FOR LOVE OF HAT

MARY CURTIS PLEADED GUILTY OF TAKING ONE AND $3.00 IN MONEY.

Liquor Habit Caused Her to Forget Seventh Commandment.

Mary Curtis was up before Judge this Monday charged with larceny in the W. J. Thompson home where she was housekeeping a while. She pleaded guilty to the taking of Mrs. Thompson's hat and $3 but wouldn't stand for the loss of the "Maude Adams" wig and her curls. The judge thought of four weeks at the Detroit H. C. would be about proper in her case and then Mary didn't see how she could earn the three dollars as easily as to make a return visit to Detroit's famous free hotel. She claimed the liquor habit for her endangered act.

CITY FOLKS AND INTERURBAN CARS

"CITIZEN" SAYS COUNTRY PEOPLE REALLY OF NO ACCOUNT.

Few Detroiters Still Like to Ride Home on Dusty Velvet Cushions

It has remained for a brilliant (?) Detroit to advance the most absurd "argument" that any issue could possibly evolve on the question of the use of the interurban cars by city people.

It is really too ridiculous for reproduction, except by way of illustrating the vagaries of which the human mind is capable.

The "citizen" as he signs himself hints that the folks who make a fuss about their rights to first chance on the cars in question have no claim to any consideration whatever.

He says they are people who live outside the city because "they don't want to pay their just share of city taxes," yet depend upon city employment to earn a living, or else are folks who "only come to Detroit to trade because they can buy things cheaper" (Shades of business tradition!) This extremely logical citizen should take a few hours off from his profound unaided study of public utility questions and interview a few hundred Detroit merchants and manufacturers to find out why they are spending thousands of perfectly good dollars every day by way of selling these same outsiders through the daily papers all about their commodities, and convincingly demonstrating how much cheaper people can get what they want in Detroit than anywhere else in the world. Then he might interview a few real estate men and find out what some of the inducements are that are held out to prospective home-makers to go outside the city, and perhaps, while he was about it, he might just study out where the suburban electric railway companies would be at if Detroit were to be surrounded by an imaginary wall such as his remarks would indicate that he believes in.

We are somewhat of the opinion he would soon be made to realize—if of sufficient mental caliber to realize anything—that if all Detroit business transactions were restricted to Detroit residents it would be a long time before our big Michigan city would attain that seven-figure population she is so rapidly approaching, or that she would ever have acquired the half million or more that now comprise her citizenship under such a condition of things.

MAY MAKE NEGROES WHITE

Chicagoan Believes It Possible to Neutralize Color Line and Change Black Man's Skin.

Boston—Q. T. Simpson, a stock breeder of Chicago in attendance at the recent meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, declared that it was only a matter of time when the negro of the darkest hue could be made as pink skinned as the caucasian.

"By experiments with plants and animals scientists have discovered much of the so-called laws of heredity, and in doing so have unearthed a great deal on the nature of chromosomes, the unit of life which gives color," read Mr. Simpson. "I think we are on the verge of gaining complete control over these chromosomes, and that means the control of color. By a set process of treatment with baths or injections this new tide in the affairs of the black man will be brought about and these color units in the cells of the creature will be attenuated or destroyed."

"Today we can do it by breeding, to-morrow we can change the color of the blacks' offspring by treating these color controlling cells with a stimulant to war against the chromosomes. My theory can find some stable basis on the fact that the pigments of the negro's cells is sometimes destroyed in spots by natural action as in the spotted mulatto. I am at work on a process which I think will enable me to give the results I desire."

FIGHT WITH OCTOPIUS

Deep Sea Diver Finally Worsts Devil Fish.

Long Beach, Cal.—Cut off from as much as 100 feet of air, a diver, a professional deep sea diver, after the worst fifteen minutes of his last fight with a large octopus, finally won the sea bottom in a desperate battle with a large octopus. The octopus had gone down to respect the diver and in wandering around had tangled the line so that when the diver felt the octopus was big he was unable to give the signal for ascending. Persuading that the line was fast he turned to the octopus, which by that time had four tentacles wrapped round his left leg. Five times he slashed at the monster with his large knife and each time severed a tentacle. At last the octopus moved away and the diver, battered and exhausted, reached the surface and was taken to the hospital.

VAST FOREST OF RUBBER TREES

Prospectors Obtain Concession from Mexican Government After Strange Discovery.

Ann Arbor, Mich.—After a search of eighteen months Professor John R. Allen, of the University of Michigan, and two assistants have located in the interior of Mexico's forest of rubber trees, the product of which is of remarkable quality. The first indication of the forest's existence came when a traveler reported that native Indian children gathered a gum which, when squeezed, had a spherical shape, had the appearance and much of the resilience of a rubber ball.

After locating the trees and roughly defining the boundaries of the mysterious forest, the party obtained concessions from the Mexican government for 50,000 acres of land timbered with the trees and a promise of still more land, and to-day they have a gum which London experts have pronounced to be the nearest approach to the celebrated Para rubber that has so far been put on the market. London dealers are said to have offered to buy all the gum these prospectors can put on the market for seventy-five cents a pound. The product costs seventeen cents a pound to deliver in New York city.

The gum comes from a tree that had never been classified scientifically nor exploited commercially. The tree belongs to the native family of the rubber tree, but is much larger and has a more rounded shape. The tree is said to be a native of the region of the Tigris and Euphrates, and is said to be a native of the region of the Tigris and Euphrates.

FOX GIVES YOUNG FOR CHICK

Heartless Old Baldy, Without a Diploma Gets Nice Fat Pullet from Tree by Mathematics.

Jacksonville, N. J.—Cleverness which would do credit to a mechanical engineer and heartlessness which only could be equaled in Wall street in panic time, marked the despoiling of William Warner's poultry yard by "Old Baldy," a red fox that for years has been an annoyance to poultry raisers in the Orange Mountain district. Accompanied by a young fox, "Old Baldy" went to the Warner place and saw roosting in a tree near the well a nice fat pullet. Miss Warner saw the two foxes and laughed at their discomfiture with the pullet well up out of reach.

Now, "Old Baldy" never went to Cooper Union, the Stevens Institute, the Sheffield Scientific School or any place like that. He has, however, a long head and an uncommon amount of common sense. He began talking to the younger fox in the fox language and subsequent developments showed there was a complete understanding between them. "Old Baldy" figured it out that if he sat on the big end of the old-fashioned well-sweep and enough weight could be put at the bucket-end of the sweep he would be lifted up to the pullet in the tree.

You jump in the well bucket as soon as you see me, seated on the other end of the sweep," the old fox said to the young fox. "That'll lift me up and I'll get the pullet and divide with you." The task, of course, was all in fox talk. The young fox leaped into the bucket and the nicely-balanced sweep was put in operation. "Old Baldy" sailed up to the pullet and the young fox started down the well. In two or three seconds there was a greedy snap of "Old Baldy's" jaws, the squawk of a pullet and the outcry of Miss Warner. Her outcry brought her father. He ran out to the farm yard. "Old Baldy" saw him coming, leaped off the big end of the well-sweep and ran as hard as he could go toward the woods with the pullet. Thrown across his back, Warner chased him fruitlessly and then returned to the well. Climbing to the bucket, which was filled with water, was the other fox, when "Old Baldy" had him. Warner dragged the fox out of the well and killed the animal. He said the fox was a very clever one and for the loss of his pullet.

The Reunion

It lacked 10 minutes to a quarter of 10, the time set by Manager Harris for a rehearsal of the "Woman's Love" company, when Mina Forsyth, cast for a small role in the company, awoke from her sleep tired, and with the caustic remarks the manager had thrown at her the night before still ringing in her ears.

In case of sickness and adversity he was as gentle as a woman, but in business, ah! that was where he showed the cruelness of his nature. With a bound she left the bed and hastily dressing herself affectionately patted a golden haired mite of humanity on the head which she had just left, saying, "Be good, dearie, mother will soon return." Drawing on her outside wraps she descended the long flight of attic stairs and went out into the storm which every minute was increasing in its intensity. As she rounded the corner of the street, she drew her garments closer about her body when the wind in a crescendo of rage blew the powderiness into her face.

Mina Forsyth had not chosen the stage as her vocation or because she loved it, but because it afforded her self and child the best means of support, when her husband, Richard Forsyth, had left her in anger some years before, so it may be the reason why Manager Harris had never advanced her from minor roles to that of a star, because she was not hearty and soul in her work.

She arrived at the theatre, where Manager Harris was putting some local recruits through the big mob scene and was about to go to her dressing room, when he beckoned for her to approach. With secret fear, possessing her and with starvation staring her in the face should she be discharged, she obeyed her call.

"Mina Forsyth," he began clearing his throat. She was sure her hour had come. Mrs. Forsyth, the company move on to-morrow to Kingston, so be in readiness.

"Yes," she replied, secretly pleased at the news, then as she was turning to go he said, "Then there is one more thing. Bennett, the leading lady, has taken sick only at last night and may not be able to go on. So be in readiness at your make-up, it's your job to keep her from being turned down by the local recruits."

With tears of joy and relief, she went to her room and found that the leading lady had indeed taken sick. She was sure her hour had come.

As she walked to the theatre, she found that the leading lady had indeed taken sick. She was sure her hour had come.

It was the scene of a soldier lad being welcomed by his sweetheart on his return home from war. The lights were turned low and in the dimness of the stage she thought she beheld a familiar figure. Her lines left her so she substituted. She felt a strange gripping at her heart strings and heard the manager say, "Well, she's a good one, she's a good one."

There was intense silence at last. It was broken by a loud applause. The manager said, "Well, she's a good one, she's a good one."

She was eager to kiss her. And she? She heard two voices speaking and one was the voice of the mother and the other was the voice of the father. And the majority rules.

ACTION OVER KING'S GAUNTLET

Suit Involves One Reputed to Have Seen Worn by Charles I.

London.—A gauntlet reputed to have been worn by King Charles I. and an autograph letter of his majesty to Prince Rupert formed the subject of an action in the Chancery division recently. The plaintiff was Evelyn Clay Ker Seymour, of St. Leonards Terrace, Chelsea, and the defendant a "distant cousin," John Bennett Stanford, of Tisbury, Wilts.

Mr. Romer, K. C., said that according to tradition King Charles when on the scaffold handed his gauntlets to an ancestor of the plaintiff's. The plaintiff's grandfather had large estates at Hanford, and these gauntlets were kept for many years in a table with a glass top. From 1839 the plaintiff became absolutely entitled under certain settlements to the articles in dispute. His mother, however, disposed of the gauntlet and the letter to the defendant's family. The plaintiff contended that she had no right to do so, and asked for the return of the articles.

Belgium Has No Navy.

Belgium is, despite its forty-two miles of seaboard, one of the few nations of the world without a navy. There are only two other navyless powers in Europe—landlocked Switzerland and Serbia. Even Bulgaria can boast of a torpedo gunboat and a few small steamers, while Roumania is proud in the possession of "twelve small vessels." Holland and Belgium's neighbor, has quite an imposing fleet of eight ironclads and a flotilla of 100 steamers. If Bulgaria has the smallest navy in the world the tiny principality of Monaco has the smallest army—126 men all told.

Jews in Palestine.

Some twenty years ago Palestine meant little to the majority of Jews. Now all is changing. Nearly every fresh colony has been established, till now their number more than thirty, and time is adding to their number and extent. One third of Palestine proper is once again Jewish soil. So anxious are the Jews to again get possession that they endeavor to purchase all that comes into the market.

A sturgeon caught on one of the Volga weighed 1,700 pounds, and was valued altogether at $400.

Concessionaires Must Go

St. Louis-Post-Dispatch: President Wilson's expressed determination to give no aid or comfort to foreign concession holders in Latin-American countries marks the beginning of the end of a custom which has provoked more armed disorder in those countries than anything else whatever. The Wilson doctrine means that the United States will not use armed force to protect the graft of these alien backers of Latin-American insurrectionaries, nor permit it to be used by any other nation.

Cops To Close Eyes

Recently a policeman in Joplin, Mo., was discharged because he advised a woman with a slit skirt to "go home and get some clothes on." The woman proved to be the wife of a wealthy citizen. Chief of Police told his officers that the ban was not raised on indecent dressing and he believed officers were justified in telling some women to go home and put on more clothes. The police say that to be safe they will have to close their eyes, which the admit will be difficult when a slit skirt is in sight.

Government

Ownership Discussed

President Wilson and some of his close advisers are seriously discussing the government ownership of telephone and telegraph lines. Representative David J. Lewis of Maryland, part author of the parcel post law, has drafted a bill to purchase the long distance telephone lines as a step in this direction. Postmaster General Burien is giving the matter consideration and is favorably inclined toward the proposition. Attorney General McReynolds prefers government regulation of rates and tariffs to government ownership.

Farm Bill Approved

Unanimous approval was given by the Senate Committee on Agriculture to the bill of Senator Hoke Smith, of Georgia, for a system of agriculture extension work. The measure proposes to unite the federal agricultural departments and state colleges to carry information to the public. An appropriation of $48,000, to be increased yearly until it amounts to nearly $35,000, is proposed. Provision is made for a director of co-operative extension work to be appointed by the secretary of agriculture.

BIBLE STUDY ON

JESUS AND THE CHILDREN.

Mark 9:30-41; 10:13-16—Jan. 4.

"God's precious will—humility, to serve one another; to God himself the power, but give grace to the humble."—1 Peter 5:2 & 7.

THE Master knew that the time of His death drew near. He passed hastily through Galilee, en route for Capernaum.

He desired this opportunity for breaking gently to His disciples the news of His approaching death. While He had previously declared that none could touch Him because His hour had not yet come, now He declared that He would be delivered into the hands of men, that they would kill Him and that on the third day, He would rise from the dead.

But the disciples understood not and feared to ask an explanation. As Jews, they had the thought of the Messianic Kingdom uppermost. They even disputed among themselves respecting the honorable positions they would occupy, and as to which would be the greatest. Little did they understand the great trials and disappointments only a few days ahead!

Jesus inquired respecting their dispute; but they were ashamed to tell Him. Then He advised them that the selfishly ambitious, seeking honor rather than service, would be disappointed.

In His Kingdom self-seekers would find lowest place.

Then He took a child and set it in their midst, saying, "Whoever shall receive one such little child receive Me." The Master sought to show His disciples that the humblest among them, if favored by God, would have a high position in His Kingdom.

Blessing the Children.

The Master loved children, though so far as the record shows, He did not generally give them His time. When some fond parents brought their children, desiring Him to bless them, the disciples rebuked them. As the subject of the Kingdom was uppermost in His teachings and in their minds, Jesus took this opportunity of teaching the disciples a lesson. They had, perhaps, felt too sure of being members of the Kingdom class.

When Jesus said, "Suffer little children to come unto Me; and forbid them not; for of such is the Kingdom of Heaven," we do not understand Him to mean that all in the Kingdom would be children. On the contrary, no little children will be in the Kingdom. Only developed, tried, perfected characters will constitute the overcomers who will sit with the Master in His throne during the blessing of the world. The thought which the Lord would impress is that even His twelve Apostles would not be in the Kingdom unless they became childlike, teachable, trustful. The proper child, unspurred by its elders, is disposed to be trustful. All who become God's children must reach this condition of trust as respects the Heavenly Father. Only such will partake in the Kingdom.

Manifestly none can receive a Kingdom until it has been offered. With the Jews this offer came at the close of Jesus' ministry, when He rode into Jerusalem on the ass. The worldly scribes and Pharisees were too wise to receive Jesus and plotted His death. His disciples fully believed God's Word that there would be a Kingdom and that Jesus was the appointed King, to reign in due time.

The multitude cried, "Blessed is He that cometh in the name of the Lord!" The wise scribes and Pharisees called out that the multitude be silenced. But Jesus replied that the shout had been foretold (Zechariah 9:9), and that if the people did not shout the very stones would cry out, that the prophecy be fulfilled.

Mistaken Kingdom Views.

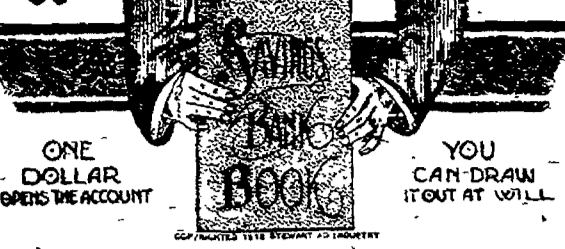

It seems remarkable that after all the Bible has said respecting Messiah's Kingdom and its work of blessing all mankind, so few believe the Message. The majority today, like the scribes and Pharisees of old, are too wise to believe in the possibility of its establishment. They realize the need of the Kingdom, but have certain theories which blind them to the Truth.

Some mistakenly hold that Christ's Kingdom was set up at Pentecost, and that Christ has reigned ever since, conquering the world. How unreasonable this seems, when we know that the heathen double every century! How strange that Christians have so long prayed, "Thy Kingdom come!" and yet have not really believed that it is to be established at Jesus' Second Coming and the resurrection change of His Church!

Another large body of Christians hold that Jesus' coming is a "second time" to establish His Kingdom, unnecessary; that in A. D. 33 He established His followers in king's power, and made the Pope at Rome His representative, to reign in His stead.

These views are neither satisfactory nor Scriptural. Well did the Apostle warn us that many would depart from the faith, giving heed to seducing spirits and doctrines of demons, quite unlike the glorious Gospel of God's Love and His ever-enduring Mercy.

WOMAN LAY FINGER TO EXHIBIT WEALTH

University Professor Says Wives Are Used to Hang Out Signs of Prosperity

A FEMINE COMPETITIVE GAME

Natural Desire to Excel Causes a Great Deal of the Present "Alarming Extravagance"—Dressing not for Husbands but for Other Women.

Chicago, Ill.—Views expressed before two hundred women in a lecture on "Women's Dress," by Professor William I. Thomas, of the University of Chicago, have created general interest here.

"Do you think it is just accusation to say that women dress only to please men?" was a query Professor Thomas was asked.

"No," was the reply. "I regard it as a sort of feminine competitive game, to be a natural desire to excel in a thing in which they are vastly interested, which causes a great deal of the extravagance."

"Don't you think that women spend a great deal more on clothes than they would otherwise do merely to please their husbands?" asked another.

"I think very little dressing is done for the sake of husbands; it is chiefly for other women," was the reply.

"Why is it that while women's dress has certainly grown up less attractive within the last two centuries, the dress of men has become more attractive?"

"It is surely that in a life where activity counts the most, utility in dress and little else is taken into consideration. One advantage which men's clothes have over that of women is that they last longer and do not cost as much."

Among other statements made by Professor Thomas was the following:

"As wealth became a more and more potent factor in social life men began to use his wife as a lay figure upon which he could hang signs of his prosperity. Women of the upper classes were not expected to do any sort of work and the more was a comfortable one to travel. That state of affairs is now becoming untrue. Women are awakening and taking part in the social activities."

PAINLESS ANIMAL TRAINING

Paris Zooological Psychologists Start a New Circus Seminary

Paris will soon own a wild and training institute which will add additional significance to the showman's claim that it is "all done by kindness." It is the outcome of a project formed by the Society for Zoological Psychology, a body which receives a subsidy from the State.

"Psychic" persuasion as it is called, without corporal punishment is the sole method that will be followed. It is a fact that it is applied to the training of the circus animals. The staff are all trained zoologists as well as circus riders and animal trainers who have had practical experience in circus and menageries.

These who aspire to a professional career in this direction may receive their tuition here. The first lot of animals to undergo the treatment comprises lions, leopards, tigers, bears and seals. These will be transported to the Zoological Gardens of the new nation which is located in an adjoining building.

Crusade is keen as regards the circus and carnivals are sharpening the pencils in anticipation.

URGES SHORT SKIRTS

Anti-Tuberculosis League for School-room Reform.

Pittsburg.—In an effort to stamp out tuberculosis in the public schools the Anti-Tuberculosis League decided here to request the Superintendent of Schools of all large cities to issue an order that teachers shall not wear skirts coming below their shoe tops. It is urged that if necessary ordinances be passed making the long skirt unlawful.

Miss Charlotte Miller, of the league explained that the long skirts of teachers now cause the dust in the classroom to rise later settling in the pupils' lungs and sowing the first seeds of consumption. Most teachers object to heavily oiled floors, she said, because they ruin skirts. The only other remedy, she asserted was to shorten the skirts.

ANOTHER WOMAN VICTORY.

Husband Must Account to Wife for His Time, Judge Decides.

Pittsburg.—Judge Josiah Coker, in the divorce court here practically decided that a wife is entitled to know just where a husband spends his time when he is away from home for forty-eight hours, if he refuses to give a legitimate excuse for his absence.

Mrs. Rosine Pasetti had testified that her husband had remained from home two nights. She said he refused to tell her where he had been.

When she came back when at phone. Maritta Pa. Forgetting for an instant that a severe attack of whooping cough seven years ago had left her voiceless, Miss Emma Yetter, daughter of Farmer Yetter of Bachmanville, answering a telephone call, found she could talk again.

ALASKAN MOSQUITOES.

The Far North Species Worse Than Any in Temperate Zone.

"Our summer lasted for three months and during that time by day as well as by night we had the fight of our lives against swarms of mosquitoes which for tenacity of purpose and endeavor cannot be equalled in this world, and I have seen a good deal of it in my fifteen years as a soldier," said A. C. Gardner, sergeant of Company C, Twenty-second Infantry, at the Union depot, recently. Sgt. Gardner was returning home to Milwaukee, Wis., after two years spent at Fort Gibson, Alaska, some 900 miles northeast of Nome, on the Yukon.

"The Government maintains six posts in Alaska," continued Sgt. Gardner. "We had two companies at our post and did very little actual military duty. Our principal work was in keeping up the telegraph lines which are owned by the Government. The signal corps has large representation in Alaska and the soldiers frequently are called on to give that department assistance."

"I have fought mosquitoes in the woods in Wisconsin, in the State of New Jersey, in the swamps of the Mississippi River and in the Philippines, but there are none that can equal the voracious species they have in the far North."—Kansas City Journal.

Named By Queen Victoria.

British Columbia, the scene of the newest gold "rush," was of all the colonies the most intimately associated with the late Queen Victoria. She christened it. It was at first proposed to call the place New Caledonia, but Queen Victoria pointed out that there was already a French colony of that name in the Pacific. She suggested "British Columbia," and the happy thought became a fact. Afterwards her Majesty was invited by the British Columbians to visit their capital, and she decided upon "New Westminster." But "in after years New Westminster was found to be not altogether suitable for a metropolis, and the capital was transferred to Victoria. New Westminster, from the circumstance of its birth, is still locally known as the "Royal City."—London Daily Chronicle.

Eccentricities of Genius.

A patient searcher gives the results of his labors in a Paris contemporary, from which we learn that Haydn never composed unless he had on his finger a ring given to him by Frederick the Great. Malthus, the novelist, was so old, sick and feeble that he forewent to derive inspiration and to present his thoughts being assisted by his servants. Paganini only composed when in bed and under the clothes.

Mozart in writing his history required candles even in broad daylight. Rousseau derived inspiration walking among the plants in the sun. Ampere did his work standing and made his notes in capital letters.

Disinfecting Cars in Prussia.

Disinfection of the coaches of the Prussian state railways has been an annoying the sanitation authorities with the result that the Government recently established a system of steel tubes, boiler riveted, into which coaches may be backed and exteriors and interiors rendered germless, through a treatment of formalin. Cars are run into these tubes, one at a time, the end of the tube closed, and its interior filled with formalin gas. The gas tank is set up as a unit in connection with the metal tubing feeding the disinfecting gases into the tube at short range.

Taints in Frozen Meats.

Signs of badness in frozen meats are the smell near the bone, bone taint. Frozen or refrigerated meat should be defrosted in a special chamber at 70 degrees Fahrenheit. If thawed at atmospheric temperatures such meat becomes dry and dirty looking, and will spoil before it can be cooked. Old cold-storage meat is bristly and rancid and wet with the American process, currents of cold air 30 degrees, is the best way to refrigerate meat.

Tree Planting by a Railroad.

More than a million trees were planted on tracks along the right of way. The total number of trees planted since 1902, when the forestry work was started, is 2,432,186. These figures are included in the report of the company's forester. Special effort was given last year to growing ornamental shrubbery for parking purposes, and to save time 6,000 plants were imported from France.—Philadelphia Press.

Penny-in-the-Slot Light.

In the little Silesian town of Zankau the authorities have adopted an ingenious automatic device for the benefit of those who are afraid to go home in the dark. The introduction of a coin in a slot at the foot of an electric light standard after extinguishing hours, will light the roadway for twelve minutes.

Keeping Their Tinder Dry.

Wild Scot Highlanders, out on a foray or cattle stealing used to carry their tiny tinder, punk or grass up near the armpit to keep it dry, and use for starting fires.

Mr. Rockefeller is loyal to the Cleveland Sunday school he attended when a little boy. It was there he got his start although they did not teach the oil business in that particular school.

JEW FLOCKING INTO HOLY LAND

Constitutional Regime in Turkey Causes Influx from Russia, Persia and Elsewhere

JERUSALEM IS IN THEIR HANDS

Colonies Spread Through Plain of Esdras and Modern Methods of Agriculture Greatly Increase Production of Paying Crops.

London.—Letters from Jerusalem say that the proclamation of the Constitution in Turkey has thrown open the doors of Palestine to the incoming of Jews from all parts of the world. In Jerusalem alone four-fifths of the population of 100,000 now belong to the Jewish faith, while at Jaffa, Tiberias, Safed, and Haifa Jews are reckoned by tens of thousands.

Almost the whole extensive plain of Esdras has been bought up by them. Their prosperous colonies spread from Dan to Beersheba, and even farther south to the outskirts of Egypt. Thousands are escaping from Persia to find shelter and protection in the Holy Land, while every ship from Odessa carries hundreds of them.

The valley of the Jordan, once the property of the ex-Sultan Abdul Hamid, is being eagerly sought after by Jewish capitalists and syndicates of Zionists, whose agents, distributed all over the land, are buying up all properties of Mohammedan or others whose incomes, since the revolution are considerably lessened.

The Holy City is essentially a Jewish town. Banking, as well as trade and commerce, is monopolized by Jews. The Government has found it necessary to organize a company of Jewish gendarmes. Hundreds of thousands of pounds are sent annually from Europe and America to enable the colonists to build homes, hospitals, schools, and invalid homes. Over 100 Jewish schools already exist in Jerusalem and synagogues are going up everywhere.

The value of land has risen fourfold. The ignorant and poverty-stricken fellahs are being ousted from their homes and villages by the sharp European Jewish, who have modern agricultural implements and methods have made the land and produce harvests never before dreamed of by the natives. The Anglo-Palestine Company, a Zionist banking and commercial enterprise, is pushing the cause of Jewish colonization.

The rapid extermination of the Jews and their claimant practice of amassing the opposition of the Ottomans and the Turkish constitutional regime has in this question, one of the most serious problems that a new and patriotic Government must face.

PASSING OF ROTOKINO BILLY.

Famous Decoy Sheep of Auckland Dies a Violent Death

Auckland New Zealand.—The address here by cause of the death of Rotokino Billy, the famous decoy sheep of the Union Steamship Company which shared with Plover, the white sheepdog, a number of which guides vessels through Cook's Strait between the North and South Islands, the protection of the Government. Rotokino Billy was a prize sheep, a trophy of 1896 and it was prohibited to convert Rotokino Billy into anything under any circumstances.

For the last ten years the sheep had been one of the crew of the Union Steamship Company, liner Wankana between New Zealand and Australia. Billy's duty was to act as a decoy in leading sheep on and off the steamer. He was never known to make a mistake and his saint-like expression as he led his untame brethren to their doom was much appreciated by American tourists on the Wankana.

On the last passage of the ship from Wellington to Auckland Rotokino Billy was knocked into one of the coal bunkers by a heavy sea and broke his neck, to the intense grief of the crew.

Knowing Decalog Frees Him.

Lancaster Pa.—It has been a peculiar fancy of Mayor McCosky to ask prisoners to repeat the Ten Commandments, but he never, until the other day, found a man who could do so. Among his subjects was James Duff, a resident of Philadelphia who had been picked up for taking a snooze in a public hallway. James proved equal to the emergency, and after establishing a record on which men in many professions and trades had failed he was given his liberty.

Ad. for Wife Brings Many Replies.

Oconto Wis.—Letters from women flowed in on John Barney, a farmer, who advertised for a wife offering to take her to town to see moving picture shows once every week, and to allow her all the physical culture training and piano playing she might wish. He received thirty-six letters in two days.

Allentown, Pa.—James Wilson, who is serving a thirty-year sentence for the murder of John P. Ebert of this town, whom he shot for money to get married with, has written to the warden saying he is happy and nothing worries him; that he is glad he has no wife, because they are no more than enough.

BANDIT TALK

Zelim, Rascals Threatens

In the

St. Petersburg, napping of a woman the city of Vladimir, rousing district in terror of the bandit Khan, who, with carried on a war in son, like that which exists in the "feud" districts in America in Kentucky and West Virginia.

The city had its garrison constantly under arms awaiting attacks by the bandit horde. Selim Khan assumed the title "Viceroy of the Hills" (Nameslik Gov). He was described as a handsome, broad shouldered man, not yet forty years old, who dressed as a Russian officer, was a Moslem and took only Moslem's under his banner. He had among his officers, Col. Dolgoyev, formerly in the Czar's service.

Selim became a bandit in consequence of the love his brother, Soltanmurid bore Zorga Khushalova, a beauty of the village of Khorotchka. The girl preferred a young man named Anskanoff. Soltanmurid kidnapped the girl, but her parents got her back. Selim then tried in vain to buy her for his brother, and finally seized one of her relatives, named Sugump, and holding him over a precipice threatened to let him fall unless he promised to restore the girl to Soltanmurid. The fellow wriggled loose, drove a knife in the heart of the man who was standing beside Selim, and fled. Selim murdered the girl's father, and Selim and Soltanmurid caught and killed Sugump.

Selim and Soltanmurid were captured by the military and were tried and given long sentences. After several months they escaped and organized a company of bandits. To these bandits the Russians gave the name "Abekes." Selim rules his men with a sort of military code. Certain things in guerrilla warfare he holds are "unfair." He often gave warning by letter of his attacks.

"I ride to Kishlar," he announced, by mail, to Col. Verbitsky. Sure enough several days later he carried out a successful attack on the Kishlar State Treasury. His fiercest foes were the Daghestan Cavalry, but with the commander, Capt. Douguyev, he kept up a friendly correspondence. They are Moslems, and claimed friendship even in enemy Selim's chief lieutenant is a Tchetchenetz, a man named Avup Tomoff who had been sent to jail for "murder" while in a state of irritation—that is, in a lawful mood. When he escaped he took refuge with Selim.

MURDERER'S WIFE A DANCER

To Support Herself and Her Two Small Children.

Budapest, Hungary. At one of the music halls here a pretty young woman gave a song and dance turn with a suggestive character. Few knew that she is the wife of a notorious murderer, whose name was a household word in the city.

Her husband, a young lieutenant named Harklitzky, sent poisoning pills to several of his soldiers, who died before long, and promotion was only one period of them and he died. The military was condemned to be shot but the sentence was commuted to life imprisonment. His wife left her husband to support her two small children.

They decided their wedding wait until the fee was less expensive.

Bed Public Roads with Straw.

Waukegan Wis.—One hundred and forty-eight miles of straw roads have been made this season by H. E. Case, Supervisor of Road District No. 4. Straw holds down the dust and prevents the wheels from sinking too deeply into the mud in the wet seasons. Straw is a favorite road building material and is good, as it lasts. Straw ash is also used in some places. This latter is better than straw and sheds into the road the filth which little travel.

A white female quail was killed the other day by S. M. Blades of this city while hunting near Macedonia. The bird is not completely white, having several brown feathers, scattered here and there over its body, but the white predominates.

Phygmograph Registers Girl's Emotions for a Man—Gives Authentic Information for Admirer, Whose Name is Mentioned.

Philadelphia.—Here is a story that ought to send thrills of joy to the hearts of bashful men who haven't been able to muster up nerve enough to "pop the question" to the girl of their choice and who have been hoping fondly for another leap year to roll around. Just take the girl on an unsuspecting visit to the laboratory of the psychological clinic of the University of Pennsylvania, which is directed by Dr. Lightner Witmer, head of the department of psychology.

Then have her place her hand daintily in a machine which will notice if she is labeled a "phygmograph" or "phrygmograph," whatever that may be, and step into an adjoining room to await developments.

What the machine does is to register on a piece of paper a distinct line, which designates with precise correctness the very emotions the mention of your name to the girl has caused her to experience.

If the line sinks despairingly downward toward the bottom of the paper, take it from the "proposed machine" that your stock is rather low with the little woman, and you had better "soze upon a confidential tip on paper and continue to press your suit a time longer."

If, however, and this is important, the line fairly leaps and hobs toward the top of the paper, everything's all right and you ought to rush out into the room where the girl is seated, draw her to your breast and say "Well, tell me why didn't I think of this long ago?"

Before going into the details of how this "phygmograph" works out in actual practice, some idea ought to be given of its mechanical construction. In the first place there is a small metal cylinder on the inside of which is a rubber lining which fits the hand like a glove. It is into this rubber glove the girl inserts her hand.

The space between the glove and the cylinder is filled with water and on top of the cylinder is a tube that acts as a gauge, showing a contraction or an expansion of the girl's hand.

As the hand contracts the water falls in the tube. At the same time a like effect is caused in a long rubber tube, and passing through the partition into the adjoining room, connected with the hose is a sort of piston-like apparatus fitted with a rubber diaphragm at the end of which is a lever which registers the contractions or expansions on the paper.

"Cook Had Polar Insanity" a Strange Arctic Mental Disorder

Cleveland.—Dr. Frederick A. Cook's story of the discovery of the earth's apex was the result of 22,000 arctic miles, according to the Light Rev. B. E. Rove, Episcopal Bishop of Alaska.

Addressing an audience at Trinity Cathedral, Bishop Rove said that both Cook's remarkable story and Commander Robert E. Peary's frame of mind upon hearing it could be readily attributed to the loneliness, the grayness and the silence of the North.

All men come from out the polar circle with their nerves shattered," said the Bishop, "and in Alaska we send home fifty men annually after the long winter their minds completely wrecked."

HOW COLD? ASK THE TREE.

A Thermometer Trunk is a Farmer's Prized Possession.

Washington, N. J.—A tree that is a better thermometer than any of those instruments except the very best is owned by Lemuel Gardner, of West Carleton avenue. It records temperatures with unflinching accuracy when you know the key. Mr. Gardner has learned the code by long study.

Four years ago lightning split the tree down its middle. The crack is about eight feet long and the expansion and contraction of the wood is plain in the narrowing or spreading of the crack. Gardner has found that the crack begins to open at 10 degrees above zero. At 7 above it is one-eighth of an inch from edge to edge of the crack and at zero the aperture is an even inch.

Wild Dogs Raid a Farm.

Southernland Cal.—Wild dogs a few nights ago raided E. M. Withingham's farm and killed eight hogs, two cats, all of his chickens and several of his turkeys. The dogs have been roaming about the neighborhood for several weeks. They appeared to gather at night, just like a pack of wolves, and raid farms and truck gardens where there is poultry or live stock.
