VOL. XLIII. NO. 37.

THE RECORD: NORTHVILLE, MICH., FRIDAY, APRIL 11, 1913.

$1.00 PER YEAR IN ADVANCE.

MRS. S. J. LAWRENCE DIED SATURDAY

HAD BEEN ILL FOR A LONG TIME.

Was Well Known Throughout Wayne County.

Saturday afternoon, April 5, 1913, Mrs. Evangeline Dymond Lawrence died at her home here after a two years' illness. All that medical skill, constant and loving care and the employment of every possible means of relief could accomplish were used in the effort to prevent the going out of a life precious to many besides her own family, but the baffling disease against which the long battle was fought proved at last triumphant.

Mrs. Lawrence was born in Kalemaco county, this state, her parents moving to Kansas during her childhood. She became the wife of Samuel J. Lawrence in Topeka, Kansas in 1872. They returned to Michigan soon after their marriage, residing in Wyandotte and vicinity until eleven years ago when they purchased their home here. Mrs. Lawrence's death occurred four days before the fifty-ninth anniversary of her birth, and was the first visit of the destroying angel to their home during forty years of wedded life.

The immediate surviving relatives are the husband; three sons—Rob't, of St. Louis, Mo., William, of Lansing and Leo of this place; two daughters—Mrs. Arthur Matteson of Bay City and Mrs. Julian Marks of Detroit; three grandchildren; her mother and a brother in California; one sister in Nebraska, one in Missouri and one in Kansas.

Her friends included all who knew her, and those who knew her best, loved her best. She was a woman of exceptionally fine character, a most loyal and devoted wife and mother, faithful and dependable in all the relations of life.

For several years Mrs. Lawrence assisted her husband in his work among the delinquent and neglected children of this county, and her sweet, motherly ministrations won for her unbounded love and gratitude from scores of unfortunate young girls committed to her care to be placed in the State Industrial School or in other selected homes.

Mrs. Lawrence was a consistent Christian, uniting with the Northville Presbyterian church on becoming a resident here. She was a past Department of Michigan Chaplain, W. R. C. past President of the local Corps, and a member of Orient Chapter O. E. S. In Detroit she was affiliated with the Ladies of the G. A. R. and an honorary member of the Daughters of the G. A. R. Before coming to Northville she had been president of P. A. Duell W. R. C. of Ecorse and also of the Wyandotte Woodmen's Circle.

The funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon in the chapel at Grand Lawn cemetery near Redford. The services were conducted by her pastor, Rev. J. D. Webber, and she was laid to rest surrounded by a mass of fragrant flowers in quantity and costliness probably never exceeded at the burial of any person from this place. The full capacity of the funeral car and the regular 1:15 car were required to take the friends who accompanied the family to the services, the number including a large representation from the W. R. C. and the O. E. S. also several members of the G. A. R.

THE GRIM REAPER.

A Lot of Deaths to Record in This Week's Issue.

MRS. ELSIE DODGE.

Mrs. Elsie P. Dodge died at her home in the Gardner apartments West Main street, Saturday aged 84 years. The funeral occurred from the home Monday afternoon, Rev. R. M. Pierce officiating. The burial was in the Novi cemetery.

Mrs. Elsie Patton Dodge was born in New York in the year 1829. She had lived in this vicinity since the age of 16. She leaves to mourn her loss one brother, John Patton, of Wixom, one sister, Mrs. Mary Lockwood of Royal Oak and four children, Mrs. J. T. VanBuren of Clyde, Mrs. T. A. Garfield and Frank Dodge of Novi and Wm. of this place; 24 grandchildren, 25 great-grandchildren, and one great-great-grandchild besides a host of friends.

CAROLINE BLANCHARD.

Caroline Lawson Blanchard, aged 75 years died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Aaron B. Gates in Detroit Tuesday, March 31.

Though born at Bloomfield Hills she lived in Northville all her young life and at the age of twenty three she was united in marriage with Samuel Blanchard of Farmington. After living in the latter city thirty one years she moved to Detroit, Mr. Blanchard having died in 1893.

MRS. VICTORIA HANSON.

Mrs. Victoria Hanson, aged 29 years, died at the home of her mother, Mrs. John Spinks on Thursday of last week of tuberculosis. The body was shipped to Windsor, Canada and the funeral and burial services were conducted there on Monday.

BABY RUSSEL ROLAND.

Russell Roland, the nine months old son of Mr. and Mrs. Roland C. Pivision died Sunday of pneumonia. The funeral was held from the home Tuesday morning, Rev. R. M. Pierce officiating.

THE COCK FIGHT WHICH DID NOT

SHERIFF'S DEPUTIES SPOILED
A LOT OF FUN FOR DE BOYSS

Several Hundred of the Audience Took to the Woods.

A well attended cock-fight-to-be was nipped just before hostilities began on a recent Sunday afternoon a few miles south-east of town. The pit had been dug, seats for the crowd provided, the birds and several hundred (estimated from 150 to 100) lovers of the sport from Northville, Plymouth, Ypsilanti, Ann Arbor, Wyandotte, Ecorse and Detroit were on hand when some one yelled "de cops are comin'."

Then there was a scattering and when Deputy Springer of Plymouth, McCullough and Bogart of Northville arrived there was nothing but an innocent looking barn and a few feathers. The men had fled and with them went all the birds except two which are still at large in the region of the battle ground.

TRY A LINER IN THE RECORD.

HENRY CULP'S COWS HAD RABIES

SIX HAVE DIED AND OTHERS OF HERD MAY BE AFFECTED.

Had Been Treating Cows for What Was Thought Indigestion.

Henry Culp, a farmer living four miles northwest of this place has recently lost six cows under what appeared to be a peculiar type of disease. N. A. Clapp, an expert dairy man, was consulted and he gave an opinion that it was a case of rabies and suggested that the one affected at that time, Saturday, be killed and the brain sent to Ann Arbor. This was done and the U. of M. experts pronounced Mr. Clapp's opinion as correct. Mr. Culp and family went to Ann Arbor today to take precautionary treatment in case they may have become affected while treating the cattle for what they thought was indigestion. The State Live Stock commission will be asked to take charge of the balance of the herd.

BUSY ELECTION HERE MONDAY

REPUBLICAN VICTORY ALL ALONG THE LINE.

Progressives Showed Strength of About 126 in Township.

It was a big election. At least there was a big vote and plenty of ballots. Four hundred and eighty men did the job in Northville and the Republicans came out victorious by a majority averaging about 150 over their nearest opponent, the Progressive ticket.

In the township Judd Lanning led the ticket with 297 to 109, he getting his extra votes entirely from the Hull Moose voters. Luke Hake for Highway Commissioner, on the Progressive led that ticket with 196 votes and yet strange as it may seem Jesse Clark on the Republican ticket received 206 votes, that being practically the entire party vote Mr. Hake drawing his extra votes from the Democrat party.

On the state ticket Judge Murphy for Supreme Justice led the Democratic ticket with 113 votes, but at the same time Judges Stoere and Moore led the state ticket, with 252 votes, Judge Murphy getting his surplus from the Moose party. Woman's suffrage was lost by a vote of 206 to 215.

Following is the township vote in full.

CHRISTENSEN—HUBBARD.

Miss Iva Hubbard of Battle Creek and John Christensen of this place were united in marriage at the home of the bride in the former city on Thursday of last week. They will make their home with the parents of the groom on the Christensen farm just north of this village.

Mrs. Christensen was formerly a Northville resident, having graduated from our High school. After taking a teacher's course at the Ypsilanti Normal college, she taught in the public school at Battle Creek, her mother, Mrs. Henry Hubbard, and sister, Miss Kate, moving there from Northville.

The groom is also well known and highly respected, having lived here all his life. They have the best wishes of their many friends for a long and happy life.

WILL RAISE 4,930 DOLLARS

REPUBLICANS WIN AND SUFFRAGE LOSES IN STATE ELECTION MONDAY

FIGHT FOR VOTES FOR WOMEN FAILS BY LARGE MAJORITY—MOVEMENT SHOWS DECREASE IN STRENGTH.

DETROIT VOTERS FAVOR SUBMISSION OF CHARTER
AMENDMENT.

Judge Murphy Runs Ahead of Democratic Ticket and Seems for Awhile to Have Beaten Moore for Supreme Judgeship—Some Local Results.

Success for the republican ticket and defeat for the equal suffrage amendment marked the results of the balloting in Michigan on Monday.

Great interest was centered in the fight made for votes for women, but with the impassable condition of country roads making a light rural vote inevitable and the heavy majorities rolled up against the amendment in the large cities it early became evident that the battle was lost to the women.

Early returns indicated a sweeping victory for the republican state ticket, with the exception of one supreme judgeship which looked for awhile as though it would go to Murphy, democratic nominee.

HON. JOSEPH H. STEERE.
Elected Judge of Supreme Court.

Much strength had been lost by the equal suffrage movement since the last election, many counties reversing the large favorable margin which they at that time gave to the amendment.

Municipal ownership amendment to Detroit's charter, voted by a two-thirds vote approving three to one.

The equal suffrage amendment was defeated by a vote of four to one in Detroit. Thirty-five precincts in Wayne county, evidenced a total vote of 1702 against equal suffrage and 1239 for it.

Judge Albert J. Murphy, democratic candidate for justice of the supreme court, was victorious in both city and county by a big lead, with Steere, Moore and Person trailing. The vote for Judge Murphy was much stronger in the city than in the county, his name carrying practically every precinct in Detroit.

150,000,000 Parcels Handled.

More than 150,000,000 parcels post packages were mailed during the first three months the system was in operation, according to computations announced by postal experts, and based on reports from the 50 largest post-offices. Approximately 55 per cent more business was handled in March than in January. Chicago leads all other cities, 6,895,744 parcels being handled in two months; New York handled 5,978,976, and Boston 1,657,039.

Explosion Kills Four Men.

Four men were burned to death and others fatally injured in an explosion at the Homestead steel works of the United States Steel corporation near Pittsburgh.

Charles Quick, 80, wandered off a bridge and was drowned in Grand River at Grand Haven.

Frank Geralski, 70, of Bay City, received injuries from which he died when the wagon in which he and his wife were driving turned turtle and plumed them beneath it in a ditch.

Fire broke out in Heath & Butler's general store at Port Austin, threatening for a time to wipe out the village under a stiff wind. Good work kept the fire from other buildings, but the general store was gutted.

Benjamin Taylor, 35 years old, a farmer who lived near Saranac, set fire to the mattress in a cell in the jail at Lowell, and died from suffocation. It is thought Taylor attempted to strangle his pipe and dropped a blazing match on the bed.

Scores of persons narrowly escaped serious injury when a rush was made for the doors of the Bijou theater after some person had shouted "fire." The theater was packed with women and children. Prompt work on the part of the theater police prevented a serious panic.

NEWS FROM THE STATE CAPITOL

WALTER BILL PROVIDES FOR SUBMISSION OF CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT.

THIRTY THOUSAND DOLLARS
FOR CENTENNIAL.

It is Likely That Formal Adjournment Will Be Set for April 25 and Final Windup for May the 15th.

[Gurd M. Hayes.]

The senate in committee of the whole has agreed to the blue sky bill which has the following names attached to it in order that every one interested may secure due credit. Senators Smith, Ogg, Wiggins, Powell and Verder. With all these deeds the bill ought to be well looked after. Identically the same bill will go into the house with a different set of names attached, and then one or the other will give way.

An unusual bill agreed to is that of Senator Walter providing for the submission to the people the question of an amendment to the constitution which will allow for the submission of proposed legislation to the supreme court to pass upon its constitutionality.

There was a lively row over the Monmouth bill which passed the house, which gives the state board of health supervision over the sewer and water systems for the purpose of requiring good sanitation. Senator F. D. Scott, Senator Smith and Senator Rosenkrans all opposed features of the bill while Senator Amberson and others fought for it, in one end keeping the vital features of the measure despite the protest against the state board in interfering with home rule in such matters.

On third reading the senate passed the Ogg bill providing $30,000 for the state's share in the celebration of the Perry centennial. The bill was given immediate effect. Rep. I. A. McBride's bill relative to the purchase of farm products was declared unconstitutional by Senator Verder. The purpose of the bill is to place a tax on milk and cream products which will in one community drive out competition and then recompense their losses in another community in which they have no competition by lowering the price of milk and cream.

Rep. DeLoach introduced his bill which had passed on the title since it was defeated by the vote of 42 to 42. It passed three more votes on a total of 212, but it was taken up again but not to be hopelessly buried and will not come up for consideration again. The state of Rep. Young had it taken from the title and attempted to have it amended to take in cities of 5,500 or more. The amendment was promptly beaten and before anyone could enter into a lengthy discussion, the previous question was moved. The bill failed, the vote being 45 to 41.

The senate has passed a bill revising the law relative to fishing in the great lakes, whereby the closed season for trout is fixed from October 10 to November 1 and whitefish from November 20 to December 15. By this provision the state adopts the policy of conserving the fish by means of artificial propagation, experience having demonstrated, Senator Walter, of Traverse City, states that where the federal hatcheries have been planting the spawn the supply is increasing, while in other fishing grounds it is gradually growing less. The spawn are all furnished from federal hatcheries. The law also requires that all catches be brought to Michigan ports for inspection before they are shipped.

The bill providing regulations for the inspection of sugar beets and one providing amendments to the law relative to mutual fire insurance companies, both of which have passed the house, were also passed by the senate. The bill providing for the purchase of a farm for the Jackson prison, under a plan agreed upon by the legislature, prison officials and citizens of Jackson, passed the house and has gone to the governor for his signature.

The senate adopted the Bayless resolution urging the retention of Fort Brady as an army post on the score of its situation at the Soo locks and because of the healthfulness of the location. A copy is to be forwarded to congress and the war department.

Despite the fact that very little important legislation has yet been passed and there are hundreds of bills in committee that have not been acted upon, preparations are under way to make the date of the formal adjournment April 25, and officially wind up affairs May 15.

The official track and field meet of the Michigan Interscholastic Athletic association will be held at the Michigan Agricultural college, East Lansing, June 1.

Rep. E. T. Middleton of Flint caused another sensation in the house when the explanation of his interview charging liquor interests in the house with cutting the appropriation of the School for the Deaf to punish him for activity in opposition to the liquor traffic, was read a few days ago.

Middleton opened with an attack on Rep. D. G. F. Warner whom he styled the champion of the liquor interests and the modern Goliath of the legislature. "I was very much surprised to learn of the resolution put in by Rep. Warner," said Middleton. "I think the condemnation in Mr. Warner's resolution was unjust and unfair. It seems to me that this modern Goliath of the house who for several years has posed as the champion of the liquor interests and now posing as injured innocence, has seized this opportunity to stir up opposition against me and put me in a false light with my fellow members in the house."

Rep. Newell Smith's bill amending the soldiers exemption act to put the burden of exemption upon the state rather than the local assessment fell by the wayside in the renewal of the old legislative feud between Rep. Smith and Rep. Moore. Those two members have been in several fights recently and when the Smith bill came up Rep. Moore dragged out his argument and proceeded to do a job of decapitation.

Rep. Moore had plenty of assistance. The house had just given the old soldiers $20,000 for a trip to Gettysburg and was in a particularly patriotic frame of mind and after Rep. Moore had made a stirring address, sentiment seemed pretty strong against the Smith measure. The motion to strike out all after the enacting clause prevailed in committee of the whole and Rep. Smith's attempt to resuscitate the measure on a record vote on the question of concurring in the action of the committee, was a failure.

The boiler inspection bill which has been presented in other sessions and facetiously termed a measure to create jobs and to further the interests of the boiler insurance companies, has passed the house. In order to get the votes however, the backers of the measure exempted about everything but fireless cookers and incubators.

As usual, the farmer's vote was obtained by exemptions. Under the bill the traction engine, which exports in state as responsible for 50 per cent of the boiler failures involving the loss of life and the limb, is not included under the provisions of the bill, and there is some indirect reference to the farmer's motive power unit, the bill was further amended to apply to all power used for sawing wood, drilling wells, thrashing and all other agricultural work.

Attorney General Fellows has furnished the senate with an opinion in which he holds that the House bill which prohibits liquor dealers from extending credit for purchases of liquor less than a quart, is unconstitutional. He holds that under the terms of the bill the legislature assumes police powers and declares that such legislation is repugnant to the state and federal constitutions. The bill has passed the house and is ready for final action in the senate. House members are considerably disturbed by the opinion Attorney General Fellows has furnished the senate to the effect that each county with a majority of the ratio of representation fixed by the house in its bill reapportioning its representative districts, is entitled to a separate representative.

The moiety is 14,051 and under the opinion the following counties which are grouped with other counties must be given separate representatives, under the opinion: Cheboygan, Emmet, Alpena, Antrim, Charlevoix, Wexford, Osceola, Mason, Oceana, Newaygo and Iron. If Fellows' opinion is followed the whole system of representative will have to be changed or the representation of Wayne and other counties reduced. The constitution prohibits the house consisting of more than 100 members.

Friends of the proposed short ballot which would enable the governor to appoint all state officers with the exception of lieutenant governor, were unable to muster the two-thirds vote in the house required to pass the resolution to submit this constitutional amendment, and the proposition is dead for the present session.

The bill introduced by Senator King which is intended as a companion to the Odell free text book bill, has been passed by the senate. The King bill requires publishers who sell books in Michigan to give bond that they will sell them as cheap here as they do in other states. Senator Straight opposed the bill, claiming it was not practical. Senator Odell who pushed the free text book bill through the senate, says he will ask the house committee on education to report out his bill at once.

The house passed the Mobile bill introduced by Rep. Ashley which regulates fraternal insurance societies. Lobbyists have spent considerable time trying to kill this bill in the house. Speaker Currie and several other veterans voted against this progressive measure.

Rep. C. W. Smith has a bill before the legislature to change the name of the Lapeer Home for the Feeble-minded to the "Michigan Home and Training School."

CANADA WINS AGAIN

THE COLORADO SILVER TROPHY
FOR OATS WON A SECOND TIME BY CANADA.

The most recent achievement of Canada's West is winning for the second time the magnificent $1,500 silver trophy awarded by the State of Colorado for the best peck of oats. At Columbus, Ohio, in 1911, J. C. Hill & Sons of Lloydminster, Saskatchewan, placed a peck of oats grown on their farm in competition with oats from every part of the world. The judges had no difficulty in deciding, and the award was given to the Saskatchewan grown oats. In 1912, the Corn Exposition had no exhibition, and our Canadian friends, although ready for a second contest had no opportunity. In 1913, the exhibition of the Society was held at Columbus, S. C., and it is said of it that it was one of the best yet held. At this exhibition, which comprised corn and all the smaller grains, Hill & Sons of Lloydminster had on exhibition for the contest another peck of oats grown on their Saskatchewan farm, in 1912. There was no trouble for the judges, no time necessarily lost in reaching a decision. Hill & Sons won, and for the second time their name will appear on the crest of the cup. The third space will doubtless be occupied by their name, and then this splendid trophy will be theirs.

During the past few years Western Canada grains—wheat, oats, barley and flax—have been in competition with grains from all other countries, and in every case their superiority has been shown. It is not only in oats, but it is in wheat, in barley and in flax, that Canada more than holds its own, when placed side by side with grains from other parts.

Mixed farming is taking a strong hold not only in those parts of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, which up to the present have been devoted solely to grain growing, but also in the districts contiguous, where the conditions of climate, shelter, water, grass and hay make farming of this kind, easy to prosecute and large in profits. It was in the Province of Manitoba that the steer was raised that carried off the Championship of the steer class, at Chicago last December. This beast had been fattened on the grass and hay of the Province and the only finishing grain it had was barley, not an ounce of corn.

Western Canada presents innumerable opportunities for the big farmer who wants to cultivate his thousands of acres, the medium man satisfied with a few hundred acres, the man who is content to farm his free homestead of one hundred and sixty acres; it has opportunities for the investor, the capitalist, the business man, the manufacturer and the laborer.

Agents of the Canadian Government located at different points in the United States will be pleased on application, to give any desired information, free of cost.—Advertisement

PIRATE TREASURE NOT FOUND

Well Furnished Expedition Returns
Without the Riches It Had Been in Search Of.

The treasure hunting party from Plymouth, England, which has been searching Cocos Island in the Pacific for treasure supposed to have been buried there by pirates many years ago, has arrived at Panama on board the steamer Melmore without the hoped for pirate spoils. The Melmore sailed from Barry in September last, carrying in addition to the officers and crew, two London ladies and three gentlemen financially interested in a venture which was fondly hoped to return 100 per cent profit.

Two other unsuccessful attempts to locate the buried gold and jewels of the buccanniers made by Earl Fitzwilliam and Mr. Harold Gray did not diminish the faith of the members of the Melmore expedition, who declared they had specific information of the exact position of the accumulated hoard.

One treasure was actually brought from Lima in 1820, consisting of gold bullion and articles to the value of about $25,000,000, and the other treasure, which is placed at an even higher figure, was taken to Cocos Island by the famous pirate Bonito. Despite the care with which the Melmore was fitted out—the expedition was estimated to cost $500,000—the search appears to have been fruitless.

Bear's Grease and Baldness.

In a recent volume of reminiscences the writer states that baldness is much more common now than in his early days, and ascribes the modern man's loss of hair to the decrease in the use of "bear's grease." This pomade was made principally of lard colored and scented, but "hairdressers, many of whom called themselves 'professors,' used to advertise the slaughter of another fine bear, exhibiting a canvas screen depicting in glaring colors a brown animal of elephantine proportions—exploding in a sea of gore."

Better Give Up Fish.

Some people are always prepared for trouble which may not materialize, like the man who carried a raw egg wherever he went.

"Why must you always carry about a raw egg?" asked a friend one day.

"Because it is such an excellent remedy for fishbone in the throat."

An instance.

"There is nothing in analogy."

"Why not?"

"Because if there was, it would be a little more common."

SYNOPSIS.

Robert Cameron, capitalist, consults Philip Clyde, newspaper publisher, regarding the mysterious disappearance of his son, who is believed to be in the hands of the Chinese. On that day the head is mysteriously cut from a portrait of Cameron while the latter is in the room. While visiting Cameron in his dressing room, Nell Grayson, a girl who is mysteriously attracted to Cameron, becomes seriously ill as a result of the shock. The third letter appears mysteriously on Cameron's sick bed. It makes direct threats against the life of Cameron. Clyde tells Cameron the envelope was empty. He tells Evelyn Grayson, who plans to take Cameron on his yacht trip, that the yacht picks up a fisherman found floating helplessly in a boat. He gives the name of Cameron. Cameron disappears from the yacht while Clyde's back is turned. A fruitless search is made for a motor boat near the harbor just as Cameron disappears. Johnson is allowed to go after being closely questioned. Evelyn takes the letters to an expert in Chinese literature, who pronounces them of Chinese origin. Clyde seeks assistance from a Chinese fellow college student, who recommends him to Yip Sing, most prominent Chinese in New York City. Clyde goes to meet Yip Sing, who Johnson, attempts to follow him, falls into a basement, sprains his ankle, and becomes unconscious. Clyde is found by Miss Clement, a missionary among the Chinese. He is sick several days as a result of inhaling charcoal fumes. Evelyn tells Clyde of a peculiarly acting aesthete, which renders a person temporarily unconscious. Murphy is discovered to have mysterious relations with the Chinese. Miss Clement promises to get information about Cameron. Blump in Crystal Consolidated, of which Cameron is the head, is caused by a rumor of Cameron's illness. Clyde and Cameron on Fifth avenue in a dazed and smothered condition and takes him home. Cameron awakes from a long sleep and speaks in a strange tongue. Evelyn declares the man is not her uncle. Evelyn and Clyde call on Miss Clement for promised information and find that the Chinese man who was to give him has just been murdered. Miss Clement gives Clyde a note, asking him to read it after he leaves the mission and then destroy it. It tells of the abduction of a white man by Chinese who shipped him back to China. The man is accused of the crime of "Sable" London, which the Chinese were killed. The appearance in New York of the man they supposed they had shipped to China, therefore, is a constant reminder to the Chinese. The brouhaha in which Clyde and Evelyn are rising in held up by an armed man. Clyde is seized by Murphy and the fight ends. Evelyn and Clyde are rescued by the police and return home. They find Yip Sing and the Chinese consul awaiting them. Yip tells Clyde the story of the capture of the "Sable" London, in which Yip and Cameron were deliriously sent to their death by one Donald McNish. McNish, they declare that McNish can be identified by a tattoo mark on his arm. Clyde declares that Cameron has no such mark. The tattoo mark is called by McNish the "Sable" London. McNish is from the man's mother in Scotland and identifies the tattoo as McNish's. Contradicted by the fact that McNish is a half-breed Chinese, McNish is identified by Clyde as Johnson, the fisherman. McNish tells the whole story from the day before he died. Murphy, whose right name is Moran, had been a friend of McNish in the United States. McNish and Moran became his most reliable partner. He was the author of the threatening letters. Moran was responsible for the mysterious disappearance of Cameron's home. He was the author of the invisibility. Cameron was drugged and shipped as a member of the crew of a tramp steamer bound for Hongkong.

CHAPTER XXVII.—Continued.

So far as I could judge, the Glamorganshire would call at Algiers in a few days; and for a while I considered the advisability of communicating with the United States Consul at that port, through the State Department at Washington. But a knowledge of the tortuous involutions of official red tape deterred me. After all, I believed that if Cameron was to be rescued from the grueling slavery of servitude on this British freighter, the work must not be entrusted to the personally disinterested.

Thereupon I consulted calendars, steamer schedules, and Continental time-tables. By the fast transatlantic liner sailing on the morrow, I could make Paris in six days. Forty-eight hours later I could be in Brindisi. If good fortune followed, less than four days more would land me at Port Said. It was now Monday, November 23. Twelve days hence would be December 5th, and the Glamorganshire, her agents had told me, could not possibly reach there before December 6th. The margin was not wide, but it seemed to me sufficient, and the thought of further motion, now that the trail lay bare, was nothing less than unendurable torment.

Wisdom, I suppose, would have dictated the advisability of securing some badge of authority from my own government before setting forth on a mission involving so delicate a point of international maritime law, as that which was here embraced; but the saving of time was with me, just then, the paramount consideration. The loss of a day meant the possible missing not only of connections, but of the main object of my journey; and so, armed with nothing more potent than good health, strong determination, and a well-filled purse I boarded the Kronprinz Wilhelm and started on my diagonal race to head off a quarry which already had twenty-five days' start of me.

Succeed being all-important, my wish was to travel alone and unaccompanied, but at the last moment I was persuaded to consent to the company of both Evelyn Grayson and Dr. Addison. Realizing the brave, unflinching assistance which the young woman had afforded me from the first, I could hardly refuse to gratify her wish to be present at whatever adventures would thought of absence from her for a month at least, and probably much longer, was far from the most pleasant contemplation; my yielding, therefore, was not altogether unselfish.

Dr. Addison's case was different. At the last moment he decided to go abroad by the same ship; and, on the way over, touched by his condition and his almost pathetic desire to make amends to his quondam friend at the earliest possible minute, I myself invited him to go with us the rest of the way.

Evelyn had proposed that Mrs. Lancaster should also be included in the party, but this I would not hear of. If, for propriety's sake, another presence was necessary, her maid, and, ultimately, Dr. Addison, afforded all the security the conversions could demand.

The fever of haste was upon all of us from the start. The time on shipboard, in spite of our common subject of converse dragged eternally.

Should we reach Cherbourg in time to connect with the P. & O. Express at Paris? That was the one constant recurring question, to be speculated upon with varying degrees of hope and despair.

As good fortune would have it, we made the train with fifteen minutes to spare, and the run to Brindisi was accomplished without accident or uneasiness.

Here, however, we were compelled to wait six hours. The steamer was late, owing to some seismic disturbance off the coast of Malta, and fear of encountering new and necessarily uncharted volcanic islands, had demanded slow and cautious sailing. However, disaster had been the game Fate played with us in the earlier stages of our quest, the favor of its present mood could not be gained. That we were now reasonably sure of reaching Port Said in advance of the Glamorganshire was in itself a welcome relief from trying anxiety; but that was only a small part of the banquet of good things provided for us.

I was still exercised in a measure over the steps which must be taken to secure Cameron's release. Without proper introduction to the authorities, it was becoming more and more a question in my mind whether, after all, I should be able to accomplish my end in the brief time to which I was restricted.

With this self-possibility of failure clinging in my reflections, I was striding the white deck of the P. and O. steamer, in the early morning following the night of our departure from Brindisi, when a hand, dropped heavily on my shoulder, spun me round to face a laughing, sun-browned, young Englishman in white flannels.

For just a moment I was literally, as well as figuratively, taken aback, for the tone of the ringing voice which greeted me carried me five years at least into the past, when Lionel Hartley and I had ridden, to bounds together at Melton Mowbray, while fellow guests at a house-party in the neighborhood.

"You bally Yankee!" he was shouting. "Fancy running into you in this fashion! I'm jolly glad to see you, old chap!"

Though my delight at seeing him was at that moment tempered by absorbing interest in my mission, it rose a few minutes later to unadulterated ecstasy, when I discovered that he was stationed at Port Said, and occupied what seemed to me just then one of the most important posts in the British Foreign Service—secretary to the Governor General for the Suez Canal.

"You're going to Cairo, I suppose?" he hazarded.

"No," I replied. "I'm going with you, and I shall not let you out of my sight, my friend, until you have proved you're something more than a figure-head stuck up in the Egyptian sands."

"If there's any little thing I can do," he began; but I interrupted him. "There's a very big thing you can do," I corrected. And then I told him "What a lark!" he cried, refusing to recognize the serious side of it. "Fancy one of your American multimillionaires passing coal on a British freighter."

ence. I did hunt Hartley up and I did present him, but not until I had allowed time for the first flush of Evelyn's fervor to cool.

"He was a very good-looking young chap," Evelyn was both grateful and impulsive; and I was in love.

Our landing at Port Said was made on the morning of Saturday, the 5th of December, and all that day and the next, we waited in more or less constant expectancy and a boiling temperature for tidings of the tardy Glamorganshire.

Hartley, meanwhile, was a model of hospitality, but Port Said is primarily a coaling station on the sea-edge of the desert, and aside from the coquette docks, the ships, the light houses, and the nearly naked Nubians that swarmed everywhere, it proved utterly lacking in objects of interest.

Sunday night brought some small relief from the intolerable heat, and grateful for the respite, all four of our little party were early to bed. Gradually we had come to believe that our waiting was likely to be prolonged.

The earthquake at Malta having delayed one vessel would in all probability delay others as well, including that which we had come so far to intercept. So, utterly worn out by nervous tension and the fatigue of the tropical climate, we found rest grateful, and slept soundly. Just how soundly was demonstrated when, at an hour after midnight, three resounding knocks on my hotel chamber door only roused me, dully, and left Evelyn and her maid and Dr. Addison, who occupied adjacent rooms, in deep slumber, totally undisturbed.

With what seemed almost superhuman effort, I spurred myself to consciousness and struggled up on elbow. "Who's there?" I called.

"Hartley," came the answer. "Open the door. I thought you'd died of Port Said ennu!" And when I had sleepily risen and admitted him he went on hurriedly. "Make haste, now, old chap! The bally freighter has just come in, and I don't propose to lose that tanner through dilatory methods on your part!"

But I needed no urging. Wide awake at his first sentence, I was already clinging on my clothes. He still chattered on in his chaffing way, but I scarcely heard him. Conscious only of the murmur of his pleasant, cheery English voice, my thoughts were out in the night, across the waters of the harbor, down in the inferno of a rusty ocean tramp, where a sweating stoker was giving battle to despair—a sweating stoker who, in far away America, owned a pleasure craft almost as big as the ship whose tires he had been feeding for forty days across two seas.

"How about the doctor?" Hartley asked, as I stripped my arms into my coat sleeves and snatched a cap from a closet peg.

"It's too late now," was my answer. "You should have reminded me I forgot all about him." And it was true. I had forgotten everything, except the imminence of the rescue and the urgency of haste. To one in Cameron's plight every fretting minute must count a drop of torture.

The heavens were splendid with tropic stars, and a faint breeze from the sea gently ruffled the spangled black harbor waters, as Hartley's launch, guided by a pilot of experience, headed for the twinkling lights of the recently anchored freighter.

Silently I sat, with gaze straining, watching the indicated sparks grow larger and brighter, moment by moment, until at length their gleams reflected in the waves, and their background emerged in a great dark shadow, which silhouetted itself against the less opaque sky.

"There she is!" Hartley cried in enthusiasm, as her funnel and masts somberly defined themselves above the black of her hull. "We'll be able to hail her in another minute."

Then I heard the voice of our helmsman ring out, and presently there was an answering shout from above, and an exchange of greetings, succeeded by directions and the next moment, I was following Hartley up a swaying rope-ladder to a large outland lantern gloved overhead.

"Yes, Secretary to the Governor General," I heard my friend saying, as I put foot on the iron deck. "You're Captain Murchison, I suppose?"

The captain's affirmative was more than deferential; it was obsequious. He was not a tall man, but broad, rugged and bearded, with long, powerful, gorilla-like arms out of all proportion to his stature. I could readily fancy him an ugly antagonist. Unaided by Hartley, I concluded, I should have had small chance indeed of success. But the low-born Briton's respect for official authority was evidently strong in him, and I felt that if Cameron was aboard we should be able to effect his rescue with a minimum of effort.

"I should like to see you in your cabin, Captain," Hartley proposed, and when we were closeted there, he continued: "There is a report that you have among your crew a United States subject who was brought aboard, drugged, and forced to remain aboard against his will. His government has interested itself in his behalf, and unless he is restored at once to his friends serious complications will undoubtedly ensue."

"The captain, despite his respect for authority, frowned."

"There's nothing to that report, sir," he said, boldly. "I'm not shanghaiing men in these days, sir. Every mother's son I've got on this boat shipped for Hong-Kong, sir, of his own free will and accord."

"I dare say you fully believe that, Captain Murchison," was Hartley's diplomatic rejoinder. "But this time you happen to be mistaken. I don't suppose you have any objection to our inspecting your crew, have you? Suppose you have both the watches piped forward, and we'll sort this little business for ourselves. Mr. Clyde, here, knows the man."

Captain Murchison's glance at me was undisguisedly venomous. Reluctantly he rang for his steward.

"Send the boy's name here," he directed, doggedly.

"We'll begin at the bottom, Captain," Hartley suggested, when the boatswain, cap in hand, stood in the doorway. "First, I want to see every man Jack you have working in the stoke hold."

Although the master gave the necessary directions I mistrusted him. Between the boatswain and himself I felt that there was an understanding which required neither voicing nor signal. And as, a little later, we stood on the forward deck, under the bridge, and by the light of a lantern viewed one after another of those swarthy, gummy laborers who had crowded up from below, I was convinced of the correctness of my intuition. For Cameron was not among them.

And then a chill fear gripped me. Could a man of his habits and training, suddenly called upon to assume such labor, survive his rigors? He was naturally robust, but I had been warned by an illness. Might he not therefore have succumbed to the strain, died, and been buried at sea?

But one consideration sustained me. In their cunning cruelty, the Chinese who had arranged for his transportation must have stipulated that he be delivered in China alive. Otherwise their vengeance could not be complete. It was not likely that anything had been left to mere chance. The probabilities were that Murchison knew definitely what was required of him and was to be well paid for his services.

Upon his serene face, now, there was something of a sneer as, our examination concluded, he said:

"What next, Mr. Hartley?"

But for a moment Hartley, who was standing thoughtfully with brow contracted, his lower lip gripped between finger and thumb, made no response. Before he spoke his attitude changed. Quickly he had assumed a pose of listening intently. Behind him, somewhere, a clamor had arisen. Voices, excited, hoarse, frenzied, yet smothered by distance, echoed gully.

"That man, next, Captain," he said, coolly. "The man they're trying to keep below."

It may have been that his hearing was more acute than mine, or it may only have been a guess. I don't know. But, whichever it was, it hit the mark. It scored a bull's-eye at long range.

Captain Murchison's indifference gave way instantly to palpable uneasiness. His hands, which had been deep in his coat pockets, came out as though jerked by springs. One of them canted his cap from his brow to his crown and the other clutched agitatedly at his beard. And in that moment the riot advanced, the voices waxed louder, and more distinct; scurrying feet resounded on the metal deck.

I saw the captain start hurriedly toward the starboard rail, intent evidently on meeting the rabble which was approaching on that side, and I saw Hartley boldly block his way. And then, almost at the same instant, I saw a tall figure with naked torso as black and shining as polished ebony—black with grime and shining with sweat—come running backward toward the corner of the deck house. Saw it with an iron bar held menacingly aloft against its pressing pursuers; and even in the uncertain light of the deck lanterns, recognized it at once, by its outline and the characteristic set of its head upon its shoulders, nude to the waist and clothed as it was, as the figure of the man I sought.

"Cameron!" I cried, chokingly, my fast-beating heart crowding my utterance. And all unmindful of the dirt which covered him I flung my arms about his waist from behind. "Cameron! Cameron! Thank God! Thank God!"

I heard the iron bar drop resoundingly to the deck; I heard Hartley's voice raised in anger, strident, staccato; and I heard the receding shuffle of feet as those who had pursued now backed away. There followed then, a moment of silence, while the body, I had held twisted out of my arms, and having released it, turned toward me and looked me—a moment of silence, only, for against the sudden stillness there now rang out a weird, palpitant cry, born of surcharged emotion, as "Cameron, casting himself forward into my arms, buried his face in the angle of my neck and shoulder.

CHAPTER XXVIII.

A Final Problem.

It is doubtful whether in all Egypt there was ever such another period of joyous thanksgiving as that which followed the bringing of Cameron to the little hotel in Port Said. I am inclined to question, too, whether in the space of a single waking day four persons ever talked more, or with more mutual interest, than did the four of us there gathered. The heat, the flies, the poor food, and the miserable accommodations, generally, were not merely tolerated, but absolutely disregarded. In the exuberance of our rejoicing, annoyances which had loomed large on the preceding day, dwindled to the imperceptible; and from early morning until late night experiences were exchanged, adventures told and speculations indulged in.

Washed, scrubbed, shaved, shorn and clad in raiment put at his disposal by the indefatigable Hartley, Cameron appeared wonderfully well-looking. Indeed I was amazed by his appearance and by his condition. I had feared to find him a mental and physical ruin. I had feared even for his life. And he had come to us, if I might judge by outward seeming, stronger, more robust, less nervously relaxed than when he disappeared.

"At first," he told us, as we sat at breakfast in a little upper room of the hotel, Evelyn close on his right, Dr. Addison at his left, and I opposite him, "I suppose I did suffer, whenever I was conscious, which, fortunately, I think, was comparatively seldom. They dosed me almost continuously with what I believe to have been some attribute of opium, so that even in my waking moments I was not wholly normal. In this way, of course, I lost all count of time. And no, too, I am unable to give events in sequence. My first conscious moment after being on the deck of the Sibylla found me strapped in a narrow berth on a rapid, but rather rough riding craft of apparently much smaller dimension than the yacht, and with a Chinaman by my side, who was, I am sure, my startled amazement at the sudden transition. In vain I asked questions in vain I struggled to rise. Then I shouted, and the Chinaman boy lighted what appeared to be an ordinary joss-stick on a stand at the head of my berth, and withdrew from the tiny cabin. Unconsciousness followed quickly. After that I have a vague, dreamy recollection of eating something with a strange, spicy flavor, which seemed only to add to my stupor. Once I dreamed—at least I think it must have been a dream—that I was in a dark box, so cramped that my bones ached, and that far away above me were little holes through which the light came in luminous fan-like rays that glowed against the black."

"I'm inclined to think it was no dream," I put in, recalling the newspaper story I had read in my broker's office, in Wall street. "The probabilities are that you were shipped in that box from Fall River to New York, and a certain influential Chinaman, called Yip Sing, knew all about it."

"It's quite possible," Cameron went on. "I know that it was very difficult to distinguish, in those days, between dreams and realities. Eventually, however, I awoke to find myself on the Glamorganshire, quartered with the men in the fore-castle, a beard well grown and my clothes the coarsest sort of mariner's outfit. For a while I was far too ill for labor. The reaction from the drugs which had been administered caused me the keenest suffering. But, gradually, I came about, and was set to work with paint pot and brush. The humanity shown me at this time was surprising. I couldn't comprehend it. But I realized eventually that my strength was being fostered for future torment."

Eye For Business. In one of the missions along North Ninth street the other evening sat a man, who apparently had tarried too long in drinking places. As the meeting advanced he layened up and put a quarter in the tambourine as it was passed along. This caused a chorus of approval from the workers, one of whom went down to the man and besought him to give a testimony.

After some hesitation the man arose to his feet and in a choked voice related his experiences. Finally he spoke of the many saloons catering to the thirst and stated his desire to see all, excepting one, put out of business. A chorus of "Amen's" greeted this statement, but not quite satisfied, one of the workers asked him why he would save one and destroy all the rest. "Glowing," the man rumbled forth, "I could run it myself."

GIRL SUFFERED TERRIBLY

At Regular Intervals—Says Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound completely cured her.

Adrian, Texas.—"I take pleasure in adding my testimonial to the great list and hope that it will be of interest to suffering women. For four years I suffered untold agonies at regular intervals. Such pains and cramps, severe chills and sickness at stomach, then finally hemorrhages until I would be nearly blind. I had five doctors and none of them could do more than relieve me for a time."

"I saw your advertisement in a paper and decided to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I took seven boxes of it and used two bottles of the Sensitive Wash, and I am completely cured of my trouble. When I began taking the Compound I only weighed ninety-six pounds and now I weigh one hundred and twenty-six pounds. If anyone wishes to address me in person I will cheerfully answer all letters, as I cannot speak too highly of the Pinkham remedies."—Miss JESSIE MARSE, Adrian, Texas.

Hundreds of such letters expressing gratitude for the good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has accomplished are constantly being received, proving the reliability of this grand old remedy.

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham, Medicine Co. (confidential), Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read, and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

RESINOL RELIEVED ITCHING INSTANTLY

And Completely Cured Skin Humors.

If you have eczema or any other itching, burning skin trouble, the best evidence of what Resinol Soap and Resinol Ointment can do for you is the word of one who was cured by them after weeks of suffering. Adolph Schorn, 742 Shepherd Ave., Brooklyn, writes:

Nov. 1, 1912.—"At first little red spots were seen on my arms and body, which I noticed were getting larger every day. They itched me so much that I scratched myself until I bled. There were times when I stood up all night and scratched. I was troubled about three weeks, during which time I used — which seemed to do me no good whatever. Then, finally, I thought of trying Resinol Soap and Resinol Ointment. As soon as I applied Resinol Ointment I felt much relief. After using it a few times, I noticed the sore spots slowly fading away, and in about a month I was cured completely."

The soothing, healing balsams in Resinol Ointment and Resinol Soap, penetrate every tiny pore of the skin, clearing it of all impurities, driving away eczema, rashes, ringworm, warts, and other eruptions, and making pimples and blackheads impossible. Prescribed by physicians for eighteen years. For free samples write to Dept. B. K. Resinol, Baltimore, Md. Every drugstore sells Resinol Ointment (50c) and Resinol Soap (25c), or sent by parcel post on receipt of price.

THE NEW NICKEL.

The treasury department of the United States of America, having decided on making some change in the form and appearance of certain items of our circulating medium, employed a noted artist to produce beautiful and appropriate designs for new paper currency of specified denominations. The artist is said to have succeeded admirably from the artistic viewpoint and also to have evolved a complicated and highly satisfactory result that will defy the skill of the most expert counterfeiters. So far, so good; but alas for another new money issue—the 1913 nickel! This coin certainly possesses no possibilities along the line of artistic education for the vast percentage of folks who use more nickels than bills. It is, in fact, about the homeliest, most inartistic and unworkmanlike coin ever put into circulation in this country, at least to the eye of the ordinary person. Even the "Injun" is not the familiar ideal representation of the original American we have come to consider typical on coin at least—and while the animal on the other side has "a hump on himself" thus conveying some inferential characteristic American advice, he certainly isn't a bit pretty. As for the inscriptions, there has apparently been some unlawful collusion with the oculists and opticians of the country, as the words "Liberty" on one side and "Five cents" and our national motto on the other are in such small type that only the sharpest eye-sight can read them. In regard to the possibilities of counterfeiting it would be a very clumsy operator in that business who could get out a better finished article and it is stated that that a lot of boys ones are already in circulation. However, the philosophical view of the case is the only one to take, since only an act of Congress will enable the treasury department to change any of our change until twenty-five years from date of first issue. So we can only hope we may be able to get our share of the present output of four millions of these much abused coins early and often enough to speedily get used to their imperfections of appearances.

Anyhow, it takes only twenty of 'em to make enough to exchange for one of those lovely little one dollar bills, but are coming later on.

BUYING A HOME.

Every laboring poor man should buy himself a town lot, get that paid for, and then work to make the necessary improvements. A little here and a little there will in due time produce you a home of your own, and place you out of the landlord's grasp; remember that $50 a year saved in rent, will in a few years pay for your home, and the money it costs you to move and shift about, without a loss of furniture and time, pay the interest on a five hundred dollar judgment against your property, until you can gradually reduce it to nothing. You can all buy that way—why do you not risk it? If you fail you are no worse off—if you succeed, as any careful man is sure to do, you have made a home and established a basis equal to another's, which will start you in business.

MONDAY'S REPUBLICAN VICTORY

The Republican victory through the state on Monday was due in no small measure to the splendid efforts of State Central Committee Chairman, Alex J. Grossbeck of Detroit. His diplomacy; his tact and progressive policy did much to bring back a large number of the 1912 Bull Moose into the Republican ranks, where they will now assist in the betterment of that party, rather than to aid in its being torn asunder by dissension.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lawrence of St. Louis, Mo., who arrived here Tuesday afternoon, just in time to attend the funeral of their mother, have returned to her home.

Mrs. William Lawrence and little daughter, who have been spending the past few weeks at the family home here, returned Wednesday to their home in Lansing with Mr. Lawrence.

Mrs. C. O. Wisdom and her sister, Mrs. Owens, and baby, from Roscommon, who have been visiting at the Wisdom home here, have been spending the week with their mother at Coleman.

Cough Medicine for Children.

Too much care cannot be used in selecting a cough medicine for children. It should be pleasant to take, contain no harmful substances and be most effective. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy meets these requirements and is a favorite with the mothers of young children everywhere. For sale by all dealers.

Mrs. Burton Beagle and Mrs. Carrie Boggs, president and senior vice-president of the Detroit Daughters of the G. A. R. were guests Monday and Tuesday of Mrs. J. J. Marks at her father's home here. Mrs. E. H. Rogers and Mrs. Peters, also of Detroit, were there on Tuesday and attended the funeral of Mrs. Lawrence.

SCHOOL NOTES.

Harold Voight has entered the Seventh grade.

The Third grade is studying the map of Michigan.

Thelma Bennett spelled down the Eighth grade Friday.

Several are absent from school on account of measles and mumps.

Pay Carpenter, is out of school on account of a severe attack of quinsy.

The Juniors are studying their play, all parts having now been assigned.

The agent for Scott, Foreman & Co., from Jackson visited school Tuesday afternoon.

The High school teachers attended the schoolmasters' club at Ann Arbor last Friday.

The grade teachers gave Mrs. Woolley a little birthday surprise Tuesday evening.

Jay Thompson of the Third grade has returned to school after an absence of a week.

The Athletic association would thank the business men for their generous contributions.

The personal record catechism recently framed and put up in the office is attracting much favorable comment.

Some very good papers on the of Venice were handed in grade Eight this week.

The Seventh grade pupils are studying "Jungle" in the A division and "The Courtship of Miles Standish" in the B class.

The Misses Wills and Martin are preparing a musical program to be given by the primary grades next Wednesday evening at 7 o'clock in the assembly room. Admission 10 cents. Come and encourage the little folks.

Leslie Alexander, Franklyn Van Valkenburg, Lydella Mardock, Mae French and Hester and Marion Power attended "The Merchant of Venice" in Detroit last week. The Sophomore class are studying that classic.

METHODIST CHURCH NOTES.
(By the Pastor)

Morning service 10:00 o'clock. A Chinese preacher will speak at this service.

Evening service 7:00 o'clock. Six Chinese young men will take charge and will give a varied program. They will wear their oriental costumes and will play on their strange oriental musical instruments.

Saturday night at 7:00 o'clock an informal hour for the young people at the parsonage to meet the Chinese young men from Ann Arbor.

Woman's Home Missionary society at the parsonage next Tuesday. This is the annual mife box opening and it will be necessary for all the boxes to be in. The public is invited.

BAPTIST CHURCH NOTES.
(By a member.)

There will be the usual services Sunday. It is expected that Mr. Foote will occupy the pulpit.

The ladies will hold a bake sale at J. A. Huff's hardware store on Saturday. Cakes a specialty.

The readings given by Miss Musser last Sunday evening were very much enjoyed by all who attended. Those who were not there missed a good thing. Miss Musser is a young woman of talent and fine character. We wish her success.

Try Soluble Sulphur (in dry form about size of pebbles) 10 lbs. makes 50 gallons. Just the thing for fruit trees spraying in town. Clean and safe. For sale by all dealers.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH NOTES.

(By the pastor.)
Morning service 10 o'clock. Subject: "The Unfinished Task."

Sunday school 11:35; classes for every age; a place to be educated in religion; a place to get enthusiasm.

Christian Endeavor 6:00 o'clock. Evening service 7 o'clock. Subject: "Meeting the Crisis."

A welcome to all at these services.

IN MEMORY OF A DEAR FRIEND
Mrs. Eva A. Lawrence.

Wife, mother, daughter, sister, friend—
How royally she won.

Those sacred names along the years.
Till earth-days faded no more.

That sweet and kindly presence gone
To grace a grander sphere.

For her—all mysteries revealed.
For us—the falling tear.

For her—wide spaces, boundless, free
From earth's small, futile fears;

For us—as best we may to face
The coming lonely years.

Without that pure, unselfish heart
That strong and gentle hand

That guided, guarded, lifted, helped,
Faithful to each demand,

Ready, untiring, steadfast, true
To every duty's voice.

Her work well done. Heaven's rest well won.

Not yet can we rejoice
That all God's universe is hers.

All freedom, all wide peace;
But someday, sometime, may we learn

To joy in her release.
From bondage here to life fulfilled;

To know her deep, dear love,
Made infinite, surroundings still.

God-granted from above—
Northville, April 6, 1913. D. F. H.

Look to Your Plumbing.
You know what happens in a house in which the plumbing is in poor condition—everybody in the house is liable to contract typhoid or some other fever. The digestive organs perform the same functions in the human body as the plumbing does for the house, and they should be kept in first class condition all the time. If you have any trouble with your digestion take Chamberlain's Tablets and you are certain to get quick relief. For sale by all dealers.—Advertisement.

REO
Light Delivery Trucks

Men Must Adopt Trucks.

Men who make deliveries, large or small, are bound to do it by motor. In business the methods which are cheapest and best are bound to win out, you know. And the difference here is so enormous that the change from the horse to the motor truck is coming as fast as good trucks can be made. Men have only been waiting for a simple, trouble-proof truck, which stands use, abuse and jar.

There are men who need trucks of two or three tons' capacity. There are several good trucks for them—trucks of 1500 pounds capacity. For such men there is no truck which compares with the Reo. We have at this writing not a single real competitor in strength or power, in simplicity, economy or price. One can prove this almost at a glance.

Pays For Itself.

THE REO Truck pays for itself in short order. Any man who can keep it busy will save his pils in one year. When it isn't busy the cost is stopped.

You need no new employees. Any man who can drive a horse can drive a Reo truck.

Price Only $750 Complete.

Get to the Cause

Northville People Are Learning The Way.

There is but little peace or comfort for the man or woman with a bad back. The distress begins in early morning—keeps up throughout the day. It's hard to get out of bed. It's hard to stoop or straighten. Pains and aches may relieve, but cannot cure if the cause is inside—the kidneys. When suffering so, use Doan's Kidney Pills, the tested and proven kidney remedy used in kidney troubles for over 30 years. Doan's Kidney Pills are recommended by thousands for just such cases. Proof of their effectiveness in the testimony of this Northville resident:

Mrs. Sarah Rorschacker, Lake St., Northville, Mich., says: "Lifting was what started my kidneys bothering me. The kidney secretions were natural. I heard what Doan's Kidney Pills had done for others, so I used them and they gave me entire relief, quickly restoring my kidneys to a normal condition. I gladly recommend Doan's Kidney Pills to others because of the good they did me."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-McMillan Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the U. S. States.

THE CITY IN BRIEF.

Warmer.

Garden making.

Green grass growing.

Tigers week from today.

Rains easy 'nuf.

Lecture's over.

Also makes a difference when Teddy's running.

Water works and electric light bills due next week.

F. J. Cochran is assisting C. C. Yerkes in his law office.

Mrs. N. I. Colt, who has been on the sick list, is much better this week.

Mrs. A. K. Carpenter entertained the Clover Leaf Whist club at a six o'clock dinner Monday evening.

Samuel Johnson, whose illness was reported in last week's Record, is able to be up around the house this week.

Good sized crowds attended the suffrage and anti-suffrage meetings held in the rink on Friday and Saturday evenings respectively, of last week.

Mrs. J. E. Webber has been quite ill the past week with the mumps. She had nearly recovered when she caught cold and suffered a relapse.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Weston and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Montgomery went to Pontiac Wednesday with their sister, Mrs. Albert Mears to bury her husband who died February 1.

Matt Green did a nice piece of work scraping the streets Monday. Matt says if he can get teams and help this year he will make the streets of Northville the banner ones in Michigan villages.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Harrison and family expect to leave Northville soon and will make their home in Detroit where Mr. Harrison is in the garage business. The people of this village regret losing them.

George Brown has sold his farm southwest of town, to Lou Van Valkenburg who will move there in the immediate future. Mr. Brown will move to First avenue in the Gordon addition, where he has purchased a house.

Fred Lyke has sold his house and lot on South Center street to Joe Adams of Detroit. Mr. Adams says he has a lot of horses he wants trained on the Northville race track and his trainer will occupy the house.

Mrs. C. D. Pinkerton has sold her house and lot on South Center street to George Sutton, John Knapik negotiating the sale. Mr. and Mrs. Surtin have been Navy residents for many years and Northville people will be glad to welcome them as residents here.

E. R. Perlin, D. Y. M., has returned from Chicago where he recently graduated from the veterinary college. He will locate at Redford, where the outlook for a good practice seems very flattering. The doctor had a very flattering offer to go into the U. S. army service, but preferred to start out nearer his old home.

The rumor about town is the effect that several relatives of Mr. Jonas, resident of this village, had been drowned in the Dayton flood is untrue. The fact is, the relatives in question, it has been learned, spent several days upon the roof of their house and were accounted missing until discovered where they had retreated when the flood broke.

Very enjoyable was the reading, "The Sign of the Cross" which was given by Miss Eva Musser of Homer, in the Baptist church Sunday evening. The election is a beautiful one and Miss Musser's charming rendition made it doubly so, as she possesses an unusually fine talent in elocution. Expecting to graduate from the high school at Battle Creek in June, Miss Eva is already at work earning funds for a college education by giving these readings. She is the daughter of Rev. N. E. Musser who was formerly pastor of the Baptist church here.

A copy of the Detroit Advertiser and Tribune, issued August 8, 1862 was found one day this week by Frank Butler in the garret of the Orange Butler homestead west of this village. The paper contains some very interesting news concerning the Civil war which was being waged at that time. An account is also given of a meeting held in Plymouth, Mich., on August 5 of that year, for the purpose of raising subscriptions to help the Wayne county regiment. Three thousand dollars is named as the sum given, with the names and amounts subscribed.

Billious? Feel heavy after dinner? Tongue coated? Bitter taste? Complexion sallow? Liver needs waking up. Doan's Regula cure billious attacks. 25 cents at any drug store.

KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS.

W. L. TINHAM, C. C.
C. B. Bristol, K. of R. & S.

R. A. Grant is home with a beautiful attack of mumps.

Anyhow she does look good in the new hat.

Mrs. W. J. Thompson was called to Detroit last week by the serious illness of her sister's little child.

When a woman says proudly of her new hat, "I trimmed myself some mean thing," always says softly, "It looks like it."

The Northville Chapter O. E. S. was very pleasantly entertained by the Redford order at that city last Friday evening.

Wallace Ross has accepted a position with the Pere Marquette railway company, in the general office in Detroit.

The Harmon-Porter ginseng farm on First avenue is again the scene of action and both owners are putting in all their spare time there.

Women, it is said, have longer than men. This comes of their keeping their age a secret, perhaps. Death doesn't know when to call for them.

R. R. Darwin, formerly of this place, has resigned his position as rate clerk for the State Railroad commission to accept a position with the Lansing Chamber of Commerce.

Undertaker Schrader was so busy on Tuesday that even with the help of his pleasing assistant, Clifford Castline, he was obliged to close up his furniture store for a portion of the afternoon.

The adjourned regular board meeting of the Library trustees will be held tomorrow—Saturday afternoon at 2:15 o'clock, as there are several matters to be considered. Members please come on time if possible.

The Hewitt-Marsh entertainment under the auspices of the Senior class at the Opera House Wednesday evening was a very nice affair and was well attended. The company consists of a splendid lot of players.

A Plymouth woman has embroidered the words and music of "Home Sweet Home" on a linen sheet which is on the spare room bed. Her guests have not decided whether the hostess means to indicate that they must feel at home or had better go home.

Beginning with Thursday evening next week, a new feature at the Aladdin will be the picture of the novel entitled "Escaped from Bondage," one reel of which will be given on Thursday evening of each week. This is in addition to the usual number of reels run off.

Manager Thompson of the Aladdin Theatre announces that he has booked the Dayton flood pictures but will not be able to show them for about two weeks because of the great demand for them. They will be given in the open house as it is anticipated that the crowd will be too large to accommodate in the regular theatre.

There was recently considerable firing on the shore of Long Lake and it was the supposition that some one was shooting fish, but it proved to be Geo. Hall splitting wood for Jacob Shick with his 44 caliber rifle—a unique way to split wood and much quicker than with the beetle and wedge. George has no patent on the idea. (Northville Record please copy.)—Orion Review.

The benefit to be given by the Northville band boys next Friday evening, April 18, promises to be an unusual event. The program will consist of a couple of dramas, cast by local talent, and moving pictures. One of the dramas was written by a Northville boy and will be presented for the first time on this date. The title is "The Tip that Won a Wife" and is very cleverly arranged. The band boys all have tickets for sale and it will be your own fault if you fail to get a good seat.

The S. E. Parsons grocery house, run here for the past ten years by A. S. Parsons, filed a trust mortgage to the Northville State Savings for the benefit of the creditors. The liabilities are about $1200 and the stock invoices for only about $600, so there will not be much left after the costs and exemptions are deducted. Mr. Parsons is an old soldier and has even been putting his pension money in the business for a year or more past, in the hope of being able to bolster it up. The stock will be sold this week. Too many grocery stores in town may be ascribed as the reason for Mr. Parsons' failure. Competition is close and the trade is divided up to such an extent that it was only a question of the survival of the fittest. There are still eight other grocery stores in town.

Letters for the following persons are advertised at the postoffice this week:
Dr. and Mrs. Herbert Remond
Miss E. Bower.
Mrs. J. M. Hopkins.
Mr. Geo. Smiley y.
S. G. Johnson.
Riley D. Wolfstrom

James Nord has been quite this week.

Bank reports this week, and both institutions show a flattering growth of business.

Robert Yerkes Sr. is much improved in health and is able to be about the house again.

Thomas Spencer has rented the McCarthy farm south-west of town of two hundred acres, for the coming year.

The local L. O. T. M. M. hive has nearly $25 to be sent to Grace hospital in Detroit for the support of their bed.

The regular evening meeting of the King's Daughters will be held Tuesday evening, April 15, at the home of Mrs. F. S. Harmon. Surprise.

In reply to one of our Indiana subscribers the Record begs to state that the first Presbyterian church was dedicated in November 1836 and the present edifice in July 1846.

The Foresters of America will give a social hop in Cattermole hall on Friday evening, April 18. Invitation is extended to all members.

The Northville Woman's club held its annual election and final meeting for the club year last Friday afternoon, adjourning to the first Friday in September. Mrs. C. R. Benton was re-elected president; Mrs. J. A. Dabuar, vice-president; Mrs. Floyd Northrop, secretary; and Mrs. W. H. Stark, treasurer.

The new municipal power dam at the Ambler pond went out Sunday night, involving a loss approximating $500, and furnishing a lot of fishin' for a number of folks. Scores of big carp and other fishes were left flipping in the mud at the mercy of spears, hands and other weapons. There were also some fine bass, but the authorities at the U. S. fisheries station took care of those for the most part. The dam will be replaced by a cement structure.

Don't think that piles can't be cured. Thousands of obstinate cases have been cured by Doan's Ointment, 50 cents at any drug store.

An American archaeologist is said to have solved the puzzle of the sphinx by boring into its head and removing the sand. Many a sphinx would be one no longer after the head was subjected to a similar process. Not until after its head was bored into was it suspected that the sphinx-head in Egypt was hollow. It is so with many other sphinxes. St. Louis Globe Democrat.

BREAKING OUT ON LEG

Hilltop, Kan.—"About two years ago I began to notice a breaking out on my leg. At first it was very small but soon it began to spread until it formed large blotches. The itching was terrible and almost constant. Many nights I could not sleep at all. After scratching it to relieve the itching it would burn so dreadfully that I thought I could not stand it. For nearly a year I tried all kinds of salves and ointment, but found no relief. Some salves seemed to make it worse, until there were ugly sores, which would break open and run."

"One day I saw an advertisement of Cuticura Remedies. I got a sample of the Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment and began by washing the sores with the Cuticura Soap, then applying the Cuticura Ointment twice a day. I noticed a change and got more Cuticura Soap and Ointment and in a few weeks I was cured. It has healed so nicely that no scar remains." (Signed) Mrs. Anna A. Lew, Dec. 17, 1911.

Cuticura Soap and Ointment sold throughout the world. Sample of each free, with 22-p. Skin Book. Address post-card "Cuticura, Dept. L, Boston." Adv.

A CLERGYMAN'S TESTIMONY.

The Rev. Edmund Bishop, of Winton, Pa., suffered from Dropsy for a year. His limbs and feet were swollen and puffed. He had heart fluttering, was dizzy and exhausted at the least exertion. Hands and feet were cold and he had such a dragging sensation across the loins that it was difficult to move.

After using 4 boxes of Dodds Kidney Pills the swelling disappeared and he felt himself again. He says he has been benefited and blessed by the use of Dodds Kidney Pills. Several months later he wrote: I have not changed my faith in your remedy since the above statement was authorized. Correspond with Rev. H. H. Bishop about this wonderful remedy.

Dodds Kidney Pills, 50c, per box at your dealer or Dodds Medicine Co., Buffalo, N. Y. Write for Household Hints, also music of National Anthem (English and German words) and recipes for dainty dishes. All sent free. Adv.

$100 REWARD, $100

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

Readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

He is gifted with a remarkable memory, and has also the great gift of remembering faces and names of people he has previously met. While he is on the bench the impersonification of impartiality and strict justice, in his private life he is a warm hearted, whole-souled and lovable man.

Straight at It.

There is no use of "beating around the bush." We might as well out with it first as last. We want you to try Chamberlain's Cough Remedy the next time you have a cough or cold. There is no reason so far as we can see why you should not do so. This preparation by its remarkable cure has gained a world wide reputation, and people everywhere speak of it in the highest terms of praise. It is for sale by all dealers.—Advertisement.

Live Each Day.

Forethought is very wise, but foresorrow very foolish, and castles are, at any rate, better than dungeons in the air.—Sir John Lubbock.

Generally debilitated for years. Had headaches, jacked ambition, was out and all run-down. Burdock's Bitters made me a well woman again. Chas. Frethey, Moosup, Conn.—Advertisement.

One of His Stuck-Up City Wags.
"Since Joe Doe's got back here again, after livin' a year in Kansas City, he's too blame swell-headed for any use!" hypercritically remarked Pip Maullin of Skedee. "Why, when he's at work and the fire bell rings he says he's too busy to go, and just let's let ring. Something mighty queer about such actions; nobody is ever too busy to go to a fire!"

Found a Cure for Rheumatism.
"I suffered with rheumatism for two years and could not get my right hand to my mouth for that length of time," writes Lee L. Chapman, Mapleton, Iowa. "I suffered terrible pain so I could not sleep or lie still at night. Five years ago I began using Chamberlain's Liniment and in two months I was well and have not suffered with rheumatism since." For sale by all dealers.—Advertisement.
