GREAT DOIN'S HERE JULY 1TH

EVERYTHING PLANNED FOR A GRAND TIME

Don't Fail to Come to Northville to Celebrate

Next week Thursday promises to be the big day for Northville. Every thing is in readiness to pull off a real Fourth of July stunt, minus the fireworks. There has already been a large number of entries received for the horse races which will consist of four events, purses of $40, $25, $25, and $10, respectively, being hung up. The bell rings for the start at 1:30 p. m.

An Automobile parade of twenty or thirty decorated cars, promises to be an interesting feature. The parade will start from the High school building at 10 a. m. followed by a slow race for autos around the race track. Two red hot ball games are promised, the "Iron Clads" of Detroit vs. the "Circle N's." The time for these snuggling matches to break forth will be 2:30 a. m. and 3:30 p. m.

The Northville Band will dish up all its choice music during the whole day, and in the evening those who are not already too tired to get out can obtain still more exercise at the dance in the rink.

The King's Daughters will observe on this occasion, their annual tag day. They desire every one to have any where from ten cents to a silver dollar ready to donate to their cause, when approached by the ladies of the society wearing the purple badge.

Blue Ribbon Races.

Trotters and pacers in training never have shown as much vitality during the waning days of this long and trying preparation as they are at this time. Generally the last of June brings from all of the big tracks, where the famous drivers are engaged, reports of all star horses. This year the physical condition of the campaigners is excellent; few are on the hospital list from lameness, and all seem to have unusual vigor and speed.

This condition foretells large fields and exceptional contests for Detroit's annual midsummer carnival of speed, the Blue Ribbon races, which this year will be held from July 22 to 26. The entry in the stakes was the largest in the history of the club and the percentage of horses on which third payments have been made also is the greatest, so the racing of these and other events on the program should produce sport of the sparkling sort.

While the Merchants' & Manufacturers' and Chamber of Commerce stakes are the center of attraction, for they stand unrivalled on the tight harness turf, the program for the Blue Ribbon meeting is such that every day may be spoken of as a big day. There are from two to three star races for each of the five afternoons, therefore if a person is unable to be in Detroit on one day he will see just as good racing on another. This is a convenience to the people in the state who make an annual pilgrimage to the Detroit meeting, and from the hotel reservations the number of visitors will be enormous. Signs of the times point to this as the banner year for the sport of the sulky and the Detroit Driving Club may be relied upon to maintain the standard which has made the Blue Ribbon races world famous.

Wade-Wilkinson.

Miss Gertrude Wilkinson was united in marriage to Franklin Wade of Pontiac at the home of the bride in Beaitown Wednesday evening. The ceremony was performed in the presence of about one hundred friends and relatives, by the Rev. R. M. Pierce.

Frank Clark of Pontiac was best man and a niece of the bride, Helen Wilkinson, was maid of honor. The ribbon bearers were little Fay Wilkinson of Detroit and Mildred Wade of Pontiac. The ring was carried by little Marjorie Wilkinson of Detroit.

The wedding march was played by Guy Filkins with violin accompaniment by Francis Wilkinson and Mrs. C. A. Dolph sang "O Promise Me" during the ceremony.

The bride and groom will be at home to their friends after August 1st at 35 Liberty street, Pontiac.

Fisk-Huffkey.

Harry E. Fisk of Cincinnati, O., and Miss Stella Huffkey of Plymouth were married at the Baptist parsonage Saturday evening by the Rev. T. J. Murdoch. They will make their home in Cincinnati.

Make Autos Pay The Tax.

Secretary of State Fred G. Martin dale, candidate for governor of Michigan, advocates a policy of more good better highways. "The state should maintain a good roads fund that would be sufficient to provide excellent roads," says Mr. Martindale. "One of the suggestions that I would make in that connection is that the automobile tax that now goes into the general fund be diverted to the good roads fund. The tax is $3 a car. There are from 40,000 to 50,000 cars in Michigan, which makes the total tax return $150,000.

"But my suggestion in regard to automobiles goes further than this. According to my idea on the subject the automobiles in the state should be exempt from local taxation and provision made to substitute a higher state tax on each car. A tax of $15 or $20 would not meet with any opposition on the part of car owners, and would make the amount available for the improvement of highways one million dollars."

BASEBALL CLEAN-UP IN OPENING GAME

"CIRCLE N'S" PUT IT ALL OVER 'EM AS USUAL

This Time It Was the "Independents" of Detroit.

The "Independents" of Detroit came out to this village Saturday afternoon for a game of base ball. Weather they were a newly organized team or lacked practice is not known, but there was something wrong. They couldn't do much against our boys, who were in fine form.

Shelton of Milford did his usual good stunt at pitching and Riley caught until the first of the ninth when he hurt his finger so badly that he was unable to play. Hamilton of West Nov took his place behind the bat. Up to the first of this last inning the score stood 16 to 0—eight of the runs being made in the first inning—with Northville ahead. Now, by a desperate effort, the Independents managed to squeeze in two runs and so went home with somewhat brighter faces, although things looked pretty cloudy in general.

There was only a small crowd of fans at this, the opening game of the season for the Circle N's, due probably to the lack of advertising, as the boys were unable to promise a game for lack of suits. However they were sent out by special messenger just in time for the game. Perhaps the new suits was the cause of the extra good plays our boys made, anyway they made their opening game a fine foundation for the rest of the season. Here's to more of them!

Notice of Dissolution of Partnership.

Notice is hereby given that the partnership heretofore existing between R. A. Grant and O. T. Rudduck, under the firm name of Grant & Rudduck, of Northville, Wayne county, Michigan, is hereby dissolved by mutual consent on this 24th day of June, 1912. William H. Cattermole has taken over the entire business and all accounts that are due and that may become due are payable to him.

(Signed) Grant & Rudduck.
R. A. GRANT,
O. T. RUDDUCK

To Auto Owners.

Auto Owners who will decorate and take part in the auto parade starting from the school house at 10:00 a. m. July 4, please leave word at the Record Office or Schrader's store at once.

Many times a few cents spent for a Record Want Ad will bring as many dollars in return.

SALEM NEWS.

SYNOPSIS.

The scene at the opening of the story is laid in the library of an old-world southern plantation, known as the "Barony." The place is to be sold, and the Quinzada, the subject of discussion by Jonathan Crenshaw, a business man, a stranger known as Bladen, and Bob Yancy, a farmer, when Hannibal Wayne Hazard, a mysterious child of the old southern family, makes his appearance. Yancy tells how he adopted the boy, Nathaniel Feltz, says the Barony, but the Quinzadas deny any knowledge of the boy. Yancy goes to see Hannibal, Captain Murrell, a friend of the Quinzadas, appears and asks questions about the Barony. Trouble at Scratch Hill, when Hannibal is kidnapped by Dave Blount, Captain Murrell's agent, Yancy makes Blount give him a guarantee and secures the boy. Yancy appears before Squire Bladen and is charged with costs for the plaintiff, Betty Murray, a friend of the Quinzadas, has an encounter with Captain Murrell, who forces his attentions on her and is rescued by Judge Carrington. Betty sets out for her Tennessee home. Carrington takes the same stage. Yancy and Hannibal disappear with Murrell on their trail. Bladen arrives at Judge Carrington's home. Carrington family on raft rescue Yancy, who is apparently dead. Price breaks jail. Betty and Carrington arrive at Belle Plain. Hannibal's rifle discovers some startling things to the judge. Hannibal and Betty meet again. Murrell arrives in Belle Plain. He is playing for big stakes. Yancy attacks from along dreamless sleep on board the raft. Judge Price makes startling discoveries in looking up land titles. Charley Norton, a young planter, who assists the judge, is mysteriously assaulted. Norton informs Carrington that Betty has promised to marry him. Norton is mysteriously shot. Murrell is mysteriously shot. He is uprisings of negroes. Judge Price, with Hannibal, visits Betty, and she keeps the boy as a companion. In a stroke Betty, with Hannibal, they meet Bess Hicks, daughter of the overseer, who wants Betty of danger and counsels her to leave Belle Plain. Once Betty, left, acts on Bess' advice, and on their way their carriage is stopped by Blossom, the tavern keeper, and a confederate, and Betty and Hannibal are made prisoners.

CHAPTER XIX (Continued).

As they stumbled forward through the thick obscurity he continued his personal revelations, the present enterprise having roused whatever there was of sentiment slumbering in his soul. At last they came out on a wide bayou; a white mist hung above it, and on the low shore leaf and branch were dripping with the night dews. Keeping close to the water's edge Slosson led the way to a point where a skiff was drawn up on the bank.

"Step in, ma'am," he said, when he had launched it.

"I will go no farther!" said Betty in desperation. She felt an overwhelming fear, the full horror of the unknown lay hold of her, and she gave a piercing cry for help. Slosson swung about on his heel and seized her for a moment she struggled to escape, but the man's big hand plucked her. "No more of that!" he warned, then he recovered himself and laughed. "You could yell till you was black in the face, ma'am, and there'd be no one to hear you."

"Where are you taking me?" and Betty's voice faltered met the sudden sobs that choked her.

"Just across to George Hicks's."

"For what purpose?"

"You'll know in plenty of time."

And Slosson leered at her through the darkness.

"Hannibal is to go with me?" asked Betty tremulously.

"Sure!" agreed Slosson affably. "Your nigger, too—quite a party."

Betty stepped into the skiff. She felt her hopes quicken—she was thinking of Bess; whatever the girl's motives, she had wished her to escape. She would wish it now more than ever since the very thing she had striven to prevent had happened. Slosson seated himself and took up the oars. Bunker followed with Hannibal and they pushed off. No word was spoken until they disembarked on the opposite shore, when Slosson addressed Bunker.

"I reckon I can manage that young rip-staver; you go back after Sherrod and the nigger," he said.

He conducted his captives up the bank and they entered a clearing. Looking across this Betty saw where a cabin window framed a single square of light. They advanced toward this and presently the dark outline of the cabin itself became distinguishable. A moment later Slosson paused, a door yielded to his hand, and Betty and the boy were thrust into the room where Murrell had held his conference with Fentress and Ware. The two women were now its only occupants, and the mother, gross and shapeless, turned an expressionless face on the intruders; but the daughter shrank into the shadow, her burning glance fixed on Betty.

"Here's yo' guests, old lady!" said Mr. Slosson. Mrs. Hicks rose from the three-legged stool on which she was sitting.

"Hand me the candle, Bess," she ordered.

At one side of the room was a steep flight of stairs which gave access to the loft overhead. Mrs. Hicks, by a gesture, signified that Betty and Hannibal were to ascend these stairs; they did so, and found themselves on a narrow landing enclosed by a partition of rough planks; this partition was pierced by a low door. Mrs. Hicks, who had followed close at their heels, handed the candle to Betty.

"Here's Yo' Guests, Old Woman!"

"In yonder!" she said briefly, nodding toward the door.

"Wait!" cried Betty in a whisper.

"No," said the woman with an almost masculine surliness of tone. "I got nothing to say." She pushed them into the attic, and, closing the door, fastened it with a stout wooden bar.

Beyond that door, which seemed to have closed on every hope, Betty held the tallow dip aloft, and by its uncertain and flickering light surveyed her prison. The briefest glance sufficed.

The room contained two snake-down beds and a stool; there was a window in the gable, but a piece of heavy plank was spiked before it.

"Miss Betty, don't you be scared," whispered Hannibal. "When the judge hears we're gone, him and Mr. Mahaffy will try to find us. They'll go right off to Belle Plain—the judge is always wanting to do that, only Mr. Mahaffy never lets him—but now he won't be able to stop him."

"Oh, Hannibal, Hannibal, what can he do there—what can any one do there?" And a dead pallor overspread the girl's face. To speak of the blind groping of her friends but served to fix the horror of their situation in her mind.

"I don't know, Miss Betty; but the judge is always thinking of things to do; seems like they was mostly things no one else would ever think of."

Betty had placed the candle on the stool and seated herself on one of the beds. There was the murmur of voices in the room below; she wondered if her fate was under consideration and what that fate was to be. Hannibal, who had been examining the window, returned to her side.

"Miss Betty, if we could just get out of this lot we could steal their skiff and row down to the river; I reckon they got just the one boat; the only way they could get to us would be to swim out, and if they done that we could pound 'em over the head with the oars—the least little little sink you when you're in the water." But this murderous fancy of his failed to interest Betty.

Presently they heard Sherrod and Bunker come up from the shore with George. Slosson joined them and there was a brief discussion, then an interval of silence, and the sound of voices again as the three white men moved back across the field in the direction of the bayou. There succeeded a period of utter stillness, both in the cabin and in the clearing, a somber hush that plunged Betty yet deeper in despair. With thoughts assailed her thoughts against which she struggled with all the strength of her will.

In that hour of stress Hannibal was sustained by his faith in the judge. He saw his patron's powerful and picturesque intelligence applied to solving the mystery of their disappearance from Belle Plain; it was inconceivable that this could prove otherwise than disastrous to Mr. Bladen, and he endeavored to share the confidence he was feeling with Betty, but there was something so forced and unnatural in the girl's voice and manner when she discussed his conjectures that he quickly fell to an awed silence. At last, and it must have been some time after midnight, troubled slumbers claimed him. No moment of forgetfulness came to Betty. She was waiting for what—she did not know! The candle burnt lower and lower and finally went out and she was left in darkness, but again she was conscious of sounds from the room below. At first it was only a word or a sentence, then the guarded speech became a steady monotone that ran deep into the night. Eventually this ceased and Betty fancied she heard sobs.

CHAPTER XX.

Murrell Shows His Hand.

At length points of light began to show through chinks in the logs. Hannibal roused and sat up, rubbing his eyes with the backs of his hands.

"Wasn't you able to sleep none?" he inquired. Betty shook her head. He looked at her with an expression of troubled concern. "How soon do you reckon the judge will know?" he asked.

"Very soon now, dear," Hannibal was greatly consoled by this opinion.

"Miss Betty, he will love to find us."

"Hark! What was that?" for Betty had caught the distant splash of oars. Hannibal found a chink in the logs through which by dint of much squinting he secured a partial view of the bayou.

"They're fetching up a keel boat to the shore, Miss Betty—it's a whooper!" he announced. Betty's heart sank; she never doubted the purpose for which that boat was brought into the bayou, but that it nearly concerned herself.

Half an hour later Mrs. Hicks appeared with their breakfast. It was in vain that Betty attempted to engage her in conversation. Either she cherished some personal feeling of dislike for her prisoner, or else the situation in which she herself was placed had little to recommend it even to her dull mind, and her dissatisfaction was expressed in her attitude toward the girl.

Betty passed the long hours of morning in dreary speculation concerning what was happening at Belle Plain. In the end she realized that the day could go by and her absence occasion no alarm. Steve might reasonably suppose George had driven her into Raleigh or to the Bowens, and that she had kept the carriage. Finally all her hope centered on Judge Price. He would expect Hannibal during the morning; perhaps when the boy did not arrive he would be tempted to go out to Belle Plain to discover the reason of his non-appearance. She wondered what theories would offer themselves to his ingenious mind, for she sensed something of that indomitable energy which in the face of rebuffs and laughter carried him into the thick of every sensation.

At noon Mrs. Hicks, as silent as in the morning, brought them their dinner. She had scarcely quitted the loft when a shrill whistle pierced the silence that hung above the clearing. It was twice repeated, and the two women were heard to go from the cabin. Perhaps half an hour elapsed, then a step became audible on the packed earth of the dooryard. "Some one entered the room below and began to ascend the narrow stairs, and Betty's fingers closed convulsively about Hannibal's. This was neither Mrs. Hicks nor her daughter, nor Slosson with his clumsy shuffle. There was a brief pause when the landing was reached, but it was only momentary, a hand lifted the bar, the door was thrown open, and its space framed the figure of a man. It was John Murrell.

Standing there he regarded Betty in silence, but a deep-seated fire glowed in his sunken eyes. The sense of possession was raging through him, his temples throbbed, a fever stirred his blood. Love, such as it was, he undoubtedly felt for her, and even his giant project, with all its monstrous ramifications, was lost sight of for the moment. She was the inspiration for it all, the goal and reward for which he struggled.

"Betty!" the single word fell softly from his lips. He stepped into the room, closing the door as he did so.

The girl's eyes were dilating with a little horror, for by some swift, intuitive process of the mind, which asked nothing of the logic of events, but dealt only with conclusions, Murrell stood revealed as Norton's murderer. Perhaps he read her thoughts, but he had lived in his degenerate ambitions until the common judgments or the understanding of them no longer existed for him. That Betty had loved Norton seemed inconsequential even, it was a memory to be swept away by the force of his greater passion. So he watched her smilingly, but back of the smile was the menace of unleashed impulses.

"Can't you find some word of welcome for me, Betty?" he asked at length, still softly, still with something of entreaty in his tone.

"Then it was you—not Tom—who had me brought here?" She could have thanked God had it been Tom, whose hate was not to be feared as she feared this man's love.

"Tom—no!" and Murrell laughed. "You didn't think I'd give you up? I am standing with a halter about my neck, and all for your sake—who's risk as much for love of you?" He seemed to expand with savage pride that this was so, and took a step toward her.

"Don't come near me!" cried Betty. Her eyes blazed, and she looked at him with loathing.

"You'll learn to be kinder," he exulted. "You wouldn't see me at Belle Plain; what was left for me but to have you brought here?"

While Murrell was speaking the signal that had told of his own presence on the opposite shore of the bayou was heard again. This served to arrest his attention. A look of uncertainty passed over his face, then he made an impatient gesture as if he dismissed some thought that had forced itself upon him, and turned to Betty.

"You don't ask what my purpose is where you are concerned; you have no curiosity on that score?" She endeavored to meet his glance with a glance as resolute, then her eyes sought the boy's upturned face. "I am going to send you down river, Betty. Later I shall join you in New Orleans, and when I leave the country you shall go with me."

"Never!" gasped Betty.

"As my wife, or however you choose to call it. I'll teach you what a man's love is like," he boasted, and extended his hand. Betty shrank from him, and his hand fell at his side. He looked at her steadily out of his deep-sunk eyes, in which blazed the fires of his passion, and as he looked, her face paled and flushed by turns. "You may learn to be kind to me, Betty," he said. "You may find it will be worth your while." Betty made no answer; she only gathered Hannibal closer to her side. "Why not accept what I have to offer, Betty?" Again he went nearer her, and again she shrank from him, but the madness of his mood was in the ascendant. He seized her and drew her to him. She struggled to free herself, but his fingers tightened about her.

Above the Law.

Some men think money can do anything. A certain rich man sent for the doctor who looked him over and then pronounced judgment.

"You have been living too high."

"Maybe I have. There are many good things in the markets."

"No levity. You have violated nature's laws."

"And you must pay the penalty."

"Pay the penalty? Oh, come now, Doc. Can't you get me off on a technicality or something?"

Natural Query.

Gen. E. D. Grant, when discussing military neatness, used often to tell a story about his father:

"My father was talking to General Sherman in his tent one day, and he would begin, 'when a third general entered, a brigadier notorious for his slovenliness. After the brigadier left my father blew forth a cloud of smoke and said: 'Sherman, I wonder whom that man gets to wear his shirts the first week?'"

The Paxton Toilet Co. of Boston, Mass., will send a large trial box or Paxtine Antiseptic, a delightful cleansing and germicidal toilet preparation, to any woman, free, upon request.

The Villages Cut-Up.

"Charley Bulloughs always has something funny to say, no matter what happens."

"I know it. He's awfully comical."

"Listen wonder how he thinks of the humorous thoughts he has. He's just perfectly killing. I never heard him call an umbrella anything but a humbershoot."

Liquid blue is a weak solution. Avoid it. Buy Red Cross Ball Blue, the blue that's all blue. Ask your grocer.

Talk is so cheap that barbers are now giving it free with each shave.

Didn't Know What It Was.

Senator Duncan U. Fletcher was condemning at a dinner in Jacksonville an orange grower who had failed.

"The man failed," he said, through ignorance. He lays the blame on other things, but his ignorance alone is at fault. He is as ignorant of orange farming as the tramp was of industry.

"You've heard of that tramp, perhaps. He wore on his face a sheer of derision and scorn."

"Work?" he said. "Work? What is it—an herb?"

The Lesser Half.

Henpecked Husband—is my wife going out, Doc?"

Dora—Yes, sir.

Henpecked Husband—Do you know if I am going with her?

A Changed Man.

Mrs. Knags—You were a different man when I married you.

Mr. Knags—I sincerely hope so, for then I was a fool.

No thoughtful person uses liquid blue. It's a pinch of blue in a large bowl of water. Ask for Red Cross Ball Blue, the blue that's all blue.

NORTHVILLE, MICH., JUNE 28, 1912

THE CHICAGO CONVENTION.

In the excitement and hungry greed for office-holding and job getting many people are apt to get the new so-called "progressive party" idea mixed and in their confusion really think the people are clamoring for a new party instead of clamoring for Theodore Roosevelt. It's Roosevelt the people want and are crazy about and not party or principles. They would have been just as crazy for Roosevelt as a stand patter, a socialist, a democrat, a reactionary, a somnambulist or bareback rider. Teddy is popular and it is Teddy the crowd is yelling about. But what of the future? Suppose that Teddy should win out on a new ticket. Who next? There will be no Teddy in 1916 to see the people mad. Don't forget that in the excitement of the people that are hollering—and lord knows there's a lot of them, big men and honest men and good men too—but as we said, or were about to say rather, if those who don't like Taft and want to defeat him, why not vote the democratic ticket. The democrats won't ruin the country in four years if they win.

If Taft is to be beaten let's fight it out squarely like men. It would be much more creditable for the republican party to be beaten by the democratic party than for republicans to call republicans liars, thieves, black legs, platers and other "pet names" for the next four months. The Roosevelt crowd was beaten at Chicago. Benton is a fair and square fight—that is a fair, square political fight. The political game is like all other games excepting these ball games and the only way to win is to play the game. We are exactly on the level and you will occasionally notice in the news papers that something is wrong, even there go wrong. But the political game is 10-0 WIN. That's why California passed a primary law so the voters could get the delegates. That's why Massachusetts passed a primary law—so that Taft could get the delegates. Both won Roosevelt had the same national committeemen replying his "steam roller" at Chicago four years ago, to wit 1908, when he nominated William Howard Taft, but he Teddy made the mistake of leaving the fender lying around Chicago when he got through with it. He ought to have taken it down to Oyster Bay with him and chopped it up into kindling wood or else have sold it to John Haggerty to be used in building good roads in Wayne county.

However, Teddy isn't a good loser and the copy books all say "everybody loves a good loser." Teddy is bound to lick somebody. He's a fighter, always remember that and he has a big crowd with him just now. He's popular—everybody admits it, but there's no use keeping excited over it. Taft is nominated. If you don't like that, when you go to the polls next November vote for the democratic, the prohibitionist or the socialist candidate. You will save the country just the same. In the mean time don't get excited over the new party. There isn't any war on now and the dove of peace and prosperity is hovering all over this country of ours in such huge chunks that you have to dodge to keep from being smothered or run over.

A lot of Detroit politicians are now worrying because of the fear of not being able to ride into office again on Roosevelt's kite. They don't really care who is president so long as he helps get out a big enough vote to land them their job for two or four years longer.

If the new progressive party that is now being born in the incubator stir up any more progress in this country everybody will have to quit business, because of the lack of help.

Beats all how many thieves, liars, thugs and bigwigs there are in the United States. Last week they were all at Chicago and this week Baltimore is full of them.

MISS NANNIE BENTON DIED THURSDAY

Miss Nannie Benton died at her home on Center street late Thursday evening. The funeral arrangements have not yet been completed.

Miss Benton, who was thirty-four years old, had lived in Northville all her life. She clerked in White's dry goods store for some years, where many people came to know and love her for her pleasant disposition and upright character. She was engaged to be married to Herbert Lowe of this place, who was killed in a street car accident last September. From that time on Miss Benton's health failed, until in November, she was forced to take to her bed where she has been confined most of the time since.

Mrs. Ursula Benton, mother of the deceased, receives the heartfelt sympathy of Northville people to her sad bereavement.

Guided the Nation Safely.

William H. Taft has, in reality, been a most radical president. His accomplishments with railway rates and workmen's compensation, his tax upon corporations, his prosecutions under the Sherman law, have made up a program of reform not equalled in any four years of recent history. He has made many blunders, but has guided the nation safely through four years of unrest and uncertainty, a condition that prevails throughout the world. He has kept peace with insurrections, both in Mexico and Cuba. His mistakes have injured him rather than his country. Whatever his fate within ten years he will be blessed for holding the belief that a constitution that has done good service for 123 years, is not yet antiquated.—Pontiac Press Gazette.

"BUFFALO BILL'S" BIG SHOW With Great Scenic Effects.

With a newly arranged arena and tent palatial to represent towering mountain scenery, the Buffalo Bill Wild West and Pawnee Bill Far East, Combined, will exhibit in Detroit, July 8th and exhibition rates have already been arranged with the various railroads to carry visitors to that point, where several novel and appropriate features will give the onlooker an agreeable surprise. The roster of the World's Roughriders will have additions to cover every style of equestrianism that the pulling of the unfettered most famed in the art can offer, from the Arab and Indian to the most finished four-legged graduate in Hunt Circle.

Max Gruber's greatest of all trained elephants, "Minnie," in a succession of surprising feats with horse, pony, dog, man and lady, is something new a revelation in animal intelligence, the group of Russian peasant dancers (first appearance); the prize-winning six horse team of dapple gray in action, driven by the maharajah of the rhinos, "Bully" Wales, in contrast to the old time horse, mule and ox teams and prairie schooners.

Gave Name to All.

"The Bridge of the Seas" is the striking name which Pindar gives to the narrow isthmus which separated the Gulf of Corinth from the Aegean sea. It is one of the most interesting strips of soil on the five continents. It is the isthmus of all the world; for from its Greek name Isthmia, every other isthmus has been named.

Mrs. George Brown, Northville, Mich., says: "I cannot say too much in praise of Doan's Kidney Pills. For almost a year I suffered from kidney complaint. I had acute pains across my back and hips and the kidney secretions were unnatural, showing that my kidneys were disordered. Often at night the muscles in my back contracted and the pain was so terrible that I was obliged to get up and walk the floor. I had often heard about Doan's Kidney Pills and finally I had my husband procure a supply at Murdoch Bros. Drug Store. They soon brought relief and I continued taking them until my condition had improved in every way. I heartily recommend Doan's Kidney Pills to other sufferers from kidney complaint."

For sale by all dealers. Price, 50 cents. Foster-McMillan Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Through The Loan

Associations of Michigan, about fifteen thousand members, are paying for their homes. If you are fortunate enough to be one of them you know in what a simple, easy, satisfactory manner you are coming into possession of that which you started out to acquire—your home.

How the small payments, scarcely noticeable, are made from week to week. With each payment your stock is increasing in value, the indebtedness being reduced; and soon, before you realize it, comes the time you have been looking forward to, the day when, free and clear you are—

Own Your Home

It is easier to pay a dollar a week for 52 weeks than $52 at the end of the year. That is the beauty of the Loan method.

A METHOD THAT IS HITTING FOUR ALL THE TIME.

One dollar a week is the payment required on a $400 loan from the Association. Looks easy to make. On the other hand if you pay $52 at the end of the year you have got to save on the average of $1 each week. But will you? The only sure way is to join the Association and then when the day for payment comes you won't look as though you had your pancakes for breakfast.

DAY OF OLD GLORY

A WARNING TO BOYS

Young Johnny Winters, strong and well,
Went out to celebrate the day,
A cannon cracker in his hand,
His heart attuned to fun and play!

He set the cracker up on end
And lit the fuse, as you have done;
Then as it sputtered, sparked and spat,
Young Johnny left it on the run!

Excitedly he turned about
And waited, with his chums, the noise!
"It's fizzled!" then said careless John,
"I'll take a look," he told the boys.

Above the powder stick he bent—
The air was filled with ripping sound!
The boys rushed up with awestruck eyes
To Johnny, lying on the ground!

He lay upon the cheerless sod,
His face all marred with bloody
chairs—
And all through life the boy must wear
The cannon cracker's awful scars!

Take warning, boys, from Johnny's
fate
And do not harm your eyes or face.
Be patriotic, brave and true
But spurn the things that hurt the race!

The Sage of Monticello

It was at Monticello that Jefferson prepared the draught of instructions for Virginia's delegation to the congress which met at Philadelphia. His activity in the cause of the colonies brought him into special disfavor with the British and it was planned to capture Jefferson at Monticello through Tarleton's raiders. Jefferson was warned that the enemy was coming to Monticello, and he sent his family away, and he himself escaped on the former president, the purchaser of Louisiana, the chastiser of the Barbary pirates, the founder of the University of Virginia, as the scholar, the philosopher and the savant, he was known the world over.

Every day for at least eight months in the year brought its contingent of guests to Monticello. People of wealth, fashion, men of office, professional men, military and civil, lawyers, doctors, Protestant clergy, Catholic priests, members of congress, foreign ministers, missionaries, Indian agents, tourists, artists, strangers, friends. Some came from affection and respect, some from curiosity; some to give or receive advice or instruction, some from idleness, some because others set the example. And everybody who could not yield "the sage of Monticello" at least gave thought to the great retired man of the nation.

Jefferson retained his health nearly to his last days, and had the happiness of living to the fiftieth anniversary of the Declaration of Independence. He died at Monticello at 12:40 p. m. on July 1, 1826. He was buried in his own graveyard at Monticello, beneath a stone upon which was engraved an inscription prepared by his own hand: "Here is buried Thomas Jefferson, author of the Declaration of Independence, of the Statute of Virginia, for Religious Liberty and Father of the University of Virginia."

"The sage of Monticello" stands to-day next to "the father of his country" in the esteem of the United States. And this is as it should be, for his wise counsel helped to establish this nation as firmly as did the arms and statesmanship of George Washington.

horseback. The mansion at Monticello, thanks to Tarleton's orders, escaped serious pillage or damage. Though the house itself was not plundered or burned, the rest of Jefferson's property suffered severely at the hands of the enemy. All the stock and farm products that might be of service were carried off, the rest being wantonly destroyed.

When Jefferson resigned from the Washington cabinet in 1793, he returned to Monticello to enjoy a retirement which he intended should last many years. But this was not to be. He was elected vice-president in 1796, and in 1800 he was chosen president.

In March, 1809, Jefferson, after a nearly continuous public service of forty-four years, retired to Monticello and to private life, but he was so seriously impoverished that he was not sure of being allowed to leave Washington without arrest by his creditors; but this, fortunately, he was able to prevent. Toward the close of his life, however, he became distressingly embarrassed in his circumstances. In 1814 he sold his library to congress for $23,000, but through incursing a note for a friend he was completely ruined, and was in danger of being compelled to surrender Monticello and seek shelter for his last days in another abode. But wealthy friends came to his assistance with a considerable sum of money.

"No cent of this," he wrote, "wrong from the taxpayer. It is the pure and unsolicited offering of love." In the last seventeen years of his life Jefferson lived like a patriarch among his admiring friends. "The sage of Monticello" was the most prominent man in private life in the country. Even to the year of his death he was a great moral force in the land. As

The LAST FIRECRACKER by WILBUR D. NESBIT

'Tis the last red firecracker
Left lying alone;
All its former companions
Are bursted and gone.
Not one of us hundred
Nor loved one is nigh
To observe its last sputter
Or hear its last sigh.

It lies on the sidewalk,
But none takes it up—
Little Willie has wandered
Downtown with the pup,
To inquire of the doctor,
If dogs grow new tails.
For a bunch of firecrackers
Filled puppy with wails.

Uncle Thomas is resting
Upstairs on a cot;
He must lie on his stomach,
His back is so hot;
Poor old grandpa is moaning
In grizzled despair,
For a wayward skyrocket
Took his beard and his hair.

Papa has his head bandaged
In coverings neat,
And a surgeon is fixing
The burns on his feet;
Mamma thinks she'll recover
The use of her arms,
Though the red fire that burned them
Caused eight fire alarms.

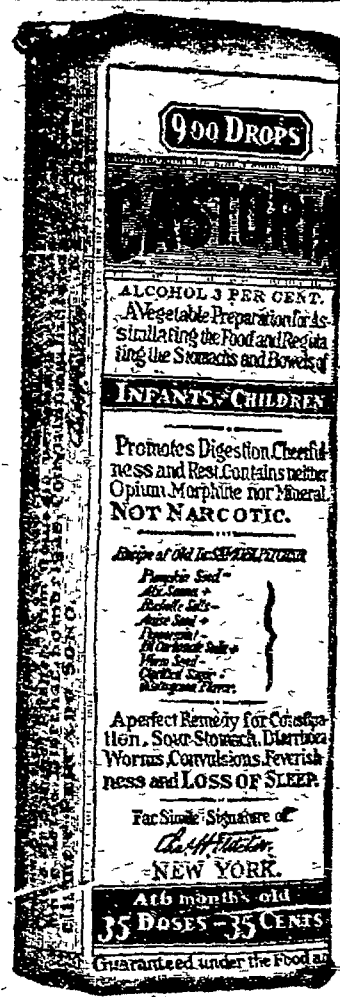

'Tis the last red firecracker
Where it was flung down
Ere the mantle of silence
Fell over the town;
There's no one to explode it,
It lies where it fell,
And must wait for ignition
Till some one gets well.

He lay upon the cheerless sod,
His face all marred with bloody
chairs—
And all through life the boy must wear
The cannon cracker's awful scars!

Take warning, boys, from Johnny's
fate
And do not harm your eyes or face.
Be patriotic, brave and true
But spurn the things that hurt the race!

Easy to Cut the Price.
A man went into a butcher's shop and asked how much sausages were a pound.
"Ah," said the butcher, "der brice vas gone ups. I shall haf to charge you twenty-five cents."
"Nonsense!" exclaimed the customer, "that is outrageous. I can get them at Schmidt's for twenty cents."
"Vell, vy didn't you?"
"Because he was out of them."
"Oh, vell," replied the butcher, "if I was out of 'em, I'd sell 'em for twenty cents, too."

Cutting Reported.
"How," said a lawyer to a witness, "how can you possibly bear such testimony against this man who you say is your friend?"
"Sir," said the man, "he is my friend, and I love him, but I love truth more."

BURNING ITCH WAS CURED

"I deem it my duty to tell about a cure that the Cuticura Soap and Ointment have made on myself. My trouble began in spots on my face and spread over the forehead, and spread over the front part of the top of my head from ear to ear, and over my ears which caused a most fearful burning itch, or eczema."

"For three years I had this terrible breaking out on my forehead and scalp. I tried our family doctor and he failed to cure it. Then I tried the Cuticura Soap and Ointment and used them for two months with the result of a complete cure. Cuticura Soap and Ointment should have the credit due, and I have advised a lot of people to use them." (Signed) C. D. Tharrington, Creek, N. C., Jan. 26, 1911.

Itching Scalp—Hair Fell Out.
"I will say that I have been suffering with an itching on my scalp for the past few years. My hair fell out in spots all over my head. My scalp started to trouble me with sores, then the sores healed up, and crusts formed on the top. Then the hair fell out and left me three bald spots the shape of a half dollar. I went to more than one doctor, but could not get any relief, so I started to use the Cuticura Remedies. I tried one bar of Cuticura Soap and some Cuticura Ointment, and felt relieved right away. Now the bald spots have disappeared, and my hair has grown, thanks to the Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I highly recommend the Cuticura Remedies to all that are suffering with scalp trouble." (Signed) Samuel Stern, 236 Floyd St., Brooklyn, N. Y., Feb. 7, 1911. Although Cuticura Soap and Ointment are sold by druggists and dealers everywhere, a sample of each, with 32-page book, will be mailed free on application to "Cuticura," Dept. L, Boston.

MORTGAGE SALE

DEFAULT having been made in the payment of a certain mortgage made by John W. Wolf and Amalie N. Wolf, his wife, of Detroit, Michigan, to August Selk and Louis Selk, as trustees, of Detroit, Michigan, dated the 15th day of May, 1911, recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds for the County of Wayne and State of Michigan, at the fourth day of April, 1912, in Liber 452 of Mortgages, on page 146. And whereas by reason of said default there is due to be due and is due upon said mortgage at the date of this notice, the sum of two thousand and seventy-eight dollars and six cents ($2,778.62) and no part or proceeds of said mortgage have been received by said mortgagee or any part thereof. Now therefore notice is given that by virtue of the power herein contained to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof, the undersigned will sell, at public auction on the 12th day of August, A. D. 1912, at twelve o'clock noon at the southerly or Congress street entrance to the Wayne County Jail in the City of Detroit, County of Wayne and State of Michigan, (that being the place where the Court of the County of Wayne and State of Michigan is held), the premises described in said mortgage and sufficient to pay the said debt and the costs and expenses of sale including the attorney's fee allowed by law and said mortgage and any sum that shall be paid on or after the date of sale by the undersigned for taxes to protect their interest in said premises which said premises are situated in the Township of Northville, County of Wayne and State of Michigan and described as follows, to-wit: Lot 2 of Section 26, Township 36 North, Range 22 East, containing 20 acres more or less. Dated May 28, 1912.
