"MISS CHERRYBLOSSOM" WAS SIGNAL SUCCESS

PRETTY MUSICAL COMEDY WON ENTHUSIASTIC COMMENT.

STAGE OF HANDSOME NEW THEATER A SCENE OF BEAUTY.

The long-anticipated musical comedy, "Miss Cherryblossom" given Monday and Wednesday evenings in the new Alseium theater, under the auspices of the Library board, proved to be one of the finest entertainments ever seen here.

Monday evening's performance was carried out under handicaps that might well have discouraged the most experienced managers and actors, but with the large audience in entire sympathy with the difficulties of the occasion, and everybody ready to excuse unavoidable conditions and to help remedy them as far as possible, those on whom the burden rested were enabled to carry it through very satisfactorily. An extremely stormy day and evening were had enough, but when the electric system was put out of business by the storm, it looked for a while as if it were "all off." However, lamps and lanterns were procured through the kindness of several citizens, J. A. Huff helping out by furnishing two beautiful and powerful gasoline lamps, and when it was finally possible to begin the entertainment, a succession of encores showed the admiration of the audience for the manner in which the young people carried out their parts.

Wednesday evening saw another large audience equally enthusiastic. The handsome new theater, the fine scenic background, the unusually pretty stage setting and the large company of young folks in their strikingly effective costumes furnished a spectacle of rare beauty. Northville people are always very loyal to home talent, and their loyalty has been fully justified and well rewarded in the manner in which all the parts in this exceedingly taking operetta were filled. Miss Ruth Johnson proved herself a most efficient instructor, and her pupils certainly did her and themselves credit, and placed the ladies of the Library board under lasting obligations, as well as giving the people of Northville a rare treat in the entertainment line.

The financial side of the entertainment was an almost unexpected success, the attendance Wednesday night when over 400 tickets were sold surpassing all anticipations. The admissions for both evenings totaled $172, giving a net profit of $146, half of which goes to the Library, thus enriching its treasury by $70.

A flashlight picture of the company, in costume, and director Miss Johnson, was taken after the Wednesday evening performance by Photographer Wisdom.

FORMER NORTHVILLE RESIDENT.

On February 3, another one of Northville's former residents was laid to rest in Rural Hill cemetery. Gertrude White, wife of George W. Newman, and eldest daughter of Dexter and Julia Ann White, was born April 29, 1846, one mile north of Northville; here she spent her childhood days, marrying Mr. Newman March 1, 1866. A few years of their married life was spent in Northville. Five daughters came to bless their home.

On the evening of Jan. 30, the eldest and youngest of these were standing very near the brink to welcome the spirit form of that dear mother, as it left its earthly home. The indulgent husband and three remaining daughters, Miss Newman of Waverly, N. Y., Mrs. George Luzzanis of Philadelphia and Mrs. Edward C. Tracy of Waverly, also her only sister, Mrs. C. W. VanZile of Detroit, followed the dear earthly form to its last resting place.

We wish the bereaved ones to remember that many warm friends are extending loving thoughts of sympathy at this trying hour. Also that He who said, "I will never leave thee nor forsake thee," never breaks a promise.

AUTO MAKERS HAVE

SMOOTH SAILING

EXCEPTIONALLY GOOD OUTLOOK FOR SPRING IN OPINION OF OLDSMOBILE SALES MANAGER.

J. V. Hull, sales manager of the Oldsmobile, believes that the spring months give promise of great prosperity for automobile manufacturer and he offers four reasons for his conclusion.

"First," says Hull, "December is commonly regarded as the dullist month of the year in the automobile business and for that reason more than any other it is a safe gauge of future conditions. With a large body of manufacturers December, 1914, was the best December experienced in many years. It was found necessary in our plants to speed up production to a considerable extent and even when we finished the month considerably behind our orders. Business in the large cities was exceptionally good. Our San Francisco branch delivered 13 cars at retail in one day."

"Secondly, practically all our dealers are making preparations for handling an unusually large spring trade and many of them have stated that their contract specifications will in all probability be insufficient for their requirements."

"Thirdly, South American markets are expanding rapidly. I learn this not alone from reports of merchandise but from the amount of correspondence received from concerns who are willing to consider propositions to handle American made automobiles."

"Fourthly, our business in the dead of winter furnishes ample evidence that conditions are strengthening steadily. Cars already ordered for January and February will keep our plants very busy during these two months. Cars already ordered for January and February will keep our plants very busy during these two months. Cars already ordered for January and February will keep our plants very busy during these two months."

TREADOR ROUTS BULL FOR CO-EDS

Man Armed with Lath Weapon Comes to the Rescue of Girl Students.

JERSEY BULL IS BADLY SCARED

First Fight Mexican Style Scheduled in the History of Cook County.

Chicago.—In the barnyard of a farm a mile or so from the Glen View Golf club there is a Jersey bull who is suffering from a bad attack of nerves.

Every time anyone comes near him, he snorts, backs away and crawls under the barn. If you were to come up to him suddenly and wave a handkerchief in his face he would try to jump over the windmill and bellow for help.

There was a time when Claude—that's his name—had the reputation of being the most ferocious bull in Cook county. But yesterday the combination of a bull fighter armed with a lath "espada" and a bed quilt, a professor of history, a riding master and twenty cheering "co-eds" from Northwestern University proved too much for him.

Here is the story of Cook county's first and only bull fight and the un-doing of Claude:

At 1128 Foster Ave. there is a riding school, conducted by Walter C. Du Brock. Among his patrons are several members of Northwestern University faculty and a score or more co-eds. It has been their custom to meet at the school Saturdays and ride to a picnic enclosure near the Glen View club, owned by Mr. Du Brock. Among the acquaintances of the latter is "Ike" Levin, who has been a bull fighter in Mexico. The other day he suggested that he display to Mr. Du Brock's pupils just how the sport was carried on.

After meeting at the school, the party—there were twenty young women and as many men—rode out to the club. Included in the party was Prof. Harry Nightingale, head of the history department of the Evanston academy.

After a picnic luncheon Mr. Du Brock and Prof. Nightingale went over to the farm of George Nelson to borrow Claude. The twenty co-eds tam-bled noisily onto the roof of a shed within the enclosure, while the men in the party got on the fence.

At first in the regulation costume, "Treador" Levin stood in the middle of the enclosure waving a gorgeous bed quilt. The girls sang the torador song from "Carmen."

Suddenly shouts were heard from a patch of woods within the enclosure, and out dashed Claude. He was bellowing and shaking his head furiously.

"Viva el toro!" shouted the spectators. "Viva el matador!"

Whereupon the torador stepped forward a yard or two and waved the bed quilt. Claude, not to be outdone, also stepped forward, waving his head. In this fashion they came to within a few feet of each other. Then Levin raised his lath and smote Claude on the brow.

"Viva!" shrieked the co-eds. "What a splendid demonstration of alacrity!" called the professor encouragingly.

It was too much for Claude. An expression of horrid, desperate fear crept into his eyes and he suddenly turned and fled.

Mr. DuBrock, assuming the duties of a picador and armed with the branch of a tree, chanced to be in the line of Claude's retreat. But Claude saw no head not, with the result that the picador suddenly rose in the air, coming down on all fours as the bull disappeared among the trees.

A searching party was sent after Claude, but he was nowhere to be found. A wrecked gate and a path of cut up turf leading to his own barnyard were the only traces he left behind him.

YOUTH PARTS WITH ONE TOE

Cracked Member Ears Enlistment, So He Says, "Cut Her Off"—All Goes Well.

Omaha, Neb.—When W. G. Southwell, a husky farmer lad of Garing, Ia., applied at the navy recruiting station in the federal building for a job in Uncle Sam's battleship service, he passed inspection in a thoroughly satisfactory manner until the lower extremities were reached. Then it was discovered that the little toe on the right foot was of the "hammer" variety, consequently barring the farmer boy from the navy.

"Will you take me if I have the toe cut off?" queried the lad of Lieutenant Tipton, in charge of the station. Navy regulations permit the acceptance of applicants who are minus one toe, providing it is not the great toe, so Southwell received an affirmative reply. "Then off she goes," ejaculated the enthusiastic youth.

Despite the fact that a heavy cold forced him to submit to the operation without the use of a general anesthetic, Southwell underwent the operation, and will present himself at the station for acceptance as soon as the cold heals.

GERMAN REFUGEES FROM TSING TAU FIND HAVEN IN 'FRISCO

German women and children refugees in San Francisco.

More than 100 German refugees of war arrived in San Francisco last week. The refugee party is composed of women and small children, whose husbands and fathers are either held prisoners by the Japanese or who are bottled up in Shanghai, fearing to leave on passenger steamers because of the fact of having to pass through Japanese waters, where they would probably be taken off and interned until the close of the war.

Society Journalism Finds Way to Japan

Newspapers and Magazines Pay More Attention to Women and Homes.

Tokio.—What the Japanese call "western society journalism" is gaining a strong foothold and magazines are paying more attention to the women. Although the practice has not developed to the extent of the women's page as it is known in America, the newspapers make it a particular point to tell what women are doing, and like the magazines, make a specialty of their history, their joys and their future.

Among the wives of the Cabinet members is all of whom are found peculiarly interesting, the Countess Oshima, consort of the Premier, is constantly held up as a model possessing all the virtues for which Japanese women are famous. She not only presides over the most celebrated fiction in Japan, which is capable of receiving thousands of guests at one time, but she is known and respected for her noble character and fine womanly qualities.

The Countess Oshima has been married now for fifty-five years. Before her marriage she was Ayako, the eldest daughter of a noble of the Shogun. She was betrothed by Count Okama, who, in the end of the young man of the turbulent restoration days was determined to find a woman of fine character and good home training. She had always devoted herself to her husband. A notable instance was when, twenty-five years ago, the Count was brought home wounded in the leg by a bomb. The physicians declared that the leg must be amputated. The Countess made a prompt decision when she was told it was the only way to save his life and after the operation she became more devoted still.

The Baroness Kato, wife of the Foreign Minister, perhaps has had one of the wildest social experiences of any Japanese woman. Daughter of the late Baron Iwasaki, she came from one of the wealthiest families in Japan, and as the wife of Baron Kato she has taken a prominent position, especially in London society, where Baron Kato was formerly Ambassador. She is clever and entertaining and has complete mastery of English.

Mrs. Yukio Ozaki, wife of the Minister of Justice, and the daughter of Baron and Baroness Ozaki, who was an Englishwoman, has a romance. It was the postman who brought Miss Ozaki and Yukio Ozaki, then Mayor of Tokio, together. As the name was the same the postman frequently delivered the young woman's letters to the Mayor and vice versa. They met at a dinner party and laughed over the postman's mistakes and shortly afterwards took the matter much more seriously, for they were married. As the wife of the Mayor, Mrs. Ozaki has been the hostess at many brilliant affairs. She has written several volumes and is now completing a collection of love stories and tragedies of old Japan.

When Dr. Kitokuro Ichiki, Minister of Education, was married, Mr. Akeda, the bride's father, gave the couple five rules of matrimonial life, which are reproduced as follows:

1. Love is essential to matrimonial life, but familiarity harms it.
2. Indulgence in love is a cause of loss of respect and respect to each other must not be forgotten even for a day.
3. Husband commands, the wife must obey, but the wife sometimes may command and the husband must obey. It is a secret of the sweet home.
4. Without fixed property no one can have a cooled mind, affection between husband and wife is kept complete with fixed property.
5. Home is, as it were, a boat. It is like a voyage on the sea. Rough weather will appear if it is not forced by hand and wife with joint efforts.

Lorly Elton Rogers, known as the "love husband," whose heart entanglements came to light when one of the three women with whom he has lived poisoned her children and herself, is shown here as he appeared in a New York court last week to answer a white slave charge. He has been indicted by a grand jury, and may be given a prison sentence if found guilty.

WILHELMINA SAILING WITH FOOD FOR GERMANS RISKS SEIZURE

The Wilhelmina leaving New York.

The steamer Wilhelmina, flying the American flag, is now on its way to Hamburg with a cargo of provisions consigned to an agent of a St. Louis commission house in Germany. She passed two British men-of-war outside New York city without molestation. It is believed, however, that she will be seized as soon as she attempts to enter a German port. In case this is done the English will offer to pay the full value of the cargo.

HOW PLANTS SAVE THEIR LIVES

Armed by Nature Against Ravages of Various Foes.

Many plants are equipped with wonderful weapons for their defense. The thorns of the rose bush, bramble and goose prevent cows and horses from eating them, as well as keep off snails and slugs.

Cactus plants have a formidable armor of prickles and daggers. The plant known as the Spanish bayonet is armed with taper-pointed spears that have file-like edges.

Some plants, such as the ragged robin, have sticky stems covered with fine hairs to which insects stick if they climb up to try to steal the honey.

The sun spurge has a poisonous juice which kills insects, while the poisonous properties of the deadly nightshade are well known. The bracken fern has such a bitter taste that cows and sheep will not touch it.

It has been said that women never love as deeply as men—probably because there is so little to furnish the inspiration.

TWENTYFIVE DOLLARS FREE

To all Ford owners who equip their car with the Boston Starter, The Automobile Appliance Co., of 304 Hodges Bldg., Cherry 1275, is offering to give five ($5.00) coupons, which will be paid in cash upon return of and coupons accompanied by an order for another starter as you will see by their ad in this paper. The headquarters of the company is located at Boston, Mass., 1722 Columbus Ave. and they are bound by no shape to limit their guarantee. They not only guarantee the starter and its workmanship but they will do exactly as they claim for it. It costs you nothing to have this starter and you will have satisfied yourself that the Boston Starter is the best of the cheaply made starters who should not hesitate to buy and take the chances of the accidents that are so frequent to parties cranking the car in front. Remember if this liability is taken away when you crank the car from the seat, it makes it easy for a lady or child that is old enough to drive the car even that they could not crank it in the front that can do so with the Boston Starter.

There is no effort at all to get one to purchase the Boston Starter when they see it in operation on one of their friend's cars. Now is your opportunity. Write at once for further particulars to W. L. Wilson, Factory Representative, 304 Hodges Bldg., Detroit, Michigan.

WIRELESS-DIRECTED TORPEDO.

A Device by Which a Projectile May Be Operated From a Distance.

A torpedo that can be propelled and steered by wireless waves of electrical energy is described with illustrations in Popular Mechanics.

The actual apparatus, like all products of genius, is simplicity itself. It possesses all the elements of portability, flexibility and control requisite to the purpose in view. Its essentials are, at the transmitting station a source of electricity such as an accumulator, a spark coil, control levers, a selective device, and a wave transformer and transmitter.

This equipment, which is under the control of an operator, is placed on shore or on the deck of a battleship, cruiser, destroyer, or submarine, as the case may be. The outfit weighs about 200 pounds, a mere bagatelle compared with the massive construction of the battleship which it may be instrumental in sinking.

"In the shell of the torpedo is placed the sensitive mechanism which generates the wireless power from the sending station and uses it for the purpose of the operator, who may be two or three miles distant. The propelling machinery of the torpedo is not disturbed by the introduction of the wireless equipment, which weighs 40 pounds, and comprises suitable devices by means of which the shell craft is steered, made to rise and fall and by which its deadly charge is exploded. The mechanism is designed to operate in synchronism with that used at the sending station so that when the operator presses a certain key a definite and known response takes place in the torpedo."

Tire Mileage Cut Down 50 Per cent

The majority of auto owners do not get the proper mileage on their tires. This fact is well known, but they do not stop to consider the cause. The biggest factor is neglect, says the manager of Michigan Vulcanizing Co. Tire Repairs, Detroit, Mich. A large number of practically new casings come into our shop every day to be repaired that are not worth repairing. Why? "A small cut, thru the casing has been repaired with an Emergency Patch placed on the middle. The patch did its duty when it got them home and that is all that it was made for. Now here is where the mistake was made." They figured that if it got them home it could get them further. It did at the cost of the tire. The hole kept tearing bigger until the Emergency Patch was blown thru the hole, with the result that it would not pay to make such a large repair.

Gray & Davis Starting-Lighting System for Ford Cars

Long ago we realized the demand among Ford owners for electric starting-lighting equipment—provided a system of proved reliability could be obtained at a moderate price.

For nearly two years the Gray & Davis engineers have been engaged in studying the requirements of the Ford car. Exhaustive experiments and months of careful testing were part of the development of this system.

The result is a powerful dependable starting-lighting device a typical Gray & Davis system—identical in material and workmanship with systems found on expensive automobiles.

As is well known, Gray & Davis starting-lighting system are carried as standard equipment on leading American cars in every price class up to $4,000 and over. These systems have been time tested and time-proved and the equipment we offer Ford owners equals this same high standard.

WHAT THE SYSTEM IS
The system designed for the Ford is very simple, compact, light, in weight, and quickly installed, on any Model T. Besides the motor-generator, it includes a 6-volt battery, battery box, indicator for dash, regulator-cut-outs, switches, wiring and all necessary connections.

The engagement of crankshaft is by silent chains neatly housed which prevents oil, dust, water, etc., from coming in contact with chains. This also insures quiet running. No parts show in front of radiator.

Jolly Tars Eat Yeast; Works as They Sleep

Sailors Who Were Hungry Awake in Agony, but Are Saved by Stomach Pump.

Boston, Mass.—Four of the crew of the British freighter Hermia were saved from serious illness or death by a stomach pump when yeast cakes they had eaten began to expand as they slept in the boiler room of the ship. They awoke in terrible pain. The ship's surgeon declared it a wonder that any of them survived the experience.

Chief Steward Herman and three men had been sent ashore to buy supplies, and returned to the dock to find the Hermia under way for the outer harbor. Rather than be left behind they chartered a motorboat to overtake the vessel and became hungry on the way.

Their pursuit of the Hermia lasted until the quarantine station was reached and they had eaten all the supplies purchased. They chose the boiler room to sleep in while the quarantine officials were fumigating the ship, and the heat began to work at once. Within an hour they were crying for help. After the operation of the stomach pump the men declared they had felt as if they were about to burst.

Bill Offered to Tax Autos; One to Bar Jap Farmers

Rep. Smith, Grafton, Would Levy on Power of Cars.

Night Session of House at Lansing Featured by Blow at Oriental Landowners.

Lansing, Mich. — Representative Newell Smith of Grafton, introduced into the house a repetition of the automobile registration and license bill which was passed in the 1913 session and defeated in the Supreme Court.

Before entering his bill, Mr. Smith consulted with the state highway department and the attorney-general to make sure objectionable features found by the Supreme Court had been eliminated. Few changes from the original are found in the bill introduced.

Where, in the former "horse-power tax" bill, the word "license" appeared, the words "special tax" has been substituted. In the old bill a tax of 50 cents for each horsepower was imposed; Mr. Smith's measure cuts this rate to 25c a horsepower. An additional assessment is made, however, to be determined by the weight of the car to be taxed. The Smith bill imposes a tax for each 200 pounds machine weight. The $600,000 deficit in the state highway department's funds was occasioned by the invalidation of the 1913 bill.

Assessment Rate Lower.

Computed on the average weight and horsepower of pleasure cars, the bill introduced calls for an assessment appreciably lower than was proposed in the old measure. The weight provision was incorporated to reach motor trucks, particularly because they usually are equipped with high-speed low geared motors. The tax imposed on them under the old law was high. It is argued that the utility vehicle works more harm proportionately, to the highways than the higher-powered but lighter pleasure car and on this idea was the weight tax evolved.

Mr. Smith's bill provides that not to exceed 5 per cent of the revenues collected from this source shall be used for administrative purposes, salaries and the like.

Anti-Alien Land Bill.

Representative Marshall A. Oakley of Bay City, introduced his anti-alien land law, similar in tone to the one which provoked such spirited discussion in California and for a time threatened to cause an open rupture between the United States and Japan. Mr. Oakley's bill provides that aliens not eligible to citizenship in the United States may not own, lease, inherit, acquire or transfer land in Michigan, unless there is a direct treaty between this country and the country in question especially granting to these aliens the right to acquire property. There are no treaties between America and China or Japan and the Chinese and Japanese are the only aliens who cannot become citizens of the United States.

Rep. Alex. Sly, of Gault City, introduced a bill asking a special appropriation of $165,000 for the Newberry state hospital, at Newberry, for the construction of certain cottages and other buildings.

Would Increase M. A. C. Tax.

Other bills introduced were: By Representative Charles D. Symonds, of Menominee.—To provide that teachers must have six weeks of normal school training before being given employment. This bill is approved by the state department of public instruction.

By Representative F. C. Keene.—To add to the present law regarding schools the right of certain teachers to teach the eighth grade in addition to the ninth and tenth. As the law reads now, teachers of the ninth grade can only teach that and the tenth grade.

Representative Harvey A. Penny of Saginaw, presented a petition asking that the mill tax for the Michigan Agricultural college be increased. The second petition of this nature to appear within a week. Resolutions adopted by the common council of Holland endorsing the proposed agricultural law, were presented by Representative Gerrit W. Koozers of Holland.

JEROME P. SCHENK DIED AT HUDSON

Was 80 Years of Age and Had Been in Failing Health Recently.

Hudson, Mich.—Jerome P. Schenk died at the residence of John Cannon on 1st street, where Mr. Schenk had made his home this winter.

He deceased was 80 years old and had been failing rapidly for the few months. He leaves a son and a daughter, Fred E. Schenk of Hillsdale and Mrs. W. L. Gray of Petoskey.

Lasso Bridal Auto at Cowboy Wedding

"Snorky Dan's" Stock Yard Comrades Provide a Parade and Church Charivari.

Chicago, Ill.—"Snorky Dan" Sammons tied his pony to the rack at the stock yards, doffed his chaps, wiggled into "conventional black" and, with the able assistance of 300 wildly enthusiastic "boys from the yards," was roped, tied and branded at the altar.

It was the biggest "cowboy wedding" the yards ever saw. When "Snorky" knocked off buying hogs for the Business Packing Company early in the day and got ready to hit the trail for the Holy Cross church, East Sixty-fifth street and Maryland avenue, he had no hint of the scheme on foot.

First a two-wheeled phaeton dragged along by a gaunt steer, made its appearance. It bore a big banner giving the bridegroom this welcome admonition:

"Don't weaken, Snorky!" Then came a "hungry five" German band playing Irish melodies, riding in a "cripple wagon" driven by a red-coated negro. A tractor engine, pulling a chain of twelve "clean-up" chariots, came next, and in its wake a couple of hundred yelling, plug-hatted cowboys led by "Rags" Murphy and Tom Dorney. As marshals of the "round up" there were "Tex" Hobart, Jim McQuirk, "Spuds" Grady and "Skinney" Kenny. Even young Edward Morris, who recently went to work in the packing business, was of the job.

The cavalcade drew up in front of the church and awaited "Snorky." It was about 5 o'clock when he arrived in a big touring car with bride-to-be, Miss Mary Cowman, 6377 South Chicago avenue, daughter of the late John Cowman, wealthy coal dealer. As the party entered the church every noise making device, from the cowboy yell to automobile horns, was brought into play.

While Rev. D. D. Wisen was "tying the knot" inside, the automobile was lassoed. The bridal party, upon entering the vehicle attempted to make their getaway, but in vain. Surrounded by prancing ponies they were paraded to the yards at Root and Halsted streets, and after "Snorky" had made a little speech he was permitted to go.

Boatrockers on the sea of matrimony deserve their fate.

THE LOSING SIDE OF MAIL ORDER TRADING.

(Reprint from the Journal of Commerce and Commercial Bulletin, New York.)

Hans Garbus, a German farmer of Iowa, has discovered that the benefits which appear on the surface as attracting to the mail order plan sometimes spell disaster and has written a very interesting story of his views in a certain farm paper. Here is a part of his story:

"We farmers need awakening to the fact that we have unmistakably reached the period where we must think and plan. I am one of the slow German farmers that had to be shown, and I am now giving my experience that others may profit, for knowledge is more expensive now than ten years ago.

"Twenty-nine years ago I began my farm career. I had an old team and $50. Our furniture was mostly home made—chairs, cupboard—and lounge made from dry goods boxes, neatly covered with ten-cent cretonne by my girl wife. We rented eighty acres. Being a boy of good habits I got all needed machinery and groceries of our home merchants on credit, until fall crops were sold. The first year was a wet season and I did not make enough to pay creditors. I went to each on date of promise and explained conditions, paying as much as possible, and they all carried the balance over another year. They continued to accommodate me until I was able to buy a forty-acre piece of my own.

"As soon as I owned these few acres the mail order houses began sending me catalogue, and gradually I began sending my loose change to them, letting my accounts stand in my home town where I had gotten my accommodation when I needed it.

"We then had one of the thriftest little villages in the state—good line of business in all the branches, but merchants who were willing to help an honest fellow over a bad year, and a town full of people who came twice a week to trade and visit. Our little country town supported a library, high school, ball team and we had big celebrations every year.

"A farm near a live town soon doubles in value. I sold my forty acres at a big advance and bought an eighty, gradually adding to it until I had 200 acres of the best land in Iowa. I then put no need of asking favors, and found it easy to patronize the mail order agents that came almost weekly to our door. I went to say that I was the first in the country to make up a neighborhood bid and bid it to a mail order house. Though we got the very best of a while, we got in the habit of sending away for stuff.

"Gradually our merchants lost their stock of goods for lack of patronage. Finally we began to realize that when we had a bolt quickly or a shirt, or clothing for sickle or coat, we had to wait and send away for it. We could not please. Jobs or other things moved to places where they were appreciated. Our less energy moved on. Gradually our town has gone down, our business houses are 'lacy' in appearance, a number are empty, our schools, churches and walks are going down we have no band, no library nor ball team. There is no business done in the town and therefore no taxes to keep things up. Hotel is closed for lack of travel. Go down to the depot when the freight pulls in and you will see the sequel in mail order packages.

"Nine years ago my farm was worth $155 an acre, today I'd have a hard matter to sell it at $267 an acre. It is 'too far from a live town'—so every farmer has said that wants to buy. He wants a place near schools and churches, where his children can have advantages. I have awakened to the fact that in helping to pull the town down it has cost me $6500 in nine years.

WEEK'S CALENDAR

ST. PAUL'S LUTHERAN CHURCH.
(By the Pastor.)
German services next Sunday afternoon, February 7. Special interest attached to this service, Rev. Strasen of Bay City will occupy the pulpit and will lecture on the work of the Children's Friend Society, of which he is president. The work of the society is to provide homes for orphans, homeless, poor and neglected children, by placing them in Christian families for adoption. Come and hear about the glorious work—but remember this service is German.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH NOTES.
(By the Pastor.)
Morning subject: "Finding One's Place in Life." This is the first series in the movement for a greater church and a better community. The sermon is appropriate to the occasion also in keeping with the observance of Vocation Day as suggested by the general assembly. This service should be interesting to the young people who have not yet chosen their life work. The children's talk will be on "Getting a Good Start."

The Sunday school as usual. Remember the standard of attendance is set at 175. Every one must remain to Sunday school, if we attain this number.

The Christian Endeavor at 6 o'clock. This is monthly consecration meeting. The presence of every young person is necessary if we are to attain the standard set. The older ones welcome.

Evening service at 7 o'clock. Subject: "The Relationship of the Church to the Benevolent Organizations in making a Greater Church and a Better Community." This is the first of a series on the general subject of "The Relationship of the Church to Other Organizations in making a Greater Church and a Better Community." The discussion will be largely devoted to a consideration of the relation of the church to the Woman's club and The King's Daughters. Members of these and other similar organizations especially invited.

Men, remember the men's fish supper tonight. Toasts by local men and an address by Mr. Lee Joslin of Detroit. Not too late to decide to be present.

Remember that people of every age and condition are welcome to every service by next Sunday. Do not forget the importance of getting a good start.

The Ladies' Aid society holds its annual meeting at the church parlors Wednesday afternoon at 2:30. There will be a short business session followed by a social hour. All the ladies of the congregation invited to attend.

METHODIST CHURCH NOTES.
(By the Pastor.)
Mid Winter Efficiency Campaign. This campaign has been on for two weeks. Every member of the church take notice. Be out to church Sunday morning. Every member should secure the literature or somebody else for next Sunday morning. If you are staying home from church, come next Sunday morning. It is our great Sunday. No money is to be collected. It is to raise the dead spirits of our church.

The official board has elected the following to serve as the efficiency committee, from the board: C. A. Dolph, Samuel Yelcan, Grace Tremper from the church at large. Onis Tevabury, James VanDyne, Mrs. Cass Filkins. This committee will meet next Tuesday night after prayer meeting.

Next Sunday night is the last of the Pilgrim's Progress series. We had a fine audience last Sunday night. Mrs. Pierce will give a recital on Sunday evening Feb. 14. This will, of course, be of a sacred nature.

The Ladies' Aid will give another dinner in the parlors of the church next Tuesday noon from 11 to 2 o'clock. The menu will be the same as the one offered a month ago. Price of meal for adults, 20 cents, for children 12 or under, 15 cents.

The Aid meeting will be held on Tuesday afternoon at the church parlors.

The Queen Esther circle meets on Tuesday night at the home of Miss Marion Johnston.

The Bible Reading circle meet at the home of Mrs. Chas. Filkins on next Monday afternoon.

BAPTIST CHURCH NOTES.
(By the Pastor.)
The topic for Sunday morning will be "The Greatest Hour and Eternity of Time."

In the evening the pastor will discuss the theology of Northville. Will you not come and compare notes on this important topic?

Northville is certainly a highly favored city in many respects. It has competent legal advisers to set us right as to what constitutes a law abiding citizen. Our physicians will diagnose your case and reveal any physical derangements of which you may be suffering. Professor Wheaton with his corps of teachers, will handle with success the most unpromising proposition. The High school is indeed a great intellectual power house. The ministers think themselves a real necessity; in fact indispensable to the moral and spiritual needs of the people. Your attendance at the divine service and your co-operations in all that pertains to the best interests of the people will be greatly appreciated.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SOCIETY.
Christian Science service in the Ladies' Library Sunday morning at 10:15 o'clock.

Many Lives Saved.
Out of 2,500 persons who accepted the free annual medical examination offered by one of the large insurance companies, 50 per cent were found to be more or less out of order, most of the derangements being in the heart, blood vessels and kidneys. Of those impaired, 14 per cent did not suspect it. In every case the family physician was informed of the trouble. At the end of four years the death rate in this group of 2,500 was only 50 per cent of that reasonably expected by the actuaries.

One or the Other.
Mrs. Crawford—"Do you think you'll be able to keep up with your neighbors?" Mrs. Crabshaw—"If we can't, my dear, we'll move."—Judge.

It Will Come Back.
Algy—"When I saw the guards marching past yesterday, I quite lost my head." Dora—"Don't worry, Algy. It will be no use to anyone. You are sure to get it back."

Fine Tribute to Care Taken on Detroit United Lines.

The continued high-grade of safe operation of the Detroit United Lines is best evidenced by a study of the statistics of 1914.

We find that of the 310,000,000 people carried on the cars of the city and interurban lines, but two passengers lost their lives, the result of car collisions—one in the city and one outside the single fare zone.

Surely here is proof of safety first as practiced by dispatchers and car crews in the operation of cars! As a matter of fact you are considerably safer on a trolley car than you are moving along the street.

Four other passengers lost their lives but these deaths were due to boarding or leaving moving cars.

Note this particularly: not one of the deaths from boarding or leaving occurred on a prepayment car—that type with folding doors and steps that ambulance chasers and a similar sort of newspapers attack from time to time.

That the public is practicing to a greater degree than before the needs of "Safety First" is shown by the decrease in the number killed by moving cars, within the city, the last year being 41 as against 36 this year with one of the 36 being a case of suicide.

Of the 35 who did not mean to be killed 20 were pedestrians who attempted to cross in front of moving cars while 9 were drivers or passengers in other vehicles that got upon the car tracks.—D. U. R. News.

The office pessimist remarks that if it were really so that "Man wants but little here below" it would be a good thing because that's about what the majority of him gets.

An experienced worker who had a part in the fitting up of the new Alseum theater remarked that he had never before seen so fine a theater in a town the size of Northville.

Tuesday was the day variously known as "Dear day," "Groundhog day" or "Familius day." According to an old couplet, you should "On Candlemas day have half your wood and half your hay."

Smith—I don't like to make any complaint to a neighbor, Mr. Jones, but your dog keeps up a terrible barking all night. Jones—Oh, that's all right, he's used to it—won't hurt him. Kind of you to mention it, however.

The old saying "Talk is Cheap" certainly doesn't apply in all cases—for instance in regard to the present republican "flimster" in the U. S. congress, which has cost to date considerably over half a million for stenography and printing.

The village council of Plymouth, at its meeting Monday evening, endorsed, without a dissenting vote, the petition that a resolution prohibiting the sale of all intoxicating liquors in Plymouth be submitted to a vote of the citizens in March next.

Such a quick fire is needed for making good cookies and drop cakes that they are inclined to burn on the bottom. Turn the pans bottom side up, place the cookies and cakes on them and they will burn less easily and be removed more easily.

The Farmington Enterprise office caught fire last Friday in some unknown manner, and the roof was badly damaged before the flames could be extinguished. Editor Price, started repairs immediately, so the regular weekly issue will be out Friday, as usual.

A little girl was visiting friends, and during the course of the conversation one of them remarked: "I hear you have a new little sister." "Yes," answered the little girl, "just two weeks old." "Did you want it to be a little girl?" asked the friend. "No, I wanted it to be a little boy," she replied, "but it came while I was at school."—Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph.

There are three mild cases of scarlet fever in town, Mrs. Bert Phillips and daughter, Marion, and little Angeline Sowles being the victims.

W. R. C. members are requested to bring any spare pennies they may happen to have lying around, to the meeting next Wednesday night. Mystery!

Mrs. Dell Martin entertained the Jolly Pedro club at her home on First avenue Wednesday evening. The club will meet with Mrs. Merrill Franklin next week.

A nine and one-half pound boy, Elmer Eugene, Jr., arrived at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer E. Perrin Saturday, January 30. Mrs. Perrin was formerly Miss Maude VanLeuven of Midford.

The Knights Templar will give one of their drills, in uniform, at the Star party scheduled for Feb. 19. They will also lead the grand march at 8:30 o'clock. The Northville orchestra will furnish music.

If the furs were put away dirty, clean the dark ones by rubbing heated bran into them and the light ones by using hot corn meal. Repeat several times, if necessary, and shake out well.

A new furnace has been installed in the library building this week by the American Bell & Foundry Co. This gives the ladies a chance to immediately dispose of their share of the profits—and then some—of the entertainments of Monday and Wednesday evenings.

In order to have a perfectly good January thaw it was of course necessary that things be first "trodden" up, but really, seems eighteen or twenty degrees below nothing—as per last Saturday night—as rather overdoing it, especially when followed by such bewildering varieties in the thaw line.

And now arises a real wizard—our Thomas Eason, and says the European war will last for two years yet. Is it possible that they have enough men over there to furnish a man's grain for the reaping machinery of modern warfare that long at the present rate of the death harvest?

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Hoyt, Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Benton and the Misses Eva Matheson and Julia Perkins were in Detroit last Friday evening to attend a large class initiation and public installation of officers of Lincoln Grove No. 12, Woodmen Circle, of which Mr. Hoyt is manager and Mrs. Benton and Miss Perkins are members.

A whole lot of people have been wondering lately as to the "why" of the word "jintney." Probably everybody will have found out by this time that it is a western colloquialism signifying a nickel or five cent piece. The reason for its substitution for either is obvious. For instance, it would be misleading as to material to call it a "nickel bus," and equally ambiguous as to value to mention a "five cent bus." What?

Prepare a rich boiled custard, using the yolks of four eggs, a pint of milk, a pinch of salt, and half-cup of sugar. Blanch and boil about a pound of Italian chestnuts, rub them through a fine sieve and add to the cold custard; flavor with a teaspoonful of vanilla and freeze. When almost firm, take off the cover and stir in half a cup of cream, half cup of marshmallow or other cordial, and a few chopped candied cherries or a small quantity of candied pineapple. Finish freezing and serve with whipped cream flavored with bitter almonds.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Clawson Wednesday, February 3. Mrs. Clawson was formerly Miss Una Gunsolly.

C. A. McCullough, R. L. Lanning and D. T. B. Henry were elected as the republican U. of M. regent delegates to attend the county convention in Detroit today.

This is the season for chilblains. If they appear cure them thus: cut thin slices from an unpeeled potato, sprinkle with salt and let stand until enough juice has accumulated to cover the chilblain, leaving the foot bare, till it dries.

Winter Doubles Work. In summer the work of eliminating poisons and acids from the blood is helped by perspiration. In cold weather, with little or no door work or exercise to cause sweating, the kidneys have to do double work. Foley's Kidney Pills help overworked, weak and diseased kidneys to filter and cast out of the blood the waste matter that causes pains in sides or back, rheumatism, lumbago, stiffness of joints, sore muscles and other ills resulting from improper elimination. For sale by all druggists.—Advt.

DEAD STREY THE STREETS OF LILLE AFTER HOT BATTLE

A scene of ruin, desolation and death, is this picture taken immediately after a hot encounter between some Germans and French in one of the principal streets of Lille. A company of Uhlans tried to force its way through the city. As they were passing through one of the main avenues they were unexpectedly confronted by a detachment of French infantry. A hot fight ensued and after a few minutes the German Uhlans were driven back with heavy losses. The dead and wounded were removed and this picture taken shortly after shows the scene of carnage that was left. A mounted sentry is seen patrolling the intersecting streets in the background.

Pretty Cook Tries Nick Carter's Game

However, Twenty-four Hours in Cell Cures "Ham-and" Man of Sleuthing Business.

An ambition to be a detective of the Nick Carter brand caused Lewis Schindler, a Chicago restaurant cook and dishwasher, to masquerade for a week in the South Clark street police precinct as a morals inspector. Twenty-four hours' experience behind the bars has cured him, he says, of ever again wanting to put any person in the same predicament.

The arrest book at the South Clark street station shows that Schindler, while playing the rife of a policeman, prosecuted ten persons. Of the ten, all of whom were arraigned before Judge Goodnow in the Morals Court, some are said to be working out fines at the Jail.

Police men all over the city, when they learned of Schindler's escapade, were convulsed with laughter. The South Clark street police district, from which Schindler had fled to escape being arrested by the "donkey cop," as Schindler was called, summed its wanted guests when it became known that he was only a job applicant.

"I know more about the police bust jobs than those guys over at the South Clark street station give me credit for," said Schindler, when released on bonds.

"Everything will come out all right in the wash, both ka blubber, why don't they go and ask Capt'n O'Connell about me?" He told me one thought I would make a good cop, and he said he would give me a chance with a three was an opening. I just made the opening myself, and I've been pretty busy, too. That's all there is to it."

Before he was unmasked by Sergeant Farrell, Schindler led Detective Sergeant James McCarthy a merry three-hour chase over the district, pointing out alleged disorderly houses and gambling places.

"You've got to get busy and clean up things," said Schindler, "or Funk houser will be after you fellows. I have nothing to do with gambling or disorderly houses, but the Major told me to report these places to him. Unless there is a general cleaning up, I will have to put some of you fellows in bad."

"I nearly wore out a pair of shoes tramping around with him," said McCarthy. "And to find out that he was only a faker! Isn't rich? He had all the men in the station jinking sides ways and tipping their hats to him. They ought to give him life or else make him chief."

Charles Weegham, who was Schindler's employer for a year, says, "I don't know what kind of a detective he would make, but there is no better dishwasher in Chicago."

His Life in His Hands.
Captain Barr of the Carmania, who distinguished himself in the Voltourno rescue work, is a strict but just disciplinarian.

Of Captain Barr, who insists on spotless neatness always, they tell a story in shipping circles.

A very dirty young diver, it appears, was boasting in a hotel smoking room about the dangers of his calling.

"Yes," said the young man, as he relighted the stub of his cigar. "Yes, you sailors, Captain Barr, think you lead a dangerous life, but I let me tell you, I carry my life in my hands."

"Oh, I see," said Captain Barr, "and that's why you never wash them eh—for fear you'll drown yourself."

Glimpses of Married Life

"Oh, Dick," called Nell, too full of her good news to wait for him to get in the house. "Here's a letter from Aunt Ellen, who lives near Fairhaven, and she wants us to come over and visit her for a wedding trip."

They have a lovely farm home and it would be a real rest after the excitement. "What do you think?" "We'll go," agreed Dick enthusiastically. "I'll write to her then and tell her to expect us Friday morning. Can you go out to the cottage this afternoon to help hang the curtains?"

Richard nodded gaily. "All-right, I have the bundle all ready and we'll get my wraps on at once."

"Let's hid them suit cases," suggested Jack Furnishy, Dick's roommate, who was to be best man at the wedding.

"I don't know about that; it might make them miss the boat, and as Nell's aunt has to make a trip from the country to meet them that would be carrying a joke too far. Besides, Nell does not enjoy joking," said Oliver Dunn.

"So far as Nell goes, she will have to get used to jokes if she lives with Dick with any comfort. He is full of them. We can produce the suit cases in time to catch the boat, after we have kept them hunting awhile. Now the whole bunch must be on the pier, so that when they come down late to get on the boat there will be enough rice and old shoes to announce that it is a bridal couple to all on board," and Jack hurried away.

A dozen of them were waiting anxiously on the landing that evening and only a few minutes remained before leaving time. "I am afraid they are not coming in time. There goes the whistle and they are taking up the gangplank," exclaimed Olive in dismay.

"Just as the boat moved away from its pier a taxi drove up and four people sprang out and raced for the wharf. It was too late. The water was churned up by the wheels. "Want to get that boat?" called a man standing near.

"I'll give you a fiver if you put 'em aboard," whispered Jack in his ear. "Come with me," he called. In a flash they were running down the pier, stumbling over heads and ropes in the dim light. At last they came to a tug moored at the end of the long wooden structure and literally fell aboard. He put on all possible steam and sprilled the lake boat to stop. It was mistaken at the mouth of the river and as the tug came along the rail was packed with passengers.

As Dick and Nell were helped aboard the rice and old shoes were tossed into the water, and everyone knew that a bridal couple was approaching.

The passengers lined up on deck and Dick and Nell, who had been so anxious that no one should suspect that it was their wedding journey, way taken down the long line in this impromptu reception and introduced to Mrs. Martin. She stood the couple well and everybody was in love with the pretty bride.

It was a great relief, however, to climb into the comfortable carriage behind Uncle William and to know that there would be no more toasting or annoyance for two long weeks. (Note—The further adventures of Nell and Dick will be related from time to time in subsequent issues.)

Household Hints

INEXPENSIVE MEAT DISHES
Delicious Breaded Pigs' Feet—Twelve halved pickled pigs' feet will serve six people. Beat up one egg to which has been added salt, pepper and a little water. Melt two heaping tablespoons butter, pour into cracker crumbs made of two 5-cent boxes of soda crackers. Place in double roaster, flat side up, with small piece of butter on each half; roast two hours. Mash, French fried or escaloped potatoes are very nice served with them.

Veal Tongues in Tomato Jelly—Boil fresh tongue in salted water until very tender; skin and form in ring, holding in place with fine skewer. Take quart can of tomatoes, place over fire in granite dish with stalk of celery, salt and white pepper to taste; let boil. Strain and mix with package of gelatine previously dissolved. Place tongue in round mold. When jelly is nearly cool (before it begins to set) add one tablespoon chopped parsley, pour over tongue, set away in cold place to harden. To serve, turn out on platter, garnish with parsley. Cut in slices with very sharp knife.

Baked Liver in Casserole—One whole calf's liver; scald and remove skin; put thin strips of bacon all through liver, also some slices on top; season to taste, add some butter, water and one onion if desired. Bake in medium oven in covered casserole, basting frequently. This is delicious and took first prize in a cooking contest.

Bacon, Eggs and Onions—Beat up as many eggs as you would use for scrambling. Add a few green onions cut up fine, a little salt and red pepper. Now cut sliced bacon in little pieces about one-fourth of an inch wide and fry till brown, add above mixture, stirring until eggs are cooked. Serve while hot.

Meat and Tomato Pie—Two cups ground cold meat put in baking dish, one cup dry bread crumbs on top, one pint tomato sauce on top of all. Season with salt and pepper to suit taste. Add a little hot water, then bake about one-half hour (not too hot oven, as meat has been cooked).

Flank Steak Roast—Ask butcher for a flank steak and have him cut pockets in it. Fill pockets with following dressing: One loaf bread, (8-cent size), dip in water and press dry. Add one-half cup chopped onion, one-fourth cup melted butter, one large tablespoon salt, one-half teaspoon cinnamon, one-fourth teaspoon pepper, one-fourth teaspoon nutmeg, one egg, one-half cup parsley cut fine, one cup celery tops cut fine. After filling pockets of flank, roll tight in a long roll and wrap round and round with cord. Place in roaster, roast in hot oven from two to 2 1/2 hours. Sprinkle with pepper, salt and flour, and baste often. Thicken gravy with flour.

WASHING CURTAINS
Never give them hard rubbing. Always soak and sop out as much of the dirt as possible. Never starch fine lace curtains very stiff. The coarser the curtains the more starch they will require. Add borax to the starch to help hold the stiffening. Coffee, tea or saffron may be added to he starch for extra curtains, if their dark color is desirable. Always shake the dust from curtains before washing. Always squeeze the water from curtains when changing them from one water to another. Wash very old or fine curtains in a pillow case or other muslin bag. Measure the curtains before washing.

WORTH KNOWING
An old mop handle varnished up makes a good curtain pole. Lift poached eggs with an old-fashioned skimmer, the eggs will always be served unbroken and good to look at. For Cleaning Bathtub and Bowl—Use a piece of wool flannel, such as is used for baby's skirts. Does away with scouring powders, which are injurious to enamel; also the disagreeable odor of gasoline and kerosene, which are very often used.

PROTECTING GIRL TRAVELERS

A movement has been started in favor of requiring all railroads to employ matrons to travel on passenger trains to advise young women who may be traveling alone and need assistance. All the leading railroads have at their principal stations matrons to look after the welfare of women and in many of the leading cities churches employ representatives, including deaconesses of the Methodist Church, to guide and protect women, and especially young girls who may be traveling alone. For years the transatlantic line have employed matrons to look after single women and young girls traveling alone and it is the general rule of all leading companies to bring with passenger in addition of the ship by themselves to assure them of safety. Special attention is also paid to young girls who come with the immigrant class. It hardly seems necessary to involve either the steamship or railroad lines, therefore, in additional expense for matrons which have been so carefully safeguarded from U.S.C.

STRANGE CAUSES OF DEATH

Of the hundreds of death certificates handed annually by the Wisconsin State Board of Health, in making its classification of disease many, as listed out by the physicians and milled to the board, contain unusual comments as to the cause of death. Some of these follow:

"Went to bed feeling well, but woke up dead."
"Died suddenly at the age of 10; To this time he had fair to reach a ripe old age."
"Do not know cause of death, but patient fully recovered from last illness."

"Deceased had never been fatally sick."
"Died suddenly; nothing serious."
"Pulmonary hemorrhage—sudden death." (Duration, four years.)
"Kick by horse shod on left kidney."
"Deceased died from blood poison, caused by a broken ankle, which is remarkable, as the automobile struck him between the lamp and the radiator."

Guns that auto-actively load themselves with acetone gas and discharge themselves to sound fog signals have been invented by a Scotchman, the mechanism being set in operation by wireless waves from a central station.

Daisy Archibald's Intention. By RUTH GRAHAM. "Lizzie," said Daisy Archibald to her bosom friend, "papa is going away for a month on business. His friend, Mr. Molyneux is going to stay at the house to protect us. I heard papa ask him last night while I was studying, my lessons and they were smoking together. Did you ever see Mr. Molyneux? He's awfully handsome. Papa told him that he needn't trouble himself to stay at home evenings. He could come in at any hour." "How old is Mr. Molyneux?" "He is thirty-four; but, you know, I'll be sixteen next month." Besides, I've always intended to marry a man much older than myself. I don't care a bit for boys. It's all fixed." "What's fixed?" "Why, about Mr. Molyneux's coming to be sure."

"Oh, I thought you meant that it was all fixed about your marrying him." And so it was. Nothing was further from the mind of Mr. Archibald, who had seen his daughter grow up from a baby and did not realize the change the last two or three years had made in her. Indeed the last Christmas he had given her a doll. She had received it with a gasp, but as soon as her father's back was turned had taken it up to the garret, where she left it. As for Mr. Molyneux, he had no use for schoolgirls, and his associates were chiefly men. He was to take his breakfast at the Archibald home and his dinner at his club. After having breakfasted for the first time with Grandma Archibald and Daisy, the latter said, with a smile: "Mr. Molyneux, which way do you go when you leave the house?" "Right down the avenue. Can I do anything for you?" "Why no, I go down the avenue to school."

"Oh, you do?" It didn't occur to Ned Molyneux to walk to school with a little girl but when he came to leave the house the little girl left it at the same time. She clung to him like a bird as they walked together, doing most of the talking, unobtrusively, in itself and looking up at him occasionally with a pair of soft childish eyes, but with an expression in them that surprised him. Now if there is that in certain girls which attracts them to men much older than themselves, there is that in old men which renders them appreciative of very young girls. A man approaching forty is conscious that he is passing beyond the sphere of young ladies, even those who have passed well beyond the teens, and he is glad to be highly appreciative of any notice whatever is attracted from them. It was not what Miss Daisy said to him; it was the fact that she looked very proud of having him for a companion.

"Grandma told me to ask you to dine with us this evening," she said when their ways parted. This was true, but Daisy had suggested the invitation. "Grandma is very kind. You may tell her that I'll dine with her with pleasure."

Molyneux dined at the Archibald home that evening and a number of other evenings. After dinner he sat chatting with the grandmother, sometimes smoking and reading the evening paper. Miss Daisy had studied her lessons—she didn't give them much, at ten—then he would play checkers or dominoes or some other game with them, she chatting like a magpie all the while, he falling under an influence that he found very refreshing. Occasionally when Miss Daisy, who was hovering the while between child and woman, would give dashes of the latter Molyneux would be frightened, for he had been asked to afford protection to a child, and anything, like a complication would be terrible. At such times he would contemplate leaving the Archibald home for good, but he didn't see how he could desert his post, and yet if he stayed he feared trouble. But he stayed.

What his friend Archibald learned on his return of the proceedings at home during his absence Molyneux did not know. It may be that grandma had been more observant than she appeared; it may be that Daisy herself, proud of having captured a grown man, made no secret of what had been going on. Archibald thanked his friend for having accommodated him during his absence, but said nothing further. But Molyneux received a note from Daisy stating that her father had decided to send her to boarding school and she would go immediately. She said she was broken hearted, whatever that meant.

For the next few years Molyneux was in a condition of mental unrest. His club, his men friends, were becoming uninteresting to him. He loved to think of the evenings he had spent with "that little mix," Daisy Archibald, still thinking of her as a little mix. Her father kept her at school, but she returned at last, and he invited Molyneux to dinner.

Daisy was much changed, but retained the same characteristics. She was somewhat conscious on meeting the man to whom she had made love when she was emerging from childhood, but it was not long before Molyneux discovered, or thought he discovered, that her action, instead of being all child, had a sprinkling of woman in it. However this may be, Molyneux is now married to Daisy Archibald, and they are a very happy couple.
