REAL LIVELY VILLAGE ELECTION

UNUSUAL LOT OF INTEREST SHOWN IN THIS YEAR'S ELECTION.

Nearly 500 Votes Cast for Candidates on Both Tickets.

Monday was a very exciting day for both the village candidates and the voters. The former were on every corner all day long and each hailed a voter as he passed. The counting of votes which was finished about 9 o'clock showed the following nominees to be elected:

President, William E. Scotten. Trustees, Charles S. Filkins, Peter Barley and Samuel W. McLean. Clerk, Thomas E. Murdoch. Treasurer, William J. Lanning, Sr. Assessor, Charles A. Sessions. Thus the Workingmen's Ticket was again elected, with two exceptions, president and one trustee.

The gas franchise was confirmed, 295 to 117.

Griswold Stage and Montgomery, whose terms have not yet expired, complete the list of trustees.

LECTURE COURSE

The last number of the entertainment course will be given at the Ladies' Library Monday evening March 16, at 7:30 o'clock.

W. Powell Hale, impersonator, will be the attraction. His usual program presents selections from Artemus Ward, Mark Twain, Poe, Albee and some original numbers. Personal and press notices agree that Mr. Hale is satisfactory, his audiences delighted and his impersonations perfectly done.

Be sure and come out to hear him and show that you are interested in this lecture course as well as in a summer entertainment.

DAVIS-ASHLEY.

Mrs. Mary Ashley of this place and Fred W. Davis of Chicago, Ill., were united in marriage on Monday. Mrs. Ashley has been employed for some time past at the Peerless Laundry. The newly married couple have not yet decided just where they will make their home.

MRS. WM. RYDER DEAD

Mrs. Alice Ryder, wife of Wm. Ryder, died at the home of their son, C. E. Ryder, last Friday afternoon after an illness of about three weeks. She was 75 years old.

Mrs. Ryder's unselfish spirit and good cheer won for her a large circle of friends. Having lived a Christian life from childhood, her death was triumphant and her last words were expressions of love for every one. She is survived by her husband and the one son.

The funeral was held from the home Sunday afternoon, Rev. Webber and Rev. Pierce officiating.

LOTS OF DUPLICATE RYDERS.

An unusual coincidence exists in regard to the family of Charles E. Ryder of this place and of another Charles E. Ryder of Newburg. Besides bearing the same name, both formerly lived in Salem township; the first four children of each family were boys, and of these four boys two in each family were named respectively, Donald and Raymond. The families, although spelling the name in the same way, are not at all related so far as they have ever learned. The coincidence is further carried out in the fact that both families are "mighty nice people."

TO OUR MANY DEAR FRIENDS.

To all those who were so kind to be with us at the time of our recent bereavement and during our own lines we feel under renewed obligations and deep appreciation. Kind words expressed personally and by letter, as well as the flowers to tell of the newly blossoming thoughts of love and friendship, all have their place in aiding to soothe the wounds and push on the clouds that have for a few brief moments darkened the pathway of our lives.

MR. AND MRS. NEAL.

Card of Thanks.

We wish to thank the many societies and friends for administrative rendered us during the sickness and death of our loved one.

MRS. LUCY DOWD'S LONG ILLNESS ENDED

CLOSE OF LIFE CAME THURSDAY, MARCH FIFTH.

Funeral services, conducted by Rev. H. M. Pierce, were held Saturday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Lapham for Mrs. Lapham's mother, Mrs. Lucy Dowd, whose earthly life of seventy-eight years came quietly to its close Thursday, March 5, after a long struggle against the final conqueror. Members of the Northville Woman's club of which Mrs. Dowd was founder, first president and subsequently an honorary member, attended in a body, affectionate and respectful remembrance of her lovable character and her invaluable services to the club.

Mrs. Dowd's connection with Northville dated from her coming here as a young girl when her mother was married to a prominent citizen of the earlier days of the village, Daniel Cady, long familiarly known as "Square Cady."

Mrs. Dowd, whose maiden name was Lucy Lockwood, became the wife of William C. Stout of Ontario county, N. Y., in 1854, and after some years of widowhood was again married, about eighteen years ago, to Freeman B. Dowd of Texas, who died four years ago. A year later, she came back to Northville, but in fast failing health. For several months before her death she was helpless as the result of a fall. She is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Edith Stout Lapham of Northville and a son, Harry Stout, of New York City.

Mrs. Dowd's personality was in many respects a remarkable one. Possessed of intellectual abilities of a high order, she might have been chosen to adopt literature as a profession, have attained distinction as a writer of both poetry and prose. She seemed, however, to hold her rare talents lightly, except as a means of culture, and of influence for the betterment of her sex. As a contemporary, in their later work, of such women as Elizabeth Cady Stanton and Julia Ward Howe, she was an active and enthusiastic pioneer in what is now known as the woman's movement, being one of the early advocates of franchise rights for women, and a member of the first Woman's club in Michigan, organized in Detroit by Lucinda Hunsdale Stone, her intimate friend for many years. Although, as stated, Mrs. Dowd did not elect to make literary work the dominant feature of her life, she was a highly appreciated contributor to various publications. In one of the story contests inaugurated by the publishers of the Youth's Companion, she won the first prize over many able competitors, with a delightful serial, "Bet and Her Family."

The following beautiful little sonnet, written by Mrs. Dowd in her intellectual prime, and published in a Detroit paper, illustrates her capacity of thought and her rare poetic talent, and is fitting, as well, to close this brief sketch of a life that will long be honored in the memories of the friends who knew and loved her here.

ALASKA TO HAVE RAILROADS

The Alaska railroad bill was passed by the house, 230 to 87. The bill, as perfected in committee of the whole, appropriates outright $1,000,000 and authorizes the president to expend not to exceed $35,000,000 for the construction of government railroads in Alaska. The provision for a bond issue of $35,000,000 was stricken out on motion of Representative Fitzgerald, after a heated debate, 88 to 87. The bill provides for the construction of a road "not to exceed 1,000 miles, to be so located as to connect one or more of the open Pacific ocean harbors on the southern coast of Alaska with the navigable waters in the interior of Alaska and with a coal field or fields yielding coal sufficient in quality and quantity for naval use, so as to best aid in the development of the agricultural and mineral or other resources of Alaska."

AIRSHIP FLIGHT AROUND WORLD

Plans as Proposed by Panama Pacific Exposition Officials Rapidly Nearing Completion—$300,000 Has Been Raised

An airship flight around the world with San Francisco as the starting point has been definitely arranged and financed by officials of the Panama-Pacific Exposition. The prize for the first successful flight around the world is $1,000,000. Already a local committee has been appointed to work up national interest in the big prize fund and to cooperate with bodies from seventeen other countries representing altogether 400 organizations.

The proposed air route shown in the map covers a distance of 22,780 miles. The start is to be made at the Exposition grounds, San Francisco, California. The various cities at which the entrants will have to stop and report are as follows: Cheyenne, 1,000 miles away; Chicago, 1,000 miles to New York City, 1,000 miles; to Bahia, 1,000 miles; to Cape Farewell, Greenland, over Atlantic Ocean, 110 miles; to Reykjavik, Iceland, over the Atlantic Ocean, 670 miles; to Stornoway, Hebrides, over Atlantic Ocean, 570 miles; to London, via Edinburgh, 750 miles; to Paris, 300 miles; to Berlin, 500 miles; to Warsaw, 350 miles; to St. Petersburg, 475 miles; to Moscow, 450 miles; to Yonk, Siberia, over the steppes, 1,200 miles; to Irkutsk, 900 miles; to Harbin, 1,300 miles; to Vladivostok, 600 miles; to Kobe, via Korea and Japan, 800 miles; to Tokyo, 450 miles; to Broughton Cape, 750 miles; to Kamchatka, 1,100 miles; to East Cape, over Bering Straits, 800 miles; to Cape Prince of Wales, 10 miles; to Sitka, Alaska, 1,250 miles; to Vancouver, B. C., 600 miles; to Seattle, Wash., 150 miles, then back to the exposition grounds, 1,300 miles.

The committee to take charge of the funds for the $1,000,000 prize consists of Rodman Wanamaker, Cornelius Vanderbilt, Ogden Mills Reid, Clarence H. Mackay, George J. Gould, Frank A. Munsey, James Gordon Bennett, Cortlandt Field Bishop, Alan R. Hawley, Robert J. Collier, Harold F. McCormick, Orville Wright, Glenn Curtiss, Ralph Pulitzer, Vincent Astor and Lieutenant Colonel Samuel Reber, U. S. A.

Glenn H. Curtiss, the celebrated aviator, will probably be one of the leading contestants.

EACH NATION TO SHOW INDIVIDUAL ARCHITECTURE AT EXPOSITION

Building and Industrial News: One feature of the exposition that will be interesting to builders will be a first hand production of the architecture of other nations in the construction of their respective buildings. The world will be represented. And the religion, the climate and the mode of life will be embodied in the architecture that has grown up under different conditions and environments. After all the main feature of the exposition will be its buildings and grounds, its landscape gardenings and lighting effects, so that while the industries of the world will be represented and the progress of mankind chronicled in its exhibits the art of the builder will be the first and last exhibit of the great show.

U. S. GUNNERS BEST MARKSMEN

Good marksmanship in the American navy has long been the envy of the other navies of the world. This was what enabled us to win so easy a victory over Spain in 1898. All the shots from Spain's big guns failed to hit the mark, but most of the American shots told.

Last week, off the coast near San Diego, the U. S. cruiser California made a new world's record in torpedo fire—54 hits out of a possible seven. Once the big gun missed fire, but under the rules that was counted as one of the seven shots. The real score, therefore, was 54 out of a possible 57. The half hit was a hit that was quite perfect.

ENGINEERS AT PANAMA CONQUER CUCARACHA SLIDE

American Engineers Overcome the Most Serious Problem in the Building of the Panama Canal. A Veritable Mountain of Soft Mud Constantly Sliding into the Channel.

Cucaracha slide, the most troublesome point on the Panama Canal, is being reopened rapidly and if there is no further movement of the mountain the channel will soon be open for large vessels. The slide affects the hillside for almost a third of a mile from the water's edge.

The principal type of slide is represented by Cucaracha, a mass of soft earth with no rock reaching down deep enough or holding strong enough to keep it from sliding in, slipping across a smooth surface beneath it. Cucaracha scared out the French. It is said that when they were working along at her toe and she began to give them a tropical imitation of a glacier sliding down into a stream, they saw their visions of a sea-level canal disappearing into the realms of impossibility. At any rate, the engineers quit excavating at the bottom of Cucaracha and left her as a problem for the Americans; and a problem she declared herself to them as far back as 1905.

Cucaracha has been like the poor—a problem always with the canal engineers. Every time they got a little nearer toward the final solution of the slide, Cucaracha would take a fresh slide, sometimes shooting millions of yards of material down the embankment and across the cut with such force that her toe would turn to the opposite bank, some 60 feet or more. She kept this up in season and out, hounding up the south end of the cut, and so preventing the work from going forward that Colonel Goethals, finally determined to let the water in and to dredge her out. He is now inviting her to do her very worst. He has a dredging fleet ready to take her out as fast as she comes in, and now looks as if she has slid until she can slide no more.

Meanwhile Colonel Goethals, in keeping with a suggestion made by Division Engineer Coe, decided to attack Cucaracha in the rear. She had slid and kept a-sliding until she went away back past the summit of the hill, and so it was decided to snuff off all the material that would drain away from the canal.

The plan worked well, and Cucaracha, in her final struggle against the engineers finds herself bested before and behind and so she will become a thing of the past forever. But during her unremitting fight she has shut up Culabra Cut dozens of times, has brought 70 acres of ground, scenery and all, into the cut, and has caused the removal of some eight or nine million cubic yards of material.

WANTS LOW PRICE TO PRODUCER AND HIGH PRICE TO CONSUMER PROBED

only direct the said board as an exchange, but, acting in conjunction with the leading members of the Minneapolis chamber of commerce and controlling most of the terminal elevators of both cities, exercise and have an unreasonable and unlawful control over the prices paid for wheat in these great terminal markets and therefore in the whole country and unduly control and restrain the movement, purchase and sale of wheat to suit their speculative purposes."

The resolution provides for the appointment of a committee of seven members of the house with full inquisitorial powers and with specific directions to investigate all the transactions of the three organizations and the make-up of the membership of each.

Copies of a memorial to congress, petitioning against legislation affecting grain exchanges unless a full investigation precedes action, were received by all members of congress from James C. Murray, president of the council of grain exchanges.

Mr. Murray says the exchanges of Buffalo, Baltimore, Chicago, Cincinnati, Duluth, Kansas City, Minneapolis, Milwaukee, New York, Omaha, Peoria, St. Louis, San Francisco, Toledo and Wichita join in the appeal.

The McCumber bill, authorizing the secretary of agriculture to inaugurate a grain inspection system and to fix grain standards, has been reported favorably in the senate. The memorial is regarded as directed chiefly against immediate action on this measure.

U. S. CALLS A PEACE MEETING

The United States has issued a call for the holding of the third peace conference at The Hague next year. This government took this action, it is understood, at the request of Queen Wilhelmina of Holland.

Failure of the next Hague conference has been threatened through the neglect of some of the great powers to take the steps necessary for the preparation of the program of subjects to be considered in time to insure the assembly of the conference next year, according to the recommendations of the last conference.

One of the protocols adopted by that conference recommended that the governments represented appoint individual committees to prepare lists of subjects to be placed on the program for the meeting two years in advance of actual date of assembly, which was to be in 1915, if the usual practice was followed.

The United States promptly appointed as its committee Reuben Clarke of Utah, then solicitor of the department of state; Judge Advocate General Crowder for the army, and Rear Admiral Wainwright for the navy, and this committee has done its work.

NEW TACTICS OF SUFFRAGISTS.

Every Democratic candidate for congress next fall is to be opposed by woman-suffrage speakers. The candidates are to be attacked without regard to their own merits, merely because they belong to the party in power. If the Republican party should obtain control of the government its candidates would be opposed in the same way. These tactics have been adopted by the woman suffrage leaders at Washington. Oppose whatever party may be in power, unless it will approve a constitutional amendment giving votes to women.

ESTIMATE OF WHAT INTERVENTION IN MEXICO MEANS

"Certain military authorities have asserted that an invasion of Mexico would require an army of 250,000, that the war would cost the United States about $1,000,000 a day while it lasted, and that a future expenditure of $800,000,000 would be required for pensions. To maintain order in Mexico they believe that an army of 400,000 would be needed, and that guerrilla warfare would continue for a generation. The opponents of intervention have also pointed out that any invasion of Mexico would be deeply resented by the South Americans, who are racially in sympathy with the Mexicans."

"It is the belief of those best qualified to express an opinion that a grave mistake was made by the United States government in failing to recognize the provisional administration of President Huerta. It prevented his government from raising funds abroad, impeded the work of the national army in restoring peace, and thus tended to give support to the forces of savagery and lawlessness. The European representatives were unanimous in recognizing the Huerta government."

"While it is impossible to forecast, with any degree of certainty, what is likely to happen in Mexico, there is, however, a strong reason for believing that intervention by the United States, although undesirable as a means of restoring peace, is necessary. Certain European governments having important interests in Mexico are disposed to look to the United States for remedial measures of some kind. Having refused to recognize the Huerta government, the United States is commended a moral duty to do so for the disaster that has followed."

PRESIDENT REBUKES NEWSPAPER MEN

President Wilson delivered a message to the assembly of the newspaper men at the White House last night. He said that the newspaper men were the best of the country, but that they were sometimes guilty of "slandering" the government. He said that he was not a dictator, but that he was a man who was "in the habit of doing his duty." He said that he was not a "man of the people," but that he was a "man of the country." He said that he was not a "man of the world," but that he was a "man of the nation." He said that he was not a "man of the age," but that he was a "man of the future." He said that he was not a "man of the past," but that he was a "man of the present."

RAILWAYS AND THE MAILS

What would our government do if the railroads should refuse to carry any new contracts to carry the mails? Some of the railroads—the Minneapolis and St. Louis system—are threatening to quit unless paid more. They say the parcel post is too heavy, and thus far they have had no pay for carrying it.

FIRE-LOSSES IN COLD WEATHER

The cold weather, as usual caused a great increase in the fire losses. Every "cold snap" costs house-owners of insurance companies a large amount of money. Usually the fires are started from stoves or furnaces that are allowed to get too hot.

One typical case was the burning of the summer home of Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt. Several hundred thousand dollars' worth of beautiful rugs, pictures and furniture was destroyed because careless "care-takers" had not used good judgment about the fires.

EMBASSY AT BUENOS AYRES?

The Argentine Republic wishes to raise its minister at Washington to the rank of ambassador, if our government will send an ambassador to Buenos Ayres. President Wilson and Secretary Bryan favor the change.

An ambassador's duties are like those of a minister, but the rank is higher. This is sometimes an advantage. The pay also is higher, $17,500 a year. We now send ambassadors to Mexico (vacant), Brazil and Japan, as well as to the larger countries of Europe.

At a distance of six miles, Signor Marconi is said to have lighted an electric lamp with wireless apparatus. The count is working to perfect a distinctly audible aërophone message. He regards this as more valuable than calls for long distances.

TEACHERS SAY THREE R'S NOT SO IMPORTANT!

Typewriter Better Than Pen, Movies Far Quicker Than Books.

The recent agitation on the part of prominent educators in favor of more thorough training in the "Three R's" makes of interest the following editorial in the Boston Teachers' News Letter, the official organ of the Boston Teachers' Club.

Evidently the teachers of Boston do not consider reading, writing and arithmetic as being of commanding importance today. The editorial is as follows:

This is the season of the consideration of the time-honored subject of the "Three R's" and the "Elimination of the Fads and Fancies" of the school curriculum. Discussion of this subject has broken out again ad nauseam.

The fact is that the ignorance of average citizens concerning the aims and results of the public school curriculum is so colossal that they do not yet comprehend how far away life has traveled from a possibility of return to a serious consideration of the "Three R's" as a problem in education.

Our schools palpably have a large percentage of failures, as is inevitable in large systems of production. Causes for these failures must be sought and efficiency must be secured, but it is absurd to suppose that efficiency for present day living can be obtained by trying to turn the wheels of the universe back to the days of our grandfathers. The world moves on and we must move with it and refuse to retrograde.

After all, what are the three R's in their relation to present day life?

Reading is useful still, necessary to much enjoyment and to a certain sort of culture, but not as necessary and not as important as a hundred years ago. Given the main elements of reading and that is sufficient for the boy or girl of today who is to take the place of mechanic or saleswoman.

Hundreds of our children have conceived a distaste for reading books. Many of our successful business men read only newspapers and money market reports.

Granted that this is deplorable from the standpoint of the older culture. It is sufficient for the lives they lead, and moving pictures tell graphically more in a few hours than a book does in days.

How about writing?

That, too, is passing out of the list of the necessities, after its elements have been mastered. Authors and business men dictate to their stenographers and the typewriter makes cleaner copy than man can write.

The elements of arithmetic are still of great value to the common man. The four operations, simple fractions and mensuration cannot well be eliminated without harm, yet much of the more advanced work in this subject is merely rubbish to the average man.

Education should re-ate man to the life he is forced to pursue. More than this cannot be claimed to be necessary, however desirable it may prove.

LAX DIVORCE LAWS IN MICHIGAN

"Divorce suits ought to be advertised as fully as deaths, births or marriages," says Judge Lacy of Detroit, recently.

All right-thinking people will heartily agree with the Judge on this question, in view of the ever increasing number of divorces granted, and especially in Detroit. As a matter of fact the world-famed Refo seems to have nothing on our big Michigan city in this respect. The divorce is discussed from pulpit and platform in newspapers, books and magazines, in public and private conversations, and remedies are being anxiously sought on all sides for a situation that seriously threatens the foundations of society. So why not try enforced publicity? Of course not the details, which are too often unfit for publication, but if no suppressions of proceedings were allowable and full public notice of proceedings made obligatory, it would go a long way in at least reducing the number of applications. A great many people would think twice about it before commencing a proceeding that would at once become public, at the very start. Under the present system the lawyers are able to assure their clients a "suppressed" proceeding, and the husband or wife is thus encouraged to go ahead by the fact of no publicity—or at least not until the divorce is granted and then usually neither party cares a continental dang Michigan laws really offer big inducements for divorce proceedings.

BIG GAS WELL ON FARM.

Tapped at a Depth of 350 Feet—Produces Five Million Feet Daily.

Evansville Ind.—A well on the farm of George Hornby four miles north of this city, is producing 5,000,000 feet of gas a day and experts say this would supply the entire city of Evansville.

Recently was drilling the well for water recently and struck gas at the depth of 350 feet. He at once called in W. J. Rodgers, an oil man, of this city, and they decided to keep the find a secret a few days until they could lease about 20,000 acres of land in that locality.

Many oil men are expected here to look over the field. Rodgers and other experts say the well on the Hornby farm is not a shale well and that conditions in the new field are similar to those in the Cretaceous field. It is expected that it will be drilled and bled out in both gas and oil will be found in abundance.

COLL'S KICK CURES MAN.

Stanley's Badly Before Blow but Now Talks Fluently.

Redwood Falls Minn.—A kicking cow with a bad temper was the throat of Gustave Stanley a farm hand, thirty years old, who had been stammering.

The blow made the man unconscious for several minutes but when he regained his senses and attempted to speak, he found he could not utter a word.

Then his words became extreme praise of "considerable boss," for he had stammered all his life and had spent all he could save in trying treatments he hoped would cure him of the impediment.

Aside from bruises on his throat, Stanley did not suffer injury.

WRONG MAN GETS MEDAL.

Person, Saved Receives the Carnegie Decoration and $1,000.

Butte, Mont.—An odd mistake has been disclosed by the announcement of the Carnegie medal award, in which it appears that a rescued man is the recipient of a bronze medal and $1,000 because he needs it instead of the rescuer.

To Roy Hubbard was awarded the recognition by the Carnegie hero commission. He was one of the unconscious men whom John Lindquist, a former Marathon runner and well known athlete, rescued. Hubbard and another workman had fallen victims to gas in a gas pit, when Lindquist, attracted by a crowd in the street, descended and bore the unconscious men to safety as the crowd cheered.

Excellent for Stomach Trouble.

Chamberlain's Tablets are just fine for stomach trouble," writes Mrs. G. C. Dunn, Arnold, Pa. "I was bothered with this complaint for some time and frequently had bilious attacks. Chamberlain's Tablets afforded me great relief from the first, and since taking one bottle of them I feel like a different person." For sale by all dealers. Advertisers.

Fingers and the Calendar.
No doubt most people remember the number of days in any particular month by recalling the rhymes they learned at school. Another method is practiced in Iceland, and it is so simple and ingenious as to be worth knowing. Shut the fist and let the knuckle of the forefinger represent January with its thirty-one days, and the depression between that and the next knuckle will represent February with its lesser number of days. And thus every month that corresponds to a knuckle will be found to contain thirty-one days; and every month that corresponds to a depression will be found to contain a less number of days. The little finger will represent July, and beginning again with the forefinger knuckle it stands for August, and from this one continues to count through the months of the year.—Harper's Weekly.

In a letter to Northville friends C. C. Yerkes, who with his wife, is summing the winter at Boyton, Florida, writes: "We are not experiencing just as nice warm weather as last year but things are looking up here now. A slight frost killed many tomato plants here last week, a thing so unusual as to be hardly a factor in vegetable growing state. We will be home by April."

Invitations were sent out the first of the week for the annual K P ball to be held in the rink next Tuesday evening, March 17. It is to be a Saint Patrick's party, with green predominant in the color scheme. Plans are progressing which promise lovers of dancing a most enjoyable treat. A buffet lunch will be served by a competent committee of Knights. The best of music is to be furnished by Merrill's six piece orchestra and, well, it will be much too good a party to miss.

"Bronte" an unusually intelligent Scotch collier and her master, Prof. McCormick, gave a very interesting entertainment in the High school Wednesday afternoon and evening. Bronte solved all sorts of mathematical problems, spelled words by barking as many times as there were letters in each word, and did many other unusual stunts. Prof. McCormick, who gave a number of wonderful imitations of bird songs explained that the dog is able to do these things by means of mental intercourse between he, the master, and the collier. In other words, Bronte is controlled by mental suggestion with most the satisfactory of results.

Yes, dear reader, when the robbers crowd and the crows roost it's a sure sign that spring will come—sometime.

Ernest Gray and family have moved into the rooms in the Barnhart flats which they occupied when they previously lived here.

Women are slowly but surely advancing. A 74-year-old Michigan woman cut off one of her own toes the other day to get rid of a troublesome corn.

A Missouri newspaper has a report from a fellow who can drink or let it alone to the effect that he is still drinking.

During the year just ended 6,360,000,000 nickels were spent in this country at the average price of 10¢ or $319,000,000.

There are only two classes of people in the world—automobiles and wheelbarrows. Many of the former wish they were in the latter class.

Carl Murdock of Lansing, formerly of Northville, was taken to Ann Arbor last Tuesday, where he underwent an operation for appendicitis. He was doing well at that writing.

By killing 16,483 rats, Hancock county in Ohio figures that it has saved 24,000 bushels of corn, worth $11,000. The computation is based on government statistics showing the ravages of rats which are credited with the destruction of millions of dollars worth of food stuffs annually. It appears from this that the rat is a factor in the high cost of living. Swat him!

There is scarcely a thing a woman cannot do with a hair pin. They use it to pick their teeth, button their shoes, clean their finger nails, patch bed bugs out of cracks, fasten up gray bangs, clean out the stems of their husband's pipes, scratch their heads, trim lamp wicks, run it into cake to see if it is suitably done, and about a dozen other things the poor devils don't know nothing about, and they do it all with the same hairpin.

It is a well known fact that you can read the newspaper proof three or four times and repeatedly pass the same error without seeing it. All newspaper men tell you so. But as soon as the press is started and the paper is printed in its complete shape, there stands the error in front of you, so big that you can't see anything else. It's a strange fact and probably the reason why it is so easy to edit a newspaper after it is printed.

If you happen to meet a lot of your acquaintances who don't ever see you, but pass by with a pre-occupied, absent-minded, concentrated, determined, introspective, etc. look on their countenances, don't be offended. They are only engaged in trying to solve the Detroit Tribune's "picture game" puzzles, and get that $1000. Everybody's doing it.

BROOKLYN TABERNACLE

BIBLE STUDY ON

LAWFUL ON THE SABBATH.
Luke 13:10-17; 14:1-6—March 15.
The Sabbath was made for man, and not man for the Sabbath.—Mark 2:27

MUCH confusion prevails respecting the Sabbath. Law realize that God's arrangements with Jesus' followers are totally different from those which He made with Natural Israel under the Law Covenant. Everything under that Covenant contained a valuable lesson for Christians, but to mistake type for antitype is to confuse our minds and to miss the force of the antitype.

There was no Sabbath before the Jewish Law, except that God rested on the seventh great Day of the Creative Week. Enoch, Abraham, and others pleasing to God, knew nothing about the Sabbath, even as they knew nothing about the Mosaic Law sacrifices or other matters pertaining to Israel's Law Covenant.

Israel a House of Servants—the Church a House of Sons.

Israel was a House of Servants, under Moses; but the Church is a House of Sons, under Christ. (Hebrews 3:1-6). God's method of dealing with the House of Servants very properly differed from His method with the House of Sons. Commands are given servants without explanation why or wherefore. But to the true Christian the Heavenly Father makes known His purposes, that His sons may sympathetically enter into those plans, by joyful obedience to the extent of self-sacrifice.

Jesus and the Apostles were Jews, and were under the Law Covenant until Jesus by His death became "the end of the Law for righteousness to every one that believeth." Since then Jesus' followers are in no sense bound by the Jewish Law. In dealing with the House of Sons God, through the Head of that House, has set up a new Law, which means much more than Moses' Law was understood to signify. It is the Law of Love. Jesus said: "A new commandment I give you, That ye love one another as I have loved you."

Early in the Gospel Dispensation Jesus' followers began to meet on the first day of the week. Jesus arose from the dead on that day, and appeared several times to His followers. Apparently it became a custom amongst the disciples to fellowship on that day, because of their desire to remember the Master. Quite probably they kept the Sabbath as well for a time. Evidently they had difficulty in realizing how completely they had passed from the domination of Moses' Law to be under the Headship of Jesus.

To Do Good on the Sabbath.

Jesus did many of His miracles on the Sabbath, partly no doubt to emphasize the fact that the Great Sabbath the seventh thousand year Day of earth's history, will be the time of His Kingdom, in which mankind will be privileged to be healed from sin sorrow and pain and brought to the full perfection of human nature, lost in Eden and redeemed at Calvary.

Since Jesus was a Jew, and there fore bound to the Jewish Law, He could do nothing contrary to that Law. But He corrected certain misapprehensions of the Law which had crept in through the teachings of the Doctors of the Law and the Pharisees. For show these erroneous interpretations of the Law in some respects, while entirely ignoring its spirit. In various ways they made God's Law appear unreasonable, and when particular inconsiderable trifles they set aside the much more weighty matters of justice, love and mercy.

In today's lesson we have two instances, of healing on the Sabbath. Jesus healed a woman who, and been bowed down for eighteen years with an infirmity. But the ruler of the synagogue was indignant, and said to the people, There are six days in which you can come and be healed, rather than on the Sabbath. This was intended as a special rebuke to Jesus, intimating that He violated the Law. But the Lord's reply put His adversaries to shame.

The other case was that of a man troubled with dropsy. Jesus knowing their mean attitude, discussed the subject in advance, asking the Doctors of the Law and the Pharisees, "Is it lawful to heal on the Sabbath, or not?" They made no answer. Then He healed the sick man, and inquired of the critics, "Which of you having an ass or an ox fall into a pit would not straightway draw him out on a Sabbath day?" They could not answer.

A proper understanding of the Sabbath, the rest which God has provided for His people, is a great blessing—a perpetual joy. Without regard to which day, the Apostle suggests that we forsake not the assembling of ourselves together, as the manner of some is; and so much the more as we see the glorious Day of Messiah's Kingdom approaching, and the shadows of darkness, ignorance and superstition passing away.—Hebrews 10:25.

An interesting debate was given in the English room Friday afternoon when the modern history class considered the subject, "Resolved, That the French Revolution Was More Constructive Than Destructive." The debaters were Elizabeth Olm, Marie Wilcox and Floyd Lanning on the affirmative, and Sylvanus Curass, Eural Clark and Alice Cunningham on the negative sides. The latter won by two points.

An enameled bath tub may be satisfactorily cleaned by a mixture of lemon juice and salt, says the Dallas News. Cut a lemon in half, and have a saucer of coarse kitchen salt ready. Dip the lemon into this rubbing it over the surface of the bath tub until all of the dirt is removed. Then wash well with hot suds, whereupon you will observe the surface of your bath tub to be as clean and bright as new.

REFLECTIONS OF A BACHELOR.

Getting into politics is a good deal harder than being kicked out.

The great secret about a girl's falling in love is for a man to come along.

In an electric fountain small enough for use as a table decoration that a Boston man has invented the falling water turns a wheel which changes the colors of the lights which illuminate it.

A good listener may never become a good talker that way, but there is a chance for him to learn to be a thinker.

A woman always plans to have two weeks in the spring free from other duties so she can buy her Easter bonnet.

A man with a face of brass expects you to take it for a pair of wings.

It's so easy to make a thousand promises that it's hard to keep one.

A girl has such an imagination she can expect to have curly hair any minute.

It's harder to do right than wrong, but it wouldn't make any difference to most people if it wasn't.

If the average man owned a bank somebody could come along and trade an old spavined horse off on him for it.

Because a girl likes to be all tied up in ribbons a man needn't think there isn't dynamite in the package.

REFLECTIONS OF A BACHELOR.

Every family is a debating society, only without parliamentary rules.

A girl could kiss a man in the dark without realizing it if he was the right one.

The more excuses a man has for not having come home, the more thankful he would be for a single good one.

When a woman sees her son's name get into the newspapers she knows it won't be very long before he is President.

A man has to be a grandfather before he can realize that he doesn't know anything like as much as he thought he knew when he was a grandson.

The more promises a man can make the fewer he can keep.

The reason a woman ought to have more rights is she has all there are already.

Heaps of trouble always coming to people just because they think they're too smart for it.

A man who knows baseball is perfectly willing to let anybody else try to know the Constitution.

When a smart man is trying to get away from you you can make him think he is trying to give you his till what he is after happens.

REFLECTIONS OF A BACHELOR.

Even expert judgment has to guess right once in a while.

Lying is an art, and that is why everybody tries it without mastering it.

Let us be grateful to Adam our benefactor. He cut us out of the "blessing" of idleness and won for us the "curse" of labor.

When people do not respect us we are sharply offended yet deep down in his private heart no man much respects himself.

Nature makes the locust with an appetite for crops, man would have made him with an appetite for sand.

Truth is stranger than fiction, but it is because fiction is obliged to stick to possibilities. Truth isn't.

Behold, the fool saith, "Put not all thine eggs in the one basket," which is but a manner of saying, "Scatter your money and your attention." But the wise man saith, "Put all your eggs in the one basket and—watch the basket."

Can druggists trace their liniments in their children's faces?

Ambition is the only yeast that will make a man rise.

A friend in need is always wanting to borrow.

A woman would be ashamed to admit she had cold feet if they were in a tub of ice.

REFLECTIONS OF A BACHELOR.

The only kind of lying man can stand is his own.

Money coming your direction is a snail, going away from you a swallow.

A man's wife has only to be peaceful enough to make him crave for earthquakes and wars.

A nice thing about a fat wife must be how she wouldn't need to fight for all the covers on cold nights.

The reason a girl can get broken-hearted because her parents won't let her marry a man is she'd rather be broke it.

Lots of people are good for lack of the chance not to be.

A woman would rather be loved than honored, and a man enriched.

The fun of trading horses is that if you get cheated so did the other fellow.

Everybody would like to be good if there was any cheerful company to keep it in.

A man would rather go to the dentist than go shopping with his wife, and she would rather scrub the floor than listen to his ideas on politics.

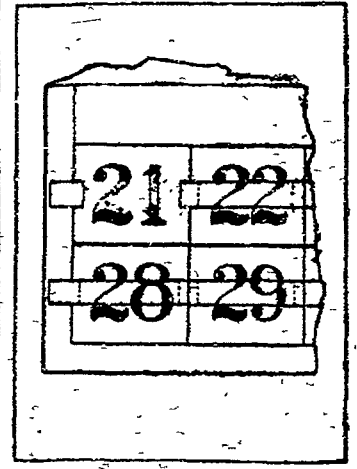

The man who never forgets to call his wife sweetheart in public often does in private.

Your own whole morals, into a child, but he has to be cooked into manners.

NOVEL CALENDAR.

Strips Over Each Date Are Detached Daily, Indicating Current Date.

A custom common with probably everybody in using calendars is to cross out with a pen or pencil each date of the month as it goes. There is then small chance of mistaking the date. A Philadelphia man suggests a much better and neater method of checking off the dates in a calendar he has patented, an illustration of which is shown here. In this calendar there is a series of transverse paper strips extending to the center of each row of figures. The dates are printed ed partly upon the sheet and partly upon the strips, the latter being secured to the sheets only between the dates and detachable under the figures. When the strip is removed the top and bottom portions of the date still remain visible. Each day the strip covering the corresponding date is removed. The user is thus able to tell at a glance the date of the month. Also, if he desires to refer to the dates of days already passed, he can readily determine them from the partly broken figures.

TO SHOW PHOTOGRAPHS.

Album Is Equipped with Magnifying Glass and Mirror.

A compact and interesting device for home entertainment has been invented by a New York man. It consists of a photograph holder which is at the same time an exhibitor of the whole being designed in the form of an album. The album is set on a stand, back down and is divided into three compartments, the two side compartments for holding photographs and an electric battery and the center division having a mirror set in the back and a lens in the front with space between for inserting the views.

This inner section is movable and can be adjusted to any position desired. The magnifying glass in the front enlarging the views and bringing out all the detail. An electric light, supplied from the battery in the storage compartment, illuminates the exhibition chamber and enhances the general effect of the picture. For evenings at home this device can be made both instructive and entertaining with a collection of historic views.

Squab Courtship.

The squab farm is an interesting place. Belgian homers are the best breeders. The parents birds are the pick of all the flocks. They pair young. The male selects his partner, and his wooing is not easy. At first he is pecked at angrily. He is a persistent fellow though, and will not be repulsed. The object of his attention tries to escape by flight. He pursues relentlessly, when she flies he flies after her, when she roosts he roosts beside her. This keeps up off the average for two days, then Miss Pigeon relents, evidently deciding it would be hard hearted to deny so ardent a lover. The couple then settle down to a staid married life. They average five pairs of squabs a year. Eggs are hatched in eighteen days, and four weeks later the squabs go to market. They grow like weeds, at the end of the four weeks being fully feathered pigeons.

What's in a Man.

All the constituents of a 150-pound man are contained in 1,200 eggs," said the chemist.

"There is enough gas in a man," he went on, "to fill a gasometer of 3,640 cubic feet. There is enough iron to make four nails. There is enough fat to make 75 candles and a large cake of soap. There is enough phosphorus to make 3,064 boxes of matches.

"There is enough hydrogen in him to fill a balloon and carry him up to the clouds. The remaining constituents of a man would yield, if utilized, six cruets of salt, a bowl of sugar and ten gallons of water."

"No wonder," the Philistia said, "that a man is so wonderfully made."

A Defeated Conqueror

People said I was the luckiest fellow living, and I quite indorsed their opinion, for I had not only entered into possession of a decent little legacy left me by my uncle, but I had also won the hand and heart of Ada Miller, the prettiest and most charming young lady in the whole county.

People said her father was immensely rich and that she would come in for a handsome fortune at his death, but what cared I about that? For had I not sufficient for us both, even if she were penniless. And did I not love her with the whole strength of a pure and disinterested love?

I cannot begin to describe her to you for the task is quite beyond me. Suffice it to say she was admired by all who knew her, and loved by not a few. The latter circumstance ceased to disturb me when once I became her accepted lover, though before that time it occasioned me a great deal of anxiety, and caused me to spend many a restless night.

Of one lover in particular I had been jealous, for to my excited and feverish imagination he seemed to possess everything that a young lady could desire. He was tall, broad-shouldered, handsome, with a pleasing manner and faultless dress, and in addition to all this he was endowed with more than an average share of this world's goods.

He was madly in love with Ada, but conducted his wooing in a way with which not even his closest rival could find fault. Kind, considerate and gentlemanly, never obtruding his presence unnecessarily, he yet managed to pay her considerable attention, and many an anxious time did I spend, fearing that his superior attractions would put me in the shade.

Fate, however, decided otherwise, for when I summoned up courage to put my fortune to the test Ada shyly accepted me, informing me in a most engaging manner that she had never loved anyone else. You may be sure that I was in ecstasies and scarcely knew for the next few months whether I walked upon air or upon solid ground.

Our engagement was to last a year, at the end of that time our marriage was to take place. The time had almost elapsed, and nothing had occurred to mar the harmony of the scene, when quite unexpectedly, something happened which filled me with the deepest horror, and which causes me to shudder even now as I recall it. It has partly to do with my rival, Horace Rishton, whose existence for the time I had almost forgotten.

He had received the news of our engagement in an apparently calm and quiet manner, and his subsequent behavior had not led us to regard him as being more than ordinarily affected by it. But in the event I am about to describe I was enabled to see how deep and tragic the effect upon him really was.

The revelation came in this wise. It was but two days to our wedding, and I had occasion to go on a little business connected with it to a neighboring town, a place some four miles distant from my home. Having accomplished my errand, and finding that I had some considerable time to wait for a train, I resolved to walk back, so striking out, I soon left the town behind me.

I had gone somewhere about two miles when the moon suddenly clouded over, and I was left in comparative darkness. As I knew the way, however, I thought nothing of it, but trudged cheerfully along, thinking only of Ada and our approaching union. Suddenly, and without a moment's warning, the ground gave way from under my feet and I felt myself falling headlong down, down into the depths of the earth. How far I fell I knew not at the time—I learned afterward that it was about thirty feet—but I expected instant death when I reached the bottom, and without doubt that would have been my fate had not the bottom of the hole been filled with water to a considerable depth. This broke my fall, and also by its coldness restored me to my senses.

I struck out on coming to the surface, and swam around to find something to which I could hold on. After a considerable time spent in searching, during which the full horror of the situation began to dawn upon me, I knew at once the place into which I had fallen, and as the knowledge flashed across my mind I cursed myself for having been so careless as to stumble into it. It was an old, disused shaft which had been there for generations. Not many people were aware of its existence, for it was in a wild and solitary spot scarcely ever visited by anyone. I, however, had seen it several times in my moonlight wanderings, and had always regarded it as a dangerous place. It was partially fenced around, but I must have wandered in through one of the gaps. There was no footpath anywhere near it, so I must, in the darkness, have lost my way.

However, here I was, and the question confronted me how was I to get out? I tried to discover if it was possible to climb out, but the sides of the pit offered no hold of any kind, so I had to abandon that idea.

I next shouted, in the hope that some solitary wanderer might hear my cry, but no answering voice was heard, until, after I was obliged to sink back in silence and despair, my heart sickened as I thought of the loneliness of the place, and how days, and even weeks might elapse before anyone passed that way.

I struck out frantically round the pit to seek again for some means of escape, but my search was as fruitless as before.

Despair took hold of me. I thought of Ada, of our approaching marriage, of the preparations which had been made, and the plans which had been formed, and now it was all over! I must think no more of entering again the bright region above and sharing in the joys that awaited me there. I was doomed to die—to die a lonely, terrible death, and to lie in a watery grave. As I held on to my feeble support, and thought of all this, my brain reeled within me, and I feared that my reason must give way.

Death instead of marriage! What a contrast! Just when I ought to be leading my bride to the altar and stepping across the portal of married life, to let go my hold here and fall into the cold, relentless arms of death! And what of Ada then? Surely she would sorrow and grieve and be inconsolable.

But Horace Rishton! What of him? Might they not become man and wife? But no, the thought was torturing, and drove me in a fit of frenzy to shout again with all my might. But it was all in vain, for no one heard.

How the night passed I cannot tell, neither do I know how the morrow hours dragged on, for I was numb with cold and faint with hunger and fatigue. I only know that after what seemed to me to be ages, footsteps drew near, and a voice called out from above.

"My dear little Fred!"

I nearly leaped into my mouth and for a moment I was unable to utter a sound. At last I murmured, in a faint voice:

"In Heaven's name get me out!"

"Can you hold on another minute?" the voice asked. "I've got a rope here. Keep up till I fasten it to this stake. Can you sip a little round your body, or shall I come down to you?"

"Send the rope down. I'll manage to pass it round," I shouted eagerly.

In another minute it was dangling before my eyes and was soon passed under my arms, after which I gave the word to draw up. Slowly I ascended, and at last emerged into the light and freedom of the upper air.

It was Horace Rishton who had saved me, and if over my heart went out to my rival it was then.

I cannot sufficiently thank you."

"Give me no thanks," he interrupted hastily. "Thank Heaven instead. Heaven and I have been fighting over you, and I have won. But you little know how near you have been to death."

I looked up in wonderment at him for his words were unintelligible to me. He took no notice of my look, but continued:

"I guessed where you were, call it instinct or what or you like. No one else did. They will seek where you but here. But I seemed to know, and I found you. Don't you know what you owe Ada Miller to you now? Then so do I. Yes, with a love which gives me no rest night or day, a love which makes it impossible for me to live without her. You have won her hand, but don't you think I envy you? Don't you think I even hate you at times? And when I guessed you were here, don't you see the Devil tempted me to leave you here and to say nothing whatever about it? But Ada has chosen you. She loves you. Your wedding day draws near. Go—take her and be happy. But for me happiness in this life is over."

He turned away to unloosen the rope which he had made fast to one of the stakes of the fence.

I watched him wondering with a dazed mind, when all in a moment, before I could think or speak, he reeled, fell over, and toppled headlong into the pit from whence he had drawn me, carrying the rope with him.

"He's gone!" I shrieked, and springing to my feet for the numbness left me for a moment—I rushed to the mouth of the shaft, crying frantically, "Horace! Horace!"

But no answer came to my cries. A loud splash succeeded his fall, then all was still and silent as the grave. I looked around for help, but no help was near, and overcome with weakness, fatigue and horror, I fell senseless to the ground.

When I came to I found myself in the same position, and knowing that it was extremely improbable that anyone would pass that way, I put forth all my strength, and dragged myself with great difficulty in the direction of home. When I had gone a mile or so I entered upon a more frequent road, and soon fell in with those who rendered me all the assistance I required.

My story caused a great sensation, as you may be sure, and for a time was the one object of interest in the place. Ada looked upon me as one given back from the dead, and rejoiced over me accordingly. Her joy would have been complete had it not been for the unfortunate death of Horace Rishton, for that naturally cast a gloom over us all.

Of course, his death was put down to accident, and much regret expressed at the painful occurrence, but I, who had seen the whole thing, knew it was no accident, though, rightly or wrongly, I kept the knowledge to myself.

Every year we pay a visit to his grave, and as we go upon the silent tomb, we think with gratitude, and yet with regret, of a life's love—Household Words.

FATHER TRIES TO REVIVE BODY

Strange Scene in Illinois Cemetery When Man Prays Many Minutes Over Coffin.

Rock Island, Ill.—An extraordinary scene was witnessed in Riverside Cemetery, this county, when John Baptiste, a Canadian, disinterred the body of his daughter, eight months after her death, and sought to restore her to life. As he gave no appearance of being insane, the authorities ordered the exhumation of the corpse. Baptiste was dazed over his lack of success.

The daughter was Mrs. Axel Price of Bixbee, Townser county, N. D. She died last April after an illness with typhoid fever. The father, who is 65 years old, became imbued with the idea that he could bring her back to life. He explained that he was inspired by the belief that by touching her form and gazing upon her intently she would breathe again and be fully restored to her normal being.

He was required to obtain the permission of the dead woman's husband. This was granted, Price writing from Bixbee:

"If you succeed, let me know and I'll come on immediately."

Baptiste at first planned to try his experimental publicly and let all who wished to see him perform. This was objectionable to the cemetery officers, however, and it was decided to conduct the test in private. An undertaker and several friends accompanied him to the grave.

After the coffin was opened Baptiste stepped forward and glanced at the body. He was shocked at what he saw, and staggered back. His hands pressed his eyes. Nervously, he returned to the body and gazed intently at it fifteen minutes, his lips moving in prayer. At the end of that period he asked all to withdraw and leave him alone with his dead. All complied and waited in the cemetery office until he returned. With his eyes streaming, he murmured:

"I'm no friend, the pressure is too great."

Baptiste then returned to the city and made preparations to return to Canada. The body was reinterred.

The cemetery authorities say that Baptiste is a strong believer in reports of suspended animation and became obsessed with the belief that his daughter was a victim of this condition. He declared that he would never feel satisfied in his mind until she was dead until he had been given an opportunity to restore her.

LAND FAKERS IN MOVIE SHOWS.

Distribute Prize "Lots" and Collect $925 From Lucky City Winners.

Chicago, Ill.—More than twenty residents of this city are trying to find out whether it is true that a profitable land investment in Central Iowa or five have been made the victims of a shrewd.

Several days ago a man declaring himself to be a real estate operator called on a moving picture man and bargained with him to show a real estate advertisement on the screen and take his pay in land.

The advertiser offered to give to each purchaser of an acre of land one acre free. When the show was over the real estate operator announced that cards would be distributed among the spectators in the picture house and each would have an opportunity to draw an acre of land free. Later it developed that twenty or more persons had been the "lucky winners" and the next day these lucky ones were called upon and informed of their good fortune.

The cost of the deed and other court charges would amount to $925, the agent informed them.

The name of Samuel B. Pennington, a former chief of police of Chicago, who is now in the real estate business, was given as an evidence that the scheme was straight.

Pennington disclaims knowledge of the Centre county land project, and now those who paid over their $925 are hunting the land agent, but he has not been here so far as can be learned.

GASOLINE TO BE CHEAPER.

Predicted That New Process Will Revolutionize Business.

Findlay, O.—A revolution in the oil refining business is predicted by H. G. James, a well known oil authority, who bases his prediction on the probable results of a new process by which the Standard Oil interests purpose to increase the amount of gasoline obtainable from crude oil.

The process involves an entirely new method of making gasoline, since it opens the way for breaking up the hydrocarbons of petroleum into whatever combinations are needed and condensing them under compression. Already the appliances for the new process have been installed in the big plant of the Standard Oil Company in Whiting, Ind., at a cost of $1,500,000 and also in the plant of the same company in Alton, Ill.

The new process will reduce the percentage of fuel oil. It is understood motor spirits will appear in the Kansas market in a few weeks and will sell for about four cents less per gallon than the present price of gasoline.

LOOKED THAT WAY.

"Come, Willie," said his mother, "don't be so selfish. Let your little brother play with your marbles a while."

"But," protested Willie, "he means to keep them always."

"Oh, I guess not."

"I guess yes!" Cause he's swallowed two of them already."

NO ADVICE NEEDED.

"My husband is particularly liable to seasickness, captain," remarked a lady passenger. "Could you tell him what to do in case of an attack?"

"Tain't necessary, mum," replied the captain. "He'll do it."

Poker—A Soliloquy.

To play, or not to play, that is the question;

Whether 'tis nobler in the game to suffer

The shins and arrows of a risky hand

Or to take arms against a sea of troubles

And throw in my cards; to swank, in bluff

Some more, and by that bluff to take

The goodly pool, that better hands

Are heir to—us a consummation

Devoutly to be wished—To straddle, to raise,

To see, perchance to win. Ay, there's the rub.

For in that game of cards what hands may come

When we have shuffled off the second pack

Without a cut; there's the respect

That makes calamity of a good hand, For who would bear the flush and straights of others, The oppressor's three aces, the proud man's full house, The pangs of fours, the straight flush,

The insolence of others, and the spurs

That five aces (with the joker) makes

When he himself his quints take

By throwing in his hand? Who would draw to a pair

To groan and swear under a bad hand, But that the hope of something afterward—

The jack-pot, from whose bourn

The silvery flood returns, puzzles the will

And makes us rather bear the cards

we have

Than draw five others that we know not of.

Thus conscience does make cowards

of us all

And sends of great and strong excitement

With this regard, their cards all turn

awry

And love the name of Poker.

And Yet the Dance Halls Thrive. Young Man (approaching a girl)—"Er—may I have this one?" Oh, you're too kind. You don't mind if I hum, do you? Do you know, I'm just dippy over this here dip. Tee-hee, joke. Floor's so slick tonight, ain't it? Gee, but I like to dance with you! Tell that to every girl? Not on your life! Seems as if I must have met you somewhere before. Wish I had, though. Well, I'll be; that's all. Short and sweet, yep—just like you. Tee-hee. See you later."

Books for the Children. Care must be taken in the stories we give to growing children that they are always overcome. Book friends are very real to boys and girls and influence their character. There should be effort and conflict in their stories and daring endurance and steadfast purpose. Stories in which the characters act rightly are particularly valuable, because what a boy or girl has done appeals more directly to the child's own power. He feels that he may not express it even to himself that what other children have done he can do.

Trees Resist Lightning. The electrical resistance of trees is quite great, a quality which protects them to a considerable degree from lightning stroke. This resistance varies greatly with the character of the tissues and also with the temperature. This fact results in an annual and daily period in resistance. The cambium layer shows the least electrical resistance, followed by the phloem and sapwood.
