NEARLY MILLION DOLLARS DEPOSIT

NORTHVILLE'S TWO BANKS SHOW
LARGEST ASSETS AND DE-POSITS IN HISTORY.

COMBINED DEPOSITS OF $900,088,
WITH ASSETS AT $987,046, SHOW-ING PROSPERITY HERE AS ELSEWHERE.

The two Northville banks, Lapham State and Northville State, are publishing their statements this week in accordance with the call of the State Bank commissioner under date of Nov. 17, and they show an interesting lot of figures.

The combined deposits of the two banks are $900,088, almost a million dollars. The total assets, or footings, show $987,046.

Of course, that wouldn't mean much to the Henry Ford Automobile company where in the millions are as common as a Ford auto on a country road, but to Northville people it will undoubtedly appear of unusual interest.

PRETTY LITTLE PARK AT PRESENT UNUSED

SUGGESTION IS MADE THAT FINE
GROVE NEAR OAKWOOD CEMETERY BE UTILIZED.

It has been suggested to the Record by several persons that the beautiful maple grove east of Oakwood cemetery on Cady street could, at small expense, be converted into a pretty park for the use of the public, instead of being unused except when the school children may happen to play there. It is pointed out that, with a fence to separate the grove definitely from the burial ground no one need object to the proximity, since, in the summer, when the park would be used, the cemetery is beautifully kept and is very pretty in itself with its abundance of trees, flowers and grass. Those who have taken the pains to look the matter up say that seats, and a platform would make the place an ideal one for the holding of memorial day services and other public gatherings, also that by the removal of a few trees from the center of the grove it would be a most delightful location for the Chautauqua tent next summer, with plenty of cooling shade and ample roadside space for parking automobiles, and more than this, its central location and easy accessibility from every direction. It has for many years been considered a pity that so fine a grove belonging to the village should not be made useful as well as merely ornamental.

NOVI REPUBLICAN TICKET, 1878.

C E Goodell of Novi recently discovered among his papers a Republican ticket of that township 38 years old. As an example of the changes time brings, the fact is noted that of the twelve men whose names made up the list of township officers, but three are now living—David Gage of this place, Mortimer Phelps of Bloomfield township and Frank Erwin of Commerce township. The ticket runs as follows: For Supervisor, Geo Yerkes; Township clerk, Oscar M Whipple; Treasurer, Daniel Dunham; Justice, Chas. Seeley; Superintendent of Schools, David Gage; School Inspector, Frank Erwin; Drain Commissioner, Daniel Johnson; Highway Commissioner, Chas. Ranous; Constables, Daniel Dunham, Adelbert Whipple, Benjamin Munshaw and Mortimer Phelps.

GARRICK THEATRE, DETROIT.

Coming to the Garrick theatre, Detroit, next Monday evening for a week's engagement, including a special matinee on Thanksgiving day, will be that dainty musical comedy success, "The Girl From Brazil," which the Messrs. Shubert will present direct from its successful run at the 44th street theatre, New York, where it was conceded to be the greatest musical comedy hit of the past few years. This musical comedy, which is beautifully dressed and provided with an extraordinary cast of principals, is in three acts, the first two located in Stockholm and the last two in Rio Janeiro.

The excellent cast includes Frances Demarest, Dorothy Maynard, Maude Odell, Nora White, Dorothy Wahl, George Hassell, Hal Forde, Louis A. Simon, John H. Goldsworthy, Stuart Jackson, Richard Temple, Betty Brown, and a comely chorus of fifty.

LOSES HIS RIGHT HAND.

Bert Wilkinson, Superintendent of the Electric Light and Waterworks department at Ovid, Mich., who was so terribly injured by contact with a live wire a few weeks ago, has been obliged to suffer the amputation of his right hand, all except the little finger. He was otherwise badly burned, and narrowly escaped death, but is now convalescent, of which his many Northville friends will be very glad, while also sympathizing with him in his misfortune.

AFTER THE VINEGAR-FAKERS.

The State Dairy and Food department is now out on the trail of the makers of alleged "cider vinegar" and it is intended that the manufacturers of the real article shall have a chance to again put their product on the market, according to bulletin 54, just issued, a part of which is as follows:

"The various states outside of Michigan windfall apples are dried in factories," the dairy and food commissioner says. "The wastes or cores, peelings and worms are also dried and shipped to so-called vinegar factories. The waste is allowed to ferment and rot in a hot room."

"The rotten part gives the color of cider." The rotten mass is then mixed with water and pressed. The resulting juice is fermented, barreled and labeled "Pure Vinegar," and can be sold so cheap that it has driven legitimate cider vinegar, made from fresh apple juice, nearly out of the market.

"Although Michigan is the second state in the union in apple production, and could supply her entire wants and that of other states, thousands of barrels of cider apples lie rotting on the ground because of the unfair competition of this imitation vinegar."

The dairy and food department has seized several hundred barrels of this vinegar and the sale of the adulterated product as vinegar will not be permitted. Dealers will be prosecuted for selling it, and to protect honest dealers and jobbers the department will furnish them with the names of all manufacturers making the imitation product.

Auction Sale.

Harry Clark is to have a big sale of 80 Holstein cattle, 65 registered, also horses, hogs, farm tools, milking machine, gasoline engine etc., on his farm three miles west of town on the Base Line Tuesday, Nov 28. The sale begins at 9 o'clock a m, and lunch will be served at noon. Three of the best known auctioneers of this part of the country have been secured—Harry C. Robinson, Frank J. Boyle and L. W. Lovevell. D U R cars will be met from 9 to 12 o'clock at the waiting room.

HARVEST OF GOLD FOR FARMERS AS VEGETABLES SOAR

Never before in the history of the country have vegetables been so dear. This is especially true of potatoes and cauliflowers, with the result that farmers are reaping a golden harvest. In the picture at the top is shown the auctioning of cauliflower at Riverhead, L. I., while the lower picture shows the potatoes being shipped to various points. The farmer is a happy person, of course, but the housewives are panic-stricken over the high prices and it is predicted that these prices will continue to soar.

HOW TO MAKE POTATO BREAD

GOVERNMENT BAKING SPECIALISTS GIVE RECIPES TRIED IN SCIENTIFIC TESTS

SAID TO KEEP FRESH LONGER

Economical Value Even When Relative Cost of Potatoes and Flour Is Same.

Washington.—In localities where there is a surplus of potatoes, or they are very cheap, potato bread costs less to make than all flour bread, say the baking specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture, in a bulletin just issued, which tells how to make potato bread and rolls. It suggests that an excellent way to utilize cull potatoes is to make them into bread, and states that, even when the relative market prices of potatoes and flour are such that there is no economy in substituting potato for flour, the individual flavor and keeping quality of potato bread make it desirable as a variant in the family diet.

Potato and flour bread compounded according to the department's recipes is said to have a rich brown crust, a tender and elastic crumb, an appetizing odor, and a very agreeable taste, which is said to be preferred by many to that of bread made wholly from flour. When made according to the directions given by the department, potato bread is said to contain more mineral matter, fiber and moisture, but otherwise, in composition and nutritive value, to be practically the same as ordinary bread. Its higher moisture content is declared to keep it fresh several days longer than ordinary bread.

The following methods for making potato bread are recommended:

Potato bread—straight dough method—for four one-pound loaves.

Three pounds of boiled and peeled potatoes

Two and one-quarter pounds of good bread flour

Three level tablespoonfuls of sugar

One and one-half level tablespoonfuls of salt

Two cakes of compressed yeast

Four tablespoonfuls of lukewarm water.

Wash thoroughly and boil in their skins about 12 potatoes of medium size. Cook them until they are very tender. Drain, peel and mash them while hot being careful to leave no lumps. Allow the mashed potato to cool to 86 degrees Fahrenheit, or until lukewarm. To three pounds (five solidly packed half-pint cups) of the mashed potato add the yeast, which has been rubbed smooth in a cup with three tablespoonfuls of lukewarm water. To get all the yeast rise the cup with the remaining tablespoonful of water and add this also to the potato. Next add the salt, the sugar and about four ounces of flour (one scant half pint of sifted flour). Mix thoroughly with the hand but do not add any more water at this stage.

Cover the mixing bowl to avoid the formation of a crust on top and place out of the way of drafts to rise, where the temperature can not fall below 80 degrees Fahrenheit or much higher than 88 degrees. Where the thermometer has no thermometer, she should see that the dough in the rising is kept moderately warm, but not up to blood heat. Any water used in mixing the dough should be made ately warm, but by no means hot. This sponge, if kept at the proper temperature, should, after two hours, become quite light

To this well-risen sponge, which now will be found to be quite soft, add the remainder of the flour, kneading thoroughly until a smooth and elastic dough has been formed. The dough must be very stiff, since the boiled potato contains a large amount of water which causes the dough to soften as it rises. Do not add water to the dough unless it is absolutely necessary to work in the flour. Set the dough back to rise again—temperature at about 86 degrees Fahrenheit, until it has trebled in volume, which will require another hour or two. Then divide the dough into four approximately equal parts, reserving a tiny lump weighing two or three ounces for an "indicator." Shape the sample into a ball and press it into the bottom of a small tumbler with straight sides. The glass should be slightly warmed. Mold the four portions into loaves and place in greased pans which have been slightly warmed. Place the glass containing the "indicator" beside the pans and let all rise, under proper temperature, until the "indicator" shows that it has doubled in volume. Then place the loaves in the oven and bake in a good, steady heat (400 to 425 degrees Fahrenheit) for 45 minutes.

To test the oven. Where no oven thermometer is at hand, a convenient test will be to put a teaspoonful of flour in an earthen dish in the oven. If this flour becomes light brown evenly throughout in 5 minutes' time, the oven is right for bread-baking. If the flour scorches in that time, the oven is too hot.

DELICIOUS SCENT

No scent is more delicious for the linen chest than dried sweet clover flowers.

Remember this on your next expedition to the country.

Tie the dried clover in cheesecloth bags and spread these between the layers of bed or table linen.

If one has ceased to care for lavender or sweet clover for the household linen, use the dried leaves or even the fresh branches of lemon verbena.

It is strangely sweet and wonderfully pungent and quite reminds one of grandmother's linen chest.

LATEST STYLE ARRIVALS

Some Interesting News for Ladies Who Seek the Newer, Better Winter Garments.

The ladies of this vicinity will be pleased to learn that Mr. O. Smith, the manager of the Michael Leo Store, in Toledo has just returned from the east, where he purchased heavily of the finest garments in the market. Mr. Smith knows just what the ladies desire most and this big purchase embraces all sizes both for slender and stout figures, the cleverest suits and coats imaginable, and the prices are as usual, very popular. The Michael Leo store at 22-227 Summit street, Toledo is one of a class of fine great stores and this big saving power makes it possible to save ladies a substantial sum on all garments. Every attention is paid to those from out of the city and this display of new arrivals will be worth coming miles to select from.

U. S. At Farmer's Show

Government Asks for Nearly Third of Space at Land Products Exposition in Toledo.

The United States government desires nearly a third of the exhibit space of the land show in Terminal Auditorium, December 4 to 16.

The department of agriculture has asked for more than 3,000 square feet of space.

The government plans an exhibit equal to that at the Panama Exposition.

It is unlikely the full allotment of space asked by the department of agriculture will be given. The space will be arranged so the full government exhibit can be shown to good advantage.

The government has the finest exhibit of road making machinery probably ever shown. A number of miniature figures of men, horses, tractors and wagons operated by electricity, making the various roads the government suggests for rural communities will be shown.

There will be a wealth of other exhibits from the experiment station at Wooster with exhibits from its county fairs; Michigan and the Lucas county commissioners also will have exhibits. The latter exhibit will show good roads, the care given tuberculosis patients in the county hospital; products from the county farm and other work.

Many county superintendents in Ohio have promised to have exhibits of work from rural school pupils. A like exhibit will come from southern Michigan.

Toledo Jovians are going to get back of the big electrical show, to be held at Toledo's monster Terminal auditorium from December 4 to 16, in conjunction with the Land Show.

Things electrical will be exploited in a novel manner, and the exhibit will be so instructive as to really be educational as well as fascinating and novel.

Special arrangements are being made by all transportation lines entering Toledo to take care of the immense throngs that will pour into Toledo from the rural districts, from miles around. It will be the biggest "farmer event" in the history of the state and no one should miss the many treats in store. The dates will be December 4th to December 16th at the Terminal Building on Cherry street. Something unusual doing every minute of the time.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Comments By
Rev. Ernest Bourrier Allen, D. D.
Pastor of the Washington Street Congregational Church and the Marion Lawrence Sunday School,
Toledo, Ohio.

LESSON FOR NOVEMBER 26th
Lesson Title: "A Living Sacrifice."
Lesson Text: Rom. 12: 1-8. Memorize vs. 6-8.

Golden Text: "Present your bodies a living sacrifice, holy, acceptable to God, which is your spiritual service." Rom. 12:1.

I. "A Living Sacrifice"
Paul urges his brethren "by the mercies of God" to present their bodies "a living sacrifice, holy, acceptable unto God." This he regards as a "reasonable" sacrifice, or worship. The mercies of God ought to impel every man to more sacrifice. What is sacrifice? How is it recognized? How is it displayed? What proof is there that the spirit of sacrifice is increasing in the world? Are you showing more of it in your own life than you used to? Is there more of it in your church than there used to be?

What is your ideal of sacrifice? I have two ideals of sacrifice which constantly recur to me. The first is that of my own mother, supplemented by what I have seen of hundreds of other mothers in the world. I do not know of any person who gives up more, or does it more willingly, or does it more constantly than a mother! Do you?

My other ideal of sacrifice is Jesus Christ. His spirit grows upon me the longer I consider it. I think any man will be transformed who will make it the habit of his life to think of the sacrifice of Jesus Christ a little while every day. Some other things will grow out of this, of course, but I am speaking of this one result now. I dare challenge any man to study the spirit and service of Jesus Christ with open mind!

II. "The Mercies of God."

What are "the mercies of God?" Suppose you make a list of them during this Thanksgiving season. What spirit of gratitude do they stir in your heart? Particularly what revelation do they make of God's character? Our English ancestors often had a very exalted and yet a very judicial idea of God. He was a great Judge who sat upon the throne. He was holiness personified. They bowed their heads to him with fear and reverence. Today we are emphasizing the love of God. We think of him as a Great Father who loves his children. We lay emphasis upon the traits of a noble fatherhood in trying to understand his character. He is something more than a good-natured Person, of course, even if he does love the children of men.

"The mercies of God" ought to make a strong appeal to us.

III. "Fashioned According to This World."

There is an old axiom, accepted by a great many people, which runs like this: "Better be out of the world than out of fashion." Perhaps you may think it is not true, but I believe Paul was very anxious to be from "the world!" For our fashions in dress we have long been accustomed to go to Paris and London. For our fashions in morals we go almost anywhere. Where is the world's moral fashion center? Where is your own moral fashion center? Do you change your moral fashions every year, or at the con-

Winsome Marguerite

Marguerite Clark, Famous Player
Star in Paramount Pictures.

A hundred and one offers swarmed upon Marguerite Clark, asking her to leave motion pictures and return to the stage. She has spurned them and set them aside, maintaining "I am bringing more joy to many more millions of hearts through Paramount Pictures than I could ever do otherwise. Why shouldn't I be happy when I make so many more people happy? That's my secret of happiness."

NOTED AMERICAN AIDING VICTIMS OF FRANCE

Miss Anne Morgan, daughter of the late J. Pierpont Morgan, has recently returned from France, where she did noble work aiding stricken soldiers and families. Miss Morgan is known throughout the world for her work among the suffering.

venience of the moment? It is mighty expensive "changing one's morals frequently!" It is far easier to have certain standards and stay by them. The world's standard is impossible for the Christian. Once that is firmly fixed in his life and purpose a great many problems are solved. "Think Soberly."

Paul advises men to "think soberly" about themselves. We are apt to excuse ourselves for our failures and to judge ourselves rather sharply and severe. Why should we use different standards of measurement for ourselves and others? Suppose we try fitting upon ourselves the standard which we apply so rigorously to others. Let us measure ourselves by the high standards set by Jesus Christ.

New Feminine Frills

MANY USES FOR RIBBON

Each and every period of style of fashion for many years past and up to the present time has demanded and used ribbons more or less in numerous ways, not only for decorations but often as articles of absolute necessity. All well-dressed women from the cradle up have ribbon bindings and bandings on some portion of their wearing apparel or use it as a decorative garniture. The same may be said in regard to the use of ribbon in the home of every person who has an eye for the artistic and beautiful. There is, in all probability, no woven material that is so universally and elaborately used or enters into the makeup of so many different articles worn by women.

Various Ribbons for Various Ages.
Before the babe is ushered into the world the fond mother places little bows and bands upon the layette and the trousseau of the infant is made more pleasing to the eye by having touches of ribbon placed here and there, harmonizing with the little dresses and adding much to their dainty appearance. Tiny slips or dresses with eyelets worked in at intervals around the opening at the neck have narrow ribbon drawn through in order to tighten the dress or draw it closer together at the top. Ribbons are used to tie the bottom of the sleeves around the wrists and are also interwoven in the booties to prevent them from slipping down. Little undergarments are fastened with flat bows of the same ribbon and the ties of the baby's bonnet are made of the softest ribbons to hold the hood snugly to the head.

As the child grows older, small bows are placed on the shoulder, and narrow sashes with flat bows at the neck are worn, while ribbons tie and hold the hair in place. By the time that the child is ready for school wider widths are used for these purposes.

Ribbons are extensively used in corset covers, different pieces of lingerie, all kinds of undergarments, shoe laces, bows for slippers, headdresses, neckbands and many other articles of wearing apparel so necessary to the well-dressed young lady. Grandma also is frequently seen with a bow at the throat and another bow of ribbon at the top of the head as the hair becomes thin.

Muffs of fur, silk, velvet, plush or other materials are often ornamented with bows or flowers made of the ribbon.

It is a well-known fact that almost every garniture used to trim a hat can be imitated by the use of ribbon because of its wonderful adaptability and the ease with which it may be substituted for certain articles restricted by law.

(Dresses Her Hobby)

Fannie Ward, Lasky Star in Paramount Pictures.

"Of all things on earth, dress comes first with Fannie Ward. Never does a week pass that she does not design a new one for herself, and her critic or all such affairs is her own husband, Jack Dean, who is quite an authority on the question now. Passing on more than 50 designs each year would actually make him so.

There is a decided preference shown for hand bags made of wide ribbon fashioned into fancy reticules to match the gown or coat and carried for the convenience of holding a handkerchief and purse. One usually finds several such in every well-planned wardrobe.

When it comes to making gifts at Christmas time, or in fact at any time of the year, ribbon is first and foremost in the minds of the designers. Pin cushions, pen wipers, suit holders, skirt holders, lamp shades, glove boxes, powder boxes, hair receivers, letter holders, sachet bags, boudoir slippers and caps, sofa pillows, combing jackets, dressing jackets, vanity bags, needle cases, work boxes, handkerchief boxes, crochet bags, and a thousand and one other things can be made of ribbons of different widths.

The Table.

Cuban Stew—Four pounds mutton, one cup olive oil, one can tomatoes, eight medium-sized onions, one can pear, one can mushrooms, eight good-sized potatoes, tablespoon salt and pinch of pepper. Put olive oil in bottom of kettle, add tomatoes and onions sliced, then mutton cut in pieces large enough to serve, then salt and pepper. Cover closely and simmer three hours. Then add potatoes cut in halves, and when they are cooked, add peas and mushrooms, both drained from liquor in the cans. When peas and mushrooms have been heated, thicken the whole and serve.

Dinner Omelet—One and one-half pounds round steak, one pound lean pork, one bunch celery one cup cracker crumbs. Put all through food grinder; add one pint tomatoes, one egg, one cup milk, salt and pepper to taste. Bake in baking dish.

Divinity Fudge—Beat the whites of three eggs. Now boil three cups of sugar, one-half cup water and one cup corn syrup till it forms a soft ball. Pour half into the beaten egg. Boil the other half until brittle, pour in with rest and stir. This makes a delicious candy.

Veal Fricassee—One pound of veal from forequarter, cut in small pieces; brown in savory dripping until well seared and browned. Cover with cold water. Cook slowly until tender. Season to taste. Thicken gravy and pour into casserole or baking dish. Make biscuit of one pint flour, three teaspoons baking powder, salt, two tablespoons lard, enough water or milk to make a soft dough. Cut into small biscuits and drop into the boiling hot gravy. Set in the oven and bake until a nice brown (about a half hour).

WOMAN MOTORISTS DRIVE OFF WOLVES

Their Only Weapons Were Firebrands and Hatchet—An All night Battle.

Seattle, Wash.—Forced to use firebrands, their only weapon aside from a hatchet, to drive away the timber wolves and coyotes that surrounded their machine at night, three Seattle women found excitement aplenty on the last leg of an 8,000 automobile journey across the continent.

The women, Miss Leola May Blinn, her mother, Mrs. Sarah Blinn, aged 70, and Mrs. Charles S. Davis, traveled alone, without even a gun to protect themselves. They slept out in the open. Miss Blinn's automobile being converted at night into a sleeping car.

"It was when we got stuck in eastern Washington that we suffered our most harrowing experience," said Miss Blinn, describing the events of the journey. "We had just been ferried across the river at Walla Walla to Wallula where we ran into poor roads. From there to North Yakima we had a terrible time. We managed the difficult sand piles that served for roads until we were making a forced detour around the 'Old Horn,' a bend in the Columbia River. Then we got stuck in the sand.

"We were miles from nowhere. Night came on. We had trouble with our battery and could not switch on the electric lights. We could not go ahead nor could we go back. While we sat there the coyotes and timber wolves came. We had no gun. There was nothing but a hatchet.

"We had built a fire, however, with the sage brush that was near, and with the firebrands were able to keep them off. The coyotes were afflicted with rabies, the weather having been very hot, and the wolves came right up to the machine and almost put their noses inside. We stayed up all night. Early the next morning I started out for gas station. While I was away Mrs. Davis had to use firebrands again to keep off the coyotes who had reappeared. Then she became anxious for my safety, not knowing whether I would be able to find assistance or not. I was able, however, to arouse two white men in a town a mile or so, and with their help we got out of the North Yakima 'ts.'"

Little Brother.

Miss Boss was a settlement worker and one day she called at the home of the Thompsons. She found no one at home but a girl of 12 and a small brother. After talking with the little mother a few moments, she said:

"And does your little brother help you at all? What does he do all day?" The little girl gave her younger brother a proud glance, and said: "Say, kid, smoke a cigarette fer de lady an' swallow de stub!"

Mock Mince Pie—One-half cup molasses two-thirds cup water, two-thirds cup vinegar, one cup sugar, one cup bread crumbs, one cup chopped raisins, one tablespoon cloves, one tablespoon cinnamon, one nutmeg grated, butter size of an egg. Mix this and put it on stove to heat thoroughly, stirring often. Bake with two crusts.

This Gift Will Grow In Value

The usual Christmas gift is lost to the employee or friend. It is something that will deteriorate wear out or be destroyed. By next Christmas or the one after that it is gone and forgotten. It's different with a gift of a few shares of stock, which will grow more valuable each year and for years to come. That kind of gift cannot be forgotten.

A father may well buy a few shares of Harroun Motors Corporation stock as a gift to his son. It may be a "nest-egg" for the young man's future.

A husband who gives his wife a block of Harroun stock is presenting her with something which may be an anchor to windward "in case something happens."

An employer who gives shares of Harroun stock to his faithful and trusted employees is giving them something which will become more valuable and which they will appreciate longer than the ordinary gift. And so it applies to friends, relatives and in fact, everybody alike.

Buy Harroun Stock NOW
at $5.50 "Par Value $10.00 Per Share"

It isn't often that a good stock is sold at a price that makes it available for gift purposes

The price will go up within a short time

Buy now at the present price

HARROUN stock is not a doubtful proposition. It is stock in a sound automobile manufacturing combination in the automobile industry.

This is your opportunity. Be in time to have the Equitable Trust Company of New York register the stock for your Christmas presentation.

Make a Christmas present to yourself by buying HARROUN stock now and putting it away. You can use the profits to finance your Christmas shopping next year.

WE WILL BE PLEASED TO FURNISH COMPANY'S APPLICATION.

Be Practical This Christmas

We have made special arrangements to secure the Ad Interim Certificates and provide all details in connection with the delivery of same in the manner and time required by the purchaser. Orders by wire, at present price, subject to allotment will be received by us up to 5 p. m. Monday, Nov. 26, 1916.

The Northville Record.

Published by
NEAL PRINTING CO.
F. S. NEAL, Owner.
J. W. PERKINS, Manager.

An Independent Newspaper published every Friday morning by the Neal Printing Co. at Northville, Michigan, and entered at the Northville Post-office as Second-Class matter.

NORTHVILLE, MICH., NOV. 24, 1916.

It is now asserted by the European authorities on the subject of agricultural supplies that it will be necessary for the entire world to economize in the use of food. This is a case where a reversal of the usual would be very desirable—from the viewpoint of the class that is generally obliged by circumstances to practice that sort of economy. If a whole lot of folks in the plutocratic stratum of society would go in for a drastic reform in the eating and wasting line it would solve the problem. The only industry that would really suffer from such a movement would be the "anti-fat" business.

A little old man drove into Oxford on Saturday in a little old wagon to which was attached a little old horse. In the little old wobble wheeled wagon that looked as if it would collapse any minute, were a few bags of beans for which the little old man received $77 which fact proves the saying that appearances are deceiving. The entire outfit was not nearly worth what was received for the beans. Town Corners Cor., Orion Review. That last sentence is a pretty bad slam on the "little old man" but he probably feels so good about his bean crop that he won't mind.

There has been a great deal of complaint all along the past few generations that the farmer has always been the under dog in the dealings in his line of progress, but according to recent report the down-trodden agriculturalist is learning very fast. Allegations are made and strong enough at that to provoke a federal investigation that western farmers have "knowingly concealed at least 25 percent of the yield" of their labors and are holding on for still higher prices.

Two prisoners dug out of the deep dark dungeons (merely alliteratively so) of Pontiac jail recently and made their getaway while a third was nabbed in the act. Even if one ever so law-abiding theoretically, one feels a sort of sneaking sympathy for the fellow who helped do all the hard work of digging and then lost his labor by happening to let the other two precede him through the temporary door. Such is fate.

Remember when the topic of the day was "Covey's Army"? It will be interesting to those who do recollect the affair to know that the same Covey also ran for U. S. senator in Ohio this fall on an independent ticket. He is said to be very wealthy, and as "queer" as when he led his "army" of hoboes to Washington 21 years ago and was arrested for not "keeping off the grass" at the capitol.

A fraternal organization at Pontiac is announced as having instituted a "series of close parties." Never heard of parties of that name before but we are sure from the society giving them that the designation hasn't anything to do with the recent adoption of a certain amendment.

In sincere friendship the Record advises any of its readers who have any freight cars tucked away, anywhere, to produce 'em at once and avoid trouble. The Interstate Commerce Commission is getting mad and preparing to take drastic action on the coal car situation.

Another thing that furnishes material for the newspaper reporters when winter sets in is the apathy business. Casualties along this line almost equal the number of hunting accidents, and the season for the former is longer.

"Potatoes are 35 cents a bushel" says an item in the Detroit Courier—but alas! it is an extract from the Courier's files of 23 years ago. We are now thoroughly convinced that 23 is an unlucky number.

According to the latest statistics, Michigan's birth rate during the past what-ever-it-was-period, was double the death rate. Probably another conspiracy somewhere to still further unsettle the balance between supply and demand in the food production line.

LIVE STOCK PRODUCTION AND THE STOCK SHOW.

If public interest in the International Live Stock Exposition was ever justified, this is the moment. Not only is commercial live stock production profitable to an unprecedented degree, but the task of rehabilitating the industry must be vigorously prosecuted if the nation is to be assured of an adequate supply of meat.

Improvement of live stock is the need of the hour. As cost of production increases, breeders and feeders cannot achieve maximum results with the inferior and mediocre grades of cattle that constitute too large a percentage of the stuff now reaching market.

It is an accepted axiom that the profit is in the gain. It corresponds with the motto of Transportation Specialists that the money is in the straps, meaning passengers who are not furnished seats.

Profit in handling scrub line stock is questionable and possible only during periods of abnormally high prices. If cattle raising is to be placed on a permanently stable basis, the present system must be abandoned.

The management of the International Live Stock Exposition is exploiting an idea that is slowly gaining ground. Education is a proverbially slow process and progress is attained only by persistent endeavor. To insure maximum profits at minimum cost in the sphere of meat production is the mission of the International Live Stock Exposition. That mission is primarily designed to benefit the producer, incidentally it will work to the advantage of the carrier, the manufacturer and the consumer, consequently its success is desirable from many angles.

From a utilitarian standpoint the International Live Stock Exposition which will this year be held from December 2 to 9, stands in the front rank of the World's educational institutions and no farmer or stockman can afford to stay away.

WHITE DEER KILLED.

The Michigan game department is now in possession of one of the real freaks in animal life, a perfect albino deer.

The deer was shot in Schoolcraft county by L. W. Haynes, a Lansing hunter. He gave the hide and head to the state for exhibition purposes. The animal is a perfect specimen of the albino type.

There is not a single blemish on the white hide. The deer will be mounted and used by the state whenever calls are made for specimens of the animal life of the state.

The deer will be kept at the game commissioner's headquarters in Lansing.—Pontiac Press-Gazette.

MORTGAGE SALE.

Default having been made in the payment of principal and interest on a certain mortgage made by George A. Taylor and Lydia E. Taylor of Plymouth, Michigan, to Donald P. Yerkes of Northville, Michigan, dated the eighteenth day of December, 1915, and recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds of Wayne county, Michigan, on the twenty-seventh day of December, 1915, in Liber 766 of Mortgages, on page 268, and the same having remained unpaid for a period of more than thirty days after it became due and payable, the said mortgagee hereby exercises his option given by said mortgage and declares the principal sum of said mortgage together with all interest unpaid at this date to be due and payable immediately.

There is now claimed to be due and payable on said mortgage for principal and interest the sum of five hundred ninety-one dollars and twenty-six cents ($591.26), and no proceedings having been taken in law or equity to recover the same or any part thereof, notice is hereby given that by virtue of the power of sale in said mortgage contained and the statutes of such cause made and provided, the undersigned will sell at public auction to the highest bidder at the southerly, or Congress street entrance to the Wayne county building in the City of Detroit, Wayne county, Michigan, on Monday, the eleventh day of December, 1916, at twelve o'clock noon, Eastern standard time.

The premises described in said mortgage which will be sold to the aforesaid, described as being located in the Village of Plymouth, Wayne county, Michigan, described as—

Commencing at a point about one and one-half (1 1/2) rods south of the stake in the center of Sutton street, which stake is nine (9) rods, three (3) feet and four (4) inches westerly from a stone at the intersection of Sutton and Main streets in said village and running thence southerly to the north line of land formerly owned by Thomas P. May, now deceased; thence westerly along the north line of said Thomas P. May's land ten (10) feet; thence northerly to a point in Sutton street west of the point of commencement; thence easterly ten (10) feet along Sutton street to the place of beginning.

Also land in the Village of Plymouth described as commencing at the northwest corner of land heretofore conveyed to Henry Dohmstreich by deed dated November 11, 1889, and recorded in Liber 320 of Deeds at page 262, Wayne county Records, and later owned by Caroline Weber, and running thence, that is from said point of commencement westerly along the middle of Sutton street ten (10) feet; thence southerly in a direct line parallel with the west line of land so as aforesaid owned by Caroline Weber, one hundred (100) feet more or less, to land formerly owned by Thomas P. May, Jr., and later by Kate E. Penniman; thence easterly and along the north line of said land so owned by said Kate E. Penniman ten (10) feet to the southwest corner of said land formerly owned by said Caroline Weber; thence northerly along the west line of said land owned by said Caroline Weber one hundred (100) feet and to the place of beginning, containing three and three-fourths (3 3/4) square rods of land, more or less.

Dated, September 11, 1916.

Speaking of "freak" election bets, even so intelligent a gentleman as Hon. A. J. Sawyer only escaped giving a friend a conspicuous wheelbarrow ride by nearly getting killed in an accident, and he probably preferred the smash-up at that. Prosecutor Carl A. Lehman of the same city was luckier, (?) however, as he had a man-motor ride of the sort mentioned.
Three times around the court house to a non-participant it doesn't seem as if the man in the barrow could enjoy the ride much better than the chaiseur—except in his mind.

One theory to account for the unusually low water in the springs from which all Northville's water supply has heretofore been taken, is the recent opening of the big county ditch not far from the springs. Also, with the many modern residences that have been erected here within a few years past, all of them with bath room connections and the addition of such conveniences to numerous older houses, we are using more than double the quantity of water that sufficed when the system was installed. The long drouth of the past summer and fall is also a factor.

The Hughes club prophesies that as early as four months from the time of the inauguration of president every store and factory in the country will be closed, 10 per cent of the men and women will be absent from work, all the industries of the land will be idle, loud reports and the noise of pistol shots and the explosion of gunpowder will resound throughout the length and breadth of the country, there will be the terrified screams of wounded men, women and children, and the great United States will be in turmoil from one end to the other. (It will be the Fourth of July)—Ypsilanti

Detective Stories

These stories give the exploits of one of the craftiest and most daring criminals of French fiction. The stories are now appearing on the moving picture screen and have just been released.

FANTOMAS

These stories are along typical French lines, which portray the "crook" as he actually is, and not as a hero in any sense of the word.

When the hunters returned from the chase, there was a call for the Marquis de Tergall to tell him of the success of the hunt. His wife went for him. The moment she opened the door, the flood of gas nearly asphyxiated her. She staggered to a window, and after throwing it open rushed to the bed. The marquis was dead. Heroic efforts were made to restore the marquis to life, but were fruitless.

The false magistrate immediately instituted an inquiry. Having sent every one out of the room, he ordered the marquis to appear before him. When she had come with her maid, Fantomas sent the latter away that he might speak privately with the marquis.

"Madame, the inquiry I have just made clearly proves your husband has been the victim of a crime."

He began this in a dry, crafty manner. At the word "crime" she started and looked at him intently.

"It was to the interest of someone that the marquis should die," he went on.

"He hadn't a single enemy in the world."

"Who?"

"You."

Terrified at the accusation, she sank back in her chair trembling.

"Yes, you," he thundered. "You wanted to get rid of your husband so that you might marry another."

With these words he whipped out the letter he had stolen from the young man. She was struck dumb at sight of this damning evidence.

Just then the accusation he was about to make was prevented by several guests coming into the room. However Fantomas was not to be deterred from carrying out his cruel plan. Upon a card he penciled the following words:

"If you do not give me $20,000 I shall have you arrested for the murder of your husband."

The terrorized woman bowed her head in assent. She would pay the money rather than suffer her name to be dragged in the mire.

The following day Fantomas went to the little church where he had ordered Ribonard to meet him. Fantomas had such a name for punishing those who disobeyed there was no doubt the wretch would be on hand.

"Where's the jewel case?" Fantomas brusquely demanded when Ribonard arrived.

The thief pointed directly upward. They were right under the church bell.

"I had it inside the bell. No one would think of looking for it there."

"How are you going to get it?" I must have it, and I want it now."

"Come with me, and I'll show you."

The two men climbed some narrow stairs to the platform around the base of the steeple proper. Directed by Ribonard, who held a long ladder, Fantomas pulled the rope until he had brought the bell to where it swung at an angle of forty-five degrees. Then he tied the rope to a post and aided Ribonard in placing the ladder against the side of the bell.

Ribonard climbed the ladder. When he had reached the mouth of the bell and seated himself comfortably upon the rim, an idea came to him. Why should he divide with Fantomas, when he himself had done all the work?

Acting upon this thought, he came to the conclusion he would stuff the jewels into his pocket and throw down the empty case.

Down below, Fantomas was getting impatient. He also did some thinking. At last the jewel case was tossed down to him. As soon as it was in his hands, the arch criminal snatched away the ladder, leaving Ribonard a prisoner in the bell. Then as the prisoner looked down, he saw the false magistrate untie the rope which held the bell at an angle.

Ribonard had just time to undo his belt and his suspenders and use them in tying himself to the clapper of the bell before he found himself suspended over the entry to the church sixty or seventy feet below.

With the jewel case in his pocket, Fantomas walked away from the church. In a lonely place he opened the case. It was empty.

The following morning, the deaf old sexton opened the church for the funeral of the Marquis de Tergall. He did not hear Ribonard feebly calling to him from the bell. He had some trouble in pulling the bell-rope as the mourners entered the church. Suddenly there fell at the feet of a member of the funeral party a string of pearls, then a shower of rings and then the floor was spotted by drops of blood. Fantomas was present and took charge of the jewels which strewn the floor.

Overhead, the corpse of Ribonard was swinging from the clapper of the great bell.

Fantomas went to St. Calais as soon as he learned of the strange series of events which were agitating the inhabitants of that city. He installed himself in the leading hotel the very one in which the robbery of the jewel case had taken place.

On coming out of the dining room one day the newspaper man happened to pick up the wrong hat. From it fell a paper which had been stuffed under the sweatband. Fantomas returned it to the rack without replacing the paper. He had not long to wait, being regarded by seeing a gentleman with a white beard and white mustache take the hat. When he put on the hat and found it too large, he looked around for the paper. It was not to be seen and he quietly went out.

Fantomas decided he was well worth watching.

The false magistrate was surprised on reaching his office the morning following to receive a note from the Department of Justice.

Because of the fact that a penciled notation in regard to Fantomas was found on the body of Ribonard, ran the note, "The Department of Justice has asked the Belgian authorities to allow the extradition of that criminal. He will be placed at your disposal for examination as soon as he has been brought to St. Calais."

Danger was approaching. He immediately made up his mind. There was just one thing to do—and the world of the man who had taken his place in prison. How to do it was being revolved in his mind when there came a knock on his door. Word was brought that police officers were bringing for examination the Apache Bebe and a man found in his company. Having lost the jewels, Fantomas was more anxious than ever to get his hands on the money Bebe had stolen.

Left alone with the prisoners, the false magistrate enjoyed their discomfort while he recounted certain of their exploits which they did not believe could be known to the police.

"Don't you know me?" he concluded with a dry smile. "I am the one whom all must obey. Look closely, and you will recognize Fantomas!"

"Fantomas himself!" shrieked Bebe. "Yes, you are at the mercy of Fantomas." Now then, Bebe, where did you hide the $50,000 you stole?"

Bebe tried to keep his secret, but Fantomas beat him down.

"I gave the money for safe keeping to Rosa, a maid in the employ of the Marquis de Tergall."

"All right, Bebe, I believe you. Now listen to me. A prisoner is being brought here from Belgium. During the short walk from the train to this office, he must die. It can be easily done if you follow my directions."

After rehearsing the men in the parts they were to play, the false magistrate had them set at liberty.

In the meantime, Fantomas was not idle. Living in the same hotel with Judge Pradier he found it possible for him to enter the latter's room unobserved. There he examined all the hats possessed by the magistrate. In each there was a strip of paper, except in a traveling cap. The journalist came to the conclusion that if the hats did not belong originally to the magistrate, the cap at least did. In the lining of the cap was the name of the manufacturer, a Belgian. How did it happen that all the hats of the magistrate came from Mont-de-Marsan. While the cap came from Belgium?

Going to the telegraph office, he sent the following message to police headquarters in Paris:

"Extremely urgent you send Inspectors Michel and Leon to St. Calais immediately."

Fantomas

Fantomas now turned his attention to the Marquis de Tergall. He has asked that she call upon him, accompanied by her maid. She had been unable to raise the money he had demanded but brought him a letter she had received from her attorney saying that he would have the money the following day for her.

Fantomas was unable to protest and walked with her to where Rosa was waiting for her mistress. After asking permission to speak with the maid, Fantomas beckoned her into the office.

"There's no use beating about the bush, Rosa. You have inside your waist $50,000 stolen from the Marquis. Out with it because I want it."

"It's not so," protested the maid. "Then I shall have you searched."

In the face of this threat Rosa did not resist.

Fantomas was watching when Bebe and his accomplice left the magistrate's office. When they entered a cafe, he placed himself at a table near them and began to write a message for his paper. He knew that their interest would be aroused and they would take note of what he was writing.

"It is understood the celebrated bandit, Fantomas," wrote Fantomas, "will arrive in St. Calais tonight from Belgium."

He is now on his way in charge of two police officers.

He will be taken from the station immediately to the office of the examining magistrate."

Convinced, Bebe and his pal had taken note of what he was writing. Fantomas left the cafe.

It was midnight when the train from Belgium reached St. Calais. Two police officers with a man in charge got out of a compartment.

Suddenly two men jumped from beside the path, making for the prisoner. If they had hoped their attack to be unexpected, they were mistaken, the prisoner and his guards were evidently watching for just such an attack. They fell upon their assailants, and in a few seconds overpowered them. The man they confronted was the one who had written the dispatch that day in the cafe, Fantomas.

The journalist had played a most daring trick.

"Now that we have these two Apaches safely under lock and key," Fantomas said to the detectives after the prisoners have been jailed, "we shall learn about the identity of Judge Pradier."

The next morning the false magistrate was surprised to find the two bandits brought before him despite the fact he had freed them the day before. Disguised as police agents from Belgium, Leon and Michel watched him closely. Fantomas signed the writ of commitment without a tremor. Bebe and his accomplice were led away to prison.

Having seen the two men committed, Fantomas and the detectives hastened to the office of the attorney general to ask that he see the prisoner from Belgium before the man was brought before the magistrate.

The Marquis de Tergall came to the magistrate's office immediately after the two Apaches were led away. Fantomas was delighted for he realized the situation was getting hotter and hotter. He decided to make a quick escape, and wanted to take with him as much loot as possible. The unhappy woman was admitted to his office. Proud and contemptuous, she threw before Fantomas banknotes amounting to twenty thousand dollars. With a cold and crafty smile, he accompanied her to the door.

What Fantomas saw as he dismissed the marquise was enough to frighten the stoutest criminal, but it only quickened him to instant action. Walking toward the office of the attorney general he saw the prisoner from Belgium. It was Juve.

Fantomas ran back to his office and prepared for instant flight. Into a handbag he thrust the jewels also the money he had received from the Marquis and the larger sum he had forced Rosa to disgorge. When he opened the door to escape, two police officers confronted him. One handed him a note from the attorney general. It read:

"By order of the attorney general all doors of the court house are locked, and no one will be permitted to leave until further notice."

Fantomas realized he had played the game and lost. He returned to his office and rang the bell for the headkeeper of the prison. While waiting for the man he wrote an order which he signed and sealed. This was given the keeper when he arrived and Fantomas impressed him with the importance of executing it without question.

"You are to fulfill this order to the letter," he admonished the man. "Do so with greatest secrecy. Just bear in mind, the slightest indiscretion will mean you will lose your place."

It was not until he heard men tramping about the corridor and massing themselves at his door that Fantomas moved from his chair. Then he quickly removed the white wig and beard which had served to disguise him as the magistrate. An instant later Juve and Fantomas, revolvers in their hands burst into the room, followed by a number of police officers.

"We've got you now, Fantomas," cried Juve.

"Yes, you've caught me," answered the criminal.

"This time I'll see you don't get away."

"I don't believe I'd boast yet, if I were you," the master criminal replied. Then he addressed himself to the others. "Yes, you've trapped Fantomas. Here are my wrists for the bracelets."

The handcuffs were snapped on, and he was led away to a cell. Juve himself saw that the man was safely locked in.

Fantomas listened attentively for every sound. It was midnight before he heard steps on his corridor. The door of his cell was unlocked. Before him was the smiling headkeeper.

The following day the inquiry planned by the attorney general was about to begin. He sent for the headkeeper and asked him to bring the prisoner.

"The prisoner?" smiled the keeper. "Why, he's gone."

"Gone!"

Every one in the room leaned forward when this news was broken to them.

"Yes, he's gone. I opened the door for him myself."

Juve attempted to spring upon the poor man, but was restrained by those who stood near.

"Why did you open the door?" was the next question of the bewildered attorney general.

"I was ordered to do so. Here it is."

The headkeeper handed over the order which the false magistrate had given him. It read:

"Charles Pradier, examining magistrate, orders the headkeeper of the prison to release with the greatest secrecy at twelve midnight the prisoner who will be delivered to him in the name of Fantomas. The prisoner is in reality Detective Juve who seeks this means of leaving the prison to deceive the band operating under orders from Fantomas."

By another stroke of genius, Fantomas was again free.

Back To The Land!

THE LAND PRODUCTS AND FARM "MACHINERY" EXHIBIT AT TOLEDO THE BIG EVENT FOR CITY AND RURAL FOLKS

Just What You Will Find at the Biggest Exposition of the Kind Ever Attempted in This Section—Something of Decided Interest for Everyone During the Gala Days—Educational, Amusing, Instructive Exhibits of a Varied Nature.

Toledo has long been the center of gatherings of Ohio, Michigan and Indiana. The many interurban and steam lines, the densely populated rural districts adjoining the city, the natural facilities and the hospitality of the city make it the logical place for such meetings.

We have seen the county and state fairs grow from small beginnings to events of greatest importance—but now Toledo, with its usual progressiveness and push, comes forward with an exposition that will eclipse any "fair" ever attempted, where folks can gather in comfort, in a mammoth exposition building, of modern type, and survey at leisure, and in comfort the most advanced ideas in land production, farming, mechanical and electrical efforts of a decade.

No pains have been spared to make the Third Annual Land Products, Farm Power Machinery, Live Stock and Electrical Show clean, free from schemes and of value to all. There are so many interesting features it is impossible to tell of all of them, but a glance at what is under way will only whet the appetite for a personal visit.

The U. S. government has recognized the tremendous importance of this exposition and will have a vast display, equaling that of the Panama Exposition itself.

The State of Ohio, and the various branches of state road, dairy educational and other departments will be strongly represented. The Jovians, a local Toledo electrical body, will make elaborate displays of electrical features.

Modern country features, such as electric lighting, farm power machinery, the tractor demonstrations, water systems and dairy methods, will be exemplified in full. The demonstrations will be of a practical nature, just as on the farm itself.

The city man will learn much of road construction, he will find school displays, modern conveniences and see just how much the farm really means to the city folks.

The ladies will delight in the vast number of home needs shown, the electric time savers, washing machines, household appliances, furniture and other items that make for better homes; there will be movies, and all free. The live stock displays will delight the children and grown-ups alike; there will be prize winning exhibits of sheep, cattle, hogs and poultry.

Taken all in all it will be a comprehensive, magnificent exhibit, full of interest from beginning to end—the dates are December 4th to December 16th—the place the big Terminal Auditorium on Cherry street, within easy walking distance from the center of town. This building has more floor space than Madison Square Garden, New York, and every foot of space will be utilized to the limit for the "Farmers Own Show." Come one and all for the best time of your life, and you will make money by learning the facts presented to you.

Peruvian alfalfa is not resistant to severe cold and can be grown successfully only where the winter temperature is comparatively mild as in the Southern and Southwestern States. Under favorable conditions it outyields any other commercial strain. As a result of numerous experimental tests the adaptations of the various varieties and strains of alfalfa have been quite definitely determined.

ALLWORK ALWAYS

The Light Allwork Tractor

Burns Kerosene

Get Your Money's Worth In Work Every Season

THE Light "Allwork" Tractor is built for all around work in any season of the year. Powerful for heavy plowing—light enough to get out on wet land in early spring or on a soft seed bed for harrowing and seeding—low enough for orchard cultivating—plenty of power for belt work. Here is the practical light-weight, high-power farm tractor. Free from freakish features—runs on four wheels; carries the largest 4-cylinder engine we know of on any 3-pow tractor. It sets crosswise on the frame, thus giving direct spur gear drive—no bevel gears. Belt pulley is on direct line with crank shaft.

4 cylinders, 5 in. bore, 6 in. stroke, 750 R. P. M., develops 28 H. P. at belt and 14 H. P. at drawbar. Automobile type front axle, roller bearing rear axle—self-aligning steel gears—thoroughly protected from dust. Weighs 5000 lbs. Develops 3000 lbs. drawbar pull and 4000 lbs. on low gear.

Burns kerosene. Turns in 12-foot radius—pulls three plows (will pull four under favorable conditions)—will run 18-inch silage cutter, 28-inch separator—pull an 8-foot road grader. Gasoline or kerosene fuel. Two-speed transmission working in oil.

Write for Our Catalog and learn how the "Allwork" can make tractor farming pay big dividends on your farm. It's built by a company with an established reputation—satisfied customers everywhere. Let us refer you to "Allwork" owners near you. Write today.

TIMELY TOPICS FOR ALL INTERESTED IN BETTER FARMING

COMMERCIAL VARIETIES OF ALFALFA

Washington, D. C. The increased interest in varieties of alfalfa and the need for the farmer to know whether a certain variety is suitable for his neighborhood have led to the publication of U. S. Department of Agriculture Farmers' Bulletin 757, Commercial Varieties of Alfalfa. In this bulletin of 27 pages, the authors, R. A. Oakley and H. L. Westover, of the Bureau of Plant Industry discuss in detail the characteristics and habits of the nine fairly distinctive commercial strains of alfalfa now recognized in the United States together with their adaptation to climate conditions.

Some give the best results in the North and Northwest, while others succeed only in the South and Southwest where the winters are mild. Wherever possible, the authors have indicated methods of distinguishing the seed of one variety from another.

"Common alfalfa" is a term that is used to include all of the alfalfas that are not clearly of hybrid origin or that do not have distinct and uniform varietal characteristics, such as the Peruvian and Arabian varieties. Numerous strains are coming to be recognized in the "common" group. They are often designated by the geographic name of the locality where grown, Kansas-grown alfalfa, Montana-grown alfalfa, and many others or by some term descriptive of the conditions under which the crop has developed, such as dry-land alfalfa, irrigated alfalfa, and nonirrigated alfalfa.

Strains developed in the South usually produce larger yields than those developed in the Northern States, but they are less hardy. The "dry-land" alfalfa seed offered on the market has so far failed to show any noticeable superiority in ability to resist drought over that grown with an abundance of moisture.

The commercial Turkistan alfalfa has been tested quite thoroughly in all parts of this country, and in nearly every case has proved inferior to American-grown strains.

The leading commercial strains of variegated alfalfa are the Grimm, the Baltic, the Canadian variegated, and sand lucern. With the exception of sand lucern, they have been found more resistant to cold than other commercial varieties or strains and are therefore recommended for sections where winterkilling occurs frequently.

WEEKLY CALENDAR.

METHODIST CHURCH NOTES.

(By the Pastor.)

The sermon-topic for the services next Sunday morning will be, "The Invincible Trinitarian." For the evening service the subject will be,
"The Wide-Caste Religion." All strangers in town and all who have not a church home elsewhere are cordially invited to share in all the privileges of the service of the church.

The Sunday school at 11:30 furnishes a fine opportunity for the study of the bible and the discussion of the problems of the religious life.
Every body, young and old, should have a regular place in the life and work of the Sunday school.

The Epworth League service at 6 o'clock.

We were pleased to see a good representation of our people at the Bishop Henderson service in Plymouth last Monday evening.

Many a Gloomy Countenance in Northville Now Lightens with Happiness.

A bad back makes you gloomy.
Can't be happy with continual backache.

The aches and pains of a bad back are frequently due to weak kidneys.
Doan's Kidney Pills are recommended for weak kidneys.

So Northville citizens testify.
Mrs. John Ruthruff, Church and Cady streets, Northville, says: "I have dull pains across my kidneys at times. Once in a great while my kidneys get out of order, causing a tired, heavy feeling across my back and through my limbs. Doan's Kidney Pills remove the awful misery in my back and help me in every way.
In a few days, I feel as well as ever."

pleasing. The interest and attendance are more than were anticipated.
Let the people of the community keep these meetings on their hearts and minds. The dates are Dec. 3 to 17.

The hash supper given by the Epworth League last Wednesday evening was very successful. The gross receipts were something over $20.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH NOTES.

(By the Pastor.)

Morning service at 10 o'clock. Subject: "The Undeveloped Resources of Faith." This sermon will be a consideration of the power of faith in ministering to man's greatest needs and highest desires. A practical message for a practical people. A responsibility and opportunity is presented in our Sabbath morning services. A welcome to friends and strangers.

Sunday school at 11:30 o'clock.

Christian Endeavor at 6 o'clock.

Evening service at 7 o'clock. Subject: "The Satisfaction of a Productive Life."

The annual praise service of the Missionary society has been postponed until after the special services. The Sundays of January will be devoted to a consideration of the "The World Wide Aspects of Christianity." These services will be in the interests of and the responsibility of the Missionary organization of the church. The importance of these meetings justifies this early announcement.

The Annual Thanksgiving service will be held at 7 o'clock Thanksgiving evening in the Presbyterian church.
The Presbyterian pastor is slated to speak.

Members of the church and congregation are again reminded of the special two weeks services to be held from December 3rd to Dec. 17th. The cordial support of all is needed to make these meetings a success.

BAPTIST CHURCH NOTES.

(By the Pastor.)

Regular services next Sunday at the usual hour. The topic will be given from the Pulpit.

We hope for a good representation at Sunday school, to perfect arrangements for Christmas exercises.

Teachers' meeting at the parsonage
each Tuesday evening.

The prayer meeting is very well attended, yet it is not appreciated as it should be. You know loyalty to such a service all depends upon one's love for it.

Thanksgiving service will be held in the Presbyterian church Thursday evening, Nov. 30. Let us make this an extraordinarily good meeting. We have much for which to be thankful.

NOVI NEWS.

Mrs. Mary Orr of Coleman and Sudley part of Clare were here to attend the funeral of Mr. Hicks.

Mrs. J. Seeley of Muskegon, who was called here on account of the death of her father, Geo. Hicks, is spending a couple of weeks with her mother.

George Hicks, a resident of this vicinity nearly all his life passed quietly away Thursday night, Nov. 16,
after a short illness with rheumatism.
Mr. Hicks was an honest, sincere citizen, and one who will be greatly missed by his neighbors and family. He is survived by his wife and ten children, and it is a remarkable fact that until now this large and harmonious family circle had been unbroken by death. The funeral was held from the home Sunday, Rev. R. A. Brass of the Northville Baptist church con-

PRICE DOESN'T NECESSARILY DETER-MINE THE VALUE OF AN OVERCOAT

Its Real Value depends upon whether or not it possesses ALL the attributes of VALUE—STYLE, QUALITY, PERFECTION of TAILORING and FINISH, plus a REASONABLE PRICE!

Nearly ANY Overcoat possesses ONE or more of these value-essentials, BUT FEW POSSESS THEM ALL!

A DELICIOUS LUNCH

can be quickly prepared, and without the slightest trouble, on an Electric Chafing Dish.

This handsome and ever convenient table utensil is of a source of both comfort and pride to the housewife. Just the thing for a hasty lunch or Sunday supper. Cooks practically any dish you have a desire for—makes toothsome food. No trouble, no alcohol, no messing.
Just attach to a lamp-socket.

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE IN THE RECORD WANT COLUMNS.

They let you know you've been smoking—and yet they're MILD

In other words, Chesterfield Cigarettes are MILD—and yet they satisfy. This is something totally new to cigarettes. It goes further than pleasing your taste—satisfy does for your smoking what a juicy slice of hot roast beef does for your appetite.

Chesterfields satisfy—they let you know you've been smoking

But they're MILD, too—Chesterfields are!

If you want this new cigarette delight (satisfy, yet mild) you've got to get Chesterfields, because no cigarette maker can copy the Chesterfield blend.
This blend is an entirely new combination of tobaccos and the biggest discovery in cigarette blending in 20 years.
