THE RECORD - NORTHVILLE, MICH., FRIDAY, JULY 4, 1913.

$1.00 PER YEAR IN ADVANCE.

SATURDAY NIGHT IN NORTHVILLE

Saturday evening was another epoch in Northville history. The crowd was right on hand for the festivities and they were not disappointed in a single stunt. Schrader Bros' needle threading contest for ladies showed up some speeders along that line. Miss Gene Knick won first prize, a Russell carpet sweeper and Mrs. Barney Schultz and Mrs. Daisy Wenzel tied for second. Mr. Schrader presented each with a pair of serviceable curtain stretchers. O. A. Pomeroy donated the needles and thread for this race, which was held on the band wagon.

The band wagon was also the scene of much merriment when a number of boys and girls choked down sacks of pop corn in an effort to distance each other. In Gay's pop corn eating race Johnnie Lahr ate up the first pie, a $1 box of candy (at least we suppose he has by this time) and George Wilcox received a smaller box as second prize. Willie White donated the pop corn so ruthlessly destroyed in this event.

Tinham & Cameron's men's walking race, for men above 40 and below 90 was another number on the program. Chas. VanValkenburg won the first prize, a box of cigars and Isaac Paughman received a pipe as second prize. The evening's entertainment was closed with a jig dance on the band wagon by Mr. Gude, with music by the band.

4TH JULY NIGHT.

The usual Saturday night program will be pulled off this evening, Friday, July 4th, instead of on Saturday as usual. Our accommodating band boys feel that they will be about blown out by the time the 4th is over, hence the slight change from the week-end revelry. Here are some of the antics under consideration:

Robert McCully's doughnut eating race is one. To the boy or girl who can gnaw out of sight, in the shortest time, one of McCully's big fried cakes, will be given an especially large chocolate layer cake. The winner of the second prize, will receive a raisin pie, while the third prize offered is a box of candy. The contestants will have their hands tied behind their backs and the tempting doughnuts will dangle from cords within easy reach of their mouths.

An oratorical contest which will be held by A. E. Stanley, promises to be a unique feature of the evening and young friends, the prizes are worth while. Give your graduating speech or any little poem from memory. Delivery as well as quantity and quality will count in this contest. Competent judges will be selected from the spectators. Any young lady or gentleman under 18 years of age is eligible for the first prize.

complete, with film ready for use. Value $2.25. Second prize, fountain pen, value $1.00.

B. A. Wheeler's knot untying race will come next. A $1 package of fireworks will be given to the boy or girl who can untye, in the shortest order, a dozen knots from a good stout cord, second prize, a 50 cent package of fireworks, third prize, a bunch of firecrackers and a stick of punk. Sharpen your teeth as well as your fingers, children.

Here is another special feature. W. H. Caterpole has suggested putting up one of his famous road buggies to be sold to the highest bidder in the crowd. This is your chance. Come forward.

The Superior Chain & Mfg. Co. will, in the near future, give one of their $9.00 chains to the person who will bring in the biggest load or loads of people. This contest will be open only to loads of people from outside the village corporation and each load or train of loads must be driven or ploiced by a single driver.

But enough of the future. Come to town this evening and round out your day's fun in the best way possible, enjoying or participating in the fun. A band concert awaits you. There will also be a dance in the rink, beginning at 8.30.

A PROCLAMATION BY THE MAYOR

To the People of Northville and Visitors.

July 4 next is hereby designated as King's Daughters' Tag Day. The society of Northville for a number of years has been doing a splendid work for charity that has been in the past and should be in the future recognized and encouraged.

They are caring for the suffering, obviating the sorrowing and lending comfort and support to the bereaved. Our people and our visitors upon that day can do no more commendable act than to contribute something towards the cause of this society and they may rest assured that every dollar will be used in a worthy manner.

NELSON C. SCHRADER,
Village President,
Dated Northville, June 13, 1913

GARFIELD-ROSS.

Grant Garfield of Pontiac, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Garfield of this place and Miss Julia Ross of Detroit were united in marriage at the home of the bride on Thursday evening of last week. After a visit with friends they will make their home at Pontiac.

THE R. MORSE ESTATE UNDECIDED

CASE WILL PROBABLY GO TO SUPREME COURT.

Exact Meaning of John Morse's Will Not Quite Clear

On Saturday Judge Smith of Pontiac had a rehearing of a suit decided recently providing for the distribution of the John W. Morse farm of 100 acres in Novi township. The court ordered it divided among four heirs but one of the heirs was dissatisfied with the distribution. C. C. Yerkes of this place appeared for the dissatisfied party and Patterson & Patterson for the other heirs. The Morse will case tried many years ago was the longest case ever heard in the district court at Pontiac, occupying a whole month. Rollin J. Morse, the son, attempted to break his father's will in which he was left only the life use of the homestead farm of 100 acres. The will was sustained. The son died about a year ago and heirs petitioned for the sale and distribution of the property. A sister of John Morse, Mrs. Deborah Lowe, brought the suit, but died before it was heard. The court took the case under advisement, but it will doubtless go to the supreme court in any event. Mr. Yerkes claims that the Deborah Lowe heirs are the sole heirs of Rollin J. Morse, by being nearest of kin by ties of blood.

CLASS REUNION.

The first annual reunion of the graduating class of 1912 was held at the home of Harold Turner, the class president, last Saturday afternoon and evening. Twenty of the twenty-two members were present, Ross Dixon being at present in Mayne, B. C. and Miss Irma Tiffin was also out of town. J. D. LaRue, superintendent of the school in '12 and his wife and Miss Helen Bullis, teacher, who had charge of the Senior class last year, were also present. The afternoon was spent in reminiscences (yes, for even if they are young, there was lots to talk over). A delicious two course dinner was served at five o'clock. The tables were placed on the lawn and were beautifully decorated with crimson rambler roses, the red rose being the class flower. A picture was taken of the party, while seated at the table, to be kept as souvenirs of the occasion. It was also decided to hold the next reunion in the Holcomb cottage at Walled lake. An automobile ride brought to a close an event which will be a happy one in the memory of all.

Strange. So many men make fools of themselves when there are so many others who desire to do the job for them.

DOGS MUST BE KILLED OR MUZZLED

STATE AUTHORITIES NOTIFY NORTHVILLE - PLYMOUTH

And the Whole of Oakland County in Danger.

The State Live Stock commission has placed all of Oakland county and the towns of Northville and Plymouth in Dog Quarantine and has ordered that all dogs be killed or muzzled until September 1st.

A mad dog capered around Northville last week and finally landed up at Harry Clark's farm home where where his two valuable Cocker spaniels and had to be killed. The dog was valued at $100 each while the cure that the officers of the various municipalities and townships of the state allow to run at large, endangering lives and animals every summer are worth less than two cents a dozen.

PERRIN-VAN LEUVEN.

Eimer Perrin of this place and Miss Mayda VanLeuven of Milford were married at the home of the bride last Friday morning.

After a trip by boat to Mackinaw, they returned to Northville Tuesday and are living in the house on South Center street which Mr. Perrin purchased some time ago. The home has already been completely furnished by the young couple, everything from a step ladder to a china cabinet filled with hand painted china and cut glass, being in its place.

The groom has run a successful draying business in town for several years and has a host of friends who wish the Record, wish him and his bride a long and happy future.

MARBLE STATUE OF ZACHARIAH CHANDLER IN NATIONAL VALHALLA

GIFT OF STATUESecond Contribution of Michigan

National Capitol

CAREER OF STATESMAN

In Days of Civil War and For Fifteen Years Chandler Was Powerful

On Monday, June 20th, at 11 a. m. in the Hall of Fame in the national capitol at Washington, occurred the unveiling of the statue of Zachariah Chandler. In the presence of a company composed of many prominent citizens of Michigan and national officials, the marble likeness of "Old Zach" was formally presented by the state to the nation.

The statue was unveiled by Chandler Hale, son of ex-Senator Hale and grandson of Zachariah Chandler. United States Senator William Alden Smith presided at the ceremonies. The invocation was pronounced by Rev. Henry Couden, blind chaplain of the house of representatives, formerly of Port Huron.

Arthur H. Vandenberg, publisher of the Grand Rapids Herald and chairman of the Commission presented the statue on behalf of the commission with a few well-chosen words. He was accepted for the state and in turn presented to the nation by Lieutenant Governor John Q. Ross. The statue was accepted on behalf of the nation by Hon. Henry B. Brown, of Washington, Justice of the United States Supreme Court, retired Judge Brown's home was formerly in Detroit and he was one of Chandler's intimates. His address was rich with reminiscence of the days of the re-interest in fate of fire law. There is a lot of speculation, not only about the capitol, but all over the nation, how the supreme court will rule as to the constitutionality of the law under which the state fire department has been ordered to tear down of numerous old buildings on the ground that they are unsafe. The department is anxious to know for all whether it is a power that the legislature has given it.

constructed when Chandler was at the height of his career.

In the afternoon of the same day, there were special Chandler memorial services in the Senate United States Senator Charles L. Townsend of Michigan took general charge of this program, by invitation of the Commission. At the same time there were memorial services in the House under the auspices of the Michigan delegation.

The Michigan Society at Washington attended the ceremonies in a body.

Stands Beside Lewis Cass

The statue of Chandler is Michigan's second contribution to the national Valhalla, and stands beside that of Lewis Cass, who was also a senator from the Wolverine state.

Cass was a Democrat and Chandler a Republican, but they were men of very much the same type and it is regarded as fitting that they should be companions in the Hall of Fame, because Chandler came on the scene as Cass was leaving it, and, together, they made the name of Michigan noted in historical and political annals. Cass was a New Hampshire man, born in revolution early times—1782. His father, in early life, was a blacksmith who served with distinction under Washington in many famous battles, and who, after retiring to peaceful pursuits was commissioned for service in the then new northwest. That is how Lewis Cass happened to be in Ohio in 1812, when the war broke out and how he happened to lead a march into Michigan by Ohio militiamen and United States regulars, and how he came to settle in Detroit after several years of legal and political campaigning in the Buckeye state.

Cass was Jeffersonian Democrat

He was educated in Exeter academy, and all his political influences in the early days were those of the Federalist party. Yet he was during all his childhood a Jeffersonian Democrat, a representative of the people and an expounder and defender of slavery, as a general proposition, and a bitter foe of intemperance.

Cass was first elected United States senator from Michigan in 1845, and resigned on being nominated as the Democratic candidate for president of the United States in 1848. He was defeated by the Whig candidate, General Zachary Taylor. The coming of the Civil war found him a member of the Buchanan cabinet, from which he retired to plead the cause of the Union on the hustings.

Lewis Cass died in 1866, and Zachariah Chandler came to the front. Chandler takes his place in history as a politician rather than a statesman, and yet "Old Zach" had many of the characteristics which go to make up an American statesman.

Chandler Opposed to Cass

"Zach" Chandler's first political speech was in Detroit in 1843, when mounted on a dry goods box set up on a street corner he advocated the election of "Old Zach" Taylor to the presidency as against Lewis Cass. Zachariah Chandler was a New Englander, also, and was born at New Bedford, N. H., in 1813. He declined the offer of a Puritan father to give him a college education, and determined to be a merchant, struck out for the wilderness of the northwest, arriving at Detroit to begin his commercial life about the time Lewis Cass was at the beginning of his public career. Chandler's last speech was made in McCormick hall in Chicago, one night in November, 1879, before one of the largest political audiences ever gathered in that great city. He was never more virile, more direct, powerful and convincing in his public utterances than on that night, and his speech was at once a defense and a eulogy of the Republican party. Before morning he was dead, passing away peacefully and alone in his bed chamber, when the applause of his hearers had hardly died away.

Chandler, although of rough manner and speech, was a student of history and a man of deep conviction, he was one of the founders of the Republican party, when elected to the senate was a man of wealth and influence. Within one week after taking his seat he had turned over his vast interests to others, leaving himself free to act on public questions with an eye solely to the public good. His political adversaries derided his political ambitions, but he took front rank in Washington as a man of convictions and honor. The war clouds had already gathered and he took the oath of office with men who a few years later were leaders and battling to destroy the union.

One of the men who stood side by side with Zachariah Chandler to take the oath as senator was Jefferson Davis. More than 20 years later at a night session of the United States senate, when a bill granting amnesty to southern men who had been soldiers in the Mexican war was under discussion, Lucius Quintus Lamar, a senator from Mississippi, delivered a fervent eulogy upon Davis, and as the echoes of his eloquence were dying out from the chamber a note fluttered down from the gallery near the desk of "Old Zach" Chandler.

Was Bitter Against South.

It was written by William E. Chandler of New Hampshire, and the late Dutch Father of Washington, and was to the effect that it was a pity there was no man in the senate fearless enough and able enough to reply to that speech. "Old Zach" read the note, looked up at the gallery and winked, pushed his hat back and made a speech that is a classic. "I held the senate literally spellbound, and go man essayed to make reply. Chandler recited the occasion of his standing with Davis and other southern men before the presiding officer and swearing to support a government that they were then plotting to overthrow," recounted heart-rending war scenes that he, as a leader of war sentiment in congress, and as a member of the war investigating committee, witnessed on the fields of battle, referred to framed and wound of thousands whose tortures "made humanity shudder," and then, pounding his desk in emphasis, he denounced Jefferson Davis as one whom "Every man, woman and child in the north believed to be a double dyed traitor to his country."

Zachariah Chandler served three consecutive terms as United States senator and was defeated in the wave of 1875 that sent the Logans, the Camerons the Carpenters and the other senators into private life. He was appointed secretary of the interior in the cabinet of President Grant. In the political campaign of 1876 he was chairman of the Republican national committee, and in the crisis and suspense as to whether Rutherford B. Hayes of Ohio or Samuel J. Tilden of New York had been elected president he sent broadcast to the world the famous "Lagoon" message which he would never withdraw, alter or amend. "Hayes has 185 votes and is elected."

There are at least 500 more orders for tearing down buildings now reposing in the office of the department here, but not much more will be done until the constitutionality of the law is decided.

Henry A. Wolff, as deputy state fire marshal, has been practically the head of the "clean-up" work for the last two years, and when he retires, will leave behind him a record to equal which his successor will have to "go home." Mr. Wolff will return to his home in Muskegon.

Attorney-General McReynolds, forestalled action by the house calling action by the house calling for all the documents in his possession relative to the Caminetti-Diggs white slave case and the case against the Western Fuel company by sending to the house committee on judiciary all the documents in both cases.

The committee immediately entered on a study of the voluminous record, but declined at this time to make the documents public because they feared the publication of some of the records might prejudice the government's case.

In view of Attorney-General McReynolds action, the resolution introduced by Representative Kahn, of California, calling for all papers relating to the cases, will not be pushed until the Republicans have an opportunity to find out just what is in the documents already submitted by the attorney general.

Gen Crozier Resumes Duties.

Brigadier General William Crozier, under special detail acting as president of the army war college, has his legal duties as chief of ordnance. General Crozier was placed in charge of the war college last August, succeeding Brigadier General Mills, to carry out certain plans for the general. His work of organization is now finished, and that is the reason assigned for his return to the ordnance bureau. Brigadier General Hunter Liggett, on duty at the army war college, will become president.

Many Injured in Wreck.

The intense heat, causing the rails to spread is given as the cause of the wreck of the Chesapeake & Ohio passenger train No. 6 known as the "Fast Living Virginian," when 25 persons were injured near Fulton Ind., 20 miles northwest of Peru.

Two Pullman cars and a diner turned completely over, but no one was killed. The engine and combination baggage and smoking car remained on the track, although the train was making about 40 miles an hour at the time.

County Clerks Close Meeting.

The Michigan Association of County Clerks closed its annual state convention with a banquet at Frank's month and decided to meet in Mt. Clemens next year. Secretary of State Martin Dale talked to the clerks on the relation of their work to the state department, and Burt Wickham, of Hart, discussed new laws. The new officers are: President, Frank G. Jenks, Marquette; vice president, F. G. Wortman, Flint; secretary, Felix H. Flynn, Cadillac; treasurer, H. L. Parishall, Sault Ste. Marie.

Bryan On Hemet Affair.

The expulsion of Korean laborers from the town of Hemet, Cal., by the white residents was discussed informally by Secretary of State Bryan and Ambassador Chanda.

The secretary assured the ambassador that he had asked the department of justice to make an investigation of the incident and send a full report to him. The ambassador was informed that the federal government would take any action within its power.

After a year's effort, the Gideons, the society of Christian traveling men secured enough money in Mt. Clemens to place a Bible in every guest's room in the various hotels of the city. The distribution of the Bibles was made an event by holding a public service in front of the city hall.

Attorney-General Fellows, in an opinion rendered recently, holds that the owner of a motor car may be held liable for an accident resulting from the non-use of lights while the machine is standing on a curb. The law does not specifically state now machines shall be lighted when not in motion but as a result of Fellows' ruling it is expected that motorists will keep both head and tail lights burning when at the curb.

Three stores were badly damaged by fire in Kalamazoo, the loss to the Lamode cloak store amounting to about $5,000, the Sherk drug store about $2,000 and the Home candy store about $5,000.

General Secretary H. L. Markell and Secretary of the Boy's Department C. H. Runciman, of the Saginaw Y. M. C. A., have resigned. Mr. Runciman has accepted a position as principal of the Grrosse Isle school. Mr. Markell says he has several offers that he is considering.

Colonel Graciano Chiapa, alternately leader of the administration and rebel forces in Mexico since the beginning of the original uprising against former President Porfirio Diaz, was executed by state troops near Guaymas according to advice received here. He was taken prisoner by General Obregon in the recent battle at Ortiz, and an insurgent courtmartial ordered him shot.

Will Have Alfalfa Campaign.

The first definite plans for a three days alfalfa campaign in Muskegon county, at which farmers will be told of the profits and the use that can be made of the legume in building up the soil, have been completed by the executive committee of the agricultural division of the chamber of commerce. Congressman James C. McLaughlin is to secure the services of expert agriculturists who will deliver lectures on alfalfa in every township of the county.

All Stamps Good On Parcels.

Parcel post stamps are valid on all classes of mail since July 1 and ordinary stamps, including commemorative issues, are good for postage on parcel post packages under an order issued by Postmaster-General Burleson.

The Saginaw board of trade has taken the initial steps toward the organization of a trust company.

The William Cartier company's new $30,000 saw mill has been opened at Lexington, employing 60 workmen.

Robert Kroonman has worked his way through Hope college by writing poetry. His poems have recently been published in book form.

All the bankers of Shiawassee county are united in an effort to secure co-operation between the bankers and farmers for an alfalfa campaign in the fall and for securing of an agricultural expert for the county.

John H. Townley, of Jackson, who graduated from the literary department of the University of Michigan, will teach at Cornell next year, having accepted a professorship in the literary department. He is a young man of unusually brilliant attainments and is one of the honor students of the university.

Miss Anna J. Keeler, assistant instructor in the domestic science department at Hackley institute, at Muskegon, and a former teacher in the public schools of Grand Rapids, died in an Ann Arbor hospital Saturday. Miss Keeler was recently appointed assistant instructor of domestic science in Marquette university.

Rev. George W. Bates was re-elected moderator of the Grand Traverse Baptist association at Petoskey and other officers are: Clerk, Rev. Clyde Lee, Harbor Springs, bible school superintendent, Rev. J. W. Beatty, Petoskey; director state convention, Rev. C. H. Irwin, Traverse City; delegates to state convention, Rev. L. J. Tucker, Boyne City, and Rev. L. E. Hall, Eastport; Mrs. M. M. Eichelberger, Kalkaska.

The Grand Trunk railroad will erect a new terminal station and freight department at Kalamazoo. The company has purchased a site on the east side of the city for $50,000. It is said the new buildings will cost $150,000.

Continuing their tour through the southern and eastern parts of Barry county Prof. P. G. Holden and his assistants were met by crowds of farmers interested in the alfalfa campaign. Interest in alfalfa growing is spreading rapidly through the county and many acres will be planted next year.

SYNOPSIS.

Countess Elise, daughter of the governor of the Mount, has a chance encounter with a peasant boy, the "Mount," a small rock-bound island, stood in vast bay on the northwestern coast of France, and during the time of Louis XV. was a government stronghold. Elise, that the peasant boy was the son of Seigneur Desaurac, nobleman, young Desaurac desires to secure an education and become a gentleman, sees the governor's daughter depart for Paris. Lady Elise returns after seven years' schooling, and enters into many noble and ladyship dances with strange fishermen, and a call to arms is made in an effort to capture a mysterious La Seigneur. Elise escapes, Lady Elise is caught in the "Grand" tide. The Black Seigneur rescues and takes her to his retreat. Elise discovers that her savior was the boy with the fish. Sanchez, the Seigneur's servant, is arrested and brought before the governor. Lady Elise has Sanchez set free. Seigneur and a priest at the "Cockles." Sanchez tells Desaurac that Lady Elise betrayed him, but is not believed. The Seigneur plans to release prisoners at the Mount. Lady Elise pleads with her father to spare the lives of condemned prisoners. Disguised as a peasant, Lady Elise mingled with the people and hears some startling facts. A mysterious Mountebank starts a riot. He is arrested and looked up after making close observations of the citadel, and is afterwards summoned before the governor's daughter.

CHAPTER XVII.

The Mountebank and My Lady.
"The Governor's daughter!" Had the light been stronger they must have seen the start the mountebank gave. "Impossible!"

"What? What?" Surprised in turn, the officer gazed at him. "You dare—out with him!" To the soldiers.

But in a moment had the mountebank recovered his old demeanor, and, without waiting for the troops to obey the commandant's order, walked voluntarily toward the door and into the passage.

"Our supper! Our supper!" A number of the prisoners, crowding forward, began once more to call lustily, when again was the disk-studded woodwork swung unceremoniously to, cutting short the sound of their lamentations.

"Dog!" Maliciously the dwarf gazed back. "To want to gorge themselves on a holy day!"

"Plous Jacquet!" murmured the commandant. "But I always said you made a model landlord!"

"When not interfered with!" grumbled the other.

"At any rate he doesn't seem to appreciate his good fortune," with a glance at the mountebank.

"No," jeering. "A gallant cavalier to step blithely at a great lady's command! Your Ladyship overwhelms me!" bawling grotesquely. "Your Ladyship a condescension!"

"Why, then, need you take me?" interposed the mountebank quickly. Can you not tell her ladyship I am not fit to appear in her presence—an uncouth clown?"

"Bah! I've already done that," answered the commandant.

"But how came her ladyship to know of me—here?"

"How indeed?"

"And what does she want of me?" "That," roughly, "you will find out!" and stepped down the hall, followed by the soldiers, mountebank and dwarf, the last of whom took leave of them at the door.

Clear was the night; the stars, like liquid drops about to fall, caressed with silvery rays the granite piles. In contrast to the noisome atmosphere of the prison, faint perfumes, borne from some flowery slope of the distant shore, swept languorously in and out the open aisles and passages of the Mount. In such an hour that upper region seemed to belong entirely to the sky; to partake of its wondrous stillness; to share its mysteries and its secrets. Like intruders, penetrating an enchanted spot, now they trod soft shadows; then, clangorous, beat beneath foot delicate laceworks of light.

"Here we are!" The officer stopped. At the same time upon a nearby balcony a nightingale began to sing; tentatively, as if trying the scope and quality of its voice. "You are to go in!" he announced abruptly.

"Such a fine palace! I—I would rather not!" muttered the fellow, as they crossed an outer threshold and proceeded to mount some polished stairs.

"Stubborn dolt. Now in you march," pausing before a door. "But, hark you! I and my men remain without. So, mind your behavior, or—" A look from the commandant completed the sentence.

Alone, in an apartment of the palace, some moments later, the mountebank's demeanor underwent a quick change; he glanced hastily toward the door the commandant had closed in leaving, and then, with sudden brightening gaze, around him, as if making note of every detail of his surroundings. Set with columns of warm-hued marble, relieved with ornate carvings and designs, the spacious chamber presented an appearance at once graceful and charming. Nor were its furnishings at variance with its architectural elegance; on every hand soft colors met the eye, in rugs of ancient pattern; in tapestries, subdued; in the upholstery of Breton oak. A culminating note was in the center of the room. A great bunch of roses, opened wide their petals, stood before a mirror, only with mitted himself to survey, or study; these details of refinement and luxury; the swift eager interest that had shone from the dark eyes gave way to an expression, lack-luster and stupid; his countenance once more resumed its blank, stolid aspect. As if unconscious of the anomalous figure he presented, mechanically had he seated himself; was gazing down, when through a doorway, opposite the one by which the commandant had left, a slender form appeared. Under the heavy, whitened lids a slight movement of the clown's eyes alone betrayed he was aware of that new presence. A moment the girl stood there, her glance resting on the grotesque, bent figure before her; then with a quizzical lift of the delicate brows she entered.

"You believe, no doubt, in making yourself at home?"

Crossing to the table, once more she stopped; her figure, sheathed in a gown of brocade of rose, glowed bright and distinct in contrast to the faint, vari-colored tints of ancient embroidery on the wall. Above, the light threw a shimmer on the deep-burnished gold of her hair; the sweeping lashes veiled the half-didainful, half-amused look in her brown eyes.

"Or, perhaps, you are one of those who think the peasants will some day sit, while the lords and ladies stand?" "I don't know," he managed to answer, but got up, only to appear more awkward.

"You do not seem to know very much, indeed!" she returned, her tone changing to one of cold severity. "Not enough, perhaps, to perceive the mischief you may cause! That play of yours, which I witnessed today—" "You! Today? Your Ladyship was—"

"Yes," imperiously, "I was there! And heard and saw the effect it had on the people; how it stirred all their baser passions! But you, of course, could not know—or care, thinking only of the soul—that, instead of teaching a lesson, the piece would only move them to anger, or resentment."

"—your ladyship—great lords have commended the play—"

"Great lords!" she began, but stopped; regarded her listener and shrugged her shoulders.

A few moments' silence lasted, the a warning flash. "If you are again caught giving the play, you must expect to receive your deserts."

"Of course! If your Ladyship commands!" detected.

"I do! But, as an offset to the coppers you might otherwise receive, I will give you a sum of money sufficient to compensate you."

"Your Ladyship is so generous!" He made an uncouth gesture of gratitude and "covetousness." "May I ask your Ladyship how much—"

"How much?" scornfully. "But I suppose—"

The words died away; her glance fell; lingered on the hand he had extended. Muscular, shapely, it seemed not adapted to the servile gesture; was most unlike the hand of "old of clown." Moreover, it was marked with a number of woman's, half-beaded; which caught and held her look.

"Of course, I am so poor, your Ladyship—" he began, in yet more abject tone, but stopped, attracted in turn by the direction of her gaze; then, meeting it, quickly withdrew the hand and thrust it into his pocket. Not in time, however, to prevent a startled light, a swift gleam of recollection from springing into her eyes! The very movement itself—ironically enough—was not without precedent. "You!" She recoiled from him. "The Black—"

As a man who realizes he has betrayed himself, he bit his lips; but attempted no further subterfuge. The shambling figure—straightened; the dull eyes grew steady; the bold self-possession—she remembered well on another occasion again marked his bearing.

"Your Ladyship has discerning eyes," he remarked quietly, but as he spoke glanced and moved a little toward the window.

My lady stood as if dazed. He, the Black Seigneur, there, in the palace! Mechanically she raised her hand to her breast; she was very pale. On the balcony the nightingale, grown confident, burst into a flood of variations, a thousand trills and full-throated notes filled the room.

"I understand now," at length she found voice, "why that fancy came to me below, when I was listening to the play on the platform. But why have you come—to the very Mount itself?" Her voice trembled a little. "You! On the beach the people tried to stop you—"

"You saw that, too?"

"And you knew the play would make trouble! You wanted it to," quickly. "For what purpose? To get into the upper part of the Mount? To have them arrest—bring you here?" She looked at him with sudden terror. "My father! Was it to—"

A low, distinct rapping at the door also had entered, interrupted them. She started and looked fearfully around. At the same time the mountebank stepped back to the side of a great bronze in front of the balcony, were revolving with it. Had he been more watchful of her, less bent on some matter uppermost in his mind, he could not have failed to mark the pallor of his face, or the agitation written there. As it was, his glance swept without studying.

"He Had Intended No Mischief."

"I hoped to find you here," he began complacently; "hoped that you had not yet retired."

She made some faint response, but her voice, despite herself, wavered.

"Yes," he continued, "I have here to consider," indicating a paper he held, "a rather important matter." He waited a moment before adding: "A matter that concerns you!"

"That concerns me?" Her hands tightened.

"Yes."

"Since it is important," she said hastily, "would it not—shall we not leave it until tomorrow? I—I am rather tired tonight, and—"

"What?" he returned in the same unflinching tone. "Would you postpone considering the command of the King?"

"Command!" she repeated nervously. "Of the King?"

"Of request," which is the same."

"But—" she began, and stopped; held by a sound, as of some one moving, near the window.

"Shall I read it, or—"

She had started to look behind her; but abruptly caught herself, and seemed about to frame some irrelevant response, when his voice went on: "The King desires to change the date set for your marriage with his kinsman, the Marquis de Beauvilliers."

"Change?" she echoed.

"Yes; to hasten it." If the Governor had expected from her hostility, or perverseness, he was agreeably disappointed; the girl evinced neither pleasure nor disapproval; only stood in the same attitude of expectancy, with head half turned.

"His Majesty's reasons for this step—"

"Can't we—can't we, at least, postpone considering them?"

Again he regarded her more closely. "What better time than the present?"

"But I don't want—"

"Elise!" A slight frown appeared on his brow. "His Majesty," once more looking at the paper, "hints at an important political appointment he desires to confer on the Marquis de Beauvilliers which would take him abroad; but whether as ambassador, or as governor in the colonies, his Majesty does not disclose. Obviously, however, the bestowing of the honor—a high one, no doubt!—depends on his early marriage, and a wife to grace the position. The letter," weighing it, "is a tentative one; the courteous precursor of a fuller communication when he has learned our—your—pleasure."

She did not at once express it; indeed, at the moment, seemed scarcely to have comprehended; her glance, which had swept furtively behind when he was studying the document, returned more uneasily to his, but not before he had caught the backward look.

"Well?" he said with a touch of asperity. "Well?" he repeated, when his gaze, following the direction hers had taken, paused.

Although well-lighted in the center, by a great Venetian candelabrum, the far ends of the spacious hall lay somewhat in obscurity; notably the space adorned with tropical plants and a life-size bronze before the entrance to the balcony. It was on this dim recess the Governor permitted his eyes to rest; he fixed casually, then with a sudden appearance of interest, on a figure that stood before a lady, seated, and leaning back.

He had intended no mischief."

"Her Ladyship?" The Governor's brows went suddenly up. "How," he asked at length in a voice yet softer, "should her Ladyship have known about the 'loyal and faithful sentiments' of a piece given in the town, before a crowd of brawlers?"

"Because I was a spectator!" said his daughter, a red spot now on her cheek; changing lights in her eyes.

"A spectator?" repeated, in mild surprise, the Governor.

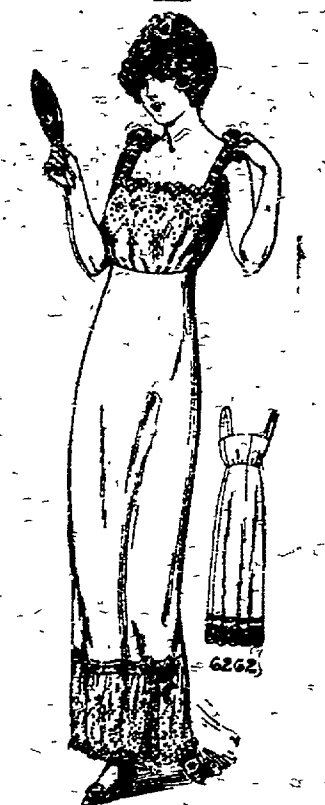

"I will explain, after—"

"Hush!" His Excellency's glance, swept to the commandant, and

NORTHVILLE, MICH. JULY 4, '13.

POOR JACK JOHNSON.

Jack Johnson, a fugitive from justice and on the way to Europe to escape sentence under the Mann white slave law, is the product of a perverted American atmosphere. This muscular negro would probably be earning an honest living and striving in peace and harmony with the world had he not been misled and cajoled by a people seeking excitement for a day and placing their approval upon a wholly unnatural sport.

Thus it is that today Johnson's fate must, in measure, be shared by those who made him a false god and hero. Nothing but a pug to begin with, his vacuous mind could not stand the position which the big newspapers gave him. The huge sums of money secured by him because of the attention he received, ruined the man. Why shouldn't he wed a white woman? Why shouldn't he throw away his first wife to gain a Caucasian? Steel magnates have done it; of course in a more genteel way, but they have done it just the same; and so Johnson tried in his own fashion to advance a peg in society, not by turning white, but by marrying a white woman.

Johnson is to be pitied rather than condemned. He is a victim of the American tendency to glorify sport even in its worst form. He was raised above his class by publicity and he wanted to continue in his road to greater honors. Now he is down and a fugitive from justice. Let the people who made him possible and the newspapers who aided in making him a hero, take their full share of responsibility.—Pontiac Press.

If the Michigan Telephone company would spend a little more money for additional operators and a few less for telephone collectors and "agent" men, Northville patrons might get some sort of service. Some say the big corporation will have sense enough to put the local management wholly up to Frank Thompson who is competent and diplomatic enough to get proper service and make friends of the patrons and subscribers instead of antagonizing them.

And also it was lucky us kids didn't know that thousands of dead germs were lurking around the Old Oaken Bucket when we used to drink from its moss covered sides.

On the other hand the women may be trying to cut down the cost of living by wearing just as few clothes as possible.

A NEW ELECTRIC RY. PAPER.

The "Electric Railway Service," a bright little paper published by the Detroit United Railway and edited by A. B. D. VanZandt, an old and popular newspaper man, is giving the public some valuable and unbiased information relative to electric car service. Detroit papers and Detroit politicians have for years been feeding the public minds with unfair and often vicious material in an educational endeavor to force the people to look upon that electric railway company as an ugly monster, seeking to rob and kill every person in Detroit. The public will welcome this new enterprise as it will welcome a Detroit newspaper or a Detroit politician who will be fair both to the city and the street car company.

OLIVET WITHOUT TELEPHONES.

According to the Detroit News Olivet is without telephones in its business district. The merchants held a mass meeting Monday and ordered all telephones taken out immediately because of their disconnection over the service rendered. The Bell Telephone Co. ordered that the phones put on party lines. Increased rates were paid, but the business men will not stand the change.

Those buying up the Independent Telephone Co. in the state the company has apparently been a success.

The "Bright Stars" will meet at the home of Miss Doris Haddock next Tuesday evening for their regular monthly business meeting. As there is important business to be transacted all members are urged to attend.

The E. Y. P. U. held their regular monthly meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Van Dyne last Tuesday evening. After the business session light refreshments were served and all report a very pleasant evening.

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh that Contain Mercury

as mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally and acts as a local and systemic cure. Sold by Druggists, price 75c per bottle. Hall's Family Pills are the best.

THROUGH THE INLAND SEAS

MOST DELIGHTFUL LAKE TRIP ON THE CONTINENT.

A Fresh Water Sea Voyage Over Lake Huron, Georgian Bay and Lake Superior, Where Every Hour is Filled with Pleasure.

For a vacation which combines rest, comfort, continuous interest and health-giving surroundings, a voyage on our inland lakes has no rival. Here one escapes the heat and dust of land travel, while every hour is pleasantly filled with the wonders of the largest bodies of fresh water in the world. The trip through the Thirty Thousand Islands of Georgian Bay to Sault Ste. Marie, and the trip to Port Arthur and Fort William and Duluth, are pronounced by all who have enjoyed them the finest water-trips on the continent. This inland sea voyage may be made with the highest degree of comfort on the splendid steamships of the Northern Navigation Company.

From Sarnia, Ont., at the foot of Lake Huron, one of the company's steamships sails on Monday, Wednesday and Saturday, for the "Soo," the twin cities of Port Arthur and Fort William, and Duluth, making connections at the "Soo" for Mackinac Island and the Thirty Thousand Islands of Georgian Bay. The steamships are the Harmonic, the Huronic, and the Saronic. The "armonic," recently launched, and which will come out in 1914, is the largest and best appointed passenger steamship of upper lake design for fresh-water service in the world.

At the "Soo" the tourist passes through the largest locks in the world. At Mackinac he views historic ground and grand scenery. At Port Arthur and Fort William are the largest grain elevators in America and an idea may be gained there of the wonderful industrial development of Canada. And the scenery in that wonderful archipelago where bloom the Thirty Thousand Islands is not excelled for beauty anywhere.

The steamships of the Northern Navigation Company are fast sailing, elegantly appointed, and provided with every device for comfort and safety. The table is supplied with the best the market affords and passengers receive every possible attention. For ladies and children these trips cannot be equaled.

The boats of the company can readily be reached at Sarnia by steam or electric railway or steamboat from Detroit or Toledo.

A postal card addressed to E. W. Holton, Eastern Passenger Agent, Sarnia, Ontario, will bring inquiries a large folder illustrated by photographs and containing full detailed information regarding these delightful excursions.

FOR INTERURBAN PASSENGERS.

The Detroit United Lines offers the following suggestions to interurban passengers in the interests of safety.

Give the motorman all notice possible that you intend boarding the car. Remember that interurban cars because of their speed, cannot stop within the same short space as do the city cars.

When signaling a car in daylight, move your arm up and down.

When signaling a car at night use lantern or burning paper.

Never stand on car track when giving signal.

Don't crowd close to an approaching car; you may shove someone under the wheels.

Never cross a track without coming to a full stop. Then listen for a car that may be approaching. Be sure and look both ways before crossing.

Do not try to cross in front of a moving car. Its speed may be greater than you imagine and there is always the possibility of your slipping on the track.

Don't Wait for the Fatal Stages on Kidney Disease. Profit by Northville People's Experiences.

Occasional attacks of backache, irregular urination, headaches and dizzy spells are frequent symptoms of kidney disorders. It's an error to neglect these ills. The attacks may pass off for a time but generally return with greater intensity. Don't delay a minute. Begin taking Doan's Kidney Pills, and keep up their use until the desired results are obtained. Good work in Northville proves the effectiveness of this great kidney remedy.

Mrs. F. B. Fry, West St., Northville, Mich., says: "My kidneys were out of order, and the kidney secretions were unnatural. I used Doan's Kidney Pills and they helped me very much. My kidneys soon became normal. I strongly recommend Doan's Kidney Pills because I know that they are a safe remedy and give the desired results."

The VanZile house occupied by Fred Moffat has recently been newly painted.

L. B. Brooks has just erected a very pretty monument on the family lot in Rural Hill.

The morning and Sunday school services of the Methodist church will be held in the library rooms Sunday, July 6.

Mrs. James Masters was brought home from the U. of M. hospital Tuesday, and is resting very comfortably at her home here.

Mrs. L. W. Simmons is getting along very nicely after undergoing an operation for a cataract on one of her eyes. She is at her home here now, and is being cared for by her sister.

L. A. Babbitt has painted his home on Cady street with a very pretty combination of colors, cream with chocolate trimmings, and it presents the most charming appearance of any house on the street.

The Methodist church is undergoing repairs. A new oak floor is being put down, the seats and interior wood work revarnished. The exterior wood work is also being repainted and the roof mended.

Manager Thompson of the Aetna states that the big picture, "The Charge of the Light Brigade," will be run again at his Northville theatre. The machine broke last week just as this picture was started.

Schuler Power has been very ill with pneumonia poisoning that week, resulting from the eating of some canned goods. He and his daughter, Miss Heeter were the only ones affected, and the latter only slightly.

W. C. T. U. ladies will meet at Mrs. Ford's home on the Carmel Benton farm July 7. Take the 2:30 electric and ride will be the car leader, Addie Cadden. Subject: "My Country 'Tis of Thee." Each lady is to bring as many guests as she desires to provide for, also plate, cup, spoon and fork.

Mrs. Paul Alexander and the Misses Martha White, Hazel Bishop, Frances Yerkes, Hazel Boyce, Hazel Perkins, Bertha Curless of Detroit, and Margaret Yerkes held a very enjoyable picnic on the grounds back of the Yerkes home on the Cass line Monday afternoon. It was a pot-luck supper and the menu included everything but sandwiches.

Next Sunday evening, July 7, union church services will be held on the lawn next to the M. E. church. An eight piece orchestra and a mixed double quartet, both composed of representatives of the three churches will furnish music and Rev. Webber will preach. This will be the first out-of-door union service of the year—come.

The P. M. management has notified Village President Schrader that the 10:23 a. m. train south will now stop here for passengers, but Mr. Schrader has advised the company the express and mail service is the only question here. He had a conference with General Superintendent Gordon, Tuesday, and has arranged for another meeting with General Manager Alfred to take place as soon as he returns home next week.

Word was received here this week of the death of Mr. Harold Tubbs at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Frank Tubbs, in Mammoth Springs, Ark. He had been bitten by a dog several months previously, but as the wound was very slight, no attention was given it. He died of a very advanced case of hydrophobia after only a few days' illness. Deceased was for many years a resident of this village.

The K. O. T. M. M's treated the Lady Macabees to a fish supper in Cattermole hall Tuesday evening. A good program was given by the ladies and everybody had a good time.

Fire Chief McLean has ordered a general cleaning up of all places in and about public buildings, stores, etc., so as to lessen the danger from fire today and tonight.

According to Lansing dispatches the correct style during the summer is the cornetless Balkan blouse effect. The style has been adopted by all the lady employees at the capitol.

Such was the demand during the week for the 40c carpets which Ponsford advertised for last Saturday only, that as a favor to the trade he will put them on sale again this week Saturday. This Saturday only, reads his ad.

Lady customer: "I want your assistance in recovering my daughter." Dry Goods Clerk: "Certainly, when was she lost?"

Lady: "She isn't lost, but she has left nearly all her clothes at home."

Just about the nicest looking job of house painting in town is that of L. L. Brooks' place on Wing street. The residence happens to be so constructed in a manner that the particular colors used, cream with brown trimmings, make it unusually attractive.

Postmaster Johnson was on hour late at the P. O. Friday afternoon, being kept at home that length of time after dinner answering telephone calls from parties who wanted to buy some of his live stock advertised in the Record of that morning.

The Record's item about Lee Shipley's big dog licking Glenn Richardson's shepherd, and Ed. Hunkley cutting his lawn and Will Ray spending up a flower bed was copied in the Cincinnati Post last week under the heading of "A Good Start in Northville."

A Detroit paper states, "About 1,000 barrels of beer were emptied into Mendota creek when the Mendota brewery was closed. The police reported drunken bullfrogs walking arm in arm up the main street." Wonder if those policemen were affected by the heat or by such a careless waste of material?

It stands as a matter of history to the everlasting disgrace of this country that in the ten years from 1903 to 1912, inclusive, a total of 38,508 people—the equivalent of nearly forty regiments—were killed or injured in the celebrations of the Fourth of July. Last year was America's sanest Fourth with the lowest record of casualties made since records were kept. The figures in details were: Dead, 20; classified as follows: By fireworks, 5; cannon, 1; firearms, 6; gunpowder, 5; toy pistols, 1; runaway, 1. Injured, 658; classified as follows: By fireworks, 328; cannon, 47; firearms, 84; gunpowder, 98; toy pistols, 38.

Miss Grace Sloan is attending summer school at Ypsilanti.

Special program at the Aetna theatre the evening of the Fourth.

With Lanning and his gang of men are laying the new hardwood floor in the Methodist church.

The Sutherland, Stock Co. opened a three nights tent show at Athletic Park Thursday evening.

E. Meredith of Bad Axe was the lowest bidder for constructing the village dam, his bid being $3,096.

Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Rail passed their 50th wedding anniversary yesterday. Both are past 80 years and are exceptionally well both mentally and physically for anyone of that age.

G. P. Allen fell from a loft ladder while endeavoring to pick some cherries Wednesday and quite badly bruised his arms and shoulders. Mr. Allen has been in poor health for a long time and the fall was consequently much more of a shock.

Cream with brown trimmings as a color scheme for painting houses seems to be as great in popularity as the Bulgarian colors are in women's clothing. B. G. and Charles Filkins have decorated their houses in this manner.

The Sutherland-Stock Co. has put up tents on the Athletic Park grounds and will present "A Call from the South" this Friday evening, and "The Sunset Trail" Saturday evening. Special scenery and specialties between acts.

With about half equipment to do the work the Bell Telephone company is making a mighty mess of the service in Northville. A new switch board is expected in August or September and the service may be improved at that time.

Hurrah! The Detroit police department has decided that split or slit skirts will go on the streets of that city as long as the women wear full length hose with them. Oh! Poof! They will now become so common that the men won't even look at them.

For the first time in 14 years Phil Palmer, Northville's well known ladder and crate manufacturer, was down town Wednesday evening. Jas Huff induced him to ride down into the village from his home five blocks away and Phil was surprised to see the many improvements and new buildings that have gone up since 1899.

The consolidation of the two telephone companies has caused a considerable shakeup in employees. Miss Hazel Boyce resigned her position as operator, Monday, to rest this summer. Miss Pauline Green has also resigned. These two young ladies were two of the best operators in town and it is a certainty that they will be greatly missed by subscribers.

"THE ROSE MAIDEN."

The cantata entitled "The Rose Maiden" which was presented by the Choral Union of the Presbyterian church last Friday evening, afforded a rare and enjoyable treat to Northville people who are lovers of music.

The cantata, a beautiful myth tells of the queen of flowers who, wishing to be made mortal in order to find a lover, died of a broken heart when he deserted her after a brief but happy courtship.

The solos and choruses were sung in a very charming manner and a great deal of credit is due Mrs. H. K. Bryan, who acted as director. Mrs. J. B. Tinham played the accompaniment.

The members of the Union are, Mesdames Bert Stark, A. E. Stanley, E. C. Hinkley, T. B. Henry and E. H. Noble; the Misses Licia Richardson, Viola McCally, Hester Power, Margaret Yerkes and Arbutus Power and Roy Clark, Ray Van Valkenburg, C. E. Ryder, M. N. Willis, Rev. J. E. Webber, Carl and Philip Bryan, Arthur Power and Carol Dubuay.

The proceeds went into a fund being raised by the church for a new pipe organ.

A quiet home wedding was solemnized at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Thaddeus D. Sealey at 120 o'clock Tuesday, when Miss Florence Sealey was united in marriage to Arthur W. Selden and Miss Mabel Sealey to Maurice G. Reeves.

The bridal party entered the parlors to the strains of Lohengrin's wedding march played by Miss Belle Farmer. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Milo J. Sweet. After a short wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Selden will return to remain in this city until August, when they will make their home in Grand Haven, Mich. Mr. and Mrs. Reeves will be at home at Cass Lake after July 15.—Pontiac Gazette.
