DELIGHTFUL DANCE LARGELY AT-TENDED FEBRUARY 19.

KNÍGHTS TEMPLAR DRILL, MUSÎC AND DECORATIONS ALL WON

Never has there been a jollier dan= ing party in Northville than that given by the Eastern Stars last Friday. There vere eighty-five couples, including both the younger and married set, in attendance and "Home, Sweet Home' was played the floor was mearly as royded as it-was during the first dance - Tois statement will make glear just what an enjoyable offair it was, for it was a bit after 2 o'clock Saturday morning when the lights were put out, and the grand march iáo began přompily at 8:30, 🥶

The Knights Templar made a big hit with their drill which was gracefully and speriectly performed by about twenty-four-Knights in full They also led the grand

7 The rink presented an unusually pretty appearance in patriotic colors and the new lodge star, an imménse thing illuminated with tiny multicolored electric lights was a prominert feature of the decorations

The Northville orchestra rendered the best dance music we have had here since the other Star party.

TRAINED WRIST IS MAN'S MEALTICKET

His Performing Bone Seldom Fails to Win the Coin When Such is Needed.

GETS OVER $2000 IN TWO YEARS

Man Goes About State Preying Upon Railroads, Street Railway Com panies and Corporations.

Minneapolis, Minn. — There have been stories of the "man in the iron mask," the 'man with the iron jaw,' etc. and now we have the story of the "man with the performing wrist bone His name is Lester Edward Mills and be las just been introduced as a new iumate of the Sillivater penitentiary. During his stay there, which may be for two and a half years, this perform-Ing wrist bone, before mentioned, can bop out of joint seven times a day and nobody will be liable for damages Nevertheless, the performing wrist bone, according to the police and a partial confession made by the owner of said bone, has neen an obedient meal ticket for Mills these last two years, perhaps longer

On propitious occasions, generally while his person was in the custody and safe keeping of some large firm or corporation, the wrist bone would hop out of its wonted socket and the owner of the wrist bone would con after proceed to collect for injuries sus-Records so far produced show that the wrist bone meal ticket has produced some $2,000 for its owner during this year and last, which is a wrist bone better tuan a wish bone

Were it not for the suspicious nature of Chief Trover of the Duluth police the wrist bone might still be producing checks from corporations.

Mills boarded a street car in Duluth.

He carried a suitcase. The street car swung-around the cerve at Third avenue west and Superior street. Mills stumbled over his suitcase.c Mills did not seek to stiffe the cry of yann which came to his hps. The conductor dashed forward. The hand fell limp at the wrist. The conductor looked sympathenc. He sent for a doctor and began to take names of witnesses.o

On the sidewalk stood Chief Troyer. He had to have a look. Mills did not look as pale as the chief thought he Neither were his lips bloodless and all that sort of thing. The chief, in fact, at that moment was looking for a butgler. And why not the man with the broken wrist? He might be the man.

While the doctor was examining the wrist the chief had a look inside the suitcase. He found therein a shirt and two letters. There was nothing susnicious about the shirt but the letters were from Minnesota attorneys and each spoke of a claim the recipient had against some Minneapolis firm or corporation for personal injury. .

The claim agent of the street railway company in Duluth took a look at these

"I turn this man dver to you," said Chief Troyer. "A fellow with all these personal injury suits on has no need to be a burgiar. He is wrongfully sus pected of that crime"

Released by the Doluth police, Mr. Mills asked the Duluth Street Railway Company for $270 -The company pro-tracted the case and when Mills lett for Minneapolis had him shadowed o'Together with admissions made by Mills he record was deemed sufficient to cause his arrest here. He gave his address as 1001 Stevens avenue. His wife gave hers an $6 Thirteenth street south. How the Farmer's Daughter May Earn Pin Money

A lady in Richmond, Va. has made a national reputation putting up and selling "pin money pickles" gan a few years ago in a very modest way, but now her products are so popular that they can be found nearly everywhere in the United States. An other woman, in Washington, D. C. has built up a business making chow chow for which she gets three dollars'

These are only samples of what hun dreds of young women have done to earn pin money by putting up canned goods at home People are continually demanding a better quality of canned goods and are willing to pay a better price for them. The farmer's daughter who desires to earn pin money may avail herself of this demand, and with care and perseverance learn to put up canned goods that she may sell at a profit. Those who are interested in such a project may obtain detailed instructions on cauning in Farmer's Bulletin 521 of the United States Department of Agriculture, which will be sent free of charge to the applicant.

The bulletin, while encouraging the young woman in her efforts to make business proposition of putting up fruits and vegetables, cautions against over-euthusiasm. It advises that the beginner experiment with a few caus before going too heavily into the project. If the first cans keep well she may be encouraged to proceed. If she meets with a few failures perhaps the has overlooked some important detail outlined in the department's bulletin. It is only through failures that one gets good experience, and with a lit tle practice and care in following the directions any farmer's daughter should be able to put up a satisfactory can of fruit or vegetables.

When a young woman has succeeded in patting up a product satisfactory for home use she may well look around for a market outside the home. The girl who starts out with confidence in herself will be more likely to find a good marke than one who is diffident.

The girl with experience in canning knows the products with which she has the most success, and should endeasor to sell only those in which she excelc It is always best to specialize and work up a reputation for some porticualr kind of goods, as did the women already mentioned. One girl may make a feature of crosup, another may find her best product is pickles, while another may put up a specially attractive can of peppers, cauliflower, perches, applys or tematous People of means are most likely to People of means are more to wint "home canned" products, and there are the ones to see. Many those are the ones to hogsewives living in the cities who leave home for the country during the summer months will gladly give the farmer's daughter an order to can chough tomores to last them all nin no fur an possible

The young woman who starts out to self her products will of course dress neatly and take samples of her prod ucts, put up to an attractive form Glass jurs will show products much better than tins, but if tins are found to be less expensive they may be used for all except the show products

.The managers of the best hotels and restaurants in the neighborhood, the stewards of social clubs in the cities. the managers of railroad dining cars and many retail grocers will be glad to use the products of the girl who oves her canning at home These products are likely to show individual care and to be prepared nearly of good materials, and on the shelves of a retail store are likely to attract attention from the best customers.

If a foung woman knows by experience that her products are first class price on them. Home canned goods, canned by experienced people, are worth more than ordinaly goods, and one need not compete with the other. "Fancy goods' are rarely found upon bargain counters. Even if the first semples of home canning are not such as may be readily sold they may be used at home, and from her experi-ence the farmer's daughter may do better the following season. When sne actually succeeds in getting some thing better than the ordinary she should be able to sell it. She may we'l ask her friends to recommend ler to good trade" The young woman sincerely determined to make a success of canning as a business proposition with perseverance and care in following instructions should be sure or some nieasure of success.

Good Roads, and Their Importance to the Community The improvement of market roads results in improved marketing conditions, which benefit the city. cities are essentially dependent upon the surrounding country for their prosperity and development. The development of suburban property for residence purposes is also dependent upon highway conditions, and it is becom-Ing evident yearly that whatever makes for an increase in rural population must be encouraged. Since the introduction of motor traffic country highways are used to an increasing extent by city residents. In fact, the cost of maintaining many country highways has been greatly increased by the presence of city-owned motor vehicles. The general advance in facilities for deing country business from town headquarters when roads are unproved is no inconsiderable factor in the commercial life of the community.

ENGLAND'S ELECTION MANNERS

The Speaker is Aware He is Subject to Interruption.

If American is the paradise, England is the purgatory, of the political speaker, says a writer in Harper's Weekly. He is very far from being allowed in England to have things all his own way. It is an unwritten law of the country that he is liable to contradiction. Any man in the audience may get up and disputé 'any statement he pleases, and the orator is not allowed to disregard the inferruption, but has to stop and argue the matter out with his adversary. The heckler has a recognized stand-ing, and all Englishmen are hecklers, and especially all English workingmen. In a company of six you have only to show an American that five are against him to convince him that he is wrong. That is just when an English workingman would become finally convinced that he was the only same person in the room. If you ev er watched an English workingman heckling Mr. Balfour on the subject of Chinese labor, you have yet to learn of what a political meeting is capable These contests are followed by the audience with supreme zest and good humor. If they threaten to become too protracted, the interrupter is pulled down in his seat by willing hands from behind, or simply thrown out of the hell. in a political campaign for the first time in the history of English electioneering, some ladies had to be forcibly removed from a meeting. They were earnest woman's suffragists, and as the speaker of the occasion, who was no less than Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, would not stop to pay any attention to them, they proceeded to hoist a banner (up side down, as if happened), and to address the audience in competition with the Prime Minister. After five min utes of uproarious confusion, the police and some of the officials of the-meeting gently but very firmly half carried and half pushed them out of 15.000.000 Umbrelias a Year.

Up to a few years ago, it, is said, only seven patents on umbrellas had been issued in the United States in one hunored years, this despite the fact, says the American Interior, that rue annual production of umbiellas in this country is close to 15,000 900

The ribs and stem of an umorella are generally made in factorics hav ing a specialty of these items and also sent thence to the real manufacturer Here, first the man whose work it is to arsemble the parts inserts a bit of wire into the small holes at the end of the ray, draws them together about the rain test and puts or the fernle

The handle is next glued on and the umbrella is ready for pressing and inspection. By far the greater number of umbrellas todas are equipped with wooden handles. A large corners of matemals may be used however such as horn, china, bone, agate, pearl, itory, silver and gold Gold and silver quite naturally enter into the construction 'wof the more expensive grades of umbrellas, some of which, in price, have been known to bring as ugh as $150 or $200. A wooden handie may likewise be expensive, depending upon the quality of the wood used. Ebony, petrified wood, fir, oak and 'elder are as well known to the umblerra man—15,000,000 umbrellas a

The unabrelia has been developing rapidly during the last few years.

We pick up even a cheap one now adays' press a button and the topspreads itself like an eagle reads for its flight. We are going away and an ordinary umbrella is too long to put in our grip. We find among our assortment of umbrellas and parasols one that is meant for just such an emergency and which, in a most accommodating manner, folds up to suit the size of our traveling bag Other new ones lock with a key. Some spread shade over eight or nine feet f territory, and manufacturers aver that these are but a new of the improvements which we may expect.

A Source of Natural Soap.

It is said that in a mountain near Elko, Nevada, there is an inexhaustible supply of pure soap. One may en ter the mine with a butcher's knifs and cut as large a pièce as be wants It is beautifully mostled, and on be ing exposed to the air hardens some what. The mountain of clay is of fine texture, and it contains boracic acid soda,, and borate of lime Its color is given it by the iron and other min In its natural state it is rather strong in alkali, and removes ink and other stains readily. At one time it was used on the Pullman cars, but when its peculiar origin became generelly known passengers appropriated it so extensively for souvenirs that the company was forced to go back to the common soap of commerce.

Useful Recipes for the Economical Preservation of Beef and Pork.

The best way to eat meat is to eat it while fresh, for there is no way of preserving it that will retain all the utrition and all the flavor. It is, nevertheless, frequently desirable to-cure meat at home, and there is no reason why this can not be done satisfactorily and economically. Salt, sugar or mo-lasses, baking soda and a little saltpeter are the only ingredients neces-Ordinarily the curing of meat should he hegun from 24 to 36-hours after the animal is slaughtered. This allows sufficient time for the animal heat to leave the meat entirely, but not sufficient to permit decay to set in. Once the meat is tainted no amount of preservatives will bring back its proper flavor. On the other hand, it sait is applied too soon obnoxious gases will be retained and the meat will possess an offensive odor. It is also impossible to obtain good results when the meat is frozen.

Three useful recipes for popular forms of cured meats are given below. The only equipment nécessary for them are the ingredients already mentioned and clean hardwood barrel, or a large stone jar or crock. In considering these recipes it is well to re-member that, on the whole, brinecured meats are best for farm-use. They are less trouble to preparesand the brine affords better protection against insects and vermin. A cool, moist cellar is the best place for brine curing. The cellar should be dark and tight enough to prevent flies and vermin.

CORNED BEEF-The pieces commonly used for corning are the plate, rump, cross ribs and brisket, or in other words the cheaper cuts of meat. The loin, ribs and other fancy cuts are more often used fresh, and since there is more or less waste of nutrients in corning this is well. The pieces for corning should be cut into convenient sized joints, say five or six inches square. It should be the aim to cut them all about the same thickness, so that they will make an even layer in the barrel

Meat from fat animals makes choicer corned beef than that from poor animals. outline cooled, it should be corned as soon us possible, as any decay in the ment is likely to spoil the bome throng the corning process. Under no cor-comistances should use ment be brined while it is arosen. Weigh my the meal and allow 8 pounds of salt to cach 100 posads, sprinkle a liver of suit one quartee of an meh in stepth over the bottom of the battel, pack in as closers as passible the cuts of meat, making a liver 5 or 6 inches in thick ness; then put on a layer of salt, following that with another layer of purt, rejeat until the neal and salt have at here packed in fire barrel, ture being used to reserve satt enough For wound layer diver the top. After the package has stood over night add for every 100 punnds of creat 1 pounds of sugar 2 cauces of balances and and 4 punces of sultpoter described in a gallon of teptd water. Three Killons more of vater should be sufficient to cover this quantity. In case more or less than 100 pounds of mest is to be corned make the brine in the proportion given A loose board cover, weighted down with a 'ear's stone or piece of iron, should be put on the meat to keep all of it under the brine. In case any should project rust would start and the brine would spoil in a short time It is not necessary to boil the brine except in warm weather. If the meat has been corned during the winter and must be kept into the summer season it would be well to watch the brune closely downg the spring, as it is more likely to spoil at that time than at any other season. If the brine appears to be ropy or does not drip freely from the finger when immersed and lifted it should be turned off and new brine added, after carefully washing the meat. The sugar or mo'asses in the brine has a tendency to ferment, and uniess the brine is kept in a cool place there is sometimes trouble from this source. The meat should be kept in the brine 23 to 40 days to secure thorough corning.

DRIED BEEF-The round is commonly used for dried beef, the inside of the thigh being considered as the choicest piece, as it is slightly more tender than the outside of the round The round should be cut lengthwise of the gram of the meat in preparing for dried been, so that the muscle fibers may be cut crosswise when the dried beet is sliced for table use A tight par or cash is necessary for curing. The process is as follows: To each 100 pounds of mean weigh out 5 pounds of salt, 3 pounds of granulated sugar, and 2 ounces or saltpeter; mix thoroughly together. Rub the meat on all surfaces with a third of the mixture and pack it in the jars as tightly as possible. Allow it to remain three days, when it should be removed and rubbed again with another third of the mixture. In repacking-put at the botfrom the pieces that were en-top the first time. Let stand for three days, when they should be removed and rubbed with the remaining third of the myture and allowed to stand three days more. The meat is then ready to be removed from the pickle liquid forming in the pars should not be removed, but the meat should be repacked in the liquid each time After being removed from the nickle the meat should be smoked and hung in a dry attic or near the kitchen fire where the water will evaporate from | vorable for excellent growth.

it. It may be used at any time after suloking, although the longer it hangs get The drier the climate in general the more easily meats can be dried. In arid regions good, dried meat can be made by exposing it fresh to the an, with protection from flies.

PLAIN SALT PORK—Rub each iece of meat with common salt and pack closely in a barrel. Let stand over night. The next day weigh out 10 pounds of salt and 2 ounces of salt. peter to each 100 pounds of meat and dissolve-in 4 gallons of boiling water. Pour this brine over the meat wher cold, cover and weight down to keep it under the brine. Meat will pack best if cut-into pieces about 6 inches square. The pork should be kept in the brine till used

SUGAR CURED HAMS AND BA CON-When the meat is colled rub each piece with salt and allow it to drain over night. Then pack it in a barrel with the hams and shoulders in the bottom, using the strips of ba-con to fill in between or to put on top. Weigh out for each 100 pounds of meat 8 pounds of salt, 2 pounds of brown sugar and 2 ounces of saltpeter. Dissolve all in 4 gallons of water, and cover the meat with the brine. summer use it will be safest to boil the brine before using In that case if should be thoroughly cooled before it is used. For winter curing it is not necessary to boil the brine. Bacon strips should remain in this brine four to six weeks; hams six to eight weeks Thise is a standard recipe and has given the best of satisfaction? Hams and bacon cured in the spring will keep right through the summer after they are smoked. The mest will be sweet and palatable it it is properly smoked, and the flavor will be very

TURKESTAN ALFALFA SEED FOUND INFERIOR

In the Eu ronean market commercial Tursestin is the el capest seed available; in tuis country its whole site price is less than that of domestic seed.

In spite of this fact, however, a mils taken belief in its super or qualities has resulted in raising its retail price to a point itequently above that of domes it seed. No such preference is shown in the alfalin growing regions of Europe There French seed is commonly considered the hest, with Italian runling next and Turkestan last Under these car amstances very little Fren a and Lal an seed facts its way to the United States, the balk of the mportal ons being, as already stated the cheap commercial Turkestin

Fortunately, growers who wish to avoid this variety can readily identify it by the presence of Russian knapweed seeds. These seeds apave not been found anywhere except in commercial Turkestan seed, and here they are gractically always precent. Rus sian knapweed is in some ways sınılar to quack grass, Johnson grass and Canada thistle, spreading by seeds and underground rootstocks seeds are slightly larger than those of alfalfa and can not all be removed by any practicable method o. machine cleamng. Their chalky white color makes them especially conspicuous and their symmetrical form slightly wedge shaped, distinguishes them from the notched seed of other species often found in varieties of alfalfa from other sections. The knapweed seeds, however are not usually found in large quantities, and any lor of alfalfa should therefore be examined in bulk The examination of small samples is not sufficient to show whether the alfalla comes from Turkestan or

SYNOPSIS

The body of a man is discovered in the well located on the dividing line between the estates of Arthur, and Loms Parades, two brothers. The police are called any upon learning that the body is that of M. Jean Parades, an uncle of the two brothers, but in the table and began to talk.—"It's a good million that he had, gentlemen. Three hundred thousand francs was the last amount that he deposited. Ah Jean, the old humpur.

that the body is that of M Jean Farades, an uncle of the two brothers, the latter are accused of munder.

Paul Merseins, who is engaged to the daughter of Arthur Farades, sets out to clear her father of the crime.

Velizay and Merseins find a partly discount of the crime of the crime.

Velizay and Merseins find a partly selected receipt for 350,000 francs belonging to Jean Farades. They go to a reception given by M. Calesse. Velizay finds that he lead known Mme. Calesse when she was a dancing girlin India. He is suspicious of Calesse and the better to get evidence proposes to him that they go into business together.

The police found it curious that words on the receipt were half effaced as though the paper had been in the water.

The newspapers stated that the police had now solved the mystery. It was evident that Jean Farades at was evident that Jean Farades had been murdered by his two nephews, and that Jacques Velizay was an acomodice, and in all probability Paul Mersens, the stock broker,

Third Class Express:

One of the most popular trains in India is a third-class express on the East Indian line. First and second class passengers are not admitted to it. Its success hes in the fact that it is strictly a third class express. The train is the pride of the general man-ager, and pays well. It is always crammed full though no passenger has a tirket for a journey shorter than 200 miles. _

"That's good," said Harcourt, smacking his lips, after his first taste of the old brandy: "excellent."

They had reached a tract of waste ground, in the middle of which was a low house almost in ruins. Smith knocked on the door.

"It looks like some bandit's den," said Paul.

The door of the hut was, opened. Sairth went in with his companion.

"How can' we find out what they are doing in there?" said Paul.

"They've shut the door. Let us get as near as we can. We might be able to see inside somehow."

They reached the little hut. Not a sound could be heard from inside.

They walked around it.
"We must find out what is going on inside," said Paul "Even if we can't hear them, we ought to get a look at

FOR SPINSTERS AND WIDOWS Funds for Their Benefit Established Many Years Ago.

A veritable "old mails; paradise" is located in Scituate. That uncient South Shore town bears the distinction, says the Boston Globs, of possessing a fund of which the proceeds are devoted to the care of dependent maid-on women.

So far as the Schuate selectmen know there is not a line fund under the supervision of a town anywhere in the state. More than a quarter of a century ago Miss Eliza Jenkins decided that women approaching the sere and vellow leaf of life, who had, like herself, remained single from choice or otherwise, should be pro-vided for when they became dependent wholly upon themselves. The idea of an old folks' home in Scituate was at that time=entirely out of the question. Miss Jenkins straightway and the next best thing and left a fund of $3,000, the interest of which is yearly distributed among the worthy maidens of the town

The Jenkins fund has always been in charge of the selectmen. In the last few years they have placed about $20 each in the hands of half a dozen persons. This odd fund has benefit ed persons in Scituate for so many years that the townspeople have come to regard it as a very common institution, it is available only for native boin women, and this is about the only, restriction its donor made.

. Many a person has been belped in the last 25 years to pay off a mortgage, buy fuel for the winter months or pur-chase seeds for the spring planuing through this fund. The selectmen through this fund. know pretty near every one in the town, and it is comparatively easy for them to discriminate between the worthy and unworthy.

Soon after Miss Jenkins thoughtfully provided for the "old maids", another maiden woman, Miss Lucy Thomas, originated the idea of a sim-Uar fund for widows. She left $1000, also under the care of selectmen, for native born women-

AMERICAN COUNTRY HOUSES!

The most interesting contemporary American country houses are ant to be the houses which cost between $20,000 and $150,000, says the Architectural Record. When their owners spend less than $20,000, it is rare that an architect in good standing is employed, because the fees of such an architect are proportionately larger for an inexpensive than for an expensive job Moreover, the small housebrider has an impression, which is not altogether erroneous, that the modest house does not get its fair share of attention in the big office. and even in those offices which do give their best services to the small client it is unusual that a really complete Louse and garden design can be realized for $20 000. On the other band, as already pointed out, the owner of a country place that costs soveral hundred thousand dollars or more, generally wants his moory to make a lug show with a result, which however admirable and interesting for cortain respects, betrass its hybrid origin in its finitheyant appearance The formula for this result is a milflon dollars of hullding enriched with historical relies and tempered by and permual acidemies but the house Which costs between $25,000 and $150 000 has a taker chance. When it is given to a good arejutect, which has foliumately is not often the cuse, it at once practites a decent opportunity without dispensing with the salutary necessity of economy. Such a house is more likely to be thoroughly de-algoed than is the bigger or the smalor house-designed, tuat is without reference either to strelevant and op pressive superfluttes on the one hand or neutilating umissions on the other The economic scale of a house of this class harmonizes with the normal life of a well-to-do American family and it has the chance at least of reaching the final grace and propriety of the domestic building-a propilety which is constituted as much by integrity it is by the strictly architectural shill of its designer It shoul never be forgotten that the making of the consummate residence depends as much upon the prevalence of right ideas and good taste among ity of the architect to design a good looking and appropriate house and grounds The tuture of American pubhe and commercial architecture rests chiefy with the architecis.

Concerning Oranges. Angemment Japanese bacternologist has shown that the acids of lemons appies and other fruits-citric acid, malic acid-are capacle of destroying all kinds of oisease germs - Cholera germs are killed in fifteen minutes by lemon jaice or apple mice; and typhoto fever germs are killed in half an hour by these acids, even when considerably diluted. If you squeeze a lemon into a glass of water centaining cholera germs, and let it stand his teen or twenty minutes, you may drink the water with impunity, as the germ's will be dead, these juices, will kill other disease germs Instead of telling a man to have his stomach washed out, we can now tell him to drink crange spice: which will cleanse the stomach as thoroughly as a stomach tube, provided it be not a case of gastric catarib. . If we have to deal with gastric catarril, in which there is a large amount of tenecious mucus adhering to the walls of the stomach a stomach tube to dislodge it is require ed but in ordinary cases of briousness, foul tengue, bad breath, sick headache, a fruit diet is a wonderful purifier.

Ballasted with Gold.

A section of the Canadian-Northern Railway running northwest from Sudbury and crossing at Vermillon river, is unique in that it is ballasted with gold. Every yard of the gravel used for callast has been found to contain from 50 cents' worth to a dollar's worth of the precious metal, in the sbape of fine dust.
