C. will form in the open space between comrades' right, resting on head of column at Palace meat market, school girls on right and left flank of W. R. C. The ladies will then present flags to school, to replace those destroyed by fire. Acceptance of same will be made by Supt. O. M. Misenar.

Order of march to cemetery: The W. R. C., attended on each flank, by school girls, will head column of march, followed by old comrades, flanked by boys of school and comrades in autos to upper gate of old cemetery. W. R. C. will then open ranks for comrades to pass through and follow in rear of G. A. R. to place of service. The bugler will sound roll call prior to service, and taps just after service, when graves will be decorated. By order Commander.

W. R. C. ANNUAL NEXT WEEK SATURDAY

The notification cards have been sent out this week for the seventy annual reunion and picnic of the West Novi Denoting Club, which is dated for Saturday, June 3, at the West Novi School house. These annual gatherings in honor of a literary society once famous throughout Oakland and adjoining counties have come to be one of the important events of the season in Novi township. All who wish to attend are made welcome, whether they were attendants of the old club or not, and an especially enjoyable meeting is always assured. It is the earnest desire of the officers and the other former members of the club that any who were in the habit of attending its meetings at any time during its active existence shall consider themselves invited, even should they be missed in the sending out of the cards. Everybody who wished to do so was always free to attend the regular sessions of the society and the same privilege obtains at these annual picnics. The social meeting opens at 10:30 with dinner at noon, the literary program beginning at 1:30 o'clock. The question to be discussed is "Resolved, That true Americanism and the safeguarding of American ideals and institutions demand military preparedness." Affirmative, A. N. Kimmis, B. T. Nicholson, Marvin Bogart and others. Negative, David Gage, E. M. Moore, and Harry Bogart.

NORTHVILLE PASTOR IS APPRECIATIVE

OF THE BUSINESS AND PROFESSIONAL MEN OF OUR VILLAGE.

As one of the pastors of Northville, I take pleasure in expressing in this public manner, my appreciation of the many courtesies extended to me by professional and business men, and also the private citizenship of our village. What I shall say, I assure you, is entirely unsolicited. I owe it as a matter of appreciation.

Our business men are to be esteemed as the highest type in uprighteousness, candor and courtesy. If they are not Masome in name they appear to be doing business on the square. Our legal men endeavor to keep us honest and law-abiding. If anything is illegal the lawyers won't allow it, not in Northville. As to the medical profession, too much cannot be said of their skill and willingness to minister to all classes, whether the bill is forth coming, or if it is never coming. They may not be able to assist you much in getting ready to depart, but will try to give you timely warnings so that a minister may be called.

Perhaps we ought to say a little something regarding this calling. The minister is the best loved and the worst hated person in the community, but he has an average of respect. He is very much like a woman in that he always dies the last word, if he has to go to the cemetery to say it. So don't try to get even with him, you are only wasting your time. Then again he is public property. Very much like the town pump. When he is wanted right bad, when people decide to be good, he is usually consulted. If otherwise, never. But he is not right in his place. That's where sin and iniquity is running riot.

We don't see eye to eye on all points of doctrine. But we are a unit when it comes to dealing with a municipal evil. So if you will only love us as much as you hate us, we'll stand it and be your best friend after the smoke of battle is cleared away.

As to the church the writer is serving, there are many good things to be said. One is their way of notifying the Pastor when his services are no longer desired. The polite way on earth they just let you preach to their pews; he keeps tab on the vacant pews.

Well, just a word for the village paper. I think that few people realize the wear and tear of nerve and brain required in grinding out news for even a weekly paper. If you don't believe it, sit down and try to write just one column of news items. A Northville Pastor.

CARD OF THANKS.

Wish to thank my friends for the beautiful flowers sent me, and the many acts of kindness shown me during my illness.

MRS. PHIL TAYLOR.

CHARMING SOCIAL AFFAIRS.

Three very delightful social affairs have been given during the past ten days in honor of Miss Hazel Perkins. On May 13, Mrs. F. S. Neal charmingly entertained a dozen young ladies in her home at a miscellaneous shower. A wedding cake decorated with a miniature bride, and sherbert were served after an evening of enjoyable stunts.

Twenty-six girls were invited to the B. G. Fulkens home last Saturday evening with the Misses Hazel Boyce and Bertha White as hostesses. Most original mock wedding furnished entertainment for all. A buffet luncheon was served in the form of pink and white cakes and small cakes containing a ring, trinket and coin, with the initials of the guest of honor, ice cream with a pink heart center, punch and salted nuts.

The shower gifts were presented in a novel manner at both parties and were all exceedingly beautiful and useful.

On Wednesday of this week the C. of S. club gave a luncheon at the home of Mrs. D. M. Herrick. Pink and white were used in decorating the table which was centered with a Kewpie bride and groom. After the three-course luncheon a social evening was enjoyed by the ten club members present.

BATTLE SHIP OKLAHOMA, MOST FORMIDABLE FIGHTING SHIP IN THE WORLD

Here is the Oklahoma, the mightiest battle ship in the United States navy and one of the most formidable in the world, which has just been turned over to the government by the New York Shipbuilding Company. The vessel is capable of making 20 1/2 knots an hour, with her 23,000 horse power engines. Her displacement is 27,300 tons and she measures 353 feet from prow to stern.

The Oklahoma is fitted only for the burning of oil fuel, thus saving a large space usually required for coal-bunkers. She has four turrets mounted on the keel line, and the forward and aft turrets each carry three 14-inch rifles. The other two turrets each have two 14-inch guns, elevated sufficiently to allow them to fire over the top of the larger batteries, giving the vessel ten of these great guns.

WONDERFUL NEW GUN INVENTED IN AMERICA

A model of a new kind of gun, amazingly simple and effective, was recently tried out a few weeks ago on the Government testing grounds at Sandy Hook, N. Y. Army officers who were present were amazed, and predicted that the new idea would put all our modern big guns out of business.

The new gun is powerful, noiseless, smokeless, and easy to use, and without oil. It is easily and quickly made in much smaller cost than the present big guns. Any man can use it. It can be carried on a small cart, or on a small motor car. It can be used in a trench, or in a small boat, or in a concrete bunker. It is a simple, rugged, and reliable gun. It can be used in any kind of situation. It is a simple, rugged, and reliable gun. It can be used in any kind of situation.

It was invented, in principle by the first boy when he threw the first stone.

To put it more scientifically, the harnessing of centrifugal force is what does the work. Any kind of engine will run the machine—steam, gasoline or electric.

In machine—by it is more a machine than a gun—was invented in the United States, but its inventor's name has not been made public.

The gun is a simple working model could be put in a 10-foot box. It throws a shot to a distance of 1000 feet. It is accurate, that fifty shots strike inside of a 10-foot circle. The power is an electric motor of any size—half of a horse power. With four powerful motors there would be ready any time to what the new gun can do. It can be used in any situation. It is a simple, rugged, and reliable gun. It can be used in any kind of situation.

ON TRACK OF NEW CONTINENT UNLIDED STATES WOULD BUY DANISH ISLANDS

Millman, Borden and Companions
 1211 Madison St.
 Los Angeles—John Borden, Chicago, is the first American to learn of a treaty from Capt. Wilfrid Stefansson that there is another continent in the Arctic region, a new continent, Great Bear, which is a large continent in Seattle and which he will discover shortly with a great number of whatever is most fashionable in the prohibition sale of Washington. He will sail this month to meet the commander of the Canadian expedition.

Again the United States is on the point of buying the Danish West Indies. Secretary Lansing and the Danish Minister have been discussing the sale for months, and have agreed on the price and all details, the Washington correspondents say. Not much remains but the ratification of the treaty by the U. S. Senate and the Danish Parliament.

Gen. Government has long wished to buy these islands, to prevent their falling into the hands of a certain European Power which is now very busy with other matters. In the Roosevelt Administration a sale was arranged, and the Senate ratified the treaty, but the Danish Parliament, after long hesitation, rejected it.

 Seven Routes in Alaska to Form Connecting Link Between Seaward and Fairbanks.

Washington—Bids were opened at the postoffice department recently on the government's first aerial mail service routes. They will be in Alaska and Massachusetts. If the service proves successful a gradual expansion will follow to other routes where transportation is slow or inadequate. Seven routes in Alaska will form a connecting link between Seward and Nome, thence to Fairbanks and back to Valdez. The longest route is 358 miles.

The Massachusetts route is from New Bedford to Nantucket, 56 miles and return.

The present cost of carrying the Alaskan mail is high, on some as much as $1,000,000 a year.

Don't buy a Summer Skirt that must be made over after laundering

When you buy a summer wash skirt you shouldn't have to make it over after it is laundered. You've doubtless had the experience and know the annoyance it caused you, to say nothing of the uncertain result.

The only washable skirt that can be depended upon always to fit, is one in which the materials, even to the belting, are pre-shrunk the Woltex way.

Launder them every week, if you wish. When they come back from the laundry, you will not have to put on a new waist band or let out the hem.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Comments By
Rev. Ernest Bourner Allen, D. D.
Pastor of the Washington St. Congregational Church and the Marion Lawrence Sunday School, Toledo, Ohio.

For Sunday May 28, 1916

Lesson Title: "The Council at Jerusalem"

Golden Text: "For freedom did Christ set us free."—Gal. 5: 1a.

I. The Get-Together Council.
The early church had its problems. One of them was the question whether Christians must observe the old Jewish ceremonial laws. Two sides were quickly formed. Then came contest and discussion. It is indeed important to settle under what conditions men of other faiths and no faith may become Christians. Our missionaries abroad must settle this question. What must a man in India or China give up of his ancestral faith? Why? What must he do on becoming a Christian? It is a far more complex question than it is in America.

A long step toward the settlement of any question is taken when they are willing to get together and talk it over. Capital must do this with labor. John D. Rockefeller, Jr., started on the right road when he went to Colorado in October, 1913, to talk with the miners about conditions of labor wages etc. If he had done so in September, 1913, the labor troubles there might have been averted. Hired men must talk with their employers when difficulties arise. Husbands and wives, parents and children, teachers and pupils, churches and pastors, brothers and sisters, neighbors and friends, strangers and aliens, ALL must come together in conference when trouble threatens.

II. Settling Differences

And when people come together to conference what rules shall govern their action? What are the Christian rules for settling differences? There must be mutual forbearance. Politely each person will have something to forgive. Patience must be allowed to speak. Open-mindedness, to see another's viewpoint, and peaceful courage in expressing one's convictions must be matched by courtesy in hearing the convictions of another. The spirit of the overbearing man, of things we do not do very much, even if things it was just we should have, though no concession in matters of honor. Let us be every-thing that things we regard as points of honor are not after all matters of pride or prejudice. Let us set our faces bravely to see the issues settled amicably rather than sit in stiff opposition, making harder all progress toward desired ends.

III. Men Who Take Hazards

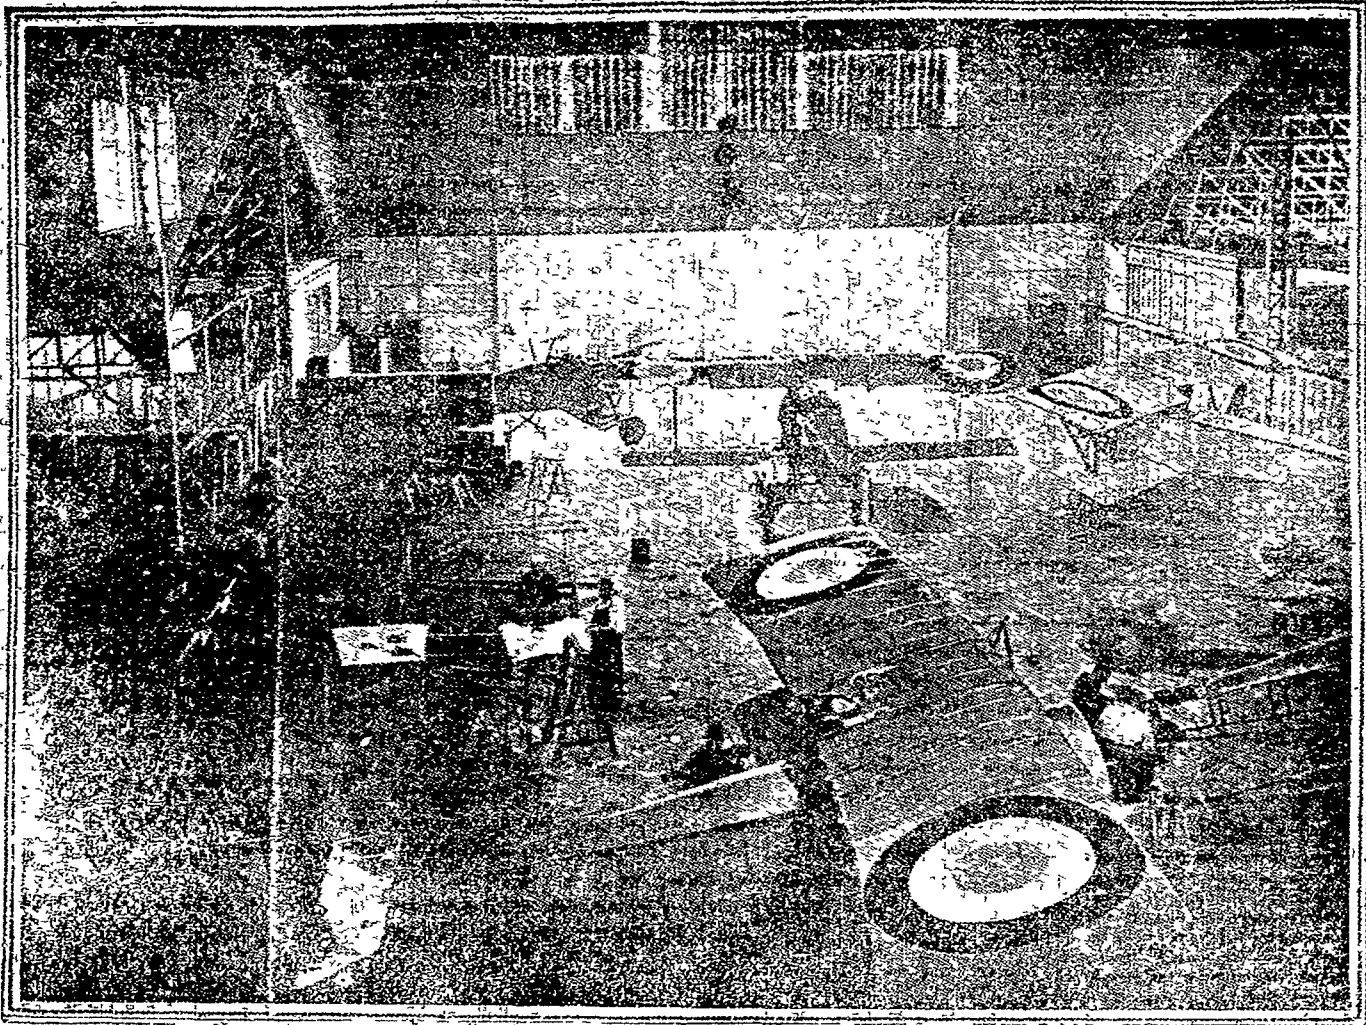

Hero-worship is inherent in all of us. Instinctively we admire the man who faces danger for the sake of others. The fireman and the policeman have a right to their modest uniform and to the kindly glances of the crowd. I have a goodly number of railroad men among my friends. They are always in the presence of risks. They know they will face them every time they leave home. It is all in the day's work.

For what things may a man properly hazard his life? What are the evidences that men nowadays are often doing it for the sake of principle? Luke speaks with calm but positive approval of Barnabas and Paul, and calls them "Men that have their lives for the name of our Lord Jesus Christ." There are countless thousands who have done it from that day to this. The missionaries are doing it in Turkey and elsewhere. The doctors and nurses are doing it on the "far flung battle line" of Europe. Mothers are doing it for the sake of their children. There are some things for which we are willing to put life itself in the scale and win by losing it. It was Satan who said long ago, "ALL that a man hath will he give for his life." It is a devil's lie! The Son of God taught the world differently. He has had many noble followers. Life is worth less than honor, less than fidelity to a great cause, less than a clear conscience, a soul untainted.

New Method of Raising Mushrooms

Announcement is made by Dr. E. M. Dugger, of the Department of Horticulture, Missouri University, that he has discovered a new method of growing mushrooms that will make them as cheap as potatoes. After several years of experimenting, Dr. Dugger says he has discovered that new crops can be grown from the tissue of mushroom heads. It is believed by the State Horticultural officials that mushrooms can be cultivated so cheaply by this new process that importation of foreign produce will be greatly curtailed and small growers at St. Louis, Republic.

TO MARK SOLDIERS' NEGLECTED GRAVES

IN VARIOUS OKLAHOMA CIVIL WAR BURIAL GROUNDS

EMINENT SHOULD END AT THE GRAVE

Remnants of Hundreds of Men Who Fell in Civil War Unknown

OKLAHOMA—A movement has been organized with a view to locating various Oklahoma Civil War burial grounds and particularly the burial places of Confederate soldiers who fell in combat during the Indian Territory campaign of the war between the north and the south.

Among these burial grounds is one located in Muskogee County, where nearly 150 Confederate soldiers fell in a Civil War battle. Since that time there has been no effort to keep sacred the cemetery other than to let it remain in blowing up the soil which covers the remains of the soldiers.

"Dignity should end at the grave. Surely there are none so unforgetting as to hold justice toward the memory of brave men who died, the death of soldiers on the field of battle. Such was the comment of L. D. Thornburg, of the department of history of the University of Oklahoma, in discussing that fact that the graves of Confederate soldiers who were killed in battle during the civil war in what is now the state of Oklahoma, are unmarked, and even the places where they were buried are almost forgotten. Continuing, Mr. Thornburg said:

"It is nearly 20 years since President McKinley stated in the course of an address to the legislature of a Southern State that he thought the time had come when the people of that nation at large would be glad to join with the people of the south in seeing to it that the Confederate cemeteries should have proper care and attention. And who shall say that the spirit, which prompted such an utterance on the part of a man who, though he had been a gallant soldier himself, loved the ways of peace more than the glories of war, should not find a ready response in the hearts of the people of Oklahoma today?"

There are in Oklahoma several places where the remains of Confederate soldiers (who were killed in action, or who, it may be, died of wounds or of disease in hospital or camp) are buried in considerable numbers. I have personally visited three or four of these burial grounds. In every instance the grounds are neglected and there is nothing to indicate that beneath the soil of such a spot sleeps all that is mortal of men who had sealed their devotion with their lives. It is to be regretted that such small tracts were not even accepted from the men when the lands were apportioned in the old Indian Territory, 15 years ago. "One cannot but be impressed by the loving care which is lavished upon the buried covered graves of the national

EXHIBITS RARE HEIRLOOM

Wellsboro, Pa.—Joseph A. Wilkoff, of this city, has been exhibiting to friends a rare and valued relic, it is in the shape of a genuine carved ivory snuff box. On the cover is plainly inscribed, "Susanna Wilkoff, 1305."

This heirloom is said to have come over on the Mayflower and has been handed down in the Willard family these six hundred years. It is much prized by its possessor.

He had been totally deaf for thirteen years, having lost his hearing when struck on the head with a base ball bat.

Overfeeding

Men drunk from liquor and men drunk from overeating are most susceptible to pneumonia and die. If it is said a Chicago health commissioner in an address: "The majority of cases of pneumonia are of patients who contracted the disease after a drink of debauch or who were drunk from overfeeding." the commissioner continued, "People drunk from overfeeding, I think, are almost as immoral as those who stupefy themselves with liquor. The effects of pneumonia in such patients are much the same."

Well-Trained Memory

"I do not recall anything on that point," said the witness. "Oh, you don't?" sneered the lawyer. "You'd better take memory lessons." "Excuse me," rejoined the witness suavely, "but my memory has been trained by one of the highest-priced lawyers in the business."—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

Rhode Island has a wheeled chapel used by the Episcopal mission. It is a small building on wheels that can be moved from place to place upon its own running gear. It is the most elaborate traveling chapel in the world and forms a part of the special train to London on the occasion of the annual pilgrimage. Here, through it also, a number of the late Pope's messengers said with the truth is building a

Jews Thrive in the Slums

The Lancet publishes the result of an investigation of the physical condition of children living in the slums of Leeds, which shows a marked superiority of Jewish children in every case taken. The comparison is made with similar conditions in regard to age, degree of poverty, character and residence.

A scientific examination of 2,030 children showed that the poor Jew is three pounds heavier and two inches taller than the non-Jew at the age of 8; six and a quarter pounds heavier and two and a half inches taller at the age of 10; and seven pounds heavier and one and a quarter inches taller at the age of 12. The bone formation is much more satisfactory. The Jews' teeth are better and there is a striking absence of decay. The Jewish character is more and there is remarkable freedom from defects compared with the non-Jew.

The differences are attributed to the fact that the Jews in general are better cared for and supplied with natural nourishment in a larger percentage of cases. While after the breast-feeding period Jewish children are fed more sensibly with better food in more abundant quantities and better cooked than that given to the non-Jew.

Red Hair and Revolution

There never has been an important revolutionary movement without a red-haired person intimately concerned, if not the leader, says a writer. Nearly all the great reformers or founders of religions had red hair. History mentions that Mohammed was a red-haired man. King David was red. Louis XIV was a sandy-haired man with many of the characteristics peculiarities of the type. Cleopatra is called the red-haired Queen. Mary Queen of Scots had red hair. Sir Isaac Newton resembled Martin Luther. Queen Elizabeth I was red-headed. Pericles, which the sun suit both her admirers and her detractors.

Children and School

Investigations among 15,000 school children in Germany showed that the number of sick among the children attending morning and afternoon sessions was one half greater than among children who attended sessions in the forenoon only. A German scientist favors a morning session of five hours, leaving a resting hour of fifteen minutes at the end of each hour. He says that the afternoon sessions exhaust the vitality of the child of 10 or 11. In the afternoon, the child has been in school for a week and has been through a week of physical and mental training.

A NEW ENDORSEMENT.

It was stated in last week's issue of the Milford Times that the saloon interests are complaining that the moving pictures are injuring the liquor business. Here is a new and most potent argument in favor of the screen drama. If a man is known by the hand of enemies he makes, such also is the case in regard to man's amusements. When the saloonmen confess that life picture shows take the tickets and dimes that would otherwise come into the tinner's coffers, they have advanced an argument in favor of the film that is of untold value. By all means, let us encourage the moving pictures as a power for good. That they are infinitely preferable to bar-rooms as places for our boys and men to congregate, surely nobody would attempt to deny. If the scenes depicted are not always as refined as some people like to see, at that, they are immeasurably above the saloon. Nothing that is ever permitted on a film in these days of fairly intelligent censorship could possibly be as demoralizing as the atmosphere of the whisky shop. This is a new thought to us but it might very reasonably be true. Good for the ever popular film!

A Pontiac man refused to pay the $100 fine levied on a dog that he didn't own but which he allowed to stray around his premises, and in consequence was compelled to pay five dollars when the matter was taken to the court. Would you not keep dogs around you if willing to pay for the privilege?

A fair collection of Northville boys will probably be in line in Detroit City on Saturday and will be in charge of a collection of boys in the city of Detroit.

The football movement still moves. Fourteen men were in attendance at a humble party over at Troy, Oakland county, the other day.

VAUGHAN GLASER AND COMPANY IN "THE HAWK" GARRICK.

The old triangle has been used as the basis of plays almost since play-writing has been indulged in—therefor an author who can give it a new twist is a genius. Yet such is the tribute awarded Francis de Croisset, author of "The Hawk," which William Faversham introduced to American audiences and which will be offered at the Garrick Theatre Detroit, next week, by the Vaughan Glaser company. "The Hawk" is a French drawing-room drama, the American adaptation of which was made by Marie Zane Taylor—it is said to be a thrilling play.

The story largely concerns Disetta, a Hungarian married to a beautiful and charming wife who invades the Parisian "set." Disetta is charming, educated, refined and resourceful, well met and delightful—but it develops that his moral fibre has been warped by his intense love for his wife. She enjoys luxury and he loves that tenacity that he cannot refuse her slightest whim. Consequently he falls to cheating at cards in which he is abetted by his charming wife. It remains for an American, in love with his wife, who reciprocates, to discover the parody. In a stormy scene the wife confesses to her love for the other man.

The False Panel

He believed that his wonderful memory in regard to sounds would help him to locate the house where he was now certain Trelofsky had been killed. Trelofsky—and doubtless the actress, too. Could it be possible that Orville had been her husband? The fact was borne in upon Evan that the millionaire seldom mentioned his wife.

Increasing his speed as he became surer of the road, Evan fancied that he remembered the very trees and gates that he had passed before.

This was an adventure upon which a man in full possession of his wits might hesitate to embark; small wonder, then, if Evan started with a premonition as he reached what he believed to be the place where he had turned to the right with Trelofsky.

Beyond this gateway which he was sure he remembered the ground rose slightly as he advanced. He had noticed this on that memorial night; he must be proceeding in the right direction. His face grew paler; his heart began to beat more rapidly as he proceeded cautiously. His foot hit against something—a stone step.

He moved it—there was another and then another; three steps—that was the number he remembered.

Now, indeed, he needed supreme courage to go farther. But he went on, cautiously groping for the door, stood half open.

He pushed it carefully, and entering, felt his way along the wall. No far in he found a door on the right. This was open, and he passed through recklessly.

Perspiration, cold and profuse, started out upon his forehead as he reached his hand before him; he touched the hard, smooth surface of a piano. Then, breathing in a tremble, he gasped, he walked on, hoping to find the wall with the sliding panel.

No furniture impeded his progress but a hand dropped upon his arm—a voice broke the silence.

“Evan, what are you doing here?” He started back, his foot hit the leg of the piano and he sank wearily upon it.

as I did, that he did not deserve to suffer for the deed. To save him from the consequences of his wild jealousy, she even helped him dig a grave in which they buried Trelofsky.

“How did they manage to live?” “She is known in the neighborhood, not by her stage name, and had some money—a good deal, in fact—when she went down there, that night. Her manager did not look for her on account of her letter; she has no relatives. It was very easy, but the secret has preyed upon her; she shows the consequences.”

“I am very sorry for her,” said Evan quietly. “What will she do now?” “She will return to the stage. I persuaded her that it was her only course. She came up to London with me today, and is now with friends.”

“The day after this Evan took Orville to see his old home in Cheapside. The millionaire was greatly interested in the adventure, and they left a golden trail through the house—one that little Jane, at least, would never cease to marvel at.

“On the way back to the Portman, Evan handed Orville a large photograph. “Trelofsky, exclaimed the latter, and autographed. Where did you get it?”

“I may say only this,” replied Evan, “that one of my former friends found it and presented it to me. I should like to give it to your sister-in-law. Will you undertake that for me?”

CHAPTER I
The Spot of Sudden Starts.

“Oh, Mr. Moreaux! Please—please! I must speak alone with you for a moment.” The artist turned about quickly. It was the bride, of course. He had recognized the voice at the first word she uttered.

“I am so excited, she went on rapidly, but in a tone that was pitched so that others might not hear her. Please make an excuse to take me aside, away from all these people. You are such an old friend that you may do so without exciting comment.”

“The more formal part of the reception was over; when the bride and groom stood together, side by side, to receive the congratulations of their friends. The comparatively informal part of it was on, but nevertheless, as if by the attraction of gravitation, everybody sought the bride.

Presently there should be the supper—but there remained still a good half-hour or more before that would be announced.

“We will take a turn of the room together,” she said. “Gradually we will draw away from the group. I happen to know that your father's small den when not being opened to the guests, we will possess.”

“Do you return to your friends at once. Conduct yourself as if nothing had happened, only before you go, tell me this: are you sure, positively sure, about this thing?”

“I needn't say I am,” she replied. “It does not matter just now how you know it, Lorna. The question is, do you know it?”

“Yes; oh, yes.” “Come, then. We will go back to the guests who must be clamoring for you by this time. Say nothing of this to any other person until I speak with you again,” he added, as they again entered the great reception room.

Then he resigned her to others who were all too eager for her return. They had not been absent five minutes—but a bride of such exquisite beauty and grace as Lorna Delorme possessed may be missed in five seconds.

CHAPTER II
The Missing Wedding Presents.

“After that he made a rapid tour of the room and went out, but he looked disturbed.”

“Well, what then?” “I went over to that spot of sudden starts and took a look myself—but I couldn't see anything wrong—and I've got the whole jargon pretty clearly in my mind. I went around the room as they had done, but I haven't found anything out of the way. I had just finished it when you appeared in company with the groom and two others. This is his third visit to this room since the reception began.”

“While the lieutenant was talking he did not once look at Moreaux. His eyes were everywhere else around that room instead. Now, after an almost unperceptible pause, he added: ‘The funny part of it is that all of the people I have mentioned have made directly for that place, which I have called the spot of sudden starts—until this time.’”

“Mr. Beverly began at the opposite side of the room this time. He is just approaching the spot—watch him! Let's see if he throws a ‘look’ too.”

“Beverly had not a word to say, but he caught a full Lieutenant Muchmore's eye as he went by.”

“He stood up straight very suddenly, glanced hastily about him with flashing eyes and compressed lips, discovered Birge-Moreaux and crossed the room rapidly toward him.”

“Mr. Moreaux,” he said, rapidly, “but in a low tone. I suppose there are detectives in this room. I don't know them; perhaps you do. There is a thief in the house. At least one article has been taken—a very valuable one. I don't know but others may have gone with it. Will you tell me what I ought to do?”

CHAPTER III
The Missing Wedding Presents.

“This is Lieutenant Muchmore, Beverly,” Moreaux replied calmly. “He was sent here from headquarters, and has been in this room all the evening. You had better tell him what is missing—but do it quietly. I should advise not attracting the attention of others to your discovery.”

“What is missing, Mr. Beverly?” the lieutenant asked quietly. “I made the round of the room just before you came in this first time. I discovered nothing wrong.”

“Beverly had regained his composure. He replied as quietly as if the door had opened.”

CHAPTER IV
A Breathing and Walking History of France.

There exists in Paris, a famous professor, Pere Tibbe, who, to describe him in his own words, is an ‘engraver upon human skin.’ He lives in the ‘Greville quarter.’ As a kind of permanent advertisement he exhibits his left arm, on which are ‘engraved’ in order all the presidents of the republic from Thiers to Loubet. On the professor's body, it is stated, is to be found the whole history of France—portraits of Charlemagne, Henri IV, Joan of Arc, Louis XIV, Robespierre, Napoleon, Gambetta and others, with ‘encheutrons,’ fasses, flag trophies and similar ornaments galore.—The Bit.

$568,000 FOR ROADS

Fellows Rules Counties Share of Auto Tax, Is Available

LANSING, Mich.—Special.—There will be a distribution of automobile tax money to the various counties about July 1.

Attorney General Fellows this morning stood pat on his original opinion, that a distribution could be made any time, notwithstanding the fact that the only date mentioned in the law as Jan. 1, 1917. He takes the position that the law does not mean that no distribution should be made before that time, but insists that a house cleaning of funds must take place not later than Jan. 1.

There now is $1,136,000 in the auto fund, of which $568,000 will be refunded to counties for road building.

Jackson Farmers Are Weeks Behind With Plowing

JACKSON, Mich.—Farming in Jackson county seriously delayed by the late spring, has received another setback owing to the heavy rains of last week. Farmers say plowing of corn lands has been delayed at least one week. Oats are largely in, and wheat and rye are reported as having wintered very well.

WHITTLES OUT OF JAIL

Sturgis Prisoner Cuts Four Panels Out of Door

STURGIS, Mich.—Chief Montgomery arrested Theodore Keckler and lodged him in the city jail on a charge of intoxication. Some time during the early evening and during the absence of the night watch Keckler whittled his way to freedom by cutting out four large panels of the jail door. He has not been seen since.

FALLING ORE KILLS MINER

IRON MOUNTAIN, Mich.—Andrew Russell, 52, an employe of the Chapin mine for 28 years, was instantly killed when struck on the back by a large piece of iron ore which fell from overhead in a drift. The accident happened 1,500 feet below the surface. He leaves a widow and three children.

MUSKOGON'S DEPOSITS GROW

AMERICAN CAPITAL MAY REBUILD SPANISH RAILWAYS

Interest is again being revived in the proposed Paris-Agadir railway route, whereby the travel between Europe and South America is to be shortened from ten to twelve days. This is attested by the recent conference held by the King of Spain with Charles W. A. Veditz, the United States consular attaché at Paris, and the announcement that the Spanish Premier as well as the King discussed the prospect of American capital taking over the reconstruction of Spanish railroads and the building of new lines within Spanish territory.

A Famous Industry Dwindling

Two and a quarter tons of whalebone have been sold in Dundee for $15,000 a ton and only four tons are left standing in the world's supply. There is no corner in this picturesque commodity. The demand has out-run the supply so rapidly that in seventy years the price of whalebone has risen from thirteen cents to nearly seven dollars a pound. It never in the greatest years of the whale fishery did any vessel make so many captures as were reported by the Newfoundland whalers in the past season. An average catch of somewhat more than two hundred whales a piece was certainly a remarkable achievement for four vessels, but it does not promise a return of the picturesque industry which fifty years ago made Nantucket and New Bedford great. The whale fishery is simply going through the same process as many another industry in the past—Collier's Weekly.

OHIO ITEMS OF INTEREST TO MICHIGAN READERS

FIRE DESTROYS WHOLE BLOCK IN SANDUSKY

SANDUSKY, O.—Fire started from an unknown cause in the Wagner livery barn in the rear of Market street, near Wayne, spread to adjoining business blocks, and for a time threatened the entire downtown section. The livery barn was consumed so quickly that it was with great difficulty that the horses were gotten out. A strong southeast wind drove the flames to the four story Schmidt block on the corner of Wayne and Market streets, and this building was completely ruined, the local fire companies being unable to check the wind-driven blazes. When it was seen that the Schmidt block was doomed the firemen turned their attention to nearby structures which had been set afire by flying sparks and word was sent to Toledo and Lima summoning help.

OHIO RURAL ROUTES TO STAY UNCHANGED

WASHINGTON.—An avalanche of complaints by Ohio farmers combined with the heroic efforts of Senator Pomerehne have caused a complete surrender of Postmaster General Burleson in his plan to reorganize the rural mail delivery service in Ohio. Through J. H. Pickett, acting fourth assistant postmaster general, Burleson informed Pomerehne that he will rescind all orders previously issued for changes in Ohio rural routes. Burleson claims that his only purpose was to secure increased efficiency and economy. Republicans charged, however, that his real motive was to turn out present rural mail carriers, most of whom are Republicans, and fill their places with deserving Democrats.

RECORD WHEAT CROP AT 'O. S. U. FARM

Wheat fields on the Ohio State University farm yielded more than three times as much wheat per acre last year as the average wheat field of the state, according to A. E. Smith, superintendent of the university farm. The field of the university fields was 44 bushels per acre, while the average for the state was but 13 bushels per acre. A record wheat crop is predicted for 1916.

BUSINESS MEN WILL GET MILITARY TRAINING

Clevelanders to Learn Something of Army Life in July at Camp Perry.
CLEVELAND, O.—Cleveland business and professional men will begin to receive rudimentary military training at Camp Perry, the first week in July. The place has already become known as "Cleveland's Plattsburg." The instruction to be given will be greatly similar to that given at the New York coast's training camp last summer. Col. C. N. Zimmerman of the Fifth regiment, U. S. A., will be commander of the camp. Between 75 and 100 men are to compose the company.

WOOSTER COLLEGE HEAD INAUGURATED

Dr. J. Campbell White Becomes President of Institution.
WOOSTER, O.—Dr. J. Campbell White, for ten years head of the layman's mission, movement of the United States and Canada was inaugurated president of Wooster College last week in the Severance gymnasium in the presence of 2000 people, including presidents and delegates from more than 100 colleges and universities all over the United States. Dr. White enjoys the distinction of being the first alumnus of Wooster to become its head. He was graduated in 1896.

Plenty of Room for Cotton

The South can increase and will increase her cotton production not only by more intelligent selection of seed, not only by improving the fertility of her soil by every scientific and available method, not only by the improvement of the intelligence and skill of her laborers, not only by the use of more and more improved agricultural machinery, but by the opening up of new lands to give employment to thousands who are coming from other sections, as well as to our fast increasing population. To realize the vast possibilities for expansion along this line one has only to examine the census report, that shows that less than 50 per cent of the farm lands of the South are improved. The report shows that in Mississippi only 41.6 per cent, in North Carolina, only 36.6 per cent, in South Carolina, only 41.3 per cent, in Georgia, only 40.2 per cent, in Alabama, only 41.8 per cent, in Florida, only 34.8 per cent, in Louisiana, only 42.2 per cent, in Texas, only 15.6 per cent, in Arkansas, only 21.8 per cent, and in Tennessee, only 50.4 per cent. By opening up this undeveloped territory, almost every acre of which is good cotton land, the South's ability to indefinitely expand her cotton production cannot be questioned, and therefore the alarm about a sufficient cotton supply in the future should be abandoned.

Some Consolation

It's a mighty good thing sometimes remarked the observer of events, and things, that the mirror does not make any verba reflections. A practical plan for locating the streets is that adopted by the municipal council of the city to encourage the ornamentation of the fronts of buildings. A committee has just completed its inspection of the buildings erected in that part of the city and believed the six having the handsomest facades the architect of each one of them will receive a medal and the owner will be exempted from certain taxes.

Five Nations Fighting Ships

In Brasses' "Nival Annual" for 1906, which has just appeared, the figures on effective fighting ships of the five nations are as follows: Great Britain, all ships, 178, battle ships 66, France, all ships, 93; battle ships 36, United States, all ships 75, battle ships 36, Germany, all ships 69, battle ships 36, Russia, all ships 44, battle ships 26. As to first class battleships, the figures are: Great Britain, 50, France, 17, United States, 25, Germany, 22, Russia, 1.

Smallest Current Coin

The smallest coin now current in Europe and the one having the least value is the Greek lepton. The lepton is, according to the decimal monetary system, current in all countries belonging to the Latin union. Some idea of this valueless little disk of copper may be gathered from the fact that the lepton is the one-hundredth part of a drachma. The Greek drachma usually passes for the same value that a franc passes; that is, it is about equal to 20 cents of our money.

Stone Soles For Shoes

An inventor has hit upon a method of putting what are practically stone soles on boots and shoes. He makes a waterproof glue with a suitable quantity of clean quartz sand, and spreads it over the leather sole used as a foundation. These quartz soles are said to be very flexible and to give the foot a firm hold even on the most slippery surface.—Exchange.

JUST GOT OVER A COLD?

Look out for kidney troubles and backache. Colds overtax the kidneys and often leave them weak. For weak kidneys—well, read the following statement: "With addition, justice of the peace, Water St., S. Marine City, Mich. says: 'For a long time I was a sufferer from kidney disease. The trouble usually came on after I caught cold. I had lumbago and rheumatic pains in my back. At night I was restless and in the morning, my back was lame and sore. The passages of the kidney secretions were too frequent and often accompanied by pain. I used different medicines, but was not benefited until I took Doan's Kidney Pills. They gave me relief. I have since sold all dealers. Don't simply ask your druggist, but get Doan's Kidney Pills, the same as mine. I have a bottle of them with me now.'"

Oldest Man in the World

Jose Guadalupe Alcala of Jalisco, state of Jalisco, Mexico, is said to be the oldest man in the world. The record of his birth as contained in the archives of the parish church shows that he was born in 1770, which makes him 139 years old. He is in good physical condition.

The Great Chicago Fire

The most destructive fire ever known was that of Chicago, October 4 and 5, 1871. It covered an area of about three and a half square miles, destroyed 17,450 buildings, killed 200 persons, made homeless 93,500 people and the loss amounted to about $200,000,000.

Unsympathetic

Others may have said the same thing, but this rather unsympathetic comment is attributed to the late Judge Lord. "Are you going to attend the funeral of Gen. Butler?" a friend asked him. "No," was the calm reply. "No I am not going to attend—but I heartily approve of it."
