GAVE RECEPTION TO REV. AND MRS. PIERCE

Methodists Did It Up Brown Wednesday Night.

The Methodist people gave a reception Wednesday evening in the church for Rev. and Mrs. Ralph Pierce who have recently been returned to Northville by the M. C. conference, or at least Mr. Pierce was returned, and of course Northville people are glad to know that Mrs. Pierce also alike.

Delightful instrumental music for the occasion was rendered by the Holly High school quartet, consisting of Floyd Evans, leader, and the Misses Florence Wood and Marie Lane, and Forest Gransod. The Misses Wood and Lane of the quartet and Miss Kenyon and R. Van Valkenburgh of this place each favored with a solo, while Guy Fugine at the organ and Floyd Evans with the violin gave some difficult solo selections in a splendid manner on those instruments. Miss Pearl McDonald of Detroit gave a couple of readings in a charming manner adding still further to the pleasure of the occasion.

Addresses of welcome and good feeling were made by representatives of the various sections of the church, and Rev. W. S. Thomas of the Presbyterian church, representing the other denominations, to all of which Rev. and Mrs. Pierce responded in a fitting manner.

The delightful occasion was enhanced by the beautiful floral decorations, the delicious refreshments served and the presentation by the ladies' committee of a beautiful bouquet of corsages to Mrs. Pierce.

"CIRCLE N'S" DEFEAT REDFORD

AT MILFORD FAIR LAST WEEK
THURSDAY

And Beat the Milford Team 9 to 0
Friday.

The "Circle N's" boys defeated the Redford team at the Milford fair last Thursday by a score of 9 to 0. As a result of this score, the "Circle N's" treasury is richer by $50.

On Friday the boys were scheduled to play the Milford team. It looked as if the latter team had it in for Northville from the start of the game and things came to a crisis in the last of the eighth when a Milford man up made a hit and contrary to the rules of "one base on an overthrow" ran from second to the home plate on an overthrow from first to second. Umpire "Bobber" sent the man back to third and Milford "went up in the air" with seventeen balloons and forty seven air ships because their run would have tied the score. They refused to play out the ninth inning and so forfeited the game. 911

By a previous agreement our boys were to get $25 if they won, but they haven't seen it yet. However, they are confident that they will soon. "Circle N's" sweaters are to be purchased for the boys with the $75 as a prize for their exhibition at the fair.

Card of Thanks.

I wish to thank the Baptist ladies, B. Y. P. U., Sunday school, The King's Daughters, friends and neighbors for the flowers and fruit sent me during my recent illness.

TAX COMMISSION COMPLETES REPORT

May Be Submitted to Special Session of Legislature.

PLAN NEW METHOD OF TAXING

Interurban Electric Lines to Be Put on the Same Basis as Steam Roads—Inheritance Levy Will Be Increased.

Lansing.—The special tax commission made up of Attorney Roger I. Wykes of Grand Rapids, Prof. Adams, University of Michigan, and Patrick H. Kelley, Lansing, have completed their report, which it is supposed, Governor Osborn will submit to a special session of the legislature in January, with the exception of a recommendation as to the assessment of mining property, upon which point the members of the commission are at sea and looking for assistance.

Governor Osborn's object in securing a special tax commission was to have it devise a corporation tax and recommend such other changes in the existing tax laws that the money derived from them might be diverted to the general fund of the state and thus reduce the state tax. In a general way the recommendations of the committee will be as follows:

Taxation of corporations, for state purposes on so-called "intangible values," which will be arrived at by capitalizing the net earnings and subtracting the assessed physical valuation upon which corporations now pay taxes.

Increasing the inheritance tax so that the state will realize $1,000,000 a year instead of $450,000 as at present and diverting this money from the primary school fund to the general fund.

Extending interurban electric railway property by the same method as railroad property is now generally taxed and compelling such property to pay the average rate, instead of being taxed locally. The money thus derived to be placed in the general fund of the state.

In dealing with the corporation tax proposition the commission has secured much data, showing where numerous automobile companies and other corporations are assessed at only a fraction of their true value, while at the same time they are paying enormous dividends. Members of the commission admit that the report will advise the adoption of the corporation tax system which has been in vogue in Michigan since 1891 and from which the state gets $4,000,000 a year which is turned back to the various counties instead of being used to defray the expenses of the state as the Michigan commission will recommend.

To illustrate the working out of the corporation tax P. H. Kelley of Lansing worked out the following example. Suppose a corporation is assessed on its physical property at $1,000 and that it pays $400 dividends a year. If the dividend were capitalised at 10 per cent that would make the value of the corporation based on earnings $5,000. From the latter amount subtract the physical value and it would leave $4,000 the amount that would pay the average rate for state purposes.

Age of Mio May Go Thirsty.
Officers of the state of Michigan have discovered that the state owns a site of a water station from which the village of Mio, Oscoda county, secures its water supply. No one knew of the state's ownership until one day last week, and no one knows now just what is included in its title or what the state can do with its property of this character.

The property consists of 40 acres of land in the center of which is a pumping station operated by a private corporation to pump water from several wells located on the tract for the benefit of residents of Mio. The property comes into the possession of the state through the failure of the owner, who is a stockholder in the water company, to pay his taxes. Under the provision of the law, after the state has waited for five years for the owner to redeem the land, the title passes to the state, and this period having passed the state land department sent an employee to look over the land.

Algettes May Be Worn by Women.

Michigan women who will may continue to wear the beautiful algettes which are torn from the bodies of white heron and egret for the adornment of their hats. At the suggestion of State Game Warden Oates, the attorney general's department has been examining the law to ascertain if it were not possible to prohibit the sale, having in possession of the wonderful plumes, which are secured by killing the birds at breeding time when every nest is occupied by little birds, thus left to starve.

The law, however, will not cover Attorney General Kuhn, having furnished the warden with an opinion to that effect. "I understand," reads the opinion, "that an algette was, at one time a part or portion of the plumage of a bird, and also that in its finished stage it is a distinct article of manufacture and trade, and sold under a distinctive name. It is my opinion that as such distinct articles of manufacture and trade they have lost their identity as a part of a game or non-game bird within the meaning of the statute. There are a vast number of articles of trade which in whole or part represent part of some animal or bird protected by the laws of this state in its wild state. I can direct your attention to no better illustration than knife handles made from the antlers of deer."

State Banks Are Prosperous.
Michigan's financial and business interests continue to show an increase in prosperity, according to figures and statements made in the report of the condition of state banks and trust companies by the state banking department, which Banking Commissioner E. H. Doyle has just issued, covering the period ending September 1. Moreover, there has been a steady increase in the resources of 413 state banks and five trust companies during the summer, which the department says indicates the strides forward the state has made in manufacturing industries, until now it has greater manufacturing than agricultural interests.

The total resources of the banks and trust companies on September 1 were $24,228,572.46 as compared with $23,411,801.71 on June 1, a gain of over $7,000,000. Not only is this gain showing an increased resource made, but 29 banks increased their capital since the first of the year $2,250,000, and in addition 29 new state banks were chartered by the commissioner with an aggregate capital of $6,850,000, and the commissioner has approved the applications of seven more banks that will be organized with a capital of $225,000. The total banking capital, surplus, undivided profits and deposits of 12 state banks, three trust companies and three national banks in Detroit has increased since June 7, $1,100,000.75. In this connection it is made to the increase, although during the summer months nearly $1,000,000 was withdrawn from the Detroit banks by country bankers for the purpose of moving crops, which shows the development of the city's manufacturing interests.

West Michigan Baptists Clash.

A religious breach is threatened in the ranks of the Baptists of western Michigan. The Tabernacle church at Grand Rapids may withdraw from the Grand Rapids association because of its opposition to Prof. George Burman Foster of Chicago university, who recently occupied the pulpit of the Fountain Street church while its regular pastor, Rev. A. W. Wishart, was on his annual vacation.

At the session of the association a letter was offered by Allen Pratt, church clerk, and read by the pastor of the Tabernacle church, Rev. Leon and J. Dunne. In part it reads:

"While we fully realize this association has no authority to discipline any church and that each church is absolutely independent, yet we would voice an urgent protest against the association's receiving messengers from any organization that openly tramples under foot the precious blood of Jesus Christ, by opening its pulpit to such an avowed enemy of the cross as Prof. George Burman Foster of Chicago university."

Will Plan for 1912 Campaign.

State Chairman Frank Knox is said to call for a special meeting of the Republican state central committee to be held in Grand Rapids October 5.

The purpose of the meeting, according to Chairman Knox, is to give the committee an opportunity to go over the work done along organization lines since the close of the 1910 campaign, and to plan for the presidential campaign of 1912. He strongly favors the committee undertaking the organization of Republican clubs in each of the counties of the state and the holding of a banquet during the approaching winter season.

This plan will be outlined to the committee and its adoption urged. Mr. Knox has assurances from both United States senators and the ten Republican congressmen in carrying out this proposal.

Michigan Patents.

Michigan patents were issued as follows: Nelson A. Austin, Spring Arbor, molding shingles; Lewis A. Aspinwall, Jackson, bee hive; Koleri-Polesky, Cedarville, hand wrench; Auguste A. Caille, Detroit, ticket vending machine; Albert J. Dudley, Detroit, wrench; David H. Evans, Detroit, lock device for controlling levers of motors; John Kerwin, Detroit, surface grinder; Luther V. Moulton and P. A. Jones, Grand Rapids, starter for internal combustion engines.

HUNDREDS KILLED WHEN DAM BREAKS

DAM OF BAYLESS PULP & PAPER CO. BURSTS ONE MILE NORTH OF AUSTIN, PA.

250 ARE DEAD AND 2,000 PERSONS ARE HOMELESS

Fire Sweeps the Ruins and Scores That Were Spared by the Rushing Torrents Are Buried Alive.

Austin, a town of 3,200 residents, in the northern part of Pennsylvania, was swept out of existence and more than 500 of its people were killed by a flood which followed the breaking of the Bayless Pulp & Paper company's dam, a mile and a half north of the town. Almost 500,000 gallons of water rushed over the place in a wall 10 feet high, wrecking every structure in its path.

The bursting of scores of natural gas mains, as the buildings were swept away, added fire to the general horror of the flood, and hundreds of those imprisoned in the wreckage were burned to death.

The catastrophe paralleled in many respects the destruction by flood of Johnston, Pa., in 1889, in which over 2,000 lives were lost. The extent of the loss of life and the destruction of property cannot be known for several days. The property loss will surely be several millions of dollars.

The food supplies of the town were destroyed and immediate aid to survivors was urgent. Hundreds of those who escaped were seriously injured in the collapse of their homes and the panic of the rush for safety.

Within an hour of the first general knowledge of the calamity, special trains bearing physicians, nurses and food supplies were on the way to the scene. Hundreds of automobiles bearing rescuers also tolled over the rough and tortuous mountain roads to lend aid.

Temporary hospitals were fitted up in nearby farm houses and improvised structures fashioned from the wreckage. The Red Cross also made preparations for immediate aid to survivors.

The intense heat of the escaping steam from the natural gas mains made it impossible for rescuers to visit the scene of destruction for many hours. Ladders were among the first on the ground and Governor Tener dispatched a large force of state police to the town to protect the victims.

The dam held back a huge mass of water. It was 510 feet long, 45 feet high and 22 feet at the top and was of concrete. On January 21, 1909, a crack was noticed in the dam. It followed a leak and portage of the dam moved 15 inches. Repairs were made but the fear of many that the repairs were not stable were realized when the break came.

Women Finally Reject 'Kimmel.'

Mrs. Della Kimmel, mother of the late, popular George A. Kimmel, who departs for Georgia, a Kimmel, who has just shown up in Niles, Mich., and her son left for Chicago in company with her daughter, Mrs. Edna M. Kimmel, to reside after the long and arduous journey to either prove or disprove that the Man of Mystery, the Hon. U. S. Senator, is her son.

If the man proves to be her son she will not get $2,000 life insurance which he "dies" for. The insurance was held Sunday between the man and the two women did not settle the matter as to whether the man is who he claims, that is, did not settle it satisfactorily to all concerned. All incidents in the life of the late Kimmel mentioned by the women had no place in the memory of the man and his supposed incidents related by Kimmel had no place in the memory of the women. After the conference the women declared again that the man was not the real Kimmel, the banker who disappeared 13 years ago.

State Teachers to Meet in Detroit.

Wayne Gardens and the Light Guard armory, the two largest assembly rooms in Detroit, have been requisitioned for the great gathering of Michigan teachers, which will meet November 2 and 3, the occasion being the annual convention. Eight thousand teachers are expected to be in attendance. Similar programs will be given in both places, with double performances by musicians and speakers.

There recently was advanced the claim that throughout the upper peninsula of Michigan only one crenatum tree existed. This one is in the yard of William Bacon, at Sault Ste. Marie, and the fact that it has borne heavily this year was held to demonstrate that raising chestnuts in the Lake Superior region was altogether feasible. It has developed that John Parker, an old-time great lakes navigator, has in his yard at Ontonagon, five trees of the same kind and that each season for several years past they have been heavily laden with nuts. The trees were raised from sprouts brought from the east.

Wm. A. Lewis, a bodyguard of Abraham Lincoln during the civil war and a policeman at the White House with a doorkeeper's duty for 35 years, is dead. He was 53 years old.

FAST-FREIGHTS TO U. P.

Detroit Merchants Will Be Able to Ship Goods to North Ahead of Chicago.

Arrangements are under way for a package car freight service into the principal points of the upper peninsula which in the future will make it possible for the merchants of Detroit and the upper peninsula to trade with each other without the delays of the past, which made it all but absolutely necessary for the Chicago market to get all of the upper peninsula business.

St. Ignace, Marquette and Calumet will be reached with a second morning delivery, and Houghton, Michigan, Ishpeming and Negaunee the third day.

Under the new schedule to upper peninsula points the necessity to bill by way of Chicago, where from one or two days are always lost in shipping, will be done away with.

Gen. Reyes Makes Himself an Exile.
Gen. Bernardo Reyes, with several prominent Mexicans who have been active in the Reyes propaganda, sailed from Vera Cruz for New York on the steamship Monterey. This was a great surprise, as Reyes had kept his moves secret for the past few days, and it was not even known generally that he had left Mexico City until he arrived in Vera Cruz in a special car.

He sent a telegram to President de la Barra, in which he said he was leaving Mexico for the good of the country, as he believed that there was much more chance of peace if he were absent. He added that he desired that his party continue its organization as he expected to return to Mexico in good time.

Warns Iowans of Business Perils.
President Taft faced the middle west with an appeal to check unjust prejudice against the business enterprise of the country. In an address in Waterloo on the relation of the government to the business of the country, which he delivered here late this afternoon before an outdoor audience of several thousand people, the president said that the people of every section and class of this country were all in the same boat, and that to persist in sectional vindictiveness against the prosperity of another section of the country would enforce business prostration throughout the land as surely as night follows day. "We are all tossed by the same waves," he cautioned them.

FLASHES FROM WIRE.

Acting under orders of his physician, Mayor Brand Whitlock, of Toledo, O., went to St. Clements to recuperate. The mayor has been in poor health since his operation for appendicitis several weeks ago.

The Alaska Steamship company's wooden freight steamer Letha is ashore on Laid Island. Summer travel out for from Wrangell, Alaska. The ship is resting on sand and her owners believe they will be able to save her.

New York city will pay $4,301,445 of the $6,072,766 which is to be used by direct tax throughout the state for the expense of the state government during the fiscal year. The 57 counties outside of New York city will pay but $1,771,421.

George Gould's youthful son, Jay, has purchased a $250,000 residence on Fifth avenue, New York, as a gift for his bride, who was Miss Anna Douglas Graham. The house is six stories high and was formerly the property of Archer Huntington.

For the first time in many years the current yearly income of Columbia university, New York, has equalled the expenditures. The university spent during the year slightly more than $3,000,000. Gifts for the year reached the unprecedented total of $2,500,000.

The Mark Twain monument commission, named by Gov. Hadley to select a site and erect a $100,000 monument in memory of the author for the state of Missouri has chosen a site in Riverview park, in Hannibal, Mo. The monument will overlook the Mississippi river.

Judges, lawyers and attendants at the court of special sessions in New York were surprised when court convened to find that during the summer three steel cages for prisoners had been placed in the courtroom. It is said that the Camorra trial in Italy was responsible for the innovation.

In an attempt to subpoena witnesses wanted in a murder trial at Gibson Station, Va., two sons of James Colins were killed and the father fatally wounded. The subpoenas were to have been served on two women and when the officers attempted to force their way into the homes of the women they were shot.

A trunk that is being moved by an express or transportation company, or otherwise apart from and disconnected with the transportation of the person who owns the trunk, is not baggage, and such company losing it is liable for its full value, according to a decision by the New York state court of appeals. The action was against the New York Transportation Co., which contended it was liable only for $100. A judgment of $1,200 was rendered.

For the purpose of ascertaining what method is the most efficacious in suppressing measles, a dozen monkeys at the hygienic laboratory of the public health and marine hospital service are to be infected with the measles germ.

The largest shipment of foreign sugar ever received in California entered San Francisco bay. It was sent from the East Indies on the Norwegian steamer August. The sugar was imported through the American Hawaiian Sugar Refining company for fruit canners, and its value is $1,000,000 duty paid. The tariff is $230,000.

THE ITALIANS OCCUPY TRIPOLI

GOVERNOR GENERAL BESSIM, BEY SURRENDERS TO ADMIRAL AUBREY.

THE WAY FOR PEACE BELIEVED TO BE OPENED.

Defenders of the City, Flying From the Fort, Attempt a Second Stand on Hillside.

The city of Tripoli was surrendered to the Italian war fleet under Admiral Aubrey, by Governor General Bessim Bey, after a bombardment had reduced the Turkish fortifications to ruin and the Turkish garrison, which had made a second stand on the heights above the city, had been routed by shrapnel.

This puts Italy in formal possession of the city and paves the way, it is believed, to peace negotiations. The fire of the Italian ships was deadly in its accuracy and the heaviest bastions of the Turkish forts were soon in ruins. The Turks then removed their guns to the hills overlooking the town and reopened fire. The Italian ships replied with shrapnel which sent the Turks flying in all directions and caused their commander to order the white flag of surrender to be run up.

When this dispatch was sent the Italian fleet was preparing to land a force of 4,000 men to take formal possession of the city.

News of the surrender came to Rome by wireless from Admiral Aubrey, on board the flagship Giuseppe Garibaldi, and when the news was officially announced crowds in the streets went wild with enthusiasm.

With Tripoli in the hands of the Italians, it is now believed that the Turks will not try to hold out longer and will accede to the demands of Italy unless the powers intervene to save Turkey from humiliation.

Admiral Aubrey reports that in bombarding that city he spared all the consulates, hospitals, churches, monasteries and convents, aiming only at the fortifications. Discrimination was made with ease, as the range of the Turkish cannon was so short that the ships were enabled to approach the city closely and so take accurate aim.

The bombardment was protracted, because of this extreme care to avoid needless blood shed and to respect the homes of non-combatants and the mosques. Moreover the firing was at long intervals as Admiral Aubrey and Vice Admiral Paravelli expected at any moment to see the white flag run up indicating a desire to surrender. None of the Turkish shots reached the ships.

WILEY IN FULL CONTROL

McCabe Is Retired, Dunlap Is Given a Leave of Absence.

In a sudden succession of orders, an initial move in the expected reorganization of the department of agriculture, Solicitor Geo. P. McCabe was retired from the pure food and drug board Associate Chemist E. L. Dunlap, closely identified with McCabe, was allowed leave of absence until the president's return, and Chemist Harvey W. Wiley left apparently in supreme command of the board. Dr. R. E. Doolittle of New York was temporarily appointed to the board to succeed Mr. McCabe.

These changes were announced by Secretary Wilson, following a conference with Dr. Wiley, who has been on a long vacation.

Madero Elected President.

Francisco I. Madero was elected president of Mexico by 95 per cent of votes cast, making the election practically unanimous. Madero claims that Pino Suarez has been elected vice-president over De La Barra by 30 per cent. De La Barra carried the city of Mexico by 15 per cent majority, but the absence of the Revistas from the polls defeated De La Barra in the country.

Madero announced that at least one of the present cabinet would remain. This was Ernesto Madero, the minister of finance. The portfolio of foreign relations has been offered to De La Barra, but he expressed his unwillingness to accept.

The electoral college will have in it no fewer than 20,000 delegates and party leaders announced that if the vote indicates defeat they will not cease working to change this in the vote of the electors on Oct. 15. The estimated vote in the capital was 90,000.

Assistant Attorney General Atkinson, having obtained what he called the "blacklist" of the alleged lumber trust in Missouri, which the state is seeking to oust, continued the examination of witnesses in an attempt to show that for 14 years, by means of agreements among the various wholesale and retail dealers' associations, the lumber companies controlled prices and business in Missouri in restraint of trade.

Plans to launch a nation-wide campaign to develop the American merchant marine took definite form when the San Francisco chamber of commerce adopted a resolution providing that all vessels flying the American flag be passed through the Panama canal without toll.

At the request of the Louisiana authorities, the navy department has ordered Commander Britton of the gunboat Wheeling, to head the marine procession, which will formally open to the sea the new port of Morgan City, La., October 5. The Wheeling has sailed from Guantanamo for Morgan City.

ADMIRAL SCHLEY DROPS DEAD

Heart Disease Caused Death of the Famous Naval Hero.

Rear Admiral Winfield Scott Schley dropped dead near the corner of Forty-fourth street and Fifth avenue, New York, while on his way downtown. The admiral died before medical aid could reach him.

Admiral Schley had been out of town over Sunday and on his return had gone to the New York yacht club on West Forty-fourth street. After a short stay at the club, Admiral Schley left the club house and started to walk home. Forty-fourth street towards Fifth avenue, when he was taken suddenly ill. A hurry call was sent for physicians, and an ambulance, but before aid could reach him the admiral was dead.

CHAPTER I.

A Dispatch for Longstreet.

It was a bare, plain interior—the low table at which he sat an unplanned board, his seat a box, made softer by a folded blanket. His only companions were two aides; standing silent beside the closed entrance, anxious to anticipate his slightest need.

He will abide in my memory forever as I saw him then—although we were destined to meet often afterwards—that old gray hero, whose masterly strategy held at bay for so long those mighty forces hurled on our constantly thinning lines of defense. To me the history of war has never contained his equal, and while I live I shall love and revere him as I can love and revere no other man.

"General Lee," said one of the aides, as I passed the single sentry and drew aside the flap to step within, "this is Captain Wayne."

He deliberately pushed away the mass of papers which had been engaging him, and for an embarrassing moment fixed upon me a glance that seemed to read me through and through. Then, with simple dignity, far more impressive than I can picture it in words, he arose slowly and extended his hand.

"Captain Wayne," he said gravely, yet retaining his grasp, and with his eyes full upon mine, "you are a much younger man than I expected to see, yet I have selected you upon the special recommendation of your brigade commander for services of the utmost importance. I certainly do not hold your youth to be against your success, but I feel unwilling to order you to the performance of this duty, which, besides being beyond the regular requirements of the service, involves unusual risks."

"Without inquiring its nature," I said, hastily, "I freely offer myself a volunteer for any service which may be required either by the army or yourself."

The kindly face brightened instantly, almost into a smile, and a new look of confidence swept into the keen gray eyes.

"I felt, even as I spoke," he said, with a dignified courtesy I have never noticed in any one else, "that I must be doing wrong to question the will of an officer of your regiment, Captain Wayne, to make personal sacrifice. From our first day of battle until now the south has never once called upon them in vain. You are from the ranks, I believe?"

"I was a corporal at Manassas."

"Ah! then you have won your grade by hard service. You take with you one man?"

"Sergeant Craig of my troop, sir, a good soldier, who knows the country well."

He lowered his eyes to the numerous papers littering the table, and then, leaning over, traced lightly with a colored pencil a line across an outspread map.

"You speak of his knowing the country well; are you aware, then, of your destination?"

"I merely inferred from what Colonel Carter said that it was your desire to reestablish communication with General Longstreet."

"That is true; but do you know where Longstreet is?"

"Only that we of the line suppose him to be somewhere west of the mountains, sir. It is camp gossip that his present base of supplies is at Minersville."

"Your conjecture is partly correct, although I have more reason to believe that the head of his column has reached Bear Fork, or will by tomorrow morning. Kindly step this way, Captain Wayne, and make note of the blue lines I have traced across this map. Here, you will observe, is Minersville, directly beyond the Federal lines extend north and south directly between us, with their heavier bodies of infantry along the Wharton pike, and so disposed as to shut off all communication between us and our left wing. Now, the message I must get into Longstreet's hands is imperative; indeed, I will say to you, the very safety of this army depends upon its reaching him before his advance passes Bear Fork. There remains, therefore, no time for any long detour; the messenger who bears it must take his life in his hands and ride straight westward through the very lines of the enemy."

He spoke these words rapidly, earnestly; then suddenly he lifted his eyes to mine, and said firmly: "I am perfectly frank with you. Are you the man?"

I felt the hot blood leap into my face, but I met his stern gaze without flinching.

"If I live, General Lee, I shall meet his advance at Bear Fork by day-break."

"God guide you; I believe you will." His words seemed uttered unconsciously. He turned slightly, and glanced toward the door. "Major Holmes, will you kindly hand me the draft of that dispatch?"

He took the paper from the outstretched hand of the aide, read it over, slowly and with great care, shall never permit it to be forgotten or go unrewarded. And now, good-night, sergeant; goodnight, Captain Wayne."

As we turned into the main road, riding slowly, I glanced backward. The general was yet standing there in front of his tent, gazing after us, the rays of the westerling sun gleaming on his gray hair.

CHAPTER II.

The Night Ride.

By five o'clock we were safe at Colchester, and while our horses rested and refreshed themselves on some confiscated grain, the two of us lay lazily back on a grassy knoll, well within the shadow of a ruined wall, and watched the round red sun drop slowly down behind those western hills we had to climb.

As early as we deemed it safe to venture, we were again in the saddle, riding now straight to the westward, along the smooth-beaten pike, until we caught sight of the black shadow of Colton church; in our front; then we swerved to the left, and still moving rapidly but with considerable care for the horses, headed directly across the more broken country toward the foothills. It proved to be a hard, toilsome climb up those long, steep slopes rising before us; for we were

As early as we deemed it safe to venture, we were again in the saddle, riding now straight to the westward, along the smooth-beaten pike, until we caught sight of the black shadow of Colton church; in our front; then we swerved to the left, and still moving rapidly but with considerable care for the horses, headed directly across the more broken country toward the foothills. It proved to be a hard, toilsome climb up those long, steep slopes rising before us; for we were extremely careful now to keep well away from every known route of travel, and our horses, although selected from among the best mounts of the cavalry brigade, had already been thoroughly winded by their smart trot up the valley.

An hour of this work passed. Whether or not we were yet within the enemy's lines was largely conjecture, for no human eye could pierce the enveloping gloom, and no sound, either of warning or encouragement, reached us as we strained our ears.

The sergeant rode slightly in advance as we toiled up the higher terrace, for our sole dependence as to direction and distance was upon his memory, and even that could scarcely serve for much on such a night as this. I traced his passage upward as best I might, and pressed close after him, guided not so much by sight as by sound—the occasional rolling of a loosened stone, the rustling of leaves as he touched a bush in passage, the faint clinking of his sabre, and the heavy breathing of his horse—until at last his long, slender figure rose sufficiently above the dark hill surface to be faintly silhouetted in deeper shadow against the dim reflection of the upper sky. Almost coincidentally with this my horse ranged up beside his, where he had drawn rein.

"What is it, Dan?" I questioned cautiously; for all I could feel reasonably assured of just then was that behind any rock or tree in our front there might be crouching a Federal picket.

"It's nothing," Cap. he answered quietly, turning his face toward me as he spoke. "I'm just tryin' ter remember some landmark yereabout ter guide from 'Blamed if ever I see such a dark night; it's like bein' inside a pocket, sir; an' I reckon as how it must be nigh onter ten year since I run loose in this yere country as a kid. That thar cut-off we took a while back has sort o' confused me; that's a fact, an' I don't just know what I am; but I reckon as how the main ridge road we're a hunkin' after ought-blazing the camp fires of an enemy. Vigilant eyes were peering everywhere in search of such as we. How far away they might lurk I could not even conjecture.

The soft night wind, heavy with pine odors, began suddenly to play amid the leaves of a low tree beside me, and the pleasant rustling mingled like strains of music with the slow breathing of the horses. I recall it now as one of those almost unaccountable conditions of mind and body when it seemed to me that the thin, sinewy fingers of an inexorable fate were closing down with a pressure which no strength of man might resist. I was worn with fatigue in the saddle, but did not dream of sleep; my mind, in a firm endeavor to cast aside the uncanny influences of the hour, recalled in swift panorama those three years of civil strife which had run their course since I, a slender, white-faced lad, had stolen forth into the moonlight from the portals of the old home, to ride away into the northward where the throbbing drums called me. So deeply had my every thought become merged in these musings that Craig, slipping silently as a ghost from out the engulfing darkness, laid his hand upon my bridle-rein before I became aware of his approach.

"I got 'er all right now, Cap," he announced quietly, peering up into my face. "We uns are not more nor a hundred yards ter the right of the road, but I reckon you'll find ther was a bit rough."

He led both horses forward, moving slowly and with that silent caution so characteristic of his class. With scarcely the scraping of a boot on the flinty rocks we came forth in safety upon the defined, hard-beaten track.

"The youth is over yonder ter the left," he whispered, as he swung up into saddle, "an' the trend of the road is mighty nigh due west."

er, run somewhat out yonder." He pointed forward into the night.

"Very well, hand me your rein, and see what you can discover out there on foot. Sitting here isn't apt to mend matters, and we surely cannot afford to cripple our horses among those rocks."

The sergeant, a gaunt, tireless mountaineer, slipped silently from his saddle, swung his light cavalry carbine from his back to the hollow of his arm, and in another moment was lost to sight in the darkness. A snake could not have slipped away more stealthily.

How utterly alone I seemed: now intensely, painfully still, everything was! The silence felt almost like a weight, so greatly it oppressed me. Even the accustomed voices of nature were hushed, as if war, with its unspeakable cruelty, had cast a spell over all things animate and inanimate. It was weird, uncanny. With every nerve strained, I leaned forward across the pommel of my saddle, listening for the slightest sound-out in that black void. My head burned, and throbbled as with fever, and I felt that strange, unnatural stillness as though it had been a physical thing; surely others besides us were upon this hill-top! For I knew well—my every soldier instinct told me—that somewhere out in that impenetrable mystery were

"But in which direction does their main camp lie, sergeant?"

"Durn it; that's just what I can't quite figure out, sir—whether we uns be to ther north or south of ther white church. Then, somehow or other, it seems like to me as if this yere road lay a bit too close ter the edge of ther plateau ter ever be the main pike what the Feds marched over. I reckon from ther direction it runs, that maybe it might be a branch like, or a wood-road leadin' inter ther other. If ther's the way it is, then ther fellers we uns is tryin' ter dodge ought ter be down yonder ter the left somewhar."

I gazed vaguely out into the black vacancy to which he pointed. "Well, if we should chance to run up against one of ther picket posts we shall soon be enlightened," I returned, urging my horse carefully forward. "But we shall have to take the chances, for it would not prove healthy for either of us to be caught here by daylight."

Not daring to venture on any gait faster than a walk along this unknown, and ill-defined mountain trail, we slowly and cautiously worked our way forward for more than an hour, meeting with no human obstacle to our progress, yet feeling that each step forward was surrounded by imminent peril. That we were now well within the guarded lines of the enemy we were both assured, although where or how we had succeeded in penetrating the cordon of picket posts unobserved we could only conjecture.

CHAPTER III.

An Unwelcome Guest.

This was the sort of work I had long ago learned to love; it warmed the blood, this constant certainty of imminent peril, this intense probability that any moment might bring a flash of flame into our very faces. Each step we took was now a stern, grim play with fate, where the stakes were life and death. I felt my pulses thrum as I rode steadily forward, fairly thrumming the darkness aside, my teeth hard set, my left hand heavily on a revolver butt.

But hark! surely that was no common sound, born of that dread, dumb dead. No cavalryman can mistake the fling of accoutrements or the dull thud of horses' hoofs. The road here must already curve sharply for they were already so close upon us that, almost simultaneously with the sound, we could distinguish the deeper shadow of a small compact body of horsemen directly in our front. To left of us there rose, silver and black, the precipitous rock; to right we might not even guess what yawning void it was either wit of sword play now.

I knew not how it may be with others in such emergencies, but with me it always happens that the sense of fear departs with the presence of actual danger. Before the grewsome fancies of imagination I may quake and burn like any maiden alone upon a city street at night, until each separate nerve becomes a very demon of mental agony; but when the real and known once fairly confronts me, and there is work to do, I grow instantly cool to think, resolute to act, and find a rare joy in it. It was so now, and, revolver in hand but hidden beneath my holster flap, I leaned over and touched Craig's arm.

"Keep quiet," I whispered sternly. "Let them challenge first, and no firing except on my order."

Almost with the words there came the sharp hail:

"Halt! Who comes there?"

I drew the cape of my riding jacket closer, so as better to muffle the sound of my voice.

"Friends, of course; who would you expect to meet on this road?"

Fortune seemed with me in the chance answer, for he who had hailed exclaimed:

"Oh! is that you, Brennan?"

There was no time now for hesitancy; here was my cue, and I must plunge ahead, accepting the chances. I ventured it.

"No; Brennan couldn't come. I am here in his place."

"Indeed! Who are you?"

"Major Wilke."

There was a moment's painful pause, in which I could hear my heart throb.

"Wilke," repeated the voice, doubtfully. "There is no officer of that name in the Forty-third."

"Well, there chances to be such an officer on the staff," I retorted, permitting a trace of anger to appear in my tone. "And I am the man."

"What the devil is the difference, Hale, just what his name is?" boomed a deeper voice back in the group. "We are not getting up a directory of the Sixth corps. Of course he's the man Brennan sent, and that is all we've got to look after."

"Oh, all right, certainly, major," returned the first speaker, hastily. "But the night is so cussed black I supposed we must be at least a mile this side of where we were to meet. However, we have the lady here for you, all right, and she is anxious enough to get on."

A Preference.

"Marriage is a lottery," said the ready-made philosopher.

"No, it isn't," replied Mr. Growcher. "In a lottery you can lose once and forget about it, instead of having to put up alimony."

About the Size of It.

"Why is it?" queried the youth, "that so many people fail to mind their own business?"

"There may be one or two reasons, or both," answered the home-grown philosopher. "They may have no mind or no business."—Philadelphia Press.

Failed to Scare Tim.

A plan was formed to scare a certain Tim Casey, living in a village near Belfast, on his returning from market by night past the churchyard. As he went by, the usual turnip, white sheet, and lantern of the conventional ghost were submitted to his gaze, with the customary weird howls Tim, however, simply looked fixedly at the apparition for a moment and remarked, "Arrah, now, and is it a general resurrection, or are ye just taking a walk by yourself?"

HIGHLY AMUSED.

Hiram Greene—What did your sister say when you told her I was going to make a speech in the town hall tonight?

"Willie—She didn't say nothin'; she just laughed until she had hysterics."

SOUND SLEEP

Can Easily Be Secured.

"Up to 2 years ago," a woman writes, "I was in the habit of using both tea and coffee regularly."

"I found that my health was beginning to fail, strange nervous attacks would come suddenly upon me, making me tremble so excessively that I could not do my work while they lasted; my sleep left me and I passed long nights in restless discomfort. I was filled with a nervous dread as to the future."

"A friend suggested that possibly tea and coffee were to blame, and I decided to give them up, and in casting about for a hot table-beverage, which I felt was an absolute necessity, I was led by good fortune to try Postum."

"For more than a year I have used it three times a day and expect, so much good has it done me, to continue its use during the rest of my life."

"Soon after beginning the use of Postum, I found, to my surprise, that instead of tossing on a sleepless bed through the long, dreary night, I dropped into a sound, dreamless sleep the moment my head touched the pillow."

"Then I suddenly realized that all my nervousness had left me, and my appetite, which had fallen off before, had all at once been restored so that I ate my food with a keen relish."

"All the nervous dread has gone. I walk a mile and a half each way to my work every day and enjoy it. I find an interest in everything that goes on about me that makes life a pleasure. All this I owe to leaving off tea and coffee and the use of Postum, for I have taken no medicine." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

"There's a reason," and it is explained in the little book, "The Road to Wellville," 16 pgs.

NEW SCHEDULE

D. U. R. OCTOBER 10

Orchard Lake Division Cars Leave
15 Minutes Later.

Under the new schedule of the Detroit United Lines going into effect October 10—all the cars on the Orchard Lake division will operate 15 minutes later than at present.

In addition to other schedule alterations there will be seven fast passenger express cars on the trolley line to Toledo leaving Detroit at 7 a. m. and every two hours to 7 p. m., stopping at Wyandotte, Sibley and other smaller towns but making no country stops. These cars will make the run to Toledo in two hours and 45 minutes and are in addition to the limited car service.

School Notes.

(By a Parent)

Elmer Hollis is a new pupil in the High school.

Joe Litsenberg is a new pupil in the Kindergarten.

John Litsenberg is a new pupil in the Third grade.

Thurio and Armeta Masters have entered school again.

Mrs. Bert Phillips visited the second grade last week.

Mary Sowles spelled down the fifth grade Thursday.

Marcia Litsenberg entered the seventh grade Monday.

Charley Wilcox spelled down the sixth grade last Friday.

Arthur Power visited the High school one day this week.

Fern Simpson spelled down the seventh grade last Friday.

The sixth grade is making a collection of beans in Nature study.

Carrie Litsenberg and Roy Mosher entered the fifth grade this week.

Bussell Park is visiting in the city and will attend school while here.

Harry Jackson of the Fourth grade is out of school because of illness.

(There were no tardy marks in the seventh grade during the month of September.)

(a) Class in the first grade has memorized "I Built Me a Nest in the Old Oak."

Wyand Pepper of the first grade presented the Kindergarten room with a potted plant.

The library will be in working order soon and we invite all to visit us in our new quarters.

Clayda Robbins and Eva Wood of the eighth grade are out of school on account of sickness.

Dorothy Stanley and Joseph Gleason reentered school after a week's absence on account of sickness.

If any patron has magazines which they do not want after reading and will let us know we will be pleased to call for them.

No whispering is the great stunt as usual and grade four is working for a prize to be given at the close of the term to the pupil or pupils holding 5-12 stars.

The fourth grade are very happy over a copy of Maave's famous painting, Sheep—Autumn, which Miss Cole drew in colors upon the blackboard one day this week.

There are eleven magazines on file for general reading and seven more on file for the teacher's Round table, making in all seventeen magazines. Besides these there are 137 copies of the weekly current events coming into our midst.

All marks below passing, will from this month on, be written in red, as well as the department. This is to call your attention to these marks.

Please look over carefully and, if not understood, we will be pleased to clear up the matter.

The fire alarm was rung one day last week. Result: K and First grade, 45 sec.; Second and Third grades, 40 sec.; Fourth and Seventh grades, 45 sec.; Fifth and Ninth grades, 30 sec. In other words, in 45 sec. over 250 children had gotten outside of the building. The alarm, when given, was known to none of them.

W. R. C. Notes.

(By Press Correspondent)

October 11th being our last meeting before "Inspection," every member of the order is urged to attend. Drills and practice work will constitute the special features. The program committee has promised something worth coming out to see and hear, and we are expecting great things. Delegates to the District convention will be chosen at this meeting.

Sprains require careful treatment. Keep quiet and apply Chamberlain's Liniment freely. It will remove the soreness and quickly restore the parts to a healthy condition. For sale by all dealers.

One Million Dollars

for a Good Stomach

This Offer Should be a Warning to Every Man and Woman.

The newspapers and medical journals recently have had much to say relative to a famous millionaire's offer of a million dollars for a new stomach.

This great multi-millionaire was too busy to worry about the condition of his stomach. He allowed his dyspepsia to run from bad to worse until in the end it became incurable.

His misfortune serves as a warning to others.

Every one who suffers with dyspepsia for a few years will give every thing he owns for a new stomach.

Dyspepsia is commonly caused by an abnormal state of the gastric juices, or by lack of tone in the walls of the stomach. The result is that the stomach loses its power to digest food.

We are now able to supply certain missing elements—to help to restore to the gastric juices their digestive power, and to aid in making the stomach strong and well.

We know that Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets are a most dependable remedy for disordered stomachs, indigestion and dyspepsia.

We want you to try them and will return your money if you are not more than satisfied with the result.

Three sizes, 25 cents, 50 cents and $1.00. Remember, you can obtain Rexall Remedies in this community only at our store—The Rexall Store.

A. E. Stanley, Northville.

G. A. R. Notes.

A full attendance of the Post is desired at the next meeting, Oct. 13, as the members of Plymouth Post are expected to be present.

Card of Thanks.

I sincerely wish to thank the many kind neighbors and friends for their kindness and beautiful flowers sent me during my illness. Also for beautiful flowers from the Presbyterian church, the Presbyterian ladies, C. E. society, K. P. W. The King's Daughters and W. C. T. U.

When Northville Citizens Show the Way.

There can be no just reason why any reader of this will continue to suffer the tortures of an aching back, the annoyance of urinary disorders, the dangers of serious kidney ailments when relief is so near at hand and the most positive proof given that these ailments can be cured. Read what a Northville citizen says: "W. H. Deaton, Horton Ave., Northville, Mich., says: 'Some years ago my kidneys were badly disordered and I was annoyed by too frequent and painful passages of the kidney secretions. I suffered from severe pain in the small of my back and I seemed unable to get relief. Finally I procured Doan's Kidney Pills from Murdock Bros. Drug Store and they soon drove away the pain in my back and strengthened my kidneys. I do not hesitate to recommend this valuable kidney medicine to anyone afflicted with kidney complaint.'"

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

As soon as he can get teams and men, street Commissioner Green says he will re-gravel the parts of center street between Dunlap and Main streets where the mud holes persist in cropping out and will put it all in ship shape before winter sets in.

J. S. Haddock purchased a new horse last week Thursday. That evening the horse, while looking over his new quarters, took advantage of the gate within easy reach, and as a result, Julius worked over him all day Friday, bringing him through all right.

The Presbyterian ladies will make their last collection of papers and magazines next week. They can use scrap paper when tied in packages. Those who wish the wagon to call at their homes will please notify Mrs. Will Stark and Mrs. C. R. Benton.

The proprietor of one of Northville's business places, gave the night watch a likely scare Wednesday night that will eventually cause his hair to turn gray, and but for the timely arrival of Policeman Bogart on the scene, he would have been going yet. There has certainly been lively doings in the old town of Northville this week.

Mrs. Loren Felt was pleasantly surprised when she came from town last Wednesday evening to find about fifty of her friends gathered there to remind her of her twenty-fifth birthday. They presented her with a set of dishes. The evening was spent in dancing and card playing, with a delightful lunch at midnight, after which the guests departed wishing Mrs. Felt many happy returns of the day.

John E. Leander, 248 Lake Ave. Battle Creek, Mich., says: "For three years I was afflicted with a disease of the kidneys which doctors called sugar diabetes. I doctored continually, but all to no effect. Finally I stopped doctoring and started taking Foley-Kidney Pills which I saw recommended so highly. A few weeks' treatment of these pills relieved me of all my trouble and cured me of sugar diabetes and I feel better than I have been for three years, and can once more attend to my business affairs personally. I recommend Foley-Kidney Pills to all my friends for I believe they are the best kidney and bladder medicine ever made."
