

THE NORTHVILLE RECORD.

VOL. XLIV, NO. 32.

THE RECORD: NORTHVILLE, MICH., FRIDAY, MARCH 6, 1914.

$1.00 PER YEAR IN ADVANCE.

LARGE CROWDS ATTEND CAUCUSES

LOTS OF LIVELY DOIN'S AT BOTH MEETS

Winding Up with Two Good Tickets in the Field.

In spite of the many social affairs scheduled for last Friday night, there were about 200 men out to the two caucuses which were held that evening, the Workingmen's in the rink and the Citizen's in the town hall.

The former party put up on their ticket:

WORKINGMEN'S TICKET
For President—Wm. L. Tinnham.
Trustees—Samuel W. McLean, Geo. W. Hotelling and Peter Barley.
For Clerk—Thomas E. Murdock.
For Treasurer—Wm. J. Lanning, Sr.
For Assessor—Chas. A. Sessions.
The Committee—W. L. Tinnham, J. W. Perkins and J. A. Huff.

PEOPLE'S PARTY TICKET

The other ticket names the following:

President—Wm. Scotten.
For Trustees—Charles Van Valkenburg, Chas. Filkins and Howard Agol.
T. E. Murdock was endorsed for Clerk.

For Treasurer—Fred H. Tousey.
For Assessor—Verritt Stanley.
Committee—W. E. Boss, Charles Blackburn and H. W. Knapp.

At this caucus a resolution was passed changing the name from "Citizens" to the People's Party.

The Gas franchise will also be voted on, women who are property owners, being eligible to cast a vote on this subject. The matter of closing the streets will not come up at this time, having been laid over.

A SQUARE DEAL.

To the citizens of Northville, I wish to place myself on record in regard to a report circulated immediately after the village caucuses. That is, I was not present at the People's caucus nor had any part in its organization, and furthermore it is absolutely false that I voted in both. But should I have been there, which I believe, is the right of any voter, if he so desires to nominate a man or man, for whom he wishes to vote. The right man is my principle not name of party in village election. LESTER STAGE.

NOTICE.

I would express my thanks to the Workingmen's caucus for nomination but having attended and supported the People's caucus and resolutions, I feel it my duty to stand by it. Should I be elected, I will give my best efforts for wholesome village government. CHAS. S. FILKINS.

CHAUTAUQUA FOR NORTHVILLE

Northville is to have a Chautauqua this summer. A mass meeting of citizens was held Monday evening at which time the course was proposed, explained and accepted. The Central Chautauqua System of Indiana guarantees the entertainment on the signed assurance of the sale of 500 tickets at $1.50 for adults and 75c for children. The guarantee has already been signed up by citizens of the town and nearby rural districts.

The Chautauqua consists of a 5 days' entertainment to be given in a large tent on some favorable location. Lectures and addresses by Dr. Geo. Bables of Pennsylvania, humorous entertainer; Gov. Robt. Vessey of South Dakota; Prof. Frank Cause; Supt. of Schools in Panama and Dr. Harry Hill and Judge James Collins of Indiana, comprise the serious part of the program. The entertaining companies are the Illinois Glee Club; Male Quartet; Swiss Hand Bell Ringers; Play-Signers; Lady Orchestra and Dramatic Co.; R. R. Barclay, Crayon Lecturer; Cartoonist and Clay Modeler; Tom Morgan, Baritone Soloist; University Orchestra of Madison, Wis.; Miss May Shepherd, Grand Opera Role Player; and Alma Smith, Child Impersonator and Bird Warbler.

booked for Howell, Owosso, Fenton, Chasanning, etc.

Both the novelty and the merits of this 5 day event should secure its success. It will be given either in July or August, probably the latter, the exact dates not having been decided as yet.

The plan of having a Home-coming at the time of the Chautauqua was given up.

KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS GIVE ANNUAL DANCE

IN PRINCESS RINK TUESDAY EVENING, MARCH 17.

Music by Merrill's Full Orchestra of Six Pieces.

The Knights of Pythias have completed plans for their annual dancing party, to be held this year on Tuesday evening, March 17.

Contrary to past custom the party will not be a barn dance nor yet a costume affair, as has been rumored. It will take the form of an unusually nice dancing party such as the Masons have heretofore given each year.

A highly recommended orchestra—Merrill's of Detroit—has been secured. This orchestra numbers six pieces, including piano, traps, violin, clarinet, cornet and trombone players.

As the date is also St. Patrick's birthday the decorations of the rink will partake of a greenish hue, combined with the lodge colors. A buffet luncheon is to be served to the guests at 11 o'clock.

This party promises to be one of the most enjoyable social events of the winter.

BASKET BALL NEWS.

There was a large crowd out in the rink had games that were played in the rink Tuesday evening.

As usual, the Methodists and Presbyterians played the preliminary. The former had beaten their opponents in both previous games. This time the resulting score was 12 to 11, but as to whether the M's fully won 12 and the other side's 11 or vice versa, is not definitely known. Several of the score keepers' results favored the Methodists while others credited the Presbyterians with the 12 points. Guess they'll have to play another game to find out.

As for the Independents vs. Shamrocks-of-Detroit game, Northville had it all over the Irishmen. About evenly matched as to size and weight, each team determined to win, the former to repeat their victory of Feb. 6 when the score was 29 to 17, and the latter primed for revenge, the game was a fight from start to finish. Not scrappy—just but with dogged efforts to get the ball away from the other fellow. The Detroit men however, were not good at basket shooting whereas the Independents shot 'em as they never had before. Bogart and Montgomery starred in field basket work and the former made good on 9 of the 11 fouls awarded the home team. The final score was 57 to 30. Needless to say in Northville's favor.

Efforts are being to schedule a game with the Omega team of Wayne, on the home floor Friday night Mar. 13. The Independents beat that team 32 to 29 in a former game.

WEEK'S CALENDAR

Evening service at 7 o'clock.

The morning service marks the beginning of the Special Lenten services. The morning theme during the Lenten season is "The Crisis of the Christ." The subject for next Sabbath will be "The Baptism." The subject for the following Sunday will be "The Temptation."

The general theme for the Lenten evening services will be "The Character of Jesus." The subject for Sunday evening will be "Jesus the Brother." The subject for the following Sunday evening will be "Jesus

Every member of the congregation is urged and expected to observe the Lenten season by attendance upon these services. A kindly welcome to all who wish to avail themselves of these meetings.

Remember the Christian Endeavor and Sunday school.

The contest between the two divisions of the C. E. came to a very close and successful finish. A matter of two dollars separating the winners and losers. Miss Cunningham's division came off victorious. The total amount raised was $2.05. The joy of victory and chagrin of defeat is forgotten in the satisfaction of the total amount raised and the general good achieved. All who in any had a part are to be congratulated and thanked.

The congregation last Monday night authorized the organ committee to close a contract with the Moeller Organ company for a divided pipe organ to be set up and ready for use on the first day of September next. Something like four hundred dollars is still to be raised to make good on the Carnegie gift. The interest and enthusiasm that is being manifested should make this task by no means a difficult one.

PRESBYTERIAN

The Missionary society meets at the home of Mrs. VanSickle Wednesday afternoon. Every member is requested to be present and bring needle and thread to assist the officers committee in special work they now have on hand.

The ladies of this church will hold a bazaar in A. E. Stenier's drug store tomorrow, Saturday.

Mar. 8, "Morning at 10 o'clock." A message of Hope. Evening at 7 o'clock. A scene in courtroom.

No service on Monday, evening.

Mar. 10, "The Unanswerable Question." Evangelist offers a beautiful Bible of $15 to the person who can answer the question.

Sparks from Evangelist's anvil. The one that you'll take with you into eternity will be your memory. "I'm not a professional mack-raker. I may stir up some mud. It is my stick, but not my mud." "Some men haven't much use for God till they get in trouble."

Let us be filled with a spirit of prayer that God may bless all our Lenten services.

The proceeds of the entertainments go to benefit the school. Admission 20 cents. Come and help your school's. See large bills for particulars.

For the last two periods of Friday afternoon the question, "Resolved that Washington was a greater man than Lincoln," was discussed in the High school. The Sixth, Seventh and Eighth grades were interested spectators. Hazel Slough, Stanley Kestell and Frances Yerkes discussed the affirmative while Hazel Wilcox, Carl VanValkenburg and Don Miller defended the negative. The Rev. Mr. Webster presided very satisfactorily. The Messrs. Harmon, Babbitt and Dohg of the Board of Education, officiated as judges. The youthful debaters, although somewhat embarrassed, brought in some excellent arguments and maintained their positions with candor, skill and discreetness. The judges canvassed the points with great care and handed their decision to Miss Bullis, who then announced the result, as 36 points for the affirmative and 34 for the negative. Patriotic songs were sung during the afternoon and two choruses were given by the High school and Eighth grade from the operetta of "Pauline." Dr. O'Leigher spoke briefly while we were waiting for the judge's decision on the peculiarities of the Chinese language. Harold Turner, Carl Stimpson, Raymond DesAutels, Sadie Bentley and others were among the visitors.

Mrs. H. Garfield, Randolph St., Northville, Mich., says: "For a long time I suffered from pains in my back and loins which at times were severe and made lifting burdensome. I had no energy or ambition to do anything. I tried different remedies but got no permanent benefit. I read of Doan's Kidney Pills and I procured a box at Murdock's drug store. In a very short time after I commenced using them I was completely relieved. I haven't found it necessary to take Doan's Kidney Pills since."

The six o'clock dinner, followed by a stereopticon lecture on "China, the Empire and China, the Republic" at the Presbyterian church last Friday evening, was well attended. Dr. Ohlinger, who was a missionary in China for 40 years, delivered the address, which was most interesting. One wonderful mark of China's progress, according to Mr. Ohlinger, is that now education for girls is not only favored, but the diploma or school certificate of a Chinese bride occupies first place in the procession when her dowry is carried to the home of the bridegroom, where formerly her jewels and ornaments were first. This improvement is credited to work done by the missionaries in China, their headquarters being located at Peking.

BROOKLYN TABERNACLE

BIBLE STUDY ON

THE FAITHFUL ARE WATCHFUL.

Luke 12:35-48—March 8.

"Blessed are those servants, whom the Lord when He cometh shall find watching."

TODAY'S lesson opens with a parable. It is a great house, the master were about to bring home his bride. The servants would on that particular night be especially active, wakeful, on the alert to hear his knock and open instantly. So Jesus' followers should be on the alert for His Second Coming.

The thought is that followers of Jesus should take their place of alertness from the extreme experience of earthly service. Jesus intimated that they might look for Him sooner than He would come, saying that if He shall come in the second for the third watch or whenever, blessed are those servants found ready to receive Him.

Our Lord's Parousia is described in today's lesson—His earliest manifestation of His Second Advent. The world will neither see Him nor know of His presence; and His Church will know of His presence only by His "knock"—the fulfillment of prophecy. It will then be for the watchful ones to recognize this fulfillment and promptly to acknowledge the Master's presence.

For such as receive Him He will make a feast. Out of the Divine Word He will bring things new and old, for refreshment and comfort. The Bible will become to them a new Book. Many Bible students believe that we are living in this very time; and that each faithful follower of Jesus will be granted the privilege to participate in this feast, which many tell us they are now enjoying.

The Great Teacher then intimates that Satan is master of the present order of earthly things; and that at His Second Coming Jesus will bind this strong man, overturn present institutions and establish the long-promised Reign of Righteousness. This thorough transition will cause the great Time of Trouble mentioned throughout the Bible as closing this Gospel age—Daniel 12:1; Mark 13:8; Matthew 24:21.

Jesus speaks of His Second Coming as thief-like. The thought is that He will be present for a time unobserved by the world known only to the Redeemed, whom He will remove, changing them from earthly nature to heavenly. Verse 10 instructs all the Lord's faithful followers to be ready for His presence to come in their own days and experience the things.

"To Give Them Their Portion." St. Peter was privileged. Was this parable for the Apostles or for all? The Lord did not answer him directly, but merely assured him that at the appropriate time the Lord would appoint a steward and give him His charge to give the food in due season. This is very different from the Lord's usual method of dealing with His faithful.

In justice St. Peter apparently was a leader amongst the Apostles in opening the door to the Gentiles, preaching of the Gospel. The first Gospel came to the Gentiles. The Lord's servants should be ready to receive the Master's presence and manifest an undying spirit toward the household. He would go into the darkness with the world in utter ignorance of the times and seasons of His Lord.

The Lord then explained a general principle of His dealings, namely, that any servant, knowing his Master's will and not doing in harmony therewith, would receive stripes, punishments, tribulations, propitiation to his knowledge and opportunity. But any servant who ignorantly did things worthy of stripes would receive proportionately fewer stripes. "To whom much is given, of him much is required."

Our Golden Text. The heart of this lesson is found in Verse 37. Those servants who in the earliest stages of their Lord's Second Coming, the time of His Parousia, His presence, shall be found faithfully watching, will be informed respecting the time, as the Apostle points out—1 Thessalonians 5:1-2.

The secrecy respecting the time and the manner of Jesus' Second Coming will be a strong test. All overcharged with the cares of this life—business, pleasure, etc.—will be slow to hear the "knock," and too much engrossed to give proper heed. "Watch ye therefore!"

The heart of this lesson is found in Verse 37. Those servants who in the earliest stages of their Lord's Second Coming, the time of His Parousia, His presence, shall be found faithfully watching, will be informed respecting the time, as the Apostle points out—1 Thessalonians 5:1-2.

NEW YORK BEAUTY HINTS

Little Makeup Dangerous Thing—Judicious Touching-Up Declared Most Helpful By Experts.

He and she had had a spat, as lovers often do. And then she said "I am too." She raised her fair face to him. All glowing pink and white; her scarlet lips so tempting; He kissed with all his might. Upon his manly shoulder. She coyly laid her head, and with a happy snicker. "Now we're made up," she said. Agast, he viewed the havoc. His burning kisses wrought. The pink and white was streaky; 'Twas worse than he had thought. Those vivid lips of scarlet. Had now become a smear. "Yes, I'm made up," he answered. "But you're not now, my dear."

New York—There are two kinds of women—those who powder and those who don't. It is the wise woman, however, who realizes that a little coat of powder covers a multitude of sins, to her great advantage, and that the bloom of youth added with a rabbit's foot is better than no bloom at all.

Time was when the painted lady was eyed askance but now everybody that is anybody is doing it. A little makeup is a dangerous thing, however, unless it is put on by an artist. Painting the face is just as much of a fine art as painting a canvas.

The first and most important thing is to have pure materials and coloring matter that matches up with the complexion bestowed on you by nature. For instance your shade of powder may be the most dazzling note in the whole of your make-up. One person in a thousand has a skin white enough to employ a flesh color or pure white face powder. A cream tint is preferable for the majority of skins and a deep cream is the thing for the olive tinted brunette. The shade of rouge is almost as essential but each individual must use discrimination in matching up the tint of the cheeks.

With your pigments at hand a good strong light is needed and then to work. First of all, the face should be gone over carefully with a good cold cream. Then the last vestige must be wiped off carefully with a bit of clean cheesecloth or sanitary gauze. Next apply your rouge either liquid, dry or grease to suit your whim.

If your face is fair bring the color in close to your nose and if your countenance is a meagre one spread the color out generously toward the ears. On top of this apply the powder smoothly, go over your lips with a thin coat of light red lip rouge, and your picture is complete. For street purposes eye make-up is never a success. No matter how carefully it is applied it never defies detection.

The only permissible touch may be an application of brown mascara to those eyelashes so pale as to look like none at all. For evening, beneath the shade of electric lights, you may go to the eyebrow pencil and the lines at the edges of your lids and the bit of dark shadow blended in demurely your lustrous orb with more impunity.

As a matter of fact, husbands and prudes not withstanding, a bit of judicious makeup helps every woman and no matter how elaborate and elegant your attire, if your nose is shiny and your face greasy and red you can never hope to be well groomed or good to look upon. And have you ever noticed your husbands like it on the other woman?

THREE TRACKS SOLVE PROBLEM

Cleveland Scheme for Express Car Service Night and Morning.

Cleveland, O.—Three tracks instead of four in Superior avenue, N. E., from the downtown section to a point in the East End may solve the rapid transit problem the administration has had in view, if a plan, proposed to, Vice Mayor W. F. Thompson by a resident in the Superior avenue section, is adopted.

An ordinance is pending in council authorizing the Cleveland Railway Company to maintain four tracks in Superior avenue. Residents along Superior avenue say they will fight this plan.

Councilman John F. Durkin is among those opposing the rapid transit scheme on the grounds that four tracks will make the thoroughfare dangerous and that the benefits of the rapid transit service as proposed will mainly be of benefit to residents of East Cleveland.

"It has been suggested to me that we allow one additional track in Superior avenue, N. E., instead of two," said Thompson. "The extra track would be in the middle of the street and would be for rush-hour service only."

"In the morning the tripper cars bound for the downtown would use this track. These extra cars would return by one of the other tracks or use some other route."

"In the evening the middle track would be used by Superior avenue trippers bound for the East End."

It was further suggested to the vice mayor that, under this scheme, trains of cars might be used on the middle track for rush-hour service. These cars would stop at every tenth crossing instead of at alternate crossings.

Novel Hints

Pad the ironing board on both sides. Use one side for white goods; the other for colored.

A teaspoonful of glycerin added to the rinse water makes woolen blankets come out like new.

Clean the rust off the wire clothes-hire with a woolen cloth dipped first in kerosene, then in sand soap.

To insure finely flavored coffee heat the dry ground coffee before adding boiling water.

Powdered magnesia will effectually remove grease stains.

When preparing meringue add one-half teaspoonful of baking powder to each beaten white of egg. Will be wonderfully improved.

Six Varieties of Cream Pie

For each pie one cup of milk, one cup of sugar, one tablespoonful of butter, well beaten yolk of two eggs, one tablespoonful of corn starch. Cook until thick, flavor to taste, and put in crust previously baked.

Beat the whites of the two eggs until stiff. Put two tablespoonfuls of sugar in, put on pie and set in oven to brown. The variations are following, which are:

When the filling is cooked stir through it one scant teaspoonful each of ground cinnamon and cloves. This is a favorite and is called "Spice Pie."

Cocoanut Pie—Cook filling as directed and beat two tablespoonfuls of cocoanut in the white of the eggs.

Chocolate Pie—Grate two heaping tablespoonfuls of chocolate in each pie and cook in the filling.

Banana Pie—Shred two bananas into baked crust, then pour filling over same and bake as directed.

Orange Pie—Prepare same as banana pie, using oranges instead of bananas.

But Pie—Cook filling as directed then stir in one cup of finely chopped nuts through the pie, reserving a few to dot on top.

Stuffed Eggs, Tartare

Cook six or eight eggs until hard, cool and remove shells. Cut a small slice from the top of each and remove the yolk without breaking the white. Mix the yolks with a tartare sauce and fill the whites, rounding it up so as to keep the original egg form. Place each on end in a round circle of toast spread with caviar, or anchovy butter or pate de foie gras. To make the sauce mix into a few spoonfuls of thick mayonnaise some minced capers, pickles, a very little onion and olives.

Stuffed Beef Steak

Select a two and a half inch thick round steak. With a very sharp pointed knife make a deep cut at one side, working the point of the knife back and forth until a good-sized pocket is formed. Fill this with a bread or cereal stuffing made savory with herbs then lightly pin the edges together. Arrange on some thin slices of fat salt pork in a dripping pan and cover with more slices. Pour round it a cupful each of good rich stock and strained tomato. Cover closely and braise in a moderate oven for two hours. Thicken the gravy remaining in the pan.

Beef Steak En Casserole

Take a large porterhouse steak two inches thick, wipe and broil for two minutes on each side. Transfer it to a casserole (a covered earthen stew pan), add one pint of Spanish sauce, one cupful of button onions which have been lightly browned in a little butter, and four tablespoonfuls of Madeira. Cover and place in a moderate oven for one hour and a quarter. Add one cupful of potato balls, which have been browned in deep fat and send to the table in the casserole.

The monogram papers are now shown with the initials up in the left-hand corner instead of in the middle of the paper, while especially smart are the new London smoke papers with the address in very small black type at the head of the letter.

The wise woman will not use sachets of any sort in her desk, and will also be careful to paste the stamps on straight and to use black ink, for all these things are marks of good taste.

Flair papers in ecru, pink and gray blue are a popular novelty just now, vying with the new bordered stationery of white with fine lines in various colors about the edge.

I miss thee, dear Mother, when young health has fled.

And I sink in the languor of pain! Where, where is the arm that once pillowed my head, And the ear that once heard me complain?

Other hands may support me, gentle accents may fall; For the fond and the true are still mine.

I've a blessing for each; I am grateful to all; But whose care can be soothing as thine?—Elizabeth Cook.

MINISTER SHOCKS BANQUET

Meat Barons' Old English Feast Has Unexpected Feature.

Chicago—Several hundred meat packers have not yet recovered from the shock administered by Rev. Rufus A. White, pastor of the People's Liberal church, whose brief address was to have been merely an incident in the $125,000 English banquet held recently at the Congress hotel.

Flanked by Nelson Morris, Edward F. Swift, Lawrence H. Armour and a score of other big Chicago meat barons, Rev. Mr. White quietly dropped this thrust while responding to the toast, "The social side of business."

"In just the degree that you create a dominant and exclusive class of captains of industry, each having despotic rule over thousands of subordinates, from whom all aspiration and ambition has been crushed out by the hopelessness of advancement in just that degree you have weakened the citizenship of America. If you reduce men to the level of mere employees, without hope of promotion or success in life, you have killed the citizenship in these men. You have killed their initiative and their chance of advancement by perseverance, industry and effort. Collectivism and combination means the suppression of the individual. It is a grave question as to what the outcome will be upon citizenship."

Aside from the remarks of Rev. White, the banquet moved along nicely. Powder-haired fannies, wearing knee breeches and cream-colored stockings, eyed old English ale and wines and brandies to 500 packers, all attired in scarlet hunting coats presented by the Packers' association as souvenirs.

Scarlet-coated masters of the hunt were in charge of the tables and scarlet-coated buglers sounded the "tally ho" between the courses. A pack of fox-hounds, preceded the guests into the Elizabethan dining room, transformed into a grove. After the guests had been seated, an "intruder" came dashing through "Peacock Alley," mounted on a coal black horse, and rode into the dining room, where his entrance was proclaimed by the bugles.

The first beef was carried on the tables by white-capped cooks and four English church warden pipes were handed around in the place of the usual can.

LITTLE BAD MONEY CIRCULATES

Secret Service Agents Only Able to Find Few Counterfeit Coins.

Pittsburgh—There are few counterfeit coins and apparently no counterfeit paper currency in Pittsburgh. Only seven phony nickels of the Indian-buffalo kind have been discovered here by secret service men after a thorough search embracing banks, street car companies, gas companies and 7 and 10 cent stores. Such is the result of the probe in Pittsburgh by Morris, Minnesota of the local secret service force of the government.

"My men or myself visited all the banks in the city," he said yesterday. "and discovered that in three months only $4 or $5 in counterfeit money had been found. The officials of the Pittsburgh Railway Company told me they had not found a single counterfeit coin in all the hundreds of thousands of pieces of money collected on the cars for several months. At a large department store only $1.50 had been taken in and at another only a single counterfeit silver dollar. It was at the Bell Telephone office that they informed me seven nickels of the Indian buffalo variety had been dropped in the pay phones."

It is plain that the flood of counterfeit nickels reported from other cities has not yet reached Pittsburgh.

GIRL PAID AS "LABORER"

Doctored When It Rained, Stenographer Tells Highway Probers.

New York—Miss Mary J. Diamond of Kingston, N. Y., stenographer for William G. Merritt, former superintendent of roads in Sister county, testified at District Attorney Whitman's John Doe inquiry into state highway graft that she had been carried on the pay rolls of the State Highways Department in 1912 as a laborer at 22 cents an hour. She said that she was down on the roll as "M. J. Diamond, temporary patrol," under Daniel Schoonmaker who had charge of road repair work in Ulster county.

She was paid, she added according to the number of fair days in each month, this being the method by which laborers were paid.

Liability to Property Owners. Philadelphia—In four Philadelphia cases against the Reading railway, the Supreme court, refusing the railroad company's petition for allowance of appeal from Superior court, practically sustained the latter's holding that a railroad is liable to abutting property owners for depreciation in value of such properties from smoke, noise and other causes. The four suits had reference to properties in one neighborhood of Philadelphia, and were regarded as of great importance, affecting as they do every railroad company in the state.

"MY WORST FOE"

New York Spouse is So Designated

In Will by Mrs. Maude Williams. New York—Mrs. Maude H. Neal Williams, who died June 19, 1912, at Crawley Downs, England, bequeathed $1 to "her husband, Charles W. Williams. He is the worst influence that ever came into my life and brought me nothing but sorrow and trouble," the will reads.

She gave her father, George A. Neal of Kansas City, Mo., the sum of $50, explaining that he "being a man, is not in need of any money."

She gave her mother, Lillie Bell Dennis, of Kansas City, Mo., $1,000, and $500 each to a brother and sister. The remainder of her estate was bequeathed to friends.

Must Stay Awake on Train

Louisville—According to a court ruling it is not the duty of trainmen to wake up sleeping passengers. Suit for damages had been filed against a railroad by a man who had been carried past his station.

The court holds that the train crew did all that was required in calling the station and stopping the train. For the man who occupies a berth in a Pullman there would be cause for action in such a case.

Harvard Bureau's Free Legal Aid

Cambridge—Harvard has a Harvard's legal aid bureau, which serves the double purpose of giving practice and experience to the budding barristers of the law school and giving legal advice and attorney services free to the poor of the city. The bureau consists of twenty-five law school students, elected fifteen from the third year class and ten from the second year class.

STRANGE HOME OF CATS TORN DOWN

Dilapidated Structure In Wesson, Miss., Built Long Before War Had Become Nuisance

HUNDREDS OF CURIOUS SEEKERS

Over 200 Cats Come Running Out When Residence Is Demolished—Peck of $20 Gold pieces Fall Out of Walls.

Wesson, Miss.—Hundreds of curious seekers braved rain and waded through mud to visit an old, dilapidated residence, built in 1840, on one of Wesson's main streets. The building had not been occupied for years. It was suddenly brought into public attention in this way.

Situated next door to a large boarding house and surrounded by several law residences, the building's roof was badly decayed and the wooden pillars starting to fall from under it. The adjacent property owners were afraid it would catch on fire and burn them out of house and home. They made complaint to the mayor and board of aldermen, who asked its owner to either put the building in good repair or remove it. He did not care to repair the house, so he sold it.

For some time past citizens in that neighborhood have been missing their house cats, of which there were many, until not a cat could be seen around any of the homes, and it was decided that some person had been killing them with poison until W. G. Bailey, who bought the house, began to tear it down. He was almost frightened away by a peculiar noise. Some say they had been hearing this noise for a long time, and were afraid to pass the structure at night, believing it haunted. On the day of demolition all their mysteries were solved when the workmen tore away a portion of the walls and 500 cats came running out, going in all directions.

Among the cats was Wesson's chief "Tom," a favorite that had been mourned as dead a long time. As the cats came out the amazed workmen threw hammers, bricks, etc., at them as they sped swiftly away. Just how the cats got into the inclosure and could not get out is known only to themselves.

That was attraction No. 1. After this excitement the purchaser of said house resumed his work, and was about to forget his experience with the house cats until he pulled down another portion of the walls, when about a peck of $20 gold pieces came rolling out on his feet.

The news soon spread over the community and many have been curious to see the lodging place of so many cats and so much gold. It is not known how the money came to be in the walls of the old house, but some believe that the Cleveland gang hid away $100,000 in gold somewhere in Wesson during their time, and many deep holes have been dug in the hillsides by those whose hope was to find gold. The house was about the only one in that part of town during Copeland's time.

At any rate, the old structure has created a sensation in its last days, and Bailey is delighted over his purchase while others who refused to pay the price asked for it, now threaten to order a picking machine for personal use.

One night little Margaret, on kneeling by her mamma to say her prayers, finished, "Now, I pray me, and forgot. 'Mamma,' she said, 'you just start me and I can do anything.'"

His Fond Ambition

All at Once Mr. Biglow Sighed—Not Gradually, or by Degrees, or Little by Little. Ah, no. But all at once he sighed, setting the platitude of his countenance into a cast of hope that resembled a mask of tragedy and sighing as though he simply had to do it, or else burst into tears. And while this sound of sorrow was going physical form and rippling muscles over the plumpness of him, a cover the mammoth chins of aim, it shakes his mighty breast, with ever mightier tremors of woe, let us look at Mr. Biglow and consider his case.

He was, then, one of those sufferers of nature who exemplify the might, majesty and dominion of man, and when he walked across a floor or leaned against a wall the three Fates drew three long breaths for apprehension and a penny for it. And yet his cheeks bloomed with the bloom of roses and his utterance trembled in the throat. When he was measured for his suit his tailor performed feats of prestidigitation and when he leaned over to pick up a pin for luck the garter trembled and the Goddess of Chance trembled like a lady with the ague. And yet his smile was the smile of wisdom, and the honesty of his gaze was an illumination at which dyspeptics turned their heads and ground their teeth in envy. And when he walked he walked a trifle together and in the protection of cynicism. And when he slipped on one of his patent leather glaziers presently rubbed their hands together and blessed the day. Yes, even thus was Mr. Biglow, the gentleman who sighed.

"Oh, dear!" he said. "Why, Mr. Biglow?" exclaimed Miss Gabbleton. "What is the matter?" Wherefore we will not surmise the scene in general and Miss Gabbleton in particular. Such room snugly furnished; Mr. Biglow sitting on a lounge upon which he had reclined himself with care through fear that the lounge might spring up on each side of him and drag his ears, even shaded lamp and a bit of mistletoe still hanging on the chimney. "Let it be," he turned to Miss Gabbleton and reflect.

Speaking boldly, then and making no bones about it, she was hardly anything but, and smiling quickly from a glance at her own face. "In the eyes of the community in substance, so to speak, Miss Gabbleton resembled the fourth dimension, and when the focus of philosophy caught the attention of her aims, reason ran riot and marvelled at the mystery."

"Why, Mr. Biglow?" exclaimed Miss Gabbleton. "What is the matter?" But with his eye on the mistletoe Mr. Biglow stood with sorrow again and made no further speech.

"Don't you feel well?" asked Miss Gabbleton. Mr. Biglow moved forward as though about to speak but he and the lounge only groaned in concert.

"Is something troubling you, Mr. Biglow?" she asked and addressing him all at once with the contrary of her voice, she added, "Tell me, Mr. Biglow!"

"Miss Gabbleton," said Mr. Biglow, blinking his eyes as though in perpetual surprise at the falsity of his tenor, "I am not a half bad fellow."

"Why, Mr. Biglow, I should say you weren't! Why, you are one of my dearest friends!"

"But sometimes," he continued, with a rising inflection, "I feel as if—as if—as if nobody cared for me except—"

"Why, Mr. Biglow?" he repeated. "And in an arch manner she lifted her brows and cried, 'Am I nobody, then?'"

For a moment she seemed to him to be nothing but a spiritual smile floating in the shadows of the room, but knowing that she was there all right, he looked at the mistletoe again and said:

"Miss Gabbleton!"

"Mr. Biglow?"

"Do you know that—"

"Yes, Mr. Biglow?"

"Ever since I—"

"Ye-e-e-e-e, Mr. Biglow?"

"Er-er-er-er—Angelina!"

"Peter!"

He arose, and so did she; he took a step forward, and so did she; he took another, and so did she—and they met beneath the mistletoe.

So much for the prologue, the prelude and the preface. Let us look carefully now together and consider those things that hide themselves in the innermost heart of man.

Half an hour had passed and they were sitting on the lounge. On his face was the rapt look of a mystic whose ideals are fast being materialized, but now and then a look of wistfulness passed over his countenance as if—as if—

"Are you happy?" she whispered. "Awfully," he answered. "But—"

"Ye-e-e-e-e, Peter?"

And dropping on his knees with a fearful plaintive he caught and found his most plaintive tenor, crying:

"Oh, do not call me Peter!"

Adding, with the tender smile of "one whose dreams have all come true:

"Call me 'Tiddleywinks!'"

Needed a Starter. One night little Margaret, on kneeling by her mamma to say her prayers, finished, "Now, I pray me, and forgot. 'Mamma,' she said, 'you just start me and I can do anything.'"

PHOTOGRAPHIC SWINDLES

Defectives Say Swindler's Will Reach Thousands.

Philadelphia—A check swindler with a talent for scientific photography, who is wanted by the American Bankers' Association for obtaining money from national banks in different parts of the country on fraudulent drafts, is suspected of being the same man who within a week has swindled many banks in this city.

Although each bank here, among them the Fourth Street National Bank, lost only $200 bank officials and detectives feel certain the total of swindles throughout the country will reach thousands.

The drafts on which money was obtained were drawn on the Canadian Bank of Commerce, Montreal, which has a branch in New York city. Following a investigation, bankers have declared the drafts to be bogus and say they were made from photographic prints of the original draft.

The original draft was drawn several weeks ago on the Canadian Bank for $200 and was issued on the New York branch. After the original draft had been granted, the swindler was presented on request with a letter of introduction.

On presenting himself to various banks and trust companies, the swindler, who is believed to have posed as a tourist, always showed this letter.

DYING—UPBRAIDS WIFE.

Taken Poison and Dies While Spouse Makes Charge Against Him.

Donora, Pa.—"Get out of my sight! I don't want to see you any more! You have driven me to hell!" With these words directed to his wife, J. R. Joy, aged 58 of this place, staggered into the courtroom of Justice of the Peace J. C. Connersworth, where he died an hour later, the result of strychnine poisoning.

Joy was to have had a hearing before the justice on a charge of assault and battery preferred by his wife. She advised that on Saturday, when he visited her at her boarding house, he struck her and that morning committed a sin at his office.

She had seen the doctor on the previous morning and complained that she had learned of it and purchased the antidote. Just before he entered the justice's court he drank the antidote which he had placed on the floor in a fragment that he had hidden. When questioned, he replied, "Go away from me! Let me alone. I have taken strychnine and I want to die." A physician was rushed to the justice's office, but the man was beyond medical aid. Joy, it is alleged, separated from his wife two years ago on account of domestic troubles. He was at one time a prominent merchant of this place. Besides his widow, nine children survive.

DOG CROSSES SEA IN MUFF

Woman's Friends Aid Her in Concealing Pet When Search Is Made on Steamer.

New York—The principals in a little comedy which was a source of joy to the passengers of the steamer America were Mrs. Grace V. Lloyd Clapper, of New York, Captain Schukie and Fl. Fum, a high pedigreed, Pekingese pup bought by Mrs. Clapper in London. Fl. Fum is only eight inches long, but he created eight miles of trouble for the ship's crew.

There is a rule at sea that all dogs be left in the care of the butcher in the baggage room, but Fl. Fum's mistress decided that her precious should travel first class, and he came aboard inside a big sable muff. The second day out another passenger, whose dog had been sent to the care of the butcher, told Captain Schukie there was a dog on board that was not playing the game according to the rules.

The commander investigated and remonstrated with the owner, of Fl. Fum. He finally intimated that he could not tolerate mutiny aboard his ship, even though committed by a charming young woman. Mrs. Clapper then held a secret conference with a score of friends.

While the captain made a tour of inspection, Fl. Fum was passed from one to the other. For four days an ineffectual search was made. The day before the steamer arrived here, while the captain was in the palm room he turned to Mrs. Clapper, who was at the next table, and said:

"I'll get that dog before we land." He did not know Fl. Fum was staring at him all the time out of the muff.

"I didn't want to take any chances of losing the darling," said Mrs. Clapper on the pier.

"38" TAKES PLACE OF "23."

Siang Borrowed From Fortune Tellers Is the "Latest."

New York—Exit the slang expression "twenty-three." Enter "thirty-eight" as the "latest."

"Thirty-eight" was borrowed from the fortune tellers. In the slang it means "a sucker." It is a tag for the man who goes to a clairvoyant for tips on a horse race, for the girl who turns to the occult power to have her love affairs straightened out, for those who rely on psychic power in matters.
