DEATH AGAIN VISITS NORTHVILLE

LEE L. WEST SUDDENLY TAKEN AND EZEKIEL DINGMAN DIES
AFTER LONG ILLNESS.

LEE L. WEST.

The earthly life of Lee L. West came quietly to its close Tuesday evening, February 13, at the Horace Boyden home here after a week's struggle with pneumonia. Mr. West had been somewhat indisposed but had attended to his business affairs and other duties up to the time when a severe cold developed into the deadly disease which defied all the efforts that medical and nursing skill could supply.

Mr. West's entire life of 52 years had been passed in Novi, where he was one of the prominent farmers of the township, which he had served ably both as supervisor and as treasurer. For some years past he had held a sales agency for the Dodge Bros. automobile, and about six months ago became a partner in the purchase of the McKahn garage in this village, establishing his agency in connection therewith.

Mr. West was universally respected and as universally liked, possessing a genial and straightforward personality which won and retained friendship and made him popular with all classes. He was married over 30 years ago to Miss Ruby Smith of Novi, who, with their two daughters, Myra, of Brooklyn, N. Y. and Mrs. Margaret Dawson of Ypsilanti, their son, Howard of Birmingham, his mother, Mrs. Mary Connelly West of Novi and his foster son, Horace Boyden of Northville, are thus bereft of a loving and beloved husband, father and son. The body was taken Wednesday to the home in Novi where funeral services were held Thursday afternoon with Rev. Frank Brass of the Northville Baptist church as the clergyman in charge. Burial was made in the family lot at the Novi cemetery.

EZEKIEL DINGMAN.

Ezekiel Dingman, who had been seriously ill for months, died at the home of his son, Charles, in Owosso, Saturday, February 10, 1917. The body was brought to Northville and the funeral held at his late home on Randolph street, Wednesday at 2:30, conducted by Rev. S. F. Dumbrock of Medina, Ohio.

Mr. Dingman was born near Rochester, N. Y., June 14, 1840, and came with his parents to Michigan when 2 years old, living in and around Farmington until 24 years ago when he purchased what was known as the Hinman farm 1 1/2 miles west of Northville. Seven years ago he moved to this place.

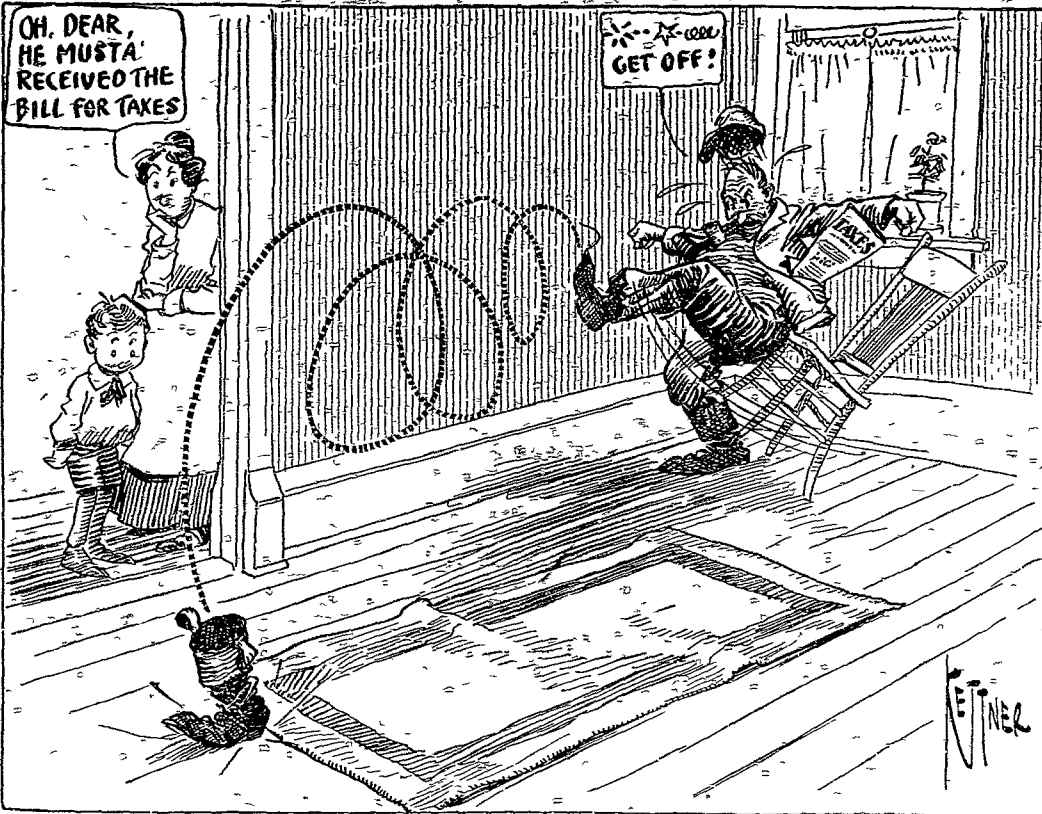

Mr. Dingman served three years in the Civil war, and was a member of A. M. Harmon Post No. 318 of Northville at the time of his death. He leaves lonely the hearts of two sons, Wm. of this place and Charles H. of Owosso; also an adopted daughter, Julia of Durand and one sister, Mrs. M. E. Johnson, who mourn the loss of a kind and loving father and brother.

Many staunch friends and neighbors gathered to pay their sad tribute to one who had always had a kindly greeting for them all.

VERHOFF WON THE BIG MATCH.

The main bout scheduled between VanSickle of Northville and Verhoff of Novi, nearly fell through. VanSickle was taken sick late in the afternoon, and Charley Johnston volunteered to take his place and keep the title in town. Although he was in no condition to wrestle, Johnston gave Verhoff quite a run for his money, the first fall taking three minutes and the second, taking four minutes. Verhoff weighed at least 37 pounds more than Johnston so he outclassed him in both weight and strength.

Lyke was the only fall in the match between him and Green on a foul (the other two being draws). This match took up all the time allowed and was the best run for the money during the whole evening.

Jack Moore spilled Jones in just three minutes for the first fall. The second fall took a little longer as Jones refused to come to close quarters unless he had the best hold, but at that it took Jack only four minutes to win the money.

There is to be another evening of joy for the wrestling sports in town in a couple of weeks. Watch the paper for the announcement as to the combatants.

There was a large crowd in attendance and all were satisfied when the last bout was over that they had secured their money's worth.

WOMAN FOR PROPOSED STATE BOARD.

A bill is to be introduced before the present Michigan legislature for the creation of a Board of Administration which shall have supervision of the state institutions with special powers financially and otherwise, such as is already successful operation in 23 states. The absolute necessity and justice of having woman appointees on such boards as have to do with women and girl inmates of our state reformatory and charitable institutions has been demonstrated too clearly for controversy. As a member of this new board, the creation of which is practically certain, the appointment of Mrs. J. K. Galey of Detroit, founder of the Citizens' Welfare League and who proposed the bill, is being urged on all sides. Mrs. Galey has been engaged for many years in the study of criminology and penology, and is acknowledged to be an authority on these subjects. She is in every way qualified for such a position, it is said, and the state would profit greatly through her services.

WAS AN INTERESTING MEETING.

The Farmers' Institute held in the Northville Baptist church last Friday was a very interesting and instructive one, although the day sessions were not as largely attended, as they doubtless would have been had not the weather been so extremely cold. The talks and discussions were thoroughly practical and thus highly valuable to all participating. The evening session brought a full house, and a fine address was given by Prof. McCone of Jackson. The debate by the High school pupils was carried out in a manner that reflected much credit on all the participants and their instructors. All the young disputants really covered themselves with glory and made Northville people feel very proud of their school and its petties and methods.

GARRICK THEATRE, DETROIT.

One of the biggest dramatic treats of the season is in store at the Garrick theatre, Detroit, where Richard Winton Tully's spectacular drama, "The Flame," will commence a week's engagement next Monday. The "Flame" is the name of motherhood, the action of the play is in Mexico, where a group of sturdy Americans are seeking a livelihood. Wayne Putnam, a young college graduate, is cultivating a banana plantation, Pamela Cabot, a Boston society girl, forsakes a life of ease to marry Wayne, and aid her husband in the work; Dave Carson, a Texan, and a school teacher, devoting her life to educating the half-savage Indian boys. Suddenly these characters are all engulfed in Mexican uprisings and revolutions.

As a spectacle, "The Flame" has never been surpassed upon the American stage. Particularly beautiful is the lowering courtyard in the first act with its curving stairway leading high up to the old stone church, while far beyond dash the blue waters of the Spanish main. The scene showing a hurricane sweeping through the green jungle is a masterpiece of stagecraft.

PRUNING.

Don't forget the Saturday night dancing in Cettermole Hall.

CONSIDERED AN EXCELLENT PLAN.

Many words of commendation have come from various sources in regard to the suggestion in last week's Record as to the reelection of the present staff of village officers. The reasons given for the opinion expressed in the article in question appeal to the good sense of every citizen whether he is a taxpayer or not. It is unnecessary to recapitulate what has been noted as accomplished along the lines of municipal welfare, but practically all seem to agree that a change would be not only needless but would indicate that our people are unappreciative of efficient administrative service when they get it.

CARD OF THANKS.

We sincerely thank all friends and neighbors for flowers and sympathy in our bereavement, especially the G. A. R., W. R. G., K. of P., E. of A., and those who furnished automobiles. MR. AND MRS. W. DINGMAN MR. AND MRS. C. DINGMAN MRS. M. E. JOHNSON

READING AMERICAN HISTORY IS ESSENTIAL TO GOOD CITIZENSHIP

It is claimed One Cannot Vote or Talk Intelligently Upon National Affairs Without Knowing History—
Department of Education Gives List of Books.

Washington, D. C.—With the ever increasing idea of connecting the home with the school work for the rural and city children and in response to more than a thousand requests from the various parts of the country, the Bureau of Education, Department of Interior, has just added to its list of reading matter a reading course in American history.

With the great world activities and the close connection the United States plays with it, it is very appropriate and no doubt will fill a large felt want among those who want to read and learn but do not know what would be the proper books to get their knowledge from.

Outside of the fact that we all should know the past of our government, it really becomes a necessity to realize what this country has gone through in order to better the conditions, for it is only by the past that the future can be wisely judged.

In announcing the new course Dr. P. P. Claxton, Commissioner of Education declares:

"All American citizens should know more of the history of their country than can be learned from the meager outlines of the textbooks used in our elementary and high schools. That a large number of people should have such general and comprehensive knowledge of the country, its life and growth and the form and spirit of its institutions, as can be gained only from reading at least several of the standard histories is essential to the welfare of the Republic. At every national election and at many state and municipal elections the people are called upon to vote on policies which cannot be intelligently determined without such knowledge. Legislators and other representatives of the people are constantly in need of it. Only out of the history of the past can come an understanding of the principles by which they must be guided if they are to work wisely for the future. To read extensively and deeply in the history of the country becomes therefore a patriotic duty. Only thus can one love his land with love far brought from out the storied past, 'used within the present' and 'transfused through future time by power of thought.'

"Those who have learned to read history find it the most interesting form of literature. The story of any country or of any great movement of any people, fitly told, is interesting, especially when the reader has learned to understand the relation to each other of the thought and feeling and purpose and action of the people. No country has a more interesting history than the United States, which, from its beginnings in the scattered settlements of immigrants from European shores three hundred years ago and less, has grown through colonial and national life till it has become the greatest, wealthiest, and most powerful and most prosperous, the freest, the most self-controlled and self-restrained, the most cosmopolitan and the most firmly

DON'T EXPERIMENT

You Will Make No Mistake if You Follow This Advice.

Never neglect your kidneys. If you have pain in the back, urinary disorders, dizziness and nervousness, it's time to act and no time to experiment. These are frequently symptoms of kidney trouble, and a remedy which is recommended for the kidneys should be taken in time.

Doan's Kidney Pills are a good remedy to use and have acted effectively in thousands of cases.

Can Michigan residents demand further proof of merit than the following?

S. A. Blanchard, State St., Hart, Mich., says: "I had rheumatic pains across the small of my back. After I stooped over, I could hardly get up again. The kidney secretions were irregular in passage and often painful. I am not much of a hand to take medicine, but finally I used Doan's Kidney Pills and they cured me."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that cured Mr. Blanchard. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

United nation the world has ever known. The story of the United States is the story not of dynasties and courts but of the people, their life, their industries, their aspirations and the democratic institutions through which they have sought to attain these aspirations, and every line of the story throbs with present interest and future meaning."

The list of books was selected by the Bureau in co-operation with several well-known historians and educators, including Dr. W. H. Mace of Syracuse University, Dr. Wilbur F. Gordy of Hartford, Conn., Dr. Franklin L. Riley of Washington and Lee University, and Dr. William Starr Myers of Princeton University.

The books in the course were selected with a view to presenting a complete record of the United States, including the European background, exploration and settlement, the war of independence, the division over sectional issues, economic development, the Civil war and reconstruction, and the concentration and expansion of the United States as a nation.

This course was designed primarily for those who have left school, but anyone is eligible who can find time to read.

STOCKS OF POTATOES

JANUARY 1 SMALL

Washington, D. C.—Supplies of potatoes on hand January 1, 1917, for market in 19 important northern potato-growing states are estimated by the bureau of crop estimates of the United States department of agriculture to be about 44 per cent smaller than a year ago, 65 per cent smaller than two years ago, and 54 per cent smaller than the average holdings on January 1 of the preceding five years.

If, for the purpose of comparison, the estimates in percentages of marketable stocks of potatoes on hand January 1 be applied to the estimates of total production, it shows in the 19 states included (which produced 61 per cent of the total 1916 crop, and 66 per cent of the 1915 crop), a total of 59,938,000 bushels on January 1, 1917, compared with 166,225,000 a year ago, 169,554,000 two years ago, and 129,941,000 bushels the average holdings of the preceding five years on January 1. These figures indicate a scant supply of old potatoes during the spring months.

Miss Alice Clune, aged 27, daughter of the late J. H. Clune, a wealthy furniture dealer, in a fit of despondency caused by fear she would lose her sight, shot herself through the right temple. She died instantly.

Petitions are being circulated asking for a revision of the city charter of Lapeer with a view of establishing a commission form of government.

The Limousine Top company of Kalamazoo announced that it plans an addition that will double its capacity. The company has increased its capital stock from $30,000 to $100,000.

Delirious following a long illness at Mercy hospital, Muskegon, Charles Larson, aged 40, leaped out of the window of his room to a snow bank 20 feet below and escaped when his nurses left the room. Members of the local police and sheriff's forces captured Larson after he had run nearly a mile. He is expected to recover.

The pressure of frost burst a sprinkler head during the night in the basement of Frank Zielinski's store at Manistee and the fact that it sent in an automatic alarm probably saved a big loss from damaged stock.

Hastings plans to do considerable paving of streets during 1917, one street alone estimated to cost $25,400, besides a storm sewer to cost $3,820.

MICHIGAN NEWS BREVITIES

SHORT NEWS STORIES FROM ALL OVER OUR STATE

Farmers of northern Michigan who have been holding their potatoes for $2 a bushel were inclined to hold even a little longer when the price recently soared to $2.01, a record for this part of the state. It is estimated that the growers still hold about 200,000 bushels.

Mrs. Gaza Hawks, living near Owosso, was held up by two robbers while returning from driving her husband to work at the Malleable plant and relieved of three dollars, but not before she had so badly twisted one of the men's neck that he drew a gun on her.

Mrs. W. Olin Johnson, wife of one of Detroit's best known business men, and prominent socially, shot and killed herself almost instantly with a revolver secured while the nurse was out of the room. It is thought she became despondent over her several week's illness.

Fr. John E. Troy of Parnell, north of Grand Rapids, has been appointed chancellor of the diocese of Grand Rapids, advancing to this post made vacant when Bishop Gallagher was elevated to the full Episcopal powers on the death of Bishop Richter.

With sleighs in place of the front wheels of an auto, the rear wheels heavily chained for good traction and a single seated cutter attached to the rear, men by the name of Sogee, Raffi, Walters and Anderson made the trip from Suttons Bay to Traverse City in about an hour's time. When the ice on the bay freezes over they expect to make the trip in half an hour.

Traverse City schools are to adopt under the supervision of the three banks a thrift campaign. School children at their own inclination may buy stamps from their teacher which they paste in folders and when full are to be taken to the bank, being credited with one dollar as a savings account.

The Crosby Transportation company has purchased the steamer William Livingston and will use it on the lower lake trade during the coming season. The boat was owned by William Livingston, president of the Lake Carriers association.

The Ottawa county road commissioners are to place 24 non-rust, steel angle sign posts on the principle cross roads and if these prove satisfactory more are to be ordered. The letters will be black on a white background.

One hundred tons of coal that were unloaded in one morning at Flint at the municipal coal yard was all sold by afternoon. The price of the city coal is about 25 per cent lower than the dealers are charging.

Only the timely rescue by Mrs. Reder, her son Sylvester, and daughter Julia, saved the lives of John Krengeleski and son John when they fell through thin ice on the Kawkawlin river near Bay City while cutting ice.

Lee H. Pryor of Hastings has been appointed secretary of the securities commission, the state board composed of the attorney general, banking commissioner and state treasurer which has charge of the administration of the blue sky laws that were recently declared constitutional. Mr. Pryor will receive $2,500 a year. He was formerly prosecuting attorney of Barry county.

Traverse City is planning a poplar tree farm on the sand land and pine plains south and east of the city. It is estimated that 200 trees can be planted to the acre and on 40 acres in 15 to 20 years, when they are ready to cut, their value would amount to $48,000.

School teachers of the state of Michigan will, according to the 1915 state legislature, be obliged to give part of their salary toward a teachers' retirement fund ranging from five dollars to $20 a year, according to the number of years taught. This will effect about 20,000 teachers in the state and will bring in an annual fund of nearly $100,000 to be turned over to State Treasurer Odell.

W. H. Badger, fireman in a Muskegon factory, has fallen heir to $300,000 of a $2,000,000 estate left by an uncle in New Mexico. Attorneys found him after a search of two years.

A $100,000 fire at Muskegon totally wiped out the Dennis-Smith block and threatened the entire business district for some time. Fifty persons on the third and fourth floors escaped in their night clothes.

The Eddy Paper Company of White Pigeon has taken on about 35 more men with its change from 12 hour shifts to three eight-hour shifts. The wages will remain the same.

John T. Williams, of Sturgis, a new and promising author, has had his five act play, "The Mighty War God and the Angel of Peace" published. It is a closet drama in blank verse and was never meant to be acted.

Kalamazoo plans to entertain 2,000 Michigan grocers and retail dealers when the state association meets here February 19-23.

The largest load of potatoes ever drawn into Stanton was done by one team of horses by M. D. Gates, who received $216.19 for the 127 6-10 bushels.

Fred W. Kent, former Saginaw county treasurer, is being sued for $8,579.26 by the city of Saginaw, the amount said to have been personally received by him from the Commercial National bank. Mr. Kent is now in the west but his bondsmen are made joint defendants.

The reorganized chamber of commerce at Battle Creek has asked the Michigan Central railroad to abandon their present right-of-way and come into the city on tracks parallel with the Grand Trunk line and also to build a new station. If the movement succeeds the city will attempt to eliminate all grade crossings.

Unable to collect $17,658 in back taxes of the Traverse City, Leelanau and Manistee railroad there is some thought of selling the road for the debt. This road runs through the heart of the northern fruit district.

It is claimed that a Chicago firm has bought the woolen mill at Columbiaville and expects to soon have it running.

A new chemical engine and motor truck for fighting fires more adequately is to be added to the village of Constantine.

George Jackson of Three Rivers is mounting a 17-pound pickerel which he pulled out of the St. Joe river. It measured 42 inches in length and in the stomach were found four good sized blue gills and a mud bass six and a half inches long, and four sun fish.

The building occupied by the McRae Hardware and Furniture Company and recently purchased from John Ferwerda of Falmouth, is to be remodeled as soon as the weather permits.

With the shortage of coal seriously facing the Michigan consumer, farmers of northern Michigan have boosted the price of wood.

Not only was it necessary for the Pere Marquette railroad to seize several car loads of coal during the recent stringency, but their supply was so short one of its trains north was obliged to burn wood.

Owosso citizens are signing petitions to have the present form of city government changed from three commissioners each with absolute control and responsibility in their departments to that of the city manager plan like that practiced in the cities of Cadillac and Monroe.

The Buick company of Flint is planning to drive 300 of their cars to the Pacific coast, the drivers to have all expenses paid and five dollars a day. The trip is to be made in 23 days. The lack of railroad cars for shipping is one reason for undertaking this task but the company expect to be well repaid in the advertising afforded by the novelty.

LEGISLATIVE ACTIVITIES

Representative McArthur of Eaton county, author of the "bone dry" prohibition bill, advocates the establishment of a state constabulary to enforce prohibition and other laws of state wide effect. His bill suggests that the state game department take up these duties and that the title warden be changed to state marshal.

In order to lessen the cost on the mailing list of legislative journals Representative George Welsh plans to have them admitted to second class rates and to charge those who receive the reports ten cents a session.

Senator Martin of Muskegon will introduce a bill that will place the Michigan workingman on an equal footing with those of other states in regard to the compensation rights when injured. The bill increases the compensation from 50 to 65 per cent; boosts the maximum pay from 10 to 15 dollars and the minimum to five dollars.

Representative Newkirk of Washtenaw county is to introduce a bill that plans for a million dollar University of Michigan hospital that will take its place among the greatest institutions of the world and to be located at Ann Arbor.

Governor Sleeper urges the legislature to seriously consider Attorney General Groesbeck's proposition to force the Detroit, Grand Haven and Milwaukee railroad to either sell its properties to the state or pay up millions in back taxes. According to the charter made in 1834 by the Michigan territorial government, the railroad could be bought any time after 1864 by paying cost of construction plus 14 per cent.

Road committees of both houses met with Governor Sleeper to discuss the alleged unconstitutionality of the Covert law under which $2,000,000 worth of bonds have already been issued and the new bill drafted by the Good Roads association to take its place.

A bill has been drafted by Representative McArthur of Eaton Rapids whereby it will become illegal to sell liquor over drug store bars except in original or properly labeled packages. It is claimed that there are drug stores where one may procure a mixed drink containing alcohol at the soda fountain.

To erect a building to be utilized expressly for the teaching of high school teachers at Ann Arbor is the purpose of the bill introduced into the house by Representative Newkirk. The measure appropriates $325,000 to buy land and erect the building; $125,000 for equipment and $25,000 to employ teachers.

A bill that is figured will do more to cut down the number of divorces in the state than any other piece of legislation has been introduced to the house by Representative Carl A. Robinson of Marshall. It requires that all couples desiring to marry should have their engagements registered 30 days prior to the marriage.

Senator Damon of Mt. Pleasant introduced a resolution that provides for the sale of the property of the Industrial School for Boys at Lansing and also for the purchase of suitable farm land near the city for building new quarters. Senator George Scott of Detroit introduced a bill for an emergency appropriation of $14,500 for the immediate needs of the institution.

CURRENT EVENTS

WHEAT FLOUR — $12.00 Bbl. 19670 ENERGY UNITS
Think of it! $1.00's worth of wheat flour baked into bread provides enough nourishment to last a man in full vigor doing moderate muscular work five and one-half days.

This means that every dollar invested in

Lily White

"The Flour the Best Cooks Use"

goes further when baked into bread than one dollar invested in any other variety of food.

Besides you save nearly one-half by baking your bread instead of buying it.

You will have better bread, too.

Every sack of Lily White flour is all pure, wholesome, healthful and nutritious.

The next time you bake bread use Lily White Flour. Then spread a good, big slice of the fresh bread with good butter, and, if you don't say Lily White bakes the best looking, best tasting, tenderest bread you ever ate, we will treat.

Please remember every sack is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction or money returned.

ONE COUNTRY, ONE LANGUAGE, ONE FLAG.

The heart of every true American patriot, man or woman, from the greatest to the least, cannot have failed to feel repeated thrills of joy during these epochal days at the way in which a united America has responded to the call for declaration of principle when our country was forced into a position where such declaration was needful. From center to circumference of our great land have come quietly, without excitement or bluster the assurances of support, of readiness to help, of loyalty to the flag and all the great ideals for which it stands. The representative American who so recently contended in a bloodless battle for the supreme position of American responsibility has publicly proclaimed the duty of all loyal citizens to forget everything but patriotism; partisan jealousies, personal antagonisms, race prejudices, differing opinions, all have been overwhelmed by the tidal wave of patriotic fervor that has so swiftly swept from ocean to ocean and from the islands of the sea across a hemisphere. From Hawaii in its mid-Pacific isolation, from the Philippines in the shadow of the Orient from liberated Cuba has been heard the word of loyalty. The millionaire manufacturer has offered his machinery and his money, the toiler has tendered his life—the red man even has signified his desire to come up to the defense of the great land that an memorable day took from his forefathers. It is soul inspiring heart warming. Where criticism and smouldering hatreds seemed to prevail—down and fostered by the secret enemies of the United States unity of purpose and pride of country now lit voices of patriotism. The adopted American hastens to prove his sonship, the hyphen is obliterated, and for all time, let us hope. The unprecedented rush for naturalization papers in Detroit and other centers of population has answered once and for all the pessimistic speculations as to the probable menace of dangerous masses within our gates. From religious bodies Hebrew Catholic and Protestant, fraternal societies, social clubs, women's organizations—even the Daughters of the Confederacy devoted to the memory of a lost cause—still the endorsements and offers of help come. To a harassed leader, confronted by tremendous responsibilities such as only occasional centuries bring tort, attacked by criticism from without and within, accused by both sides engaged in the European blood-fest of holding sympathy for the other, all this must seem indeed a heavenly gift, a specific justification of that belief in divine assistance which he long ago declared before a listening world. Whatever the outcome shall be, time can never efface the memory of this spontaneous and stupendous demonstration of united Americanism, of patriotism in its best and most convincing form.

SHOULD DIVIDE 50-50.

Special-sessions Judge Freshet of New York, interviewed recently by a woman writer on the ever-contested subject of the financial side of the matrimonial partnership, has advanced, very emphatically, his opinion that a "fifty-fifty" division of the husband's wages, after all current family expenses have been deducted, is the proper thing. He considers that the handing over to the wife of the unopened-pay envelope is all wrong, as is also its retention intact by the husband, with the "doling out" of a specified "allowance." If the "wages" of the average housekeeper in her manifold capacities as cook, housemaid, laundress, nurse, seamstress, etc., were computed, the judge argues that she would be discovered to be earning more than her partner, in many cases. He makes all due allowance for individual instances in which either one party or the other is fundamentally incapable of wise spending of money, and believes that in such case the capable one should handle the cash. Judge Freshet's opinion on this question will harmonize with those of a great many people at this present time, but had such ideas been advanced a few generations ago—or rather when they were so advanced by a few "advanced" thinkers—they were regarded as revolutionary. It has taken a long time to bring about the general recognition of this important phase of "woman's rights," but the world really does move, after all.

The "fake dispatch" game is still being carried on, it seems, as it has been discovered that false information was sent directly to Mr. Gerard from this country regarding conditions here, after the severance of diplomatic relations with Germany. Much trouble and needless fear and bad feeling have been and perhaps are being caused by telegrams from Mexico conveying "information" absolutely false to newspapers. The newspapers, however, have become very careful about using any doubtful stuff, but the fact remains that whoever is or ever has been guilty of such devilish work (no other word is appropriate) merits a worse-than-death punishment.

The old saying about the impossibility of converting a pig's ear into a silk purse may be true—although we don't see why anybody should make the attempt—but the bird protection movement has brought about a new use for another part of the said animal. Very fetching and natural looking agrettes for the adornment of women's hats are now made of hogs' bristles. Chicago, of course started it.

One of the proposed solutions of the inadequate meat-supply situation is the raising of elk. You often have to have a fence 7 feet high around your elk pasture and you can obtain your herd nucleus from the state elk farm in Roscommon Co. Didn't know we had one? Well we have, but the writer of this paragraph doesn't know much more about it than the fact itself.

"Do you like fresh kisses?" asks the Wyanotte Herald? Then suddenly the paragraph turns out to be an "ad" and added to the ad is this addendum: "If so you can get them at 5c and 10c at many five cents a pound." Mean way to fool folks, now isn't it?

The Pontiac Press-Gazette is greatly to be congratulated on the quality of its editorials and especially on the national questions. For patriotic good sense as well as literary excellence that is of the first rank.

Also in case of what A. G. Griffin may offer his big poultry farm for the manufacture of steel.

Novi News.

William R. Hicks was born in Novi Jan. 23 1879. Eleven years ago he was married to Miss Leah R. Wilcox of DeWitt, Michigan. To them were born five children, three of whom are living, Vera age 6 years, Stanley, 4 years and Marjorie, two years. Mr. Hicks' mother, Mrs. George Hicks, has five sisters, Mrs. John Phelps, Mrs. Clyde Putnam, Mrs. Jay Seeley, Mrs. J. S. Waters of Montana and Mrs. Henry Stillwell, and four brothers, Bert, Stephen, George and Fred survive him. Mr. Hicks has always lived in this community. His sterling character was very much appreciated by all of his friends. Sincere, sympathetic, reliable and capable, the community regret the loss of this man. We extend heart felt thanks for all kindly assistance during the death of our husband and father, all who sent the many beautiful flowers, Mr. Bogart for his beautiful singing also Mr. Brass for his comforting words.

Dark Ways—Darkness.

Night is proverbially the time for criminal activity, and Spaniards say "The false coin passes at night." Too often successful men ignore old friends, or, as the Spaniards say: "With the glories they forget the memories." Shrewdness has worked off undesirable articles. Spain tells that "The saddle and mane make the horse sell." Waste labor is "To carry iron to Vicenza." A man born to good fortune is "The son of a white hen."

Zebra's Stripes.

The zebra's stripes and similar markings on other animals are called "protective colorings." In the theory of natural selection it is assumed that those animals survived who were best fitted to escape from enemies, and animals which were so colored and striped as to avoid detection in the jungle passed on their characteristics to their descendants. Those which were easily detected did not survive to have progeny.

In Solitude.

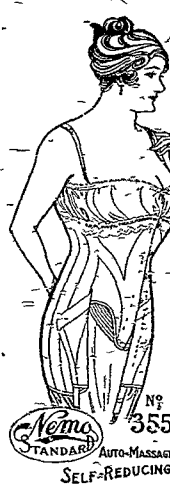

All weighty things are done in solitude—that is, without society. The means of improvement consist not in projects, nor in any violent designs, for these cool, and cool very soon, but in patient practicing for whole long days, by which I make the thing clear to my highest reason.—Jean Paul Richter.

"Mother Ann."

"Mother Ann" was a friendly nickname given to a woman named Ann Lee, an English woman, who came to the United States during the revolutionary period and founded the sect called Shakers. She was illiterate, but a good woman, a religious enthusiast, and popular in her day.

THE UNIVERSITY HOSPITAL AND THE STATE.

Many institutions are of value to the state from a humanitarian point of view, but state hospitals for the treatment and care of diseases render a service that has a distinct economic value.

The University of Michigan hospital has developed into an institution for the care of patients who are unable to pay for medical and surgical services. This fact was recognized by the state when the legislature framed a law whereby any sick or crippled person who is unable to pay for necessary medical care can, on proper application, be sent to the University hospital for free treatment.

No department of the University serves the people more immediately than does this hospital. In 1906, 3,056 patients were examined. In 1916 there were 11,266, an increase of more than 365 per cent in ten years. Many of these patients were crippled children. That this hospital has the approval of the medical profession generally is shown by the number of physicians who send or bring patients for diagnosis and treatment.

All physicians and surgeons working in this hospital are employed by the University to teach the medical students and are not permitted to receive one cent for services rendered in the hospital.

During the present year about four thousand persons will enter the surgical clinic alone, which represents only one-third of the whole number. Some of these will be children with diseases or deformities, the care or correction of which will restore them to long lives of usefulness. Others will be middle-aged or old, and they too will for the most part be cured of disease and returned to their homes. If the average working life of these adult patients can be extended only six months—the lowest possible estimate, and further that their average wage is only forty dollars a month, the patients in the surgical clinic alone will in that time earn $1,200,000, which is $150,000 more than is asked for as a building appropriation.

When it is remembered that the University hospitals are continuously overcrowded; that they all have long waiting lists throughout the year; and that because of the inadequate facilities for meeting the demands put upon them by the people of the state, they are constantly menaced by fire; no one can doubt the necessity for the hospital appropriation. The University hospital is a paying investment for the state. But more than that, it serves a public need which can be met in no other way.

Robin Adair.

"Robin Adair" is not a Scotch song. It is Irish, and was first known as "Eileen Aroon" or "Eibhlin a ruin." It is very old, as songs go, the words being written about 1380, by Carrol O'Daly. The tune as we know it belongs to Cornelius Lyons (1702). The Scottish version was written by Lady Caroline Keppel in 1733; five years later she married Mr. Robert Adair M. P., from Packstown, County Dublin Ireland.

Perhaps a Safer Investment.

The Yankee does not use his gift for putting truth fitfully. A prosperous New England farmer, replying to a comment on the amount of money he was spending to put his son through college, said: "Yes, it does take a lot of money, but I'd rather leave my money in my boy than to him."—Youth's Companion.

Sixty Oakland cars from Pontiac on their way to the Chicago agency passed through this village Friday. The freight car difficulty has made necessary this method of delivering the autos. The chauffeurs were not objects of much envy with the sub-zero temperature prevailing.

Among a list of "Happenings of 23 years ago" in last week's Detroit Courier is this one:

John Steers, Plymouth, has sold the Plymouth Mail to M. F. Gray, Alpena, who is now conducting that paper. It is said that Mr. Steers intends starting a paper at Northville.

Even our municipal building failed to display the stars and stripes Monday in honor of Lincoln's birthday. However, with the mercury nearly pushing the bottoms out of the thermometers it is no wonder nearly everybody in town was equally neglectful. There is no questioning the fact that the memory of Abraham Lincoln is held in veneration by every loyal American here as well as elsewhere and always will be but most Northville people were too busy thawing out frozen water pipes or stoking furnaces and stoves to think of patriotic decorations.

The extreme and extended cold weather has created the unusual condition of the freezing of the service pipes connected with the water mains. In some instances the Edison people have been called upon to apply electricity for the difficult thawing operation.

A certain teacher was questioning her class about graduation in the scale of existence and asked, "What comes next to man?" Little Tommy raised his hand anxiously.

"Well, Tommy," interrogated the teacher, "what is it that comes next to man?"

Tommy, smarting under a sense of a previous defeat, responded "His undershirt, teacher."

From the office of information U. S. department of Agriculture comes the following advice to poultry owners. Early hatching is the secret of winter egg production. The pullet that is hatched early matures early and is ready to lay eggs in the fall when the supply is scarce and prices highest.

Chickens that are expected to be revenue producers for their owners later in the year should be out of their shells by April 30 at the latest. If they are properly cared for thereafter they will begin to lay eggs at the very time that eggs are most wanted.

Mrs. Beatrice Larned Whitney well known to many Northville members of The King's Daughters society was married Wednesday, February 14, in New York City, where she has lived for the past few years, to Mr. Thomas G. Massey, consulting engineer of the Interborough Railway system of New York. Mrs. Whitney visited Northville a number of times while a member of the Michigan executive board of The King's Daughters, and also entertained the Northville members at her home in Detroit. Mrs. Whitney, who gave a very fine address at the annual state convention of the order held here in 1903, is now the New York council member.

The residence of George Merritt on the Fishery road was burned to the ground Thursday morning. The origin of the fire is unknown, as Mr. Merritt found the back part of the house in flames when he got up to build his morning fires. The contents of the building were almost entirely lost, about the only articles saved being Mrs. Merritt's sewing machine and a piano belonging to Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Dickinson who lived with Mr. and Mrs. Merritt. Both families are reported to have escaped with practically nothing except their night clothing. Mr. and Mrs. Dickinson, who were soon to move, carried no insurance whatever. Even the money they had in the house was burned.

About Deep Breathing.
Many people act on the principle that because deep breathing causes dizziness it does not agree with them. But if they will practice the breathing less vigorously, they will find that gradually they can take all the deep breaths they want without the slightest discomfort. Take ten breaths in ten seconds and gradually decrease the number of inhalations.

Lamb's Money.
Cecil, aged four, had often gone with Aunt Elsie to the garden to weed, and had asked the names of the different weeds, and was told that one was lamb's-quarters. Several days later he went to the garden for lettuce, and called excitedly: "Oh, come quick, Aunt Elsie; here is some lamb's money."

"Well I says, I'm running the Juvenals, and you've got to do just what I say. I've got a dandy scheme for raisin' money and we'll have some fun doin' it, or I miss my guess. Then I asked Sam Cooley how much money he'd got, and Sam, he had forty-four cents, Billy Burns had fifty cents, and Dimple had only two. Dimp never did have much loose cash, anyway. But I said to Dimp, 'Never mind Dimp, you ain't to blame. Your dad's an old skinflint. I'll lend you six to start off with.' Then I made Billy Burns sweep the floor while Sam went down to the chicken yard and caught my bantam rooster, Tooley. Then I sent Dimp after some chalk, and an empty peach basket, and a piece of cord. Then we was ready for business.

"I marked a big circle on the barn floor with the chalk, and divided it into four quarters with straight lines runnin' through the middle. Then I turned the peach basket upside down and tied one end of the string on the bottom, and threw the other end up over a beam overhead, so I could pull the basket off from the floor up to the beam by the string. You see, Nicky illustrated with graphic gestures, 'the basket hung just over the middle of the circle like a bell. Then I took the rooster and stuck him under the basket. Tooley hollered and scratched like Sam did and—"

"For mercy sake, Nicky! What will you say next?"

"Say, ma, you just wait and see. Well, Tooley kicked like everything, but he had to go under just the same. Then I said to the kids to sit around the circle on the floor, and each choose one of the four quarters for himself—one for each of us. 'Now,' I said, 'you must each cough up—'"

"Nicholas!"

"Oh ma, do let me tell it without callin' me down every time. You kids must hand out a cent apiece and put it on the floor in your own quarter. Then, when I say ready, pull the string and raise the basket and let Tooley out. Tooley'll get scared and run. If he runs off the circle through my quarter, then the four cents are mine, but if he runs through Dimp's quarter, then the four cents are Dimp's."

"It was real excitin' when I pulled the string, and the basket went up. You'd ought to've been there, Mrs. Maxwell. You'd have laughed for a split—"

"Nicholas Burke, you must stop talkin' like that, or I'll send you home," reproved Mrs. Burke, looking severely at her son, and with deprecating sidelong glances at his audience.

"Excuse me ma. It will be all over in a minute. But really, you'd have laughed like sin—I mean you'd have awful nervous when the basket went up. For a minute he crouched and stood still, scared stiff at the three kids, all yellin' like mad; then he ducked his head and bolted off the circle through my quarter and flew up on a beam. I thought the kids would bust."

Mrs. Burke sighed heavily.

"Well, burst, then. But while they were laughin' I raked in the cash. You see I just had to. I won it for fair. I'd kept quiet, and that's why Tooley come across my quarter."

Mrs. Maxwell was sorting over her music, while Maxwell's face was hidden behind a paper. Mrs. Burke was silent through despair. Nicky glanced furtively at his hearers for a moment and then continued:

"Yes, the kids was tickled; but they got awful quiet when I told them to fork over another cent apiece for the jack-pot."

"What in the name of conscience is a jack-pot?" Hepsy asked.

"A jack-pot's a jack-pot; there isn't no other name that I ever heard of. We caught Tooley and stuck him under the basket, and made him do it all over again. You see, every time when Tooley got loose, the kids all lean forward and yelled like mad, but I just kept my mouth shut, and leaned way back out of the way so that Tooley'd run out through my quarter. So I won most all the time."

There was a pause, while Nicky looked a bit apprehensively at his audience. But he went on gamely to the end of the chapter.

"Once Tooley made a bolt in a straight line through Dimp's quarter, and hit Dimp in the mouth, and bowled him over like a nine-pin. Dimp was scared to death and howled like murder till he found he'd scooped the pot, then he got quiet. After we made Tooley run ten times, he struck work and wouldn't run any more; so we just had to let him go; but I didn't care nothin' about that, 'cause you see I had the kids' cash in my pants pocket, and that was what I was after. Well sir, when it was all over, 'cause I'd busted the bank—"

"Nicholas Burke, I am ashamed of you."

"Never mind ma; I'm most through now. When they found I'd busted the bank, they looked kind of blue, and Mrs. Perkins said it was a skin game and was a bunco stealer."

"What did you say to that?" Donald inquired.

"Oh, I just said it was all for religion, it was church money, and it was all right. I was just gleamin' what few cents they had, to pay the church debt to the missionary; and they ought to be ashamed to have a church debt hangin' over 'em, and they'd oughter be more cheerful 'bout givin' a little somethin' toward raisin' it."

When Nicky had finished there was an ominous silence for a moment or two, and then his mother said sternly:

"What do you suppose Mrs. Perkins will say when she finds that you've tricked her son into a regular gamblin' scheme, to get his money away from him?"

"Mrs. Perkins," retorted Nicky, thoroughly aroused by the soft impeachment. "I should worry! At the church fair, before Mr. Maxwell came she ran a fancy table, and tried to sell a baby blanket to an old bachelor; but he wouldn't take it. Then when he wasn't lookin', blessed if she didn't turn around and use the four corners together with a bit of ribbon, and sell it to him for a handkerchief case. She got two dollars for it and it wasn't worth seven cents. She was as proud as a dog with two tails, and went around tellin' everybody."

Silence reigned ominous and general, and Nicky braced himself for the storm. Even Mrs. Maxwell didn't look at him, and that was pretty bad. He began to get hot all over, and the matter was fast assuming a new aspect in his own mind which made him ashamed of himself. His spirits sank lower and lower. Finally his mother remarked quietly:

"Nicky, I thought you were going to be a gentleman."

"That's straight, all right, what I've told you," he murmured abashed.

There was another silent pause—presently broken by Nicky.

"I guess I hadn't thought about it, just that way. I guess I'll give the kids their money back," he volunteered despondently—only I'll have to make it up, some way in the treasury." He felt in his pockets, and jangled the coins.

Another pause—with only the ticking of his mother's knitting needles to relieve the oppressive silence. Suddenly the worried pucker disappeared from his brow, and his face brightened like a sun burst.

"I've got it, Mrs. Maxwell," he cried. "I've got seventy-five cents comin' to me down at the Variety Store, for my book frames, and I'll give that for the blamed old missionaries. That's square, ain't it now?"

Mrs. Burke's commendation and her smile were salve to the wounds of her young guest, and Donald's hearty laughter soon dispelled the sense of social failure which was beginning to cloud Nicky's happy spirit.

"Say Nicky," said Maxwell, throwing down his paper, "Mrs. Betty and I want to start a Boy Scout Corps in the parish, and with your resourcefulness you could get the boys together and explain it to them, and soon we should have the whole thing in ship-shape order. Will you do it?"

"Will I?" exclaimed the delighted recruit. "I guess so—but some of 'em ain't 'Piscopals, Mr. Maxwell; there's Sam Cooley, he's a Methodist, and—"

"That doesn't cut any ice, Nicky,"—excuse my slang ladies," he apologized to his wife and Hepsy, at which the boy grinned with delight. "We're out to welcome all comers. I've got the books that we shall need upstairs. Let's go up to my den and talk 't all over. We shall have to spend evenings getting thoroughly up in it ourselves—rules and knots and first aid and the rest. Mrs. Burke will allow parental anxiety as to the bodily welfare of the recruits and the pacific object of the organization, and Mrs. Maxwell will make the colors. Come on!"

With sparkling eyes, Nicky followed Donald out of the room; as they disappeared Hepsy slowly shook her head in grateful deprecation at Betty.

"Bless him!" ejaculated Hepsy. "Mix in' up religion with a little wholesome fun, is the only way you can serve it to boys like Nicky, and get results. Boys that are ever goin' to amount to anything are too full of life to stand 'em up in a row with a prayer book in one hand and a hymnal in the other, and expect 'em to sprout wings. It can't be done. Keep a boy outside enough and he'll turn out all right. Fresh air and open fields have a mighty helpful influence on 'em. The way I've got it figured out, all of us can absorb a lot of the right kind of religion if we'll only go out and watch old Mother Nature, now and then."

CHAPTER XVI

Practical Temperance Reform

The small town of Durford was not immune from the curse of drink; there was no doubt about that. Other forms of viciousness there were plenty; but the nine saloons did more harm than all the rest of the evil influences put together, and Maxwell, though far from being a fanatic, was doing much in a quiet way to neutralize their bad influence. He turned the Sunday School room into a reading room during the week days, organized a gymnasium, kept watch of the younger men individually, and offered as best he could some chance for the expression of the gregarious instinct which drew them together after the work of the day was over. In the face of his work in these directions, it happened that a venturesome and enterprising saloon keeper bought a vacant property adjacent to the church, and opened up an aggressive business—much to Maxwell's dismay.

Among the women of the parish there was a "Ladies Temperance League," of which Mrs. Burke was president. They held quarterly meetings, and it was at one of these meetings held at Thunder Cliff, at which Mrs. Burke presided, that she remarked severely:

"Mrs. Sapley, you're out of order! There's a motion before the house, and I've got something to say about it myself. Mrs. Perkins, as Mrs. Maxwell was unable to be present, will you kindly take the chair, or anything else you can lay your hands on, and I'll say what I've got to say."

Mrs. Perkins took—Mrs. Burke's place as president, while Mrs. Burke rubbed her glasses in an impatient way; and having adjusted them, began in a decided tone from which there was meant to be no appeal:

"The fact is, ladies, we're not gettin' down to business as we ought to, if we are to accomplish anything. We've been singing hymns, and recitin' lovely poems, and listennin' to reports as to how money spent for liquor would pay off the national debt; and we've been sayin' prayers, and pledgin' ourselves not to do things, none of us ever was tempted to do, or thought of doin', and wearin' ribbons, and attendin' conventions, and talkin' about influence—legislation at Washington, and eatin' sandwiches, and drinkin' weak tea, and don't goodness knows what; but we're not done a blessed thing to stop men drinkin' right here in Durford and breakin' the town law, you know that well enough."

Mrs. Burke paused for breath after this astounding revolutionary statement, and there was a murmur of scandalized dissent from the assembled ladies at this outspoken expression on the part of the honorable president of the Parish Guild.

"No," she continued emphatically, "don't you fool yourselves. If we can't help matters right here where we live then there's no use havin' imitation church societies, and gosh! home thinkin' we've helped the temperance cause, and callin' everybody else bad names who don't exactly agree with us."

Again there were symptoms of open rebellion against this traitorous heresy on the part of the main spoken president, but she was not to be easily silenced; so she continued:

"Men have got to go somewhere when their work is over, and have a good time, and I believe that we won't accomplish anything until we fix up a nice attractive set of rooms with games, and give 'em something to drink."

Cries of "Oh! Oh! Oh!" filled the room.

"I didn't say whiskey, did I? Any body would think I'd offered to treat you, the way you receive my remarks. Now we can't get the rooms right off, 'cause we can't yet afford to pay the rent of 'em. But there's one thing we can do. There's Silas Bingham—the new man. He's gone and opened a saloon within about a hundred feet of the church, and he's sellin' liquor to children and runnin' a slot machine besides. It's all against the law; but if you think the village trustees are goin' to do anything to enforce the day you're just dead wrong, every one of you. The trustees are most of 'em, in for the graft, and they ain't goin' to close no saloon when it's comin' election 'fore long; not if Bingham serves cocktails between the hymns in church. Maybe the trustees'd come to church better if he did. Maybe you think I'm usin' strong language; but it's true all the same, and you know it's true. Silas Bingham's move is a sassy challenge to us: are we goin' to lie down under it?"

"I must say that I'm painfully surprised at you Mrs. Burke," Mrs. Burns began. "You surely can't forget what wonderful things the League has accomplished in Virginia and—"

"Yes," Mrs. Burke interrupted, "but you see Durford ain't in Virginia so far as heard from, and it's our business to get up and bustle right here where we live. Did you think we were tryin' to reform Virginia or Alaska by absent treatment?"

Mrs. Sapley could not contain herself another moment; so, rising to her feet excitedly she pattered:

"I do not agree with you, Mrs. Burke; I do not agree with you at all. Our meetings have been very inspiring and helpful to us all, and I'm perfectly sure; very uplifting and encouraging; and I am astonished that you should speak as you do."

"I'm very glad you've found them so, Mrs. Sapley. I don't drink myself, and I don't need no encouragin' and upliftin'. It's the weak man that drinks who needs encouragin' and upliftin'; and he wouldn't come near one of our meetin's any more than a bantam rooster would try to hatch turkeys from moth balls. We've got to clear Silas Bingham from off the church steps."

"Well," Mrs. Burns inquired, "what do you propose to do about it, if I may be allowed to inquire?"

Do? The first thing I propose to do is interview Silas Bingham myself privately, and see what I can do with him. Perhaps I won't accomplish nothin'; but I'm goin' to try anyway, and make him get out of that location."

"You can, if anybody can," Mrs. Sapley remarked.

"Thank you for the compliment, Mrs. Sapley. Now Mrs. President, I move, sir—that is, madam—that the parish League appoints me to interview Bingham."

The motion was duly seconded and passed, notwithstanding some mild protests from the opposition, and Mrs. Burke resumed her place as presiding officer of the meeting. Then she continued:

"Excuse me: I forgot the previous question, which somebody moved. Shall we have lettuce or chicken sandwiches at our next meetin'? You have heard the question. Those in favor of chicken please say aye. Ah! The ayes have the chicken, and the chicken is unanimously carried. Any more business to come before the meetin'? If not, we'll proceed to carry out the literary program arranged by Miss Perkins. Then we'll close this meetin' by singin' the 224th hymn. Don't forget the basket by the door."

Silas Bingham was an undersized, timid, pulpy soul, with a horizontal forehead, watery blue eyes, and a receding chin. Out of "office-hours" he looked like a meek solicitor for a Sunday School magazine. One bright morning just as he had finished sweeping out the saloon and was polishing the brass rod on the front of the bar, Mrs. Burke walked in, and extended her hand to the astonished bar keeper, whose chin dropped from sheer amazement. She introduced herself in the most cordial and sympathetic tones saying:

"How do you do, Mr. Bingham? I haven't had the pleasure of meetin' you before; but I always make it a point to call on strangers when they come to town—it must be awful lonely some when you first arrive and don't know a livin' soul. I hope your wife is tolerable well."

Bingham gradually pulled himself together and turned very red, as he replied:

"Thanks! But my wife doesn't live here. It's awful kind of you, I'm sure, but you'll find my wife in the third house beyond the bakery, down two blocks—turn to the right. She'll be glad to see you."

"That's good," Hepsy responded, "but you see I don't have much to do on Thursdays, and I'll just have a little visit with you, now I'm here. Fine day isn't it?"

LEGISLATIVE ACTIVITIES.

Senator Vincent A. Martin has a bill relative to the legitimizing of children born out of wedlock that is believed will have a powerful influence in bettering the moral conditions in the state. The measure allows the courts to decide who the father is, give it his name and in all ways makes it necessary for him to support what by law becomes his child. The bill protects the child and throws all blame and shame upon the father.

In a bill drafted by George G. Scott of Detroit it is provided that all real estate dealers and commission men and every dealer buying or selling property or securing loans on real estate shall require a state license before entering business.

With the withdrawing of the Wiley public utilities bill by the author, Representative Merlin Wiley of the Soo the cities of the state can now have assurance that their rights to control local conditions and rate of public service corporations will not be molested.

The Charlo schools were closed recently in order that the buildings could be fumigated because of the numerous cases of scarlet fever.

South Haven is to erect a new city hall and armory but in the mean time Troop A, First Cavalry, M. N. G., will have its armory and stables in the Shattuck barn which is to be fitted up with several rooms and substantial floors.

Senator Charles E. Townsend of the national congress has succeeded in passing a bill introduced 13 years ago. The bill calls for the reimbursement of the heirs of Marcus P. Norton, once a resident of Jackson, Michigan, but dead years ago. He presented to the government a combined post marking and stamp cancelling machine that does away with the work of two clerks with the idea of being rewarded but although successive postmaster generals have recommended he be suitably rewarded congress failed to act upon it for nearly fifty years.

Moving picture films that were formerly carried by express or special messenger from one town to another are now being carried by the United States mail, made possible by a new postal ruling.

The limited supply of rented houses in Bronson is believed by the residents to be a serious matter. It has been suggested that the village council waive the village taxes for a period of five years during the next year or two on improvements of this nature.

Thousands of dollars have been lost in a week recently by the ever changing ice flows around Muskegon destroying the fish nets.

Articles of association have been filed with the secretary of state at Lansing for the new $100,000 corporation formed by C. H. Godfrey, W. A. Godfrey, R. T. Moore and others of Eau Claire to take over the Fruit Belt Canning Company. The large new plant now in the course of construction and expected to be ready by the time the canning season begins will be second to none in this part of the state.

A company with a capital stock of $100,000 is being formed in Hartford by H. F. Baker and several friends from Chicago for the purpose of building a factory for the manufacture of various articles from a composition of marl as a substitute for hard rubber. H. A. Bellis and Dr. W. S. Phillips have discovered and perfected a method of turning this product into matter unaffected by the elements and very serviceable for water meter discs, pump valves and similar articles where hard rubber has not proven satisfactory.

DOUBLE CROCHET.—Make length of ch sts, thread over hook, skip three ch sts, insert into fourth ch st, draw thread through ch st, thread over hook, through two loops, thread over hook, through the two remaining loops.

TREBLE CROCHET.—Make length of ch sts, thread over hook twice, skip four ch sts, insert hook into fifth ch st, draw thread through ch st, thread over hook, through two loops, thread over hook, through two loops, thread over hook, through the two remaining loops.

PICOT.—Make five ch sts, catch back into the fourth ch st, from the hook, with one sl st. If p is used in connection with a c or d c for an edge, three ch sts, without the connection forms a p.

SPACE.—Used in Flet crochet, one d c, two ch sts, skip 2 sts forms one sp.

GROUP.—Used in Flet crochet, one d c into d c of preceding row, one d c into each of the next three sts, forms one group. Where more groups connect, each following group consists of but 3 d c. Where group is followed by sp the last d c of group also forms the first of sp.

IRISH CROCHET YOKE WITH HONITON BRAID NO. 1

Materials: Two bolts of Honiton Braid No. 2, 2 balls of No. 30 hard twisted crochet cotton.

Roses, make 14 c ch sts, join to form a circle.

First Row: 1 d c, 2 ch sts, repeat until you have 7 d c and 7 sps.

Second Row: 1 s c over d c, into 1 sp, 1 s c over d c, repeat for 7 petals.

Third Row: 1 s c over s c, 4 ch sts, repeat for 7 loops.

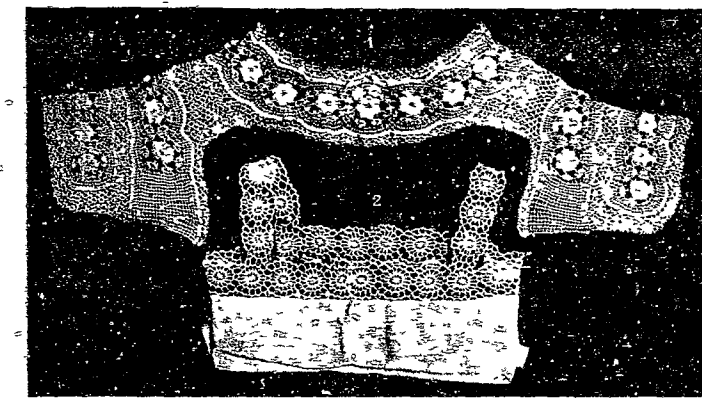

Fourth Row: 1 s c over s c, 7 d c over loop, repeat for 7 petals.

Fifth Row: 1 s c over s c, 5 ch sts, repeat for 7 loops.

Sixth Row: 1 s c over s c, 9 d c over loop, repeat for 7 petals.

Seventh Row: 1 s c over s c, 6 ch sts, repeat for 7 loops.

Eighth Row: 1 s c over s c, 6 d c, 2 ch sts, catch to center p of braid, 2 ch sts forming a p, 6 d c to finish petal.

repeat for 3 petals, take the end of second bolt of braid, fasten the ends crosswise, with needle and thread, sewing over the small portions of the braid, bring 4 wide portions across the bottom of the rose and fasten as before. Make another rose and continue connecting the braid, until you have the round yoke. Fasten thread to the 1st p of braid make 1 d c, 3 ch sts, skip 1 p, repeat making 1 d c, 3 ch sts over narrow portion of the braid also.

Second Row: 1 d c over d c, 2 ch sts, 1 d c, over 2nd ch st, 2 ch sts, 1 d c, over next d c, repeat for this row except at the crossing of the braid here omit the ch sts.

Third Row: 1 d c, over d c, 2 ch sts between, repeat for this row.

Fourth Row: 1 d c into each st for this row.

Fifth Row: 6 ch sts, catch back into the 4th st forming a p, 2 ch sts, 1 p, 2 ch sts, 1 s c, into the 6th st, repeat for 6th and 7th rows, catching each s c, between the p of preceding row. Repeat for opposite edge.

For the sleeve, join 5 roses and the braid, then make 1st row, extending around the 4 sides. At the 4th corner make * 5 ch sts, turn, 17 sp, repeat * for 14 rows, make 10 sps, finishing the last sp with 1 s c, 3 ch sts, turn sp back, then 2 rows straight across, forming the fullness under the arm, repeat for the opposite side and sl st, together. Fasten thread and work around the sleeve, make 2nd, 3rd, and 4th rows of the yoke and 3 rows of p loops. Join 6 roses, as before, make the first 4 rows around the 4 sides, join p loops to p loops of sleeve, continue these loops around 3 sides for 5 rows, double back, make 3 more rows on each end, do not connect. Connect sleeve with yoke, make 7 rows of p loops, filling the space between with short rows of p loops.

For the cord make 1 yard of ch sts with 1 s c into each st.

Roses of 5 petals finish each end.

YOKE FOR CORSET COVER NO. 2

Materials: Two balls of No. 50 mercerized crochet cotton. Start with 8 ch sts, join forming a circle.

First Row: 3 ch sts, 1 t c, 2 ch sts, repeat * until you have 11 t c, 3 ch sts, join to 5th st of the 8 ch sts.

Second Row: 1 s c into each st.

Third Row: 7 ch sts, 1 t c, into the next st, * 7 ch sts, skip 1 st, 1 t c, leave 3 loops on hook, once over hook and into the next st, 2 loops off each time until 1 loop remains, repeat *.

Fifth Row: * 5 s c, 3 ch sts, forming 1 p, 5 s c, all over 1 loop, repeat * break thread. Make another medalion and on the last 2 p, connect with 2 p, of the 1st, medalion. Repeat until you have 5 medalions for each shoulder strap (size 38).

Allow 2 p for connections, fasten thread to next p, 3 ch sts, 1 t c, * 10 ch sts, 2 t c, into next p repeat * until you have 5 loops, then catch into p of next medalion and continue, 5 s c, 1 p, 3 s c, 1 p, 5 s c, all over loop, repeat, break thread. Make 20 medalions for the yoke.

For the lower edge, fasten thread at p, * 1 s c, into 1st p of next loop, 8 ch sts, 1 d c into 1st p of next loop, 8 ch sts, 2 t c, into 1st p of next loop, 2 t c, into 2nd p of next loop, 8 ch sts, 1 d c into 1st p of next loop, 8 ch sts, repeat *.

Last Row: 1 d c, 2 ch sts, skip 2 sts, repeat. Make s c along both edges of the front.

True and Tried Recipes

Fancy Work and Cooking for the Season

Crumb Cookies.

Cup of sugar, ½ cup lard and butter, ½ cup molasses, ½ cup cold water, 2 eggs beaten, 2 cups flour, 2 cups crumbs, 1 teaspoon soda, 1 teaspoon cloves, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, 1 teaspoon raisins, 1 teaspoon currants; stir thoroughly and spread thin in pan and cut in squares when baked.

Apple Frosting.

Pare, then grate 2 tart apples in a deep dish, add 1 cup of sugar, the white of 1 egg; whip altogether until a mountain of snow.

Snow Pudding.

One tablespoon gelatin, ½ cup cold water, ¼ cup lemon juice; 1 cup boiling water, 1 cup sugar, 3 egg whites, salt. Soak the gelatin until soft in cold water, add boiling water; add the sugar and stir until dissolved; add lemon juice and set aside in a cool place to stiffen until about the consistency of honey. Beat the egg whites until they are stiff; add egg whites to the mixture and beat until stiff enough to hold its shape; dip mold in cold water and turn into mold; put aside to cool. Serve cold with boiled custard. This makes a very attractive dish.

Lemon Raisin Pie.

Three eggs, 1 cup sugar, 1 small cup cream, 1 ½ cups seeded raisins, 1 lemon. Beat the yolks of the eggs, add the sugar, cream, the grated rind of the lemon and then the juice of the lemon; stir well while mixing in the lemon juice; beat the whites of the eggs until stiff and add; add the separated raisins and pour into pie crust. Pie Crust: 2 cups flour, 1 teaspoon baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 cup shortening (half butter), ½ cup cold water. Sift the flour, baking powder and salt. Mix in the shortening very lightly with knives, leaving small lumps of shortening not mixed. Add just enough very cold water to make mixture stick together; roll out.

Nut Squares.

For nut squares make a simple cake of 1 cup of butter, 1 cup of sugar, 1 cup of milk, 4 cups of flour and 2 teaspoons of baking powder. Bake in layers. For the filling boil 3 cups of sugar and ¼ cup of hot water till it threads. Pour it slowly over the beaten whites of three eggs and beat rapidly till cool. Spread each layer with icing and sprinkle with chopped nuts. Cut into blocks, ice and ornament with whole nut meats.

Sweet Potato Pudding.

Wash, peel and grate 4 medium-sized sweet potatoes, cover with sweet milk, add 4 eggs, beaten up with enough sugar to sweeten. A potato of ordinary sweetness will take about ½ cup of sugar. Add 4 tablespoons melted butter, 1 teaspoon of vanilla flavoring. Stir all together, bake in a deep, well-greased pan. Cook slowly about 45 minutes. The addition of 2 tablespoons of molasses will make the pudding brown to a prettier color and a little grated coconut will improve its flavor.

Graham Bread.

Two cups graham flour, 1 cup wheat flour, 1 cup buttermilk, ½ cup boiling water, ½ cup molasses, 1 teaspoon soda, ½ teaspoon salt.

BREAD (Continued)

The usual forms of yeast on the market are dry and compressed. In the dry form the yeast is mixed with cornmeal, pressed into cakes and the moisture dried out. There is no growth of the plant while kept in this condition and after a time the plants will die out. So it is best to test the yeast by putting a little with warm water and a small amount of sugar. If in good condition bubbles will shortly rise to the surface.

In compressed yeast the plants are freed from impurities by washing, then mixed with starch and while moist, are pressed into cakes. The plants are in a growing state and as they are provided with both food and moisture, will continue to grow unless kept in a cool place. The life of a compressed yeast cake is from four to five days. If not kept cool molds and bacteria develop, which spoil it for bread making.

A compressed yeast cake in good condition is of uniform creamy color throughout and it breaks easily with sharp edges. If stringy orropy bacteria are at work and it is unfit for use.

Home made yeasts are essentially mixtures of water, flour and potatoes, with some kind of yeast as a "starter." By keeping it in liquid form, the yeast is ready to grow as soon as food and proper temperature are supplied.

Much of the difficulty that has arisen in the use and care of home made yeast is due to the fact that we forget yeasts are plants and require conditions favorable to plant growth. This liquid yeast is quite apt to have growing in it other organisms which may make it unfit for use.

The practice of keeping a bit of dough in the flour bin as a "starter" is not to be commended; and the woman who does not understand why she had poor bread today when a month ago her yeast made good bread, will probably find that the yeasts have eaten all the food provided by the potatoes, flour and sugar, and have died of starvation, even in the flour bin.

Simmons, in "Book of Bread," says "Yeast cannot ferment healthily if surrounded by an excess of alcohol; to keep in active state yeast must be brewed twice a week; do not use sponge after fourth or fifth day."

Lindet, in his "Role of Yeast in Baking," says that the process of refreshing yeasts by the addition of flour and water to a portion of the dough, is not to supply new food to the yeast plant, so much as to overcome bacterial or acid fermentation, and for diluting a toxic substance formed from the proteins of the flour.

Oxygen is also necessary, as is seen by the hastening of the yeast action when poured from one vessel to another.

One objection to the use of liquid yeast is because it is so difficult to determine the quantity of yeast plants in a given amount of liquid. So it is advisable to discard the "starter" frequently and begin again. The form of the yeast does not matter so much as condition and variety of the plant.

The yeast plant grows best at a temperature of from 70 to 90 degrees. Freezing does not kill but it retards the growth so it is not of much value. Below 70 degrees the growth is slow and because the bread remains unbaked so long, bacteria, which gives sour flavors, grow. Above 95 degrees, scumming is also apt to occur. The yeast plant is killed at 135 degrees.

Seventy to 75 degrees is the best temperature at which to keep bread. If it feels warm to the hand, it is too warm. Conditions are more easily regulated in summer than in winter, unless one has a good place to keep it out of the draughts. Bread that is kept too warm is apt to be coarse and dark and have a poor flavor.

Mrs. A. Reed City—"Can I safely substitute rice for potatoes this winter?"

Answer—Not permanently. You might substitute rice two or three times a week and notice no ill effects, especially if your family consists of adults.

Instinct teaches us a lot about "balanced rations" and I think it is instinct that teaches us to seek the combination of potatoes with meat rather than rice with meat. The action of meat in the body is acid. The action of starch in the body is also acid; but a potato contains enough mineral salts to neutralize this acid, or render the potato alkaline. An ordinary sized potato will neutralize the acid from two generous slices of meat.

Rice is such a concentrated food, consisting of such a high percentage of starch, that its action does not overcome the acid resultant from the meat. You know rice will absorb about five times its bulk of water, while a potato contains sufficient water to cook itself.

Care must be taken in reading the advertisements of a great many special foods nowadays. It is so easy to misunderstand a statement like the following: "The full value of our food is greater than this other brand." That may be true so far as it goes, but our food must serve other purposes than merely supply fuel for the body. The neutralization of acids and the regulation of body functions is also of manifest importance.

The director of this club is glad to make arrangements with women's organizations, especially in the smaller towns, to appear at your meetings for talks on the food question. These are not technical, but do tell some of the scientific facts in a simple way. If you are interested, write her for dates, as she has some open ones.

MAJESTIC THEATRE, DETROIT.

Douglas Fairbanks will be the star of the Majestic program next week, in his newest play, "The Americano." This is a story of a South American revolution with Fairbanks falling in love with the daughter of the president of the republic, rescuing her from jail, defeating the plans of a war minister, battling with a dozen soldiers at once and coming out of the melee just a little mused. The drama has more dramatic values and plot than anything in which Fairbanks has heretofore played. "Mammals as Strange Form" is the topic of the second of the new series of "Living Book of Nature Pictures" and besides the usual array of other films Henry Santrey will sing "Good Bye, Dear Old Bachelor Days" and the orchestra will play a series of splendid numbers.

LEGISLATION AND TUBERCULOSIS

The bill introduced by Representative John Schmidt prohibiting the employment in restaurants, hotels, etc., of persons afflicted with tuberculosis and other communicable diseases is in line with the general health movement in the state represented by the state board of health tuberculosis survey, according to health officials.

It is aimed chiefly at tuberculosis although other diseases are included. A very large and direct means of communicating tuberculosis, it is pointed out, is through food and drink, although the first and most important means is through close association and direct contact with a tuberculous individual. The state survey has demonstrated that the employment of persons suffering from this disease is not nearly so uncommon in hotels and restaurants as the public supposes.

It is pointed out that obviously the way to eradicate so widespread a disease as tuberculosis is to concentrate on groups rather than on individuals. Thus if the industrial group can be rendered safe through improved conditions of labor much more will have been gained than if a large number of individual laborers have been cured. Similarly, if the food the public eats in public places can be made safe a very serious source of infection will have been removed.

This law will be but one of a number of measures relating to tuberculosis that the present legislature will be called upon to consider. Perhaps never before in the history of the state has the legislature been so conscious of the universal disease as at the present session. The state board of health survey has caught the interest of a large number of people in all parts of the state and this interest is reflected in the attention legislators are giving it.

WEEKLY CALENDAR.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH NOTES.

(By the Pastor.)
Morning service at 10 o'clock. Subject: "Human and Divine Agencies in the Growth of the Kingdom."

Christian Endeavor and Sunday school at the usual hours.

Evening service at 7 o'clock. Subject: "The Wealth of the Poorest."

The weather man says that the epidemic of "zeritis" has subsided for the year, so no one need remain from church service because of the cold weather. A goodly attendance at the services of next Sunday will atone for the diminished congregations of last Sabbath.

Bertha White and Rue Taft will entertain the Martha Chapter Wednesday, February 21, at the home of the former. Meeting opens at 7:15. Please be prompt. At the recent meeting the following officers were elected for the year: Gertrude Reynolds, president; Izetta Cavell, vice-president; Bertha White, treasurer; Hazel Bishop, secretary.

The Loys circle will meet with Miss Aletha Yerkes Tuesday evening, February 20.

BAPTIST CHURCH NOTES.

(By the Pastor.)

The Sunday morning topic will be, "Little Deeds and Great Motives." If you have looked upon your life work with disappointment because of small accomplishments you need this sermon, or if you imagine your works of righteousness to have been the marvel of Heaven and earth you need the sermon also—so everybody come.

The topic for the evening will be announced from the pulpit.

We still have a few reservations at the front. The seats at the rear are all taken. You know in making up a freight train they always put the empties behind. So do we. Our ushers understand their business.

METHODIST CHURCH NOTES.

(By the Pastor.)

At the morning service next Sunday Dr. D. H. Ramsdell of Ann Arbor, District superintendent, will preach. Every member and friend of the church will want to hear him.

Sunday school at 11:30.

Mr. C. R. VanValkenburg will make the service of the Epworth League at 8 o'clock of more than ordinary interest. All young people cordially invited.

Evening service at 7 o'clock. The pastor will preach.

There will be a sub-district meeting of the Woman's Home Missionary society at the church next Wednesday, Feb. 21. The program will open at 10 a. m. and close at 4 p. m., and there will be guests from Detroit, Ann Arbor, Ypsilanti, Dearborn, Wayne, Plymouth and Farmington. Every member of the church and congregation should be present to share in the profits of this meeting. Among the speakers will be some of the leading workers of the organization.

The Mission study class will meet Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. C. R. VanValkenburg. Visitors are welcome.

Mid-week service Thursday evening at 7 o'clock.

Sunday, Feb. 25, will furnish our people a rare treat. Look for further announcements.

ST. PAUL'S LUTHERAN CHURCH.

(By the Pastor.)

There will be services at 2:30 p. m. Sunday, February 18. All are invited, as this will be a special service on the jubilee year, 1917, of Dr. Martin Luther.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SOCIETY.

Christian Science service in the Ladies Library Sunday morning at 10:45 o'clock.

ORPHEUM THEATRE, DETROIT.

The Orpheum program next week, starting Monday afternoon, runs much to musical numbers with Willards Temple of Music topping the bill. Willard has a stage full of musical apparatus from a great pipe organ to a set of bells. Melodious nonsense, comedy songs and a pianologue will be presented by three popular entertainers. Frank Gaby and company in a comedy ventriloquial act and "A Case for Sherlock," a detective comedy written by Kato S. Smith. Keith and Frank Whittier also are scheduled. Mrs. Vernon Castle, in the fifth episode of "Patria" will go through new and perilous stunts and will also wear a variety of new and fashionable gowns. Feature films will be offered before and after the vaudeville as usual and on Friday night local amateur dancers will compete for prizes in the regular weekly contest.
