

THE NORTHVILLE RECORD.

VOL. XLIV. NO. 35.

THE RECORD: NORTHVILLE, MICH., FRIDAY, APRIL 24, 1914.

$1.00 PER YEAR IN ADVANCE.

IT MAKES NO DIFFERENCE

KNIGHTS TEMPLAR INSTALL OFFICERS

Past Eminent Commander A. N. Kimmis Did the Work.

Northville Commandery Knights Templar had a public installation of officers Tuesday night. The installing was done by Past Eminent Commander A. N. Kimmis, acting Grand Commander, assisted by Sir Knight, B. A. Wheeler as Grand Marshal, Mr. Kimmis' charge to the newly elected Eminent Commander, T. E. Murdock, was particularly impressive and especially interesting.

The officers installed were as follows:

Eminent Commander—T. E. Murdock.
Generalissimo—H. C. Thayer.
Captain General—Wm. Kay.
Prelate—Wm. Harlin.

Sen. Warden—M. A. Porter.
Junior Warden—L. N. Tupper.
Treas.—B. A. Wheeler.
Recorder—F. Dolph.
S. W. Deacons—Wallace Grace.
Standard Bearer—Amos Otis.
Warden—L. D. Wright.
Sentinel—D. F. Griswold.
Guards—Will Thayer and A. K. Carpenter.

During the exercises the male quartet rendered several enjoyable selections and Mr. VanValkenburg favored with a well rendered solo. Then came speechmaking followed by a most delicious supper, a fitting close of the delightful occasion, highly enjoyed by the guests as well as the Knights.

WILL G. YERKES DIED APRIL 17

Northville Called Upon Again to Lose Another Useful Citizen.

The news of the death of William G. Yerkes at his sister's home in Detroit on Friday, April 17, while not wholly unexpected, brought widespread sorrow to this place, where practically his entire life had been passed.

The progress of his long illness has been followed with anxiety by almost all Northville, while he was at his home here, and later, when he went for special treatment to Marion, Ohio, and from thence to Detroit for further relief, and expressions of satisfaction were heard on all sides, whenever hopeful reports were given out.

Mr. Yerkes, although quiet and unpretentious in manner, was one of those citizens whose influence on his community is felt in many directions of usefulness.

Connected from early life with the Northville Presbyterian church, he had an important share in its work and was always an invaluable help in all that pertained to its welfare. In the secular activities of the village, he was also a useful factor and at the time of his life's ending was a director in the Lapham State Saving bank and in the American Bell & Foundry Co.

Mr. Yerkes was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Yerkes and was born on the family homestead on the outskirts of this village, in Oakland county. His forty-eight years of a most exemplary life had been lived here, except a few years in Pontiac where he was engaged in the milling industry, and a few years in a manufacturing business in Milford.

The immediate relatives are the wife, one daughter, Frances, his mother, one brother, Carl, all of Northville, and a sister, Mrs. Grace Dusenbury, of Detroit. The funeral services were held Monday afternoon at the residence, with Rev. W. T. Jaquess of Detroit officiating, assisted by Rev. J. E. Webber of this place. The interment was in Rural Hill cemetery.

COUNCIL HAS ADVISORY BOARD

Six Citizens Appointed to Give Pointers to Village Government.

At Monday night's meeting of the council President Scotten with the consent of that body appointed an advisory commission to the council of six citizens. They were F. S. Harmon, T. G. Richardson, E. H. Lapham, C. A. Ponsford, L. A. Bahlst and F. J. Cochran.

As one prominent citizen puts it, "the president was not exactly satisfied that his council were capable of solving the knotty problems that were likely to come up this year and the council rather agreed with him, that they weren't."

Anyhow the selection is a most excellent one. It is a representative body of citizens as the village has. All are recognized as successful business men, men of experience and good judgment.

This commission business is something entirely new. It may work out splendidly and it may create a regular Kilkenny-cat of a mix up. Let us hope however it will be a blessing to the village and its people, and for the present the people will assume a "watchful waiting" policy, ever hoping that the Millennium Dawn in village government has at last arrived.

W. R. C. NOTES.

The ladies of the Corps are invited to the home of Mrs. Stella Schultze next Thursday, April 30, for a social afternoon in the interest of the silver fund. Take 2:15 car.

CLARK-DENNIS.

A quiet home wedding took place Saturday, April 18, at the home of Mrs. Henry Dennis, when her daughter, Vera, became the wife of Mr. Harry Clark, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Clark, Jr., of Salem. The young couple will reside on a farm near Salem.

NEW CARPET SWEEPER.

J. W. Duntley, well known as a resident of Northville in former years, since become famous as the originator of modern pneumatic machinery, appears to have solved the problem of a vacuum cleaner for the many people for whom high priced electric machines are unobtainable. Mr. Duntley is at the head of the Duntley Pneumatic Sweeper Co. of Chicago which is putting out a highly successful cleaner, which, as the name implies, combines the properties of both sweeper and vacuum cleaner, which is soon to be placed on sale here. Mr. Duntley is offering excellent inducements for some hustling young man or woman to take charge of the local agency.

Select dancing every Saturday evening at Princess rink. Velvet floor, special music by Heaney's five-piece orchestra.

MANAGER RICKEY PRAISES STIMPSON

Told Northville Fellers that Earl Would Surely Make Good.

Will Pinham, Ed. Lapham and Al Stanley while attending the ball game in Detroit Friday interviewed Manager Branch Rickey relative to Earl Stimpson, who is now under contract with the St. Louis team. Mr. Rickey had nothing but praise for Riley and prophesied that he was one of the coming great players. "He is a real ball player," said the peppy manager of the Browns, and will yet be heard from among the top notchers. He is still a Brown and we are going to hang on to him. His training this season with the Lowell league will further develop his already good stick work and next year watch out. Earl has a good eye at bat and is a wide range fielder and is developing speed and judgment on the base line. After the interview the Northville fellers were glad that Rickey's team beat the Tigers.

N. W. C. NOTES.

The Northville Woman's club held its postponed annual meeting in the Library Saturday, electing the following officers for the ensuing year: President, Mrs. B. A. Wheeler; Vice-pres, Mrs. S. W. Curtiss; Secretary, Mrs. Floyd Northrop; Treasurer, Mrs. Will Stark; members of executive board, Mrs. J. A. Dubuar, Mrs. Mathew Green, Mrs. Charles Bloom, Mrs. C. L. Dubuar. Delegate to State Federation, Mrs. Curtiss; alternate, Mrs. C. C. Yerkes. The members of the program committee, appointed by the outgoing president, Mrs. C. R. Benton, are Mrs. A. C. Harmon, Mrs. C. A. Somers, Mrs. J. B. Cook, Mrs. Wm. Wain, and Mrs. Alice D. C. Smith. The retiring program committee served light refreshments at the close of the business meeting, which was adjourned until September, except that Arbor Day will be observed on May 8, and the annual picnic held in June.

SCHOOL NOTES.

Glenn Card is a new pupil in the Kindergarten.

Vivien Taylor visited the Kindergarten Monday.

Louis Welsner figured down grade Eight last Friday.

Gerald Taft spelled down grade Eight last Friday.

C. J. Boyer of Allen & Bacon Co. visited school Tuesday.

The grades are getting back nearly to a normal attendance.

Marion Cochran and Beth Ponsford have not been to school this week.

There are eleven girls and eight boys in the A class in grade Eight.

Myrtle Gorton is back in school again after an illness of a few days.

Miss Tuttle of the Thomas Normal Training school inspected the sewing class Friday.

Grade Eight has begun to review for the County Examination, to be held May 21-22.

Vera Austin and Norma Allen are in school again, having been absent for several weeks.

Many are planning to attend the Senior play, "Uncle Josh," at Plymouth Friday evening.

H. E. Moseley of the Educational Supply Co., of Painesville, Ohio, was a visitor Thursday forenoon.

The Michigan Association of School Superintendents meets this week Thursday and Friday in Lansing.

A large iron column has been placed in the Eighth grade room to prevent any sagging of the High school floor when large audiences are present in the room.

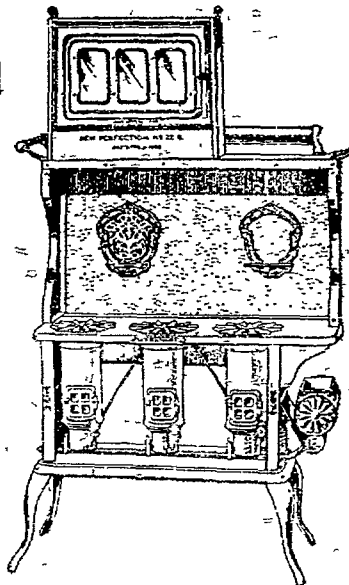

It is hoped that the members of the school who are out on account of sickness will be able to return soon so that the school entertainment may be given in the course of a few days.

Milo VanValkenburg, who has been constantly in the employment of the Burroughs Co. of Detroit since graduation from the Northville schools last June, has left that firm on account of poor health.

MAKE THE WORK EASY FOR THE LADY OF THE HOUSE. PURCHASE A BISSELL'S CARPET SWEEPER; HOUSEWORK WILL THEN BE A PLEASURE. THERE ARE OTHER SWEEPERS MADE BUT THE BISSELL'S HAS PROVED THE STANDARD FOR MANY YEARS. $2.50, $2.75, $3.00 AND UP.

PERFECTION SMOKELESS OIL STOVES, no smoke, no smell, no trouble; guaranteed to give satisfaction. Built on the lines of the ordinary house lamp and will last just as long. Try one. Cheaper and more convenient to use than wood or coal. "QUICK MEAL" instantaneous heat Gasoline Stoves. Our line is complete. No trouble to show you—if you are not suited the goods are ours.

JAMES A. HUFF, Hardware.

Give Old Diogenes a Chance—Be Honest With Yourself

PROCRASTINATION is the thief of saving. Don't say to yourself, "I'm going to start a bank account just as soon as I pay those bills." Pay your bills by all means, but put something in the bank at once. Play fair with yourself. START NOW. Saving becomes easier as you go along. It becomes a HABIT. Try it and see.

THIS BANK WILL HELP YOU.

DO YOUR BANKING WITH US.
WE PAY 3 PER CENT INTEREST.

Northville State Savings Bank.

CUT FLOWERS AND PLANTS, AT NORTHVILLE GREENHOUSE
J. M. DIXON, Propr., Both Phones

W. L. B. CLARK'S
MILK ROUTE
Sweet and Sour Cream
Furnished on Application.

TRY A LINER IN THE RECORD.

THE HOME
Of Quality Groceries

Make Known To Us
In Person
Or By Phone
Your Wants

IN THE GROCERY LINE
AND WE WILL DO THE REST
Which Means—The Best!

TRADE AT RYDER'S

Exclusive Agent for Northville and vicinity for New Century Flour, Best Ever Milled.

HIGHLAND LINEN

We carry a complete stock of this paper because we believe it to be especially adapted to the person of good taste who wants a fashionable paper at a most reasonable price. We shall be glad to show it to you in all the correct sizes, with the proper shapes of envelopes. The price of this really distinctive paper is so low that any one who wants good paper can have good paper. Come in today.

A. E. STANLEY

Druggist and Stationer
NORTHVILLE, MICHIGAN.

The End of the Summer

By ELIZABETH ROSE

"Who could want heaven to be more perfect than a day in June?" exclaimed the man, stretched lazily upon the grass, and he looked up with a sigh of content at the girl in the hammock.

"Who, indeed," she responded, sympathetically. "If it could but always be summer, and June!"

"Always this June, with the flowers and the grass and the green things, and you and I here together," he suggested.

"We should stagnate, and we should grow very tired of each other."

"Not I. I should be perfectly happy if I remained here forever, provided you remained with me."

"I do not agree with you. Happiness itself would become monotonous, and we should long for a discord, just for the sake of a change. We should pine away longing for a good old-fashioned November drizzle. I should wear my heart out waiting for an opportunity to wear my sable furs, and your limbs would become stiff for want of a good ball game, or a snowball fight, and all the other good things that do not belong to June."

"How very practical you are, and at such a time, too!"

"Not at all. On the contrary, I am very romantic, but one cannot live on a continuous diet of sentiment and romance. It is very appropriate and delightful in the summer time, when everybody and everything is glad and happy, but in the winter one needs more substantial things. If it were raining heavily at this moment, and you were cold and wet and tired, would you still be content because I shared your plight?"

"Please don't, I detest the subjunctive. I only know that I want you very badly," he said tenderly. "I need you."

"And yet, a month ago you had never seen me. Singular that your need developed in so short a time."

"Necessity knows no law," he retorted glibly.

"You are flippant," she answered. "I have heard men talk like this before. You are a selfish lot. Unfortunately, I am not a summer girl; I hate flirting and I hate flattery. Blue is a tough. However," she added, sweeping him a courtesy, with a trace of sarcasm, "I thank you for a very entertaining afternoon."

"Ah, don't go!" he pleaded, springing to his feet. "You will not deny me the privilege of defending myself against such an accusation. Little girl," he said, taking the brown hands in his, "you may believe me when I tell you that I am not flirting with you, nor am I flattering you when I say that you are the dearest, sweetest little creature and that these weeks have been the happiest of my life, because they were spent with you. With all my heart I mean it when I say I love you, and I want you not for a 'summer girl,' but for an all-year-round girl, a girl who can winter it with me in the absence of the sunshine and the flowers and the birds and who can love and cheer me just the same in the November drizzle, when the skies are gray and heavy, as she can in June when it is so easy to love and be happy. I really want you, will you come?"

"Am I the first to whom you have extended the invitation?" she asked, smiling.

"The very first, little girl. I have been waiting for you for years."

"Indeed, and during all those years you have never cared for anybody?"

"I never cared for anybody as I care for you. I never loved anybody so much as I love you, and I never thought of marrying until I met you. As the poet says, my heart has shed its outer leaves to give you all the rest. And you?" he asked anxiously.

"I have believed myself to be in love dozens of times, and it has been very pleasant for the time being, but I have always outgrown it."

"And you are quite sure there is nobody else now except me?"

"There has never been anyone quite like you."

"You are silent this evening. Is there anything troubling you? Can I help you?"

"You are the only one who can," he answered drowsily.

"Tell me. You know there is nothing I would not do for you."

He looked at her, half eagerly, half tenderly. "You will think me a cad and a brute," he said.

"You may be assured I shall not. Please tell me."

"You will hate me, but I am going to ask you to release me from our engagement."

The girl's face flushed then paled. She looked into his eyes earnestly for a moment then dropped her own. "Gladly," she replied, looking up with a bright smile. "Do not trouble to explain, I know. You no longer care for me, and you think it would be best."

"You are a mind reader," he said with relief. "How did you know?"

"It is easy to guess what one would like to guess."

"You are glad; you wanted this to happen?" he said in amazement.

"I think as you do, that it is better it should end."

"And you are not angry with me?" he asked doubtfully.

"Certainly not," she answered promptly. "Why should I be angry? I release you gladly. We all make mistakes, and it is better to rectify them when we can before it is too late. I am pleased to be freed from the engagement."

"May I ask if you made a mistake when you said you loved me a few months ago?" he said curiously.

"Did you make a mistake when you told me how much you cared, and how much you needed me? May not a woman also make a mistake? I release you most willingly. What more would you have?"

"But I thought you loved me. I remember your very words; you said you never knew anybody quite like me," and he laughed a trifle bitterly.

"It is true. I never have known anybody quite like you. But things look different to one in the city, without the flowers and the birds and the 'green things.' However, since we have come to an agreeable understanding let us part friends. Good-by!" and she held out her hand.

"You mean it?" he said, taking it in his own.

"Certainly. I am not in the habit of lying."

A week later he returned. "I have come to say I am sorry for what I said last time I was with you. I made a great mistake. I love you just the same, dear. I have always loved you and I want you to take me back. You said you did not care. Don't you think you could learn to care all over again? I love you and I should be miserable without you."

"It is useless," said the girl. "I do not care to enter into the engagement again."

"Won't you come, even if you do not care? You will learn to, you are not like other girls."

"You are wrong," she answered sharply. "I am no different from other girls. We are all alike."

He was silent a moment, then he said slowly. "Tell me one thing, I cannot believe it until I hear you say it. Is it possible that you were flirting with me all the time?"

She drew herself up proudly, but did not reply.

"I knew you were not."

"Mistaken again. I was flirting with you all the time," she said deliberately. "My heart was shedding dead leaves."

"I should not have believed it had anybody else worn it, but, as you say, you are not in the habit of lying. Then this is the end?"

"Yes."

"Very well. Good-by, dear little girl. That is what I have always called you in my heart, dear little girl. In spite of everything I love you. Good-by."

"And," she whispered brokenly to herself, "I am not in the habit of lying."—Boston Post.

Funerals in Peru.

According to social usage, women in Peru cannot attend funerals, and they do not appear at weddings unless they are very intimate friends.

When a funeral procession passes through the streets the coffin is carried upon the shoulders of the pallbearers, who are followed by an empty hearse drawn by two, four or six horses, according to the means of the mourners and their desire for display. All the male members of the family and friends of the deceased follow on foot, with a line of empty carriages behind them. As long as they are in the presence of the dead it is considered a proper and necessary evidence of respect to walk. After the body has been committed to the grave those who attend the funeral are brought home in carriages.

Willing to Help Him

He had gone to the dry goods store with a bit of dress material which his wife had blundered him to match. "I am very sorry, sir," said the salesman, "but I have nothing exactly like this. The very last remnant was sold this morning."

"But I must have it!" exclaimed the husband. "Otherwise, how can I face my wife?"

"If you will permit me, sir," said the salesman, "I would venture to suggest that you invite a friend home to dinner with you."

Boys Grades the Clergy.

The late Bishop Potter, at an ecclesiastical dinner in New York, read a Cooperstown schoolboy's essay on "Clergymen." The essay, which created much amusement, was as follows:

"There are 2 kinds of clergymen. Bishops, rectors and curats. The bishops tells the rectors to work and the curats have to do it. A curat is a thin married man but when he is a rector he gets fatter and can preach longer sermons and become a good man."

Loss of London Theatres.

It is estimated that London theatre managers have lost during one season no less than $400,000 in the production of plays that have been unsuccessful, and much of this amount on dramatic enterprises imported from the United States.

Blue Mountain Resorts.

In the Blue Mountains, three hours from Sydney, are many beautiful country houses, mostly bungalows with wide verandas all round, where Sydney people fly in February and March to get away from the heat of the city by the harbor.

NEW CRUSADERS IN AGRICULTURE

The University of California has discovered a new agency ready to its hand for the extension of its teachings in scientific agriculture. This agency is the ministry of the rural churches.

The idea of this co-operation came from the Rev. F. I. Drexler, a Baptist clergyman at Willows, Cal. Mr. Drexler was a country preacher who felt that the country church was largely a failure. In his effort to find a means to revive its influence, he recalled that the schoolmasters had brought about the regeneration of rural life in Denmark; why should the clergymen not bring about the regeneration of rural life in America, and, by the enthusiasm of that service, regenerate themselves and their churches as well?

He wrote to President Benjamin Ide Wheeler, of the University of California, explaining his idea. President Wheeler responded by issuing an invitation to the rural clergymen of the state to meet at the experiment farm at Davis to spend the first week of a university in a study of rural problems recent month as guests of the University in a study of rural problems. The railroad offered free transportation to all who would come.

Nearly five hundred clergymen accepted the invitation. They represented both Catholics and Protestants and almost every denomination. The students at the farm gave up their rooms in the dormitories to the visitors and slept in tents and hay mows. The week's study included lessons in rock judging and in many other practical aspects of rural life. But the session was especially devoted to explaining to the clergymen what facilities the University has that are always at their disposal in solving the economic and social problems of the country.

The results of the conference are that the preachers went home with a new conception of their mission to their congregations and with a new enthusiasm to carry it out; and that the University now has, in most rural communities, an intelligent and active friend, familiar with the people and their needs, who will spread the gospel of scientific agriculture—who will be, in effect, a field agent of the Agricultural College. The plan can hardly fail to be useful both to the churches and to the state.

Electric Plant in Arctic.

The first electric plant in the Arctic will be erected at the Episcopal Mission at Point Hope, Alaska, which is 100 miles north of the Arctic circle. The mission contains about 400 inhabitants. As the nights at Point Hope are six months in length the need of electric light is apparent. The electric generating apparatus will be driven by a large windmill, as the wind maintains an average velocity of 20 miles an hour at this place.

U. S. Great For Patents

The patents issued in the United States last year numbered 35,624; the number of patents that expired during the year amounted to 21,887. A curious feature of the annual report of Commissioner Ewing that gives these figures is the statement that delays in issuing patents are frequently desired by the persons who apply for them, and are opposed by the Patent Office. As an illustration of these delays patents, it is said that 79 applications still pending were first made fifteen years ago.

Aviator Dies Suddenly

At least one aviator who had made a reputation for daring has come to a peaceful end instead of dying by accident. Charles K. Hamilton is said to have had no less than sixty-three falls while practicing his profession, but his wiry frame and good luck combined to save him from serious hurt. His heart, however, was strained by his many hairbreadth escapes, and his recent death was the result of disease of that organ.

Snuff-taking seems to be declining in popularity, but the habit has by no means become extinct. An American company which deals in snuff recently paid 15 per cent on its $11,900,000 common stock, against about 16 per cent earned the previous year.

WANTS THE U. S. TO BUY ALL RAILWAYS

Washington, April 17.—Purchase of all the interstate railways in the United States government and their leasing for private operation; the building of 100 ships as an American merchant marine and the creation of a commission of 21 to supersede the interstate commerce commission in taking complete charge of banking, transportation and business were proposed in three bills introduced today by Senator J. Ham Lewis.

The Prince of Wales, according to plans now being made, is to make a world tour next year. The present arrangements provide for a visit to the United States and Canada.

YIELDED TO TEMPTATION.

In appealing for leniency for his client, who has pleaded guilty in the federal court on a charge of smuggling an ingenious and resourceful lawyer is represented as suggesting that the prisoner at the bar "should not be considered a smuggler, but simply a person who had yielded to the temptation of committing an infraction of the revenue laws." However much the vulgar smuggler may deserve punishment, there should evidently be no penalty whatever for so thoroughly respectable and distinguished a personage as "an infractor of the revenue laws." "Great are the resources of our capacious and delicately shaded mother tongue."

SINGULAR BLINDNESS.

Several conductors employed by a Western railroad company have been dismissed for returning unpunched tickets to the train agent, with whom the profit from repeated sales were divided. With such certainty is that sort of fraud detected that those who practice it show a singular blindness and disregard of self-interest, to say nothing about the Fifth Commandment.

Don't Miss Anything.

"Don't you think that young woman displayed considerable nerve in boarding that swiftly-moving trolley?" remarked Browne.

"I didn't particularly notice her nerve," replied Greene, absently.

Interesting Technicality.

He—So your sister was married to a man without any legs, eh?

She—Yes. Why, is there anything so very strange about that?

He—Oh, no; but I was only wondering who stood up for him.

JUMP ON A TRAIN-- COME TO DETROIT!

HERE IS A CHANCE OF A LIFETIME TO ATTEND, WITHOUT DOUBT,

THE GREATEST PIANO SALE ON RECORD

You have the same advantage as Detroiters! We'll make it easy for you to come because

We'll Pay Your Round Trip Fare

We have the best reason in the world for smashing Piano prices! We are compelled to move from our old store May 1st. Our new store won't be ready until September 15th—building is just being erected. Although we are comforted in the knowledge of having a fine home after Sept. 15th, we are "Up against it" in the meantime. You know it is some time from May 1st to Sept. 15th. We will have to rent a temporary show room, no doubt much too small for our large stock, until our building is completed. Rather than store any Pianos we prefer to give our customers the benefit of our disadvantage. We are not going to take a chance putting our Pianos "out in the street."

HIGHEST GRADE PIANOS ---- PRICES SMASHED

No excuse not to have a Piano at these prices! We're practically giving them away! Intelligent people understand our predicament and understand why we shoulder our loss instead of storing our stock.

Every One of the Pianos Listed Formerly Sold from = $225 to $550. Look at 'Em Now!
LYON & HEALY	$60	HUMBOLDT	$141	LUDWIG	$89
LIGHTS	$120	KREUTZER	$187	WEBBER	$47
SHEINHAEUER	$148	SWICK	$89	WAGNER	$84
GERHARD	$150	TEMPLETON	$172	MERRIAM	$177
HAMPTON	$148	H. P. NELSON	$185	EVERETT	$79
BEAUDOIR	$111	SCHROEDER	$166	COLUMBUS	$111

REMEMBER—Round-Trip Paid from Any Point in the State to Buyers for the Next 10 Days. Freight Fully Paid on Any Piano Selected. If You Can't Come at Once—Wire Reservations!

Guarantee! The Mammoth Story & Clark Organization is Back of Every Piano Sold. Our Guarantee is as Good in Years to Come as It is Today. Get Ready! Come!

Story & Clark Piano Co.

31-33-35 Grand River Ave. Detroit Mich.

Doubt Disappears

No. One in Northville Who Has a Bad Back Should Ignore This Double Proof.

Does your back ever ache? Have you suspected your kidneys? Backache is sometimes kidney ache.

With it may come dizzy spells, Sleepless nights, tired, dull days, Distressing urinary disorders, Doan's Kidney Pills have been endorsed by thousands.

Are recommended here at home? You have read Northville proof. Read now, the Northville sequel. Renewed testimony, tested by time.

G. B. Sinclair, retired farmer, High St., Northville, Mich., says: "Most of my trouble was from my kidneys. The kidney secretions contained sediment and passed too frequently. At night I would have to get up four to five times and the passages were accompanied by burning pains. I saw Doan's Kidney Pills advertised and I got a supply at Murdoch's drug store and they cured me. I am glad to confirm the statement I gave when they cured me as I haven't had any more kidney trouble."

Price, 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Sinclair had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y. 1—Advertisement.

MAKES NEW STRENGTH

When you find it is a tremendous task to complete your daily duties—constantly worried and losing flesh as a result—take Nyal's Nutritive Hypophosphites.

NYAL'S NUTRITIVE HYPOPHOSPHITES

Should be used in every instance where the system is weakened and where there is a lack of vitality, diminishing energy, and loss of appetite.

In convalescence, protracted fevers, grippe, bronchitis, coughs and affections of the lungs it is unequalled. That feeling of languor and weakness soon vanishes and, instead, there is strength.

1 Large Bottle for $1.00.

T. E. Murdock

DRUGGIST

NORTHVILLE, MICHIGAN.

Phone 247-J

DIAMOND DAIRY

NORTHVILLE'S MODEL DAIRY.

Everything in a strictly sanitary condition. All milk we sell is the product of our own dairy.

Our having fresh cows at all times of the year gives you a high standard of milk at all times. It is worth a few cents a week to know what you are getting.

WE ALWAYS AIM TO PLEASE.

G. C. BENTON, Proprietor.

PHONE 399 J.

MILK ROUTE

Will take orders for Cream and Sour Milk.

G. K. SCHOOF,

Proprietor.

DETROIT UNITED LINES

NORTHVILLE TIME TABLE

Northville to Farmington and Detroit—Also to Orchard Lake and Pontiac.

Cars leave Northville for Farmington and Detroit at 8:30 a. m. and hourly to 7:30 p. m.; for Orchard Lake and Pontiac only 11:15 p. m. for Farmington Junction only 12:30 a. m. Half hourly service Saturdays and Sundays between Detroit, Farmington Junction and Pontiac.

Northville to Plymouth, Wayne and Detroit. Through cars leave Northville for Detroit at 8:30 a. m. and hourly to 7:30 p. m.; 9:30 p. m. 11:20 p. m. Leave Wayne for Northville at 5:44 a. m., 8:44 a. m. and hourly to 8:44 p. m. also 8:44 p. m., 10:15 p. m. and midnight.

DETROIT NEWS ADS.

Detroit News Liner Ads received at the Northville Record Office.

WHAT THEY ARE PAYING.

The Northville Market corrected up to date:
Wheat—94c Red—94c
Oats—41c
Shelled Corn—70c
Hogs, live—$8.25
Dressed Hogs—$10.50
Lamb—$7.00
Veal Calves—$2 1/2 to 3.00 per lb.
Beef Hides—65c
Beef—17c Butter—25c

HAPPENINGS IN LOCAL SOCIETY

Gardening.

Green grass.

Fine weather.

Good automobilism.

New moon tomorrow.

Sharpen your lawn mower.

Fred Allen opened his new furniture store last Saturday.

It is asserted that Northville is threatened with a famine—in houses.

Lee Shipley has moved his barber business to the basement of the Huff building.

Francis Wilkinson has secured a position with the Edison Electric Co. of Detroit.

Mr and Mrs John Walker now occupy the Simmons house on Cady street vacated by C. A. McCullough and family.

After two weeks in quarantine as a patient and two weeks later as assistant nurse Peter Perkins is back to earth once more.

A suggestion for the new advisory board might be the abolition of the clouds of dust that sail through the streets when the wind "breaks up" a little.

Our neighboring Oakland county capital, Pontiac, is assuming metropolitan responsibilities of the right sort—crusades against vice, gambling and tuberculosis.

As one of the infallible signs of spring, "Hink" has invested in a spade and hoe, and has begun break-ground on the rear of his residence lot for the 1914 asparagus crop.

Mr and Mrs Charles Tibble (nee Miss Nellie Thompson, of this place) have bought a home in Northville and moved here from Detroit. Mr. Tibble is a machinist and has employment at the Stimpson factory here.

Wanted, to Rent, For Sale, Etc.

For Rent, For Sale, Lost Found. Wanted notices inserted under this head for 1 cent per word.

WANTED Woman to do general housework. Good wages. Call or address H. K. Ryan, Greenacres, Northville. On D. V. R. Rd. 1111.

FOR RENT Bath and garage. Apply or phone to Mrs. R. H. McKean, Northville. 3843c.

FOR RENT 14 Room house the Smith boarding house nearly finished. Phone 106-J. 38w2p.

LAKE Carlisle Washed and stretched in 10th city. Call 175-J. 38w2p.

FOR SALE Eggs for hatching from Mammoth White Pekin ducks and Buff Leghorns. Duck eggs, $1 per 11. Leghorn eggs, $1 per 15. Phone 67. Don Yerkes. 38w2p.

FOR SALE Two brood sows, with 15 pigs. J. W. Cole. 38w2p.

FOR SALE Lot on North Center St. Phone 345. 38w2p.

FOR SALE 10 Jersey Red Pigs, 7 weeks old. W. M. Bora. Phone 527-J. 38w2p.

FOR SALE—Good eight year horse on Center St. Phone 1215. 38w2p.

FOR SALE—1 good work horse and also heavy milk wagon. Apply to F. N. Perrin, Northville. 38w2p.

FOR SALE—Big bundles of newspapers, clean and nicely folded, 5c. Just right for shelves or to put under carpets. Record office, Northville. 38w2p.

FOR SALE—Few bundles of HEAVY wrapping paper, very large sheets. Just right to put under rugs or carpets. 5c and 10c. Record office, Northville. 38w2p.

FOR SALE—One acre, one-half mile from car line. Good nine room house; new furnace. Phone 248-2-R. Chas. Smock. 38w2p.

FOR SALE—Good young team 6 and 7 yrs old, wt. 3,000. F. L. Carpenter, Northville. 38w2p.

FOR SALE—Carload new milk cows—mostly Holsteins. Jay Leavenworth, Novi. Phone 310-2R. 38w2p.

PROFESSIONAL CARDS.

DR. P. K. ALEXANDER, DENTIST. Office over Stark Brothers Store. Hours 8 to 12 and 1 to 5. Phone 29. p13.

DR. T. B. HENRY, PHYSICIAN and Surgeon. Office and residence 31 Main street. Office hours 8:00 to 9:00 a. m. and 12:00 to 2:30 and 6:00 to 7:30 p. m. Phone No. 1.

DR. T. H. TURNER, HOMEOPATHIC Physician and Surgeon. Office next door west of Park House on Main street. Office hours 1:00 to 3:00 and 6:00 to 8:00 p. m. Telephone.

DR. D. B. HENRY, PHYSICIAN and Surgeon. Office, Lapham Savings Bank Bldg., Northville. Hours, 7 to 9 a. m.; 1 to 3 and 7 to 9 p. m. Telephone 24. 37w2p.

DR. BEEBE RUTH JEPSON, Osteopath. Graduate American School of Osteopathy, Kirksville, Wis. Northville Tuesdays and Saturdays. Detroit office, Suite 301—244 Woodward Ave. Northville office, Mrs. Frances Horton's, Main street. Phone 98-J. 37w2p.

KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS.

Regular Convention April 28. Work 2nd rank.

W. L. TINHAM, C. C.
C. B. Bristol, K. of R. & S.

Assault.

The tentative.

Musca Domestica.

In other words swat the fly.

If you kill the occasional early ones, there will be millions less of the numerous later ones.

Mr and Mrs Harry Weaver are the proud parents of a daughter, born Monday, April 20.

T. G. Richardson has purchased a new 1914 Oakland roadster with all the modern attachments. It's a beauty and will belong to Miss Lida soon as T. G.'s big 6 arrives.

The old-time mother used to wonder where her boy was. Now, according to Abe Martin, she has a grandson who wonders where his mother is.

How about band concerts this summer? "Isn't it about time something was done about it?" First thing you know there will be a warm Saturday evening and no band.

The new furniture and undertaking store in the Joslin building, on Main street, Fred Allen, proprietor, was opened for business Saturday. Mr. Allen and family occupy living rooms above the store.

If the "bake sale" business continues to be as lively as at present, the Record will have to adopt a regular department for the purpose of advertising the dates—like a base ball schedule, for instance.

A man named "Molasses" was arrested and fined in Detroit the other day for selling watered milk to the patrons of a restaurant of which he is proprietor. Needless to remark there must be some flies to swat in that eating establishment.

The May division of the Presbyterian Ladies' Aid society will hold a bake sale of cakes, bread, beans, etc., at Knapp's grocery store, Saturday, May 2, beginning at 10:30 a. m. They are a specialty. The April division will also have a sale of cakes at the same time and place.

Supt. of Public Works Cochran may solve the question of getting street work done now while there's no money in the treasury by ordering out the 6 commissioners with a broom each to sweep up the streets. See Sec. 22 of Chap. 1111 of the governing public utility commissions.

But Leroy Norton has again become a resident of this village, having purchased a house and lot on W. H. Amherst at the corner of Maple street and the B. & N. line. Mrs. Leaverworth was a Northville girl. Her husband is a doctor and is a folk who go away from home are pretty sure to want to stay.

Now we know why baldheaded men go to sleep in church. Ralph Dene, a senior electrical engineering student in the state university, has explained the phenomenon. He says the reason is that a glaring light before the eyes produces drowsiness, and men with bald heads and scant eyebrows are less protected from the light than others, or particularly than women, who wear their hair in a church. Now will some one tell us why men who are not bald headed go to sleep in church?

Where will you find a man always grateful, always affectionate, never selfish, pushing the abnegation of self to the utmost limits of possibility, forgetful of injuries, and mindful only of benefits received? Seek him not, it would be a useless task, but take the first dog you meet and from the moment he adopts you for his master you will find in him all these qualities. He will love you without calculation. His greatest happiness will be to be near you, and should you be reduced to beg your bread, not only will he aid you, but he will not abandon you to follow a kug to his palace. Your friends may quit you in misfortune, but your dog will remain, he will die at your feet, or, if you depart before him on the great voyage, he will accompany you to your last abode.

Dangers of a Cold.

Do you know that of all the minor ailments colds are by far the most dangerous? It is not the colds themselves that you need to fear, but the serious diseases that they so often lead to. For that reason every cold should be gotten rid of with the least possible delay. To accomplish this you will find Chamberlain's Cough Remedy of great help to you. It loosens a cold, relieves the lungs, aids expectoration and enables the system to throw off the cold. For sale by all dealers.—Advertisement.

TIGER GAMES OF BASE BALL

The Tigers play in Detroit with teams and dates indicated below:
April 17, with St. Louis.
April 28, 29, 30, with Chicago.
May 1, with Chicago.
June 1, 2, with Chicago.
June 3, 4, 5, with St. Louis.
June 6, 7, 8, 9, with Philadelphia.
June 10, 11, 12, 13, with Boston.
June 14, 15, 16, 17, with Washington.
June 28, with Cleveland.
June 29, 30, with Chicago.
July 1, with Chicago.
July 2, 3, 4, with Cleveland.
July 5, with St. Louis.
July 25, 26, 27, 28, with Philadelphia.
July 29, 30, 31, with Washington.
August 1, with Washington.
August 2, 3, 4, 5, with New York.
August 7, 8, 9, 10, with Boston.
Sep. 1, 5, 6, with St. Louis.

Catholic services will be held in Ambler's hall, Sunday morning at 8:00 o'clock, standard time.

Mrs. Fred Olm has sold her residence property on Plymouth Ave to Mrs. Elizabeth Morton.

Andrew Leadbeater has bought Mrs. Kate Yerkes' farm just north of town, and will move there in about a month.

The Edison Electric light people are here this week for the purpose of taking an inventory of the Northville plant.

Mr. Fox, of the Fox-Fildew Gas Co., who have been canvassing Plymouth for gas takers, has commenced working in Northville.

Alfred Noble at one time a resident of Northville, died in New York Tuesday. He was one of the world's greatest engineers.

Charles A. Ponsford has bought of Mrs. Grace Yerkes Dusenbury of Detroit, the building he occupies for his mercantile business.

Mrs. Minnie Johnson has sold her farm on the Plymouth road to Wm. Perkins of West Branch, Mich., Chas. Lecker negotiating the sale.

Ten water takers and two electric light consumers were cut off this week for delinquency in the matter of payment. All but one paid up and were re-connected.

If all goes well it is understood that quarantine will be lifted nearly all over town Saturday. Possibly Charles Mundy may not get out until the following week.

Orient Chapter, O. E. S. is to hold its annual installation next Friday evening, April 24. Each couple, and each single member of the order is privileged to invite one guest.

The Kings Dancers are to give an entertainment at the library next Friday evening, May 1, when the playlet, "An Irish Invasion" will be presented, in connection with a musical and variety program, which is sure to be an interesting light entertainment.

The Alpha division of the Northville High school seniors gave a four act drama "Uncle Jos" in the Plymouth opera house this Friday evening. Eleven members are in the cast, several of whom have had experience in previous plays. Henry's orchestra will furnish the music.

Much complaint is heard on all sides concerning the dust nuisance which seems less endurable than before. Oiling the streets proved so effective a remedy inasmuch as the business men are ready and willing to put up for the expense as has previously been done it would seem as if some provision should have been made before now by the council for doing away with what is not merely a disagreeable situation but a grave menace to public health.

Our attention has been called to the fact that we never saw a bald-headed woman. Well, what of that? There are a good many things we never saw. We never saw a woman sit on a drygoods box and surround herself with filthy pools of extract of tobacco sprayed through her teeth. We never saw one go fishing with a bottle of bait in her hip pocket, sit on the damp ground and go home drunk at night. We never saw a woman yank off her coat, give her pants a hitch, spit on her hands and swear she could whip the biggest man in town. Come to think of it, there are a good many things we never saw a woman do.

Excellent for Stomach Trouble. "Chamberlain's Tablets are just fine for stomach trouble," writes Mrs. G. C. Dunn, Arnold, Pa. "I was bothered with this complaint for some time and frequently had bilious attacks. Chamberlain's Tablets afforded me great relief from the first, and since taking one bottle of them I feel like a different person." For sale by all dealers.—Advertisement.

The Best in Banking Service is offered our Depositors.

LAPHAM STATE SAVINGS BANK.

NORTHVILLE, MICHIGAN.

VISIT OUR SALESROOM IT WILL PAY YOU.

THE POINT

UNLESS YOU INVESTIGATE YOU WILL NOT BE ABLE TO DECIDE AS TO THE REAL VALUE OF ADVANTAGES OFFERED BY US. WE ARE ANXIOUS TO PROVE TO THOSE WHO HAVE NOT DEALT WITH US; THUS WE INVITE YOU TO CALL AND GIVE OUR SAMPLES A CRITICAL LOOKING OVER.

NOTHING SATISFIES US TILL EVERYTHING SATISFIES YOU.

FRED H. ALLEN

Funeral Director. Lady Assistant. NORTHVILLE. Phone 220.

John D. Mabley

SAYS:

That how often I will be as proud of a Mabley suit as you were when you got your first pair of real top hats. And you'll be just as glad to pay the Mabley price as the boy will be to get the suit.

Mabley's Corner. DETROIT. Grand River and Griswold. Best $10 and $15 Men's Suits in the World.

Special!FOR SATURDAY, APRIL 25--ONLY

In the Large Hosiery Mills when a pair of Hosiery in the process of making, becomes Machine-Torn, from a Breaking Needle, etc., the Stocking is Neatly Mended before it is taken from the Machine. When a Quantity has accumulated, they are packed and sold as SECONDS. These Seconds are much sought by Merchants for Sale Purposes. We are Fortunate enough to have had a Case assigned to us. These we will Sell for ONE DAY ONLY—Saturday, April 25, all day, at 12 Cents per pair. See East Window.

Women Not Easily Fooled.

They have been buying "KAYSER" gloves for three generations with assurance of getting "glove satisfaction." "KAYSER" gloves "cost no more, than the ordinary kind," and are worth a dollar. "KAYSER" is the name, and a guarantee ticket in every pair. Each Glove—$2.75, $5.00. Long Gloves—$4.00, $12.00, $15.00.

Select Your Muslin Underwear from Our Big Stock, While the Assortments are Complete.

CHAS. A. PONSFORD

NORTHVILLE.

MICHIGAN.

WITH A MUSTANG'S HELP

By George B. Walker

Copyright, The Frank A. Munsey Company

Shorry Stricker, otherwise the Kid, twenty-four and ambitious, was the owner of about ten head of good bow ponies and champion bronco-buster of Nye county, Nevada. He now swung down from his mount and hitched across the sidewalk into the Palace saloon.

Taking his drink of raw red, he slouched over to the stove and was soon immersed in the Sunday news. Two grizzled old prospectors sat on the opposite side of the welcome heat, and finally the Kid gave up disgustedly, trying to read about the Russian countess who did such a series of alluring dances, and was endeavoring to give the public her secrets on beauty.

Such sentences as these were the cause of his abandoning the paper.

"I tell yer, Mike, that is the finest hoss I've seen out in the hills as long as I've been there. If he was caught, the feller what put the rope on him would get a nice little stake out of it."

"Wal, it sure is the best piece of hoss-flesh I ever seen, all right; but I don't think there's a puncher in this county who's slick enough to get the shy un. Why, three year ago, a crowd of fellers from the east heard about him, and tried to stalk him, usin' a whoppin' big outfit, an' he give them the he, ha!"

"I agree with you. Those kids what's doin' the ridin' act can ride all right, but they don't know nothin' about catchin' a horse like that one. Why, it takes a man like some—"

Shorry jumped out of his chair excitedly and, walking over to the two men, stood squarely in front of them. "Say, you old mossbacks," he exploded, "just because nobody's caught that Pine Ridge mustang yet, you needn't get the idea into your heads that there ain't no good men left in this country. I ain't took a chance at gettin' him; but if I do take one, I'll hook him onto my string."

Old Mike, the man who had spoken first looked up at him insolently. "That's pretty big talk, young feller, an' while I allow did respect a man who could talk big an' then make good, I ain't never had no use for the guy who is all bluff. You've got to show me."

The other oldtimer, who was slightly acquainted with Shorry, looked up at him.

"Mike's got it right, Kid, an' take it from me that hoss ain't goin' to be easy caught."

Kid's Irish was up, and he was not going to be downed by a couple of old groundrats, as he contemptuously called them to himself.

"Well, gentlemen," he spoke slowly so as to lend weight to his words, "you seem to think that I am one of them no 'counts an' quitters, but believe me I ain't in 'I an' goin' to make you a bet if I'll take me up."

As far as that goes, you fellers ain't found that rich horse yet, you've been talkin' about since last spring. Apparently there's more than one person around here what ain't made good," he quipped, remarked, and looked absently at the ceiling.

"Well let's have the bet," old Mike quickly interposed not desiring to have his failures brought to light and gleaning a possible bit of easy money.

"Is that your team standin' at the hitchin'-post?" Shorry asked.

They nodded.

"Wal," Shorry drawled, "I'll bet you half o' my string o' saddle animals, against them two poor little rats, that inside of a week I'll lead your wild terror right down the main street of this here town. If I didn't need the other half to stalk the bad hoss with I'd be willin' to bet them, too," and he spat derisively into the stove.

"You're on," the two old men chorused.

"You've got from this Sunday until next to do that leadin' stunt," old Mike threw after him as the Kid walked out of the saloon.

"You an' I'll do it," Shorry called back as he swung into the saddle and galloped up the street.

Three days elapsed, and the morning of the fourth found Shorry hard on the mustang's trail.

The day before he had cleverly dug a pit in the ground, and, making a running noise in his riata, led the free end of it to the hole. Staking Peg, his saddle animal, near by, along with two other mares, he got into the hiding place to await developments. All of these preparations were in the immediate vicinity of the mustang's spring, in a good-sized canyon.

For half a day he sweated in the hole, which was far too small for the slightest degree of comfort, waiting for something to happen.

Suddenly Peg threw up her head and flickered, and, glancing carefully from his concealment, Shorry saw that the other two horses were standing with their ears picked forward.

Well, here he comes at last, Shorry told himself triumphantly. "An' now, where I come pretty close to gettin' him."

Sure enough, it was the wild horse coming for his daily water.

Shorry again invited him to come, and, whatever doubts he had because him to pause were dissipated, he walked directly into the immediately Stricker snapped it shut and jumped from the hole the better to fight him. He was caught by the forefoot, and Shorry already considered the bet surely won.

Jumping into the air, the wild animal came down stiff-legged.

Thereupon the cow-puncher threw a twist for the hind legs and missed. Trembling with terror, the horse went into the air again; and Shorry, with a heavy pull on the rope, threw him to his side. Leaping and squealing with rage, the animal got again to its feet, when, in another endeavor to throw him, the rope, weakened where the hoofs hit it, gave way.

Shaking his head, the erstwhile captive deliberately kicked Peggy and sailed off in a fine, reaching gallop, followed by the three mares.

Shorry stood helpless with the end of the rope in his hand.

"Wal," he spoke aloud, "if that ain't the doggonedest I ever seen or heard tell of. The son-of-a-gun broke the stake-ropes on all o' them when I was fightin' him, an' then this here rope broke, an' he sails off with the bunch in tow."

And, throwing the saddle over his shoulder, he plugged eleven weary miles back to camp.

Arriving here, he found that all his other stock was loose, and for the latter half of the day he had the questionable pleasure of trying to catch them. At last, after many attempts, he managed to rope Daffy, the tamest, and, saddling him, tried to get the others.

They disappeared in the gathering darkness, and when Shorry turned in for the night, the last thing he heard was a heavy neigh of, what seemed to him to be, derision, and knew that it could come from the throat of one horse only.

In the morning, after a slight breakfast, he saddled Daffy and took up the trail again.

Rounding a small sand-dune an hour later, he found that he had come out right among the animals.

"Now," he yelled, "I've got a fair chance with you. That shoulder of yours must be some sore today, an' on a horse like Daffy you're sure goin' to be easy pickin'."

Although his shoulder was sore, and he ran with a limp, the wild horse managed to keep just out of range of Shorry's rope, which was ready for instantaneous use.

Clear to the hills, twelve miles, he led the man on horseback, and then, plunging into one of the canyons, continued to forgo ahead. Stricker, on his grain-fed horse, slowly gained, and when about thirty yards away, uncoiled and straightened his riata, secure in the certainty of his capture.

Suddenly his mount pitched forward, its forefoot breaking through the shallow crust of the alkali covering an old badger hole, and he distinctly heard a hoarse snarl.

Scrambling to his feet he threw a shot after the rapidly disappearing cause of his misfortune, and cursed long and heartily. Walking back to the helpless pony, he stood for a moment in doubt. Shaking himself together he spoke decisively.

"Daffy, old boy, you've seen your last round-up. Gosh I hate to about you but I guess there's nothin' else to do."

Stepping back from the suffering animal he pulled his gun and fired twice.

Leaping about in its death struggle Daffy kicked a large stone wildly and Shorry stopped his flight with his shin, unwillingly.

Seating himself, he began a vigorous massage of the injured limb at the same time ruminating over his bad luck.

"Gosh!" he muttered, gazing blankly at the ground in front of him. "I was sure some fool to make that bet with them two old ground-rats and then brag about it. Gee! they'll sure have a life time with me when I get into town empty-handed an'—"

His eyes had rested for an instant on the stone that had hit him, at first, with no recognition, but suddenly with full comprehension. Jumping forward, he picked it up and looked carefully at the specimen. Apparently satisfied, he held it at arm's length and spoke in a reverently superstitious manner.

"An' I was just goin' to yell about all the bad luck that I've had," whereupon he fell to and feverishly started the erection of a pile of stones.

III

In town, old Mike and his partner watched the end of the week draw near with growing satisfaction. Rumors of the bet between the two old men and the champion "buster" of the county had spread rapidly, and the town was split up into two factions—those with money on Shorry, and those betting on the old men.

Sunday morning, odds were given against the younger man; and by three in the afternoon it was generally accepted that he had lost. Nevertheless, the crowd hung about the main street, anxious to be in at the finish.

Finally a much bedraggled figure carrying a saddle came around the corner.

"That he is!" a voice shouted. "An' he ain't got no hoss with him."

There was a simultaneous rush, and Shorry was piled with numerous questions, all of which he waved aside until comfortably seated at the lunch counter in the Palace.

Between bites he gave them the story of his failure.

"An' I guess that about proves that you lose and we win," old Mike grinned complacently when he had finished.

"Yep," the young man rejoined.

You win that bet, all right; but I beat you to something a whole lot better. "You what?" the other asked, drawing back in surprise.

Stricker carefully drew his hand across his mouth, turned in the chair, and faced him.

"Ain't you always been lookin' for the ledge what that rich fella you found last year come from?"

"Sure."

"Wal, I just happened to find it about two miles up the canyon from your claims," and for corroboration he drew from his pockets a handful of specimens.

Breathlessly the crowd inspected them; then Nichols, the "barkeep," broke the awed silence.

"Wal, Mike," he decided, voicing the crowd's attitude, "you won the bet, but if them's fair specimens, the Kid has sure beat you to the ledge." Then, turning to Shorry:

"What did you name it?" he asked. "Why, I called the claim the Wild Hoss, seen' as how he led me to it. Aint that some luck, though?"

"It is," the other agreed tersely. "Blind luck, blind luck," old Mike growled to himself as he turned away with the realization that Fate had again played him false.

"MISTAKEN KINDNESS.

Occasionally one hears of an effort made here or there to encourage simplicity in school girls' dress. It usually occurs at commencement time when a class magnanimously agrees to appear in something akin to homespun. In general, however, the matter is allowed to regulate itself; girls in the schools wear what their mothers permit.

And, generally speaking, there is a good deal of silliness shown by these same mothers of school girls. Many of them appear to think their own standing in the community depends on the quantity of finery with which they drape their daughters. It is sometimes charged that young women dress too little, in the interests of morality and common sense; in many cases, on the contrary, they dress too much.

Mothers who offend good taste in these respects are distinctly accomplishing two purposes—making themselves appear ridiculous and doing their daughters an injury. They are raising false standards in the minds of girls at an impressionable age when such standards will do the greatest possible harm. They are accumulating their daughters to a scale of expenditure for personal adornment which the girls will find extremely difficult to maintain when they have to depend on their own or their husbands' purses a few years hence.

It is usually the women with the smallest resources who insist on making fashion plates of their daughters in school. By so doing, of course, they betray their lack of good sense, in trying to impress others with their own importance, they unwittingly expose their parents' both of refinement and resource.

The public school is the hope of democracy in America. Snobbishness has no proper place in it. It is not because of the over-dressed girl whose mother bestows upon her the supposed, but mistaken kindness of dressing her in the fashion of a queen. Such evidence of personal extravagance is a demoralizing influence upon the girl and upon the schools.

"THE FOUNDATION OF THE STATE"

We perceive that the acceptance of universal and authoritative general principles is necessary to the normal development of the State, and that revolt against them is essentially a repudiation of the State-idea. Whence, then, are these principles to be derived?

It is clear that they cannot be derived from the idea of power alone. It is equally clear that they cannot be derived from the merely personal motives from which men act, for these, being of a private character, can have no public authority. The source of authority, if found at all, must, therefore, be sought in something deeper and more worthy of respect than either the mere power to enforce obedience of the merely personal motives of individual men.

Happily, we do not need to go beyond the limits of human personality to find such a source of authority; a source of authority superior not only to the will of individuals, but to the will of the majorities. However we may explain its origin, there is in every human being capable of social organization a conception of justice as a principle wholly apart from personal desires or volitions. Attending this conception there is a sentiment of obligation to respect this principle regardless of personal interest or advantage. It is this that renders men fitted for human society, and makes possible the organization of the State as the embodiment of public authority.

Respect for the State depends upon insistence that the right of appeal to the principles of justice, upon which it is founded, should never be withheld from any, even the smallest minority, who feel that they have reason for making that appeal. Free speech, a free press, and freedom from every sort of intimidation are essential to a normal political development. The true patriot must, therefore, be a man without fear. The most important question is the attitude of the citizen toward the State.—David Jayne Hill, in The North American Review.

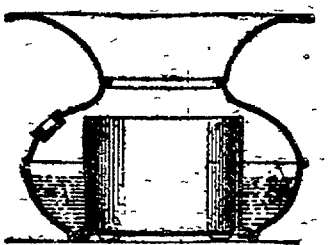

Fuel may be high; still this is a better world than the one in which there is nothing but fuel.

A girl with dimples will laugh at every fool thing a man says.

KILLS CONSUMPTION GERM.

Cuspidor Has Compartment for Containing Disinfectant.

Right in line with the nation-wide war against tuberculosis is the cuspidor invented by a New Jersey man. It may not be a pleasant subject, Inner Shell Removable.

but it is too vital a one to be ignored. This cuspidor is made with a removable inner shell directly under the mouth, and the chamber surrounding the shell is to be filled with some disinfectant. The fumes of the disinfectant, arising continually, destroy any tuberculosis germs that may become lodged in the inner shell and materially reduce the danger of contracting the dread disease. One change of formaldehyde, for instance, will last nearly a week, but the inner shell should be removed and cleaned daily. The same principle can be used in destroying germs in garbage cans or other receptacles where disease is apt to breed. When human lives are at stake the construction of even so humble an article as the cuspidor is a very proper subject for consideration.

Weed Destroyer.

A most ingenious implement for destroying weeds has been invented by a Washington man. A rod has a sharp metal point at one end and a reservoir extending out from it just above this point, which is hollow and has an opening at the bottom. The reservoir has a discharge spout leading into the hollow point and a rubber bulb, by means of pressure on which the contents of the reservoir are discharged through the spout. The reservoir is filled with tobacco juice or some other liquid that will kill plant life. The gardener then inserts the point at the root of a weed and presses on the rubber bulb with his foot. An injection is thus squirted on the roots of the weed which soon kills it. Compare this method with the laborious system of pulling weeds up, one by one and tearing up the turf into the bargain—to say nothing of wear and tear on the only back you'll ever have.

Both Quick and Effective

Use for Tomato Seeds.

The seeds of the tomato have been regarded as a waste material around the canneries, and the problem has been to get rid of the accumulation economically, but a valuable function of the tomato seed has been recently discovered in Italy, where the oil from it is said to have been found especially desirable in the manufacture of varnish. This oil has the quality of drying rapidly and has other superiorities.

Finger Print Experiment.

A Colorado professor took finger prints from the fingers of his daughter when she was born, 16 years ago, and has taken them every year since. A comparison of these prints by experts shows that there has been absolutely no variation or change in the markings of the fingers since birth. And yet all the investigations have failed to show any two persons in the world whose finger markings were precisely alike.

Finding Pearls With Roentgen Rays.

According to a report from our consul in Birmingham, England, a suggestion was recently made that Roentgen rays be used to ascertain whether an oyster contains pearls. In this way, it will be unnecessary to open the oyster's shell and destroy the oyster, unless it contains pearls. If the Roentgen rays show that there are no pearls present, the oyster will be put back into the water where it may continue to grow.

A Giant Radiator.

At Dresden there is what is claimed to be the largest radiator in the world. This radiator is intended for the motor of an airplane of 300-horsepower, and is made entirely of aluminum. With an hourly capacity of 8868 gallons it radiates 288,000 calories per hour, while 1,690,000 cubic feet of air pass through it. The weight is 145 pounds empty and 209 pounds when full of water.

In 1860 the State of Minnesota had a population of 170,000, and not a foot of railroad within its borders.

"THE GREAT STAKES" IN CHURCH UNITY.

In the plans for church unity there are several of the churches that make the condition of general acceptance of their chief tenet. They begin their plans for unity by starting as acceptable to them the principles on which all orthodox churches are agreed, as the Bible, the Apostles' Creed, and then offer their own peculiar tenet. As Dr. Ward puts, "They begin with infinity and end in a squirrel hole."

Assume for a moment that the other millions of Christians in this country agree to enter "the squirrel hole," and imagine the triumph of that church party that has gained its point. Imagine the scenes that would follow. Imagine the twenty millions or more of the Protestant Christians of America, people who have been building and supporting churches and sending the Gospel throughout the earth, hosts of the representatives of all that is best in the nation and its history, coming to the feet of the triumphant party, to be readmitted into the Church of Christ by duplicated rites, as if they had never before been fittingly received into the Body of Christ, and thousands of pastors, who are now in the front of the battle, being regarded as if they before had never been real ministers of Christ.

But so long as any party insists on its own own characteristic tenet, union, if it comes, means the triumph of that tenet, victory of that party. The rest follows inevitably.

In case any one party should succeed by winning over all the other millions to its chief tenet, and all our Protestant Christians were merged in one vast church, with that peculiar tenet triumphant, could there arise in this land a spiritual tyranny?

In the consideration of any or all movements toward the union of the churches in our land, we cannot too seriously realize that there are at issue great stakes.—Calvin Dill Wilson, in The North American Review.

"REGULATION BY COMMISSION"

The spread of regulation of business by administrative commissions is one of the most marked and important politico-economic developments in the United States in this generation. The policy was first applied by a few States to railways. It has now been adopted as to railways by the Nation and most of the States, and has been extended by several States to public utilities of many kinds.

The true theory of regulation by commission seems to be this: The management of public utilities should be left in the hands of the owners or those that they choose to represent them. The regulating commissions should be made strong enough in personnel and statutory power to exercise corrective authority over the management when the acts of the management are unreasonable and unjust to the public. And such commissions having been created, they should be left free to perform their duties without interference from the public or any public body except the courts, and then only when it can be shown that the commissions have exceeded their constitutional authority in a manner plainly unreasonable and unjust to the concerns over which their jurisdiction extends. The success of regulation probably will be in proportion to the consistency, fairness, and integrity with which we carry out these principles.

The doctrine that regulating commissions or other administrative bodies should be given any arbitrary power over public utilities is simply the doctrine that the property rights of the owners of public utilities should not be given the same protection as the property rights of other persons. It is a doctrine that seems inherently wrong and unjust; at least it is one that, the Supreme Court has condemned as unconstitutional. On the other hand, the decisions of the courts leave an ample field for administrative regulating commissions to work in and to accomplish all of the great good which, with a suitable personnel and large powers, it is practicable for them to accomplish.—Samuel O. Dunn, in The North American Review.

Only one person in 100 inhabitants of Great Britain owns more than an acre of land.

Divers are now equipped with a telephone, so they are at all times in communication with the surface.

Forty-four States have adopted an age limit for working children; thirty-six prohibit night work by children and forty-two have fixed a maximum number of hours as a working week for children.

India's methods of storing grain are still very ancient and inadequate. The first modern grain elevator in all that great peninsula is yet to be finished in the Punjab province.

Courtship in Bohemia often lasts fifteen years.

Beer-drinking dogs are quite common in Germany.

Abraham Gush of Brooklyn, N. Y., blind, has invented a system of shorthand writing for the use of the blind.

About 42,000 persons are engaged in the manufacture of musical instruments in this country.

There are fifty-five species of oak trees in the United States, about evenly divided between the East and the West. The eastern species, and particularly white oaks, are the most valuable.

Peanuts for Americans

Popcorn or peanuts—which is the favorite gastronomic consolation or resource of Young America in its hours of sadness or gladness? Peanuts, it seems, have a large majority of the votes, for 20,000,000 bushels of peanuts are produced annually as against only 1,000,000 bushels of popcorn. But together these delectable delicacies are headliners at the 1,000 amusement parks and 1,500 county fairs of the United States. Peppercorn has now also found a market, it is said, on the boulevards of Paris.

NO REASON FOR IT

You Are Shown a Way Out.

There can be no reason why any reader of this who suffers the tortures of an aching back, the annoyance of urinary disorders, the pains and dangers of kidney ills will fail to heed the word of a resident of this locality who has found relief. The following is convincing proof.

Mrs. Lloyd Swarts, 302 Third St., Monroe, Mich., says: "For quite awhile I had been troubled by kidney weakness. My head ached, I had pains through my loins and was nervous and dizzy. When I stooped over, sharp pains darted through the small of my back. I saw Doan's Kidney Pills advertised and asked different people about them. Everyone said that they were good and I began taking them. They soon relieved me of the trouble. It is a pleasure to recommend Doan's Kidney Pills to anyone who has kidney trouble."

Price 50¢ at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Swarts had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

FOR SALE

Bakery and Ice Cream Parlor for sale in good live town.

Hoeflinger Bros., Bellevue, Mich.

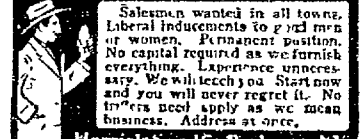

EYE, EAR, NOSE AND THROAT SPECIALIST.

Eyes tested—For Glasses FREE

G. SAMTER, M. D.

114 Gratiot Ave., Corner Brush

Detroit, Mich.

HOLSTEIN CATTLE

In the next 30 days I will offer for sale 200 head of high-grade Holsteins, Belford running in age from one to three years old, a number of them springing bag to freshen now well marked, and in good condition. They will run 7/8 and 15/16 Holstein and are bred to registered bulls. Will also offer 100 head of fully developed, heavy milking cows, part of them fresh, and balance due to freshen soon. Also have a head of registered and high-grade bulls, no relation to the above cows or heifers. I will have a few choice heifer and bull calves to offer in the near future, that are 15/16 and 21/32 Holstein at $15.00 each. First draft takes them.

Write me for particulars. JAMES DORSEY, Dept. P. P., Gilberts, Kane County, Illinois.

Wanted 500 Baby Rabbits

Large or Small

Any Color

When in Toledo, don't miss

HENRY WERSELL

THE LEADING BIRD STORE.

Dealer in imported canaries, Mexican parrots, pigeons, dogs, rabbits, gold fish, bird cages and imported seed. Pet stock in general. Poultry supplies, remedies for dogs and poultry.

We board your pets and birds. Mounting of birds and animals. GOODS SOLD ON COMMISSION. Bell Phone Main 2880.

608 Summit Street, TOLEDO, O.

To Pipe Smokers

BAGLEY'S WILD FRUIT FLAKE CUT CHWING AND SMOKING TOBACCO

We Are Independent

and have no one to please but our customers. We have been making this grade smoking tobacco for more than half a century and "Wild Fruit" is our best effort. It is Union Made. Packed in five cent foil packages, ten cent cellophane, eight and sixteen ounce tins. Premium courses in all packages. Should you fail to find the "Wild Fruit" in your dealer's stock, send us five cents in postage stamps and we will mail you an original package.

Jno. J. Bagley & Co., Detroit, Mich.

Puddings

Yorkshire Pudding

Three-fourths pint of flour, three eggs, one and one-half pints of milk, pinch salt, one and one-half teaspoons baking powder. Sift flour and powder together, add eggs beaten with milk, stir quickly into rather thinner batter than for griddle cakes, pour into dripping pan plentifully greased with beef drippings; bake in hot oven 25 minutes. Serve with roast beef.

Cherry Pudding

Put alternate layers of canned cherries and broken almond macaroons in pudding dish. Add a small baked custard. On top of this put a meringue made of whites of two eggs, and sweeten. Set in oven and brown.

Lemon Collage Pudding

Cream one-half cup of sugar with one tablespoonful of butter, add yolk of one egg and one-half cup of sweet milk. Grate rind of one lemon into one cup of flour and one teaspoon of baking powder. Add this to above mixture and beat well. Bake one-half hour. Sauce: One-half cup of sugar, white of one egg, beaten stiff; add juice of one lemon. This will serve five people.

Nut Pudding

Two cups of flour, two teaspoonfuls of baking powder, and one-half teaspoonful salt, sifted together. Then add one-half cupful of granulated sugar, add one cupful of milk to two eggs well beaten. Stir this into the dry mixture and add one-third of a cupful of melted butter, beat well. Stir into this one and one-half cupfuls of nut meats of your own choice. (I prefer hickory nuts). Steam three hours. Serve with a sauce, as follows: One and one-half cupfuls of sugar and three-fourths of a cupful of water, dissolve and boil to a thread as for fudge. Have ready the well beaten yolks of three eggs. Then add gradually the hot syrup over the eggs, stirring briskly. Set aside in ice water to cool, stirring constantly. Add flavoring to taste. Before serving, on the pudding blend carefully two cupfuls of whipped cream.

Prune Pudding

Wash one-half pound of prunes, add two cupfuls of cold water and let stand one hour. Let simmer until prunes are soft. Remove stones, add to meat from the stones, and add to prunes. Add one and one-half cupfuls of boiling water and a cupful of sugar, also stick cinnamon to taste. Let simmer five minutes. Dissolve one tablespoonful of cornstarch in three tablespoonfuls of cold water, add to prunes, and stir till thick, about five minutes. Remove cinnamon, turn mixture into a mold, and chill. Serve with whipped cream.

Steamed Pudding With Fruit

One and one-half cupfuls of milk, three-fourths cupfuls of sugar, four tablespoonfuls of butter, one small teaspoonful of salt, three eggs, three cupfuls of flour and three teaspoonfuls of baking powder. Mix powder thoroughly with the flour, add sugar, milk, yolk of eggs beaten lightly, butter melted, and lastly fold in white of eggs. Into molds put a layer of batter, then a layer of fruit until two-thirds full, having dough on top. If canned fruit is used, drain off juice and mix with sweetened whipped cream for sauce.

Masked Apples

Take as many finely flavored apples as desired. Pare, core, and steam until tender. One teaspoonful of lemon juice over each apple. Powder with sugar and put in a cool place to chill.

Make one pint of boiled custard, flavor with lemon, add one tablespoonful of gelatin dissolved in the hot custard and strain.

Take as many small sponge cakes or macaroons as apples, dip in lemon juice and arrange with apples on top. Fill the cavities of the apples with shredded coconut and chopped dates.

Pour the custard over the apples. Whip whites of eggs stiff and dry, sweeten, flavor with lemon and heap on custard. Place in oven until the meringue is firm. Serve the dessert cold with black coffee.

Jellied Prunes

Stew about two dozen large prunes and when cold remove the stones. Take the same amount of almonds, blanch and brown them and put one in each prune. Take half a tea-cupful of gelatin and put over it just enough cold water to cover.

Heat the juice the prunes were cooked in, measure one pint and pour over the gelatin; have the juice boiling hot. Add half a cupful of sugar and the juice of three lemons, strain and pour over the prunes.

Put this in a mold and when served, cut a piece from the center and fill with whipped cream, or use for a salad with mayonnaise dressing.

Hot Chocolate Sauce

One tablespoonful of melted butter, one and one-half squares unsweetened chocolate; stir till chocolate is melted, then add one cup of sugar, few grains of salt, and one-third cup of boiling water. Boil 12 or 15 minutes till consistency of thick syrup, remove from fire, and add one half teaspoonful of vanilla.

Cleaning

Cleaning Tatting

Soak the pieces in gasoline and while wet dust with cornstarch. Wrap them in a clean towel and leave for several hours. Beat the towel lightly, lift out the lace and shake it free from the starch. Press the pieces into shape and iron lightly on the wrong side.

To Renew Leather

Wash well in warm water, but no soap. Apply dull black varnish and rub it in thoroughly while wet with a fannel cloth. Polish with a dry cloth. This restored a badly worn sofa.

Iron Rust

Boil a cupful of rice in two quarts of water for thirty minutes. Let it stand over night and strain through cheesecloth. Soak the iron rust spots in the rice water for four or five hours and rinse in clear water. This will remove iron rust of long standing.

Iron holders made from a piece of asbestos the desired size and covered with drilling or heavy unbleached muslin are light and keep out heat. There should be a ring or loop to one corner by which to hang the holder when not in use.

Beaded Waist

Put two cupfuls flour into one quart gasoline and stir well; leave the waist in this for a couple of hours, shake and stir around, but do not rub; give a second bath of clear gasoline, put a clean corset cover on a form or pillow, stretch waist on this to dry, then brush with a soft brush to take out any remaining flour. You will find your waist like new and the beads safe and bright. The seams only need pressing.

Delicate Fabrics

Melt a bar of white family soap in boiling hot water, pour in as much soap as you have clothes. Use plenty soap as it will not hurt clothes. Soak soiled clothes in warm water half an hour wring out and drop in suds, then press lightly with wooden pounder, or use a wire potato masher; let clothes remain in suds half hour, wring out suds and rinse thoroughly, put in light bluing water and dry.

Handy Salad Dressing

Take the yolks of four eggs, two tablespoonfuls of flour, one-half cupful of oil of sugar and milk, four teaspoonfuls of salt, one teaspoonful of pepper, a dash of cayenne, butter the size of an egg and two teaspoonfuls of mustard mix thoroughly and cook to the consistency of a boiled custard. In the meantime have on the stove a cupful of cold vinegar. Pour boiling vinegar into the custard, stirring constantly until thoroughly mixed. This will keep a month and is handy when company comes in unexpectedly. Thin it a little with either sweet or sour cream and add more sugar, salt or pepper according to the kind of material used for the body of the salad. It makes good chicken, lobster, shrimp, cabbage, lettuce, and potato salad and used with leftover scraps of boiled ham makes nice sandwiches.

Wallpaper

Now that the days of house cleaning are at hand see to it that the old wallpaper is removed and that the walls are thoroughly washed and made free from disease germs before refinishing. This is conceded to be absolutely necessary for the safeguarding of the public health, as epidemics have been traced to germs which had lingered in old wallpaper for months.

WITH Dainty FRILLS

This blouse is made of fine white voile with a square yoke and all seams are finished with a beading, carefully done.

The narrow vest front is of net, like the frills on neck and sleeves, and the closing is with tiny pearl-buttons. It is trimmed at the side of the vest, under the ruffle.

Alfalfa Not Suited to All Soils on Farm.

Many farmers have been led through the excitement produced by alfalfa trains, and other promotion methods, to plant alfalfa when they never should have attempted it, according to specialists of the department of agriculture.

The department, while it is helping farmers to cultivate alfalfa by preparing bacterial cultures, is also cautioning its demonstration agents to teach the farmers to grow alfalfa where it is desirable to have it taught, and where there is promise of success. These demonstration agents are particularly warned not to encourage individual farmers to grow alfalfa unless the climate and other conditions and the soil of the special farm fully warrant the experiment which involves an investment for seed and cultivation, and if the crop is not successful means a waste of the land over a growing season.

Before becoming a pioneer in alfalfa raising in his district, the farmer would do well to consult with his state experiment station and gain all possible information that will help him to make a success.

TRIMMED WITH FLOWERED RIBBON

Upon a foundation of white dotted lace and silk is draped a tunic of pale rosebay chiffon, a mesh of this material being draped loosely around the figure and tied in a novel manner with a single end showing in front. The ribbon on the waist is white, edged with black, and is figured in a rose design. In the back the ribbon follows a square outline at the shoulders and runs straight across, just above the sash. A single rose is worn.

WIRED RIBBONS

The much-desired floating effect is obtained with ribbons by clever wiring which holds them in graceful upward curves.

The hats sketched here are all made on foundation shapes. The upper one is of white silk, faced with black velvet and trimmed with flowered ribbon and wooden beads. Below it is a black hat made of mouseline with a yellow velvet ribbon.

The rose hat is pink flowers of varying size. A graceful knot of lilac and gold-shaded ribbon floats upward from the side front.

Married Life. Second Year.

"HELEN! Helen!" Warren opened the bathroom door a few inches and called out angrily. "Get me a bath towel!"

Helen hurriedly brought a towel and handed it to him.

"Why on earth can't you keep bath towels in the bathroom?" as he slammed the door.

For several minutes there was loud splashing of water and then Warren emerged in his bath robe.

"And why, under heavens, don't you get some bath soap? There's a piece in there about the size of a bird's egg. And there's never enough towels. Why don't you look after things better?"

Helen did not answer with her usual eager apologies, but said rather coldly:

"I'm sorry the bathroom wasn't in order; but I can't do everything."

"Can't do everything?" he fumed. "Why you've got all day with nothing to do as far as I can see."

"Nothing to do, with the baby and the marketing and the house and Della to look after?"

"Oh, that's nothing. You've got Della's do-all-the-work. You've only to see that she does it."

Without answering, Helen rose and was leaving the room when Warren flared out again:

"Here, you've been using my brush! Haven't I told you to leave my brush alone?"

"You shaved by my dresser this morning because the light was better. And when I wanted my brush you said not to come near you! So I used yours." Helen answered still more coldly.

"Well, at least you should have the decency to clean it out."

"I was just doing that when you called for the towels. Then Della called me into the kitchen and I forgot it."

There was something in her cool, quiet indifference to his fuming that was most unusual and disconcerting. "What's come over you?" he demanded. "Aren't you a rather high and mighty lady this morning?"

"No, I think not" quietly.

He was standing before the mirror and now their eyes met in the glass. His were full of angry excitement and hers were quiet and slightly contemptuous. He wheeled around in a fury and yet at a loss for any tangible excuse for his rage.

"So you think you are going to carry things with a high hand this morning, eh?"

But Helen had gone out and closed the door. He rushed after her and threw it open.

"That's your method of ending a conversation, is it? Now, you will just listen until I'm through."

"Don't you think you are sure a sufficient amount of your of last night's out anything under this morning?"

"Spectacle of myself last night," he roared.

"Yes, when I had invited Mr. Farrell for dinner and you came home half intoxicated and disgraced us both."

"Oh, I did! did I?" he sneered. "And you wanted Farrell here anyway? I told you he was a damned chump!"

"And I told you that Will Farrell and I had been friends since we were children, and I wished him to see my home and my husband. He always wanted to marry me and I was foolish enough to want him to believe I was happy."

"Oh, he wanted to marry you, did he? Well, it's a damned pity he didn't."

"Yes, I think so too, now."

"Oh, you do, do you?" He stepped toward her almost threateningly, the brush still in his hand. "So you wish you'd married him, do you?"

"When you're like this, I think I do," deliberately.

"Well, it may not be too late yet, you know," with concentrated fury. "What do you say to that—eh?"

"What would you like for me to say?"

His rage was beyond words. Here his rage at her coolness was beyond words. He could only clench his teeth and glare at her. Whatever expression his wrath might have found was averted by Della's appearing with the announcement.

"There's something the matter with the range." And Helen followed her out into the kitchen.

With a muttered oath Warren turned back into his room and finished dressing with unwonted haste, scowling fiercely all the while.

Then he grabbed up his hat and coat and, without waiting for his breakfast, slammed out of the apartment.

Baby Scales

A suitable gift for the new baby is a pair of scales topped by a tiny white wicker couch on which to place the infant. The couch is padded with a soft silk quilt in pink or blue and trimmed with satin ribbon. The scales below mark the exact weight, minus the few ounces of the couch. With such a device at hand there will be no difficulty in ascertaining the baby's daily increase in weight.

Norway Pudding

Need a cupful of tapioca, one-tumbler of currant jelly, half a cupful of sugar, one tablespoonful of lemon juice, three cupfuls of boiling water and a half teaspoonful of salt. Put the tapioca into a saucepan with the boiling water, and allow to soak for three hours. Cook in the same water until transparent.

Important Announcement For Our Readers Illustrated Fashion Hints

Secured from New York each week, will be a new feature of special interest hereafter to the feminine readers of this paper.

Up-to-date Baseball Briefs

Will interest the men who follow the doings of the big leagues.

And Everyone will be interested in the following solution of

The Mysterious Monogram

Which is a very new serial story secured at great expense. Watch for the opening chapters NEXT WEEK.

100 Beautiful Silk Pieces for 25c
(Money returned if not satisfied)
All kinds of silks by the yard
at a saving of 20%
NATIONAL SILK CO.
213 Woodward Ave. Detroit, Mich.

FREE

Sample Bottle of COOLO

Best Toilet Article Made Takes the Place of Cold Cream and Toilet Water

WOMEN PRAISE IT'S MERITS

Coolo is absolutely free from grease. It removes every particle of dirt from the pores and instead of enlarging the pores as most face creams do, it reduces them; thus giving the skin a smooth, velvety appearance. One of the most striking features of Coolo is that it will not encourage the growth of hair on the face.

MEN USE IT AFTER SHAVING

An application of Coolo after shaving leaves a cool, pleasant and healing sensation. Men find it indispensable.

WRITE FOR FREE SAMPLE
ORIENTAL CREAM COMPANY
DETROIT, MICH.

You must have Shakespeare

Why not get the best and lowest priced?

BOOKLOVERS' EDITION

20 Volumes—7,000 Pages—400 Pictures

SHAKESPEARE—Shakespeare, who delighted Thomas Jefferson and inspired Edwin Booth—Shakespeare, about whose Hamlet more books have been written than about any historical figure—Shakespeare, who occupies a throne apart in the ideal and immortal kingdom of supreme creative art, poetic genius, and dramatic truth. So, if—

FREE FOR INSPECTION

An entire 20-volume set of the BOOKLOVERS' SHAKESPEARE can be sent for examination, prepaid, to any address if you will. It is a new white paper of a very high grade. There are 20 dainty volumes of great beauty, 75 inches (just the size for easy handling), 7,000 pages, all hand-bound and durably bound in limp red leather and superbly illustrated. There are 40 full-page plates in color and 400 reproductions of rare cuts. The mere handling of these charming volumes affords a keen sense of artistic satisfaction.

The Booklovers' is an absolutely complete and unabridged edition of Shakespeare. The poems are the most complete in value ever offered to readers of Shakespeare. In the extent of information it contains, the Booklovers' is in fact a Shakespearean Encyclopedia. Its simplicity and lucidity will appeal to every intelligent reader, while its advanced character can give instruction from its copious and valuable commentaries.

WRITE NOW—TODAY

You are probably not now aware of the value of the BOOKLOVERS' SHAKESPEARE. It is a new white paper of a very high grade. There are 20 dainty volumes of great beauty, 75 inches (just the size for easy handling), 7,000 pages, all hand-bound and durably bound in limp red leather and superbly illustrated. There are 40 full-page plates in color and 400 reproductions of rare cuts. The mere handling of these charming volumes affords a keen sense of artistic satisfaction.

THE UNIVERSITY SOCIETY
PUBLISHERS.
44-60 East 22d St., New York.

Farmington News.

The funeral of Harry Walz, who died at his home on the Tibbitts farm, was held Friday at Buckville, Ind., where he formerly lived.

Albert Manzel is rebuilding his house on Grand River avenue. Frank Lee and his sister, who were living there, have moved to Mrs. S. Conroy's house.

The O. E. S. held a public installation Wednesday evening in their hall, installing the following officers: W. M., Bertha Steele, W. P., Frank Allen; A. M., Elizabeth Holcomb; Sec., Mary Lytle, Treas., Mary Crosby; Com., Eleanor Peterson; A. C., Norlie Hogle Adah, Lotie Walters Ruth, Susie Seeley; Eather, Eva Bradley; Martha, Clara Peterson; Electa, Martha Warner, Warder, Tillie Doherty; S. Frank Lee; Ch., Alice Way; Mar., Martha Schroeder; organist, Leola Thayer. A card party was given after the installation, and refreshments were served.

TRY A LINER IN THE RECORD.

Harsh physics react, weakened the bowels, will lead to chronic constipation. Doan's Regulators operate easily. 25c a box at all stores. —Advertisement.

Cough Medicine for Children.

Never give a child a cough medicine that contains opium in any form. When opium is given often and more serious diseases may follow. Long experience has demonstrated that there is no better or safer medicine for coughs, colds and croup in children than Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is equally valuable for adults. Try it. It contains no opium or other harmful drug. For sale by all dealers. —Advertisement.

Gilt Edge News.

Mr. John Myers was in Detroit on business Monday.

Ruth Harger of Farmington spent the week-end with Helen Bradley.

Velma Hopkins and Luelia Kahri were Livonia Center visitors Saturday.

Helen and Lottie Milford and Geraldine Crabbe visited Esther and Florence Mascho Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Barney Tuck and daughter, Helen, accompanied Mr. Tuck's mother to her home in Detroit Saturday afternoon. Mrs. Tuck and Helen returned home the next day.

Mrs. Earl Peck and daughter, Lilian, of Pontiac, have been spending the week with Mr. and Mrs. F. Detry. Mrs. Detry entertained her brother, Mr. Miller and his wife of Detroit, over Sunday.

Accidents will happen, but the best regulated families keep Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil for such emergencies. Two sizes 25c and 50c at all stores. —Advertisement.

WIXOM NEWS.

Frank Madison was a Detroit visitor Monday.

B. D. Burch was at Benton Harbor over Sunday.

Claire Hopkins and wife are moving into F. W. Hamill's house, recently vacated by H. Hopkins and family.

Alta Stevens was home from Pontiac over Sunday.

J. W. McLaren and family motored to Detroit Sunday.

Thos. Price and Dennis Gallagher were in South Lyon Friday.

M. S. Pratt was in Detroit Thursday to purchase a Ford automobile.

Mrs. Nora Meyers of Pontiac spent Friday with her cousin, Mrs. Mary Stevens.

J. Hammond purchased a span of mules from Bert Mendham of Milford, Monday.

Mrs. Mesdames Hammond and McLaren were Northville visitors Saturday afternoon.

Mrs. H. A. Sibley and son, Wixom, spent part of this week with her mother, Mrs. A. P. Wixom.

Mrs. W. M. Chambers and daughter, Mrs. Mary Proud, were in Pontiac last week Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Golden of Centralia, Ill., are visiting the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Shannon.

Mrs. George Miller and son, Burdette, of Aberdeen, Wash., are guests of the former's parents, D. D. Bennett and wife.

The Matron's Silver Medal contest given by the Novi ladies here Friday evening was much enjoyed. Mrs. Emma Hammond won the medal.

Novi News.

Mrs. May Holcomb is some better this week.

Forest Brown's youngest daughter, who has been very sick with pneumonia, is better.

Mrs. Fred Biery is sick with a gathering in her head. Mrs. Clara Biery is caring for her.

Mrs. Mary Leavenworth and son, Loren, visited the former's son, Jay, at Highland, over Sunday.

To Whom It May Concern: Ambrose Crossroads says: "Fry once in a while the eyes of the law need specs." —Judge.

Cataract Cannot Be Cured
With local applications, as they cannot reach the seat of the disease, cataracts are a blood disease and in order to cure it you must take internal remedies. Hall's Cataract Cure is taken internally and acts directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces. Hall's Cataract Cure is not a quick medicine. It was prescribed by one of the best physicians in this country for years, and is a regular prescription. It is composed of the best natural known, combined with the best blood purifiers, acting directly on the mucous surfaces. The perfect combination of the two ingredients is what produces such wonderful results in curing cataracts. Send for testimonials to J. CHENEY & CO., Prop., Toledo, Ohio.

Sold by druggists, price 75c. Hall's Family Pills are the best. —Advertisement.

COUNCIL PROCEEDINGS.

An adjourned regular meeting of the village council, Monday, April 20, 1914.

President, President Scotten. Trustees, Montgomery, Stage, McLean, Filkins, Barley.

President Scotten made the following appointments for the ensuing year:

President pro tem—D. F. Griswold. Health Officer—Dr. T. H. Turner. Marshal—N. E. Bogart. Street Commissioner—J. J. Cochran.

Attorney—C. C. Yerkes. Night Watchman—John Lockwood. Fire Chief—Samuel McLean. Supt. Cemetery—F. P. Pincus. Bd. Review—L. L. Brooks, C. H. Coldren.

Committees: Streets—Filkins, Barley, McLean. Cemetery—Montgomery, Stage and Barley.

Electric Lights—Stage, Filkins and McLean.

Water Works—Montgomery, Barley, McLean.

Finance—Barley, Filkins, Stage.

Park and Property—Griswold, McLean, Barley.

Sidewalks—Griswold, Montgomery, Stage.

Fire—McLean, Montgomery and Barley.

Street Railway—Filkins, Stage and Griswold.

On motion appointments were confirmed.

Liquor bonds of George Fair and Edgar A. Shafer, in the sum of $6,000 respectively, with Michigan Bonding & Surety Co. as surety, approved, on motion.

Motion carried that clerk investigate as to rights of tapping mains by property owners through whose land mains are laid.

On motion bills were ordered paid as follows: Orin Lanning, labor, $12.00. Geo. Carson, labor, 5.00. Gil Palmer, labor, 4.00. Floyd Preston, labor, 2.00. Dorset Benton, labor, 16.00.

Motion carried, that a Finance and Public Utilities committee be appointed, consisting of six members, three for term of one year and three for term of two years.

President appointed committee as follows: For two-year term, T. G. Richardson, F. S. Harmon, F. J. Cochran. One-year term, L. A. Babbitt, E. H. Lapham, C. A. Farnford.

On motion council adjourned. T. E. MURDOCK, Clerk.

BROOKLYN TABERNACLE BIBLE STUDY ON

HEAVENLY INTEREST IN SINNERS.

Luke 15:1-10—April 26.

"There is joy in the presence of the angels of God over one sinner that repenteth."—V. 10.

TODAY'S lesson tells that the Pharisees and the scribes murmured against Jesus, charging against him as a sinner that he received sinners. Whatever did not harmonize with their standards they could only contest. Their difficulty in part was that they had too high an opinion of themselves. In this matter their spirit was an evil one, begotten of the adversary. Hence Jesus sometimes spoke of them as children of the Devil, because his works they did.

The Heavenly Ninety and Nine.

So it is with us. "His servants ye are to whom ye render service."—"By their fruits ye shall know them."

Applying His words to many who profess to be His disciples, we are bound to suppose that either intentionally or ignorantly they are in opposition to the Master's spirit—adversaries of His teachings.

Knowing the Pharisees' thoughts, Jesus answered them in a parable, saying, "What man of you, having a hundred sheep and having lost one of them, doth not leave the ninety and nine in the wilderness and go after that which is lost? The shepherd's course, Jesus declared, illustrates the attitude of God and all the holy angels. They have a special interest in those who have strayed, and especially rejoice in the recovery of such.

How encouraging it is to know that this is the sentiment of Heaven, and that our imperfections are not a perpetual bar to recognition by the Lord, if we return to Him! But any sheep, having been found by the Shepherd and then preferring to live with the wolfish world no longer interest the Heavenly ones.

Many seem to think of the whole world of mankind as representing the flock of a hundred sheep, and the one straying sheep as representing the sinners of earth, comparatively few. Surely this cannot be the true interpretation! Rather, as the Prophet declared, "All we like sheep have gone astray." "There is none righteous!"

Mankind the Lost Sheep.

Interpreting the parable on a broader scale, in comportment with the facts and the Scriptures, let us understand the one straying sheep to represent Adam and his family, and the ninety nine just persons the holy angels. To this view every feature of the parable inclines. The Good Shepherd left the Heavenly flock and came to earth to redeem, to recover, mankind. And there is more rejoicing in Heaven over human recoveries from sin and alienation from God than over the holy ones themselves, who have never been redeemed with such a price, and never needed recovery.

The lesson to the Pharisees is plain. Their view of an earthly view, selfish proud thought, Jesus would have His disciples copy God: "Be like unto your Father in Heaven." God's mercy sent His Son, the Under Shepherd, to be our Redeemer. His mercy will pursue the lost sheep until every member of Adam's race shall have been brought to a full opportunity of returning to the fold of God. To this end the Messianic Kingdom is to be established when Satan shall be bound and the knowledge of the Lord shall be made to fill the whole earth.

How Merciful God's View!

How different is this view of our loving Creator from that handed down from the Dark Ages, and representing the Almighty as having prepared a place for the eternal torment of mankind, except an elect few! On the contrary, God's loving provision is only beginning to be manifested. In His favor toward Christ and the Church, ultimately the knowledge of the glory of God shall fill the whole earth.

"The Son of Man came to seek and to save that which was lost." The race was lost, not merely a few, the Church; and the recovery will include all. This does not signify universalism, however. Every member of Adam's race will be brought to a full opportunity of recovery from sin and death.—1 Timothy 2:3, 4.

The Lost Coin.

Jesus gave another parable to illustrate the same great truth from another angle. It was the custom among Jewish women to wear on the forehead a fringe of coins. These might be of gold or silver, and sometimes represented their dowry. The loss of one of these coins would represent more than its intrinsic value; for its absence marred the beauty of the bangles.

The search for the lost coin would mean that, instead of being abandoned as not worthy of consideration, it would be sought, until found. The neighbors would learn that it was found and would rejoice. This is another illustration of joy among the angels over one repentant sinner.

There is joy in the presence of the angels of God over one sinner that repenteth."—V. 10.

Applying His words to many who profess to be His disciples, we are bound to suppose that either intentionally or ignorantly they are in opposition to the Master's spirit—adversaries of His teachings.

Knowing the Pharisees' thoughts, Jesus answered them in a parable, saying, "What man of you, having a hundred sheep and having lost one of them, doth not leave the ninety and nine in the wilderness and go after that which is lost? The shepherd's course, Jesus declared, illustrates the attitude of God and all the holy angels. They have a special interest in those who have strayed, and especially rejoice in the recovery of such.

How encouraging it is to know that this is the sentiment of Heaven, and that our imperfections are not a perpetual bar to recognition by the Lord, if we return to Him! But any sheep, having been found by the Shepherd and then preferring to live with the wolfish world no longer interest the Heavenly ones.

Many seem to think of the whole world of mankind as representing the flock of a hundred sheep, and the one straying sheep as representing the sinners of earth, comparatively few. Surely this cannot be the true interpretation! Rather, as the Prophet declared, "All we like sheep have gone astray." "There is none righteous!"

Mankind the Lost Sheep.

Interpreting the parable on a broader scale, in comportment with the facts and the Scriptures, let us understand the one straying sheep to represent Adam and his family, and the ninety nine just persons the holy angels. To this view every feature of the parable inclines. The Good Shepherd left the Heavenly flock and came to earth to redeem, to recover, mankind. And there is more rejoicing in Heaven over human recoveries from sin and alienation from God than over the holy ones themselves, who have never been redeemed with such a price, and never needed recovery.

The lesson to the Pharisees is plain. Their view of an earthly view, selfish proud thought, Jesus would have His disciples copy God: "Be like unto your Father in Heaven." God's mercy sent His Son, the Under Shepherd, to be our Redeemer. His mercy will pursue the lost sheep until every member of Adam's race shall have been brought to a full opportunity of returning to the fold of God. To this end the Messianic Kingdom is to be established when Satan shall be bound and the knowledge of the Lord shall be made to fill the whole earth.

How Merciful God's View!

How different is this view of our loving Creator from that handed down from the Dark Ages, and representing the Almighty as having prepared a place for the eternal torment of mankind, except an elect few! On the contrary, God's loving provision is only beginning to be manifested. In His favor toward Christ and the Church, ultimately the knowledge of the glory of God shall fill the whole earth.

"The Son of Man came to seek and to save that which was lost." The race was lost, not merely a few, the Church; and the recovery will include all. This does not signify universalism, however. Every member of Adam's race will be brought to a full opportunity of recovery from sin and death.—1 Timothy 2:3, 4.

The Lost Coin.

Jesus gave another parable to illustrate the same great truth from another angle. It was the custom among Jewish women to wear on the forehead a fringe of coins. These might be of gold or silver, and sometimes represented their dowry. The loss of one of these coins would represent more than its intrinsic value; for its absence marred the beauty of the bangles.

The search for the lost coin would mean that, instead of being abandoned as not worthy of consideration, it would be sought, until found. The neighbors would learn that it was found and would rejoice. This is another illustration of joy among the angels over one repentant sinner.

There is joy in the presence of the angels of God over one sinner that repenteth."—V. 10.

Applying His words to many who profess to be His disciples, we are bound to suppose that either intentionally or ignorantly they are in opposition to the Master's spirit—adversaries of His teachings.

Knowing the Pharisees' thoughts, Jesus answered them in a parable, saying, "What man of you, having a hundred sheep and having lost one of them, doth not leave the ninety and nine in the wilderness and go after that which is lost? The shepherd's course, Jesus declared, illustrates the attitude of God and all the holy angels. They have a special interest in those who have strayed, and especially rejoice in the recovery of such.

How encouraging it is to know that this is the sentiment of Heaven, and that our imperfections are not a perpetual bar to recognition by the Lord, if we return to Him! But any sheep, having been found by the Shepherd and then preferring to live with the wolfish world no longer interest the Heavenly ones.

Many seem to think of the whole world of mankind as representing the flock of a hundred sheep, and the one straying sheep as representing the sinners of earth, comparatively few. Surely this cannot be the true interpretation! Rather, as the Prophet declared, "All we like sheep have gone astray." "There is none righteous!"

Mankind the Lost Sheep.

Interpreting the parable on a broader scale, in comportment with the facts and the Scriptures, let us understand the one straying sheep to represent Adam and his family, and the ninety nine just persons the holy angels. To this view every feature of the parable inclines. The Good Shepherd left the Heavenly flock and came to earth to redeem, to recover, mankind. And there is more rejoicing in Heaven over human recoveries from sin and alienation from God than over the holy ones themselves, who have never been redeemed with such a price, and never needed recovery.

The lesson to the Pharisees is plain. Their view of an earthly view, selfish proud thought, Jesus would have His disciples copy God: "Be like unto your Father in Heaven." God's mercy sent His Son, the Under Shepherd, to be our Redeemer. His mercy will pursue the lost sheep until every member of Adam's race shall have been brought to a full opportunity of returning to the fold of God. To this end the Messianic Kingdom is to be established when Satan shall be bound and the knowledge of the Lord shall be made to fill the whole earth.

How Merciful God's View!

How different is this view of our loving Creator from that handed down from the Dark Ages, and representing the Almighty as having prepared a place for the eternal torment of mankind, except an elect few! On the contrary, God's loving provision is only beginning to be manifested. In His favor toward Christ and the Church, ultimately the knowledge of the glory of God shall fill the whole earth.

"The Son of Man came to seek and to save that which was lost." The race was lost, not merely a few, the Church; and the recovery will include all. This does not signify universalism, however. Every member of Adam's race will be brought to a full opportunity of recovery from sin and death.—1 Timothy 2:3, 4.

The Lost Coin.

Jesus gave another parable to illustrate the same great truth from another angle. It was the custom among Jewish women to wear on the forehead a fringe of coins. These might be of gold or silver, and sometimes represented their dowry. The loss of one of these coins would represent more than its intrinsic value; for its absence marred the beauty of the bangles.

The search for the lost coin would mean that, instead of being abandoned as not worthy of consideration, it would be sought, until found. The neighbors would learn that it was found and would rejoice. This is another illustration of joy among the angels over one repentant sinner.

There is joy in the presence of the angels of God over one sinner that repenteth."—V. 10.

Applying His words to many who profess to be His disciples, we are bound to suppose that either intentionally or ignorantly they are in opposition to the Master's spirit—adversaries of His teachings.

Knowing the Pharisees' thoughts, Jesus answered them in a parable, saying, "What man of you, having a hundred sheep and having lost one of them, doth not leave the ninety and nine in the wilderness and go after that which is lost? The shepherd's course, Jesus declared, illustrates the attitude of God and all the holy angels. They have a special interest in those who have strayed, and especially rejoice in the recovery of such.

How encouraging it is to know that this is the sentiment of Heaven, and that our imperfections are not a perpetual bar to recognition by the Lord, if we return to Him! But any sheep, having been found by the Shepherd and then preferring to live with the wolfish world no longer interest the Heavenly ones.

Many seem to think of the whole world of mankind as representing the flock of a hundred sheep, and the one straying sheep as representing the sinners of earth, comparatively few. Surely this cannot be the true interpretation! Rather, as the Prophet declared, "All we like sheep have gone astray." "There is none righteous!"

Mankind the Lost Sheep.

Interpreting the parable on a broader scale, in comportment with the facts and the Scriptures, let us understand the one straying sheep to represent Adam and his family, and the ninety nine just persons the holy angels. To this view every feature of the parable inclines. The Good Shepherd left the Heavenly flock and came to earth to redeem, to recover, mankind. And there is more rejoicing in Heaven over human recoveries from sin and alienation from God than over the holy ones themselves, who have never been redeemed with such a price, and never needed recovery.

The lesson to the Pharisees is plain. Their view of an earthly view, selfish proud thought, Jesus would have His disciples copy God: "Be like unto your Father in Heaven." God's mercy sent His Son, the Under Shepherd, to be our Redeemer. His mercy will pursue the lost sheep until every member of Adam's race shall have been brought to a full opportunity of returning to the fold of God. To this end the Messianic Kingdom is to be established when Satan shall be bound and the knowledge of the Lord shall be made to fill the whole earth.

How Merciful God's View!

How different is this view of our loving Creator from that handed down from the Dark Ages, and representing the Almighty as having prepared a place for the eternal torment of mankind, except an elect few! On the contrary, God's loving provision is only beginning to be manifested. In His favor toward Christ and the Church, ultimately the knowledge of the glory of God shall fill the whole earth.

"The Son of Man came to seek and to save that which was lost." The race was lost, not merely a few, the Church; and the recovery will include all. This does not signify universalism, however. Every member of Adam's race will be brought to a full opportunity of recovery from sin and death.—1 Timothy 2:3, 4.

The Lost Coin.

Jesus gave another parable to illustrate the same great truth from another angle. It was the custom among Jewish women to wear on the forehead a fringe of coins. These might be of gold or silver, and sometimes represented their dowry. The loss of one of these coins would represent more than its intrinsic value; for its absence marred the beauty of the bangles.

The search for the lost coin would mean that, instead of being abandoned as not worthy of consideration, it would be sought, until found. The neighbors would learn that it was found and would rejoice. This is another illustration of joy among the angels over one repentant sinner.

There is joy in the presence of the angels of God over one sinner that repenteth."—V. 10.

Applying His words to many who profess to be His disciples, we are bound to suppose that either intentionally or ignorantly they are in opposition to the Master's spirit—adversaries of His teachings.

Knowing the Pharisees' thoughts, Jesus answered them in a parable, saying, "What man of you, having a hundred sheep and having lost one of them, doth not leave the ninety and nine in the wilderness and go after that which is lost? The shepherd's course, Jesus declared, illustrates the attitude of God and all the holy angels. They have a special interest in those who have strayed, and especially rejoice in the recovery of such.

How encouraging it is to know that this is the sentiment of Heaven, and that our imperfections are not a perpetual bar to recognition by the Lord, if we return to Him! But any sheep, having been found by the Shepherd and then preferring to live with the wolfish world no longer interest the Heavenly ones.

Many seem to think of the whole world of mankind as representing the flock of a hundred sheep, and the one straying sheep as representing the sinners of earth, comparatively few. Surely this cannot be the true interpretation! Rather, as the Prophet declared, "All we like sheep have gone astray." "There is none righteous!"

Mankind the Lost Sheep.

Interpreting the parable on a broader scale, in comportment with the facts and the Scriptures, let us understand the one straying sheep to represent Adam and his family, and the ninety nine just persons the holy angels. To this view every feature of the parable inclines. The Good Shepherd left the Heavenly flock and came to earth to redeem, to recover, mankind. And there is more rejoicing in Heaven over human recoveries from sin and alienation from God than over the holy ones themselves, who have never been redeemed with such a price, and never needed recovery.

The lesson to the Pharisees is plain. Their view of an earthly view, selfish proud thought, Jesus would have His disciples copy God: "Be like unto your Father in Heaven." God's mercy sent His Son, the Under Shepherd, to be our Redeemer. His mercy will pursue the lost sheep until every member of Adam's race shall have been brought to a full opportunity of returning to the fold of God. To this end the Messianic Kingdom is to be established when Satan shall be bound and the knowledge of the Lord shall be made to fill the whole earth.

How Merciful God's View!

How different is this view of our loving Creator from that handed down from the Dark Ages, and representing the Almighty as having prepared a place for the eternal torment of mankind, except an elect few! On the contrary, God's loving provision is only beginning to be manifested. In His favor toward Christ and the Church, ultimately the knowledge of the glory of God shall fill the whole earth.

"The Son of Man came to seek and to save that which was lost." The race was lost, not merely a few, the Church; and the recovery will include all. This does not signify universalism, however. Every member of Adam's race will be brought to a full opportunity of recovery from sin and death.—1 Timothy 2:3, 4.

The Lost Coin.

Jesus gave another parable to illustrate the same great truth from another angle. It was the custom among Jewish women to wear on the forehead a fringe of coins. These might be of gold or silver, and sometimes represented their dowry. The loss of one of these coins would represent more than its intrinsic value; for its absence marred the beauty of the bangles.

The search for the lost coin would mean that, instead of being abandoned as not worthy of consideration, it would be sought, until found. The neighbors would learn that it was found and would rejoice. This is another illustration of joy among the angels over one repentant sinner.

There is joy in the presence of the angels of God over one sinner that repenteth."—V. 10.

Applying His words to many who profess to be His disciples, we are bound to suppose that either intentionally or ignorantly they are in opposition to the Master's spirit—adversaries of His teachings.

Knowing the Pharisees' thoughts, Jesus answered them in a parable, saying, "What man of you, having a hundred sheep and having lost one of them, doth not leave the ninety and nine in the wilderness and go after that which is lost? The shepherd's course, Jesus declared, illustrates the attitude of God and all the holy angels. They have a special interest in those who have strayed, and especially rejoice in the recovery of such.

How encouraging it is to know that this is the sentiment of Heaven, and that our imperfections are not a perpetual bar to recognition by the Lord, if we return to Him! But any sheep, having been found by the Shepherd and then preferring to live with the wolfish world no longer interest the Heavenly ones.

Many seem to think of the whole world of mankind as representing the flock of a hundred sheep, and the one straying sheep as representing the sinners of earth, comparatively few. Surely this cannot be the true interpretation! Rather, as the Prophet declared, "All we like sheep have gone astray." "There is none righteous!"

Mankind the Lost Sheep.

Interpreting the parable on a broader scale, in comportment with the facts and the Scriptures, let us understand the one straying sheep to represent Adam and his family, and the ninety nine just persons the holy angels. To this view every feature of the parable inclines. The Good Shepherd left the Heavenly flock and came to earth to redeem, to recover, mankind. And there is more rejoicing in Heaven over human recoveries from sin and alienation from God than over the holy ones themselves, who have never been redeemed with such a price, and never needed recovery.

The lesson to the Pharisees is plain. Their view of an earthly view, selfish proud thought, Jesus would have His disciples copy God: "Be like unto your Father in Heaven." God's mercy sent His Son, the Under Shepherd, to be our Redeemer. His mercy will pursue the lost sheep until every member of Adam's race shall have been brought to a full opportunity of returning to the fold of God. To this end the Messianic Kingdom is to be established when Satan shall be bound and the knowledge of the Lord shall be made to fill the whole earth.

How Merciful God's View!

How different is this view of our loving Creator from that handed down from the Dark Ages, and representing the Almighty as having prepared a place for the eternal torment of mankind, except an elect few! On the contrary, God's loving provision is only beginning to be manifested. In His favor toward Christ and the Church, ultimately the knowledge of the glory of God shall fill the whole earth.

"The Son of Man came to seek and to save that which was lost." The race was lost, not merely a few, the Church; and the recovery will include all. This does not signify universalism, however. Every member of Adam's race will be brought to a full opportunity of recovery from sin and death.—1 Timothy 2:3, 4.

The Lost Coin.

Jesus gave another parable to illustrate the same great truth from another angle. It was the custom among Jewish women to wear on the forehead a fringe of coins. These might be of gold or silver, and sometimes represented their dowry. The loss of one of these coins would represent more than its intrinsic value; for its absence marred the beauty of the bangles.

The search for the lost coin would mean that, instead of being abandoned as not worthy of consideration, it would be sought, until found. The neighbors would learn that it was found and would rejoice. This is another illustration of joy among the angels over one repentant sinner.

WHY PONTYPRIDD?

(By our own Spring Poet.)

O tell us, tell us quickly