

THE NORTHVILLE RECORD.

VOL. XLVII, NO. 4.

THE RECORD - NORTHVILLE, MICH., FRIDAY, AUGUST 15, 1916.

$1.00 PER YEAR, IN ADVANCE.

ANNUAL MEETING LOAN & BLDG. ASSN

The twenty-eighth annual meeting of the Northville Loan & Building association was held last Friday evening and the yearly report presented by the secretary was very satisfactory to the stockholders.

The old officers were re-elected, C. A. Dolph being chosen to fill the treasurer'ship formerly held by the late A. K. Carpenter.

The officers are: President, J. A. Dubuque, vice-president, Spencer Clark; secretary, J. B. Vanatta; treasurer, C. A. Dolph; attorney, C. C. Yerkes. Directors, the officers, B. A. Wheeler, F. S. Neal, S. E. Cranson, J. W. Perkins, Peter Barley and L. D. Stage, Sr. and George H. Baker.

LETTER OF 1855.

Mrs. Jennie White contributes the following extract from a letter written by her brother, Emmet Dublin, from Minersville, Calif., about 1855, which will interest those who saw the play "The Virginian" at the Alhambra theatre Saturday evening.

"He had a ball not far from here the other night and there were seventeen married women there and each woman had at least one baby. They deposited the small ones in a bed room while the mothers were dancing and some scallawag, fond of a joke, changed the babies' clothes so that when the fond mothers (drowsy with dancing and perhaps with whiskey) claimed their little darlings, each took the wrong one. If passed off quietly at the time but in a few days a civil war seemed inevitable. But I believe at the last accounts they had all proved properly, paid charges and each taken away their own baby, so that quiet has again been restored to the country."

It has always been surmised in the Dunlap family, that the writer was the guilty party.

CRANSON MARRIAGE.

Samuel R. Cranson, of this place and Miss Annie Millard of Detroit were united in marriage in the latter city, last Saturday.

Mr. Cranson is a well known Northville man, having acted as Assistant Superintendent in the local fish station here for a number of years and his many friends, with which he and his bride many years of happiness.

Mrs. Cranson has frequently visited at the home of Miss Lida Children and has already made many friends here. They have begun housekeeping in the south apartment of the house corner Main and Rogers streets which Mr. Cranson recently purchased and remodeled.

WAYNE'S LOYALTY.

Northville people who have always prided themselves on being loyal to Wayne county candidates for office have a chance now to show their loyalty. For the first time in years Wayne has a mighty good chance for the nomination of a governor, Frank B. Leland, and it all rests with the people of Wayne county at that. The balance of the state is loyal if Wayne shows its own loyalty and for once it looks as if Wayne would make good.

W. R. C. NOTES.

(By Press Correspondent.)
The next regular meeting of the W. R. C. will be held in Catter's hotel Hall, Wednesday evening, Aug. 23, at 7:30 o'clock.

After a long rest we wish to see every member present, ready once more to take up the routine of Corps work with renewed vigor so that the last half of the year's work may be the most successful on record.

The Old Comrades of the G. A. R. will also resume their meetings on Saturday afternoon August 26. They hope to have a full attendance as arrangements will be made at this meeting for attending the State Fair.

STATE FAIR TICKETS ON SALE HERE

Opportunity will be given the people of Northville and vicinity this year to again buy their state fair tickets at reduced prices through the office of this paper. The number who did so last year was very large and an aggregate saving of many dollars was the result. The tickets will be on sale up to Sept. 1, and at the same price as before—35 cents or three for $1.00. The management is procuring better fair than ever, for this season.

OF INTEREST TO EVERY VOTER.

In the interest of good government every voter of Wayne county should cast his ballot in the primary election on August 29. It is highly important that on that date the voters choose the best men possible to make the race for the respective offices which will be filled at the fall election in November.

Robert W. Rutter, Republican candidate for county auditor, urges that every man who is qualified to vote make a special effort to get to the polls on primary election date. "It is the duty of every American citizen to take an active part in the government of his village, city, county, and state," said Mr. Rutter. "No voter who neglects to cast his ballot on election day has any right to kick or criticize if the right kind of men are not elected. I want to appeal to every voter in this county to go to the polls on primary day and exercise his greatest prerogative as an American citizen."

CANDIDATE FOR A CARNEGIE MEDAL.

Twelve-year-old Clifford Sulway, proved himself a thorough little hero at Walled lake one day last week, in his fight to rescue a Detroit woman from drowning. The lady had gotten into deep water and had already gone down twice when the plucky youngster plunged in and grasped her, being himself nearly pulled under by the half-drowned woman. Both were rescued just in the nick of time by Kort Green, who succeeded in getting the woman ashore.

GEORGE BROWN DEAD.

George Brown died at his home on Walnut street Tuesday afternoon after being in poor health for two years past. Mr. Brown who would have been 81 years old next month had resided in Northville only three years but had lived in this county over forty years.

He leaves a widow and ten children, Edgar of Bergen N. D., Mrs. Thos. Clark of Spokane, Wash. Edna of Holland, Fred and Mrs. Frank Shields of Jackson, Charles Allen and Mrs. George Howe of Detroit, Mrs. Chas. White of Lansing and Mrs. Joe Stoyke of this place.

Funeral services were held from the home yesterday afternoon, Roy F. I. Walker officiating. Burial in Rural Hill cemetery.

BAPTIST CHURCH NOTES.

(By the Pastor.)
The topic for Sunday morning will be "Hardship, the Law of the Universe."

The Sunday evening Union services will be held in the Baptist church, Rev. F. I. Walker will preach if he is in town.

If there are no services in your church we will welcome you to the Baptist church. If you are a member of our church and your love has cooled a little come and warm it up. Some like their potatoes best warmed over. It may improve your love to heat it. Let's try.

You don't need to wait for the Wm. A. Sunday meetings before striking the trail. You can strike it right here in Northville. If you wish to be told just how sinful and bad you are, right before everybody, you don't need to go out of town. Some send to a department store in Chicago or New York when they could get the same article at the home store just as cheap. We want you to hear the great evangelist.

The pastor will hear him if possible. I know what he will tell us. Pastors. He will tell us we ought to be ashamed of ourselves for not showing sin in all its villainess. Come on and we will rehearse for the Sunday campaign.

METHODIST CHURCH NOTES.

FARRELL GETS STRONG BOOST

FORMER PROSECUTOR ALLAN H. FRAZER INDORSES PRESENT COUNTY CLERK.

Allan H. Frazer, former prosecutor of Wayne county, has issued the following indorsement of Thomas F. Farrell, who is a candidate for re-nomination on the Republican ticket for county clerk.

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 4, 1916.
To the Voters of Wayne County:—
Mr. Thos. F. Farrell is a candidate in the August primaries for re-nomination as county clerk. Mr. Farrell has had a large experience as county clerk of Wayne county. This experience is invaluable to the taxpayers and people. It is well known to every business man and lawyer who has done business in the county clerk's office during the incumbency of Mr. Farrell that he is a most courteous, competent and intelligent public official. He has surrounded himself with a splendid, capable body of clerks and assistants all of which has made his administration of the office of county clerk one that cannot be surpassed for integrity, efficiency, experience and intelligence. Not to re-nominate Mr. Farrell would be a mistake and a serious injury to the public service. The voters should show that they ratify the best service and efforts of their tried public servants by re-nominating Mr. Farrell.

Yours truly,
ALLAN H. FRAZER.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Comments By

Rev. Ernest Bourner Allen, D. D.
Pastor of the Washington St.
Congregational Church and the Marion Lawrence Sunday School, Toledo, Ohio.

Lesson For August 20.

"Lesson Title: 'The Riot At Ephesus.'"

Lesson Text: Acts 19: 23-41. Memorize vs. 29, 30.

Golden Text: "The love of money is a root of all kinds of evil."—I Tim 6: 10.

I. Memories of Ephesus.

I have vivid memories of Ephesus. The train which took us there from Smyrna stopped till the train crew could drive a meditative cow from the track! At the ruins of the city we lunched, and held a service in the ancient theatre. The city was founded in 1100 B. C. by Greek colonists. For 200 years it was a province of Rome. It was the first city in Asia where every Roman official landed. It then had a splendid harbor at the head of which was the great temple of Diana, the first object seen by the mariner. There were many soldiers there and in that great, seething city center Paul abode three years in his own hired house.

Now there is nothing but ruins there. The change in the shore has put the old harbor a mile or more inland. Diana's temple is in ruins. The theatre, with its natural, hill-formed auditorium, remains in almost complete outline. Probably the inhabitants of Ephesus thought their city would long abide. Now it is chiefly remembered for its association with Paul, a Tarsan tentmaker, and the Christ he served. What will be the permanent facts about your town?

II. The Dictation of Business.

Demetrius, silversmith of Ephesus, made silver shrines of Diana. He had a fine trade. The preaching of Paul interfered with his business. He called his fellow tradesmen together and incited a riot which later filled the theatre. Demetrius argued that any religion that interfered with his business ought to be put out!

Business titles to dictate to religion today. It speaks thru the saloon sometimes, and even thru legitimate business. It is urged that moral principles must be subordinated to business customers. The result is that the voice of righteousness and justice is silenced. Young men just beginning their business life are told they must give up their notions about religion and do whatever business demands.

There is a famous historical analogy. It was in the time of slavery. Men then defended slavery, often out of the Bible. Men are doing the same for breweries and saloons today. We are told that "vested interests" demand that we permit saloons to exist. Nineteen states have denied the argument and the time is not distant when the United States will be dry?

III. Trades Unions.

As Demetrius gathered his tradesmen together for action so the working men are organized in unions today. Probably there is no more of such organization in our time than in Paul's time, although there was a great deal then. We ought to study carefully the rights, perils and duties of trades unions. We cannot ignore the fact that they have made mistakes, nor deny that they have ministered greatly to human betterment. Such organizations of men must be governed by right motives and Christian principles. If they are not governed they may become greedy, dictatorial and selfish. The problem of the relation of labor and capital today is a large one. It will not be solved by war, but by frank discussion and by adjustment according to principles of justice and righteousness.

IV. The Appeal to Law.

When the mob in the theatre had cried out for two hours, "Great is Diana of the Ephesians!" the town clerk quieted them by an appeal to civic pride. He urged that nothing be done rashly and when he had secured their attention he said: "If therefore, Demetrius, and the craftsmen who are with him, have a matter against any man, the courts are open and there are prosecutors." This was a bold, brief appeal to law. There can be no

The town of Albert, situated between the Somme and Arras, was one of the points which suffered during the early stages of the British drive on the Germans. As a result of the attack many of the town's prominent buildings have been laid in ruins, including the Albert Cathedral, shown in the background of the picture, with the golden Virgin and babe overhanging as a peace offering to men.

TIMELY TOPICS For All Interested In BETTER FARMING

FALLOW FIELD FARMING

Poor Method of Increasing Soil Fertility of Sandy Land. Grow Soy Beans or Cowpeas Instead.

Washington, D. C.—A characteristic system of fallow-field farming, which might be called the "idle field system," is described in Farmers' Bulletin No. 716. The bulletin thus sets forth the evils of such a system, as practiced on certain sandy land areas in Northern Indiana, Southern Michigan, and Northwestern Ohio.

"Fields left idle to grow up in weeds for one or more years are of very common occurrence throughout the area. When the fertility of the soil reaches an extremely low point these fields are turned out to allow nature to improve them by whatever increase of vegetation may accumulate from the growth of weeds, grass, etc. Very often it happens, however, that the soil has been so reduced in fertility that even the weeds can make only a scant growth. The results at best are not good. Notwithstanding this, when the time arrives to put in another crop, the weeds, old stalks, etc., are plowed under, and generally either wheat or rye is sown. After the wheat or rye is taken off, the field is left idle till the next spring, when it is plowed and planted. Thus the cropping system is wheat and corn or rye and corn, with an occasional period of one or more years for the fields to remain idle or uncropped.

liberty or justice without law. Whenever men take the law into their own hands it is because it has not been recognized and enforced. Hanging cattle thieves may do for a beginning in a pioneer community but ultimately it is best to bring them into court. What nation is most law-abiding, on the whole, today? Do our laws protect property more than they protect personality? Do you think there is any gain being made in the enforcement of law, particularly in protecting human life? What are the results of the last ten years in the United States? What are the lessons of the great war in Europe? What forces really create law? Where is there true reverence for it

"Such a system is unprofitable in that the fields yield no income during the idle period and the slight increase in yields which results from the land remaining fallow for a time does not compensate for this loss. Aside from incurring a loss in this way, an opportunity is missed for growing a crop of soy beans or cowpeas which would be profitable and at the same time improve the soil condition much more rapidly than this period of inactivity can possibly do. While there is an apparent increase in production by allowing a field to remain idle, there can be no permanent improvement in a cropping system built principally on this idea.

"In the long run such a system is very harmful. As generally managed it is one of the surest ways to reduce the productivity of a farm that can be devised. Throughout the hot growing season there is little protection for the uncropped fields. Because of the sandy nature of the soil in this section, much heat is absorbed and a greater proportion of the organic matter remaining in the surface is burned out and rapidly consumed. Much of the nitrogen liberated by this process is lost because there is no crop on the land to take it up and use it. These sandy lands are very deficient in nitrogen and organic matter already, and it takes special effort in this direction to keep pace with the amounts consumed in ordinary cropping. With the present system this condition is rapidly made worse instead of better. The soil still further loses its power to retain moisture for crop growth and has a greater tendency to crust after rains. The idle field gains little and loses much."

"As a substitute for this system the following plan is suggested: 'Rye and mangel-worm seed, or rye alone, should be sown in the corn fields about the middle of August. These crops should be allowed to grow until May 25 of the next season and then should be allowed to grow under to prepare for sowing a crop of soybeans or cowpeas by June 1. Such a practice does much more toward the improvement of the land and at the same time yields greater profits.'

Household Hints

TIMELY SUGGESTIONS FOR CANNING SEASON

Fruits With Cherries.

Boil and skim, add cherries and boil five minutes. Pack fruit into jars fill with the syrup, and screw on rubbers and tops. Invert over night, and if no air bubbles show about edge of covers, seal with paraffin and store in a cool, dark cupboard.

Figs, pears or pineapples may be canned with cherries. For watermelon preserves, select a plump, firm melon, cut it in half, remove all the red center, pare off green rind, cut white part into two inch pieces and soak 10 hours in weak alum water—an even tablespoon of alum to three quarts of cold water.

Need a Slop Fire.

Drain from alum water and boil melon in clean water until fork pierces easily.

Make a syrup, boiling one and one-half pounds of sugar and one cup of water for each pound of melon. Dissolve sugar slowly over a slow fire. When all is dissolved strain the syrup and add juice of one half lemon and small piece of rind. Add melon and boil slowly one hour, until melon is clear. Pack in glass jars while hot.

To make watermelon honey, cut out red pulp from one or more watermelons. Crush and simmer till soft, then strain, thus removing seeds. Then simmer until thick.

Best Without Sugar.

Three quarts of pulp will make one-fifth pint of "honey." Cool the honey and bottle like grape juice.

The honey is best without sugar, but a larger quantity can be made from the same amount of pulp if a little lemon juice and sugar are added.

Wash and pick over 12 quarts of the finest red raspberries. Heat two quarts of fruit in a stone crock and crush with a wooden vegetable masher. Squeeze juice from seeds in a square of clean cheesecloth.

Turn juice into preserving kettle and mix with two and one-half quarts sugar. Stir until sugar is dissolved, bring to boiling point, then add remaining 10 quarts of raspberries. Boil 10 minutes, skim well, turn into sterilized cans and seal in usual manner.

For Currant Conserve.

For currant conserve wash and stem three quarts of currants. Squeeze juice from three oranges and cut skin from one orange. Cook it until tender in a little water, then scrape it free from white lining.

Wash and seed one pound of raisins. Mix all ingredients with three pounds of sugar and simmer in porcelain lined kettle until it jellies. Pack in jelly jars.

To each four pounds of gooseberries allow three pounds of sugar and two cups of red currant juice to make gooseberry and red currant jam.

Novel Combinations.

Make a cup of sugar and currant juice, add berries and simmer slowly 10 minutes, or until the gooseberries are translucent. Seal in small jars.

Gooseberries and strawberries and red raspberries, or gooseberries and white currants make novel and delicious combinations.

Grape Juice Recipe

Wouldn't a little grape juice taste good next winter when the juice of other fruits are not obtainable? Grapes are said to contain more which are pe richly nutritious than all the so-called fruits. The juice of the fruit may be made in the following way:

To two and one-half pounds of grape add one pint of water and cook until soft. Drain through a jelly bag and add one pound of sugar, bring the juice to boiling, boil for five minutes and bottle while hot. The juice may be kept indefinitely and diluted to suit taste when served.

FARMERS TO HAVE COMMUNITY PARK

Baseball Ground, Tennis Courts and Other City Like Features Provided

Sapulpa, Okla.—Paras for the farmers is the latest move for the upbuilding of rural community interest in this state. The first will be established in Creek county, a short distance from this city. The farmers will beautify the grounds, and use them for picnics and for community meetings.

Concerts, both band and local are planned and meetings of various kinds will be held in the park. It is proposed to permit the young folk of the neighborhood to use the park for Sunday afternoon gatherings. Sunday school and church meetings also will be held there.

"Our people have parks," was the argument of one of the promoters, "and those who live in the country might as well have them, too. They will enjoy the outings and the park much more than to gather at some unprepared place in the woods."

The park will comprise ten acres bordering on a stream. It is nearly all covered by trees, although there is enough clear land for a baseball diamond and tennis courts. A golf course extending onto adjoining farms is a possibility. Nearly all the farmers in that section own automobiles, and they had been holding picnics on the grounds before they thought of buying it and turning it into a park.

DON'T GET LABOR RESULT

Farmers of West Virginia have Hard Time Many Seasons

Why do so many farmers in West Virginia fail to make money? Statistics for the state show that 70 percent of them fail to receive adequate returns for their labor. One reason for this is that many of the farmers spend a great deal of their time in trying to grow wheat when it would mean more to them either to raise other crops or to keep livestock. Wheat is a profitable crop in various parts of the west, but there are only a few sections of West Virginia where an attempt should be made to raise it.

Since there is not much level land in this state, practically all the wheat must be raised on hill land, and consequently it costs much more to produce wheat here than it does in the western states. Much rich soil is not adapted to hill conditions, and it is necessary for the producer to be at a great labor expense. Then again since many of the hills are so steep that a large percentage of the soil fertility is lost by erosion, great quantities of commercial fertilizer must be applied to the soil. Cover crops are often used instead of commercial fertilizer, but this does not reduce the cost of production.—Gino Farmer

Father of 17 Knows by Count When All Are In

He cannot recall the names of his children, but he can count them. He has 17 children in all, but he cannot recall the names of his children. NORTHVILLE, MICH., AUG. 18, 1916

THE FOUR-CORNERED RACE FOR GOVERNOR.

The contest for the nomination for governor on the Republican ticket has now narrowed down to four figures, Leland, Sleeper, Diekema and Gardner. It is generally acknowledged that the Sleeper strength was at its height 30 days ago and since that time he has not been gaining, while to the contrary both Leland and Diekema have steadily forged ahead.

Mr. Sleeper is badly handicapped by not being able to make public speeches while Leland, Gardner and Diekema are regular whirlwinds at it. The Dickinson strength seems to have gone largely to Leland mainly. It is presumed, because of the fact that the brewery interests appeared to be centering their opposition on him.

Mr. Leland as a twice graduate of the U of M. and his philanthropic work among the poorer people and working classes of the big city, his free open air school for the tubercularis affected children, has brought his name more prominently before the people than any other candidate. His name today is a household word, all of the country where the dread tubercular disease has been fought, for he gave to this nation its first school of the kind. Mr. Leland is a man who has done things. He is just the type of a man that Michigan has been looking for for the high office. A man that the whole state will be proud of. A farmer boy who has made good—good not only with his farm but in the big business world and in the social and political life of the great state as well.

GAZETTE SCORES A HIDE.

Score one for the Northville Record. The Northville Record, in its issue of August 11, 1916, carried a story of a woman who had been told by a man that he would marry her. The woman, it was stated, had been told by a man that he would marry her. The woman, it was stated, had been told by a man that he would marry her.

A third, which, turned it out to be a lie. But anybody who sees an auto lying on its back. And this is merely in illustration of how a phrase of the happens to catch the popular reportorial fancy will be overworked, whether appropriate or otherwise.

A baby show was held the other day at Lake Orion at which the prizes won were a sewing machine, a set of dishes and a carpet sweeper. The lucky babies were wildly delighted with their winnings, judging from the reviews—account which mentions them as "proud winners." Babies do love such handy playthings as sewing machines, carpet sweepers and sets of dishes. No wonder the little things were proud.

The Birmingham Ec-centric remarks anent one of the prevailing styles of hair cut for young men, that it "makes 'em look like a Hoxian chicken." We hadn't thought it just that way, but we agree with the Ec-centric—also with a plain-spoken citizen here who says "the boys with their hair-cut that way look like the very—well anyway, we didn't mention any kind of a fowl."

Very frequently quite a scrap ensues when it comes to the official disposal of Uncle Sam's generals after they've served long enough but there isn't any danger of the slightest difference of opinion as to how glad everybody will be when old "General Hugh Midity" is put on the retired list.

The Bird family reunion was held this week at Oxford. A lot of bird families will hold meetings a few weeks from now, before starting southward for the season.

A New Jersey woman applies for a divorce from her husband because he had no failings whatever. Gracious! But you can't suit these women folks now.

Something Wrong

By F. A. MITCHEL

"The country's going to the demotion bow-wow!"

"What's the matter now, old man?"

"Why, this income tax is an outrage. They allow a married man a $4,000 exception and a single man only $3,000. We poor bachelors are doomed to live alone. We have no home, no wife, no children. Our expenses are necessarily higher than those of a married man, who doesn't have to belong to a club and spend the money that is an essential of the bachelor state. Notwithstanding, all this, I, who have an income of $4,000, have to pay a tax on $1,000, while the married man with the same amount goes scot-free. It's an outrage."

"If you prefer the married man's place, why don't you take a wife?"

"By Jove, I believe I'll do it! Just to get ahead of the government." This dialogue took place between Dick Ryerson and Arnold Thurston, bachelors, in the Catinet club one morning after the first publication of the terms of the income tax. The complainant, Ryerson, though his income was all expended on himself, had a hard time making ends meet, and any reduction of the amount whatever, was liable to upset his financial calculations.

"In order to beat 'em," Thurston replied to the last remark, "you'll have to marry a girl without more than $1,000 a year. Anything over that will be combined with your own income and must pay a tax."

"I don't suppose the only girl in the world I want has a cent of income. I can write her a note asking her about it before I propose."

"That would be a brilliant scheme. She would probably write back that if you wanted her on a money consideration you could look elsewhere for a wife."

"I won't put it that way. I'll tell her that I don't wish my wife to have any income at all, that she is to rely on me for everything and if she has no money it's a proposal, if she has it it's a loss."

"Oh, yes, I see," doubtfully.

"Well, what do you see?"

"Fireworks."

When an idea gets into the head of a confirmed bachelor, especially as to matrimony, no one can tell just what he will do. Mr. Ryerson did just what he had said he would do and without the expected fireworks. Miss Eagleheart, to whom he made the singular conditional proposition, was rather pleased with it. She wrote the proper that since she came within his conditions—conditions which she considered worthy of a manly man—she accepted his proposition.

The day after he received the acceptance he met his friend Thurston again at the club.

"I'm going to beat the government," said Ryerson.

"How?" asked Thurston, somewhat astonished.

"I'm going to marry a girl who has nothing and pay no tax."

"Come off! You're gawking me."

"Fact." And he gave Thurston Miss Eagleheart's letter to read. The latter scratched his head.

"Dick," he said presently, "there's something wrong somewhere in this case."

"Why do you think so?"

"Well, your proposition is so unheard of that I can't conceive of any woman taking it seriously."

Ryerson paled.

"I'm afraid you're up a tree."

"What can I do?"

"Crawfish."

"I won't do that. Fact is I don't want to do that. I'm in it, and I'm going to stay in it."

"Well, it may come out all right. There's one thing I can say to you to encourage you. It has seemed to me that any girl receiving such a proposition—that is, your making any conditions—whatever—would send it back with a stick of dynamite attached. But I've observed this about women: They generally do just the opposite from what one expects them to do."

"This is encouraging, isn't it?"

"It's all the comfort I can give you." Ryerson stayed on it, as he said he would, and after a brief engagement he was married. He remained away from his club during the honeymoon, but as soon as it had passed he made his appearance there. The first man he met was Thurston.

"Well, old chapple," said the latter, "so you've beaten the government."

Ryerson's face fell. "Do you remember what you said about there being something wrong?"

"Yes, but I hope I was wrong."

"And that you said a woman would always do what you expected her not to do?"

"Why, yes; I remember that too. I hope nothing has occurred to make you regret."

"Oh, no; nothing like that, but I didn't beat the government after all."

"You didn't beat the government after all?"

"No, the government beat me."

"How?"

"Why, the woman I married concealed the fact that she had an income of $3,000 a year. As a bachelor I would have paid a tax on $1,000, and now as a married man I'll have to pay on $2,000."

"A dead swindle, isn't it?"

"You bet; you were right after all. The wine's on me. Come, let's go into the cafe."

POWER must be reckoned in reference to the weight involved. This is the big underlying truth that is often overlooked in careless statements about horsepower.

We repeat that Maxwell cars have greater horsepower, per pound of weight, than any car built.

This has been proved within the last six months by four competitive tests made in the two leading scientific schools of the United States.

The point for you to remember is this:

Maxwell cars will take you anywhere that any car will take you and they'll take you as fast as you'll dare to travel.

A Northville business man was fined this week for driving a motor

Joe Montgomery has been having a garage built on his property on Rogers street, this week.

Northville people were interested to learn of the recent marriage of Donald Gay, son of Ed. Gay of Detroit to a young lady in the same city.

H. S. Green has again received an appointment as special officer in the fruit department of the Michigan State Fair to be held in Detroit September
4-13.

Howard Stewart has resigned his position with the Ford Motor Car Co. and accepted one in the office of the Pere Marquette railroad Co.
Russell also has secured employment with the same concern.

The long-looked for U. S. cannon and shells arrived here the first of the week from Washington thru the efforts of H. P. H. Kelley. It cannot be set in place on the school grounds until the new building is completed.

Wm. Beyers or "Bugh" as he is familiarly known, slipped while filling the ice box at the Hill Bros meat market Tuesday and strained the muscle of one leg so seriously that he has been forced to remain in bed several days.

Notwithstanding rumors to the contrary work is rapidly going forward on the new road from Wilson's Corners to Woodward avenue, Detroit.
Three gangs of men are at work and about 1,000 feet of pavement is laid each day. A finished highway this fall is an assured fact.

A card received last week from Mr.
and Mrs. N. E. Bogart stated that they arrived at their destination, Anoka, Minn., in just 6 days, a trip of 900 miles, without any mishaps to their Saxon car. Before starting home
Monday they visited Mr. and Mrs. Ira
C. Holt at Pine City, Minn. The Holts were formerly Northville residents.

The report which reached here last week that the contractor for the new school building at Plymouth, had decided to discontinue the work, was not as we learn from official authority, a true one. The work was commenced the first of this month and is expected to be completed by July 1, 1917.

This is a hot weather story for which Wm. E. Johnson can vouch.
Several mornings last week instead of making coffee by the time-honored method on the stove, he utilized the sun's rays by brewing it on the doorstep of his home. And he says it was pretty good coffee, too. —Milford

BOLIVIA NOTED FOR TIN AND RUBBER

COUNTRY'S EXPORTS EXCEED IMPORTS BY TEN MILLION DOLLARS

Nation's Territorial Extension is 500,000 Square Miles.

Bolivia is the most extensive inland country of South America. Its territorial extension is approximately 500,000 square miles. This area embraces the vast central tableland 12,000 feet above sea level which is the source of tin and rubber wealth, and the tropical valleys and river regions which are the source of rubber production.

Bolivia's chief source of productive wealth is in the mineral products, which includes tin, copper, silver, gold, antimony, tungsten and bismuth.

The tin deposits are the only ones in the western hemisphere which are available commercially on a large scale. The country produces about one fifth of the tin consumed by the entire world and is a close second to the Malay state in the quantity and value of the output. This now approximates 25,000 metric tons of metallic tin. The mineral is found in lodes in combination with other ores, notably silver, and the lodes are worked as high as 17,000 feet.

Copper is found in combination with silver and other ores, as well as in an almost pure state. The present production is 4,000 tons annually, but this is capable of great increase. From 10,000 to 12,000 tons of zinc are annually mined for export.

Silver, for centuries a leading product of Bolivia. The Potosi mines contributed vast sums to the Spanish crown but little silver has been mined in Bolivia in recent years. Improved transportation facilities and improved machinery and modern methods are relied upon to reopen many of the Bolivia mines which were supposed to be worked out.

The gold deposits of Bolivia are plentiful, although there are some quartz veins. The introduction of dredging machinery in the placer regions is attended with much difficulty and expense because of the lack of transportation facilities. It is believed, however, that these difficulties will be overcome and that Bolivia will retain her former position as a gold producing country.

Rubber is the chief agricultural export.

The population of Bolivia is estimated at between 2,000,000 and 2,500,000 inhabitants. The mass of the inhabitants are civilized Indians who are engaged in agriculture, or are employed in the mines or in stock raising and other means of transportation. Those of mixed blood constitute about 500,000. They furnish the bulk of the laboring population in the mining districts and the cities.

La Paz is the largest city. It has 50,000 inhabitants. It lies in the great central plateau, 12,000 feet above sea level. It is the seat of government and to some extent the financial capital of the country, but other cities divide the commerce with it, because of being the centers of somewhat isolated districts.

Oruro, the center of the tin mining region, has 20,000 inhabitants. Potosi, since the branch of the railway was extended to it, is regaining some of its importance as a commercial and mining center. Its population is 20,000.

Sucre, which still has legal status as the capital, has much accumulated wealth and is an attractive city for the tourist. It is the center of considerable trade. The population is about 25,000.

Cochabamba is the center of a rich agricultural district and is a trading center as well. The railway line will soon reach it, and its commercial importance will be enhanced. The population is 30,000. Santa Cruz is the most important center of population in the great tropical agricultural region. It has 20,000 inhabitants.

Bolivia derives her revenues chiefly from export and import taxes although there are also internal taxes. The receipts from imports are about double those from exports. The export tax is laid on rubber and tin and other minerals. The export of tin nets $1,000,000 to the government.

The monetary system is stable. Normally, the silver standard obtains, but the gold basis is the real measure of values. The current medium of exchange is the silver boliviano, which is maintained at 39 to 40 cents.

MAN TAESSED CIRCUS GOAT

Narrowly Escaped Drowning After Being Butted Into Stream

Aurora, Ind.—Chaw C. Suerman, age 36, had a narrow escape from drowning in Hogan Creek, being rescued from the stream unconscious.

Suerman and several other men were teasing a "bull" goat belonging to the Blackwell animal circus, showing near the creek, and he was attacked by the animal. Suerman was attempting to escape by running along the bank when the goat butted him off the embankment and he went down, feet about ten feet of water. The goat would not permit anyone to approach the stream until one of the show men arrived with a rope, and succeeded in getting Suerman out as he was sinking for the third time. He was revived by a physician and removed to his home.

POPULAR MEMBER OF BRITISH ROYALTY

Queen Alexandra buying a flower on "Alexandra Day."

London, (Special)—Queen Alexandra still remains the most popular member of the royal family of England, although she will celebrate her seventy-third birthday next December, and if King Edward had been alive last March the two would have celebrated the fifty-third anniversary of their marriage. Alexandra takes the utmost pride in her personal appearance, and at a distance she gives more the impression of being unaffected by time than does Queen Mary. Nobody thinks of calling the widow queen the "queen mother" or the "dowager queen." She objects to being designated by either of these titles in print, yet no familiar use of them by the press would lead her friends to adopt them in speaking of her. They don't fit. She doesn't take life so seriously as Queen Mary, does not and never has attempted to interfere in politics, and devotes herself now as always with studious care to the art of being agreeable and useful to charity and other good work.

The London public has been treated to so many "flag days" on behalf of war charities that national enthusiasm in support of street solicitations has cooled out and there was considerable misgiving a few weeks ago when the time arrived for the annual "Alexandra day," upon which pretty women annually appear in the London streets and sell roses to any passerby for the purpose of raising money for the hospitals in which Queen Alexandra is interested. Yet this year "Alexandra day" was more successful than it has ever been. Millions of roses were sold and a large sum was turned over to the fund.

Within the course of a few days Alexandra assisted at the Russian flag day and sent to Lord Rosebery, president of the organization, four flags adorned with her autograph to be auctioned off; she attended the matinee performance at the Royal Court theatre, Shang's square, for benefit of the British Women's hospital on the site of the Star and Garter Hotel of Richmond; she visited the annual show of the National Rose society at the Royal Botanical gardens, Regent's Park, to raise funds for the British Red Cross; she appeared at the matinee arranged by the London Ladies' association in aid of the Missions to Seamen at No. 25 Park Lane, the residence of Sir Philip Sassoon, and she visited the Patriotic fair at the Royal Open House, Covent Garden, which the Ruchess of Somerset organized to add to a fund called "The World's Tribute to the Soldiers and Sailors of the Empire."

WHISKERS CUT IN 20 YEARS

Over 11,000 Acres of Human Alfalfa Removed by Barber?

Atchison, Kan.—Just how many acres of whiskers he has cut in twenty years was figured out by George Engle, a barber here. Figuring the space shaved on three men as about one square foot, Engle found that in twenty years he cut 11,878 acres of whiskers, in various stages of growth. He floured only once over, while for a big majority of the shaves the same space had to be gone over twice.

ELECTRIC GROOMED HORSES

Vacuum Cleaner Far More Rapid Than Ordinary Curry Comb. Vacuum cleaners which shave the usefulness of curly combs, with the additional advantage of suction to draw into a receptacle the dust, scale and dandruff removed from the animal's coat have been adopted for grooming the horses of New York City's Park department. The cleaner is driven by an electric motor and is so light as to be easily carried from place to place. For greater convenience however, they are mounted on hand trucks.

It has been found that besides doing the work in a much more thorough and sanitary manner than is possible with the ordinary curly comb, the cleaners are far more rapid. The men, using the vacuum cleaner, can care for several times the number of horses they formerly could curry in the old way.

FEDERAL ROAD FUNDS

Secretary of Agriculture Apportions Money to States, as Provided in New Road Law.

The Secretary of Agriculture, under date of July 21, 1916, certified to the Secretary of the Treasury and the governors and State highway departments of the several States the following apportionment of the $5,000,000 of Federal road funds available for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1917. This is the first installment of Federal moneys to be apportioned to the States under the Federal-aid road act approved July 11, 1916. Before making the division among the States, the Secretary, in accordance with the act, deducted 3 per cent, or $150,000, needed for administering its provisions. This left $4,850,000 to be apportioned among the states, one-third in the ratio of area, one-third in the ratio of population, and one-third in the ratio of mileage of rural delivery routes and star routes. The apportionment on this basis gives the following amounts for the several States:

Alabama	$104,148.90
Arizona	68,513.32
Arkansas	82,689.92
California	151,063.92
Colorado	82,690.14

Minnesota	112,394.06
Mississippi	85,905.84
Missouri	104,726.41
Montana	95,287.19
Nebraska	106,770.81

Oklahoma	115,139.00
Oregon	78,687.37
Pennsylvania	230,644.17
Rhode Island	11,665.71
South Carolina	71,807.64
South Dakota	80,946.02
Tennessee	114,153.48
Texas	291,927.81
Utah	56,956.15
Vermont	22,844.47
Virginia	99,669.71
Washington	71,884.28
West Virginia	58,270.16
Wisconsin	128,361.07
Wyoming	61,196.32

Total.....$4,850,000.00

Later Appropriations.

The apportionment indicated above is only of one year's funds. For succeeding fiscal years the act apportions the following amounts:

1918	$10,000,000
1919	15,000,000
1920	20,000,000
1921	25,000,000

The act requires that the apportionment for each year shall be made in the same manner. Different sums are appropriated for each year and the apportionment must also take into consideration the population as shown by the latest available Federal census and the mileage of rural delivery and star routes as shown by the certificate of the Postmaster General for the next preceding fiscal year. A new apportionment, therefore, must be announced for each fiscal year.

The apportionment as given above does not take into consideration the $1,000,000 additional appropriated each year for 10 years for the development of rural roads in the National Forests.

Skillful Treatment

Horse breeding is an occupation which requires much learning and a certain farmer has a great reputation for his skill.

A neighbor of his who bought some advice on the cheap, asked the horse breeder's son one day:

"I say Tommy, when one of your father's horses is ill, what does he do?"

"Do you mean just slightly ill, or real bad?" was the lad's cautious counter question.

"On seriously ill?"

"Well," said the boy, "if a horse is only just a little ill, dad gives it some medicine, but if it is seriously ill he kills it."

OUR PERISCOPE

ROME.—The volcanoes of Mount Etna and Stromboli are in violent eruption, accompanied by underground rumblings. So intense is the heat from the flaming lava that the sea is boiling in the region of the volcanoes.

LONDON.—Since the war began more than 160,000 men in England have left other occupations for that of the mines, because underground workers are barred from military service.

TOKIO.—Rear Admiral Akizawa, regarded as the foremost strategist in the Japanese navy, has been ordered to Europe to investigate the war situation. He will first go to Russia and then Sweden. After studying naval strategy in England and France he is to proceed to the Balkan states.

WASHINGTON.—Exports to Russia from the United States reached a value of $28,000,000 the first three months of this year, as compared with less than $1,000,000 the same period last year, the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce reported today.

An Appropriate Air

Mr. Thompson is a hard working man at his trade as a shoemaker. By laboring early and late he managed to earn enough to educate and dress his two daughters very well.

Now, he was so proud of those girls that at last, as a surprise, he bought them a piano. A few days after the arrival of the instrument a friend saw him.

"Hello, Thompson!" he said. "And how did the piano go off?"

"Beautifully," Smith replied the shoemaker. "The girls were as grateful as possible, and it's fine to hear them singing and playing. But what do you suppose was the very first tune they learned?"

"Dunno, I'm sure," was the friend's reply.

"Everybody Works but Father!" said Thompson mournfully.

DRIVES KING IN HIGH GEAR HERE FROM PROVIDENCE

A. E. Dustin, with a party, drove an eight-cylinder King locked in high gear and with the differential housing sealed so as to prevent a change of gear ratio, from Providence, R. I., to Detroit, last week. After visiting the King factory and seeing the sights in Detroit, Mr. Dustin and party started back to Providence, to make the trip home in high gear as the man out to Detroit. In the picture Artemus Ward, Jr., president of the King, is seen greeting Dustin upon his arrival at the King factory. The others in Dustin's party are Horace Belcher, newspaperman; F. W. McKenzie, S. M. Weeks and A. R. Marsh.

The tourists left Providence at noon and drove through the Berkshires to Albany. From that city they motored to Buffalo, then across the international bridge into Ontario and to Detroit. The trip from Buffalo, because of the bad roads and grades encountered, averaged only 10 miles an hour. After visiting in Detroit the tourists started home via Toledo, Cin.
