TEARING DOWN FIRST BUILDING

Will Thompson's New Movie to Take Place of Earlier Frame.

F. E. Beal Tells of Some of Early
Events of Northville and Meads
Mills.

Editor of Record: Did you know that the main part of the building that Will Thompson is now demolishing, to make a place for his movie theatre, was the first frame building erected in Northville?

It first stood on the corner where the Lapham bank now stands and was moved to its present location about 1838. It was replaced by what is now the Record office. The entire lot west and north of where the old building now is, was an apple orchard. The original building was occupied by Samuel and Marshall Mead as a store and I think they did business in the second building for a time, but soon went to Waterford, where they built a flouring mill with "four run of stone" which was said to be the largest of any in the state.

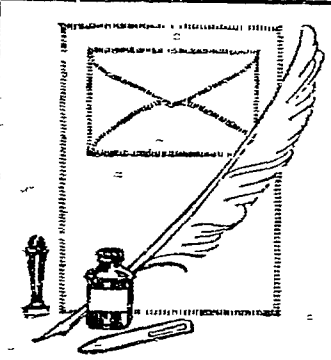

The post-office name was Mead's Mills and clustered about were two stores, a saw mill, a foundry, a sash and door factory (where the sash and doors for the first Capitol Building at Lansing were made) and some other small industries, but the mills (about 1843) burned, and that eventually wiped out all hope of its being a manufacturing town.

ARBOR AND BIRD DAY.

Schools Are to Observe May Eighth
in a Practical Way.

Superintendent Fred L. Keeler has compiled a bulletin to assist teachers in the observance of Arbor and Bird Day. The plan this year is to combine a program of school exercises with work—cleaning up the school grounds, planting trees and shrubs, beautifying roads and home grounds, putting up bird houses, etc. Valuable information concerning suitable trees and shrubs, directions for planting, the value and habits of birds, etc., is given to assist the teachers in carrying on the work. Citizens of the various communities are urged to cooperate with the schools.

When a person takes real pleasure in writing a letter, it is safe to say that another person will take real pleasure in receiving it. The mere act of writing upon a surface that lends itself to the free use of a pen makes letter-writing easier. Added to this facility is the knowledge that in appearance your paper is in accord with the best social usages when you write on

O. E. S. INSTALLED NEW OFFICERS

Delightful Occasion Followed by Banquet and Toasts.

One of the most delightful among many pleasant occasions in the history of Orient Chapter, O. E. S., was the semi-public installation Tuesday evening in Masonic hall, in the presence of nearly 170 members and guests. Past Grand Matron, Mrs. Ida Joalin, as installing officer and her able assistant, Mrs. Kittie Harmon, as marshal almost excelled. If possible, their usual perfect performance of the beautiful ceremony they have together conducted so many times previously. Instrumental and vocal selections by Guy Filkins and readings by Miss Bullis followed the work, both responding to entores. One of the delicious banquets for which Northville Stars are famous, preceded a pleasing program of toasts, with interesting responses from several members of the chapter, and also from Past Eminent Commanders, K. T. A. N. Kimmis, of Detroit, the retiring worthy Matron, Mrs. Kittie Colf charmingly filling the office of toastmistress. The Chapter is officered for the year as follows:

W. M.—Mrs. May Filkins
W. P.—Nelson E. Bogart
A. M.—Mrs. Nellie Frevd
Sec.—Mrs. Jeanie Arnot
Treas.—Mrs. Emma Fuller
Con.—Mrs. Georgiana Tatham
A. C.—Miss Ida Richardson.
Chaplain—Mrs. Helen Ball
Mar.—Mrs. Munnie Lyke
Organist—Mrs. Grace Dolph
Adah—Mrs. Ione Allen
Ruth—Mrs. May Lanning
Elder—Mrs. Elizabeth Blackburn
Martha—Mrs. Stella Stark
Electa—Mrs. Belle Simmons
Warder—Mrs. Zella Meseraull
Sentinel—Dean F. Griswold.

BAGGAGE TRANSFER IN DETROIT.

It has been the practice on the part of patrons of the interurban lines, particularly those at summer resorts, at points where there are no agents, to put out trunks marked to one of the steam road depots in Detroit. Heretofore, it has been possible to have such baggage promptly transferred from the interurban freight cars to the designated depot upon arrival in Detroit; but under regulations recently adopted by the steam roads it will hereafter be necessary for owners to make their own arrangements for transferring baggage in Detroit to depots or docks.

Auction Sale.

Saturday, May 2—On the premises, cor. Dubuay and Rogers Sts., at 1:00 o'clock, consisting of household goods, etc. Mrs. C. A. Fahr, prop'r; Brooks & Brown, auctioneers.

THE VILLAGE'S FINANCES.

The Record has talked with a number of the village's ex-presidents who are well known as progressive and conservative business men. All agree that the financial condition of the village is not at all alarming and all agree that $8,000 at the most is all the council should vote to be raised this year.

If no permanent roads are to be built about the village this year, they all agree that $7,500 will be a plenty.

Mr. Lanning, Mr. Sessions and Mr. Schrader all cite the fact that with $3,000 raised last year, $500 was spent in permanent road building and nearly $5,000 was spent on the new dam, and yet at the present time it has been necessary to borrow but $2,400.

It is no longer necessary to spend large amounts for new sidewalks, and that fact coupled with the constantly increasing revenue from electric lights materially reduces the necessity for raising a much money as in former years. Even with an indebtedness of $2,400 borrowed money at the present time, it would seem as if $7,500 for the coming year would be all that is necessary.

It has been no crime to borrow $2,400. It was just as legal to borrow that amount as it would have been to borrow $5.00. Legally no money can be borrowed until after the taxes have been spread by the council, and that has not yet been done. There's nothing as yet to get excited about?

MRS. BION BRIGHAM DEAD.

The body of Mrs. Nettie Whittaker Brigham, wife of Bion Brigham, was brought here Tuesday afternoon by D. C. R. funeral car from Detroit for interment in Rural Hill cemetery.

Mrs. Brigham died at her home in Detroit Saturday morning after a four weeks' illness from a complication of diseases. Mr. and Mrs. Brigham were formerly well known residents of Northville, which was their birthplace, and their home for many years. The former being a son of Clare Brigham and the deceased a granddaughter of the late Edward Whittaker and a niece of Mrs. T. G. Richardson. The husband and one sister, Mrs. Kittie Webber of Detroit are the nearest surviving relatives.

TO PLAT DEWEY FARM OVER AT UNION LAKE.

Eight Pontiac men have formed an association to be known as the Union Lake Land Co. The company has purchased the Dewey farm of 144 acres on Union lake and will plat it into summer resort lots. The property purchased has three-quarters of a mile of lake frontage. The promoters say no expense will be spared to make this one of the most attractive summer resorts in the county.

WANTS "SQUARE DEAL" HE SAYS

Thinks Village Officials Should Pay Just Like Common People.

"Believing in the 'square deal' principle, I would like to suggest that we who have recently, or formerly, been cut off from water or electric light connections and fined because of delayed payments, rental, material or labor, can't be expected to approve of the present continued exemption of anybody else from the same penalty, even though that person be the president of the village." That's what one of the "shut-offs" writes to the Record this week.

At least two of Northville's former presidents, Mr. Lanning and Mr. Coldren got careless during their terms of office, with the result that they were disconnected and fined, just like anybody else, and promptly settled up with only a day's delinquency at that. The folks who were shut off last week, naturally thank the council and superintendent should continue to use everybody alike.

SCHOOL NOTES.

NEW SLEEVE STYLES

Many of the newest and prettiest sleeves define the wrists by clasping them closely with ribbon, and when the wrists are small and delicately formed, there is no effect more dainty. The sleeves of a turquoise-blue day-time frock fall from the shoulders in soft, rather full draperies and are drawn into the wrists by means of blue satin ribbon, and those of a burgomaster mantle, huge indeed at the summit, come under the dominion of a two-inch border of gold braid at the wrists, causing the hands that emerge to look very tiny.

PLAID WITH CORDUROY

Such combinations as this promise to be well liked for the coming season. The skirt is of blue and white and is cut with a rather high belt. The coat is of blue cord and is in Norfolk style with the belt at the hips. The side seams are straight and the lower edge is weighted. A pearl buckle and white pique collar finish the garment.

Summer Styles for Women

TOQUES OF LINEN TO MATCH SUMMER SUIT

When you go to buy the linen for your summer suit, whether it is of white or buff or blue, add an extra yard or so to the amount purchased for a hat.

For Paris has decreed that the tailored hats to wear with the linen suits must be of a material to match the costume itself.

Of course, the tiny little French ones in many colored linens are expensive, but any girl may copy one of them.

First buy a wire shape that is becoming. It must, of course, be small and severe, perhaps, with a sharply turned up brim. Cover the wire with crizoline, then with the linen to match your suit. A pair of white wings set smartly at the side or some loops of colored velvet are sufficient trimming, and the dainty little hat will prove a becoming and smart finish to the summer costume.

A word might also be added to suggest that the linen can be caught to the frame with fairly big stitches, so that it may readily be ripped off and washed when it becomes soiled, for cleanliness is the first consideration in a light hat.

The lingerie hats to wear with white frocks are built this year along the same lines as the theater caps of the winter, and here, too, the clever needlewoman may copy exclusive models, for the crown is simply a large round piece of crizoline, covered first with soft silk and then with mull with wired ruffles of lace and a high soft bow of ribbon as brim and trimming.

Satin Slippers Come With Heavier Soles

Black satin slippers were a novelty of last season and many of these were worn on the street. This spring, however, not only black are worn, but satin in other colors.

These slippers are made with well soled, and the brown satin ones make a pretty and cool finish to a costume of that color. Dark blue, green, purple and red are shown also, and, as a rule, these will wear quite as well as suede and even better than velvet.

MILLINERY VARIETY

The bonnet has a brim of black straw with a crown of gold colored sponge tissue. It is trimmed with roses and black satin ribbons.

The plumes, black at the tips and shading to blue at the quills, are placed at opposite sides of a black straw with a band of changeable black and blue ribbon.

The rose trimmed hat has a crown of pale blue mulline straw with a brim of white lace, shaped by satin covered wires.

WOMAN PLANS OCEAN FLIGHT. Frau Melli Besse of Berlin, the only woman in the world who conducts an aeroplane works, is building a machine to contest in the transatlantic flight for the London Daily Mail's prize of $50,000.

SUMMER PREDICTIONS.

Lace will be the fabric chosen for the fashionable gowns as soon as June comes in. The long tunic will give way to the single skirt. The bodice will become narrower. Gowns will fasten up the front. Darts will appear and seams will be strongly marked in the back of blouses. The "sloppy" style will disappear. Hats will have bandeaux again. The hair will be lifted from the face entirely. The ears will show. Skirts will be shorter and white stockings will come into vogue.

PINK, WHITE AND GOLD

The foundation is of flesh pink crepe with a skirt finished with closely pressed pleats in clusters. The bouffant and waist are of white net with picot edges.

A bolero of gold lace, edged with turquoise blue velvet is caught together with a flower ornament, made of dyed gold gauze in pink and green. The girdle is of a fancy rose and gold material, draped low at the back.

On Saying Grace. I own that I am disposed to say grace upon twenty other occasions in the course of the day besides my dinner. I want a form for setting out upon a pleasant walk, for a moonlight ramble, for a friendly meeting, or a solved problem. Why have we none for books, those spiritual repairs—a grace before Milton—a grace before Shakespeare—a devotional exercise proper to be said before reading the Faerie Queene?—Charles Lamb.

Old Coins in a Secret Drawer. From the village of Breamore, Hampshire, is reported a discovery of old coins, under singular circumstances. At a rummage sale at the rectory remainder were disposed of by Dutch auction, and this lot included an old writing desk, which was secured for 1s. 6d. A secret drawer, containing thirty gold coins, guineas of George III's reign. The box and its contents have since been returned to the original owner.—London Standard.

Thrifty Woman Golfers. Those who grumble at golf as expensive do not take into consideration how much its pursuit may save in clothes. Women who are devoted to it, spend most of their time on the links and thereby avoid much necessity for elaborate frocks, and you can have many weeks' golf for the price of one smart dress.—Madame Rabbits Plentiful. In Cornwall, England, 500 rabbits are often trapped in a week out of the deep hedges surrounding the fields. Trappers will sometimes pay $150 or more for permission to kill rabbits over a moderate sized farm during a single week.

DON'T MUMBLE YOUR WORDS.

Or Chew Your Cigar—At Least Not When You Are Dictating.

Before you condemn your stenographer be sure she was not too timid to ask for a repetition of what you said way down in your throat or with a cigar tightly clasped in your mouth. "I once knew a competent young man who lost his position in a railroad office," says a writer in the Bookkeeper, "because the official who did the dictating gave more attention to his cigar than he did to his articulation."

"Then some men have a habit of pacing back and forth as they dictate. When they make the turns or stand looking out of the window you can imagine the result, especially if they also smoke. Of course the wise stenographer explains that she failed to hear and understand, but many are too timid or foolishly proud to do this, and they are stigmatized as incompetent."

Makes Elephant Sausage. Some time ago an enterprising German pork butcher contracted for the carcass of an elephant belonging to the Ghent Zoological Gardens. The elephant had become unruly and it was necessary to have him killed. The butcher at once proceeded to transform the huge carcass into Frankfurt sausages.

According to report he was able to manufacture no less than 3,800 pounds, which found a ready sale, owing to their novel origin. The elephant's heart, which weighed some four pounds, was also sold in slices. This story is suggestive of the report from Paris that a butcher had used the carcass of a lion for making "Lion sausages."

COOLO

Best Toilet Article Made Takes the Place of Cold Cream and Toilet Water

WOMEN PRAISE IT'S MERITS

Coolo is absolutely free from grease. It removes every particle of dirt from the pores and instead of enlarging the pores as most face creams do, it reduces them; thus giving the skin a smooth, velvety appearance. One of the most striking features of Coolo is that it will not encourage the growth of hair on the face.

MEN USE IT AFTER SHAVING

An application of Coolo after shaving leaves a cool, pleasant and healing sensation. Men find it indispensable.

The new plow guides up the soil, leaving the top in its original condition.

"AUTOSTUDY" IN HIGH SCHOOLS

At the Bloomington High School, in Indiana, the automobile is studied as a part of the course in physics. Columbia University educational experts are urging that this be done in all high schools.

HEAT FROM ANTARCTIC.

The Antarctic Continent contains immense coal fields, according to Sir Ernest Shackleton. A lecturer before the Royal Geographical Society says the world has not yet begun to realize the importance of this discovery.

DISASTER TO OLDEST CITY.

The oldest city in the United States—St. Augustine, Florida—has had a disastrous fire. Five hotels were burned. The guests, mostly tourists from the North, had narrow escapes. Many other buildings were destroyed, including the county court house.

NEW HEAD OF ARMY.

Major-General W. W. Waterspoon has been selected by President Wilson to command the U. S. Army. He succeeds Gen. Leonard Wood, who retires April 22.

OUR ENGINEERS.

Holyoke Transcript: Again the American engineers have scored at the expense of their professional brethren in other parts of the world. Hugh L. Cooper, the man who did the brain work of the Keokuk dam across the Mississippi, has been selected by the Egyptian government to supervise the construction of a huge hydro-electric dam across the Nile. He was recommended for the big job by Sir Ralph Willocks, the supervising engineer on the Assuan dam.

ARTIFICIAL MILK.

"Synthetic milk" is the reported discovery of a German chemist. It contains everything that is in natural milk, and in the same proportions. It looks and tastes like natural milk and is claimed to be just as nourishing.

NEW CHINESE PROBLEM.

Chinese boards of trade are asking Secretary of Labor to have the tariff on raws changed for a time, so that Chinese can visit the Panama Pacific Exposition at San Francisco in 1915.

FOOD PILLS FOR ARMY.

Food pills cost a third of a cent each and are said to contain sufficient nourishment for a man on a twelve-hour march are being tested in the German army.

The Telephone in New York

Springfield Republican: The extent to which the telephone is a daily and hourly necessity is strikingly shown in the fact that the Springfield edition of the New York Telephone Directory contains the names of more than 314,000 subscribers. Of the book 592,000 copies are printed. To distribute these directories 600 men are employed, who are expected to do the job in twelve working days.

CZAR BOOSTS TEMPERANCE.

Emperor Nicholas has ordered that instead of the army drinking a toast to the czar's health, a custom centuries old, the troops shall instead give three cheers for their ruler. Recently the czar pointed out the moral and physical havoc being wrought by vodka, the Russian drink.

Arctic Trip Postponed

Capt. Roald Amundsen, discoverer of the South Pole, has postponed, until 1915, the expedition to the Arctic regions he had planned to make this summer. His vessel, the Fram, has been delayed on its journey from Colon, and cannot reach San Francisco in time to be fitted out for the start that was to have been made in July. Henry Lund, the Norwegian Consul at San Francisco, has received word from Capt. Amundsen, who is in Europe, that the expedition will not set out until next summer.

Pension Roll Grows Smaller

The veterans of the Civil War are now passing away in large numbers, all of them being old. Their widows, too, are mostly aged, and there are not many more minor children. So the pension roll has begun to grow decidedly smaller. About 40,000 names were dropped during 1913. This will make the cost of pensions about $11,000,000 less, reducing the figure from $180,000,000 in the present fiscal year to $169,000,000 next year.

HOW RAILROADS

PROTECT THEMSELVES. Because the Interstate Commerce Commission will not allow the railroads to increase their rates for freight and passengers, the railroad officials claim that they have to economize in some way or go into receivership's hands.

The Pennsylvania railroad has taken off 238 of its passenger trains; 118 east from Pittsburgh and 120 west. This throws about 4,000 employees out of work, and puts the public to great inconvenience. Other railroads are likely to do the same thing. This road's net earnings have decreased 75 per cent from last year.

WIRELESS TELEPHONE COMING.

Mr. Marconi is pleased with the results of his recent wireless telephone experiments. He believes that it will be possible before long to talk across the Atlantic Ocean without wires. Actual conversations were carried on for a distance of about 45 miles.

NATIONS TO EXHIBIT AT PANAMA FAIR

Twenty nine foreign governments so far have notified their intention of participating in the Panama-Pacific Exposition at San Francisco in 1915. Great Britain and Germany, which heretofore have been liberal exhibitors, are notable absentees from the list. Even if they do not relent at the last moment, and recall their declarations, there will be thousands of British and German exhibits by individuals.

The countries which so far have notified the state department of their intention officially to recognize the fair, together with amounts of money where the appropriation for exhibits is known, are: Argentine Republic, $95,000; Bolivia, $40,000; Brazil, $800,000; Canada, $180,000; China, $600,000 (proposed); $250,000; Denmark, $10,000; Dominican Republic, Ecuador, France, Guatemala, Haiti, Honduras, Italy, $10,000; Japan, Liberia, Mexico (accepted invitation in 1912); Netherlands, $150,000; Panama, $50,000; Peru, $100,000; Portugal, Spain, Sweden, $160,000; Turkey, Uruguay, Venezuela, $10,000.

GRIP IS A DISEASE

Called Influenza in Italy in Eighteenth Century and Title Still Persists. The la grippe is a disease without a country, according to a new book just issued, which is devoted to the malady. Every country tries to make it out a native of another land.

In Russia it is called Siberian fever, and in Siberia Chinese fever. In France it has been called Spanish catarrh, and Spain throws it back as Russian fever. The term influenza came to be generally applied in England to the disease, which was successively known as "the new acquaintance," "the gentle correction," "the new delight" and "the knock-me-down fever," by a mistake.

Eighteenth Century Italian writers says Dr. Haykirk spoke of "una influenza di freddo" (influence of cold), and English physicians, mistaking the word influenza for the name of the disease itself, used it. The same term is also used in Germany, where a host of dialect names still prevail, such as lightning catarrh and fog plague.

The following is a list of some of the names of influenza in different countries:

Brazil—Jamporna, polka fever; Denmark—Brystfeber, fodeber snesge, faronensis krum.

France—La grippe (generally in use), also la coquette, petit courrier, la grenade, Italian fever, Spanish catarrh, Russian influenza.

Germany—Schaffkrankheit (sheep's disease); modofieber (fashionable fever); Russische krankheit.

Holland—Zinkingskoorts; Italy—Morbio Russo (Russian malady); mal di moutone (sheep's disease); miallatia tedesca (German sickness).

Portugal—Febre di chuva (rainy fever); Spain—Influenza Rusa, pantomima, trancazo (a blow with a bar).

Sweden—Snufajuka, snuffieber. The Spanish name "trancazo" is curious, and occurs also in France, where the disease was at one time called le tac or le horizon, both meaning a blow on the head. The superstitious considered that the epidemic was a punishment by Providence, visited on those who persisted in singing a particularly ribald song then much in vogue, and when anyone was seized with influenza his friends remarked: "Ah! you have sung the song."

COON UPSETS TRADITIONS

Acknowledged Foe to all Feathered Creatures Adopts Young Guinea Fowls.

Monsieur, Pa-Smoke, a pet coon belonging to Franklin Sauter of this place, has cast aside its hereditary instinct of enmity toward birds and fowl of all kinds and adopted a brood of young guinea hens that had been hatched in the oven of Sauter's stove.

Naturalists and woodmen in this section declare it is the only instance on record where a coon is known to have overcome his natural instincts to kill all feathered creatures.

Several months ago, Mr. Sauter, on a hunt, captured a baby coon that had been pulled down and injured by the dog. Taking the animal home, it soon became domesticated and became a great pet around the house.

Not having an incubator for this guinea hen's eggs, Sauter placed the eggs in a box back of his stove. He was considerably astonished to find the coon in the box with the guineas, mothering them.

Since that time the animal has refused to leave the guinea chicks and keeps them well covered.

His Musical Name.

A correspondent reports the finding of a decidedly curious name in one of the records of York during the reign of Elizabeth—Marmaduke Clarionet. It sounds like a character in a later day burlesque.—Notes and Queries.

Wealth in Swedish Bogs.

The bogs of Sweden, it is now estimated, would yield 10,000 million tons of air-dried peat. Compared with present coal imports, this would supply the country with fuel for 1,500 years.

SHAKESPEARE—Shakespeare, who? do lighted Thomas Jefferson and inspired Edwin Booth—Shakespeare, about whose Hamlet more books have been written than about any historical figure—Shakespeare, who occupies a throne apart in the ideal and immortal kingdom of supreme creative art, poetic genius, and dramatic truth. DO YOUR TRADING IN NORTHVILLE.

With the opening of spring, the business men of Northville wish to extend a cordial invitation for you to make it your town this year, even to a greater extent than you have ever done. In this modern age, co-operation is the keynote of all success, and there is not and never shall be a success where there is not co-operation. You need their help and they need yours.

Make Northville your trading point the coming summer. You can find better lines of merchandise nowhere, and nowhere will you find business men more appreciative of your patronage. The lines they handle must be the best they could afford to sell to other kind. They are located here among you, where you know them and they know you. Their homes are here, their money is invested here, and nothing but honest dealing that will increase their trade would be prudent. Every sale made must be satisfactory, and if you will give them a chance, they will prove to you that they want it to be so.

Those who read the Record should also read the advertisements sent to you through it. These advertisements are direct messages from the stores to you, and you should consider the same much as though they were talking to you face to face.

It will be the aim to make this year a banner one for Northville and we feel confident that all will profit by joining in the effort. At least, favor them by inspecting their lines before going elsewhere. If you find what you want, you may rest assured it will be of the highest grade and in buying here, you will have the advantage of seeing just what you are paying for, something you cannot do with mail order houses.

URGES THE FREE PRESS.

In an address before school superintendents at Lansing last week Governor Carr made these remarks:

"I plead for the free press of Michigan," said the governor, "and ask you to take notice of the fact that the press is the life of the state. It is the only way in which the people can be kept informed of the truth and of the progress of the state. It is the only way in which the people can be kept from being misled by the enemies of the state. It is the only way in which the people can be kept from being misled by the enemies of the state."

The governor said that these very essentials are today a much neglected feature of the high schools of our villages. What they need nowadays most of all, the pupils seem to have the least of.

MATT GREEN MADE GOOD.

Our retiring street commissioner, Matt Green, has reason to be proud of his record as an incumbent of that office for the past six years. He has unquestionably been the best man for that job Northville has ever had. Our streets are in fine condition, second to those of no village of the same size in the state. Specially good examples of the excellent work done by Mr. Green are Main and Rogers streets and Plymouth avenue, all built under his supervision.

If Detroit papers will devote one sixteenth as much space to betterment of streets instead as they do to criticizing the D. U. R., Grand River avenue near the city limits would not be in its present almost intolerable condition. Four years has the vehicle public suffered from this mile of toughness.

The sort of husbands a good many of us are, my friends, leaves us with very small excuse to poke ridicule at our friends.

Teaching Home-Lovers
And Home-Builders.

Oliver Wendell Holmes said that the education of a child should begin with its great grandmother.

The Gospel of Eugenics teaches the same doctrine. Modern educational methods subserve the ancient rule of three-to the harmonious all-round development of body, mind and soul, looking to the uplift of future generations.

What has this to do with Furniture? Just this: Future home-lovers and home-builders are being taught today that the silent things which are part of everyday life must combine beauty with convenience and comfort, because they consciously and unconsciously influence health and happiness.

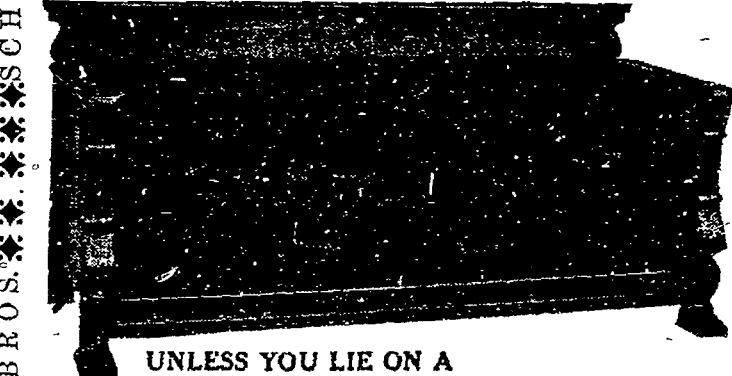

This is education in home-building and educated home-builders are always intelligent Furniture buyers.

We have the Furniture for both the Home-lovers of today and the future Home-lovers as well. We are trying to teach the people of this part of Michigan the value of coming to our store for the purpose of seeing our Large Stock of Goods and Noting the Low Prices. Beauty, Convenience, Comfort and Low Prices, all at our stores.

Doubt Disappears

No One in Northville Who Has a Bad Back Should Ignore This Double Proof.

Does your back ever ache? Have you suspected your kidneys? Backache is sometimes kidney ache.

With it may come dizzy spells, Sleepless nights, tired, dull days, Distressing urinary disorders.

Doan's Kidney Pills have been endorsed by thousands. Are recommended here at home.

You have read Northville proof. Read now the Northville sequel. Renewed testimony, tested by time.

G. B. Sinclair, retired farmer, High St., Northville, Mich., says: "Most of my trouble was from my kidneys. The kidney secretions contained sediment and passed too frequently. At night I would have to get up four to five times and the passages were accompanied by burning pains. I saw Doan's Kidney Pills advertised and I got a supply at Murdoch's drug store and they cured me. I am glad to confirm the statement I gave when they cured me as I haven't had any more kidney trouble."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Sinclair had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y. 1—Advertisement.

MAKES NEW STRENGTH

When you find it is a tremendous task to complete your daily duties—constantly worried and losing flesh as a result—take Nyal's Nutritive Hypophosphites.

NYAL'S NUTRITIVE HYPOPHOSPHITES

Should be used in every instance where the system is weakened and where there is a lack of vitality, diminishing energy and loss of appetite.

In convalescence, protracted fevers, grippe, bronchitis, coughs and affections of the lungs it is unequalled. That feeling of languor and weakness soon vanishes and, instead, there is strength. A large bottle for $1.00.

INTEREST YOUR VISIT FRIENDS

Lots of people in Northville and neighboring towns read the Record to find out what is going on in some instances across the country, to the Canadian border and over to the States. Of course there was no time to realize what the home paper means to those distant friends, but we wonder if they realize that those to whom the paper is sent, to read things about the senders. And do you ever think how much better writing it would save to be thoughful about sending items of interest to the Record? Send or phone us the things you would like your absent ones to know, and we'll do the rest.

A Man's A Man

By ELEANOR FERRIS

Copyright, The Frank A. Munsey Company
Author of "On Great Waters," etc.
Dr. Maxwell's car being disabled, he helped of the deserter behind her, wondered vaguely at a dull, grinding
sound, as of a brake on the back
wheel. Her useless arm was all pain,
her left almost numb.

Then the pace lessened, the car
steadied, and at last Margaret, pant-
ing, but with Midnight controlled,
made the turn into their own grounds.
The old coachman met them at the house steps.

"Oh, Miss Margaret, did Mid kill yer arm intirely?" he cried when he saw
her face.

"Drive Mr. Ives to Dr. Maxwell's
house," said Margaret steadily, giving Michael the whip and reins.

"Thank you," said Brandon, and gravelly bowed as the sobered Midnight started again down the drive.

Margaret slowly went into the house
and up the stairs.

"He is a coward. He wanted to jump!" she said to herself. "And I wouldn't tell him of my helplessness,
lest it should be a bid for his charity!"

At the word she gave a bitter little
smile, then threw herself on her bed
and stuffed a pillow under her aching
arm.

Soon there was a knock, and a little maid came in.

"Oh, miss, Mike's just told me!
Your poor arm broke, and Mr. Ives's
foot crushed, ah! You alone here!
Whatever does the doctor mean?"

My arm is not broken, nor was Mr.
Ives hurt.

But Katie was in the glorious current of events evidently new to her mistress.

"Oh, me, me, Mr. Ives's foot, was most cut off, so Mike—"

"Katie, bring Michael to me at once!"

Off sped Katie, and promptly came back, halting in Michael by the sleeve.

"Well, miss," he began promptly,
"Mr. Ives sat very quiet from here to Dr. Maxwell's. We met the doctor in a automobile, come in his gate."

"What's up?" he says. "It's nothing," says Mr. Ives, but I must favor one foot a bit, says he. Up comes the doctor and looks at the foot. "Blood-ing!" says he. "Some!" says Mr. Ives.

"Wheel go over it?" says the doctor.
"It went over a wheel," says Mr. Ives.
As his foot touched the ground, he swore like, and turned white as a new pipe.

It took a stiff pony of brandy to bring him around—at least, I poured part of it down him. Flushed he for me, Mike, says he, open his eyes an' 'twas little enough to do for the poor sufferin' soul of him.

But Margaret had turned to the telephone. Nodding a dismissal to Michael, she called up Dr. Maxwell.

"Yes, Margaret," he answered. "I'll come right over."

No, Don, what is this about Mr.
Ives being hurt?"

"But you were there."

"I know nothing."

"Then he can tell you himself," and here the circuit was broken.

Margaret hung up the receiver with a puzzled smile and frown.

Dr. Maxwell soon came to assure himself that the strain had not hurt her, but she could learn nothing of Brandon Ives's injury. The doctor nonchalantly dismissed the subject with—

"He prefers to tell you himself, and he's bigger than I so let him—old Quintus!" He's fixed for the present—can't leave the house in my dead motor."

"Is Mr. Ives afraid of horses? He never hunts or jumps," said Margaret very casually.

"Used to, like fury," returned her cousin, "but his mother had hysterics till he gave it up. 'Missish,' you called him. My word!" And the doctor departed.

"So do I like a warm cup to my seamach in the afternoon, sir, an' Miss Margaret be comin' directly to pour it, sir!" Katie's voice was saying in the living-room as Margaret returned from a brisk walk late that afternoon.

Expecting to see her cousin again, for the doctor often dropped in for tea, she stepped quickly into the room.
In the twilight the flames from the bush logs were reflected in the gleaming brass teakettle, and before the fire, on one foot but triumphant, stood Brandon Ives. His other foot, swathed in black, was supported on the fender.

"Well!" said Margaret, and again
"Well!"—her infection running from surprise to question and perhaps welcome.

"Well!" returned Brandon.
Usually unsmiling, he now smiled, but contentedly left further speech to her. She threw aside her furs and moved to the tea-table.

"What will Donald say?" she inquired, reprovingly. "How did you come?"

"Bribed the doctor's man to trundle me over in a leaf-cart, by hand. It took me back to my baby-carriage days!"

"I wish I had seen you!" laughed Margaret. "When Donald comes, you'll catch it!"

To show herself perfectly at ease,
she poured for him, with her left hand,
a cup of plain hot water. Hoping that he had not noticed, she hurriedly added tea-leaves.

"They are sometimes put in," he observed coolly.

Margaret ignored the remark.

Margaret ignored the remark.

"Tell me!" she commanded, turning from the table.

"What?"

"Everything."

"Really, may I everything?"

"About your injury."

"Oh, that's not everything—rather nothing! The hill was steep, and we'd horse rushed over the crest and down the hill.

Margaret wondered wildly when the cart would overturn; wondered whether she would rather be killed or ask help of the deserter behind her; wondered vaguely at a dull, grinding
sound, as of a brake on the back
wheel. Her useless arm was all pain,
her left almost numb.

Then the pace lessened, the car
steadied, and at last Margaret, pant-
ing, but with Midnight controlled,
made the turn into their own grounds.
The old coachman met them at the
house steps.

"Oh, Miss Margaret, did Mid kill yer
arm intirely?" he cried when he saw
her face.

"Drive Mr. Ives to Dr. Maxwell's
house," said Margaret steadily, giving
Michael the whip and reins.

"Thank you," said Brandon, and
gravelly bowed as the sobered Mid-
night started again down the drive.

Margaret slowly went into the house
and up the stairs.

"He is a coward. He wanted to jump!" she said to herself. "And I
wouldn't tell him of my helplessness,
lest it should be a bid for his charity!"

At the word she gave a bitter little
smile, then threw herself on her bed
and stuffed a pillow under her aching
arm.

Soon there was a knock, and a little
maid came in.

"Oh, miss, Mike's just told me!
Your poor arm broke, and Mr. Ives's
foot crushed, ah! You alone here!
Whatever does the doctor mean?"

My arm is not broken, nor was Mr.
Ives hurt.

But Katie was in the glorious current of events evidently new to her
mistress.

"Oh, me, me, Mr. Ives's foot, was
most cut off, so Mike—"

"An empty boot!" she interrupted.

"You could have stopped Mid by why didn't you take the reins?"

"Because I was afraid—"

"Afraid!"

"Of you. Besides, it wouldn't have been fair. I knew you could stop him with half a chance. You did. I only kept the trap off his heels."

"And you knew about my arm all the time?"

"No. When the horse began to run,
I saw you couldn't use it—I was ready to grab it necessary—but Mid wouldn't have had much respect for you hereafter, if I had."

"Thank you!" said Margaret softly.
"And to think that I thought—"

"It doesn't matter, if you don't think it now."

"I came to my stile," went on Margaret, looking hard at the fire; "and instead of helping the cross little lame dog over it, you demolished the stile. Why, I wonder—"

"Why?" he echoed. "Why, but because you are you, and I must have been born loving you?"

He came to her swiftly, though she put out an imploring hand.

"Ah, Brandon, remember—"

"Your arm?" he interrupted. "I do!"

TEACHER BOOSTS VALUES

Soil Tests and Advice on Crops Prove Great Aids to Minnesota Land Owners.

Northfield, Minn.—To have been an instrumental factor in advancing the price of farm lands in three countries of a State from $10 to $15 per acre is something of an accomplishment. A.
M. Field, a young University of Wisconsin graduate and present head of the department of agriculture of the Northfield High School, has been such a factor in the Northfield district, and the end of his work is not in sight;
rather it has just begun.

Progressive citizens of Northfield are trying a most interesting experiment.
Thus far it has worked out even better than the most sanguine expected, and no little part of the credit is due,
so residents of the district say, to the unflinching energy and initiative of Field.

Three years ago there was built in Northfield a splendidly equipped high school. Primarily it was to be for the benefit of the children of Northfield.
But it is much more than that. It is now it is an institution. It is a school in which old and young take pride. It is a school that is doing an incalculable amount of good in the country of Rice, Dakota and Good hue.

Field evolved a plan to tensify the country children. That plan is now in operation. It has as one of its salient features a course of extension work and has brought to the pupils of his associated schools instruction in agriculture, manual training and domestic science. But the part of the work in which Field probably takes more pride than in any other is the work that has been done in the way of organizing farmers into clubs. A number of these farmers' clubs have been organized under the supervision and leadership of Field and the organization of four more is under way.

By means of these clubs the farmers have been brought closer together than ever before, they now have a community of interest. Various subjects are discussed. There is the planning of better farm houses, for instance, with good lighting, heating and water systems. The question of the elimination of the middleman and the direct marketing of crops through co-operative societies is another thing that has been talked over.

How best to rotate crops and what to raise to the best advantage are favorite subjects for debate.

Meetings of the clubs are held in the homes of different farmers in the different districts. Institutes are also held, and frequently these are attended by as many as 100 farmers, their wives, children and other members of their families.

Field is more than a school teacher.
He is a farmer, and the tillers of the soil have come to know that he knows.
Any farmer will tell a visitor that since the work was begun and they got a deeper insight into things the value of their land has gone up steadily. And this because of the good equipment advocated by Field and because of the good ideas instilled by him. He has a well equipped laboratory in which he tests milk and soils for the farmers.

PROFITABLE MENS

Norridgewood—Miss Eva Storer, known as the most successful poultry raiser in the state, bought a farm and paid for it, and furnished a home in luxurious style of the profits of her poultry and she did it in only six years.

Her success is only an example, on a large scale, of what other girls of Maine are doing, and poultry raising is depleting the ranks of the women teachers, for it is claimed there is less money in the latter calling.

Miss Storor's success with chickens dates back to the time she was 9 years old, when her mother gave her a pair of old hens. Gradually she increased her flock and improved it until now she has the purest strains of Rhode Island Reds and White Indian Games.

WEEDS CONSIDERED PESTS BUT HAVE A VALUE

Emerson said of weeds that they are "plants whose virtues have not yet been discovered." But a few benefits may be derived from weeds.

They are of some use in the world to induce more frequent and more thorough cultivation, which benefits crops. In occupying the soil after a crop has been removed they prevent the loss of fertility by shading the ground.

Weeds plowed under add some humus and fertility to the soil, though in a very much less degree than clover or cow peas; some weeds furnish food for birds in winter.

In justice to the weeds their advantages have been mentioned first,
because the list of the disadvantages is a very long one—too long to enumerate. A few, however, may be given enough to convince every one that every effort should be made to get rid of them.

Farmers should carefully observe and study the weeds and their habits, in order to fight them to the best advantage.

1. Weeds rob cultivated plants of nutriment.

2. They injure crops by crowding and shading.

3. They retard the work of harvesting grain by increasing the draft and by extra wear of machinery.

4. They retard the drying of grain and hay.

5. They increase the labor of threshing, and make cleaning of seed difficult.

6. They damage the quality of flour, sometimes making it nearly worthless.

7. Most of them are of little value as food for domestic animals.

8. Some weeds injure stock by means of barbed arms.

9. Some of them injure wool and disfigure the tails of cattle, the manes and tails of horses.

10. A few make "hair balls" in the stomachs of horses.

11. Some injure the quality of dairy products.

12. Penny cress, and probably others, when eaten by animals, injure the taste of meat.

13. Poison hemlock, spotted cow-bane and Jamestown weed are very poisonous.

14. Many weeds interfere with a rotation of crops.

15. All weeds damage the appearance of a farm and render it less valuable.

Four of the commonest weeds are the wild carrot, chickweed, dandelion and ragweed.

Chickweed has long been recognized as a troublesome weed. It is common in alfalfa growing sections of the country, and is a great pest to the plant. It is easily recognized by the blue flowers and lower leaves, which resemble those of the common madder. The upper leaves are more or less entire and have a chickweed-like appearance. The plant contains a milky juice which is not difficult to destroy when the plant is pulled out.

Chickweed is a perennial weed, and it is difficult to eradicate. It is a great pest to the alfalfa plant, and it is a great pest to the farmer.

EXPERT AND SCIENTIFIC TREE SURGERY and PROPER SPRAYING AT THE PROPER TIME.

Look after our Neglected Friends, the Trees which takes a lifetime to grow. It is a generally known fact that all fruit, as well as other trees and shrubs are effected with scale, worms and beetles which were unknown a few years since. Proper trimming and proper spraying at the right time, knowing the enemy's secret is Very Essential. Have your work well done, it will more than pay you in results. It is like comparing a Silver Dollar with a Twenty Dollar Gold Piece; they are the same size, but there is a difference of nineteen Dollars.

Filling Cavities and all work is guaranteed.

STEEL frame on steel wheels—that is the lasting basis on which International manure spreaders are built. All parts, including box, beater, spreading mechanism, apron, are built by experts, using best materials, from careful designs based on field tests.

Every detail is strong and durable, built for long life and ease of draft. Among the features that will interest you are these: Simple, protected beater driving mechanism, all of steel; lead carried on rear axle, insuring traction; reversible gear and worm; low, easily loaded box, with ample clearance underneath; and gate, preventing clogging of beater while driving to the field, etc.

All styles are in the I H C spreader line, high and low, endless and reverse apron, and various sizes for small and large farms. Our catalogues will tell you more. Write for them and let us tell you also where you may see I H C manure spreaders.

MORTGAGE SALE.

Whereas, default has been made in the payment of the money secured by a mortgage made by Christian Gates, a widower, of the Township of Livonia, Wayne county, Michigan, to William H. Coats, of the same place, which said mortgage bears date the first day of May, 1900, and is recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds for the county of Wayne, Michigan, on the 15th day of March, 1908, in Liber 522 of mortgages on page 482, and whereas, the amount claimed to be due on said mortgage at the date of this notice is the sum of $1,671.24 of principal and interest and a further sum of $40.00 as an attorney's fee stipulated for in said mortgage, and no suit or proceedings having been instituted at law to recover the debt now remaining secured by said mortgage or any part thereof whereby the power of sale contained in said mortgage has become operative. Now, therefore, notice is hereby given that by virtue of the said power of sale and in pursuance of the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises therein described at public auction to the highest bidder at the southerly or Congress street entrance of the Wayne County Building in the City of Detroit, Wayne county, Michigan, (that being the place where the Circuit Court for said county is held) on the 22nd day of June, 1914, at 12.00 o'clock noon of that day, which said premises are described in said mortgage as follows, to-wit: The west half of the southwest quarter of Section No. 21 and the northeast quarter of the northwest quarter of Section No. 28, containing one hundred and twenty acres more or less, town one south of range nine east, Wayne County, Michigan.

Dated March 27th, 1914.
