"CIRCLE N'S" WIN IN CLOSE GAME

SECOND GAME OF THE YEAR A VICTORY

The "Lyceum's" Had A Great Reputation

The promise of an interesting ball game for Saturday afternoon was indeed carried out when the Lyceum team of Detroit came out to white wash the Circle N's. Could they do it? Why of course they thought they could, having beaten the Ypsilanti team and various others, and classing themselves as "semi professional" players.

It did look as if they were going to do it for some time. They did not arrive in town until 4:15 and our boys put in the intervening time practicing and trying themselves out in general, so that when they did get to playing, they made several errors. In the first of the fatal seventh, the score was 9 to 6 in Detroit's favor. Then Brilmeyer was taken out of the pitcher's box, as he had lost some of his pitching ability in playing first base for Alma college this season. Billy, the "all-around" man, wound up and pitched during the remainder of the game, Hamilton of Novi taking his place as catcher.

From this time on, the whitewashing was done on the other side of the fence, the Lyceum's failing to get any more scores. This so riled the team that their pitcher lost his head and two other would be's went the same way. In the general excitement our boys ran in eleven scores, and the score stood 11 to 9. Frequent disagreements and "kicks" failed to help the visiting team. In all probability they are still trying to scrub off the whitewash; anyway we know that the Circle N's are still rejoicing.

BIG CROWD HERE THE FOURTH

AUTO PARADE, BALL GAMES, HORSE RACES AND FUN

Goodly Crowd Were Present to Enjoy It.

As usual about 12 o'clock Young America commenced to show their patriotism by letting off a large amount of explosives and kept energetically at it until daylight, and then some.

Thursday morning, the Fourth of July, dawned rainy, hot and clear. By nine o'clock the people from near by towns were flocking in and by ten they were nearly all here in time for the auto parade which started at the school house. The King's Daughters' car received the first prize, the decorations being done in purple and white, the society's colors while ten little girls added to its attractiveness. F. A. Carpenter, whose car was beautifully decorated in white for the W. C. T. U. and also filled with children, received the second prize. There were about twenty cars in line, the majority of them splendidly decorated with flags and bunting. This part of the program was one of the most successful events of the day.

The crowd followed the parade to the ball ground, escorted by the band. The first ball game of the day took place here, the Ironclads of Detroit winning by a score of 8 to 4.

The races began promptly at 1:30, the best lot of races ever held in this village. A more detailed account will be given next week. The second ball game was played at three o'clock. Each team went on the field with blood in their eyes. The "Circle N's" because they had been beaten in the morning, and the Ironclads because they were determined to make a double headed victory. It looked as if they would up to the first of the fifth, when Reilly took his place, in the pitcher's box. Tousey of Plymouth being taken out. The score jumped from 6 to 4 in this inning with Detroit ahead, to 8 to 5 in Northville's favor. The Ironclads followed the usual stunt of teams coming here to play the "Circle N" team, by bringing along five or six pitchers, but with no avail. "Ky" earned a dollar offered by an enthusiastic fan for making a score. Reilly made the only home run during the game.

The King's Daughters "tag day" sale realized up-wards of seventy-five dollars for the society.

The Northville brass band deserves special mention for the music it furnished during the day.

A dance at the rink in the evening wound up one of the most successful Fourth of July celebrations ever held in Northville. It is estimated that about fifteen hundred people were in town for the day.

THREE OLD FOLKS HAVE FALLS

Mrs. Eliza Stark stepped through what she supposed was the stair doorway, but which proved to be the cellarway Sunday. She fell half way down the steps, a turn breaking her fall. Fortunately there were no bones broken, altho' Mrs. Stark was considerably bruised and shook up.

Mrs. James Beattie stepped off the sidewalk in front of B. A. Wheeler's store Monday morning and in her fall was severely bruised about the forehead, nose, and chin, but no bones were broken. Dr. Schuyler who attended her, states that there will not be any scars or disfigurements on her face after the bruises heal.

Mrs. L. W. Hutton fell down the steps of the front porch of her home Monday, but escaped unhurt.

NORTHVILLE, MICH., JULY 5, 1912

T. R. A POOR LOSER.

The chairman of the Idaho delegation, which was for Roosevelt in the National convention, announced that they would not participate in a bolt; he said: "We are not bolters, but Republicans. I gave Col. Roosevelt to understand that the Idaho delegates were thorough Republicans and would not follow any third party or candidate. I have been disgusted with much of the anarchy talk I have heard in many of the Roosevelt caucuses. It is unpatriotic and un-American. When a candidate for president resorts to the reprehensible methods of bringing 500 or more contestants into a convention and bolts because they are not given seat, he is a poor loser. Roosevelt really admitted that more than one half of his contestants were shady propositions. It really looks as though he wanted to wreck the party that so signally honored him in times past. The Republican party will exist and will do its share in continuing to make the United States the greatest country on the globe many years after every candidate at the Chicago convention has been forgotten—Maudslayi in Effluence.

The Real Article.

The average Republican newspaper will be compelled to make a choice between the real article and a spurious Republicanism. Fatherly by Roosevelt. Very often newspapers are forced to make their position known, and to the credit of the average editor it may be said that they are fearless in the making of choice and upholding same. Rarely indeed are they called upon to take a stand on as vital a question as the one now confronting the party. The party is being sacrificed upon the altar of personal greed and lust for office and that its condition is serious cannot be denied. The split may mean the temporary defeat of the party but it also means the political death of those who father it. To the credit of many it may be said that the average Republican newspaper man has not been swept off his feet.

Why Is Progressive?

Usually a Progressive Republican is just like a "Progressive" Democrat. He is either after a political job or else sees in it a safer way to hold on the one he now has. It's simply a new fad with which to fool the people. The "full dinner pail," the tariff, war with Spain, the Panama canal, etc., are things of the past and no longer can the awaying arms and oratory convulsions of the precinct and ward politician fire the hearts of his hearers with those "living issues." Therefore the "progressive" slogan has been launched and is being hurled, and is yet to be hurled at the heads of the American people. And it is yet to be hurled in chunks at that, and what is more the hurling is coming in huge chunks and fast, so that the people will have no opportunity to dodge or to even think what one "progressive" means until they are hit with another chunk of it in another spot. The idea is to get the people confused and while they are in the confused state the "outs" get in and "ins" get out, and there you have it all over again.

The Democratic Nominee.

In the nomination of Governor Woodrow Wilson of New Jersey for the presidency, the Democratic party has put up their strongest man and the man who will come nearest to winning out over the Republican nominee. In the nomination of Marshall of Indiana for vice-president they have again strengthened their cause. With the republicans in a row among themselves the democrats never before looked more like winners. If they carry out their present plans of putting up a strong ticket in the state, congressional, legislative districts and in every county office in Michigan and every other state, they stand a fair chance to clean up everything from president to coroner. The "progressive" republicans who are to support Wilson are to have no excuse for not supporting the whole democratic ticket from top to bottom.

Even its Enemies Admitting to Grant That the Battle was a Foundation of Peace.

The mysterious, the secret, and the unknown have ever exercised a powerful attraction over the human mind, and the present craze for what we may designate comprehensively as occult research is no new thing. But it cannot be denied that, apart from the merely superficial side, which naturally fascinates the empty headed, the frivolous, or the ignorant, there are aspects of occultism which make a very deep appeal to the more intellectual and spiritual among us.

Whether this be a good sign or not, it is not our intention to inquire, but it is curious to note the grounds upon which its bitterest opponents base their objections to occultism in general. We need not trouble about the superior or matter-of-fact persons who, without the slightest inquiry, smile at such "superstitions" for no man has a right to sneer at another's beliefs unless he can prove that other to be wrong. But the real enemies of occult science are those who, fully admitting the objective reality of occult experiences, hold that they are necessarily evil and harmful in themselves. On this point, again, we should not care to express an opinion, but it is clearly a remarkable fact that lunatics who have for so many generations been looked upon as mere superstitions and old wives' tales should now be acknowledged by so many intelligent and thinking individuals as at least resting upon some foundation of fact. Who could have predicted such a tremendous reversal of opinion concerning these matters fifty years ago?—London Globe

GREAT WRITER IN JEOPARDY

Charles Dickens Once Threatened With Arrest for Accepting to Pass Counterfeit Money.

One night when Dickens had retired at Gad's Hill he found he could not sleep. So he got up, dressed and determined to walk to London, about thirty miles away. He reached the suburbs early in the morning and applied at an early coffee house for some refreshments. When he had finished he gave the proprietor a sovereign, the smallest coin he had with him.

"It's a bad un," said the man, biting at it and trying to twist it in all directions, "and I shall give you in charge."

The coin did have a suspicious look. Dickens had carried some substance in his pocket which had oxidized it. Seeing that matters looked awkward, he said:

"But I am Charles Dickens!"

"Come, that won't do; any man could say he was Charles Dickens. How do I know?"

The man had been victimized a week previous and would take no more chances. At length Dickens suggested that they go to a chemist's and have the coin tested. A chemist was finally found when the shops had opened. The chemist immediately recognized the novelist, in spite of his dusty appearance, and the coffee house keeper was satisfactorily convinced that he had not been entertaining a confidence man.

The mysterious, the secret, and the unknown have ever exercised a powerful attraction over the human mind, and the present craze for what we may designate comprehensively as occult research is no new thing. But it cannot be denied that, apart from the merely superficial side, which naturally fascinates the empty headed, the frivolous, or the ignorant, there are aspects of occultism which make a very deep appeal to the more intellectual and spiritual among us.

Whether this be a good sign or not, it is not our intention to inquire, but it is curious to note the grounds upon which its bitterest opponents base their objections to occultism in general. We need not trouble about the superior or matter-of-fact persons who, without the slightest inquiry, smile at such "superstitions" for no man has a right to sneer at another's beliefs unless he can prove that other to be wrong. But the real enemies of occult science are those who, fully admitting the objective reality of occult experiences, hold that they are necessarily evil and harmful in themselves. On this point, again, we should not care to express an opinion, but it is clearly a remarkable fact that lunatics who have for so many generations been looked upon as mere superstitions and old wives' tales should now be acknowledged by so many intelligent and thinking individuals as at least resting upon some foundation of fact. Who could have predicted such a tremendous reversal of opinion concerning these matters fifty years ago?—London Globe

Charles Dickens Once Threatened With Arrest for Accepting to Pass Counterfeit Money.

One night when Dickens had retired at Gad's Hill he found he could not sleep. So he got up, dressed and determined to walk to London, about thirty miles away. He reached the suburbs early in the morning and applied at an early coffee house for some refreshments. When he had finished he gave the proprietor a sovereign, the smallest coin he had with him.

"It's a bad un," said the man, biting at it and trying to twist it in all directions, "and I shall give you in charge."

The coin did have a suspicious look. Dickens had carried some substance in his pocket which had oxidized it. Seeing that matters looked awkward, he said:

"But I am Charles Dickens!"

"Come, that won't do; any man could say he was Charles Dickens. How do I know?"

The man had been victimized a week previous and would take no more chances. At length Dickens suggested that they go to a chemist's and have the coin tested. A chemist was finally found when the shops had opened. The chemist immediately recognized the novelist, in spite of his dusty appearance, and the coffee house keeper was satisfactorily convinced that he had not been entertaining a confidence man.

If you are a housewife you cannot reasonably hope to be healthy or beautiful by washing dishes, sweeping and doing household all day, and crawling into bed dead tired at night. You must get out into the open air and sunlight. If you do this every day and keep your stomach and bowels in good order by taking Chamberlain's Tablets when needed, you should become both healthy and beautiful. For sale by all dealers.

A Northville Interview.

Mr. Priest Tells His Experience.

The following brief account of an interview with a Northville man three years ago, and its sequel, will be read with keen interest by every citizen.

Henry Priest, Mill St., Northville, Mich., says: "I have used Doan's Kidney Pills with gratifying results and have great confidence in their curative powers. Several years ago I was annoyed by backache, which made it hard for me to work. Doan's Kidney Pills had previously been used in my family with great benefit and decided to take them. I procured a supply at Murdock Bros. Drug Store. Soon after finishing their use my backache disappeared and now I am free from the trouble." Statement given November 20, 1908.

THE CURE LASTED. On March 1, 1909, Mr. Priest was interviewed and he said: "I am pleased to confirm the statement I gave for publication three years ago, recommending Doan's Kidney Pills. Since this remedy cured me I have had no need of a kidney medicine."

Cadillac's Steps From LaChine, Quebec, to Detroit, Retraced by His Modern Impersonator

MAP SHOWING ROUTE TRAVERSED BY CADILLAC.

It was 211 years ago when Chevalier Antoine de la Motte Cadillac started from LaChine, Quebec, and eventually landed and founded a trading post on the site where the great city of Detroit now stands. The French explorer and soldier of fortune had with him fifty soldiers and fifty artisans. The expedition was financed by Count Pontchartrain of France.

The trip of this navigator and happy-go-lucky wayfarer was beset with hardships, quarrels with Indians, privations and disappointments but the files of France were eventually planted on the shores of what is now Detroit July 22, 1701.

To inaugurate Cadillac, a water fête to be held in Detroit annually, the last week in July in celebration of Cadillac's founding of the city, a modern hero is making the same trip that Cadillac made. Imagine the difference in traveling which 211 years have made. The hostile Indians who made war on the real Cadillac, and his sturdy voyagers are now the most docile citizens of Canada. The Ottawa river no longer imperils the voyager, and the portages near Lake Nipissing are no longer pitfalls for the weary traveler. Georgian bay, an unknown region to the white man when Cadillac crossed it, is not expected to thwart the progress of the modern Cadillac, nor is it expected that Lake Huron will prove a mystery or a handicap to the intrepid age of the 1912 hero Cadillac.

On the contrary, every luxury which feature the trip being made by the twentieth century Cadillac. Instead of being met and harassed by savage red skins, he will be picked up in Lake St. Clair by Colonel Frank J. Becker's magnificent steam yacht Hakon and escorted to the city by the largest fleet of boats ever assembled on fresh water including revenue cutters, naval reserve boats and police patrol boats. Governor Osborn will be aboard Colonel Becker's flagship and Cadillac will near sixteen guns, the governor's salute signifying recognition and government honor as the flagship passes. Indeed, times have changed

A single germ in a quart can of milk, if the conditions are favorable, will divide once every half hour, so that at the end of 24 hours it will have increased to 576,816,256. At the end of the 24 hours one cubic centimeter of the contaminated milk would contain more than 7,438,000,000 germs. This is the report made by the New York Milk Committee in the government's weekly public health reports. What's the use?

The doll industry in Germany is now commencing to make the "character doll" in restricted numbers. The model is made by an artist, and the molds are then copied from this model. The painting of these dolls is done with especial care, and, consequently, their price is considerably higher than that of the commoner type of doll.

SYNOPSIS.

The scene at the opening of the story is laid in the library of an old worn-out southern plantation, known as the Barony. The place is to be sold, and the history of the "Barony" is the subject of discussion by Jonathan Crenshaw, a business man, a stranger known as "Bladen," and a boy, Yancy, a farmer, when Captain Wayne Hazard, a mysterious child of the old southern family, makes his appearance. Yancy tells how he adopted the boy, Nathaniel, from the "Barony," but the Quintards deny any knowledge of the boy. Yancy, to keep Nathaniel, Captain Hazard, a friend of the Quintards, appears and asks questions about the Barony. Trouble at Scratch Hill, where Nathaniel is kidnapped by Dave Bloom, Captain Hazard's friend, the Quintards, appears and asks questions about the Barony. Yancy, to keep Nathaniel, Captain Hazard, a friend of the Quintards, appears and asks questions about the Barony. Yancy, to keep Nathaniel, Captain Hazard, a friend of the Quintards, appears and asks questions about the Barony.

CHAPTER XX (Continued).

"Let me go," she panted. "He laughed his cool laugh of triumph. "Let you go—ask me anything but that, Betty! Have you no reward for such a thing as mine? A whole summer has passed since I saw you first."

"There was the noisy shuffling of feet on the stairs, and re-echoing Betty, Murrell, awning about on his head and faced the door. He was pushed open an inch at a time by a not too confident hand and Mr. Slosson thus guardedly presented himself to the eye of his child, whom he beckoned from the room.

"Well," said Murrell, when they stood together on the landing. "Just come across to the keel boat!" and Slosson let the way down stairs and from the house.

"Dad, you, Jpe, you might have waited!" observed the outlaw. Slosson gave him a hardened grin. They crossed the clearing and boarded the keel boat which rested against the bank. As they did so the cabin in the stern gave up a shattered presence in the shape of Tom Ware. Murrell started violently. "I thought you were hanging out in Memphis, Tom!" he said, and his brow darkened, as, sinister and forbidding, he stepped closer to the planter. Ware did not answer at once, but looked at Murrell out of heavy bloodshot eyes, his face pinched and ghastly. At last he said, speaking with visible effort.

"I stayed in Memphis until five o'clock this morning."

"Damn your early hours!" roared Murrell. "What are you doing here? I suppose you've been showing that dead face of yours about the neighborhood—why didn't you stay at Belle Plain, since you couldn't keep away?"

"I haven't been near Belle Plain, I came here instead. How am I going to meet people and answer questions?" His teeth were clattering. "Is it known she's missing?" he added.

"Hicks raised the alarm the first thing this morning, according to the instructions I'd given him."

"Yes?" gasped Ware. He was dripping from every pore and the sickly color came and went on his unshaven cheeks. Murrell dropped a heavy hand on his shoulder.

"You haven't been at Belle Plain, you say, but has any one seen you on the road this morning?"

"No one, John," cried Ware, panting between each word. There was a moment's pause and Ware spoke again. "What are they doing at Belle Plain?" he demanded in a whisper. Murrell's lips curled.

"I understand there is talk of suicide," he said.

"Good!" cried Ware.

"They are dragging the bayou down below the house. It looks as though you were going to reap the rewards of the excellent management you have given her, estate. They have been trying to find you in Memphis, so the sooner you show yourself the better," he concluded significantly.

"You are sure you have her safe, John, no chance of discovery? For God's sake, get her away from here as soon as you can; it's an awful risk!"

"She'll be sent down river tonight," said Murrell.

"Captain," began Slosson, who up to this had taken no part in the conversation, "when are you going to cross to the other side of the bayou?"

"Soon," replied Murrell. Slosson laughed.

"I didn't know but you'd clean forgot the Clans business. I want to ask another question—but first I want to say that no one thinks higher or more frequent of the ladies than just me. I'm genuinely fond of 'em, and I've never lifted my hand against an except in kindness." Mr. Slosson looked at Ware with an exceedingly virtuous expression of countenance. He continued: "To orders are that we're to slip out of this a little before midnight, but suppose there's a hitch—here's the lady knowing what she knows and here's the boy knowing what he knows."

"There can be no hitch," rasped out Murrell arrogantly.

"I never knew a speculation that couldn't go wrong; and by rights we should have got away last night."

"Well, whose fault is it you didn't?" demanded Murrell.

"In a manner it was mine, but the ark got on a sandbank as we were fetching it in, and it took us the whole damn night to get clear."

"Well," prompted Murrell, with a sullen frown.

"Suppose they get shut of that notion of theirs that the lady's done drowned herself; suppose they take to watching the river? Or suppose this whole damn bottom drops out of this deal? What then? The lady, good looking as she is, knows enough to make west Tennessee mighty on healthy for some of us. I say, suppose it's a flash in the pan and you have to crowd the distance in between you and this part of the world, you can't tell me you'll have any use for her then?" Slosson paused impatiently. "And here's Mr. Ware feeling bad, feeling like hell," he remarked. "Him and me don't want to be left in no trap with you gone and only know where."

"I'll send a man to take charge of the keel boat. I can't risk any more of your bungling, Joe."

"That's all right, but you don't answer my question," persisted Slosson, with admirable tenacity of purpose. "What is your question, Joe?"

"A lot can happen between this and midnight."

"If things go wrong with us there'll be a blaze at the head of the bayou. Does that satisfy you?"

"And what then?"

Murrell hesitated.

"What about the girl?" insisted Slosson, dragging him back to the point at issue between them. "As a man I wouldn't lift my hand against a good looking woman except, like I said, in kindness; but she can't be turned loose; she knows too much. What's the word, Captain—you say it!" he urged. He made a gesture of appeal to Ware.

"Look for the light; better still, look for the man I'll send." And with this Murrell would have turned away, but Slosson detained him.

"Who'll he be?"

"Some fellow who knows the river." And if it's the light?" asked the tavern-keeper in a hoarse undertone. Again he looked toward Ware, who, dry-lipped and ashen, was regarding him steadfastly. Glance met glance, for a brief instant they looked into each other's eyes and then the hand Slosson had rested on Murrell's shoulder dropped at his side.

CHAPTER XXI.

The Judge Meets the Situation.

The judge's and Mr. Mahaffy's celebration of the former's rehabilitated credit had occupied the shank of the evening, the small hours of the night, and that part of the succeeding day which the southwest described as soon in the morning, and as the stone jug, in which were garnered the spoils of the highly confidential but entirely misleading conversation which the judge had held with Mr. Pegloe after his return from Belle Plain, lost in weight, it might have been observed that he and Mr. Mahaffy seemed to gain in that nice sense of equity which should form the basis of all human relations. The judge watched Mr. Mahaffy, and Mr. Mahaffy watched the judge, each trustfully placing the regulation of his private conduct in the hands of his friend, as the one most likely to be affected by the rectitude of his acts.

Probably so extensive a consumption of Mr. Pegloe's corn whiskey had never been accomplished with greater high-mindedness. They honorably split the last glass.

The judge sighed deeply. He took up the jug and inverted it. A stray drop or so fell languidly into his glass.

"Try squeezing it, Price," said Mahaffy.

The judge shook the jug, it gave forth an empty sound, and he sighed again; he attempted to peer into it, closing one watery eye as he tilted it toward the light.

"I wonder, no, Yankee has ever thought to invent a jug with a glass bottom," he observed.

"What for?" asked Mahaffy.

"You astonish me, Solomon," exclaimed the judge. "Coming as you do from that section which invented the wooden nutmeg, and an eight-day clock that has been known to run as much as four or five hours at a stretch, I am aware the Yankees are an ingenious people; I wonder none of 'em ever thought of a jug with a glass bottom, so that when a body holds it up to the light he can see at a glance whether it is empty or not. Do you reckon Pegloe has sufficient confidence to fill the jug again for us?"

But Mahaffy's expression indicated no great confidence in Mr. Pegloe's confidence.

"Credit," began the judge, "is proverbially gay; still it may sometimes be increased, like the muscles of the body and the mental faculties, by judicious use. I've always regarded Pegloe's as a cheap mind. I hope I have done him an injustice." He put on his hat, and tucking the jug under his arm went from the house.

Ten or fifteen minutes elapsed. Mahaffy considered this a good sign; it didn't take long to say no, he reflected. Another ten or fifteen elapsed. Mahaffy lost heart. Then there came a hasty step beyond the door, it was thrown violently open, and the judge precipitated himself into the room. A glance showed Mahaffy that he was laboring under intense excitement.

"Solomon, I bring shocking news! God knows what the next few hours may reveal!" cried the judge, mopping his brow. "Miss Malroy has disappeared from Belle Plain, and Nathaniel has gone with her!"

"Where have they gone?" asked Mahaffy, and his long jaw dropped.

"Would to God I had an answer ready for that question, Solomon!" answered the judge, with a melancholy shake of the head. He gazed down on his friend with an air of large tolerance. "I am going to Belle Plain, but you are too drunk. Sleep it off, Solomon, and join me when your brain is clear and your legs steady."

Mahaffy jerked out an oath, and lifting himself off his chair, stood erect. He snatched up his hat.

"Stuff your pistols into your pockets, and come on, Price!" he said, and stalked toward the door.

He fitted up the street, and the judge, puffing and panting in his wake, they gained the edge of the village without speech.

"There is mystery—and rascality here!" said the judge.

"What do you know, Price, and where did you hear this?" Mahaffy shot the question back over his shoulder.

At Pegloe's the Belle Plain overseer had just fetched the news into town.

Again they were silent, all their energies being absorbed by the physical exertion they were making. The road danced before their burning eyes, it seemed to be uncoiling itself serpent-wise with hideous undulations. Mr. Mahaffy was conscious that the judge, of whom he caught a blurred vision now at his right side, now at his left, was laboring painfully in the heat and dust, the breath whistling from between his parched lips.

"You're just ripe for apoplexy, Price!" he snarled, moderating his pace.

"Go on," said the judge, with stolid resolution.

Two miles out of the village they came to a roadside spring; here they paused for an instant. Mahaffy scooped up handfuls of the clear water and sucked it greedily. The judge dropped on his stomach and buried his face in the tiny pool, gulping up great thirsty swallows.

"If anything happens to the child, the man responsible for it would better never be born—I'll pursue him with undiminished energy from this moment forth!" he panted.

"What could happen to him, Price?" asked Mahaffy.

"God knows, poor little lad!"

"Will you shut up!" cried Mahaffy savagely.

"Solomon!"

"Why do you go building on that idea? Why should any one harm him—what earthly purpose?"

"I tell you, Solomon, we are the pivotal point in a vast circle of crime. This is a blow at me—this is revenge, sir, neither more nor less! They have struck at me through the boy, it is as plain as day."

"What did the overseer say?"

"Just that they found Miss Malroy gone from Belle Plain this morning, and the boy with her."

"This is like you, Price! How do you know they haven't spent the night at some neighbor's?"

"The nearest neighbor is two or six miles distant. Miss Malroy and Nathaniel were seen along about dusk in the grounds at Belle Plain; do you mean to tell me you consider it likely that they set out on foot at that hour, and without a word to any one, to make a visit?" inquired the judge, but Mahaffy did not contend for this point.

"Try Squeezing It, Price," Said Mahaffy.

"What are you going to do first, Price?"

"Have a look over the grounds, and talk with the slaves."

"Where's the brother—wasn't he at Belle Plain last night?"

"It seems he went to Memphis yesterday."

"They plodded forward in silence; now and again they were passed by some man on horseback whose destination was the same as their own, and then at last they caught sight of Belle Plain in its grove of trees.

MICHIGAN NEWS IN BRIEF

Use Auto Fees in Good Roads Fund.
Secretary of State Fred C. Martindale, candidate for the Republican nomination for governor, is writing the motor car owners of the state in connection with his plan to have all motor license fees put into a state good-roads fund. He is requesting the owners of cars to write him suggestions and views as to the best way of putting the good roads plan into operation. Secretary Martindale has suggested that the present $3 state tax license fee on the 40,000 machines now in use would make a big addition to the roads fund if applied to it alone.

Another suggestion is that the present local and state fees be abolished and a reasonable specific tax levied directly by the state instead, all of the revenue going to the roads fund.

Negro Attacks Man and Woman.
William Tobias, 23, is in the hospital in Flint in a serious condition, and Mrs. Silas Halsey is slightly injured as the result of being attacked by two negroes Wednesday night.

Tobias and Mrs. Halsey were walking on the east side when the negroes attempted to take the woman away from Tobias, who immediately pulled a fight. One of the negroes pulled a knife, and stabbed Tobias in the stomach and left lung. He cannot recover.

The men then attempted to attack the woman, but were frightened away by an approaching rig. They succeeded in getting her pocketbook, which contained but a few dollars. The negroes escaped.

Shoots Girl and Self; Both Dying.
Miss Elizabeth Morse, 23, daughter of the postmaster at Lyons, has two bullet wounds in her body, and L. H. Schuerman, a wealthy furniture manufacturer of Carrollton, Ky., is mortally wounded as the result of a quarrel in a closed taxicab in Grand Rapids, that resulted in the shooting of her by the Kentuckian, and an attempt on his part to slay himself when cornered by the police. They are in separate hospitals, and both are reported to be dying. The tragedy is the outgrowth of a love affair that has existed several years, and the young woman's refusal to wed the manufacturer. He is considerably older than Miss Morse.

Battle Creek After Pure Milk.
Battle Creek's crusade for pure milk, which has resulted in several arrests and much trouble for dairymen, took a new turn when the health department announced that hereafter all rusty milk cans found on wagons inside the city limits will be marked and sent back on first of time and punctured so as to render them useless on second offense. Battle Creek will also condemn milk with a temperature over 60 degrees, and milk that fails to pass the test for bacteria.

Barkley of Detroit that he has accepted the presidency of Alma College offered him by the board of trustees two weeks ago, and of which Dr. Barkley of Forest Avenue Presbyterian church, Detroit, is chairman.

Between 500 and 600 papermakers went on strike at Kalamazoo, throwing out of employment nearly 3,000 people. Papermakers employed by four mills struck, the Bryant, King, Kalamazoo and Monarch being affected.

The men have been working 11 and 12-hour shifts. They ask eight hours' work with the same pay they have been receiving for 11 hours' work.

Among the purposes given for the organization are the election of delegates to a national progressive convention and the obtaining of a ticket in the state election.

Increase Rate at Lapeer Home.
At a joint meeting of the board of control of the state house for fuel, mind and the state board of auditors, the rate per capita was raised from 46 to 48 cents. This will mean an increase of about $5,000 in the cost of operating the home.

The action was taken on request of the board of control, the building the buildings were in bad need of repair. The rate was cut down last year by Gov. Osborn from 48 to 46 cents. The increase voted is subject to the approval of the governor.

West Branch Citizens Order Phones Out.

Strenuously opposing a 50 per cent increase in telephone rates, West Branch citizens have resorted to primitive methods, practically every merchant and resident in the town agreeing to order their telephones removed by the first of July. Notice was given that beginning with July 1 an increase in rates of 50 per cent would be enforced and in view of the poor service, the citizens protested, but to no avail.

Over 200 Mexican Rebels Hanged.
Two hundred rebel Zapatistas were captured by federal troops near Huixtla and summarily hanged. Refugees arriving from that bandit-infested region say the fringe of the forests lining the road for a long distance in the vicinity of Huixtla was marked with bodies hanging from the limbs of trees.

The rebel leader surrendered after a short battle. When the insurgents had been disarmed they were led to the edge of the forest and one after the other they were strung up to trees.

On that day the baseball supremacy of that part of the state will be settled by the teams representing Ithaca, Merrill, Breckenridge and the Indian school for boys.

GHOSTS, EVER BOTHER YOU?

If So, Southern Negro Folks Say These Simple Precautions Will Chase 'Em.

As a part of the folklore of the negro folks the superstitions of slavery days are of great interest. The following are some of the negro's beliefs about ghosts.

To feel a hot breath of air strike you at twilight signified the nearby presence of a ghost. Should you wish to avoid him, stop and turn your coat and trousers and hat wrong side out and the spirit cannot encounter you.

If, however, he is a "pugnacious" spirit and approaches despite the change, turn and address him thus: "In the name of the Lord, what do you want?" Whereupon he will tell you his business upon earth, then depart and never, never trouble you again. If, on the other hand, it is a prowling ghost who crawls under the house, bumps against the floor, makes strange sounds, and whispers in the midnight hours, you have only to put in a new floor and he will do so no more.

Some ghosts are obtrusive and will not only prowling about the house, but creep in through the crack of the door in the wee small hours of the night, and, once inside, expand to vast proportions. To spare yourself any disturbance in this way, sow mustard seed all about the doorstep just before going to bed, or place a sieve on the doorstep.

Before entering, the spirit will have to count all the holes in the sieve of all the mustard seeds, and by this time daylight will come and he will have to go. As the counting for one night will not do for another you are always safe—Southern Workman.

ALMOST FRANTIC WITH ITCHING ECZEMA

"Eight years ago I got eczema all over my hands. My fingers fairly bled and it itched until it almost drove me frantic. The eruption began with itching under the skin. It spread fast from between the fingers around the nails and all over the whole hands. I got a pair of rubber gloves in order to wash dishes. Then it spread all over the left side of my chest. A fine doctor treated the trouble two weeks, but did me no good. I cried night and day. Then I decided to try Cuticura Soap and Ointment but without much hope as I had gone so long. There was a marked change the second day, and so on until I was entirely cured. The Cuticura Soap we have always kept in our home, and we decided after that lesson that it is a cheap soap in price and the very best in quality. My husband will use no other soap in his shaving mug." (Signed) Mrs. G. A. Selby, Redonda Beach, Cal. Jan. 15, 1911. Although Cuticura Soap and Ointment are sold by druggists and dealers everywhere a sample of each, with 32 page book, will be mailed free on application to "Cuticura," Dept. L, Boston.

"Mug" Is Overworked Word.

The most overworked word in the Englishman's vocabulary of slang is "Mug." As a noun it may mean a face, a fool, or a student who prefers reading to sport. As a verb its meanings are still more varied. It may mean to study hard, or to strike in the face. It also means to rob or swindle, and among actors to grimace or make faces. To mug up is also, in theatrical parlance, to make up.

Finally, to mug one's self is to get drunk, the resulting condition being one of mugginess. There is more obvious sense in this last use of the word than in some of the others, for, in the eighteenth century, were commonly known as muggies. Mug is the English equivalent of the German Zug, which Mark Twain found to mean everything. A new sense of the verb "mug" in the American slang is to photograph a face.

For Forty Years a Hermit.

Isaac Sheath, who has just died in the workhouse at the age of seventy-eight, lived the life of a hermit for nearly forty years at Newport, Isle of Wight. He occupied a mud-hut which he erected on a piece of waste land in the village of Chale, but the hut became so dilapidated that the rural district council ordered its destruction. Sheath was greatly exasperated by the council's interference, and before he left for the workhouse, he burned the hut to the ground. Mice and birds had grown so accustomed to the old man and his lonely ways that they used to come and feed from his hand—London Mail.

The New Way.

"Going to your summer cottage this year?"

"No; we've decided to stay in the city."

"But I thought you were so fond of the country?"

"We used to be, but now we prefer to stay at home, where we can get fresh milk, eggs and butter every morning."

First Religious Book in America.
The first religious book published on the American continent was printed in the City of Mexico by order of the Roman Catholic Bishop there. This was the first work of any kind from movable type issued in the new world and bears date 1485. In point of collaborators the most pretentious work published on this continent is "The Catholic Church in the United States," which has six thousand different co-authors, all but a dozen of whom are actively identified in some way with the American hierarchy.

STEAMER CITY OF DETROIT III.

The Largest Side Wheel Passenger Steamer in the World.

The new $1,500,000 steamer City of Detroit III, the latest addition to the already unexcelled fleet of the Detroit & Cleveland Navigation Co., marks the epoch of finality in shipbuilders' art and skill.

In the construction of the new City of Detroit III, nothing that money could buy has been omitted in an effort to make the ship the most modern model of shipbuilding skill, combining staunchness of build with the latest approved types of mechanical equipment and every essential to the comfort and care of passengers with palatial furnishings, fittings and decorations.

Everything that ingenuity can suggest for the safety and convenience of passengers is incorporated. Running hot and cold water are supplied throughout the ship; an automatic fire alarm reaches all parts; this new fire alarm, or automatic thermostat, consists of a small hollow copper wire which is connected with a sensitive diaphragm or plate, the latter sounding the alarm. Fire walls have been installed, by which, in case of fire, sliding asbestos-faced doors are shoved out, confining the fire to that particular portion of the boat.

Modern ventilating system will renew the air supply in all parts of the ship where such artificial circulation is required.

The safety appliances include: Marconi wireless system in communication with shore and other vessels at all times while under way; lifeboats and life rafts sufficient for all regular passengers, 4,200 life preservers, automatic sprinkling system, the most fire alarm system, direct to captain, chief engineer and purser indicating exact location.

Patrolmen will patrol all the decks constantly; in fact, 50 per cent more life-saving equipment than required by government regulations.

There are 600 staterooms, 25 parlors with bath and private verandas, 50 semi-parlors with private toilets; all staterooms and parlors are supplied with hot and cold running water, washed air ventilation, also telephones with all connections necessary for shore service when the boat is at the dock.

The City of Detroit III will be operated between Detroit and Buffalo from June 10 to September 10, in connection with City of Cleveland III. The carrying capacity of City of Detroit III is 5,000 and City of Cleveland III, 4,000.

The New Dairy Building at State Fair grounds

The State of Michigan will have a demonstration Dairy Building at the State Fair opening, Sept. 16, and running for a week. Contracts were let some time ago and work started at once on what will be the prettiest and altogether most attractive building at the fair grounds and at the same time the most interesting building. This structure will be 90x200 feet and in connection with Dairy barn will give 28,000 square feet of floor space devoted to dairying alone. The new structure will be one story in height and with its white roof towering dome and flag pole 75 feet in height will be a structure to catch the eye. The structure will be red brick to the eaves, then frame to the eaves. When Gov. Osborn, T. F. Marston, Superintendent of the Dairy Department and Colin C. Lilley, chairman of the State Dairy Commission, traveled around to the fairs of six states in 1909, they gathered ideas for this building and every advantage of all other buildings was worked into the general plans. The milk given by the cattle at many breeds provided with food grown on the grounds, will be passed through the three channels, commercial, butter and cheese and the records of each of the cows will be kept correctly and that record will be prominently displayed on the stanchions of each stall. The cows will be milked by electricity, the food will be sent to the stalls by carriers, the manure will be carried away in the same way and in fact every modern device known to dairying will be shown. A huge ice box requiring three car loads of ice during the week will be maintained. A lecture room will seat 800 people and will be used for lectures upon dairying during the week of the fair. The State Dairy and Food Commission will maintain the complete records of the week and the report of this committee will show comparative results from 40 well bred cows which will be quarantined in the Dairy barn. As every ounce of food will be weighed and recorded and as all milk obtained will be tested by the Babcock tester and the cream extracted by separators and sterilized for bottling, it will readily be seen that this will be a demonstration barn indeed.

Secretary of Agriculture to Preside at Opening of Great Event.

The Hon. James H. Wilson, secretary of the United States Department of Agriculture has received an invitation to open the Michigan State Fair, Sept. 16. The directors of the state fair feel that Secretary Wilson will be so much interested in this fair, owing to the many innovations that have been brought forth that he will accept the invitation. The state fair of this year with the "Boys' State Fair School," and with the "Miniature Model Farms," is putting forward ideas which it adopted all over the country by other state fairs; will serve to stimulate agriculture.

To the 83 boys, one from each county of Michigan, who won in the examinations held recently, there will be added 50 or more boys from the State Fair School, some of whom will pay their own expenses, while others will be sent by the county supervisors. Popular collections will be made in other counties to provide the funds and other means will be devised to allow those boys who were runners-up for the successful candidates, to gain that knowledge which they are so anxious to obtain.

In one instance farmers of 28 years, 30 years and even older have asked permission to take the course prescribed for the school.

Many of the Detroit school boys joined the colony at the Miniature Model Farms now being tilled at the fair grounds, and 22 young farmers are busily employed each day preparing the ground and planting late crops. A supervisor, N. P. Hall, master of the State Grange, is supervising the work.

It is believed that in view of the interest being shown in both the school and the miniature farms and in view of the good roads building work carried out by the state fair in the grounds, Secretary Wilson will find a trip to Detroit to open the great state fair, combining both agriculture and industries, a most interesting journey.

Fifteen freight cars were ditched on the Soo line at Eastice by the spreading of the rails.

John Borowicz, who in a fit of anger struck Frank Nowicki, foreman at the Stow & Davis furniture factory, and inflicted injuries from which death resulted in a few hours, was found guilty of manslaughter in Grand Rapids.

Governor Osborn has been invited by Secretary of State Knox to attend the First International Eugenics Congress, which is to be held in Washington in July. The governor is much interested in the subject, which he says is just coming into its own.

Save Your Money

You may need it to buy coal with. If you should borrow $400 at 6 per cent interest, and pay the interest and $100 on the principal each year, the total cost of the loan would be $460, or an average weekly cost of $2.21.

Naturally this would be considered a very cheap, easy way to borrow, but perhaps you do not know that this amount (the $2.21) if paid each week to the association, would at the end of four years amount to enough to pay off the loan and also go quite a long way towards paying for a load of coal.

"Some men are blind on color,
But never have we seen
A man who was mistaken
In the color of 'long green'."

They don't even have to think;
They can ride on yachts and autos
Because they have the 'chink.'"

DUSTLESS SWEEPING AND EASY SWEEPING ARE GUARANTEED BY USING ONE OF

Bissell's NEW
"Cyclo" BALL BEARING Sweepers

Why fill your house with clouds of dust (with positive injury to curtains, draperies, and furniture), through the use of the corn broom, when at a small cost you can procure a BISSELL sweeper that cleans all the dirt, cleanses, brightens and preserves your carpets, reduces the labor of sweeping 95%, and makes sweeping day a pleasure instead of a drudgery?

As dust is admittedly a carrier of disease, the corn broom with its clouds of dust is a menace to the health of the entire family, to say nothing about the ruin it works to fine carpets and rugs, and the drudgery it enforces. Consider the economy of the Bissell, as it lasts longer than fifty brooms.

Detroit Shares Her Charms With the Rest of the World

Canoes massed in one of the Belle Isle lagoons to let their happy occupants catch a part of the band concert.

Detroit's great Cadillac, to be held July 22-27, is expected to prove the most interesting water festival ever held in America. It was designed for two purposes—first, to celebrate the founding of Detroit by Cadillac in 1701, but chiefly to share with the rest of the world the wonderful waterway with which nature endowed the City of the Straits.

Cadillac (pronounced Cad ill-ak-wa, with accent on the third syllable) will be held every year, so that the valor of Cadillac and his sturdy voyagers will not be effaced from the memory of this and coming generations. The water festival will have a historic value each year, and it will be the means of giving to as many citizens of the rest of America as are able to come to Cadillac, a clean sport and much healthful recreation, around the world's most charming waterway.

Detroit is unselfish. Its great summer show will be absolutely free to everybody. Its historic and industrial pageants showing electric lighted floats costing as high as $5,000 apiece, its naval parades, its races and exhibitions by the world's fastest motorboats and hydroplanes will be absolutely free from all admission fees.

The Detroit board of commerce, recognized as one of the greatest civic organizations of America, stands behind Cadillac. In fact, it was the publicity committee of the board of commerce that suggested an annual water festival, commemorating the founding of the city of Detroit by Cadillac 211 years ago, to be held every year for the pleasure and benefit not only of the people of Detroit and Michigan, but of all lovers of clean sport and recreation in America.

Cadillac will be the largest birthday party ever held. The birthday cake will hold 211 candles. The citizens of the Michigan metropolis say that all visitors to the city during the big birthday party and carnival will enjoy their cake. The majestic Belle Isle, on whose lakes and lagoons glide the luxurious and bepillowed canoes, will be turned over to Detroit's visitors for their enjoyment. Belle Isle's beautiful drives, zoo, aquarium and playgrounds will be on dress parade for the Cadillac guests, who are urged to accept the noted park as their playground during the unique festival.

Cull Beans.

We have at our Plymouth Elevator about 400 Bushels of Fancy Cull Beans, which we will sell within the next two weeks for $20 per ton.

If you will compare the feeding value of Feeds you will find that Beans are higher in Protein and Fat than any other feed, and One Bushel of Beans is worth for feeding and fattening purposes Two Bushels of Corn.

Corn today will cost you 90c per bushel. One Bushel of Beans at 60c is equal to Two bushels of Corn, or $1.80; or for one-third the cost, you get the same amount of feeding value.

For fattening Hogs, for Sheep and Cattle feeding, there is no article that compares with them.

If interested, see us at once.
