THE RECORD: NORTHVILLE, MICH., FRIDAY, OCTOBER 20, 1916.

TELLS ABOUT WIDOWS' PENSIONS

CONGRESSMAN KELLEY WILL ASSIST ANY WHO APPLY TO HIM.

The following communication from the Hon. P. H. Kelley of Lansing gives valuable information concerning the new law applying to widows' pensions "Editor Northville Record."

Through your courtesy I would like to call attention of widows of Civil War soldiers to the new pension law which has just taken effect, the so-called Ashbrook Law.

This law will benefit the following classes of widows of Civil War soldiers:

1. Any widow heretofore entitled to $12 will be given an increase to $20 if she married the soldier prior to his military service.

2. Any widow heretofore entitled to $12 will be given an increase to $20 if she is 70 years old or over.

3. Any widow who was the widow of a soldier and later remarried and has again been widowed either by divorce on her application without fault, or by death, can secure a pension.

4. Any widow of Civil War soldier, who married such soldier prior to June 27, 1905, can now secure a pension. The limitation formerly was June 27, 1890, but has now been changed to June 27, 1905.

Any widow who thinks she will be benefitted by any of the provisions of the law, if she will write me at Lansing and state the facts as to her case I will inform her as to her rights under the law, furnish her the necessary blank and look after the matter for her at the Bureau of Pensions. This being a part of my official duties no charge will be made to any widow for such service and I will be very glad to render it.

PATRICK H. KELLEY.

Congressman, 6th Dist.

Address: Lansing, Mich.

The above will be of interest to many readers of this paper, who are directly benefitted by the new law.

POLITICAL GOSSIP.

Congressman Kelley and Senator Townsend are calling the attention of Republican voters to the hard times that existed under the Democratic administration until the European war broke out in July, 1914. The Democrats had been in power a little over a year and yet in Detroit alone it was conservatively estimated that fifty thousand men were out of employment.

At one employment agency on Bagley avenue alone there were applicants lined up by the hundreds clear across the street every day seeking employment, that was not to be had. Detroit newspapers were inserting free of charge "situations wanted" and free soup houses were established on Detroit's east side.

Senator Townsend and Congressman Kelley claim that the present prosperity is alone due to the war and when that is over the Democratic policy and Democratic tariff laws will put this country back where it was when the war broke out and that the country will see the hard times of 1914 repeated, and much more of it.

Governor Ferris is out making a strong campaign for Edwin F. Sweet the Democratic nominee for governor. Both Mr. Ferris and Mr. Sweet are strongly advocating the people to vote yes for state-wide prohibition, and no for the so-called Home Rule amendment. Both state that the so-called Home Rule amendment is simply a vote for a worse and more rotten condition of affairs than ever before existed.

Those who vote for the State-Wide Prohibition amendment should not forget that it is just as important to vote no on the so-called "Home Rule" amendment. It is asserted that if the Home Rule amendment should carry it would kill the State-Wide amendment anyhow.

MAJESTIC THEATRE, DETROIT.

Sir Herbert Beerbohm, the knighted English actor in "The Old Folks at Home," a drama dealing with parental love, written by Rupert Hughes from the novel of the same name, is the attraction at the Majestic theatre next week starting Sunday afternoon. Other numbers on the Majestic program for the week include a Keystone comedy, "She Loved a Sailor," a travelogue, the topical review, organ and orchestra selections and new songs by Henry Santrey.

Real Meaning Of "Home Rule"

You Should Vote "No" On That Amendment as Well As "Yes" On the State-Wide Amendment If You Want Prohibition in Michigan.

Many inquiries are still in circulation, notwithstanding the numerous explanations already in print, as to the real issue between the two Constitutional Amendments to be voted on in November.

As has been frequently stated in this and other papers, the Home Rule amendment has been ingeniously designed to confuse the issue, and has apparently succeeded to some extent.

As in force at present, the laws relating to the retail sale of liquor in Michigan permit each county to decide for itself through its voters whether it shall be "wet" or "dry." The so-called Home Rule would take this privilege from the county and give it to the townships, villages and cities, whether or not in a county that had declared itself against liquor selling by a majority vote of its people. For instance: Pontiac might be wet and the balance of Oakland county dry. But it is not enough for the advocates of the other amendment—absolute prohibition of the sale of liquor within the boundaries of Michigan—to vote for that. It is also necessary to vote AGAINST the Home Rule amendment. Voters must remember that the failure to DEFEAT it will mean that, even if the state-wide amendment carries it can only be in force from next April until one year from that date. Should both carry, this will be the result. It is just as important to vote on one as the other—"yes" on state-wide prohibition and "no" on "Home Rule," if you want prohibition.

VETERANS' PARTY MONDAY.

A very enjoyable meeting took place Monday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Goodell, where eleven guests were entertained in honor of the birthday of the host and of C. S. Mead, also of this village. The company included the following, all veterans of the civil war: Daniel Craft, John A. McKee, Thos. Shaw, A. Woodmansee, M. E. Johnson, C. S. Mead, H. O. Ward, J. M. Masters, A. M. VanTassel, L. C. Mead, E. Dingman and George Goodell. The combined ages of the 12 veterans was 919 years, an average of 76 1-2. The oldest man present was Mr. VanTassel, 83, and the youngest Mr. Goodell, 73. Mr. Goodell and Mr. Mead have celebrated their birthday together for some years past.

ANOTHER D. C. R. ACCIDENT.

A second child was injured by a street car Tuesday, this time resulting in death. Charles Alger, fourteen year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Alger, started to cross the street car track in front of his home on Griswold avenue, just as the 7:20 car rounded the curve near Cavell's. He was taken with an epileptic fit, to which he was subject and fell upon the track. On account of making the curve on a slippery track, the motorman was unable to stop his car so that it passed completely over the child, cutting off an arm and leg and injuring him internally. He was rushed to Schrader's undertaking rooms by Dr. Tom Henry, and later taken to the doctor's office, and his wounds cared for. But so badly was he injured that death came about noon.

Funeral services were held in the Catholic church at Milford Thursday morning.

The D. U. R., while disclaiming any liability, kindly volunteered to bear the funeral expenses.

Little Angeline Sowles, who was run over by a Plymouth car some weeks ago, and suffered a broken leg, beside other injuries, is getting along nicely, under the care of Dr. Malloy.

LEADING LIM TO IT.

Dillydally (a chronic procrastinator)—I dreamed last night that I was proposed to you. I wonder what that is a sign of? Miss Lingerlong d(esperately)—It is a sign that you have got more sense when you are asleep than when you are awake.—Tit-Bits.

LESSON FOR OCTOBER 22d, 1916

Lesson Title: "Paul's Defence Before Agrippa."

Lesson Text: Acts 26. Memorize vs. 28, 29.

Golden Text: "I was not disobedient unto the heavenly vision." Acts 26:19.

I. The Value of Publicity.

We believe in an era of advertising. Nothing like it was ever known before so far as amount and cost is concerned. Fortunes are made by the use of printer's ink. So also everything that people do is chronicled, that is, provided what they do is odd or bad or big. Most of the things and acts that are good do not get into the paper.

Publicity is often a protection, a proof of fact or character. It was that law to which Paul appealed when in his argument before Agrippa he sent home this telling blow.

"This hath not been done in a corner." Christianity did not begin in secrecy. Its laws and leaders were known to all men. Every one had an opportunity to test the facts by his own senses and knowledge. "Nobody" was blindfolded when Christ was crucified, nor when he rose from the dead! The resources and authorities of the greatest empire then known were responsible for the fact of his death, and unable to disprove the fact of his resurrection. The facts of religion are public property. They can be seen, felt, tested, proved. They are not hidden "in a corner."

II. Obedience.

The child who has been taught to mind has learned one of the greatest and most valuable lessons of life. Teachers in our public schools tell us that many children have not learned how to obey. Why is it? Has the home failed? Or have we found something better than obedience?

Paul was justly proud of the fact that he had lived up to the highest light he had. How many men can say that? Can you? There was a stern background of hardship, and danger in Paul's Christian service, which gave tremendous meaning to his declaration. In spite of it all, he had obeyed! Shipwreck and stoning, stripes and scourgings, perils of every sort—these had not made him turn back!

When and how can we best inculcate such a spirit of obedience to duty? If it is fundamental to any real power and success, let us set ourselves sternly to practice it ourselves. Obedient to the "heavenly vision!" Have you thus lived for your vision? There are countless blessings which wait upon obedience.

"Trust and OBEY,
For there's no other way,
To be happy in Jesus,
But to trust and OBEY."

III. Enthusiasm in Religion.
People like enthusiasm in every-

There's Always a Reason Why

"How is it that Marguerite Clark always looks so bright and fresh upon the screen, whether she has been working all day in the hottest weather or under the most trying conditions?"

That is a question which many of her admirers have asked. The answer is simple enough. She is very particular about what she eats, and she never eats a large quantity of any one vegetable.

This picture shows her enjoying a frugal meal during the taking of some exterior scenes for the Famous Players-Paramount Picture "Little Lady Billeen." The repast consisted entirely of vegetables in one form or another, with a little pot of tea to finish it off. Miss Clark is very sparing in her diet and frequently does not touch food all day, claiming that it is the surest way to cure headaches and weariness.

The little leafy head-gear was fashioned for Miss Clark by Harry Lee, one of the members of her company, because the broiling hot sun was pouring down upon the diminutive star and threatened to completely obliterate her if she did not have some protection.

thing else: why should they criticize it in religion? Yet the moment a man or woman begins to be energetic in Christian work, or aggressive in personal service, somebody is sure to rise up and use such words as "fanatic," or "fool," or "crazy." The moment Paul became vigorous in his defense, Festus cries out with a loud voice, "Paul, thou art mad!" Today, Christians are denounced for lack of interest in the welfare of others, and when they show it they are called fanatical and foolish!

If I could have my choice I would a thousand times rather have enthusiasm, however misdirected, than indifference, however sober and reasonable. There is no steam in indifference. It furnishes no power. It drives no wheels. It hauls no loads. Give me a radiant enthusiasm and I will make the world sit up and take notice. Billy Sunday is right. Too many Christians are "in good and regular standing;" They never get anywhere. They will stand till doomsday without hitching! What we need are Christians who are "in good and regular" MOTION. We need men and women with Jesus Christ's passionate love for man; with Paul's passion for obedience; with Peter's passion for immediate action; with Martha's willingness to serve; with Daniel's love for prayer; with David's passion for a clean heart; with John the Baptist's fearless righteousness, applied everywhere, hewed to the line, "let the chips fall where they may!"

Household Hints

PUMPKIN DELICACIES.

Pumpkin Timbales—One cup stewed pumpkin; add to it the yolks of two eggs, a little salt and pepper and a little grated nutmeg. Then beat whites (beaten stiff) into this mixture and put in molds or custard cups. Bake twenty minutes. Serve plain or with a creamy sauce.

Pumpkin Fritters—Sift together one cup flour, one-half teaspoon salt, one teaspoon ginger, one and one-half teaspoons baking powder. Beat two eggs, add to one cup milk, then stir in one cup cooked pumpkin. Add this to dry ingredients so as to form a batter; beat light. Put in one tablespoon molasses or sugar. Bake as you would any griddle cakes.

Pumpkin Muffins—Sift together all dry ingredients; two cups flour, one-half teaspoon salt, two teaspoons baking powder. Beat two eggs and add two-thirds cup milk, then add one cup stewed pumpkin. Make a batter of it, then add one-fourth cup melted butter. Beat well and turn into greased pans. Bake twenty minutes.

CANNING AND PRESERVING.

Pepper Pickles—Cut the stem cap from green peppers, remove seeds, put peppers in strong salt water, let remain three or four days. Then chop cabbage and onion (one onion to each good head of cabbage) fine; put two tablespoons salt to each cabbage, mix well and let it drain for a short time to get rid of extra juice. Now put in two tablespoons sugar, mix well and stuff peppers with mixture. Shut your hand around the pepper pod and stuff it as full as you can—press the cabbage down hard; when full, tie a soft piece of cabbage leaf over top of pepper to keep cabbage in. Fill and pack peppers small end down in a crock, put a clean white cloth over peppers and a plate over the cloth, so pickles cannot float. Now cover with cold cider vinegar; keep them cool. They will be ready for use in two weeks. They are very fine and, if well filled, you can slice them round ways of the pepper when you serve them. Of course remove the piece of cabbage leaf when you serve them.

Delicious Jelly and Marmalade from a 15-cent basket of quinces—Wash quinces, cut out all imperfections and core but do not pare. Cut in small pieces, cover with cold water and boil until fruit is tender; drain in jelly bag over night. Do not squeeze bag, as the jelly will be clearer. Measure juice and boil ten minutes. Skim and add a little less than cup for cup of granulated sugar; boil until a little in a saucer will jelly—usually ten or fifteen minutes. This will make six glasses of beautiful, clear jelly. Now take contents of bag, add more cold water and boil until smooth, add the grated yellow rind and juice of three medium-sized oranges. Measure and add cup for cup of sugar and boil until desired thickness. This will make three pints and three glasses of marmalade.

THE TABLE.

Potato Soup—Three medium-sized potatoes; peel, boil and mash fine.

Fashion Notes for Fall

GREAT VARIETY OF STYLES.

The Fashion chronicler foresees no monotony in this season's attire for women. Styles are almost kaleidoscopic in their variety, while the summer craze for bright colors seems only to be "tempered" for the winter in America. Of course Parisiennes are wearing a great deal of black, and without the same cause, there will be a strong vogue of it for other than the garb of bereavement.

French models have developed some of the most artistic evening dresses in combinations of two or more colors of silk and with rich brocade in the same tones and having beaded garnitures. One of the choice Paris models, already shown in the American metropolises, is a combination of mole color tulle with a rich parrot blue tulle one over the other, forming a short skirt with a double box-pleated rucking at the foot, and four inches below the hips. The lines are wonderfully youthful and becoming. A very décolleté bodice with a V back is made of the metallic brocade, and it extends in the deep skirt yoke over which is an elaborate garniture in polished oval beads also of the tulle or mole tone.

Paris declares that all skirts are to be longer by comparison than recently, but house skirts threaten to rest upon the floor, and will be graceful when made of soft materials. Even a train, heralded by the Empire models of the past may appear. A decided innovation is a Paris black gown with the sides sweeping a little on the floor.

Suit skirts remain quite full, though Callot Soeurs in Paris have shown some narrower models that are certain to impress women who have not yet forgotten the comfort of the narrow plain trotteur skirt of the happy medium aspect.

One edict is that walking skirts shall be two inches longer or reaching the instep.

In attempting to solve the clothes enigma of the new season, one should start with the premise that yards and yards of material are to be used, though she may conclude that the total cost is high, with the prices of choice fabrics where they are today.

NO, THESE WOMEN AREN'T HAVING A QUARREL; IT'S JUST A MODERN DANCE.

Art dancers as Roman wrestlers.

One might imagine from the picture that the two women have had a quarrel over some love affair and are fighting it out in the back yard. Such is not the case. The girls are modern "art dancers" and as wrestlers are illustrating one of the old and complex Roman holds. For garments they have nothing but a sheer black modified gown. They dance barefooted.

ADVERTISING IS NOT ADVOCATING.

Inasmuch as considerable controversy seems to have arisen concerning the publication in this paper last week of paid advertising for the Home Rule League, the attention of the Record's friends is called to several facts, some of which are, perhaps unknown to the general public, and others which should be obvious especially to those engaged in business enterprises. First, as all newspaper men know, newspaper advertising is subject to certain laws which forbid discrimination between advertisers of any specified class. A paper has the right to refuse any entire class of advertising it chooses, but cannot legally decline, if offered, that of any part of any class already admitted to its pages. For instance, acceptance of any paid political matter opens the paper's columns to both sides on any political question. Thus it is readily seen that while the Record continues to display advertising matter for the advocacy of complete prohibition, it must, if required, also accept the opposition matter.

Next, the fact that advertising and advocacy are two distinct things should be readily recognized. The Record's stand in favor of the temperance question has been unqualified, as reference to its files will prove. Its position has been repeatedly set forth in its columns—but its advertising is a different matter. If every paper were obliged to advocate everything it advertised its position would be absurd. But a newspaper has to depend for its existence on anything except its subscription list. While it can discriminate as to the class of advertising it shall carry—as this paper has done in the matter of liquor and other questionable things at a loss of hundreds of dollars annually—no country paper can afford to eliminate all political advertising because "Home Rule" is a bad thing any more than the Christian merchant can refuse to sell his goods to the saloon keeper, or the church to throw out of its collection plate the coin dropped therein by the saloon keeper. Those things are not done, and for very good reasons. Once more, the policy of a paper on political, moral and ethical questions is denoted by its editorial columns and its special articles and not by its advertising pages.

The Record has for weeks been telling its readers, both editorially and otherwise, the evils of the Home Rule amendment, and will continue to do so. It must reserve the right to conduct its business policies as do other business institutions—according to its best judgment. The Record also feels that it has earned the right to the consideration of the local public in the matter of space-giving to all worthy institutions and enterprises.

THE NEWSPAPER AND THE ADVERTISER.

Some people do not seem to understand that a newspaper can't legitimately refuse to accept a class of advertising from one person and refuse to take it from another.

The advertising columns of the newspaper are its stock in trade, without which it could not exist. Newspapers are admitted through the mails practically free of charge and to accept advertising from one person and refuse it from another might lead to very unpleasant legal complications.

To those who have unpleasantly criticized the Record for publishing the "Home Rule" advertising, we call attention to the news and editorial columns which most emphatically support the state-wide prohibition movement and urge voters to vote no on the saloon subterfuge Home Rule propaganda. The owners, publishers and editors, of this paper are just as dry and just as much in favor of state-wide prohibition and will vote just as strong for that means and just as strong against the home rule affair as any other men in Northville. The Record has repeatedly refused all brewery ads which have been offered since Northville went dry, but this is an entirely different proposition.

The Rev. Mr. Sunday may be thoroughly up to date on the slang question, correct clothes and other modern improvements, but he is old-fashioned about some things. He refuses to eliminate the future place with the short and ugly name from his religious doctrine, and he draws the line at flying. A Saginaw committee, anxious to induce the famous preacher to visit that city, offered to send an aeroplane to take him there, but Mr. Sunday unequivocally declined to ride in any such contraption.

If there is ever a time when the least belligerent of mortals are ready and anxious to materialize the slogan "swat the fly," it is about now. It is impossible to imagine any thing in the world so exasperatingly provoking—and incidentally so conducive to profanity—as the October fly.

Judging from the way those 16,000 fellows at Sing Sing seemed to feel when they gathered around Thomas Mott Osborn the other day to bid him an affectionate good-bye, not one of 'em would give a darn whether they stay there or not now that he has gone.

Elucidation

"Now, Thomas," said the teacher, "can you more fully explain the adage, 'Old men for counsel and young men for war'?" "It means," replied Thomas, "that the old men do the quarrelling and then let the young men do the fighting."—Fun

Quiet and Safe

"Spends Quiet Day in Jail," observes a headline. One can be quiet in jail. There are no orchestras there that insist on playing in the palm room when one is trying to eat his dinner. And you can spend a whole day there without being in danger of being run over by a motorcycle.

England and Ireland.

"Erin-go-Bragh means 'Ireland for ever.'" The Royal Standard was adopted January 1, 1801, on the union of Ireland with Great Britain. The quarters were representative of the three countries: England, three castles on a red background in the first and fourth quarters; Scotland, a rampant lion in the second quarter; and Ireland, a golden harp on a green background, in the third quarter. The lion of Scotland was taken from the coat of arms of James VI.

Old Wine in New Bottles.

Dad (from the hall)—"Why, Marjorie, how dim the light is in here!" Ridicule.

It is an immense blessing to be perfectly callous to ridicule; or, which comes to the same thing, to be conscious thoroughly that what we have in us of noble and delicate is not ridiculous to any but fools, and that, if fools will laugh, wise men will do well to let them.—Doctor Arnold.

Met His Approval.

Passer-by (to farmer leaning on roadside fence)—"Do you approve of automobiles?" Farmer—"Sure! Why wouldn't I? Didn't I make over $50 clean cash haulin' 'em out of snow-drifts last winter!"

Contestants will remember that the prize for the winner of the ticket sale contest will be awarded this evening—the lucky young lady taking her choice between a diamond ring and a wrist watch.

W. R. C. NOTES.

The so-called Home Rule Amendment is a "wolf in sheep's clothing"

Editorial From the Detroit Evening News, a Neutral Paper.

It is an effort to hide the real issue. It is an attempt to confuse the voter by making it necessary to vote YES on PROHIBITION and NO on the so-called "home rule."

The saloons are so afraid that PROHIBITION WILL CARRY THE STATE that they have inserted this deceptive "home rule" amendment IN ORDER TO CONFUSE THE ISSUE!

But don't let it confuse YOU! Vote YES on PROHIBITION and NO on the brewer's "home rule" amendment!

Wayne County Dry Campaign Committee
39 Adams Ave. W., Detroit, Mich.

When it was proposed to make regulation more a matter of town council supervision than of merely high license, the liquor interests fought for the old high license. When it was proposed to give towns and counties the right to decide each for itself whether any saloons should exist in its borders, the liquor interests shrieked that liberty was in danger of being slain. But when county prohibition became a fact, and it was proposed to increase the unit to a state-size, then the liquor interests pleaded that there was never such a just and holy and equitable arrangement as the small unit.

That is a common occurrence all through the fight against the saloon in the United States. The liquor interests are always just one step behind the people. Professing to be satisfied with that which they fought before, if only people will not add any more to it, they have extolled the beneficence of that which before they condemned.

That is precisely what the liquor interests are pleading for in Michigan today. They cry now that the state-unit would mean slavery and ruin to Michigan, and a thousand other amazing things, and ask smaller units to decide for themselves.

ADVERTISING IS NOT ADVOCATING.

Inasmuch as considerable controversy seems to have arisen concerning the publication in this paper last week of paid advertising for the Home Rule League, the attention of the Record's friends is called to several facts, some of which are, perhaps, unknown to the general public, and others which should be obvious, especially to those engaged in business enterprises. First, as all newspaper men know, newspaper advertising is subject to certain laws which forbid discrimination between advertisers of any specified class. A paper has the right to refuse any entire class of advertising—it chooses, but cannot legally decline, if offered, that of any part of any class already admitted to its pages. For instance, acceptance of any paid political matter opens the paper's columns to both sides on any political question. Thus it is readily seen that while the Record continues to display advertising matter for the advocacy of complete prohibition, it must, if required, also accept the opposition matter.

Next, the fact that advertising and advocacy are two distinct things should be readily recognized. The Record's stand in favor of the temperance question has been unqualified, as reference to its files will prove. Its position has been repeatedly set forth in its columns, but its advertising is a different matter. If every paper were obliged to advocate everything it advertised its position would be absurd. But a newspaper has no depend for its existence on anything except its subscription list. While it can discriminate as to the class of advertising it shall carry—as this paper has done in the matter of liquor and other questionable things at a loss of hundreds of dollars annually—no country paper can afford to eliminate all political advertising because "Home Rule" is a bad thing, any more than the christian merchant can refuse to sell his goods to the saloon keeper, or the church to throw out of its collection plate the coin dropped therein by the saloon keeper.

Those things are not done and for very good reasons. Once more, the policy of a paper on political, moral and ethical questions is denoted by its editorial columns and its special articles and not by its advertising pages.

The Record has for weeks been telling its readers, both editorially and otherwise, the evils of the Home Rule amendment, and will continue to do so. It must reserve the right to conduct its business policies as do other business institutions—according to its best judgment. The Record also feels that it has earned the right to the consideration of the local public in the matter of space-giving to all worthy institutions and enterprises.

THE NEWSPAPER AND THE ADVERTISER.

Some people do not seem to understand that a newspaper can't legitimately refuse to accept a class of advertising from one person and refuse to take it from another.

The advertising columns of the newspaper are its stock in trade, without which it could not exist. Newspapers are admitted through the mails practically free of charge and to accept advertising from one person and refuse it from another might lead to very unpleasant legal complications.

To those who have unpleasantly criticised the Record for publishing the "Home Rule" advertising, we call attention to the news and editorial columns which most emphatically support the state-wide prohibition movement and urge voters to vote no on the saloon subterfuge Home Rule propaganda. The owners, publishers and editors, of this paper are just as dry and just as much in favor of state-wide prohibition and will vote just as strong for that means and just as strong against the home rule affair as any other men in Northville. The Record has repeatedly refused all brewery ads which have been offered since Northville went dry, but this is an entirely different proposition.

The Rev Mr. Sunday may be thoroughly up to date on the slang question, correct clothes and other modern improvements, but he is old-fashioned about some things. He refuses to eliminate the future place with the short and ugly name from his religious doctrine, and he draws the line at flying. A Saginaw committee anxious to induce the famous preacher to visit that city, offered to send an aeroplane to take him there, but Mr. Sunday unequivocally declined to ride in any such contraption.

If there is ever a time when the least belligerent of mortals are ready and anxious to materialize the slogan "swat the fly," it is about now. It is impossible to imagine any of the world so execrably profane—and incidentally so condoning profanity—as the October fly.

Judging from the way those fellows at Sing Sing seemed when they gathered around Mott Osborn the other day to an affectionate good-bye, not even Mott would give a darn whether they stay there or not now that he is gone.

WEEKLY CALENDAR.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH NOTES.

(By the Pastor.)
Next Sunday is to be observed as Young Men's Day. Morning service at 10 o'clock. Subject: "The Conservation and Development of Youth." It is the plan to have the various young people's organizations attend the service in a body. The central section of the church will be reserved for them. The Guilds and the young people's Sunday school classes are requested to meet in the church parlors promptly at 9:45. Young people not affiliated elsewhere will find a hearty welcome. Let each one, young and old, make this meeting a success.

Sunday school at 11:30. The session of Sunday school will be but a continuation of the service preceding so it is expected that all will remain.

Children's service at 2:30. This meeting is to be led by Miss Gamill of the Sunday Evangelistic party. Miss Gamill is an expert in this line. Her methods are sane and helpful. Her message will have a wholesome effect upon all who hear her.

Christian Endeavor meeting at 6:00 o'clock. Because of the special emphasis of the day there should be a large attendance at this meeting.

Evening service at 7:00 o'clock. Subject: "Wilson, Hughes or Hanley—Which Deserves Our Vote." Last Sunday was observed in many churches as Citizenship Day, but owing to our special services of last Sunday, the evening service will be devoted to the interests of better citizenship. The sermon will be devoted to a consideration of the conditions and principles which should determine the vote of the honest citizen. Every man who has or has not decided how he is to vote at the coming election, will be interested in the discussion of Sunday evening

Members of the church and congregation are urged to co-operate in making the services of the day count mightily for the good of all.

Will the ladies of the congregation who wish to make contributions for the Missionary barrels please leave them at the home of Mrs L E MacRae at their earliest convenience

BAPTIST CHURCH NOTES.

Only two more Sundays before we enter upon the third year of the pastor's work with this church. Some have not yet heard the pastor. You don't even know how your church is prospering, but we are glad to have your name on our records for the dignity it gives to the institution

Don't forget the mass meeting at the M E. church Sunday afternoon at 2:30 for young people and children. This meeting will be in charge of Miss Gamill and Miss Black. Every boy and girl should be present.

Our topic for Sunday evening will be announced from the pulpit

The Excelsior class of our church will give a Halloween box social in the church parlors Tuesday evening, October 31

Miss Gamill has charge of all the children's work in connection with the great Sunday campaign in Detroit, and while her address will be especially for children and young people under 16 years of age, everybody is invited. Let us again fill the church next Sunday afternoon.
