and "dry" leaders the agitation of the voters in those counties which are eligible to vote has begun.

Of the 11 counties Mr. Morrow Lehighes the league has at least 14 already carefully tucked away in its vest pocket, but of the other five he is not so sure. Those in which he expects the hardest battle are Mason, Lake, Washtenaw, Ottawa and Berrien.

The Anti-Saloon league this year will confine most of its efforts to a meeting to dry territory in the northwestern corner of the state, which has only one dry county, Berrien. A block of seven—Leelanau, Grand Traverse, Wexford, Manistee, Mason and Lake will be the principal battle ground of the dry forces. Berrien county will be fought into the light if the wets decide to force submission of the question in the two campaigns adjoining Van Buren and Cass.

Ottawa to Vote Again.

The city of Holland in Ottawa county, again has voted dry, although the county is wet, and its people are clamoring for a re-submission of the question. In Washtenaw there also is a strong demand for a vote in Kent and St. Clair counties which voted wet two years ago, the league will make no pretense of a fight, while in Chtogan, Montcalm, Alpena and Crawford counties, all of which are wet, the law precludes an election until 1913.

The wets will force submission of the question in a large part of the lower peninsula territory now dry, the heaviest fights will be in 10 counties: Lapeer, St. Joseph, Ingham, Ogemaw, Presque Isle, Otsego, Arenac, Shiawassee, Osgoda and Missaukee. All these counties either have petitioned the supervisors for a submission of the question or are circulating petitions. In Lapeer county the required number of electors already have affixed their signatures, and in Ingham county enough signatures have been obtained and before the canvass is stopped there the wets claim there will be fully 50 percent of the voters' names on the petitions.

French-German Agreement is Near.

Advices from Berlin intimate that the German imperial chancellor, Dr. Von Bethmann-Hollweg, has indicated his acceptance of France's proposals, presented to the German foreign minister, Herr Von Kiderlen-Waechter, by the French ambassador, M. Cambon, looking to a settlement of the Moroccan dispute.

The French foreign office, however, maintains an attitude of reserve regarding the progress of the negotiations.

Dispatches which look as though they had common origin at the French embassy in Berlin, received by several Paris newspapers, also indicate that an early agreement between France and Germany in the Moroccan dispute is probable.

A resolution denouncing the Mormon church and urging the department of justice to bring action to recover to the nation property of the church alleged to have been fraudulently secured, was passed by the Colorado conference of the Methodist Episcopal church in Colorado Springs.

The joint maneuvers of the regular army and the organized militia next year will cost $1,300,000, according to estimates prepared by the war department. These exercises are held on alternate years, none being scheduled this year.

FOLEY KIDNEY PILLS.

They work directly on the KIDNEYS, BLADDER and URINARY PASSAGES, and their beneficial effect is felt from the start. For BACKACHE, KIDNEY and BLADDER TROUBLE, RHEUMATISM, CONGESTION of the KIDNEYS, INFLAMMATION of the BLADDER and annoying URINARY IRREGULARITIES they exercise a permanent benefit.

"Tonic in Action" - QUICK IN RESULTS John H. Leader, 248 Lake Ave. Battle Creek, Mich., says: "For three years I was afflicted with a disease of the kidneys which doctors called sugar diabetes. I doctored continually, but all to no effect. Finally I stopped doctoring and started taking Foley Kidney Pills which I saw recommended so highly. A few weeks' treatment of these pills relieved me of all my trouble and cured me of sugar diabetes and I feel better than I have been for three years, and can once more attend to my business affairs personally. I recommend Foley Kidney Pills to all my friends for I believe they are the best kidney and bladder medicine ever made."

A thin, sickly little man entered one of the stores in one of our small towns recently and quietly seated himself on a convenient chair. One of the clerks approached and asked if he wished to purchase anything. "Oh no," said the man, "I just dropped in for a few minutes." After half an hour had passed, the manager of the store, becoming curious, approached him and asked what could be done for him. "Why nothing that I know of," said the man, "You see I have nervous prostration and the doctor told me to stay in a quiet place. Noticing that you do not advertise I thought this would be about the quietest place I could find." Let me tell you anything but quiet there for five minutes. The poor little man found himself in the street wishing that he had landed on a feather bed. But the next week the store surprised itself with a big display "ad" in the home paper.

Have 'Em Printed.

We notice in the Postmaster General's report a suggestion that people writing letters should sign their full names and addresses to their letters, and there would never be a letter but what could be returned if it failed to reach the person it was intended for. The report suggests a better way than that, too, but one which is a little more expensive. That is to have a small card printed on the corner of the envelope. This will cost only a trifle and if the letter cannot be delivered to the address, or the address should be wrong, the letter would come back in the course of five to seven days, instead of going through the dead letter office, and finally being returned to the writer after a lapse of two weeks or more. The latter suggestion is much the best, and can be adopted at a very small expense.

New Whisk Broom.

The motorist who often has the provoking experience of having his clothes spattered with mud will appreciate the new whisk broom which a clever inventor has just brought out. In the handle there is a short, stubby brush made of stiff bristles. This will remove the stubborn spots with a few strokes. One need not be afraid of wearing the material thin or frayed by using this brush. The other end is just an ordinary whisk broom.

Grierson's Triumph

By Hollis Otway.

Grierson jumped slowly along the track. Some 1,800 miles ahead lay Chicago. At various intervals along the track were telegraph offices. Grierson had only to send a wire and transportation would be rushed through to him, but this was not Grierson's way. When he had left home with the touring company there had been a scene in his father's office that would have resulted in an open rupture had not both men held their tempers under perfect control.

Then he went down to the station to join the Harding Metropolitan Stars, and Gamewell Grierson turned back to his rosewood desk, trying to derive some satisfaction from the thought that the experience would cure the boy of his stage fever.

The crash came in Nevada. The manager had suggested to Jimmie that he could have a half interest if he would move the company, pointing out that with a railroad president for a father the procurement of passes should be a matter of great ease.

Jimmie's reply had not been marked by temperateness. Then he had set his face east and more than 500 miles of ties and tracks had already been covered when he came into sight of Elcho.

Adorning the station platform were some of the boys from the Blazing H outfit and they were pleased to be facetious at his expense. Jimmie was too tired to be angry, and chafed back as well as he could. At last Dusty Miller, the foreman, suggested that they needed a man.

"I think I can fill the place," smiled Jimmie. "Want to take me on?" "Can you ride?" demanded Dusty.

"I guess I can," was the modest answer. "It won't be any worse than walking, anyhow."

Dusty led the way to where the ponies were tethered and the scanty population gathered to watch the fun.

With malice aforethought, Jimmie climbed into the saddle from the right hand side. He knew that he was be-

For a moment she lay in his arms, too shaken to speak, and then she gently pushed him away.

"I am so sorry, Jimmie," she said penitently. "I am so sorry that you care. I was interested in your Shakespeare at first and then—well, it was too late. I am uncle's ward, you know, and he would never give his consent."

More than once Jimmie was tempted to tell her who he was and to smooth the way, but he was a born fighter and he wanted to win on his own merits and not on the strength of his father's name, so he gritted his teeth and wondered how long it would be before opportunity came.

One morning the wrangler had sent him out to bring in some horses from the herd and long before the sun had risen he had started out with a string of mounts to be turned into the herd and fresh horses cut out.

As he jogged along he dreamed over bits of his favorite plays and sought to plan some coup whereby he might win Grace's consent to his speaking to her uncle. He was well toward the mouth of the gulch when there came the thunder of hoof beats and the herd dashed out. There was a commotion among the horses of his string and in an instant Jimmie guessed the cause.

"It was the famous Black Devil herd of wild horses, taking its name from the coal black stallion that led the band. They had made a descent upon the Blazing H herd, stampeded the bunch and added them to their numbers. Jimmie cut his string loose and turned tail. His own mount was fairly fresh, but he could not hope to ride around the herd. On the other hand he could drift with them and gradually work his horse to the rear. It would be a hard fight to pull out from the bunch but he believed that he could hold his pony.

The quiet fell across his flanks and the race was on. There were more than a hundred horses in the band, most of which had been stamped by the half dozen belonging to the original bunch. According to tradition, they had been cavalry mounts in an Indian battle and had escaped during a massacre. Fleeing to the hills they had evaded recapture by the Indians and had reverted to their primal instincts, augmenting their numbers as opportunity offered.

To seek to ride through the herd would be suicide, and instead of his old hunting days Jimmie lifted his horse along. He wanted to see the face of the patch before the band caught up with him.

As they swung round the mouth of the gulch he saw several hundred yards in advance. He gave a glance forward and his heart stood still, for right ahead was a gray-haired figure upon the big rear. If the band overhauled Grace's horse she would probably be trampled to death.

Flipping whip and spur he forced his pony toward her and she, in her terror, came galloping toward him. Her horse had long since become unmanageable and as they met it was all he could do to turn the roan's head to keep pace with his pony.

"It's all right," he shouted above the thunder of the hoofs. "Keep your head. Don't be afraid."

She smiled bravely at him, but at that moment the herd caught them, the stallion sweeping past, and the faster of the horses streaming on either side. Jimmie longed to take a shot at the stallion, but with Grace to look after he dared not. By keeping a firm hand on her mount's bridle he kept beside her, but her horse was fresher than his own and it became apparent that soon he must be outdistanced. They were in the center of the bunch now and were slowly falling back.

"Kick your stirrup," he shouted. "I am going to take you over here." Slowly she slipped her feet from the stirrups and nodded to him. She could not trust her voice. Even his clear, ringing tones seemed faint and far away.

"Lean over," he shouted. "Now!" and, as he released the roan's bridle and the horse shot forward, he caught her by the waist and swung her to his saddle.

Doubly weighted his pony dropped back rapidly and presently they were clear of the herd. There was a sharp fight for mastery, but Jimmie won and presently the little pony was cantering slowly at right angles to the herd, now rapidly disappearing in the distance.

Jimmie smiled down into the girl's face.

"I guess it's all over," he cried cheerfully, "but you'll have to get another saddle horse."

"Wasn't it awful?" she shuddered. "I thought we should both be killed." "Jimmie," she said softly. "You may speak to uncle if you want to. If he says no, I'm going to marry you anyway."

"You don't have to marry me because I helped you out of a scrape," he protested wistfully.

"It's not because you saved my life," she protested. "It's because you are so strong and brave—and lovable." And she stooped and kissed the tanned face.

STALE PHRASES ARE NEEDED

Writer Who Expresses a Powerful Emotion Must Say What Has Been Said Countless Times.

Our dramatic critic, in his review of Sardou's play "Above Suspicion," said of one of the characters that "his lips were sealed," and remarked that such phrases necessarily accompany such plays. They do, indeed, and the use of them makes one understand the emotional quality of such plays better than the most elaborate analysis of them.

There are hundreds of phrases like this, containing metaphors, both violent and stale, which are only used seriously by writers who snatch at the easiest means of expressing an emotion which they do not feel. For if a writer has a real emotion of his own to express he will either use a metaphor suggested to him by that particular emotion or none at all. This is a matter of instinct, not of literary art; for a fresh emotion will not be satisfied with stale phrases but will feel itself misrepresented by them.

That is one reason why, when powerfully moved, we are often so inarticulate. We feel that commonplaces will not serve our turn, but we have nothing to put in their place. The writer's task is to be neither inarticulate nor commonplace. He must not be artless, nor must he give us bad art for good. If he has a new idea to express he is not tempted by stale phrases. For they are associated with emotions rather than with thoughts, and emotions are not discoveries, they are old, and when expressed in literature are valued, not for their novelty, but for the power with which they are expressed. Thus, a writer who expresses a new idea says what has never been said before, but a writer who wishes to express a powerful emotion has to say what has probably been said a thousand times, and by bad writers as well as good. These bad writers have burdened our memory with metaphors, some of them lifeless from the first, some killed by constant repetition, or in appropriate use, and their metaphors stay in our minds because they have been so often repeated. The good writer's mind is often infested with them, so that, before he can find the phrase he wants, he must reject half a dozen that he does not want. This is the penalty that he has to pay for living at a time when literature is old and language sophisticated. — London Times.

He Was a 'Piscopal.

A Northwestern missionary bishop used to tell a story which was repeated to us last week by Rev. W. W. Washington of Cuyahoga Falls.

"I met an old farmer in North Dakota," he relates, "and in the course of conversation I asked him if he was connected with any religious denomination. 'Yes,' he answered, 'I'm a 'Piscopal.'"

"Of course this puzzled me, and I asked him what I think he belonged to. 'I don't care about no parish,' he said, with a puzzled expression. 'Well, what does?' I persisted. 'You got me there, too.' 'Where were you confirmed?' 'Dunno, but you mean.' 'Then how are you a 'Piscopalian?'"

"Oh," he answered, brightening up at once. "I'll tell you. I went to a church down in Bismarck last winter, and they called it 'Piscopal. And I heard the people say that they'd done things they hadn't order done, and I left undone things they'd order done." An "I says, 'That's me, to a t,' and since then, I've called myself a 'Piscopal."

"Now I understand," continued the bishop, laughing, "the membership of our church is so large." — Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Character in Handwriting. If you write a small, almost feminine hand it may be a sign that you are destined to be a great statesman, according to David N. Carvalho, who finds that small handwriting is often characteristic of great men. Grover Cleveland's handwriting was of this type and so was William McKinley's. "You find this type of writing in the large handed men," said Mr. Carvalho, "the men who are broad, shouldered and well built, not perhaps tall."

If you are a woman and make little penhooks at the end of your final m's and e's you are not likely to spend much money on the latest novelties in dress, nor are you apt to bother to do your hair up in puffs. Indeed these little twists on the end of letters indicate that you would make a sensible and economical wife. Your defect would be that you might embarrass your husband by eccentricity in dress through carelessness. A slurring penmanship indicates literary ability.

Between Doctors. "Doctor, I want you to look after my office while I'm on vacation." "But I've just graduated, doctor. Have had no experience." "That's all right, my boy. My practice is strictly fashionable. Tell the men to play golf and ship the women patients out to Europe."

Business Instinct. "Do you think a woman can keep a secret?" "No; she always tries to syndicate it." — Judge.

Consideration. "You wouldn't think of letting Mrs. Flungit hear the things you say behind her back?" "Certainly not," replied Mrs. Somer-Storey. "I'm too kind-hearted."

The Kitchen Cabinet

HAT man that hath a tongue, I say, is no man. With that tongue he cannot win a woman. — Shakespeare.

FALL PICKLING.

In almost every household there are old and valued recipes which are handed down from mother to daughter. Pickles are no exception. It is an especial favor to have one given you. Here is a valued recipe for dill pickles: Take forty cucumbers three or four inches long, put into salt water strong enough to hold up an egg, a handful of dill seed or six large sprays of fresh dill, and a dozen grape leaves. Put a layer of grape leaves in the bottom of a jar and add the cucumbers and brine with the dill. Cover the top of the jar with several layers of grape leaves and let stand a week, when the pickles will be ready to use.

Tomatoes for Meats.—Chop fine sixteen ripe tomatoes, four small onions and a cupful of celery, add three tablespoonsful of salt, one cup of vinegar, a cup of sugar and cayenne pepper to taste. Place in a sterilized can and seal without cooking.

Chow Chow.—Prepare the following vegetables and cut in small pieces: Two quarts of green tomatoes, twelve small cucumbers, three red peppers, one cauliflower, two bunches of celery, one pint of small onions, two quarts of string beans. Mix together a fourth of a pound of mustard, two ounces of tumeric, half an ounce each of allspice, pepper and cloves, and a gallon of vinegar. Cover the vegetables with salt and let stand twenty-four hours. Heat the vinegar with the spices to the boiling point, add the drained vegetables, cook until soft.

Green Tomato Pickles.—To a peck of sliced green tomatoes add half a dozen onions and a cup of salt; let stand over night and drain; add two quarts of vinegar, two cups of brown sugar, half an ounce of cloves and one of cinnamon. Cook all together until the tomatoes are a little soft, not too tender, then put away in a stone jar after adding a fresh grated horseradish. These will keep a year or longer.

Chili Sauce.—Peel twelve medium-sized tomatoes very ripe, one finely chopped red pepper, one onion chopped, two cups of vinegar, three tablespoonsful of sugar, a tablespoonful of salt, two tablespoonsful each of cloves, cinnamon, nutmeg, and allspice. Heat slowly to the boiling point and cook two and a half hours.

THE FAIR MUSHROOMS. During September and up to the time that the frost appears mushrooms grow in abundance. "If you look you may find where they grow." The delicious field mushroom, by name agaricus campestris, is found in profusion in old pastures. If the mushrooms are gathered early in the day, and before they show their gills (while they are yet in the button stage), they may be kept for winter use by boiling in a strong salt brine and putting them in fruit jars; cover with the brine and add a tablespoonful of salt to each jar before sealing. When wanted for use, soak in clear water until sufficiently freshened, then cook as desired. A few jars of this delicious vegetable would not only give variety to the winter table but save much in the purse to purchase delicacies not local.

There is no dish more delicious than creamed mushrooms, and to be able to make a company with this appetizing dainty in midwinter and not suffer financially is worth while. Many amateurs are raising the mushroom in old cellars, but it takes great care to keep the temperature just right, so that few make a success at it.

Mushroom Salad.—Parboil the mushrooms in a little water five minutes, drain well and when chilled add an equal portion of celery and dress with mayonnaise.

Creamed Mushrooms.—Peel and trim a pint of mushroom caps and stems and put in a saucepan with a tablespoonful of butter; cook five minutes, dust with a tablespoonful of flour; pepper and salt, and pour over a cup of cream. When smooth and thick pour over well-buttered toast and serve at once.

Broiled Mushrooms.—Place the caps upside down on a broiler for the first half of the broiling, then reverse and fill the cap with butter, pepper and salt, and serve as soon as the butter is melted. They will need to be handled carefully, not to lose the juices.

Woman's Danger Periods Made Safe

By Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

The Change of Life is the most critical period of a woman's existence, and neglect of health at this time invites disease.

Women everywhere should remember that there is no other remedy known to medicine that will so successfully carry women through this trying period as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs. Here is proof:

Natick, Mass.—"I cannot express what I went through during the Change of Life before I tried Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I was in such a nervous condition I could not keep still. My limbs were cold, I had creepy sensations and could not sleep nights. I was finally told by two physicians that I had a tumor."

"I read one day of the wonderful cures made by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and decided to try it, and it has made me a well woman. My neighbors and friends declare it has worked a miracle for me. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is worth its weight in gold for women during this period of life. If it will help others you may publish this letter." — Mrs. Nathan B. Groaton, 51 No. Main St., Natick, Mass.

ANOTHER SIMILAR CASE.

Cornwallville, N. Y.—"I have been taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for some time for Change of Life, nervousness, and a fibroid growth."

"Two doctors advised me to go to the hospital, but one day while I was away visiting, I met a woman who told me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I did so and I know it helped me wonderfully. I am very thankful that I was told to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound." — Mrs. Wm. Boughton, Cornwallville, N. Y., Greene Co.

The makers of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound have thousands of such letters as those above—they tell the truth, else they could not have been obtained for love or money. This medicine is no stranger—it has stood the test for years.

For 30 years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills. No sick woman does justice to herself who will not try this famous medicine. Made exclusively from roots and herbs, and has thousands of cures to its credit.
