OIL THE STREET OR EAT DUST

The proposition to oil the streets of Northville is again up for consideration. It's that or eat dust. Other towns all about us have this feature. The oil not only lays the dust but at the same time it preserves the streets and would save the expenditure of a lot of money each year for new gravel.

The D. C. R. would undoubtedly be willing to pay half the expense of oiling Main street from the center street to their depot and the business men and council ought to take care of the balance easily.

This is a matter that President Lansing and the council should take hold of at once. It is as important as anything in the village and will be a credit to that body if they solve this problem.

Perhaps the council could arrange to do the oil sprinkling if the merchants buy the oil.

Why wouldn't it be a good idea for the council to call a meeting and have the business men present and talk the matter over?

Benefit Supper.

The King's Daughters will give a benefit supper in the parlors of the Presbyterian church next Friday evening, April 26. The supper will be one of those extra good affairs at only 25 cents a plate.

As usual the reason for giving this supper is to give timely aid to deserving parties. Let everyone help the good work along by buying a supper ticket of any of The King's Daughters.

Band Benefit.

Dr. Turner, who has taken over the management of the Northville Band, has arranged with the Alhambra people for a benefit entertainment for the band in that theatre Monday evening, April 24.

KEEPING ABREAST WITH THE TIMES

W. R. C. Notes.

(By Press Correspondent.)

All members of the Corps are urged to be present at the next regular meeting, April 24. Patriotic Instructor, Susie Woolley and the color bearers are preparing an interesting program for the occasion.

The sympathy of the entire Corps goes out to Guard, Ella Van Tassel, who was seriously injured in the wreck which occurred on the Detroit, Jackson & Chicago electric line, Monday afternoon. A Detroit Journal has this to say of the trouble displayed by Mrs. Van Tassel on that scene of horror and confusion: "Pathetic in the extreme, were the efforts of Mrs. Ella Van Tassel of Northville, who, in spite of the fact that her jaw was injured and leg broken, managed to comfort those on the damp ground beside her during the entire time, she uttered no word of complaint, but bore her painful injuries with great patience and fortitude."

SENIOR PLAY

GREAT SUCCESS

Has there ever been—will there ever be, another such a play as "Brother Josiah," given by the Senior class of 1912 last Friday evening and repeated last evening? It would seem not. So great was the demand for tickets for the first performance that it was found necessary to repeat the play for the benefit of those unable to secure tickets for Friday evening.

"Brother Josiah," which was built upon a strong plot, abounded with comedy from beginning to end. As to the cast, each actor was a star, especially adapted to the character which he or she represented, as were the make-up and costumes. Too much praise cannot be given the eleven seniors for the able manner in which each played their part.

They certainly put one over on Will Tibbitts, who had acted as their coach and stage director, when Harold Turner, president of the class, called Mr. Tibbitts out in front of the curtain just before the last act, and with an appropriate address, presented him with a signet ring as an expression of their gratitude for the help he had given them in that and previous plays.

The receipts for Friday evening alone were $30. It is not known at this writing just how much was taken in last evening. They will give "Brother Josiah" at Salem this (Friday) evening.

SAD DEATH OF

MRS. H. SCHULTZ

Mrs. Harmon Schultz, aged thirty-one years, died suddenly at her home near Four Towns Saturday morning. She is survived by a husband and two little children, besides a host of friends to mourn the loss of a wife and mother.

The funeral was held from the home Monday. Rev. Stange of Farmington, officiating. Burial at Clarenceville.

Dr. Beebe-Ruth Jepson

He Banked in Trunk; Now is Out $3,000.

DETROIT.—Joseph Jarinbeck, a farmer who had moved to the city, was robbed last night of a trunk containing $3,250 in cash and a bank book showing deposits of a thousand dollars. After several hours search the police found the trunk and $250 of the money.

The recovered money was tied in the sleeve of a woman's waist and probably escaped the attention of the thieves.—New York City Globe.

Here At Home

Northville Citizens Gladly Testify and Confidently Recommend Doan's Kidney Pills.

It is testimony like the following that has placed Doan's Kidney Pills so far above competitors. When people fight here at home raise their voice in praise there is no room left for doubt. Read the public statement of a Northville citizen.

A. H. Piper, Center St., Northville, Mich., says: "I cannot say too much in praise of Doan's Kidney Pills. I had occasion to use this remedy about a year ago when I was suffering from a severe attack of kidney trouble. My back was so lame that I could hardly get around and if I sat down for a while, it was almost impossible for me to get up. When I stooped or lifted, sharp pains darted through me. The kidney secretions were highly colored, contained sediment and were painful in passage. The contents of three boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills, procured at Murdock Bros' Drug Store, completely cured me and I have been in good health since. I can certainly give this excellent preparation a strong endorsement."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-McBirn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Capt. H. A. Noble has negotiated for the Avery estate to H. H. Sadler of Detroit, the 60 acre farm corner of Rogers street and Fishery road, known as the Overton farm. Mr. Sadler will make extensive improvements eventually making it a model fruit farm.

One of the stenographers in our downtown district was kidnapped by a bold highwayman one day last week who started with her on one of the south bound cars. Fortunately she succeeded in making her escape near the glass factory so it wasn't the rest of our story.

N. I. Colt has purchased A. F. Stewart's house and lot on the Fishery road and will take immediate possession. A. F. will move his family into their new house on the corner of Cady street and First Avenue and George Johnston, who have been living there, will move into the house on Randolph street vacated by the Colts.

In a collision on the Ann Arbor and Jackson Interurban road Monday afternoon, Mrs. Ella Van Fassel of this place was seriously injured. She had one leg badly broken and her jaw injured. She was on her way home from Battle Creek where she had been transacting business. She was taken to the Homeopathic hospital at Ann Arbor where she is being well cared for. Her many friends here extend sympathy and hope for a speedy recovery.

The "All Stars" schedule is increasing rapidly and soon they will have every date booked for this summer. They are getting some of the fastest 17 and 18 year old teams in the city but with the help of R. Stimpson, H. Boyden, R. Johnson, C. Johnston and a big left hand pitcher from Milford by the name of Shelders, they are prepared to give them a hard tussle. They will have a base ball benefit dance in the rink in about two or three weeks and are planning on a good crowd of citizens to attend and help them along.

TAFT'S RECORD AGAINST TRUSTS

Sherman Law Enforced Without Fear or Favor.

EXCELS HIS PREDECESSORS

Both in Civil and Criminal Prosecution Taft Administration Breaks All Records—Legal Accomplishments of Five Presidents Compared.

TAFT'S ANTI-TRUST RECORD.

Under the last five administrations prosecutions under the Sherman anti-trust law have been brought as follows:

	Civil suits	Criminal suits	Total
Under Harrison (three years).....	4	3	7
Under Cleveland (four years).....	5	2	7
Under McKinley (four and one-half years).....	Three bills in equity.
Under Roosevelt (seven and one-half years).....	18	25	43
Under Taft (two years and eleven months).....	22	40	62

*One property seizure.
The ratio of prosecutions, allowing for length of time in office, of the Taft administration is compared with the records of its four immediate predecessors is approximately as follows:

Taft over Harrison.....	2 to 1
Taft over Cleveland.....	12 to 1
Taft over McKinley.....	30 to 1
Taft over Roosevelt.....	4 to 1

President Taft's administration has broken all records for prosecutions brought and won under the Sherman anti-trust law. Without fear or favor it has brought to the bar of justice corporations and persons engaging in illegal combinations in restraint of trade, the ultimate purpose of each combination being to create a monopoly and to raise the prices on its products. In two years and eleven months of his administration President Taft has caused to be brought four more civil suits and fifteen more criminal suits than Mr. Roosevelt brought in the seven and one-half years of his administration.

Until Mr. Taft became the president the administration of Mr. Taft even held the record in both particulars. This his President Taft, who was Mr. Roosevelt's right arm during his last administration, kept his place in the American police in England and in the United States in his predecessors in punishing the criminals and in the life of the nation in the big business of the country.

In the Republican national platform of 1908 a reference was made to the "prosecution of criminals and monopolies as one of the great accomplishments of the Roosevelt administration" and the platform declared that the Sherman anti-trust law had been a "wholesome instrument for good in the hands of a wise and fearless executive." In his speech of acceptance Mr. Taft pledged himself to the enforcement of this law and has kept his promise.

Problems confronting Taft.
Strand of controversy as to the exact meaning of certain language of the Sherman anti-trust act, the questions that had to be determined by those in high authority and those who judicially determine their acts were, first, how effective the law was to reach the great aggregations of formerly competitive producers and dealers, individual and corporate, who through intercorporate stockholding, mergers, consolidations and otherwise, had acquired so great a control over a particular line of industry as to enable them to dominate it and to exclude or admit competition as they might choose upon their own terms.

Secondly, to determine whether the construction of the law was correct which had been given to it by some of the judges of the circuit court in New York in the tobacco case and in the opinions of some of the justices of the supreme court in other cases to the effect that any combination which in any respect operated to restrain to any degree a pre-existing competition in interstate commerce was necessarily condemned by law.

In the three years of the Taft administration all of the sixteen cases left pending by the previous administration have been disposed of except two, which have been argued and submitted to the supreme court of the United States and are now awaiting decision. Of the remaining cases the Standard Oil case was argued early during the present administration and, after an appeal, decided entirely in favor of the government. The same was also true of the tobacco cases, with the ultimate result of the disintegration of that big trust into fourteen separate and distinct corporations. This, it is believed, will effectively prevent a continuance of the monopolistic conditions complained of.

Taft Anti-trust Record.

During the Taft administration up to February, 1912, twenty-two civil suits have been brought and forty criminal indictments found under the Sherman law, making in all sixty-two proceedings. As a result there were fifteen indictments and eleven of these in-

What House Committee Will See at West Point.

HARD BEDS IN BARE ROOMS

Simplicity and Discipline Carried to the Extreme in Quarters Where the Cadets Live—Further Economy Not Needed.

By GEORGE CLINTON.

Washington.—Most of the members of the house committee on military affairs soon will be designated to act as a board of visitors to the United States military academy to study the institution and to make recommendations for changes. It will be a case of civilians offering suggestions to the soldier superintendent and commandant. It is possible that Speaker Champ Clark may have membership on the visiting board.

Speaker Clark's mental picture of a cadet's room at the military academy probably includes a Turkish carpet, two divans, six rocking chairs, two mahogany tables, lambrequins and curtains, spring beds, hair mattresses, down pillows, hot and cold running water, a bathroom and a fountain playing perfume from revolve to taps and from taps to revolve.

The speaker was a poor boy, but when some cadet takes him into quarters and shows him the combined bedroom, washroom, sitting room and study room which the West Pointers use, the hardships of Mr. Clark's early life will seem like a dream of rose leaves.

Here's the way cadets live.

The speaker will be shown into a room with four bare walls, curtainless windows, rugless floors and tableclothless tables. If Mr. Clark be barefoot when he enters that room he will get splinters in his feet, but he won't get them dirty, for a speck of dirt on that bare floor would cost the cadet occupant of the room three days' liberty. There is a liberal coat of white wash on the walls of the rooms of the cadets at West Point. If a reckless cadet should hang a picture on the wall even though it were a picture of his dead mother, he'd be shut up a week in quarters and walk ten extra yard tours for introducing the "enervating influence of art into the life of the soldier."

If Speaker Clark should be inclined to examine the beds he will find that they are hard, that the mattress is about two inches thick and that the pillows in size are like unto that which the man in the vaudeville performance doing a Pullman sleeping car stunt pulls out of his ear after a long hunt in the berth. He may also notice that the cadet washstand is of pine dear at 50 cents; that his water pitcher is a bucket and that his combined drinking cup tooth mug and medicine glass is a gourd digger.

It is possible that the speaker will also notice that the two cadet occupants of the room have no chairs to offer visitors. They have one straight-backed affair each, so straight-backed, in fact, that the occupants can't lounge out of the position of a soldier if they desire.

There has been no let-up in the grip of the old iron hand of discipline and simplicity at West Point since the new barracks were built. There are still bare floors, whitewashed walls, hard beds, straight-backed chairs, wooden water buckets and gourd dippers. There is a chance to give the cadets the necessary number of cubic feet of air in the new quarters, with an opportunity to take a bath when the spirit moves.

After Mr. Clark has seen the boys sweep their own floors and fill their water buckets, and has watched them drill and work for sixteen hours out of the twenty-four, he probably will be in a mood to tell congress that economy is all right, but that it ought to begin somewhere else than at West Point. At any rate, if he doesn't say this to his colleagues there will be a disappointed lot of embryo United States army officers on the Hudson river fifty miles above New York city.

Romance of Everglades.

The matter of the reclamation of the Florida Everglades recently has been the subject of discussion in congress. However, there has been something favoring of stark trouble for the agricultural department in the affair.

Not all the darkness and the romance of the Everglades passed with the ending of the long wars with the Seminoles, who made that region their stronghold. Semi-wild men live in the recesses of the glades today, and tragedies still frequently mark the land. Game in abundance still finds a place from the hunter in the jungles, and at least two species of birds, the Carolina parakeet and the great ivory-billed woodpecker, extinct in all other parts of the United States have managed there to keep their race from extermination.

Defiance of Osceola.

The other tragedies of the Everglades, dark as they were, hold the most interest. It was on the edge of the jungle country that Osceola, the Seminole, when asked to sign a treaty with the whites by which the land was to be given up, drew his knife, and with his blade through the document of surrender, said: "There is my signature."

It has been said that it takes only one drop of red blood to make an American Indian. The Everglades furnished proof of the saying.

One of the witnesses of Osceola's act was a soldier of the army in whose veins there was a slight admixture of Indian blood. He was so stirred with admiration for Osceola's deed that he swore to himself that later he would aid the Seminoles' cause.

Major Francis L. Dade led an expedition into the Everglades against Osceola and his band. The soldier with the drop of Indian blood in his veins was chosen by Dade as a guide. The man led the command straight to an ambush, which was discovered, fortunately, just in time to save Dade and his men from annihilation.

There was a drumhead court-martial, and the guide was sentenced to be shot at sunrise. His last request was granted. He removed from his person the uniform of the United States army and put on leggings and hunting shirt of deer skin. He painted his face and said that he was ready to die, and as the shot of the execution squad were fired his voice rang with the death song of the Seminoles.

Massacre of Dade's Command.

Major Dade and his command escaped death on the day of the guide's treachery only to meet it later in the fastness of the Everglades. With one company of the famous old Fourth Infantry, and with the men of the two heavy batteries of artillery, Dade marched into a part of the Everglades where the country was comparatively open, to give battle to a Seminole chief named Micanopy. The guide of this expedition was a negro named Lewis, and like the former guide, he was a traitor. Lewis had sent word to Micanopy, telling the Seminole the trail by which he was to lead the whites.

Major Dade and his command reached a glade skirted by palm trees. The troops were in open order, marching carelessly along. Behind every palmetto lay a Seminole. The Indians outnumbered the soldiers three to one. The firing distance was less than forty yards when Micanopy shouted a signal and every Indian fired a shot. One-half of the unsuspecting troops fell at the first discharge. Dade was killed.

The soldiers had a light field piece with them, and by the use of cannon they scattered the savages and afterward they managed to build a barricade of logs. The Seminoles circled to the rear and picked off the whites one by one. When the last man had fallen the Indians closed in and despoiled the dead. One man, sorely wounded, awoke to consciousness after the Seminoles had left and found himself the only survivor of three companies of regulars. He managed to reach Fort King with the story of the Everglade fight that has passed into history as "Dade's Massacre."

Was Jones a Patriot or Hero?

In a few days there will be dedicated in this capital city a monument to the memory of John Paul Jones sea fighter. Recently in these articles something has been told of the trouble over the matter of securing a proper inscription for the base of the statue. It was also told how John Paul Jones' body is waiting for interment in a crypt in the Annapolis naval academy chapel. The president of the United States will deliver an address when the monument of Jones is unveiled in Potomac Park, and thousands of sailors and soldiers will be present when the commander-in-chief of the army and navy speaks his words of praise of him whom some historians call "the greatest sea fighter of them all."

Some day it may be known definitely whether America's first admiral fought for the infant republic from motives of pure patriotism or from the spur of ambition. He fought with nothing less than desperate courage for the cause which he had espoused, but there are those things in John Paul Jones' life which make it seem that he may have fought because of sheer love for fighting and because the immediate need of the struggling colonies gave opportunity for the acquiring of that need of individual glory which some men claim the soul of John Paul Jones craved.

Cooper's View of His Motives.

James Fenimore Cooper served in the United States navy. In common with his fellow sailors of the old oaken frigates he held in first place the honor the alien admiral who commanded the first vessel flying the American flag which compelled a ship or the supposedly invincible British navy to strike colors. Yet James Fenimore Cooper in that greatest of sea tales, "The Pilot," points John Paul Jones as a hero rather than as a patriot. At the close of the story Cooper puts into the mouth of one of his chief characters, a naval officer, these words touching the life and motives of John Paul Jones:

"His devotion to America proceeded from a desire for distinction, his ruling passion. His love for liberty may be the most questionable, for if he commenced his deeds in the cause of these free states, they terminated in the services of a despot."

"He is now dead, but had he lived in times and under circumstances when his consummate knowledge of his profession, his cool, deliberate and even desperate courage could have been exercised in a regular and well supported navy, and had the habits of his youth better qualified him to have borne meekly the honors he acquired in his age, he would have left behind him no name in its lists that would have descended to the latest posterity of his adopted countrymen with great renown."

For a Fact.

"That crazy Irishman mixed the drinks with whisky instead of Holland gin."

"Well, that beats the Dutch!"

125,000 AMERICANS GO TO CANADA IN 1911.

THE YEAR 1912 WILL SHOW A GREAT INCREASE.

In a report of the House Committee (Washington) appears the following: "Canada offers a three-year homestead upon good land, easily reclaimed and cultivated, with six months' leave of absence each year and most lenient regulations."

All of which is true and it is now the part of the careful reader to consider the opportunities that exist in Western Canada which, in addition to the above, are attractive features. The evidence of these is found in the letters contributed by some of the settlers. For instance: A former Minnesotan, writing from Warner, Southern Alberta, speaks of that district, but what he says, applies generally to all of Southern Alberta. He says:

"I have seen six crops, four of them were first class, one of them a very good crop, and the other a poor crop. Government statistics for the last fifteen years show that this country has averaged about fifteen or sixteen inches of moisture. In 1910 there was only seven inches, and in 1911 twenty-two inches. The 1909 crop was about as good as I have seen in this country, and we had about twelve inches of moisture, so that I am thoroughly convinced that with normal conditions, that is, from twelve to fifteen inches of moisture, and with the natural increase of population and immigration, that Southern Alberta will be one of the very best mixed farming districts in the world. We have good soil, good water, and a good climate, and altogether just as desirable a country to live in as Dakota, Minnesota, Iowa, or Wisconsin."

Hundreds of letters are on file from former American settlers, which give good reasons why the Western Canada lands are being settled so rapidly. Full particulars can be had of any Canadian Government Agent, who will furnish literature and give low rate certificates. Excursions are being run daily.

A Believer.

Gifford Pinchot, at his brother's house, in Park avenue, New York, has been quoted to a political story that was being submitted to him for verification by a popular reporter.

"When the reporter finished his narrative Mr. Pinchot laughed and said: 'I'll reply to that as the old Italian peasant replied to the statement that his fellow countryman loved birds too well over to eat them:'

"Well, I don't mind believing that myself," the old man said, "but there's a good many who wouldn't."

Markswomanship.

"I am afraid those militant suffragettes are going to give us serious trouble," said one London politician. "They mean business."

"Why do you think so?" inquired the other.

"A lot of them have quit giving parades and making speeches and are practicing with pistols and baseballs."

What She Wanted.

Before the fire on Christmas Eve, two old maids were planning for the holiday.

"Sister Mattie," said the younger, "would a long stocking hold all you want for a Christmas gift?"

"No, I'll give," said the older, "but a pair of socks would."

Wine Again.

The International Pure Food Show held in Paris March 1912 has just awarded Calumet Baking Powder the highest honors, giving them the Grand Prize and Gold Medal.

This, in addition to the Highest Award that Calumet won at the World's Pure Food Exposition in Chicago, gives Calumet the highest honors issued by two of the largest Pure Food Shows ever held and proves conclusively the superior wholesomeness, purity and uniformity of Calumet Baking Powder.

Letters from Prominent Physicians addressed to Chas. H. Fletcher.

Dr. Albert W. Kahl, of Buffalo, N. Y., says: "I have used Castoria in my practice for the past 26 years. I regard it as an excellent medicine for children."

Dr. Gustave A. Eisengraber, of St. Paul, Minn., says: "I have used your Castoria repeatedly in my practice with good results, and can recommend it as an excellent, mild and harmless remedy for children."

Dr. E. J. Dennis, of St. Louis, Mo., says: "I have used and prescribed your Castoria in my sanitarium and outside practice for a number of years and find it to be an excellent remedy for children."

Dr. S. A. Buchanan, of Philadelphia, Pa., says: "I have used your Castoria in the case of my own baby and find it pleasant to take, and have obtained excellent results from its use."

Dr. J. E. Simpson, of Chicago, Ill., says: "I have used your Castoria in cases of colic in children and have found it the best medicine of its kind on the market."

Dr. R. E. Eskildson, of Omaha, Neb., says: "I find your Castoria to be a standard family remedy. It is the best thing for infants and children I have ever known and I recommend it."

Dr. L. R. Robinson, of Kansas City, Mo., says: "Your Castoria certainly has merit. It is not its age, its continued use by mothers through all these years, and the many attempts to imitate it, sufficient recommendation? What can a physician add? Leave it to the mothers."

Dr. Edwin F. Pardee, of New York City, says: "For several years I have recommended your Castoria and shall always continue to do so, as it has invariably produced beneficial results."

Dr. N. B. Sizer, of Brooklyn, N. Y., says: "I object to what are called patent medicines, where maker alone knows what ingredients are put in them, but I know the formula of your Castoria and advise its use."

There Are Reasons—Good Reasons, Why You Should Buy

Rouge Rex Shoes

First. They are economical—not cheap, mind you—but economical in that they give more real wearing service to the dollar than any other make of shoes.

Second. They are comfortable. It is not necessary in order that a shoe give service that it be made of stiff, hard leather that irritates and blisters the foot, and that cannot be made over respectable looking lasts. The leather in our work shoes is as soft and pliable as buckskin, but tough as wrought iron. And ROUGE REX SHOES—V.C. They please from the day they are first put on until they are worn out.

Look for the above trade-mark in colors on your dealer's shelves, and when you find it, ask to see the shoes. Note the mark well—an Indian head on a skin. COOPERATING FOR THE BONES MODEL'S COMFORT

Perhaps you'd contend that the old order is overthrown, that family has gone to the devil? You are right, and there's the pity of it! The social fabric is tottering—I can see it totter—and he tottered himself as he said this.

"Well, I'm an old man—the spectacle won't long offend me. I'll die presently." He was so profoundly moved by the thought that he could not go on. His voice broke, and he buried his face in his arms. A sympathetic moisture had gathered in the child's eyes. He slipped from his chair and stole to the judge's side.

"I'm mighty sorry you're going to die."

"Bless you, Hannibal!" cried the judge, looking wonderfully cheerful, despite his recent bitterness of spirit. "I'm not experiencing any of the pangs of mortality now. My dissolution ain't a matter of tonight or tomorrow—there's some life in Slouman Price yet, for all that."

"Oh, be reasonable, Solomon! You'd gove' down to the steamboat landing," said the judge plaintively. By way of answer, Mahaffy shot him a contemptuous glance. "Take a chair
—do, Solomon!" retorted the judge.
"When did I ever sneak a jug into my shanty?" asked Mahaffy sternly, evidently conscious of entire rectitude in this matter.
"I deplore your choice of words,
Solomon," said the judge. "You know damn well that if you'd been here, I couldn't have got past your place with that jug! But let's deal with conditions: Here's the jug, with some liquor left in it—here's a glass. Now what more do you want?"
Mr. Mahaffy drew near the table.
"Sit down," urged the judge.
"I hope you feel mean?" said Mahaffy.
"If it's any satisfaction to you, I do," said the judge.

"They were like this once before," he said darkly. But at that instant the shuck tick rattled noisily at some movement of the sleeping boy. Mahaffy quitted his chair, and crossing the room, drew the quilt aside. A glance sufficed to assure him that in port, at least, the judge spoke the truth.

There was a hoot-beat on the road. It came nearer and nearer, and presently sounded just beyond the door. Then it ceased, and a voice said:

"Hullo, there!" The judge scrambled to his feet, and taking up the candle, staggered into the yard. Mahaffy followed him.

"What's wanted?" asked the judge holding his candle aloft. The light
