ED. HINES ON TOURS AT HOME

SAYS NORTHVILLE PROMISES TO RIVAL BLOOMINGDALE HILLS

Ed. N. Hines, County Road commissioner, has a very interesting article in last week's Detroit Saturday Night on "Touring at Home." The portion of which refers to this village is given below:

NORTHVILLE

"After reaching Grand River road the route follows a straight line, for 13 miles from Livernois road. It is so remarkably straight that a rifle could be sighted along its full length without an obstacle intervening. The farms along this road are being rapidly subdivided into 'city lots,' and are apparently finding a ready sale. The village of Redford will show about 18 1/2 miles on the gauge, and the road is as smooth and level as a city street. Clarenceville is the junction of the Wayne and Oakland county lines, and is 3 3/4 miles beyond Redford. The concrete road ends here and a good gravel road takes its place through Oakland county, traversing Farmington Junction and Farmington a distance of about 23 miles from the Campus. The whole distance thus far is through a flat, level country with very little wooded land, so that the traveler can see, for miles and miles in every direction with practically nothing to obstruct the view. At Farmington turn left with the street car track until the first cross road is reached about one-half mile beyond the turn at Farmington. The cars do not turn at this point, which has been well marked as well as the balance of the road to Northville; turn right and (Continued on page 8.)

INTERESTING LETTER FROM FAR ALASKA

FORMER NORTHVILLE RESIDENTS VISIT NORTHERN U. S. TERRITORY.

BEAUTIFUL SUNSET, BUT NO DARKNESS DURING NIGHT FOLLOWING

The following letter, written to F. S. Deal by H. R. Converse of Jordan, N. Y., who was in the employ of the Globe Furniture Co., selling and placing church furniture in the east for many years and who often visited here, contains an account of Mr. and Mrs. Converse's trip to Alaska which will be interesting to our readers.

Sacramento, Calif., Dec. 1911

Dear Mr. Deal:

We went up to Alaska, making the round trip from Seattle and return of something over five thousand miles by water, going as far north and west as Kodiak Island across the Alaskan peninsula from the Bering Sea. It was a wonderful trip for us both for its scenic beauty, and also giving us an idea of its vastness and resources. It is a country that is little understood or appreciated by the majority of people as to its size, resources, or climatic conditions. I am sending you under another cover a book entitled, "Alaska, Our Frontier Wonderland," with map attached, and government statistics which will give you more concise and better ideas of the country than I could remember or write. It truly is a wonderful country as you will see although as yet undeveloped.

We took the trip on the steamship "Admiral Sampson" and had fine weather most of the time. I will give you a day out of my diary, or notes on the trip right here which was no exception to most of them. Thursday, July 23, 1914, Kuiu Anchorage in Cook's Inlet, Alaska, 61 degrees, 14 minutes north latitude. A beautiful morning, bright and sunny. We are now in Cook's Inlet, approaching the most northerly point we shall reach on the trip. One p. m. We have run on a sound reef and are waiting for the tide to take us off. The tide in the Inlet is 46 feet high and in Turn-Again-Asm 52 feet or the second highest in the (Continued on page 4.)

FOR EARLY CLOSING.

All the stores in town, except one, have signified the wish to close evenings at 6 o'clock, until April 1. The managers have figured it that their profit on sales made after 6 p. m. each evening barely pays the electric bill for that night.

From Our Exchanges.

Curtains in the home of Charles Mundy at Northville, caught fire last Monday. That was some Monday for Mundy—South Lyon Herald.

And fortunately it was rather a weakly fire, too.

This is how the Holt's Advertiser's weather reporter hedges against the erratic tendencies of our Michigan weather: "Fine winter weather. At least, it was when this item was written Wednesday." Good pointer for Old Prob.

Mrs. Patrick McIlroy, Albion avenue Wyandotte, was attacked by a supposed mad dog while on her way home Tuesday evening and severely bitten on the left arm. Her clothing was badly torn before she was able to fight the animal away down River Suburbanite.

Alonso Sprague had the distinction of celebrating his 96th birthday on last Wednesday. He is at present in good health and the best of spirits, and the Enterprise joins with a host of friends in hoping that he may enjoy many more birthdays.—Farmington Enterprise.

An Oxford housewife, after building a hot fire in her cook stove went away for a little while. On returning, she found the family cat in the oven, thoroughly baked. An exactly similar accident was chronicled in the Record some years ago, occurring a few miles from here, in Novi township.

The Wayne Weekly is a recent acquisition to the Record's exchange list—and also to Wayne readers. It is published by E. C. Lanckenau and V. R. Hisey, and has many excellent features to recommend it as a home paper for Wayne people. The Record extends best wishes for the Weekly's success.

The South Lyon Herald evidently believes that the Sunday school kids are not the only ones who adopt the high moral tone just before Christmas, as witness the following: During December were the days when Father's stockings were darned, buttons sewed on, his chair placed at the table, his general conduct commended. And still the old fellow doesn't always catch its meaning until the Christmas bills are in.

Mrs. John Avery of Maple Road Farm near Oxford, our millionaire lady farmer, is not only making her farm a success financially, giving employment to many workers but takes care of them in sickness. One of her employees, Mr. Everets, is on the sick list and this kind and gracious lady not only pays a nurse and the doctor's bill but pays Mr. Everets his regular wages besides.—Town Corners Cor. Orion Review.

Conductor Thomas Shaw passed through Wayne Sunday with a train of an even hundred cars, one of the longest string of freighters ever seen on the road.—The Brotherhood

Trainmen, one of the strongest unions recognized by the Michigan Central, was with the bill now before the legislature which will limit car lengths to 60's, these trains that seem to have no end, especially if you are in a hurry and waiting at a crossing, will be a matter only of once upon a time.—Wayne Weekly.

GEORGE YERKES TO BE "ELIMINATED."

According to the Detroit papers, the Sheriff's office, in the U. S. M. Regency contest, proposes to eliminate John McKay, George Yerkes and Tommy Farrell, besides Regent Frank Lehnd and Regent Junius Bon. Gee whizz! That's certainly some elimination. George Yerkes is a brother of Will Bon and Rob Yerkes of this place.

MRS. J. A. CAVELL DEAD.

Mrs. J. A. Cavell, died at the home of her son, Dr. B. B. Cavell, Wednesday night after a three-months' illness. Mrs. Cavell, who was 71 years old, had lived here with her son and family for the past six years.

Surviving her, are the husband and two sons, E. B. of this place and J. B. of Grand Rapids, and a sister, Mrs. Fishback of Howell.

Funeral services will be held at the Presbyterian church Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

WILL J. THOMPSON

The bustling young business man who has just completed the building of a handsome new theater, the Alceum, on Main street. The undertaking was a big one and reflects great credit on Mr. Thompson's enterprise and executive ability in adding so fine an edifice to Northville's business and amusement section.

E. D. ANNUAL MEET.

The King's Daughters held their annual meeting and spread in the Ladies' Library Tuesday evening, about 60 members attending. Mrs. Harry Noble was elected leader; Mrs. F. S. Neal, vice-leader; Mrs. P. H. Alexander, secretary; Mrs. N. C. Schrader, treasurer, and Mrs. Marvin Elsworth, assistant secretary.

BECKHAM-GALAMB.

Miss Dorothy Beckham of Toledo was married Wednesday afternoon in that city to Joseph Galamb of Detroit.

The bride is quite well known to many Northville people where she for many years spent her school vacations. She was one of Toledo's most charming and beautiful ladies, the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Beckham of the Beckham Creamery company.

Mr. Galamb is chief engineer and designer for the Ford Automobile company of Detroit. Among those present at the wedding reception were Mr. and Mrs. Henry Ford and a number of the staff and managers of the Ford plant.

THE BLUE BIRD.

On Monday, January 25, Maurice Marterlinck's exquisite fairy fantasy, "The Blue Bird," comes to the Garrick theater, Detroit, for a three days' engagement, having carried its message of beauty and happiness literally around the earth. This wonderfully beautiful spectacle of fairyland, which ran for 265 days at the New Theater, New York, and which has never had a No. 1 company, has made a triumphal tour of the entire country and comes to Detroit with the stupendous New York production and wonderful company which have made it one of the greatest permanent successes in years.

"The Blue Bird" is a quest of happiness, the heart's desire. The curtain rises on a small brother and sister, Tytyl and Mytil, who are asleep in their bed in a woodcutter's cabin. They are awakened by the Fairy Berlioz, who tells them to go in search of the Blue Bird, symbol of happiness. She entrusts Tytyl with a marvelous green cap which has a magic diamond, the mere turning of which allows them to see the hitherto unseen.

"The Blue Bird" is the child's delight, the grown-up's intellectual pleasure. Its fairy magic, its wit and philosophy, its simplicity and charm has reached the hearts of all. It is a mirror of the world and of the stage, drama, spectacle, allegory, music, dances, fun and illusion—all in one.

The prices for this special farewell engagement are 25c to $1.50 instead of the usual $2.00 scale, and there will be a gala matinee Wednesday. Mail orders are now being received from out of town patrons and will be mailed back if accompanied by self-addressed envelope. There will also be a gala matinee on Saturday.

MRS. KING'S DAUGHTER DEAD.

The body of Miss Agnes King, 28 years of age, who died at Lapeer last Friday, was brought here Saturday. Funeral services were held Sunday, conducted by Rev. R. M. Pierce and interment made at Plymouth.

Deceased was the daughter of Mrs. G. King.

SCHOOL NOTES.

WILD GAME FOR HUNTERS' CONVENTION

Two-Days' Meeting, Jan. 27 and 28, Scheduled to Be Held in Lansing; Many Speakers.

Lansing, Mich.—Everything in the wild animal line to be found in Michigan including deer, will be among the live game exhibits at the Sports men's show to be held in connection with the annual meeting of the Michigan Association and sportsmen's convention, which will be held in Lansing Jan. 27 and 28. The sports men's show is an innovation in Michigan. Another change is to hold the convention for two days instead of one.

The sportsmen's show will be composed of live and mounted game animals and birds, the things the sportsman use in the woods, from a tent to a skinning knife, and trophies. The trophies will not be forgotten and rods, reels, lures, flies, baits and clothing for him will be shown.

One of the most interesting features will be an exhibit by the Michigan Fish Commission. At least 12 or more large glass tanks will be used to show game fishes in their natural element. Exhibits will also be made by the state game department and the M. A. C. The game department has 150 mounted specimens including a Zambian beaver, many game birds and water fowl.

Men known throughout the country as big game hunters and conservationists have been procured for speakers at the banquet and convention.

No trace has been found of him and no word has been received by relatives.

GERMAN WHO PLACED INFERNAL MACHINE ON BRITISH VESSEL EXPECTED REWARD

An infernal machine, which was cleverly timed to explode outside the harbor of New Orleans aboard a British transport conveying mules to the French army was discovered just as the ship was about to sail. The machine contained a charge of about 100 pounds of dynamite, enough to explode a dozen ships. Hans Halle, a German, confessed that he had placed the infernal machine on the vessel. Halle claims not to have been employed by the German government, but says he expected the German government would reward him in case the vessel were destroyed.

BIG GERMAN GUNS HURL SHOT MILES

Siege Pieces That Smashed Antwerp Pointed Almost Perpendicularly.

AIM FROM CAPTIVE BALLOONS

Shrieking of Shells Heard for 20 Seconds After Discharge of Enormous Mortars.

A correspondent of the Muenchener Neueste Nachrichten gives some interesting details about the famous German 16-inch siege guns that battered Antwerp into surrender and which have destroyed every fort against which they have been directed. He describes the successful bombardment of the French fort of Manouviller, near the German border.

The bore of these giants is a full 42 centimeters. Just as soon as the Germans began their advance against the fort of Manouviller, two of these huge mortars were firmly mounted at a distance of some six miles from the forts. It was impossible for those who served the guns to see the objects at which they aimed, since a number of hills intervened. But what the Germans cannot see they can calculate. They were provided with detail maps, giving the exact distance in yards of various features of the fortifications from any given point. But even these maps were not the sole reliance of the gunners. Captive-balloons were used with these guns to assist in the direction of their fire.

As soon as the balloon had mounted the firing began. Those in the basket had powerful glasses to observe the effect of every shot, and a necessary correction of the range was promptly signalled to the artillerist below. It only required a few shots before every one struck the bull's eye.

At the beginning of the bombardment only one of the mortars was in action, firing a shot every 10 minutes. Soon the second one chimed in and the terrible duet continued at intervals to interval.

What an awful concert! Those standing near had the feeling that the mere sound would send them sprawling. The whole bombardment occupied one and one-half days, but throughout that time only 120 shots were fired and these sufficed to force the surrender of Manouviller.

It was interesting to observe the barrels of the guns. They were pointed almost perpendicularly into the air. It appeared as though they were trying to send a message to the firmament. For 20 seconds after the shot was fired could be heard the shrieking and whistling of the charge as it hurled through the air along a line that would have started it well over Mount Blanc.

On the next day, when the 740 prisoners were transferred from the fort to be sent to Germany as prisoners of war, the first question put by the commandant of the fort was: "Of what caliber were the shots which you fired during the last day of the bombardment?"

He was very greatly astonished to learn about the new guns and to learn that their fire had been directed from such a distance.

DETROIT AUTOMOBILE SHOW 1915

Jan.

REAL BARGAINS IN CARS

There is a strong demand for used automobiles today, as the economical buyer realizes that in the used car is found every desired attribute—and the price is always less than for even inferior new cars.

The automobile for the rural population is coming into stronger favor every day and this year there promises to be a great influx of visitors to the Detroit Automobile Show from the rural sections, in fact all of Eastern Michigan will be represented at this event, and these visitors will come prepared to buy.

In anticipation of the enormous demand for cars at less than the usual figures asked for new cars, the Loveland Company, of Detroit, have been working strenuously to secure the biggest line of used cars at bargain prices ever shown in this city. Not only used cars of all standard makes, but many new cars will be found on their floors—and every one at a radical discount from regular prices.

The policy of the Loveland Company is to pay spot cash for all cars, in other words, they buy the cars themselves, and do not act as a commission house, whose responsibility only lasts long enough to pocket a commission. The cars must be worthy of the inspection and buying power of the successful expert—they do not believe in putting their own money into a worthless car, and for that reason they can fully guarantee them in a responsible manner every car they sell.

The Loveland Company are located at 1197 Woodward Ave., corner of Palmer, Detroit, Michigan, and show visitors and all who intend purchasing a car this season well do well to run out to the big storage room and inspect the finest array of bargains ever assembled under one roof.

THE DETROIT AUTO SHOW TO BE FULL OF SPECIAL AND INTERESTING FEATURES

The Big Auto Show Opens January 16th to a Season Full of Promise—Eastern Michigan Visitors Will Attend in Throngs.

The annual Detroit Automobile show will occupy space fully 100 per cent greater this year than ever before.

In addition to a world of pleasure cars, such as never-before-seen, the truck building will be the scene of the year's best and largest display of commercial and farm vehicles, a feature which is attracting the attention of the business world.

The building decorations will be unique. The second floor will show the famous Lincoln Highway, in forty big panels, and will prove a real sensation.

In addition to the regular features visitors will be afforded a cafe, dance hall, and entertainment by high class singers and dancers, every afternoon and evening.

The Detroit show will compare favorably to the New York exposition and visitors are assured that the very best models will be on exhibition, and owing to the large increase of floor space, many of the exhibitors will be able to show their complete lines and all will be able to demonstrate their factories by a better variety than ever before.

On the last floor of the building will be found a beautiful Japanese garden effect, which will show an opportunity to display the cars to the best advantage.

A great deal of interest has been manifested in the wonderful truck show. The truck building is richly decorated in purple and gold and here some thirty makers are displaying many models of power wagons designed to take the place of horses in city work, as well as for suburban and farm use. The use of motor trucks and light delivery is becoming more popular every day, and the truck exhibit this year will undoubtedly prove one of the most powerful drawing cards of the entire show.

The directors of the Detroit Automobile Dealers' Association are to be congratulated upon the fine location for the show. It has required a much larger space than in the past and this year there will be no crowding for lack of rooms. The exhibit will be held in the plant of the Detroit-Lumber Company. It is a new plant and is just three miles from the "heart of things". Motoring from town the favorite path will be out Lafayette to the western boulevard, thence to West Jefferson and on to the show. The Port street cars run right by the entrance, with plenty of extra cars in service to accommodate the crowds.

The 1915 Detroit Auto Show bids fair to be the banner event of the year and all Detroit dealers and the Association are optimistic to an extreme as to the outlook for a healthy and vigorous spring trade.

A CAR THAT SATISFIES

Measured by every test required to prove the merit of a car, the famous Paige has achieved triumph after triumph. No other car at any where near the price is equal to the demands which are so easily summated in this car of cars.

Distinctive in every line, with comfort at the maximum, mechanically perfect—and at a price that hits the popular idea of what a price should be, the Paige is the choice of the wise buyer who distinguishes as to actual car quality.

The choice of the Paige Detroit Motor Car Co. at the Detroit Auto Show is one that attracts many visitors. It is here that the actual buyers linger longest and certainly no visitor to the show can afford to pass by or ignore the Paige.

There are two great models, the Glenwood Four-'16 and the Paige Model-T-Fifteen, Six-'16—both favorites—and both bearing the Paige character and homogeneity of construction in every detail. Rural trade and the folks of the suburban towns find the Paige car that will stand hard service. It is not a "city car," by any means, but day in and day out—in all sorts of weather and under all road conditions, it will prove a reliable, trusty friend and at the same time its tasteful appearance will prove a source of pleasure to those who enjoy true exclusiveness and style.

TO FORD OWNERS

Did you ever stop to think what it costs you in gasoline, oil and the wear and tear on your engine by letting it run when the car stands idle, rather than to get out into the mud or street to crank it; and did you ever notice the inconvenience you are put to when you stop the car wishing a conversation with someone, when the noise of your engine almost drowns the sound of your voice? All these things can be overcome if so desired, by the owner by merely investing a small amount in the way of a starter. One that will operate from the seat as accurately and as surely as at the crank. There are many Ford starters on the market today, but out of all the number that are now on the market only one has proven to the public for the past two years its durability and efficiency. The Automatic Appliance Company of Boston, Mass., with a branch office at 304-Hodges Bldg., City of Detroit, are the only company who have factory representatives on the road continuously looking after the wants and desires of its patrons. Whenever they hear of anything going wrong, no matter what the cause might have been, they spare no expense in making it right and satisfactory to the users. The Boston Starter only adds about 12 pounds weight to your car and is so constructed that there is scarcely no friction whatever, being two sets of ballbearings of 23-balls each to take care of the idle parts, thus making the cost of manufacture of this starter greater than any other mechanical starter on the market, yet it is sold to the public at a very low figure when the efficiency and quality of the workmanship used in the starter is taken in consideration. One should never hesitate on a few dollars added to the price of any article so long as the quality and durability is increased many folds thereby. The Company is offering a splendid opportunity for you to obtain one of these starters absolutely free which you will find in their advertisement in the Automobile Section of this paper.

THE PERFECT MOTOR FAN BELT

The "Wilson" Quick Attachable Fan Belt will fill a long felt want among automobile owners as a long wanted new attachable belt connection. This company is able to make up belts of any length desired and have a special woven fiber belt that is guaranteed against oil, water, alkali and heat, the four elements that are so destructive to a leather belt.

The durability of the belt is backed by their guarantee to outlast any 3 or 4 belts of other makes on the market today, and the fact that the owner of the car can put one of these belts on in two or three minutes without soiling his hands or gloves makes it still more desirable. The price is very low indeed and can be secured from Wilson, 304 Hodges Bldg., Detroit, Mich. by mail at any time.

PAIGE

"The Standard of Value and Quality"

You Can't Buy More—You Won't Be Satisfied With Less

THERE—in a nutshell—you have a complete explanation of the great ovation which has greeted the new Paige Six-'46."

This car combines luxurious comfort for seven full grown people—distinctive beauty of line and design—and mechanical perfection which will consistently take you anywhere and everywhere—as fast or as slow as you desire to travel. So, it must be evident that you can't buy more.

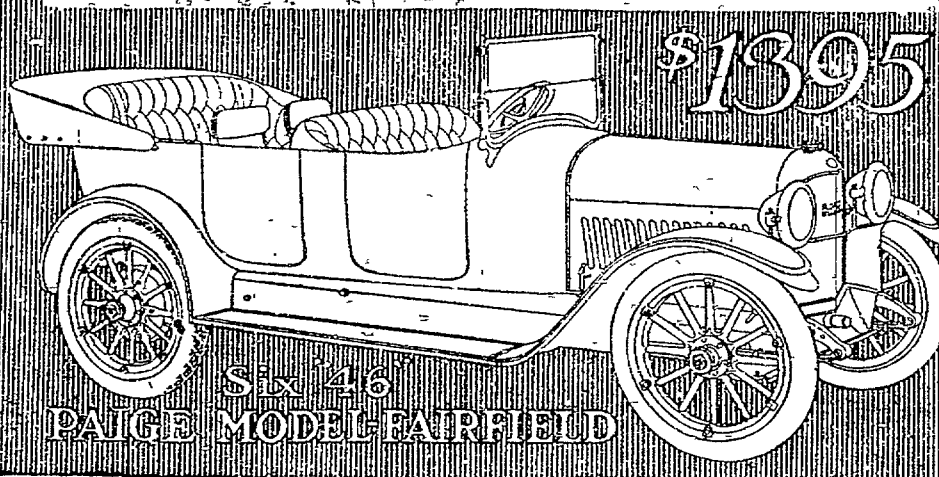

If you buy less, you must compromise with your own peace of mind and comfort. That honestly old saying—"You can't make a silk purse out of a sow's ear," has survived the test of ages. So make up your mind, that less perfect construction, aptly pointed out in you find in Paige cars, can only mean less efficient service and satisfaction.

It makes no difference whether you select the Glenwood Four-'16 or the Fairfield Six-'46. They are both Paige cars—both "the standard of value and quality."

Having often visited here, the young couple will make their home at Orion, where they will be at home to their friends after March 1.

Apropos of the story of a "window smashing" stunt by two Northville ladies, told in the Record some months ago, a certain village official intimately connected with the law and order department, has been in the habit of unmercifully "saying the said 'smashers'." They now have "one on" the gentleman. Last week Thursday, in spite of the fact that he is supposed to be a peace propaganda personified, Mr. E. (of course we can't be personal about this, any more than we were in our account of the former disaster) "went through" the big glass in Ryder's store door in a most complete and effective manner. And neither is he a suffragette. The paneful subject will now be exhaustively discussed by the opposite side.

These women form the congressional committee, with headquarters in Washington. They work week in and week out for suffrage, and so well have they directed their efforts that the senate last year voted 35 to 34 for the Bristow-Mondell amendment. This amendment is now up for discussion in the house. Suffragists believe that within a few years a constitutional amendment providing for equal suffrage will be able to get through both houses with the necessary two-thirds majority.

The man grunted with disapproval when he found she had indeed vanished. He considered it rather rude of her when he was getting along so swimmingly in his oration.

For half an hour he read fitfully, still wondering. Then there was a cough at the door and he looked up. He started and his eyes bulged.

Under a huge pompadour that dripped with curls his wife's face simpered at him. A hat so big that it touched the door jambs towered above her. A skirt five yards around the hem filled the lower part of the door and her general figure was that of an hour glass. Up under her ears a high collar choked her. Her sleeves resembled balloons.

"Good gracious!" gasped the man.

"The hat is one I wore three short years ago," said his wife, chattily. "The dress dates back five years and the hair-dress two. I have done my best to attain the sensible, artistic clothes of past days that you were shouting about. How do you like 'em?"

"Oh, my goodness!" groaned the man. "If you've got to look insane I suppose it will attract less attention if you do it after this year's models. Drat, the styles anyhow!"

No Money.

One morning father missed some money out of his clothes, and thought mother had frisked him during the night. So, while mother was busy in another room, father went through her handbag in search of his coin. He found a receipted milk bill, an unpaid ice bill, a big bunch of prepared chaik, a powder puff, two coupons six months old, representing the last time he had taken her to the theater; a button hook; six samples of dress goods; a clipping containing Gene Field's "Little Boy Blue," two safety pins, a sample of talcum powder, one of the baby's mittens, an old tin type of himself taken before marriage, and seven cents in coin. And father felt so-mean that he kicked himself all day.

Joel Chandler Harris, the author of "Gone with the Wind" was at his desk one night when an old-time reporter looked over and said: "Joe, how do you spell 'graphic'?" With one "f" or two?"

"Well," said the kindly Uncle Remus, who was too gentle to hurt even a common adjective, "if you are going to use any, Bill, I guess you might as well go the limit."

They are harmless for any age and produce a prompt and painless evacuation of the bowels. For infants, let the long end, for older children get short A's. The suppository should be retained in the rectum from 15 to 20 minutes to give best results.

A Good Remedy for Catarrh is crushed cubeb berries smoked in a pipe, emitting the smoke through the nose; after a few trials this will be easy to do. If the nose is stopped up so that it is almost impossible to breathe, one pipeful will make the head perfectly clear. For sore throat, asthma and bronchitis, swallowing the smoke effects quick relief. It is the best remedy in the world for offensive breath, and will make the most foul breath pure and sweet. Sufferers from that horrid disease, ulcerated catarrh, will find this relief unequalled. Eating the crushed berries is also good for sore throat and all bronchial complaints. After smoking do not expose yourself to cold air for at least 15 minutes.

Healing and Softening Lotion for Hands, Face and Neck—Mix two ounces glycerin, two ounces bay rum, twenty-five drops tincture of benzoin; shake all together and add same amount of water after it has been boiled and cooled. THE TABLE

Date Cakes—One pound stoned dates, two and one-half cups rolled oats, two and one-half cups flour, one cup brown-sugar, one cup sugar, one teaspoon baking powder, one-half cup warm water, one cup granulated sugar, one half cup cold water. Put dates, granulated sugar and cold water in sauce pan, boil until dates are soft, allow to cool. Cream brown sugar and butter together, then add rolled oats and flour, mix well with the hand. Add hot water and soda, then divide dough into two equal parts. Roll out, but not too thin. Spread date filling on one layer, place second layer on top of filling and cut into squares. Lay on until cooled, and bake in hot oven, until done. These cakes are delicious and any one liking dates (figs can be used instead of dates) will not regret trying this recipe.

CLEAN THE TELEPHONE.

In homes where cleanliness and sanitation is carefully observed, one very frequently finds a flagrant omission in the matter of the telephone transmitter. Dust and dirt are allowed to accumulate thereon, while members of the household and others continue to talk into it, the moisture of the mouth coagulating and encouraging the spread of colds, throat disturbances and other infections. A bit of gauze dipped in alcohol, peroxide and water or any mild household antiseptic used on the transmitter every day, or two would do much toward preserving the well-being of the household.

The Wife's Money

BY MRS. EVA LEONARD

"Of course $900 a year is not much to support a wife and four children on these times," the minister was saying. "I realize that and it is good of my wife to try to help out by giving music lessons. What I complain of is her filling the house so full of people that have got to be fed. There's Julia, the dark haired one. She does most of the work and cares for the baby. Yes, she is paid mostly with music lessons, but there are all her clothes and food."

"Alice is not needed at all. The children could go to school like other Americans, but my wife insists on their being taught at home so they can have time to practice their music."

The slender, white-faced little man looked dismally over the horse's back at the futter of brown leaves sitting down through the autumn stillness.

"I suppose a man who can't make enough to support his family has no right to expect to have his opinions considered. When we were first married and could live on a poor minister's salary, everything was different. Emily cared for me then. Now since she is teaching every day, she makes me think of a schooler carrying full canvas. I am a little tug that must get her in and out of the harbor. I just get settled to do some studying when I hear, 'Vote for the horse ready?' I wouldn't mind so much if my name were anything else. If she'd only say what she thinks and call me 'Defeat' I could stand it better."

"Oh, yes, of course I know she works hard and I ought to be willing to put in the biggest part of my time hitching and unhitching and going to the train and coming back, rain or shine."

"No, there's nothing else I can do. I've thought about it enough to know. I must keep on preaching to empty pews and waiting for the people to get ready to pay my $75 a month."

"What would I have her do? Why, just teach the children here in town, two days a week. She could do that and do all her own work but work half as hard as she does now, and we could have some home life. The place is like a hotel as it is, and the children have no mother really. Why, there are four outside our own family besides you. Of course you are a visitor, so I am not talking about you. There's the seamstress at 52 a-day, and the landress, she's here two or three days every week. You see it mounts up. What I claim is, she's paying out for help three-fourths of what she takes in and we are no better off, and the children are brought up by strangers."

"I keep feeling that if things were different, maybe I could preach better sermons, something someone would care to hear. Have I ever talked to her about it? I should say I had, but it does no good. Life will go right on this way to the end of the chapter. Get up!"

And he flapped the lines over the patient old horse's back and we rumbled down the road.

Trying to Please

"Do you like it?" inquired the man's wife, twisting her head about. The man regarded her with the helpless expression that masculinity is always reduced to when contemplating style.

"I know what he meant now!" the man burst out at length, irresolutely. "At the time I couldn't understand, but now I see I heard a man say that the new style of hairdressing made a woman look like a cat with its ears flat back! That's just it! It's exactly it!"

"You can stop your chant," said the man's wife, in an offended tone. "I do not care if you don't like it! Well, let me tell you, Howard Arthur Dopps, that I paid one good dollar to get my hair dressed this way, and it's the way everyone is wearing her hair and it's stylish and you've got to like it! Haven't you noticed?"

"Well," admitted the man, slowly, "seems to me that I have for some time now been wondering what had happened to the scenery. Of course I noticed that their ears were showing, scandalously, and then I did wonder why they fixed their hair to look as though somebody had yanked it back and nearly pulled it out by the roots and wadded it up way back on the tip-top of their heads. Is that really the style?"

"It certainly is!" said his wife. "And when you get used to it is has an air of its own."

"I guess so," admitted her husband sadly. "Only women never looked so sweet as when they curled it all around their faces and flared it loose, and, oh, you know how! They look so queer nowadays!"

"I suppose," said his wife, indignantly, "that you don't like this dress, either? I bought it last week."

"Did you?" asked the man. "Couldn't you get away? Or maybe they chloroformed you! Amelia, tell me honestly, didn't women look nicer when they wore gently flowing garments that swished around their feet that you couldn't see, and that covered up their chests and protected their spinal column from the blasts of a cold, censorious world? What is style against really artistic clothes with real beauty in their lines? Why, when I look back and remember how sweet you looked then it doesn't seem possible that you are you now! That dress you have on this minute resembles a dancing dervish's skirt, worn over a salt sack around your ankles—and I'd hate to say what the waist looks like. I can't see enough of it to describe it! Did you really part with good money for that?"

"How you women do need a strong, protecting hand to guard you every minute. I've no doubt the clerk who sold you that garment received enough bonus to retire on for the season for getting rid of a hitherto unsalable atrocity!"

"You don't want me to look like a frump, do you? That's what I'd be if I didn't follow the styles!"

The man sighed. "How foolish women are," he meditated. "Why can't they realize how much better they would look in sensible clothes such as I have described! How much more attractive they would be, and appealing to the masculine eye! I certainly would be proud if my wife showed that she was sensible enough and independent enough to abandon freak dressing and—er, where are you, Amelia?"

BIG CHANGES IN FOOTWEAR FASHIONS

One of the big surprises in the fashions this winter was the introduction of military type boots which closely imitate those worn by the Russian cossack. These boots come in all colors, to match the costume, but are invariably trimmed with patent leather.
