MARRIAGE OF HORACE A. BOYDEN AND RAZEL B. PERRINS SOJ. EMINIZED JUNE 2.

An illustrations but charming wedding took place last Friday afternoon, June 2, in the Methodist church when Mr. Horace A. Boyden and Miss Hazel B. Pergins, two of the associates in the publication of this paper, formed a life-partnership, in the presence of a large company of their friends.

The altar of the church was very simply but effectively decorated with plants and white flowers, forming a pretty background for the bridal party, while the seats reserved for the relatives were designated by small wreaths on the ends of the pews.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, J. W. Perkins, the beautiful ring service impressively administered by Rev. F. T. Walker. The pipe organ was exquisitely played before and during the ceremony by Guy S. Fulkins, and "O Promise Me" was charmingly sung by Miss Eunice Warman just preceding the entrance of the bridal party. The bride was attended by Miss Hazel Bovee as maid of honor and Misses Bertha White and Madeline Barnum as bridesmaids. Arthur Power supported the groom as best man, while Harold Turner and Don Ball filled the position of ushers.

The bridal gown was of white muslin combined with lace and the bridal bouquet was of American beauty roses.

The maid of honor was prettily gowned in pale yellow, and the bridesmaids wore dainty frocks of pink. Following the ceremony, the relatives, and the officiating clergymen and his wife were received at the Perkins home, where the young attendants at the wedding assisted in the serving of refreshments.

The only drawback to this part of the function was the fact that the bride and groom failed to appear, having with the connivance of a few friends, made a very clever and entirely unexpected "get-away" immediately after the ceremony, to the entire disarrangement of certain other carefully laid plans. Before their absence was realized, Mr. and Mrs. Boyden were well on their way to Detroit, where they took a boat for Buffalo, as one stage of a trip to Brooklyn, New York, where they are making a ten-day visit. On their return they will at once begin housekeeping in the newly remodeled house on Rogers street recently purchased by S. E. Cranton.

A great many valuable and useful gifts, and greatly appreciated words of congratulation were received by the young couple, pleasantly convincing them that they possess the warm regard of their large circle of acquaintances.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Boyden are grad-

REORGANIZATION OF PERE MARQUETTE

An application was made to the Michigan Railroad Commission on June 1 by the Pere Marquette at the request of committees representing the holders of a majority in amount of the securities of the company for approval of a proposed plan of organization. This is the culmination of months of unremitting effort to secure the consent of all the representatives of the thousands of security holders to some definite plan to reorganize the railroad, which has been in the hands of the receivers for more than four years.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Comments By
Rev. Ernest Bourne Alba, D.D.
Pastor of the Washington St.
Congregational Church and the Marion Lawrence Sunday School, Toledo, Ohio.

For Sunday, June 11, 1916

LESSON TITLE: "Sowing and Reaping."

LESSON TEXT: Gal. 6:1-10. Memorize vs. 1, 2.

GOLDEN TEXT: "God is not mocked; for whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap." Gal. 6:10.

I. The Most Comforting Text

What is the most comforting text in the world? In any choice you make account must be taken of this one: "God is not mocked, for whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap." Here is something we can always depend upon. It is an encouragement to the man who doeth right, even if he does not seem to prosper. It assures the punishment of the wicked, even if their devices seem to win out. The moral universe is not run by chance or by changing notions. There are laws, good laws, made by the good, wise God, which protect and encourage men.

II. The Man at Fault

The Bible exhorts us to help the man who is overtaken in any trespass, considering how apt we are ourselves to fall. The restoration of a man who has done wrong depends in part upon the man in part upon us, in part upon God. Let us not make the man's part and God's part harder to help the man may lay some burdens upon us, but in bearing one another's burdens, we fulfill the law of Christ. And somebody has borne burdens for us, too! Along with our sense of justice, which makes us judge our brother, let us be sure we possess a sense of charity, which makes us forgive and help him.

Some burdens can be shared with others. Some we must carry alone, with God! There are loads we gladly choose to carry for our homes, our churches, our city. Some burdens they also carry for us, they help us bear all burdens more bravely.

Shall we permit upstartions to exist which impose disabilities on society—on men and women, on little children born and yet unborn? A negative answer blotted out slavery. It will soon blot out the saloon.

III. The Progress of Prohibition

The saloon is beginning to reach more fully what it has been spoiling. Therefore the abolition of the saloon proceeds steadily and surely. Society is determined to get rid of poverty and crime. The latter are caused and increased by drink. The Massachusetts Bureau of Labor Statistics found that 39 per cent of the inmates of almshouses have been brought to that condition thru their own drink habit, while 10 per cent additional were there because of the drinking of parents or guardians. Poverty and ignorance form a vicious circle.

One straw—and a big one—which shows how the anti-saloon wind is blowing, is in the fact that the number of daily papers which refuse liquor advertisements is constantly growing. There are now sixty such papers in Ohio as against thirty-five last year. There are now 840 daily papers in the United States refusing liquor "ads." as against 520 last year. The number includes many of the largest and leading papers in our big cities. In addition there are many weekly papers and monthly magazines which have absolute "dry" columns.

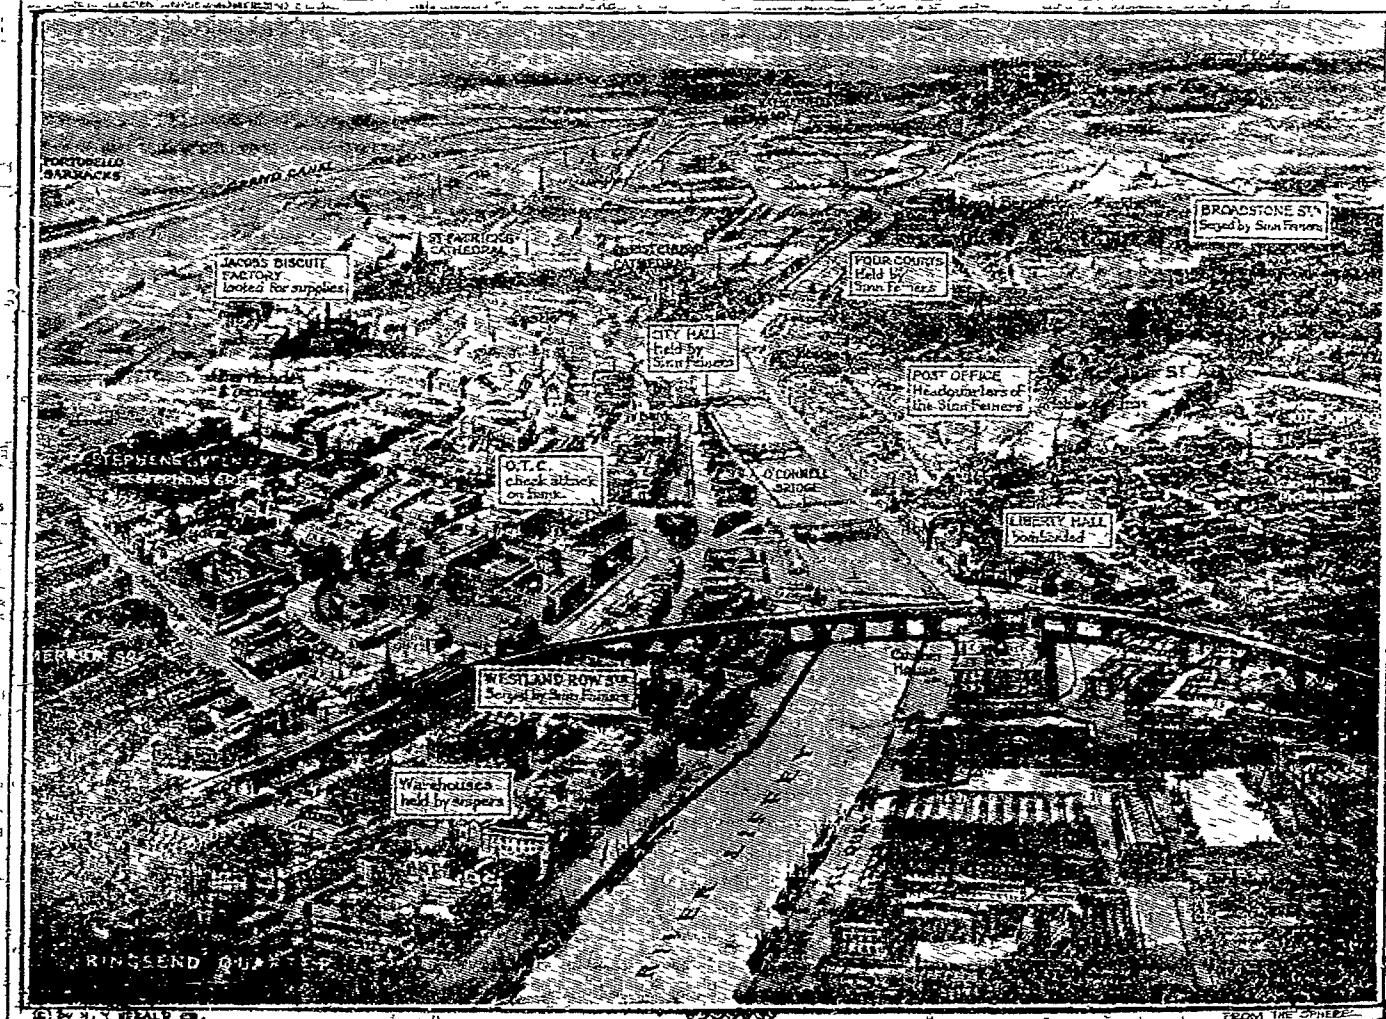

Prohibition progresses! Better join the forward moving hosts!

IV. The Drug Habit

One of the most dangerous habits today is the use of narcotics and drugs. Some people get into the habit thru the ignorant use of medicines sold to them. Others are injured by the prescriptions of incompetent physicians. Some seek drugs as others seek drink. The time has come to speak plainly about the dangers which lie in the unguided use of drugs and medicines.

A young man, very popular in his city, called on a young lady one night. After he had gone the father of the girl found a case with a hypodermic syringe in the hall where it had been dropped by the young man. It was a startling revelation of his habits. The growth of insanity and the other evils incident to the use of drugs has made a desperate law against their use an absolute necessity. There should be teaching in the home, the public schools, the Sunday school, and the intelligence upon the levels of the people. There are ways in which

SCENE OF IRISH REBELLION, WHICH FIGURES IN SIR ROGER CASEMENT'S TRIAL

VIEW OF DUBLIN LOOKING WESTWARD UP THE RIVER LIFFEY, SHOWING POSITIONS HELD BY THE SINN FEINERS

Here is shown the scene of the Irish rebellion which figured in the capture of Sir Roger Casement, who now faces trial for high treason and a possible sentence to death. With him on the same charge will be tried Daniel de Bailey, the Irish soldier who landed on the Irish coast with Casement from a German submarine. The date of the trial has not been set, but it probably will take place in the near future.

Flowers for the Home Garden

Here are hints of the best kinds of flowers for home cultivation. This gives a general idea of the height and color of the species. It is time to plant them now.

CROCUS—Leaves in pink, red and white, blooms from August to frost, grows from five to eight feet high; very beautiful, makes a good screen or back fence.

GYPSOPHILA—Color white; blooms from May to frost; grows from six to 10 inches high; favorite cutting plant.

ZINNIA—comes in variety of colors; blooms from July to October; grows from four inches to six feet; best results are obtained by setting indoles and setting out red or yellow.

VERBENA—comes in variety of colors; blooms from July to frost; grows from six to 18 inches high; good for cutting; makes three or four plantings.

LARKSPUR—Colors—blue, white, pink, blossoms June and July; grows from six to 16 inches high; one of the best blue flowers.

LOBELIA—Colors—white, blue; blooms from June to September; grows from four to 18 inches high; good for cutting; makes three or four plantings.

MARIGOLD—Colors pale gold to orange; blooms from July to frost; grows from six to 36 inches high; dwarf varieties good for edges.

MIGNONETTE—Colors from golden to reddish yellow; blooms from July to September; grows from six to 18 inches high; make second planting in August; valued for its fragrance.

MOONFLOWER—Colors blue and white; blooms from August to frost; grows from six inches to 30 feet; should be started under glass, one of the best climbers.

MORNING GLORY—comes in variety of colors; blooms from July to October; grows from one to 10 feet; rapid grower; good for covering walls.

NANTERTICUM—comes in various colors; blooms from July to frost; grows from five inches to five feet; very prolific; good for cutting.

PANSY—Colors various; blooms from May to frost; grows from six to eight inches; best results are obtained by buying young plants.

PINKS—Colors white, pink, rose; blooms from August to frost; grows from eight to 12 inches high; an old favorite.

POPPY—comes in variety of colors; blooms from July to October; grows from four to 12 inches high; very effective in masses.

SALIGLOSSIS—comes in variety of colors; blooms from June to October; grows from six to 24 inches high; delicate penicillines.

SALVIA—Color scarlet; blooms from August to frost; grows from six to 36 inches high; the brightest of all flowers; excellent for cutting.

SCENTED FLOWERS—Color yellow; blooms from August to October; grows from two to seven feet; quite fragrant.

SELENIANTHUS—comes in variety of colors; grows from 12 to 18 inches high; flowers are very fragrant.

KOREAN CHARACTERISTICS.

A Peaceable and Hospitable Agricultural People.

That the Korean is uncommercial, pharisaical and suspicious is no good proof that he is unfit for self-government. He is quite as frank and open as the Chinese, the most intelligent and hospitable people.

The Koreans are essentially an agricultural people; their customs and traditions seem to demonstrate that they were at one time simple and primitive.

They are agriculturists, and their agriculture is based on a strong mixture of Chinese and Manchu, in consequence of the many invasions to which they have been subjected from the very beginning of their history, but they seem to lack the spirit of fighting Malay blood which was evident in the composition of the warring Japanese.

The Koreans are characterized by a peaceable and hospitable disposition, though they have fought well when they have had to fight, and have showed themselves at times far ahead of their neighbors in inventive genius.—Century.

HOW INDIANS PREPARE MEAT.

Reduced to a Powder One Pound of Which Equals Five of Solid.

Most tribes of plains Indians dry their meat by cutting it into thin slices and spreading it on racks and putting it in the sun. Pemmican is manufactured in the following manner:

The choicest cuts of meat are selected and cut into slices and dried.

Then all the marrow is collected and the best of the fat is added to it.

Then the fat and marrow are dissolved together over a slow fire. Many tribes mountaineers always do it in a Lucy have dug.

The meat is now pulverized to the consistency of macaroni, the squaws are doing the work on a flat rock.

Using a pestle. A pound of meat is split, about two in thickness, the squaws using a wooden mallet, a buffalo horn or a log for this work.

On this meat is spread a certain amount of powdered marrow and tallow, the proportion depending on the taste.

This same process is repeated until the desired amount is secured.

One pound of pemmican is equal in nourishment to five pounds of fresh meat.

Another important article of food, the equal of which is not to be had except from the buffalo, is deermeat.

It is a fat substance that lies along the backbone next to the hide, running from the shoulder blade to the last rib and about as thick as one's hand, or finger.

It will weigh from five to eleven pounds according to the size or condition of the animal.

It will keep indefinitely, and is used as a substitute for bread, and is superior to any bread that was ever eaten.

When going on the warpath the Indians would take some dried meat and some "copper" to live on, and nothing else, not even if they were to be gone for months.

AMUSING BROWN BRUIN.

A Good, Natura Coward That Will Fight Ferociously When Cornered.

The brown or black bear of California is the most cowardly animal that roams the hills. He is a worse thief than the northern wolverine, and at the same time better natured than half the farm dogs the hunter chances upon. A bear at play will furnish more amusement than a three-ring circus—and run like scared deer if you but show yourself through the brush; in short, the brown bear is the most "amorous" critter of all, if approached properly.

But don't be misled into picking a fight with either of our small bears, unless you are well armed, for the black or the brown bear (one and the same animal under variations of pelage) will fight ferociously when cornered. You will come upon them, too, in the most unexpected places, nor even the wilful jackalope can beat a brown bear in variability of moods or choice of feeding ground. Travelling in the mountains one is apt to come upon Sir Bruin drinking from a little wayside stream, and the very next day having descended into the foothills, find possibly a pair playing about some poorly guarded sheep camp.

Good natured as is either of these smaller bears, which weigh from 300 to 500 pounds apiece, it is best to know how to hunt them before attempting it. As with most big game, the best way to hunt them for sport is alone, armed with a reliable rifle and a good knife, though there is seldom occasion for using the latter if the hunter keeps cool. If one is hunting for hides, or to rid a section of undesirable bear neighbors, a well-trained little dog is probably the best ally. Fox terriers usually are best, as they are quite resourceful and brave to a degree. A little dog brought up in a good bear country, where he has roamed the hills all his life, has had the best training possible, and is a prize to be taken care of.

As has been said, a black or brown bear seldom keeps one address long, but likely most of them just now are down among the oaks, where the fallen acorns afford them an easy living. There are possibly a good many along the willow fringes of the larger water courses, but once let the bear get first sight of you there, and he will make off into a tangle of elder scrub, willow underbrush and blackberry vines in which you and your dogs will last about three minutes.

If a bear could be persuaded to play football, he would make the swiftest line blocker ever on a gridiron, judging by the way he goes through a tangle of undergrowth, and the way a bear of any species will attend to a dog that dares to follow him alone into such a retreat is certainly scoundulous.

Butterflies of the Backyard.

Many strange things have come out of Brooklyn, but as a breeding place for butterflies the backyards of the Borough of Homestead have not come into prominence until recently. At a recent meeting of the American Entomological Society, a member reported that if only took him a little while to produce, apparently out of nothing, more than forty species of lepidoptera—that is the name by which the butterfly is distinguished in scientific gatherings.

"I never saw a butterfly fitting about my home in Brooklyn in my life," said the scientist, "but as soon as I planted things in my backyard the lepidoptera began to generate. Why, a common variety of those was covered with the young before it had been growing more than a few weeks."

It appears that there is much discussion among learned men as to where lepidoptera come from, any way. Not a man at the society's meeting could solve the riddle of how the species found a means of transiting into a Brooklyn backyard. The owner of the yard told how he planted various weeds, and on all of them the young of the butterfly put in an appearance.

The varieties were so plentiful that, any backyard proprietor with the proper facilities for raising the young could succeed in making a fine collection without ever moving a hundred feet away from his residence.—New York Times

A man who was found crawling around eating grass was arrested and locked up over at Pontiac the other day. He was a stranger, but it was afterward learned that his name was not Nebuchadnezzar. Things have changed some since Neb's time.

The fact that Mr. Winter is president of the Summer Homes company at Orion no doubt attracts many people to that pretty resort after the "heated term" sets in. At any rate, lots of 'em go there.

A peculiar problem in anatomy is indicated by one of the happenings described in a modern novel, as follows: "He lifted her gently from her horse and kissed her on the door-step."

A plan is under consideration looking toward the establishment of a liquid air manufactory in this country, but as yet it is of course all in the air.

What are we all thinking for anyway, about having so much cold weather? The almanac says summer doesn't begin until June 22.

portion of freight and passengers it has been impossible for the road to pay its operating expenses, the receivership depts and at the same time the interest on the obligations of the company.

Proceedings are now being taken under existing rates for trans-holders to foreclose their mortgages, which would mean the dismemberment of the road and as the petition states, if some plan is not promptly devised and made effective for the preservation of the system as a whole, it will be broken up through the foreclosure of these mortgages into small sections or branches.

The object of the proposed plan is four-fold:

First. To preserve the integrity of the system, so that the patrons of the company may continue to enjoy prompt and convenient service.

Second. To provide for the distribution of the new securities to be issued and for new capital.

Third. To fix a fair and conservative limit in the amount of securities requiring an interest return.

Fourth. To secure sufficient new money to pay up the debts of the court and other outstanding obligations; to provide for the purchase of new freight and passenger equipment and other improvements, and for an adequate amount of working capital.

The present capitalization of the company is $114,439,563.

The plan proposes to reduce this amount to $105,000,000, including new money for improvements, a decrease of $9,439,563.

The annual interest charges now amount to $4,159,190.

Under the plan these will be reduced to $1,678,055, a decrease of $2,481,135.

The petition sets forth the Pere Marquette situation very graphically.

It shows that, although the road has been the "bargain counter," so to speak, for nearly a year, there has been no purchaser, and that it is evidently up to the present owners to reorganize it.

They are proposing to do this by putting in $16,000,000 of new money to pay the debts outstanding, to buy new equipment, and furnish an adequate working fund.

The Railroad Commission has not yet acted on the application for franchise, due to a mailing.

The Good Old Spring Medicine

That's what you need this spring—free yourself from the conditions arising from an indoor life—gather renewed energy and vigor for the coming summer months.

A Bottle of NYAL'S SPRING SARSAPARILLA will make you feel like new.

Cleanses the blood and makes it purify the system—stimulates the liver, kidneys, and bladder, and assists them in their functions.

You won't enjoy the summer if your work will hang fire. In fact everything will be unpleasant unless the whole system is cleansed and placed on a new basis.

Nyal's Spring Sarsaparilla will do it—and we never heard of a case where it failed to do as we say.

"Flag Day" next Wednesday, June 14th.

School days will soon be over—for this summer.

Mrs. Sanderson has been seriously ill but is now better.

The old school building is rapidly disappearing under Milt's malice.

No, Uncle Sam hasn't declared war, the city band was just drilling for their 70-mile hike last Wednesday, in Detroit.

Mrs. Charles Sessions was taken to Harper hospital, Detroit, Sunday, by advice of a council of physicians recently held.

The annual meeting of the Ladies' Library association occurs this Friday afternoon, at 3:00 o'clock—sharp—in the Library rooms.

The Northville-Plymouth ball game scheduled here for last Saturday failed to materialize as the Plymouth boys did not put in an appearance.

Northville Commandery Knights Templar, accompanied by the Northville band, went to Detroit, Wednesday to attend the big conclave of their order.

Mrs. C. G. Keyes has moved here from Milford and occupies the rooms in the Scott house on Cady street recently vacated by Mr. and Mrs. A. B. McCullough.

The continued heavy rains are making the situation really serious for the farmers. Many have not yet been able to even finish ploughing for their corn planting.

Mrs. Frank Thompson and Mrs. G. W. Hills gave the B Eighth grade scholars an outing of Waller Lake last Saturday. The trip was made by auto. All had a fine time.

Court Northville No. 65, F of A, will observe Memorial day next Sunday, by going in to body to the Presbyterian church, where Rev. J. D. Webber will deliver an address.

A surprise party was given Mrs. Eliza Jackson Tuesday evening by her children, who invited a number of friends in honor of her birthday. Light refreshments were served, and all enjoyed a pleasant evening.

Another "fortunate" automobile accident happened Sunday afternoon when a car driven by Frank Lyon of Detroit attempted to climb up on the perch of E. J. Neff's. The dam was not strong, but either piano or car.

Mut Burrows has opened the way to fortune to a small army of boys by hiring him to clean and paint the bricks from the old school building, at a stated sum per hundred. The scene is a busy one each day, after school.

J. M. Dixon went to a Detroit hospital last week, where a severe operation was performed upon one of his eyes. The sight of Mr. Dixon's other eye had become so badly impaired, unfortunately, that nothing could be done for it.

While tearing down the old Wash. Bennett shop at Plymouth recently, Charlie Bennett discovered an invitation card to the following function: "S. M. Lathrop's Hotel, Northville Perry's Victory Ball, Friday evening, Sept. 9, 1889. Music by Harris Band." To a few of our residents these names may still have a familiar sound, even after 57 years.

An unfortunate accident occurred in the school yard Tuesday morning when little Albert, the 8 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Kohler, suffered a fractured leg, the bone being broken between the knee and the hip by a fall from a rope with which the children were playing. The little fellow has once before had a broken bone, an arm being thus injured during his babyhood.

Walter J. Hoshal, Wayne county dry campaign manager, Rev. George Gullen of West Grand Boulevard Methodist church, Detroit, Rev. Frederick Lineberger of Christ Lutheran church, Detroit, P. W. Farmer, dry campaign manager for Oakland county and Miss Ida Blick, secretary of the Wayne county Sunday school association, will be the speakers at an old fashioned "Nate Michigan Dry" field day to be held in the woods 2 1/2 miles south of Farmington Sunday afternoon. The scene of the meeting is almost on the Wayne-Oakland line.

WHAT THEY ARE PAYING.

The Northville Market corrected up to date:

Wheat—White, $1.02. Red $1.05.

Eggs—22c. Butter—33c.

Oats—40c. Corn—40c.

Hogs, live—$8.75.

Lambs, live—$8.50.

Veal Calves—9c. per pound.

Bear Hides—12-14c.

The D. U. R. has put in new rails along its tracks on Main street.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Lauray have moved back to Northville from Detroit.

The work of oiling the streets has been extended throughout the village.

The Plymouth-Northville Gas Co. has been putting in mains this week on Wing and Mill street.

Remember the special meeting of Orient Chapter O. E. S. this Friday evening Banquet at 6 o'clock.

Dr. Schuyler is making daily visits to Milan to attend Mrs. Wm. Hanson, who is critically ill with stomach trouble.

Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Miller and family of Clarkson were week-end guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Orrin Laing.

Elsie—After I wash my face I look in the mirror to see if it's clean. Don't you?

Bobby—Don't have to. I look at the towel.

Dr. N. J. Malloy will be absent from his office from Monday to Friday of next week as he is to be in attendance at the meeting of the American Medical Association, which is to be held in Detroit.

Charles Gray, a former pupil of our school, who moved to Silverwood in April, passed the eighth grade county examination with a good standing. He was one of the youngest, being but thirteen years old.

H. B. Wilber, with the Joseph Mack Printing company, Detroit, has purchased a part of the John Knapp farm, and has moved his family here and will occupy the "Chas. Bloom" tenant house on West Main street.

Notice has been served that the third annual picnic of the Detroit-Northville association is to be held in Palmer Park on the afternoon of June 24.

Dr. J. M. Burgess is president of the association and Mrs. Frank Woodman is secretary.

An elaborate technical report follows, describing in minute detail each phase and symptom of the president's illness and the course of treatment pursued stating among other things that "the size and depth" of the patient forbade a return to general blood letting. The report, signed by Dr. Worthington above mentioned and four others, a "convincing physician" (sic) with the best words will fully relieve the President as heard by Dr. Worthington. "I am glad to understand the true principle of Government," said Jim, carrying out Edith Banning's bid. Detailed arrangements for the funeral are given over the signature of the members of the cabinet then but five in number. The print and paper of the clipping are excellently preserved, although 75 years have elapsed since its publication.

VALORIAN GLASER AND COMPANY IN "THE OTHER WIFE."

Mr. Gusat's selection for the rare well appearance of his company at the Garrick theatre, Detroit, offers local theatregoers an unusual opportunity—that of witnessing a new play, which on its initial performance some few months ago gave such promise that a New York production will probably be made this fall. The title of the play is "The Other Wife" and it is from the pen of Carl Mason. It follows closely the mystery idea the solving of which is not brought about until very last moment before the curtain falls.

Robert Bevington, early in life became the victim of a scheming, unscrupulous woman who marries him for position and money. The young man goes to New York, forgets the past and wins his way in the world as a lawyer.

Wixom Whispersings.

Elmer Clark and family motored to Detroit, Sunday.

Mrs. Roy Rabbit received a visit from her sister of Detroit this week.

Mrs. Leo Hautebergue was called to Ypsilanti Monday by the death of her father.

Mrs. Mary Stevens went to Saginaw Thursday to visit her daughter, Mrs. Harry Benton.

Mrs. H. A. Sibley and son of Pontiac are spending the week with her sister, Mrs. R. B. Cummings.

R. B. Cummings and wife and W. H. Perry and wife and son, called on Romulus friends, Sunday.

Geo. Parker and wife visited the latter's sister, Mrs. Jas. Tiffin and family in Northville, Friday.

Mrs. Henry Tabor of Fleming attended the Convention here Wednesday and Thursday and visited her cousin, Mrs. J. G. Madison.

"Come on, then. Christy can do the 'closing,' and he led the way to the back room."

"Crewe," Bunting began when the three were seated together at the one big round table that it contained, "do you happen to know anything about a wedding in high life that was pulled off tonight?"

"Every crook in town has known about it for a week, so why shouldn't I—since that is the way you bulls usually refer to me? The papers have been filled with lists of the presents and their priceless value!"

"That is just the point, Crewe. Some of those presents were lifted, and by a man who was so slick that Muchmore, who was assigned there, and who was in the room all the time, never had a chance to drop to it."

"Well, what's the answer, Bunting?"

"Muchmore and I believe that you could assist us to recover our lost property—and there is a certain reward in it for all of us if we can."

"So?"

"What do you say, Crewe?"

"Do you want to know what I say about it, Bunting? This, then Lieutenant Muchmore is in a mighty poor way tonight, if he wished me to do him a favor. He has invited me twice, and without reason."

"Unless he apologizes fully and completely, and does it in the presence of my bartender, I will have nothing more to do with him—not with you, either, so long as he remains his sidekick! You have got nothing on me. I don't need you or want you—and I won't stand for that sort of talk."

"And if he will apologize?"

"I won't, so that ends it," Muchmore interrupted, his temper at the white heat.

The more like that he should be called up to apologize to the keeper of a hotel for tricks and the like to that man Crewe, who was quickly supposed to condone every form of vice save one to his protection of criminals—threw him beyond words."

He started to his feet in a storm of fury, reaching for his weapon as he did so, but it was his own partner, Bunting, who seized his arm and held it.

"Crewe sat perfectly still, the bluish light on his face gleaming hideously under the electric light over the table."

"Then, when that first paroxysm of rage had passed, when Bunting had released his partner's arm, Crewe slowly left his chair and threw open the door that led into the library."

"Good night, Bunting," he said. "This is the last, but tell your friend that when he comes to me in a proper frame of mind and makes that apology because he behaves it to be due me, I may—I do not promise—I may decide to try to help you both."

CHAPTER V. The Cameo Brooch.

Crewe, left alone in that back room of his own resort, resented himself at the table until Christy came in from the bar and seated himself in utter silence opposite his employer; but it was only for a moment before Crewe directed the bartender to bring him his coat and hat, and also a small package wrapped in tissue paper from the middle drawer behind the bar.

He had devoted more than a swift glance upon it when Sindahr gave it up so reluctantly, to assure himself that the juggler had not attempted one of his tricks! now he removed the tissue wrapping and put the wonderful cameo down upon the table, and for more than a minute sat quite still, lost in admiration of the exquisite and wonderful carving.

And Christy passed around the table and bent familiarly over Crewe's chair to observe it also.

"Do you realize, boy, that this brooch is almost priceless in value?" Crewe remarked at last, without raising his eyes. "This is one of six articles that disappeared from the bone of Richard Delorme tonight; but this one cameo, if offered to a collector such as Mr. Morgan was, would have brought a price greater than the sum of all the others."

"It is the lost replica of the great Vienna Onyx—with the difference that the original is nine by eight inches while this one is five by four. Still it is a replica in all save size, done by the same hand. The carving, my boy, represents the coronation of the Emperor Augustus. No wonder Sindahr could not resist it."

"He wrapped it again in the tissue paper and stowed it away in one of his pockets."

"Your last remark reminds me of something that I wished to say to you," Christy replied with an entire absence of the slang he was accustomed to using. "Sindahr will kill you if he ever gets half a chance, I saw it in his eyes and manner to-night when you made him give that up."

"Oh, I have not the slightest doubt of that Christy."

"He came near to attempting it to-night when you turned your back to him to put that cameo in the drawer."

"I knew it even then; but, also, I knew that his curiosity would win out. If he had made such an attempt then he would have lost forever an opportunity to regain possession of the cameo!"

"He will seek another one."

"Surely."

"Won't you stay here to-night, instead of going back up-town?" Christy inquired anxiously.

"No, I must get back."

"More than likely he is waiting for you in some doorway, right now, sir," Christy pleaded. "He and many of the others know that it is your habit to go out nights after we close, even though they have no idea where you go."

Crewe's reply was a light laugh as he rose to his feet prepared to take his departure.

"Don't fear for me, lad. I am like Napoleon in that I have work to do and I know that I will remain unlearned until it is done. Good night."

"Just one moment, please. I have watched that man every time he has been here. I have studied him as you have taught me to study all of them," Christy said eagerly.

"Well, what of it, lad?"

"He will not attack you openly. He will not shoot or stab. He belongs to that sect in India which are called Stranglers. He will creep upon you and slay you. He has always succeeded in your confidence, but I guess you would have no difficulty in proving in the morning how it came into your possession, so I'm going to let you go—with a warning. I don't know what the game is—but you're playing but I suspect it is a deep one—and I'm going to find out what it is, too."

They suspected that he maintained a house elsewhere than above his restaurant and the police were not more eager to discover its location than were the crooks themselves.

But he had many and devious methods of avoiding the would-be shadowers, and had always successfully eluded them. Nevertheless, he had never relaxed upon a man of exactly the caliber and type of Lieutenant Philip Muchmore.

For Muchmore was and is an efficient officer—a detective by instinct—but for his fiery temper which incessantly got the better of his judgment, he would have been given to him before now. In his calm moments he reasoned logically and was apt to hit very closely at the bull's-eye in his conclusions.

"You will not fall me, for your own sake."

"Oh, no, no, no! I will serve you gladly." But the great cameo, Crewe. Do you know its wonderful value?"

"Certainly."

"You intend to keep it all for yourself?"

"No. Some day I will return it to its rightful owner—we will say because it is an heirloom, and because I am sentimental."

"When—when will you return it?"

"Sindahr, you wish to go after it again, don't you. Don't worry. I shall lock it away somewhere, in safety, for a year—or two or three, and then, after you have been electrocuted for somebody's murder, or are in prison, we will say, I will claim reward for its return."

"Crewe, you make me hate you, and my hatred is sometimes dangerous," Sindahr muttered in a low-toned voice.

"Yes, you are like your native cobra-filled with venom. Good night. Report to me or to Christy every day."

"Wait! Tell me one thing that I must know."

"Well?"

"Were you there at the wedding reception tonight?"

"Sindahr, alias Count Sacini, I am everywhere."

"No, I must get back."

"Nothing particular; only we were curious to know if you intended to use that key to this building again tonight."

"And if I do happen to possess such a key and should use it—what then?"

"Bunting and I would be under the painful necessity of arresting you that's all. A man of your reputation who enters a building like this one at this hour of the night is, at least, a suspicious character. Get me?"

"Quite so, Muchmore. But you don't get me."

Crewe turned on his heel, but a sharp command from Muchmore stopped him when he would have gone away again.

"Wait!" the lieutenant ordered; and Crewe saw that he held an automatic in his hand to enforce obedience.

"Well, Mr. Muchmore, what now?"

"I'll trouble you for that key—Hand it over."

"Is this a hold-up, with the characters reversed, officer?" Crewe inquired ironically.

"Call it what you like, but hand over that key."

"Suppose I refuse?"

"Then we'll take you in, no matter what happens."

"Muchmore is a man of undoubted genius in your chosen calling, you certainly can do the biggest fool things of anybody I know."

LUMBER PRODUCTION IN U. S. SHOWS LOSS

WASHINGTON.—Lumber production of the United States in 1915 was 5 per cent less than that of 1914 according to an estimate made public today by the United States forest service. It was computed that the total cut was 37,013,294,000 board feet and the figure was based on reports from 17,000 of the 30,000 saw mills in the United States.

The decrease in the southern pine states was 3 per cent; in the western states, 2 per cent and in the central and northern states 14 per cent. States in the order of their production were Washington, Louisiana, Mississippi, North Carolina, Arkansas, Texas and Oregon. Increased cuts occurred in Texas, Florida, Pennsylvania and South Carolina, while these states declined: North Carolina, Oregon, Wisconsin, California, Michigan and Minnesota.

FOUND DEAD ON BEACH; LUMBERJACKS ARRESTED

CHEBOYGAN, Mich.—Frank Baker and Frank Bird, lumberjacks, have been brought here under arrest. They are suspected of knowing something about the death of John Shantley, a Petoskey farmer, who was found dead on the beach near Mackinaw City Saturday. Shantley had a bruise on his head, and over $10 in his pockets when found. He was last seen alive in the company of Baker and Bird.

ANN ARBOR.—The literary department of the University of Michigan is to be made more difficult by adding Saturday classes and raising the standard of work required. The attendance at military training camps during the summer will count as two hours towards graduation. A committee composed principally of faculty members will examine the faculty of the University of Michigan and indicate the attitude of the professors on attending instruction.

OHIO ITEMS OF INTEREST TO MICHIGAN READERS

FIRST STEPS TAKEN FOR OLD-AGE OHIO PENSIONS

Rev. Mr. Bigelow Leads and Labor Leaders Support Proposal—Money From Income Taxes.

Steps leading to an active campaign in Ohio for old age pensions, were taken at meetings held at the Hartman and Southern Hotels last week, in which Herbert S. Bigelow of Cincinnati was the leader. On the first Sunday in August, he said, a convention will be held in Columbus, at which time a full-fledged campaign will be launched.

An organization, known as the Ohio Old Age Pension League, was formed.

Rev. Mr. Bigelow stated that no attempt would be made to obtain an amendment of the constitution. The bill will propose that the state secure the necessary revenues for the payment of pensions through the imposition of special income and inheritance taxes.

Ohio by the action taken, becomes the first State in the Union to make a serious move in the direction of providing old age pensions.

U. S. BUSINESS MEN EXCEL

Myron T. Herrick Asserts They Are Ahead of All Others.

CINCINNATI.—As the guest of the Business Men's Club, Myron T. Herrick said that the business men of the United States excelled in general average of training and capacity, and also in numbers, those of any other country. He expressed his belief that the establishment of a proper working relation between business and government is a prime necessity of the present time, and that the prospect of its early realization is one of the hopeful signs of the day.

PORT CLINTON PREPARES FOR CONVENTION OF FIREMEN

PORT CLINTON.—The Northwest Ohio Volunteer Firemen's Association, which is to be held here June 21, will be one of the biggest events in the history of Port Clinton. State Fire Marshal Bert B. Buckley will be one of the speakers of the day. 160 fire companies of Ohio will be represented. 40 bands are expected to be lined up in the big parade. An aero-plane fight has been booked, and a $2,000 premium. The bonds cover improvements for eight roads in the city for the week.

MANITOBA LIQUOR BAN TAKES EFFECT TODAY

WINNIPEG, Man.—Liquor can no longer legally be sold over the bars and in warehouses in Manitoba. Householders will be allowed to have liquor on their premises, but hotels, rooming houses and bachelors' quarters are barred. Of the 66 hotels in Winnipeg, one-third will go out of business.

ROBBED; AGE CREEPING ON; HE ELECTS TO DIE

CALUMET, Mich.—Because he had lost faith in his fellow man after being robbed of $200 here and done out of $15,000 in a deal in which he invested his capital at Cobalt, Ont., George Brown, 65 years old, shot himself to death in a local hotel. He was without family or friends and too old to get work.

SUFFRAGISTS ATTEND CHICAGO CONVENTION

Michigan sent a large delegation to the woman's party convention which opened in Chicago June 5. Fifteen prominent Detroiters, prominent in suffrage circles went, headed by Mrs. George Henricle, chairman of the Michigan delegation.

DECANABA.—A human flag was formed by 2,500 local school children June 2, when a big pageant was staged on the water front. The production included the picturization of the day's when Indians camped where the city is now located, the landing of Father Marquette, a water fight between the Menominee and Chippewa Indians and the settling here of people of 16 nationalities. The characters included children whose parents are French, Swedish, Austrian, German, Russian, Japanese, Italian, Irish, Polish, Norwegian, Danish, Scotch, Dutch, Belgian, Hungarian and Finnish.

HUMANITARIAN SIDE OF WAR SHOWN BY BRITISH SURGEONS

WITH BRITISH ARMY DOCTOR IN MACEDONIA FROM THE OFFICER

The Macedonian villagers are on the very best of terms with the British troops who are quartered with them; this attitude has been firmly cemented in many unofficial ways, as the picture above illustrates. The regimental doctor in his spare time devotes himself to quite a number of civil patients to whom he gives relief. While the doctor dispenses medicines in his open air consulting room below the two family cats discuss communal affairs on the tiles above.

Household Hints

REMOVE STAINS

When white oil cloth is stained by coffee try rubbing with common baking soda.

To rub tea stains from cups use common baking soda rubbing with damp cloth.

Fruit stains—Pour boiling water through or use alcohol.

Coccolite or Coco—Wash in cold water, then pour boiling water through.

Blood—Soak in cold water or in water with salt. When stain is nearly gone use soap and water or starch paste.

Milk—If fresh wet in strong soaps, cover with paste of salt and soap and put in sun.

Ink—If stain is fresh allow the print stained to stand in milk. For old stain, wet with cold water, then immerse stained part in diluted solution of oxalic acid; remove rinse in ammonia water.

To remove ink spots from clothing wet spots with milk sour is best. Rub a piece of lemon on some salt and rub this on the spot a few times. A few applications will bring required results.

THE TABLE

Apple Balls—Peel large red apples and with a potato scoop cut out the core and drop them into water with little vinegar to keep them white. Prepare a mixture of grapefruit pulp, pineapple, banana and orange, and pour it into glasses add a few of the little white balls to each pour.

Cheese Fondue—One cup scalded milk 1 cup soft stale bread crumbs 1-1/2 lb. mild cheese (small pieces) 1 tablespoon butter 1-2 teaspoon salt 3 eggs

Mix first five ingredients add yolks of eggs beaten until stiff. Pour in buttered baking dish and bake 2 minutes in a moderate oven. Before putting in baking dish cut and fold egg whites.

Fig Pudding—Cut figs in 1-2 inch pieces chop English walnut meat with them and together by the heat of an egg. Put in a glass pan and place on top marshmallows. Place in oven just long enough to heat thoroughly, cut in squares and serve with whipped cream.

A FEW OF 10,000 ANALYSES.

Artificial Watermelon One Thing Submitted to the Health Board.

There is an analytical department connected with the division of laboratories of the Board of Health and any person who does not think that it is a busy department is mistaken, says the New York Sun. As many as 10,000 demands for analyses are made upon it each year and the diligence of those in charge is shown by the fact that at the end of the year there are never more than twenty-five, or thirty cases awaiting a report.

Some of the demands are peculiar. One applicant demanded and obtained an analysis of a piece of soap; another, of a "pan said to contain pudding."

There were two analyses of ginger, one of honey, one of hair restorer, one of orange marmalade, two of olive oil, one of pie, seven of opium, and one—only one—of whiskey.

Only three specimens of candy were sent in for analysis during the period covered by the last report, only two of butter and only two of bread, but there was one analysis of artificial watermelon, two of ground mustard two of theater entrées, cloves, one of "tea la puer," and one of a piece of clay.

There does not appear to have been any analysis of wood alcohol, but there were four of ice cream. There was one official analysis of beef fat.

The chief work of this department of the division of laboratories is the analysis of milk and water.

French Army Drum.

One of the principal reasons for the final abandonment of the drum in the French army is the new short-term service. It takes a year and a half to make a drummer, so that no sooner would the French drummer have become proficient than he would begin to get ready to return to civil life.

Climate of Rome.

Gales are very rare in Rome and never blow with extreme violence. The most striking peculiarity of the Roman climate is the absence of high winds. The air is pure and clear owing to the almost complete absence of smoke, even in the winter months.
