SOMETHING DOING

IN REAL ESTATE

IN THE VICINITY OF NORTHVILLE LAST WEEK.

There was a regular flurry in real estate here last week. Beach Northrop disposed of the land just south of his old homestead on the Fishery road to a man named Jones from Detroit. Besides this, Mr. Jones purchased a plot of 13 acres adjoining the Northrop property. It is reported that the Detroit man will construct an artificial lake of about 15 acres for the purpose of raising trout and will also erect a suitable dwelling on the grounds.

The second big deal was pulled off by the Northville Farms Co., when they bought the 80 acre farm on the Fishery road, of S. D. Meseraull. Mr. and Mrs. Meseraull expect to move to Flint soon, where they will make their home.

In the purchase of the J. A. Carlson farm by Ralph M. Dyar, the third land sale was closed. This farm comprises 13 acres and lies near the J. O. Knapp farm. It contains an abundance of living springs which furnish an unlimited supply of pure water. With these resources at hand Mr. Dyar plans to construct a large pond and plant a goodly supply of fish therein. It is also reported that the Sadler property on Rogers St. has just been sold to an out-of-town party.

TOWERASEN-FOSTER.

Miss Cora A. Foster, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Foster of this place was married August 29 at Caledonia, Minn., to Mr. George A. Towerasen of that place, where they will make their home. The bride was employed here for some time as stenographer and clerk in the office of the Globe Furniture company.

DEAN-BUTCHINS.

Miss Madge Hutchins of Pontiac second daughter of Mrs. W. R. Hutchins of this place was united in marriage with Mr. Roger Dean of the former city Wednesday, August 30. They will make their home in Pontiac.

WEEKLY CALENDAR.

ST. PAUL'S LUTHERAN CHURCH.

(By the Pastor)

English services next Sunday at 10 o'clock. Subject "Truth and Liberty"

We hope that all enjoyed the vacation of last Sunday and will attend the service next Sunday. Two things of vital interest will be discussed.

BAPTIST CHURCH NOTES. (By the Pastor.) The Sunday morning topic will be "Why You Need to be Converted." The subject will be discussed entirely from scriptural authority. If you think you are all right without conversion come and hear what God thinks about it. If you are willing to take the change, come and see if you have any sinners. Let's be honest.

All should endeavor to hear the Evangelist while they have the opportunity. Don't stay at home and criticize his sermons. It sounds different when you hear for yourself.

The evening service at 7 o'clock. Subject: "The Disciple and the Cloud of Witnesses."

The pastor wishes to announce his recovery from his recent indisposition and to further state that he has every expectation of being at his task regularly from now on. He will preach both morning and evening next Sunday and the greatest aid to his complete recovery would be a large audience at both services. We are glad to learn that some have already paid a visit to Billy Sunday. Go as often as you can but plan to attend during the week as your own church needs your presence on the Sabbath.

The Westminster Guild will meet with Frances Yerkes Wednesday evening, Sept. 20. Hazel Bishop will assist.

Plans are under way for a very active and aggressive program of work for the month of October. Further announcements later. Be ready to respond to the appeal for help which will be made.

A RETROSPECT.

When we are hearing the other shore
Waiting the swish of the boatman's oar,
Who soon is coming to ferry us o'er?
How the memory clings
To some little budding thing,
That with tears we laid away
To await the judgment day.
As we count years, 'twas long ago,
Perhaps some four decades or so,
Dear the thought, as we near those lands,
Of those angelic little hands
Waving in glee, and then to hear
In tones that memory still holds dear,
"Papa and mama are on the way,
They're coming today, coming today,
How glad are these hands to greet
them,
Dear the thought that we shall meet
them!"
How valueless are bonds and lands
With memories of those angelic hands,
Pity the poor and barren walls
That have no blossoms in their halls,
Better the memory, tho' with tears
Of those laid away in tender years
Than a misguided, childless home
Where their dear voices never come.

SCENES FOLLOWING FIERCE STORM ON MEXICAN BORDER

During the fierce storm which visited the Mexican border a few days ago all the tents of the camps were blown down and the region devastated by the winds of hurricane force and heavy rains. The United States regulars and militia men were compelled to abandon their quarters. The accompanying pictures show the soldier boys standing in water knee deep waiting a stranded automobile which is unable to make any progress in the deep mud.

JUST GOT OVER A COLD?

Look out for kidney troubles and backache. Colds overtax the kidneys and often leave them weak. For weak kidneys—well, read the following statement:

W. D. Addison, justice of the peace, Water St., S. Marine City, Mich., says: "For a long time I was a sufferer from kidney disease. The trouble usually came on after I caught cold. I had lumbago and rheumatic pains in my back. At night I was restless and in the morning, my back was lame and sore. The passages of the kidney secretions were too frequent and often accompanied by pain. I used different medicines, but wasn't benefited until I took Doan's Kidney Pills. They gave me relief."

The Tie That Bound

Sam Hawkins, city editor for Dolph & Co., was a by no means fat man. He was large and hearty. Consequently it was natural that he should let a woman be the dominant and influential person in his life. The first woman he met was Miss Potter, the stenographer, against the first opinion he had ever formed.

It was during the first day she came, how much of Hawkins' work had to be transferred in the office with Timmons, who a desk commanded a fine view of the stenographic department. Hawkins had seen that kind of girl. He had made love in a mild way to a number of them. But there was something about Miss Potter—she was so smart, so delicately formed, so perfect he thought, in every way that well—

"Gee, she's a peach!" he whispered, as he draped him (it over Timmons' desk under the shallow pretense of transacting necessary business. "Isn't she the most comely looking girl you ever saw?"

"Kind of peachy-looking," returned Timmons, indifferently. "No steel." "Style," he repeated. "You don't know a lady when you see one, you hick. I suppose it sneezed itself up in one of these low-necked, short-sleeved combinations instead of that nice, sensible respectable—"

Timmons interrupted the flow of eloquence with a laugh. "I beg your pardon," he said, "I had no intention of knocking you in the friend. I really hadn't noticed it. Much to tell you the truth."

"Hawkins merely snorted and departed. It was odd how much of his time Hawkins had to pass in the office after that, and he continued to hang around Timmons' desk until Timmons protested.

"Say," he demanded one day, "how much longer are you going to let this romantic affair of yours interfere with business? Why don't you start something with the young lady instead of making you a nuisance in our attempts to go on over and take to her place for to be lurch with you."

"I thought of that," said Hawkins, "but if I did, he'd have to see me first."

"I admit that he's a snail to make a strong and tremble," chuckled Timmons. "Still, the hick must eat in seasonally."

Hawkins placed faintly in Miss Potter's direction, "I wish I could catch her at it," he said. "If I could, maybe she wouldn't seem so much like a hick."

"Falls, angel or what?" queried Timmons.

"Oh, I don't know," rejoined Hawkins, unconcernedly. "But she's so damned little and pretty and dainty and sweet it seems as if she must live on the staff the poets feed from, and you know, how and honey and that kind of thing. It do sn't seem as if we're in the same class."

"You certainly don't," roared Timmons, "if she doesn't eat."

Things had moved along in this unsatisfactory way for several weeks before fate stepped in and straightened out the situation. Hawkins never had progressed beyond the point of occasionally dictating a stray letter to the object of his admiration, when one day, pausing at the door of a restaurant, his eyes suddenly fell upon the dainty form of Miss Potter, who was seated at a table hardly six feet away from him. In front of her was a large plate of corned beef and cabbage flanking the central delicacy were generous portions of creamed potatoes, corn on the cob, tomato salad, several appetizers or pickles, a large cup of coffee and a piece of apple pie.

As Hawkins gazed upon her, rooted to the spot she raised an ear of corn to her creamy lips. She also raised her eyes and recognized Hawkins. Hawkins blinked furiously, but Miss Potter, quite unabashed beckoned to him.

"Come on over here," she called, smiling hospitably. Hawkins stumbled over to the table and sat down.

"Why, this is great," twittered Miss Potter. "I wonder if you like to eat as much as I do? It would be such a comfort to find somebody to keep me in countenance. I eat so much more than any of the other girls, but they all get thin and have me isn't it pathetic?"

She laughed a low, thrilling laugh. Hawkins' sublimation was complete. He ordered corned beef and cabbage in a trice of happiness.

A Scottish prison chaplain, recently appointed entered one of the cells on his first round of inspection and thus addressed the prisoner who occupied it.

"Well, my man, do you know who I am?"

"No, nor I dare care," was the nonchalant reply.

"Well, I'm your chaplain."

"Oh, ye are? Then I ha' heard of ye before!"

"And what did ye hear?" returned the chaplain, his curiosity getting the better of his dignity.

"Well, I heard that the last two kirks ye were in ye preached them both empty; but I can say ye willna find it quite sae easy to do the same wi' this one."

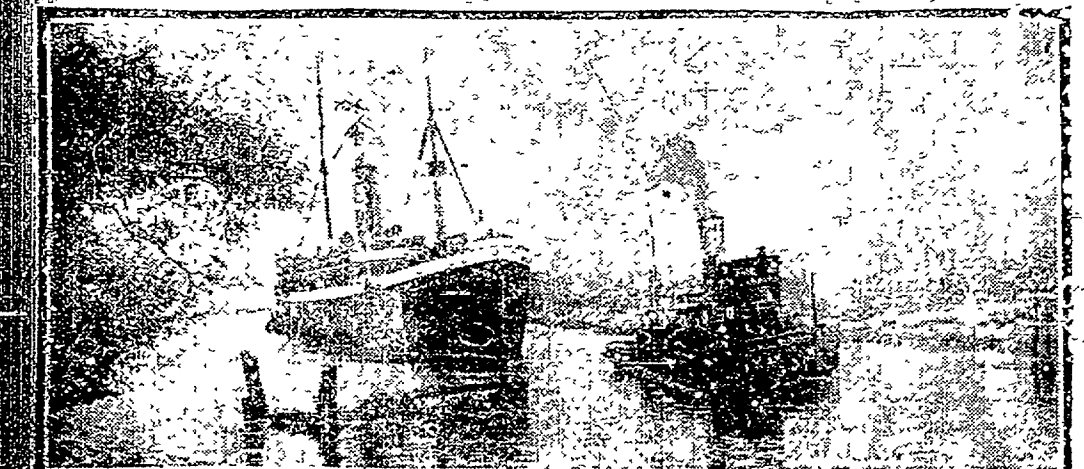

WOMAN BESTS COUGAR
 With Child Clinging to Her Back She Wins Fight With Beast.

Aberdeen, Wash.—With her infant child clinging to her back, Mrs. E. Burkhardt, a former resident of this city but now living at Tahola fought a large cougar nearly twenty minutes, finally beating the animal off with a piece of water pipe. Her clothing was torn to shreds and she suffered minor scratches about the neck and breast.

The Burkhardts live on the mountain opposite the Indian village at Tahola and each day Burkhardt goes for the mail, and it is Mrs. Burkhardt's custom to go down the path and meet him. Owing to the high water Mr. Burkhardt was late. Mrs. Burkhardt saw a small fox run close to the engine used for hoisting supplies and she picked up a piece of pipe to strike it, when the cougar appeared and immediately attacked her.

All through the battle the child hung to its mother's neck. Mrs. Burkhardt held her weapon vigorously and finally beat off the beast. Then she fled for home.

GERMAN STEAMER BRAVES ATTACK TO AID THE BREMEN

Exposed to possible attack by Allied cruisers, the North German Lloyd steamer, Willhad, passed through Cape Cod Canal from East Boston and dropped anchor in lower New London, where it will await the arrival of the super-submarine Bremen, whose thirty-two officers and crew she will carry until the latter starts on her return voyage to Germany.

Puzzling.
 "Tomorrow," announced 5 year old Sidney "is my birthday."
 "Why," returned she, "it is mine, too."
 The boy's face clouded with perplexity, and after a brief silence he exclaimed, "How did you get so much bigger a man?"

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Rev. Ernest Bourner Allen, D. D.
 Pastor of the Washington Street
 Congregational Church and the Marion Lawrence Sunday School,
 Toledo, Ohio.

LESSON FOR SEPTEMBER 17, 1916

Lesson Title: "A Prisoner in the Castle."

Lesson Text: Acts 22: 17-29. Memorize vs 27-29.

Golden Text: "He is my refuge and my fortress; my God, in whom I trust." Ps. 91: 2

I. Facing One's Record.

When the Lord asked Paul to leave Jerusalem on work for him, Paul replied that his past record would hinder this work. In a measure this was true. Paul had imprisoned and beaten Christians everywhere and conspired to the death of Stephen. But he started out to make a new record. He did not allow his ignorant mistakes, or moral failures of the past, to hinder his serving God today. Some men sit down and whine because they have failed. It is harder to help such men than those who are willing to try again. If a man gives up, even when his record is mighty bad, there is little hope for him.

We ought to be on the alert to help men whose record has been bad. They must be given another chance. I wonder, sometimes, how many of us would have voted to receive Paul into the church. In the face of his record, we might have hesitated. But in view of his new purpose, and also the business of the church itself to help such men, we must give him repeated opportunity to do right. When our churches become filled with self-satisfied people, out of sympathy with men who are trying to get on their feet, there is danger for religion and the kingdom of God.

II. The Dust Throwers.

After Paul's address, the Record says that the throng "cried out, and threw off their garments, and cast dust in the air." Thus they tried to create disturbance and trouble. I have been at base ball games when there was a runner on second, and the shortstop kept running up to the base to hold the runner there. And frequently he would pick up a handful of dust and throw it toward the bag, as though he were coming. Dust throwing for the purpose of deceit or confusion is not a modern institution. Some throw literal dust, others make slighting remarks. By means of them they cast suspicion on others. They try to make it hard for people to see clearly. They bring the issues in political campaigns. They are professional or temperamental trouble makers. They make up the unthinking mob. You can find some of them in every community. It is our business to see that they do not hinder any good cause, or defeat the work of the church, or mar any man's reputation.

III. "Examined by Scourging."

The world has had many curious and inconclusive ways of trying men to discover their guilt or innocence. I have seen the old "ducking rock" at Bermuda, from which those suspected of being witches were pushed off into the water. If they sank they were innocent, but if they floated they were guilty! Anyone who could keep his head under water for a bit of time, could easily prove his innocence! It was about the time of the Salem witchcraft in our own country. We have done some queer things because of our vague fear of the occult.

We try people today by queer tests. We scourge men with our tongues and wait to see what wickedness they develop. We put women in the fire of community persecution to decide whether they are pure or not. We attack strangers with innuendo and suspicion, when they move into a new community, even allowing them no opportunity to reply or defend. It is a queer world! We have only modernized the test of scourging and fire which men used in Paul's time. It is the handy weapon of the mob. It may bruise the innocent and leave the purest broken hearted. Can we not do away with such vicious and unreasonable customs? Are we not more enlightened than that Roman mob, that Salem community?

FEMININE PHILOSOPHY

Some women constantly labor under the hallucination that they must be contrary to be appreciated.

Shakespeare says a young man married is a man that's married, and he should have said scarred.

It takes several good women to redeem the man that one woman has ruined.

The girl with a secret is like a boy with a first gun. Neither is satisfied until he has made

ROUMANIA'S QUEEN LEAVES PALACE FOR RED CROSS HOSPITAL

The royal palace at Bucharest, and Queen Marie of Roumania as a Red Cross nurse.

The gay life of Roumania's capital has held little charm for Queen Marie since the outbreak of the war. During the past year she has spent much time as a Red Cross nurse, and now that Roumania has entered the war she will probably devote still more time to this cause. Queen Marie is one of the prettiest of Europe's royal ladies. She was formerly Princess Marie of Saxe-Coburg. Although her husband is a German, Queen Marie's sympathies are said to have always been with the entente allies.

Fashion Notes for Fall

The modes for early autumn are casting their shadows before and from present indications the one-piece frock is to retain its popularity—or the two-piece frock in one-piece effect. Some models have the waist and skirt developed separately and joined under a belt of striped silk. The skirt is flared over the hips, and has a panel front and back. The waist has a deep square yoke and vest of crepe Georgette.

The one-piece frock of navy blue serge is the most practical garment for early autumn wear. It would be difficult to find a smarter model than one trimmed with worsted embroidery in dark purple. A narrow frill of navy blue taffeta outlines the rounded yoke effect in front and a turned down collar of white linen relieves the somberness of the frock. The bell sleeves have sub-cuffs edged with the embroidery and serve-covered buttons trim both skirt and bodice.

A practical suit for the little school-girl of 10 or 12 is of fine navy blue serge, built on Norfolk jacket lines. The jacket has a shallow yoke, and the bodice portion is box-pleated at each side of the center front and back. A short, pleated peplum hangs from below the belt of black patent leather. The collar and revers and cuffs are of the serge. The skirt is side-pleated, and is attached to a belt of the material stitched several times about the edges.

When sewing on buttons place a pin under the button, it will stay on twice as long and never tears the cloth.

Silks are at the present moment the most favored of dress materials, and, as they may be had in almost any weight and price and, of course, any color, they may be pressed into service for all occasions.

For the coming season fur trimmings will be conspicuous on cloaks, suits and costumes. Dyed silver lamb (rabbit) and marmotte will doubtless become the most popular of the luxurious pelts. Moleskin on account of its softness will be much in demand for bordering skirts, already Bernard is showing suits of velour de laine, having jacket and skirt banded with moleskin. Beaver, too, is much seen.

Caracul coats, quite long and with flaring skirt, are lined with brocade and have wide fur collars or collars trimmed with fur. These trimmings are in different furs—mink, lynx, skunk, etc.

To keep up with small items in change of dress is often to keep up with fashion at small expense. Thus, if one is making a sport coat, it is never to point the pockets sharply at the bottom instead of making them rounded or square. Belts for sweater coats are now narrow, and are a sahn in the front.

CHIC HAT AND SMART COLLARETTE

The new shade of cerise, pinks velvet is used in this "Blue Bird" model, the facing of which is of Alice blue. The shirred tam-o-shanter crown and ornaments of velvet to the sides, give it the charming hat. Collarette of tulle and ermine which will be very popular this coming season.

HINT FOR HEALTH

CARE OF MILK CANS

Thorough Washing and Sterilization a Necessity in the Production of Clean Milk

In justice to the farmer, milk dealers should give considerable attention to the question of washing the cans before they are returned. If the cans are allowed to go back unwashed to the farmer, it is a very difficult task for him, with his limited facilities, to clean them.

In a circular letter recently sent to milk dealers by the Dairy division of the department, it was pointed out that bacterial counts made from cans which had been washed and rinsed in the ordinary manner showed that there were from 300,000 to 18,000,000 bacteria in each can, with an average of 4,000,000. If 10 gallons of milk were put into one of these cans there would be added more than 10 bacteria to each cubic centimeter of the milk. That is to say, this is the least number that would be added.

Whereas, it was pointed out, with a little steaming these same cans could have been rendered practically sterile.

One dealer who recently installed a modern washing machine employed a bacteriologist to test the results. It was found that less than 200,000 bacteria were in a can, and among them were no undesirable types. Bacterial counts of cans treated by a less efficient steaming device which this dealer had formerly employed ran as high as 20,000,000 bacteria to the can, including some undesirable kinds.

There were a number of different types of cleaning machines on the market. The one of all the different ones, however, is the thorough cleaning with washing powder and water, rinsing with steam and rapid drying. After this the cans should be covered and kept from contamination.

Another type is a jet device, by means of which sprays of cold and hot water and of steam are successively forced into the can. This type also is equipped sometimes with a drying attachment by means of which a draft of dry air is forced into the can. Another type is the brush machine, in which cans are brushed out with washing powder and water and then rinsed. After washing they may be steamed by a spray of steam. Some of the largest machines are fitted with powerful pumps the cans in an inverted position being run through the machine and sprays of soap and water, rinse water, hot water and steam successively forced into them under considerable pressure. They are then dried in the same machine.

The drying of the cans is an important factor, for it not only leaves them in a much better condition, but it tends to prevent rust. The cover also must not be neglected. It is as important that it be as thoroughly cleaned and sterilized as the can itself. It is not a good plan to put the cover on the can until the latter is quite dry. In the interval the can should be kept in a clean place where there is no dust or contamination.

On the farm, cans, pails, and other utensils may be sterilized very efficiently with an inexpensive sterilizer which is fully described in Farmers' Bulletin 748. This bulletin may be obtained upon application to the Department of Agriculture.

AIDA TO BE HEARD IN DRAMATIC ROLES

Frances Alda.

Frances Alda, prima donna who made her first appearance in a dramatic role last spring when she sang Aida with the Metropolitan Opera company during its engagement in Atlanta, met with such success that she has decided to continue her career as a dramatic soprano. She will therefore sing the role of Francesca in "Francesca da Rimini" which will be one of the novelties at the Metropolitan Opera House in New York next winter.

Household Hints

Recipes and Advice of Interest to Housewives.

THE TABLE

Tomato Butter—Seven pounds ripe tomatoes, three pounds brown sugar, two cups strong vinegar, one ounce cinnamon, one ounce cloves. Boil three hours. This will make just five quarts and will keep without sealing.

Chili Sauce—Boil fourteen tomatoes (peeled), three onions, one green pepper (chopped). Boil two or three hours, add three-fourths cup vinegar, allspice, one teaspoon cinnamon, one teaspoon salt. Boil all together one hour.

Baked Pears—Wipe, quarter and core pears. Put in a deep pudding dish, sprinkle with sugar or add a small quantity of molasses, then add water to prevent the pears from burning. Cover and cook two or three hours in a very slow oven. Small pears are delicious when baked.

Baked Quinces—Wipe, quarter, core and pare eight quinces. Put in a baking dish, sprinkle with three-fourths cup of sugar, add one and one-half cups of water, cover and cook until soft in a slow oven. Quinces require a long time for cooking.

Raised Apple Biscuit—Scald one cup of milk, add one tablespoonful of sugar and one tablespoonful of butter; let cool. Add one-half cake of yeast dissolved in warm water, one teaspoonful of salt and one cup of flour. Let rise; add cup of apples pared and grated, and one cup of flour sifted with one-half teaspoonful of soda. Let rise for one hour. Shape into two flat cakes, let them double their bulk, bake in hot oven, split while hot and butter. Serve hot with sugar and butter.

Quince Honey—Pare and grate five large quinces. To one pint of boiling water add five pounds of sugar. Stir over the fire until the sugar is dissolved; add the quince and cook fifteen or twenty minutes. Turn into glasses. When cooked it should be about the color and consistency of honey.

CUCUMBER PICKLES

Over one-half a peck of small cucumbers pour a boiling brine made of five pints of water and two cups of salt. Stand 24 hours, drain and wipe and cover with five pints of boiling vinegar. Again stand 24 hours; and drain. To fresh vinegar add half pint white mustard seed, one-half ounce each of whole cloves, cinnamon, allspice, ginger root and alum, two pounds of brown sugar and one tablespoonful of celery seed. Scald and pour boiling hot over the pickles. Do not tie the spears in a bag.

The cucumbers will shrivel up when the vinegar is poured over them, but after standing for a fortnight, they will be plump, firm and delicious. They will keep indefinitely, stored in a covered jar or crock.

SANNED SWEET PEPPERS.

Cut off the stem end, remove the seeds with a pair of shears and cut the pepper round and round in a long strip, one-fourth of an inch wide. Put the strips into a deep dish and pour over enough boiling salt water to cover them. Close the dish with a cover and let the peppers stand all night in the water.

Turn them out into a colander and let them drain dry. Put into a quart jar and pour over them one and one-half cups of boiling hot vinegar to which has been added one cupful of sugar and two small pieces of cinnamon stick.

Let the peppers stand for three days, then drain off the vinegar, heat boiling water and pour over them again, then seal. Use mostly the red peppers with a few of the green. It will take two dozen peppers to fill a quart jar.

These canned peppers are much superior to the imported "pimento," and should be used more generally than they are for salads, sandwiches and Spanish rice. It is well to wear rubber gloves in preparing the peppers.

The head push of the parade at the Oakland centennial at Pontiac was so entirely lacking in a sense of humor that he couldn't see the sense of the illustrated rebus when the Oxford contingent's contribution to said parade proved to be a 'Ford' drawn by a yoke of oxen secured through much trouble and expense.

Old H. C. of L. has also begun to sweat the medical profession so hard that two Farmington physicians have announced a raise in rates of service. And, as usual the "ultimate consumer" gets it all around.

The raising of the pensions of civil war soldiers' widows from $12 to $20 per month will meet with general approval, except of course, from the chronic "kickers". There are now no widows of soldiers of the 60's who are not either very old or at least well advanced in years.

The labor recently has even invaded the educational field. A dearth of county school pupils is reported in Oakland and various other Michigan counties.

And now Villa has "come to" and is rampaging around or there about, to, as bad as ever so it will be necessary to kill him some more.

Highland Park, also, it seems, is getting to be of the "wild and woolly west" order when people passing through its streets can be shot down and the assassin escape with apparent ease.

Now that it costs so much more for a haircut than it used to, one needn't be surprised if the style of wearing the hair braided or tied into a queue should again be adopted by the men.

Don't Try For a "Killing"

—unless you can afford to lose. You hear all about the big "killings" in stocks, etc. But you don't hear anything about the losses. And the losses are far more numerous than the "killings." (But the losses wouldn't sound so well in print.) The difference between the safe and the unsafe investment is the difference between certainty and "maybe." If you have a few hundred dollars that you can afford to lose—go ahead and try for a "killing." You may happen to win. But if you want to "play safe"—if you want an investment with the chance left out and certain 5 per cent. interest left in—the Urban Realty Mortgage Company.

46-48 W. Congress St., Detroit. will sell you a $50, $100, $500 or $1,000 part of a 50 per cent. or cost-value First Mortgage on improved Detroit real estate—every dollar of your investment secured by more than $2 of actual income-producing property. And you are GUARANTEED 5 per cent. by a big, strong company with $200,000.00 paid up capital—no matter whether "big-killing" stocks go up or down. Ask them to tell you all about it—and furnish bank references. Then invest your savings with safety and certainty. —Advertisement.

Ypsilanti schools have introduced an innovation in the form of a full eight-hour school day, beginning at eight a. m. and ending at four p. m. Many excellent reasons for the change are given, chief of which is the desirability of study under supervision, at school instead of at home. Other reasons are: using the expensive buildings and outfits more instead of having them unused for so large a part of the time; giving the students more time for home duties by having all lessons studied at school; better conditions for study than at home as to light, ventilation facilities, quietness, assistance from instructors, etc. Regular study periods are to be established, with a view to the preparation of all lessons during school hours.

A Success

The conversation had turned to the many men who had met success. "There, for instance," said one man, pointing down the street, "goes a man who began life in poverty and now lives on the fat of the land." McFee looked "Yes, I know him," he replied. "He's an agent for an antifac concern." —Judge.

SATISFY!
— what does that mean?

It means that NEW quality, in a cigarette, that does for your smoking exactly what a drink of cold water does for your thirst!

To satisfy, a cigarette must do far more than just "please" you—it must let you know you've been smoking.

That's what Chesterfields do—they satisfy! And yet they're MILD!

For the first time in the history of cigarettes, here's a cigarette that satisfies and yet is mild! Chesterfields!

Other cigarettes may be mild, but they don't satisfy. BUT, Chesterfields satisfy—yet they're mild!

This is new enjoyment for a cigarette to give. It is something that no cigarette, except Chesterfields, can give you—regardless of price.

Why?
Because no cigarette maker can copy the Chesterfield blend!
Try Chesterfields—today!

Mrs. Frances Dandison and daughter, Lucile, visited their aunt, Mrs. Markham, at the Thompson home in Detroit last Wednesday. Mrs. Markham is over 90 years of age and well known here.

The house on the A. N. Wixom farm burned last Friday night. The origin of the fire is unknown, however, it may have been struck by lightning during the storm that night. The house was rented by Frank Eno and family. The fire was not discovered until too late to save anything, the family barely escaping with their lives. Practically nothing was saved.

The light was given for all.
