MAJESTIC THEATRE, DETROIT.

Both for its scenic grandeur and its remarkable dramatic acting, "The Great Divide," which will be at the Majestic next week is bound to be an event in the moving picture world. It is a wonderfully fascinating story of a real eastern girl's hatred and eventual love of an untamed rough character of the west, which is well remembered as the play in which Henry Miller and Margaret Anglin starred successfully on the speaking stage for many seasons. Regular Majestic features in addition to this great drama.

OBITUARY.

Mrs. Louisa Bathrick passed away at her home in Novi December 27, 1915, after a short illness of pneumonia.

She was born in West Bloomfield, October 7, 1837 and was a daughter of Jacob and Asenath Hosmer. When 13 years of age she united with the Methodist class which then held services in the old stone school house near her father's home.

In 1856 she was married to Sumner Bathrick and they established their home in Oakland county where she manifested a deep interest in all avenues of work, both spiritual and political.

During the sunset years of her life she was an earnest and zealous worker in her vineyard in the little church at Novi, bringing joy and inspiration to those with whom she labored. Under her splendid leadership as president of the Ladies' Aid society the little band of christian women accomplished good work.

To mourn her loss she leaves a son, Hon. E. R. Bathrick of Akron, O., a daughter, Mrs. Deaton Donelson of Novi, a granddaughter, Mrs. O. J. Lyon of Clinton, one sister, Mrs. Melissa Moore of Milford and a brother, Almon Hosmer of Orchard Lake, beside a host of loving friends and neighbors.

MAY IRWIN IN "33 WASHINGTON SQUARE," GARRICK, DETROIT.

Miss May Irwin cemented her national popularity and justified the many compliments which have been paid her as a consequence of her letter to President Wilson at a psychological time, suggesting the establishment of a national Department of Laughter, when she took her entire company to Washington and gave a special performance for the president and the National P. S. Club. She presented the new comedy, "33 Washington Square," in which she had played a most successful run at the Park Theatre, New York City, and which she is bringing to the Garrick Theatre, Detroit next Monday evening for a week's engagement. It is a dramatization of the novel by Leroy Scott. The stage direction of the piece was done by W. H. Collier, an associate of Miss Irwin's under the late Augustin Daly.

Miss Irwin played the part of Matilde, the faithful resourceful housekeeper of Mrs. DePoville of No. 33 Washington Square.

TELLS OF FIGHTING IN THE DARDANELLES

MUSKEGON, Mich.—A word picture of hand-to-hand fighting and the bursting of big shells on the Dardanelles front, is given by James Barr, the writer, in a letter from London to Raymond Wier, director of Ackley art gallery. James Barr, a brother of the late Robert Barr, also a novelist, quotes from a letter written to him by his son, Russell Barr, who went to the Dardanelles front with the British expeditionary force. He formerly lived in Windsor.

A huge shell bursting 50 yards ahead, hurled him to the ground and gave him his baptism of fire, he declared. Five other shells exploded near by, he asserted, but miraculously not a single soldier was killed.

DAUGHTER IN JAIL; FOUND DEAD IN BED

JACKSON, Mich.—Mrs. Libbie Miller was found dead in bed at her home on Forest street by William J. Wagner, a roomer. The coroner is investigating.

Mrs. Miller's daughter, Mrs. May Van Buskirk, is in jail here following an attempt to end her life with poison at a railroad station. Mrs. Van Buskirk has recovered from the effects of the poison.

MAN WITH TWO "LEGAL" WIVES GOES TO JAIL

KALAMAZOO, Mich.—Hiram Hekkenham, possessor of two "legal" wives as the result of a legal tangle in his divorce proceedings a few years ago, is in jail because he has refused to pay alimony to his first wife. Hekkenham contended he was unable to raise the money, but Judge George Warner sent him to jail for contempt for 30 days.

LEGAL BATTLE BEGUN FOR "$40,000 ORPHAN"

PORT HURON, Mich.—A legal battle has been begun in circuit court for possession of Hazel Kempf, the little "$40,000 orphan," whose parents were killed in a train wreck at Georgia November 22. Mr. and Mrs. Fred Kempf, of Capue, her father's parents who were awarded custody of her three months in a year, seek to have set aside the order which gave her to her mother's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gillman, of Detroit, the other months. The Gillmans and the child's parents were on the wrecked train. The mother, dying, handed Hazel from the wreckage to a circus employee. The railroad company paid $15,000 for the death of the Kemps and $10,000 for damage to the model city, which Kempf had invented and which was being exhibited in the circus with which they traveled. Kempf also had $15,000 in a bank.

H. M. DEARING, FEEBLE, ARRAIGNED AS FORGER

ALBION, Mich.—Henry M. Dearing, thinner and more feeble than ever, arrived from Leavenworth penitentiary Monday, after completing a term, and was arraigned on the charge of forging the name of Z. T. O'Hara to a note. He furnished $1,000 bail and departed with his wife for Sandstone, near Jackson, where Mrs. Dearing has been staying for some time.

Mr. Dearing refused to discuss his case. He said his son, Palmer, released from Leavenworth at the same time, was with his wife and child at Dowagiac.

ROOSEVELT CAN HAVE NAME OFF BALLOT

FANSING, Mich.—The secretary of state's office will make an exception in the case of Theodore Roosevelt by informing him that petitions for his nomination for president of the United States, have been filed in Lansing. If Col. Roosevelt does not want his name on the ballot, he has only to write to the secretary. The latter will grant the former president's request, basing his position on the opinion of the attorney-general on the plea of Washington Gardner, of Albion, that his name as a candidate for governor be kept off the ballot.

A petition containing 50 signatures for the nomination of William Aiden Smith has been filed by George L. Lusk, deputy secretary of state, who circulated the petition while spending Christmas at his home in Bay City. Three more Wilson petitions have been filed.

Miss Hopperstead attended a private dance and later a consultation of physicians pronounced the disease smallpox. Dr. A. B. Egan, city health officer, has established a strict quarantine.

MCKENNEY-DEVLIN CO. CHANGE SELLING FORCE

Because of a marked increase in the retail business of the McKenney-Devlin Company, distributors of Haynes Light Six and Grant Six pleasure cars and Vim light delivery trucks, Mr. Lyle A. Devlin, President and General Manager of the Woodward Avenue distributing firm, announces that it has been necessary for the company to increase and reorganize its local selling force.

To this end, Mr. E. A. Zimmerman, an automobile salesman of extensive experience in the retail selling line, has been appointed Retail Sales Manager for the McKenney-Devlin Company. Associated with Mr. Zimmerman is a staff of six sales who are under his direct supervision at all times.

"With our retail sales force, an-alized," states Mr. Devlin, "we are in a position to take mighty fine care of our ever increasing list of customers, as well as to inaugurate a live, aggressive sales campaign to better establish our line in the city of Detroit."

Not alone in the retail field has the increase of the McKenney-Devlin Company's business been felt. In the state, where the McKenney-Devlin Company has all of Michigan for the Grant car, Eastern Michigan for the Haynes and the entire state for the Vim, it has been necessary to put out a new field man. Mr. L. E. Wood, who formerly has had charge of the field work in the entire state, will now be assisted by Mr. F. L. Erms. With these two capable men in the field, the McKenney-Devlin Company has ever assurance that the state trade will be well taken care of at all times.

As president and General Manager of the McKenney-Devlin Company, Mr. Lyle A. Devlin continues, of course, to oversee the work of his organization in both the local and state fields, while Mr. Earl E. Devlin, Vice President of the Company, takes direct charge of the commercial car work both in Detroit and in the wholesaling territory.

FIND GROUND SLOTHS AS LARGE AS STREET CARS

Bones of Animals are Discovered in Asphalt Beds near City of Los Angeles, California

In the asphalt beds of Rancho La Brea, a place eight miles from Los Angeles, Cal., there have been discovered the bones of ground sloths which lived 200,000 years ago and were as big as the modern street car, according to a report Homer Dill, taxidermist of the University of Iowa, has prepared on the investigation he made at Rancho La Brea this summer.

These mighty prehistoric animals, if alive today could go poking their noses into the second story windows of our houses with ease, Mr. Dill declares.

In addition to the ground sloth, the fossils of other extinct animals are found. Among them are specimens of the great sabre tooth tiger. The excavations have brought to light also the skeleton of a human being. This type of man lived so long ago that the scientists have to estimate the age of this fossil in thousands of years. They are sure that he came early in the evolution of mankind.

The beds were formed by the "scientists" believe, by animals wandering into the surface of unfrozen asphalt. They were unable to extricate themselves from the sticky mass and died in its clutches. After the flesh had decomposed, the bones gradually sank deeper into the bed, becoming in that way hermetically sealed. This accounts for the fact that the bones are in a rare state of preservation.

The excavation work is in the hands of Los Angeles officials. They are carefully guarding the information of their finds. On that account the report which Mr. Dill was able to bring back to scientists and students at the university was unusually interesting.

PRISONERS MAKE LOCOMOTIVE

Miniature Electric Engine that Officials are Proud to Show.

Three inmates of the state reformatory at Joliet, Mich., William Adams and E. E. Long of Grand Rapids and a Port Huron man have manufactured a miniature passenger locomotive such as they formerly worked upon when employed by the Pere Marquette. The engine is fully equipped and is five feet two inches high with a track gauge of four and three quarters inches. It has a water gauge, try cock, steam air gauges, air brakes, pump and governor, engineer's valve, distributing valve and brake rigging.

It was made without drawings or cuts. The boiler cylinders, rods and pilot are of wood, the cab, of steel and so is the tender. Electricity is its motive power.

GIRL OF THE WINDJAMMER

Few girls have the experience that has fallen to the lot of Dorothy Anderson, the fifteen year old daughter of the captain of the four masted bark Daylight. With her father and her mother she has made many voyages to strange lands and has called more than 100,000 miles aboard the big square rigger.

She has known the fascination of the Far East, of China and Japan, the wilting heat of tropical islands and the beauties of Melbourne and Sydney. The Daylight has circled the globe several times, and on one of these voyages Dorothy was in the ship's company. Her home is at Aberdeen, in Scotland, but she has no desire to go back there while new wonders of the world are in store for her.

When the Daylight was in the port of New York last loading case oil for Shanghai Dorothy told some of her experiences. The one which she seemed to enjoy telling most was about a storm which came up suddenly when the ship was off the South American coast bound for New York.

"A terrible thing happened during 'his storm,' said she, though really she seemed to think it was a huge joke. 'It was at night and I was sleeping in the bed with my mother. Oh how the wind blew and whined through the rigging! The whole thing came on suddenly and I started to close the ports, as Father told me to do.'

'Well, we had the most dreadful flood, mother and I a big wave came crashing up against the side and tops of water seemed to come into our cabin through the port. And then, ker-smash, another one before I could get the port closed. Oh, dear, what a wreck in the cabin—all our things swimming, about shoes and clothes and everything, and the room ankle deep in water.'

'Hurry Dorothy, and close the port before another one comes,' said mother. I did so and we finally cleaned up the cabin so that father never knew we were flooded. But it was funny seeing all those things swimming about. The storm was just one of those sudden tropical blows, but it came up so sudden that it blew some of the light sails away.'

'Dorothy has a lot of friends' in Shanghai Yokohama and Kobe, which are the ports the Daylight usually calls at on her outbound trip. A Japanese merchant in Kobe gave her a very big doll on the last voyage out, and a smart little dog, which she has named Fuji. Both doll and dog receive the greatest consideration and care from the captain's daughter—N. N. Sum.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Comments By

Rev. Ernest Bourner Allen, D. D.

Pastor of the Washington St. Congregational Church and the Marion Lawrence Sunday School, Toledo, Ohio.

Lesson Title: "The Ascending Lord." Lesson Text: Acts 1:1-14. Memorize vs. 10, 11.

Golden Text: "When He ascended on high, he led captivity captive, and gave gifts unto men."—Eph. 4:8

I. "Many Infalible Proofs."

We are now studying history in the Christian era. The book of Acts is the second volume of that history, written by the same man. The author shared in the work of Peter and Paul. The testimony of a witness is worth more than any other man's hearsay of "I suppose." An old negro was accused of theft and the judge offered to appoint free counsel. The accused was not over enthusiastic at the suggestion. When pressed for the reason he said, "I'd like to swap that lawyer for one good witness!"

II. When is Jesus Coming Again?

We are painfully told it is not for us to know "the times and seasons, which the Father hath set within his own authority." Some people honestly think they know just when Christ will come again. They go so far as to set the date. I have lived long enough to hear of folks who sold their farms, made their white ascension robes, and climbed on the tops of hay-stacks, awaiting the Lord's coming. There is a better and surer way in which to be ready. In the eighteenth century there was a famous "dail mail." The sun was daily, and at midday the cattle went to their beds and the chickens to roost. Men and women were afraid. The city Congress was in session and some one proposed to adjourn. The presiding officer declined to allow it and said: "Either this is the end of the world or it is not. In either case I prefer to be found doing my duty. We will go on with the business of the day in the candle!"

III. The Witnesses.

At first thought it seems a curious way to depend on a few fishermen and peasants for the extension of a religion, v. 8. But Jesus did it. Since then it has been by the testimony of those who have tried his Way that the Way has become famous. Jesus put all witnessing for him under one head wherever they went, it was witnessing for him. He did not divide it up as we do rather loosely and call part "home" missions and another part "foreign" missions. He linked it all together under one word, vs. 8, "BOTH." They were to tell others of him "both" at home in Jerusalem, and up their proud Judea and humble Samaria, and populous Galilee, even to the uttermost part of the earth.

Jesus has never lacked witnesses to tell of his love and his way of life. Over in Turkish territory hundreds of them have been bravely facing death, yet keeping at their work. They have ministered to the Armenians, a patient people, nearly annihilated by the brutalities of war. No nation, probably, has given so many martyrs to the Christian faith in so short a time. Their young men have been forced into the Turkish army, their old men killed, and their women and children foully ravished and murdered as by wild beasts. Ambassador Morgenthau some months ago thought that 350,000 had been slain. The number is probably nearly twice as many. Thousands of them were sincere Christians, dying rather than become Moslems. Thank God for the millions of faithful witnesses for Christ, among all the nations of the world.

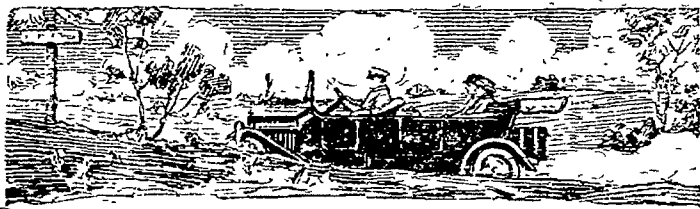

IV. Our Living Christ.

Never have there been so many followers of Jesus as today. Never was there a time when the ideals and actions of men and nations were so tested according to the teachings of Jesus as they are today. All the nations at war are anxious to have their actions approved according to Christian standards. Our Christ is now living in his people and in the institutions he has founded. A pagan emperor died exclaiming, "O Gallien, thou hast conquered." We are wrong if we think of Christ as dying on Calvary and closing his career there. Dr. Dale tells of the tremendous inspiration which came to him when writing an Easter sermon, as he wrote, "Christ is alive!"

"Do people know it?" he asked. So he began the custom of singing an Easter hymn every Sunday in his church.

A rich girl must be awfully lonely if a young man would rather work than play.

Lessons for Automobile Drivers

Watch New Water Connections.—New water connections are rarely tight for any length of time, when first fitted. Watch them for the first few hundred miles. This applies especially to a new car. If there is leakage, tighten just sufficiently—and only sufficiently—to stop it. If you tighten excessively at first, you simply maul the rubber, and do not ultimately prevent leakage. Therefore, tighten little by little, as required.

Drive on Throttle.—Slow down when possible by means of the throttle, and not by means of the brakes. If you keep your eyes open, and do not rush wildly along the roads, you will hardly ever have to touch your brakes, inasmuch as the opening and closing of the throttle will regulate your speed. Use of the brakes means wear and tear of mechanism and tires; use of the throttle means gentle action.

Blinding Light Causes Trouble.—A heavy car with blinding lights going at a high rate of speed and occupying the entire road at Monticello, Ia., caused a driver at that particular place to pull clear out of the road to avoid a collision. In doing so he struck the bridge railing. A young man who was with him was cut about the head by glass from the broken windshield.

Driver Turned to Look.—An auto mobile struck a telephone pole, near Geneva, Ill., when the driver turned to look back. One woman occupant of the car was hurled through the windshield and received a broken jaw and possibly a fractured skull. It is noted that two women in the rear seat asked, "Why don't you see some thing?" and the driver turned to answer.

Excessive Speed.—In an attempt to make a short turn in Sioux City, So. Dak., an automobile collided with a trolley wire pole. The driver was caught behind the steering wheel of the machine with such crushing force that he was badly injured internally and died shortly after the accident. The other occupant of the car was seriously hurt and is in the hospital.

Surrendered Wheel to Inexperienced Driver.—One young man was killed and four other occupants were injured when a car driven by a young lady turned turtle near Sreator, Ill. The party was on a pleasure trip and the young man who was killed, and who was a capable driver, had driven the machine until just before the accident, when his young lady companion took the wheel. It is said she attempted to turn from a lower to a higher road and the machine became overbalanced and toppled over.

Raced with a Train.—One woman was killed and another woman and man were painfully injured when their car was struck by a passenger train near Chenoa, Ill. The train came up behind them and it is stated they raced with it for some distance and outdistanced it. They were so far ahead that they assumed it was safe to cross, and as the automobile mounted the center of the tracks the engine died. The train struck the car and scattered the occupants in all directions.

An Exhibition of So-Called Skill.—A driver near Fairmont, Minn., who wished to let people know he had a car, when directly opposite a man and woman who were driving a team, opened the cut-out and frightened the team so that the occupants of the car were thrown out and injured.

While Cleaning the Engine.—While cleaning the engine of an automobile of which he had charge, a young man at Cleveland, Ohio, was caught in a trap of flame and burned to death. He was lying under the machine when the explosion occurred and just what caused the explosion could not be determined. Blazing from head to foot he lay for under the auto for a day and a half and people rushed to his aid but he was so badly burned that recovery was impossible.

Brakes Bothered.—Near Elgin, Ill., it is presumed that the driver in attempting to stop, the car became locked with the brakes and the result that the car stopped dead on the highway track. It was struck squarely, the occupants hurled thirty feet and the machine was totally wrecked. Two women and two men were killed.

COLD WEATHER

Modern Improvements Make it Easier to Start the Engine.

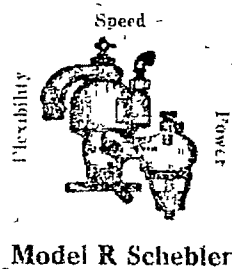

"The unpleasantness of cold weather starting has been eliminated by better motor designs," states F. N. Nutt, chief Engineer of The Haynes Automobile Company, Kokomo, Ind.

"Automobile engineers have done a great deal of experimenting in order to make easier the starting of cold motors. As a result there are cars having carburetors designed in correct relation to the motor, ignition that is reliable even on the lowest motor speed, and easily accessible priming devices.

"Carburetion is naturally a big item for cold weather starting. Gasoline will flow at low temperatures, but its vaporization is difficult to draw into the motor on cold days. Hence, the long intake manifold is practically useless as the gasoline vapor, on striking its cold walls, condenses and flows back to the carburetor. This obstacle has been overcome by having the carburetor directly connected to the cylinder block and therefore at the nearest point to the cylinder chambers.

"Methods to produce carburetion have also undergone changes. Water was used in some instances to flow around the carburetor. The more simple design of using hot air from the motor has superseded this, however, better results.

"Ignition as a factor to be considered in easy motor starting. Magneto's are admitted to be reliable when the motor is running at a high speed, but not when it is being turned over.

slowly by the starter. Dry cells are only reliable when at their full power and to have this requires frequent renews.

"Low speed ignition that has proven reliable for easy starting has met with success in the generator storage battery system. This method gives a good hot spark at all times and serves the purpose of starting the motor at once even if only a lean gasoline mixture exists.

"The old time method of cranking the motor by hand may be replaced by a cowl board control that operates the carburetor in such a manner that the raw gasoline is drawn directly into the motor. Besides the accessibility of the device, more easy starting also is brought about.

"Automobile is becoming a national sport that is followed at all times by people in all climates.

GABRIEL SNUBBERS

GABRIEL REBOUND SNUBBER

A device that keeps you on the seat when the roads are rough.

How It Works

As the car springs compress, the spring within the coil expands and takes up the slack in the belt, then as the rebound commences, the coil of belt begins to tighten and create friction on the band of brass between them, thus forming a resistance that increases gradually as the coil compresses the spring within it. This action steadies and controls the car springs, and causes them to regain their normal position gradually with one jerk or abrupt stop. The result is the occupants move with the seat instead of being bounced or jolted from it.

They stop the car and make your car ride like a pullman car. Rebound equipment on all America's best cars. Get a set if your car is not already equipped.

$15.00—$20.00 and $25.00 per set of four, according to weight of car.

WORK AND APETITE

"Let good digestion wait on appetite."

An health on both"—Shakespeare. That some people require more food than others is a well known fact, and at various times standards have been proposed for daily dietaries of persons of different age, sex and occupation, and in different conditions of life.

A new standard, however, has now been set up by two French physiologists, who conducted their investigations at the University of Helsingfors, the experiments being conducted under the conditions of work, and represent in some adequate way the daily muscular performances of the persons concerned. The investigations bring into clear relief the great differences in food energy that the various trades and occupations entail. Eight classes of workers were investigated, and the results show that the woodcutter needs more food than any of the others. The stonecutter comes next, and the order of the others is as follows: Carpenter, painter, metalworker, shoemaker, bookbinder and tailor, the stone-cutter requiring more than twice as many calories in an eight-hour working day as the tailor. Among women it is found that the washerwoman required most food, the housemaid coming next, and the seamstress last. Figures compiled by the United States authorities show that a man at very hard work requires nearly twice as much food as a student, and three times as much as a very poor person out of work.

1916 AUTO SHOW WILL ATTRACT THOUSANDS

Just as the 1916 models are the finest automobiles ever built the 1916 show will be the best ever seen in Detroit, and not only that, it will be one of the most important in the country. Appreciating the position of this year's exhibit, the Detroit Automobile Dealers' Association, which organization is responsible for fourteen consecutive shows in the metropolis, plans to make this the beauty show of them all, the decorative scheme being one that is entirely original and cannot but delight the thousands of visitors.

The importance of the Detroit show rests in the fact that it is first in the great middle western territory, in which the bulk of the automobiles of the world are made. The New York show has come and gone and its success is an indication of the popularity that will characterize others.

Detroit is fortunate in following New York and being ahead of Chicago, for it will be the scene of the first showing of the 1916 models which were not announced until the last day of the old year. These cars, in which there is great interest, will be displayed on the floors with the 1916 cars that have been out for some months, and the public wants to make comparisons, to see if by waiting the designers, engineers and makers have been able to improve anything that is not embodied in automobiles about which the motoring world has been passing so many favorable comments.

The Detroit show this year is held in three adjoining buildings which are connected by spacious and covered passages. These structures, the Palace Auditorium, the Palace de Danse and The Pier, are on Jefferson avenue, one of the main traveled highways, close to the Belle Isle bridge approach, hence within very easy reach either by motor or trolley, several car lines passing the place and all others transferring to it.

The fact that there are three buildings admits of a novel scheme of decoration. Each will be different from the other, yet the three will be in perfect harmony. Striking contrasts in color will predominate, and the striped effect, which is the vogue of the modes of the day, will give the buildings an unusual appearance. This will be enhanced by wonderful illumination, ceiling lights throwing their rays through transparencies, so that there will be no glare, although every room will be filled with light.

The decorations are to be artistic, a departure from the commonplace, and it is believed that they will far outstrip the efforts in any other city for the opening of the 1916 season.

The arrangement of the exhibits is such that there will be an abundance of side rooms, permitting the visitor to have the best view of the automobiles, the commercial vehicles and the accessories and parts. Pleasure cars have two of the buildings while the other is given over to the trucks and delivery cars and accessories.

Indications point to 1916 as the record breaking year in production both of pleasure and business vehicles and in turning out the spirit that pervades the nation the Detroit show is to be the best ever held in the city, and from the night of the opening, January 15, to the last minutes of the attraction on January 22, it is believed that the attendance will be far greater than ever in the past.

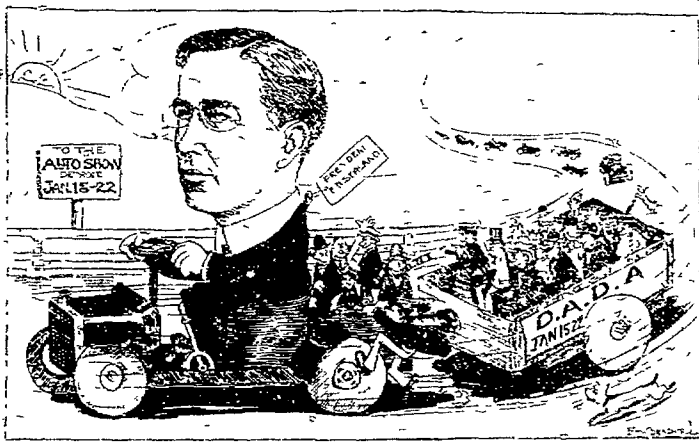

MOTOR CARS AND DELIVERY CARS IN GREAT DEMAND

Commerce in every form has acknowledged the motor truck and the lighter delivery car. The manufacturer and the wholesaler who has five to ten loads to be distributed, the retailer who needs both speed and an ever growing bulge to cover his territory and the farmer who wants to take advantage of the market when his harvest can be disposed of at the greatest profit—all of them bow to the power wagon.

The growth of use in motorized delivery has been such that the motorist warrants a comprehensive display each year of the cars which do this work. At the annual Detroit auto show the commercial vehicles always have had recognition, and this year it is possible to devote one of the buildings to these popular time and money savers.

The Detroit auto show, January 15 to 22, is held in three buildings, and the Palace Auditorium is set apart for the trucks. In the vast center and end space will be seen the latest creations of the companies which devote all of their energies to commercial cars and those which build them in connection with their automobiles.

There will be trucks of five, seven and ten ton capacities, powerful in build to withstand the strain and fitted to do eight to twelve miles an hour when heavily loaded, as against about three miles an hour for two three horse teams to do the same work.

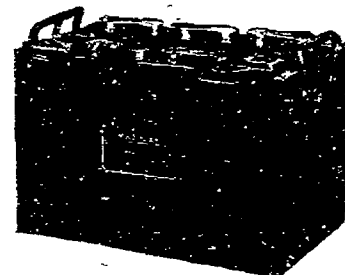

Also there will be the lighter trucks which carry a ton or two at a great rate of speed, and a great array of delivery cars which range from 500 to 1500 pounds' capacity. It is among the last named that the farmer finds his best friend, for he can make two trips a day to market where formerly he might only have made one in two days with horses. More farmers are buying these cars each year, experience having shown that they are a splendid investment. The truck builders have made the same rate of progress in their 1916 models that is shown in the pleasure cars, and the Detroit show will be the place for any intending buyers to look over the best that the market affords in this line.

Sometimes a man has to be smart in order to make enough money to support his grown-up sons.

The British are to perform the proverbial hazardous feat of swapping horses while crossing the stream. And one to go is an old war horse, who row may scent the battle from the front instead of from afar.

Berlin dispatches deny the report emanating from Paris to the effect that the French have taken Hartmann'skopf. Question is, where could the French find a place to put it if they did take it?

FENCE OR AMBULANCE.

'Twas a dangerous climb, as they free confessed,
Though to walk near its crevice was so pleasant
But over its terrible edge there had slipped
A duke and full many a peasant,
So the people said something would have to be done—
But their projects did not at all tally
Some said: "Put a fence 'round the edge of the cliff,"
Some: "An ambulance down in the valley."

But the cry of the ambulance carried the day,
And spread thru the neighboring city;
A fence may be useful or not—it is true,
But each heart became brimful of pity
For those who had slipped over that dangerous cliff,
And dwellers in the highway and alley
Gave pounds or gave pence, not to put up a fence
But an ambulance down in the valley.

"For the cliff is alright if you're careful," they said
"And if folks even slip or are dropping
It isn't this lipping that hurts them so much
As the shock down below when they're stopping."
So day after day as those mishaps occurred,
Quick forth would these rescuers rally
To pick up the victims who fell off the cliff
With the ambulance down in the valley.

Then an old sage remarked: "It's a marvel to me
That people give far more attention
To repairing results than to stopping the cause
When they'd much better aim at prevention."
Let us stop at its source all the mischief," cried he,
"Come, neighbors and friends, let's us rally,
If the cliff we would fence we might almost dispense
With the ambulance down in the valley."

"Oh, he's a fanatic," the others rejoined,
"Dispense with the ambulance? Never!
He'd dispense with all charities, too, if he could,
No, no, we'll support them forever!
Aren't we picking folk up just as fast as they fall?
And shall this man dictate to us? Shall he
Why should people of sense stop to put up a fence
While their ambulance works in the valley?"

But a sensible few, who are practical, too,
Will not bear with such nonsense much longer
They believe that prevention is better than cure;
And their party will soon be the stronger.
Encourage them, then, with your purse, voice and pen,
And (while other philanthropists dally)
They will scorn all pretense and put a stout fence
On the cliff that hangs over the valley.

Better guide well the young than reclaim them when old
For the voice of true wisdom is calling;
To rescue the fallen is good, but 'tis best
To prevent other people from falling,
Better close up a source of temptation and crime
Than deliver from dungeon or gallows
Better put up a strong fence 'round the top of the cliff,
Than an ambulance down in the valley.

A SALLY STORY.

Tons of the Sallie Stuff Used on B. U. R. Trucks.

One used to take a grain of salt with a good many things the time newspaper says concerning the Detroit United R. R. Co., but in order that the street car company may keep its cars running over the regular routes in winter time requires a good many grains of salt.

Know, meet him and tell him if left by them it would freeze the switch points and derails so that cars could not operate. To prevent this freezing, salt is used, much being placed in around these parts of the tracks which it is necessary to keep free. How much salt do you suppose was used this last winter throughout the city? It is a big job, but one that is not so much as you think. It is a guess and see how far you are wrong.

To help you make this guess, this may help you. Nearly half a hundred men are employed during the winter season placing this salt. Your guess is probably away wrong. For the past winter there was used a total of 42,742 barrels of salt. Astonished, aren't you?

Each barrel averages 400 pounds. Here's a total of 843 tons of salt. Some salt—D. U. R. News.

These Running Boards
Are Costly

The running boards and floor board of Model 43 are of cast aluminum—the most expensive material, and the best for permanent beauty. They are typical of this car—an Oldsmobile through and through. Aluminum can be cleaned easily and retains its new appearance no matter how old the car.

Note that the running boards are equipped with mud scrapers, so your guests can remove the mud from their shoes before entering the car.

Price of this Oldsmobile $1,095. Demonstration on request.
