WHY SHOULD YOU HESITATE?

YOU HAVE NO RIGHT TO DOUBT OUR SINCERITY WHEN IT IS BACKED BY THIS HONEST PROMISE.

You have no excuse to hesitate—no reason for doubt—when we say to you that with each and every sale of any one of the famous Rexall Remedies we give an honest promise to refund the money paid for it in case it does not give absolute satisfaction.

That is the whole story in a nutshell. That is a system that has prevailed and always will prevail in every one of the more than 5,000 leading drug stores of the United States where Rexall Remedies are sold. That guarantee is not only printed on every package of Rexall Remedies, but is backed every time a sale of one of them is made by the personal guarantee of the Rexall druggist making the sale. You risk nothing when you buy one of the

FALL RACES AND FAIR PLAN FOR NORTHVILLE

FRANK COOK IN LAST SUNDAY'S DETROIT FREE PRESS DISCUSSES SUBJECT AND PRAISES LOCAL ADVANTAGE FOR SAME.

The following article by Frank Cook, published by the Free Press's sport section of last Sunday will be appreciated by those readers of the Record who are interested in the success of local efforts along the special lines indicated as well as those pertaining to the general prosperity of the village.

"If plans now forming go through all right there will be a county fair and race meeting at Northville in September. Northville, probably, has a greater number of owners and breeders in its immediate community in proportion than any section of the state. For years it has been notable as a breeding center, such fleet things as Grace G. and Michigan Queen going from there and winning on all of the circuits, while the half-milers that have graduated from the track are beyond numbers.

"The track at Northville is one of the best anywhere. Generally there is a Memorial day meeting and they start in racing down around 2 15. The soil is good and the track is well laid out.

"Several members of the driving club, together with some of the townsmen and farmers have been talking over the matter of a regular meeting and they feel that they can give one in connection with a county fair. The expenditure to put the grounds in shape for a fair will not be heavy and coming later than the state fair it doubtless will attract many people.

"By midsummer the new Seven-Mile road will be completed, a straight concrete run of 20 miles from Woodward avenue, and a county fair will draw its share of people who have automobiles and are looking for some new place to go.

"Sometime after August 1 this year there will be raced the two divisions of the Michigan Futurity, the colts eligible now being three-year-olds. It is not likely that in either of these events fast time will be made and as the original entry was not a large one, it will be worth while for all who have colts in these stakes to start work on them next month and be ready when the time comes.

"Michigan is about the only state that gives events each year for its own foals, or those owned by the members of the State Breeders' association."

HERE'S MORE ABOUT NORTHVILLE WATER

To the Citizens of Northville:—Owing to the conflicting reports in regard to the Sadler springs, I have asked for an investigation of the water supply.

It is my opinion that this water is absolutely unsafe for drinking purposes, owing to the fact that surface drainage contains the germs present always in manure. It is also my opinion that the health of our people is of more importance than fire protection.

I hereby attach the report of water sent to the state board of health under absolute aseptic conditions.

Respectfully, DR. TOM HENRY.

Dr. T. B. Henry, Health Officer,
Northville, Mich.,

Dear Doctor: The sample of water received from you March 11, has been examined with the following results:

Colonies per cc at room temp., 10,000
Colonies per cc at Inc. temp., 400
Red Colonies on L. L. A., 50
B. Coli in 25 cc Present
B. Coli in 1 cc Present
Potability, Unsafe

From a bacteriological standpoint the findings in this sample of water are very bad indicating it to be unsafe for drinking purposes.

Very truly yours,

A. A. SPOOR,
Bacteriologist, State Board of Health

The following letter has been received by Health Officer, T. H. Turner relating to the Sadler spring and water:

Dr. T. H. Turner, Health Officer,
Northville, Mich.,

Dear Doctor: I have analyzed the two samples of water sent by you of recent date. The spring water is good bacterially, containing no Colon Bacilli. The sample of hydrant water, altho containing no B. Colon has a high bacterial count, evidence of possible organic contamination. I must therefore, regard it as suspicious.

You state in the application that the spring water analyzed by M. A. C. a week previous was found to contain B. Colon. This is very interesting, and in view of the sanitary surroundings of the spring, their findings are probably correct. While our analysis shows the spring water to be good, bacterially, that condition may have changed since the sample was taken. I would advise that you analyze the spring water at intervals of five or seven days for a short period, and thereby determine whether B. Colon is present at all.

Very truly yours,
WM. LEVIN,
In charge of Water Analysis,
University of Michigan.

There is no question but what cement walls, or walls of some kind should be built around the Sadler springs. Dr. Turner some time ago informed the council that a wall or something of the kind would have to be placed around the spring reservoir, and this is to be done we are informed as soon as weather permits.

The council is the village health board, and that body will no doubt soon take steps to protect the springs in question from even a suspicion of impure water. Dr. Turner does not believe there is any immediate danger as indicated by the U. of M. analysis.

K. P. BARN DANCE ANOTHER SUCCESS

FIVE HUNDRED PEOPLE ENJOYED THE ANNUAL OCCASION.

SPECIAL CAR OUT FROM DETROIT WITH FORD EMPLOYEES.

The K. P. barn dance held in the rink last Friday night was, as usual, a great success, with an attendance of about five hundred persons.

Fine orchestra furnished splendid music for the occasion and Harry Clark's commissary department supplied an enjoyable luncheon. The decorations—corn stalks, ears of corn and bales of hay—while not so elaborately carried out as heretofore, lent more room for dancing.

Louis Ear of the traffic department of the Ford Motor Co., headed a special D U R car out for the occasion, containing sixty young men from the traffic and engineering departments of that company. The young men were accompanied by sixty bewitching young ladies and they all as they expressed it—had the time of their lives.

NEW EARLY CLOSING PLAN.

Most of our local merchants have decided to close their stores at six o'clock, Central standard time, on Tuesday, Thursday and Friday evenings, beginning with the first week in April, instead of closing every evening as has been done through the winter. On Monday, Wednesday and Saturday evenings, the stores will be open as usual, throughout the entire summer. The plan is in operation in many places and has proved very satisfactory to all concerned. By this method the merchants are meeting the public even more than half way, and they are hoping that their customers will cooperate with them to the fullest extent. Considering the matter from the viewpoint of the proprietors and clerks, whose working day must be several hours longer than that of other people when the business places are kept open until nine o'clock, it will be easy to see that they are still making no small concession to the convenience of their patrons.

WATSON STILL THE BEST MAN.

At the wrestling event Wednesday night in the Alseum Theatre, the main bout was a feature of the evening. Watson had a real opponent in Burgess—Burgess throwing him for first fall in 39 minutes. Watson won the other two falls easily. Bill Jones is on the wrong side of the mat again. He let Agie put him down, but only after a hard struggle. It looked for a while as though Bill was the winner but Agie proved too much for him. Verhoef went on the mat against Parker. Verhoef was out classed but he was game and made Parker earn every fall.

The date of the next match is not known yet but Manager Thompson has reserved the right to select the next opponent for Watson and plans that they shall not know whom they are to meet until they are on the mat and the same plan holds for the other two bouts. This ought to insure all fans a square deal and a good match.

NOTICE TO AUTO OWNERS!

After April 1, all persons driving automobiles without a 1917 license will be arrested. This is a final warning. ERNEST LYKE,

LIME.

A natural sequence to our recent articles in this department relating to the growing of alfalfa and sweet clover is the subject we shall herewith discuss.

Technically, lime is referred to as "calcium." The value of lime in agricultural practice is neither a new thought nor an experiment. It has been used commercially in European countries for centuries, and not only the value, but the absolute need of its use in this country on all types of soil has long been fully demonstrated. The four distinctive merits of lime are: It is a plant food; it has the power to neutralize an acid soil; has the chemical action it develops in the soil, other plant foods are liberated and made available to the growing crops; it tends to cement a loose sandy soil and adversely with the stiff clays renders them more friable.

There are few scientists any longer who will deny that calcium is a plant food; therefore, as such, if deficient in the soil, the crop determines the absence. In other words, if the soil is possessed of phosphorus, nitrogen and potash in sufficient available quantities to produce a forty-bushel per acre wheat crop, with other things equal, and the calcium content is sufficient only to produce fifteen bushels, the yield will be exactly fifteen bushels. It has been fully demonstrated on many soils, under many conditions, over a wide expanse of territory, that lime has been the "limiting factor" in crop production.

Dr. Charles E. Thorne, director, Ohio experiment station, a national authority on soils and fertilizers, states: "When the land begins to need lime it is a waste of time and money to continue to cultivate it until this need is supplied; for the economic use of every other fertilizer material, including manures, depends upon the lime supply."

So much emphasis has been placed upon the use of lime simply for correcting soil acidity mainly to get a stand of alfalfa, sweet clover, red clover and other legumes, that its importance as a plant food has oftentimes been overlooked. If lime were as scarce and as costly as potash is today, probably its recognition would be greater.

Various agencies in the soil tend to create a sour or acid condition, such for example, as applying barnyard manure and turning under green manure, which is the process of decomposition under average conditions develops soil acidity. We learn from scientists more and more the great value of "beneficial bacterial action" in the soil. This action has properly been classified as "the yeast of the soil." The good bacteria cannot thrive where there is not some organic matter or humus and a neutralizing agency at work. In other words, beneficial bacterial action may be overcome by harmful kinds if conditions are unfavorable. By way of comparison The housewife develops a desired bacterial action in her flour and water mixture when she adds yeast to make bread. This bacterial growth is developed when the dough is kept in a warm favorable temperature and in due course has risen and is ready to knead and to be shaped into loaves. On the other hand, if, after the yeast is added, the dough is set in a cold damp place, the desired bacterial action is overcome by a harmful growth, commonly known as mold.

Thus, with our soils, in order to encourage the development of this helpful soil bacteria we use lime to correct, by neutralizing or sweetening, an acid or sour condition. There are many crops that will not thrive on a sour soil, notably alfalfa and sweet clover. Some crops seem indifferent to lime while a very few, such as the lupines and strawberries, do best on a sour soil.

By the chemical action set up in the soil when lime is applied, phosphorus and potash that may be present in an unavailable form are split up and made available to the growing plants. Of course lime cannot supply phosphorus and potash if it is not in the soil to be unlocked.

To determine whether or not your soil needs lime the blue litmus paper test is probably one of the best. You can get this paper from your local druggist at five or ten cents a book. To use it take a double handful of soil, sufficiently moist to easily pack; press into a ball, break in half, insert a sheet of litmus paper, press together and let stand for half an hour. If when the ball is broken open the paper has turned solid red or spotted red, you may be quite sure that your soil is sour or acid and needs lime. The exact quantity of lime your soil will need cannot be determined so readily, nor so accurately. Small test sowings of lime on your farm, or in your community where soil and crop conditions are similar, applying various amounts, will ultimately give you the best information on this particular point. As a rule, it is found that from one to three tons of ground limestone—or either lime carrying materials giving an equivalent calcium content—give best results. There are several different forms of lime used for agricultural purposes, chief among them:

- Fresh burned or "caustic" lime;
- Hydrated lime;
- Marl;
- Air slacked lime;
- Ground limestone;
- Wood ashes.

Only in exceptional cases would we use the caustic or fresh burned lime. The hydrated form of lime is desirable under many conditions, particularly when one had a long wagon haul. Marl and ground limestone are the most commonly used and give general satisfaction. Wood ashes, either hardwood or pine, carry in the neighborhood of 65 per cent of calcium and the unleached, particularly of the hardwood, have a high potash content. Relative values of the different forms of lime are as follows:

4,000 pounds of ground limestone
4,000 pounds (dry) marl
2,960 pounds hydrated lime
2,240 pounds burned lime
6,720 pounds leached wood ashes.

To be valuable and give desired results the limestone must be ground very finely. This is important.

Marl is ordinarily taken from the average deposit has a high moisture content. On the average a yard of this wet material will weigh approximately 2,350 pounds; when dried out about 1,675 pounds.

If we had occasion to use fresh burned lime we should never apply more than 1,200 pounds to the acre. Its action on the soil is quick, while other forms are much slower.

Caring For The Herd

By T. F. West.

A well bred herd, comfortably and cleanly housed, properly and scientifically fed, under proper care and management would be the ideal combination for the dairy farm. How often do we see, even on our best dairy farms, well bred and high producing cows roughly handled. A good cow is a delicate organism and must be handled as such. The quantity as well as the quality of her milk, will be affected by the attitude the caretaker takes toward her. Assuming that the herd is a good one, the housing problem is solved, and the proper feeds are obtainable, the owner is still a good 50 per cent away from ideal conditions unless he is able to properly care for his herd himself or hire some one who is competent. The average "hired man" on the farm hates the cow problem. He hates the milking and care of the stock after his work in the field is done for the day. It is a serious problem for the owner to get the right kind of help. Conditions, however, are changing and one of the qualifications that a "hired man" must now have is the ability to milk and take care of the cows.

The good dairyman should be in love with his work. He should love cows, and believe in them and understand them. He must be industrious and painstaking, he must not only know how to feed and breed stock and how to care for them but he must be willing to do these very things.

In the production of clean and sanitary milk extra care must be given the cows. They should be carried carefully every day so as to remove all loose hair and dirt. The udder and the rear parts of the cow should be clipped so that dirt will not cling to them and these parts can be more easily cleaned. The udder should be wiped with a damp cloth just before milking. The bedding should be clean and fresh and hay should not be fed before milking time. All of the feed should be clean and wholesome, and free from bad odors. Drinking water should be fresh and clean. The cows should be healthy. Sanitary milk can not be produced from diseased cows. Epidemics affecting a whole community are often traced to an unclean dairy. Each animal in the herd should be tested for tuberculosis and any diseased cases removed. It is always well to remember that tuberculosis is not transmitted by heredity and that the offspring will be free from disease if properly isolated from the affected member.

The stables must be kept clean. This applies to dust, cobwebs and the like, as well as manure and litter. Plenty of light and good ventilation is essential. The floors should be of cement and the gutters and litter should be cleaned out twice daily. The refuse should be hauled directly to the field or drawn away to a water tight pit, sufficiently distant from the stables so that odors will not return. The yards should be clean and well drained. If clean and sanitary milk is to be produced no other animals should be kept in the same stables with the cows. Milk is easily affected by any odor, however slight, and should not be left standing in the stables but removed to the milk house immediately after taken from the cows. The cows should be bedded liberally and often enough so that the litter never gets foul. Old straw makes the best bedding and the finer the better.

The pails, cans, strainers and the like should be carefully cleaned by first soaking in warm water and then thoroughly washed in boiling water, containing some cleansing material, and then rinsed in cold water. This should be done after each milking. All milking utensils should then be inverted and kept in pure air, preferably sunlight.

The milking should be done at regular intervals. It is not necessary that the milking periods be the same number hours apart, but they should be at the same time each day. The milker should be clean, clean, clean. The clothing should be clean and sweet. He should be of clean habits. Milk will absorb the odor of tobacco more readily than it will absorb the odor of manure. His hands should be clean and he should milk with dry hands. A cow should never be milked with wet hands, neither should the teats be wet with milk before milking. It is often said that a cow will give her milk better if her teats are moistened with her milk before milking. The good dairyman knows that this is absurd. The dry hand milker is always preferred.

The milk should be run over a cooler or placed in a tank containing ice or in a tank containing running water and in either case the temperature of the water should not be allowed to fall below 60 degrees Fahrenheit.

The cow should always be spoken to gently and never harshly treated. The more of a pet the cow can be made the better results can be attained. No unnecessary noises should be allowed in the barn. The high producing cow is of a nervous temperament and anything that will excite the cow will affect the flow of milk.

Quietness and cleanliness, freedom from all impurities in the stables and their surroundings is a good 50 per cent in good, wholesome milk production every time.

The Wonderful Story of The Soil

By George F. Jordan

This series of articles which is to appear each week in this paper was written so that everyone who reads them may understand the story of the soil. What the soil is made of, how it can best serve us, and how we can treat it for the best results are the objects of this work. The good it will do will be measured by the practical use which you may make of the things contained herein.—Editor.

CHAPTER IV.

Maintaining Soil Moisture.

One of the greatest influences on the capillary capacity of soils is the water level, the term meaning that level in the ground at which the water stands. In the case of creek and river bottoms this level varies from a few inches to a few feet, and it is naturally lower in elevations. In some instances the level is below a hard pan which forms just below the surface, and in such a case capillary action is restricted. In wet weather the hard pan doesn't allow the water to go through and in dry weather the same cause keeps the moisture from reaching surface.

When Potato Crops are Well Fed They Return Big Profits

Texture, or the relative size of the particles plays an important part also. We have seen how the greater pore space is possible in clays over sandy soils. A fine textured soil then naturally holds more water. This means that while the rate of travel of water through clay is slower, yet this same clay will hold more capillary water than will sand. The pores being smaller, surface tension is accordingly greater, and clay will bring water to the surface from a lower depth than will the coarser soils.

Structure affects capillarity in much the same way as texture. The grouping of the particles into kernels means more angles to the tubes formed by the pores. It also means greater surface tension hence a higher flow of capillary water than where the soil is puddled. In general, any soil that is in the best condition for crop growth is at its greatest capacity for capillary moisture.

It is generally known that the sponge has great absorptive power. Humus or decayed vegetable matter in the soil acts in much the same way as a sponge in taking up and holding water. Place an end of a sponge in a pan of water, and in a short time a large amount has been "soaked up." In this same manner, humus "soaks up" water from below and above. It first draws one film, then this film draws the one next to it and eventually the movement of the entire column of water takes place.

An application of manure acts in much the same way as humus, if worked into the soil. Even if not worked in, a dressing of manure or fertilizer on top acts the same as a mulch or a rain, that is, it tends to increase the moisture in the top layers which causes a greater pull upward on the water below. In a dry fall, a top dressing of manure on wheat gives good results, not so much at the time in adding fertility to the soil as by the effect of bringing more moisture to the surface.

It is often claimed that in a dry year a light rain does more harm than good. The reason for this is that where conditions are such that the crust cannot be broken, the moisture added to the soil increases the capillary action to such an extent that moisture is wasted, when the amount of rain has been so slight as to add no appreciable amount of moisture to the soil.

This leads us to the soil mulch. After every rain there is a crust formed on the surface. This is full of small openings acting as flues through which water passes as vapor. If a light cultivation is given the soil kernels are so rearranged that the flues are destroyed and the moisture checked before becoming vapor.

When you take a blanket off the ground where it has laid over night you will notice that the ground is

Controlling The Common Cabbage Worm

By F. H. Chittenden

The common cabbage worm, the most destructive insect enemy of cabbage and related crops in the United States, begins its depredations as soon as the young plants are set out in the spring. Steps to combat it should be taken at an equally early date.

Although the insect caused the total destruction of cabbage, cauliflower and other crops in large areas in the years immediately after its first appearance in this country in the sixties, control measures have now been perfected to such a degree and adopted to such an extent that losses need not be great. Spraying with a solution of 2 pounds of powdered arsenate of lead, 2 pounds of arsenate of lead in paste form, or 1 pound of Paris green to 50 gallons of water should be begun as soon as the plants are set out and should be repeated as often as examination of the plants show it to be necessary.

The common cabbage "worm" is the larvae of a white butterfly having black-tipped wings. The butterflies appear on warm spring days as early as March, even in the northern states, and continue about gardens and fields until after several severe fall frosts. In the Gulf region they are present throughout the season. Eggs are laid on cabbage and related plants where they hatch in from four to eight days.

The caterpillar is velvety green, about the color of the cabbage foliage. It eats voraciously and grows rapidly, becoming full grown in from ten to fourteen days after hatching. Three generations occur each season in the northeast, and probably six in the extreme south. The first generation usually develops on wild plants.

Hand picking may be practiced successfully in small gardens. Where sprays are employed they should be applied in a fine mist, since coarser applications tend to gather in drops on the leaves and run off.

Community action in combating the cabbage worm is desirable wherever cabbage and related crops are grown extensively. Agreements should be entered into by the truckers of the community for each to spray throughout the season and to carefully clean the fields of the bulk of the old stalks as soon as the crop is harvested. A few stalks should be left at regular intervals as traps on which the last generation of female butterflies will deposit eggs. Such stalks should be poisoned freely with arsenicals so that the worms of the last generation will not develop.

THE EDUCATIONAL FACTOR.

Educational work of the Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts and the Campfire Girls is described in the annual report of the commissioner of education, department of the interior, just issued. In describing the educational phase of Boy Scout work, Mr. James E. West, chief scout executive, declares: "The Boy Scout movement aims to reinforce all of the agencies which make for right living and character development in the youth of America. It does not seek to supersede the home, church or school, but to supplement these institutions largely in the leisure time of the boy; and to impart by means of its own programs and exercises the virtues of chivalry, honor and good citizenship. The character-building work of the movement is presented to boys in what is meant to be an 'attractive wrapping.' It is based largely on the method of learning by doing, in order that boys may be taught to be resourceful and self-reliant in all situations in which they may be placed.

"The movement is non-sectarian and non-political. Its program offers to the boy a well-rounded mental, physical and moral experience, largely out-of-doors, and calculated to develop a love of country, God and neighbor. For its success the movement depends upon the voluntary leadership of men of high ideals, who serve as scout masters and scout commissioners. The educational aspect of the work is emphasized by the fact that of the 7,067 men who held commissions as scout masters on December 31, last, about 65 per cent are college men and over 80 per cent have either a high-school or a college education; 1,655 give their occupation as clergymen, and 790 as public school teachers; others are professional men, journalists, students or engaged in mechanical or mercantile pursuits. In practically every one of the 350 chartered councils the public schools are definitely represented through the service of the school superintendent on the executive board, and in many cases the school superintendent serves as president of the council."

The Growing Of Early Sweet Corn

—BY—

W. F. Tindall

Boyne City, Michigan.

There are many important elements in connection with the successful growing of early sweet corn, as the difference of a few days sometimes makes a vast difference in price received.

The most important element is variety, earliness being first requirement, quality is of secondary importance for the first corn on the market will bring the price regardless of quality; it is to this end the writer has worked the past several years and to show how successful I have been will outline the method followed.

I always sprout my seed and plant by hand, marking ground three feet each way and cover very shallow with hoe, this may seem tedious but experience has taught me that it pays.

The spring of 1908 I planted a small package of early sweet corn in the garden, among this I found one stalk with two small ears that was much earlier than the rest, these two nubbins were saved and planted and from them have developed a truly wonderful corn.

It has always been my custom to go through the field before any corn is picked and mark the first ears to develop by tying a string around each ear, when ripe these stalks are cut and hung up to dry out in the open, then husked and sorted only retaining the best, this is hung in a well ventilated place and thoroughly dried until late in the fall when it is taken down and hung in the attic until testing time, after testing it is shelled and sacked. Have no seed for sale.

This has not only been developed into a large extra early corn through seed selection but has been changed from eight rows which the original nubbins had, to ten, twelve and fourteen rows of kernels.

A warm well drained sandy soil is best suited for the growing of early sweet corn, my method is to turn down vetch and rye early in the spring, top dress with about fifteen tons of well decayed horse manure and about five hundred pounds of acid phosphate per acre.

Nearly my whole output goes to the resort trade, have had other gardeners come twenty miles after my corn so as to supply their resort trade, have picked as high as one thousand dozen per acre and this brought me twenty-five cents per dozen wholesale.

Farmers and their families who live in the vicinity of Grand Rapids have spent two days with the Grand Haven citizens under the guidance of Ottawa agricultural agent, D. L. Hagerman, listened to talks upon the growing of garden truck and celery and had the farm loan plan explained.

S. C. L. Brown of Ionia and Louis Schmolitz of Grand Rapids are behind plans for the building of a play house in Ionia. These parties also have plans to erect a five-story hotel to contain 60 rooms, a banquet hall and other modern equipment.

The tankers of Kent county which comprise district number four of the state organization are planning the organization of a county association.

PIKE TOUR CANCELLED, TO DEDICATE FOUNTAIN

Drinking Fountain for Man and Beast in Honor of First State Road Commissioner, Horatio Earle

Cass City, Mich.—Michigan and the middle west in general will not enjoy the annual pike tour that has been looked forward to, from last season. The decision calling off this annual event in Michigan was made at a meeting of the executive committee and William H. Loutitt, president of the Western Michigan Pike Association.

In place of the tour it is planned to erect a drinking fountain at this city in honor of Horatio Earle, the first highway commissioner of the state. The drinking fountain will be for man and beast as well as automobiles.

The place of erection will be about three-quarters of a mile outside the city on the first state reward road ever built in Michigan. This road is known as Number One State Reward Road.

Frank R. Rogers, state highway commissioner, and John I. Gibson, secretary of the West Michigan Development Bureau, have been appointed a committee to make the arrangements for the erection and dedication of the drinking fountain. For this purpose they will soon arrive at this place to make final arrangements and set a date for the affair.

Horatio "Good Roads" Earle, in whose honor the drinking fountain is being planned, is also known as the "unconstitutional commissioner" from the fact that after he had held the office for a period of two years it was found to be unconstitutional. For all the labor, time and pains he had taken he, therefore, received no remuneration from the state. The extra title of "Good Roads" in his name was given him because of his efforts to better the state highways. He is the father of the state reward road law and was the principal factor in getting it passed by the state legislature.

It is planned to make the dedication as thrilling and as interesting affair as has been the annual tours. While automobile and Good Road associations have taken great interest in past road celebrations it is expected that the affair to come off at this place will surpass them all and people from all parts of the state will journey by road and rail to partake. The fountain will be a lasting memorial to Horatio Earle and the first improvement to Michigan state roads.

Mrs. Emma Bingham Winegar, 78, of Grand Rapids, widow of Captain William Winegar, one of the early furniture dealers of the city, is dead after a long illness.

Fearing that the Owosso dealers were contemplating to get the "producers" of milk to lower their rate during the summer, the latter have demanded the dealers pay $1.90 instead of $1.75 a hundred as formally for milk or they would build their own co-operative station, of which they already have a building in view, and sell the milk direct to the consumer for eight cents a quart. Dealers are now charging nine cents. Two thousand dollars have already been subscribed toward a co-operative creamery. In case it is put into operation the surplus milk will be used to make cheese.

LEGISLATIVE

City Corporation Counsel Lee of Detroit presented a bill to the legislature to repeal the Giles and Bayliss telephone laws, which give the state railroad commission complete jurisdiction over telephone companies, placing this power with cities under the home rule act. The bill also aims to cut off all vested rights such as utilities claim to have accrued under the much discussed 1915 state law, which the Consumers Power company claims to be operating under. The bill is a twin to the Groesbeck utility measure and completely revolutionizes the regulation and control of all telephone companies.

If final adjournment of the legislature is set for April 20th it is estimated there will be about 500 bills that will fail of passage.

The house passed the Bryant resolution to amend the constitution in regard to the state's participation in state road work, and providing a universal county district system. The amendment will probably be on the ballot at the April election. It was rushed tonight, after an explanation by Representative Flowers that the amendment is necessary in order to participate in the distribution of federal good roads money. If the amendment is adopted Michigan will get approximately $9,000,000 of federal money in the next five years.

Justice John E. Bird of the supreme court is strongly in favor of the bill introduced in the senate by Charles Deland of Jackson, making it impossible to carry to the state court of last resort cases where the amount involved does not exceed $500.

A proposed amendment is to be introduced into the house of representatives by A. L. Hopkins of Manistee where by shipments of white pine coming from districts outside the state affected with white pine blister rust will be prohibited.

The Weissert bill to amend the teachers' pension law by adding a referendum is meeting with strong opposition from the teachers' lobby of Grand Rapids.

The Nelson amendment to the primary law which will require all voters to declare their party at the nomination primaries is looked upon with favor in the house but may receive opposition in the senate. Lieutenant Governor Dickinson selected a committee on elections in the senate who are apposed to any radical alterations.

Senator Harry C. White of Grand Rapids has introduced a resolution that urges the income tax replace the tax on personal property, the schedule to be placed upon married men earning more than $4,000 and single men earning more than $3,000, $2,000 and $1,500 a year.

Because of the ridiculous methods discovered in various state institutions regarding the business methods, Representative Welch has suggested that the Michigan Agricultural college be appointed state farmer to guide the various institutions in their farm work telling what the soil is best adapted to and how to raise the products with the biggest profits.

An old bill has been revived by Representative Crawford which will require boards of education to furnish the text books for the schools.

Senator McRae introduced a bill intended for those actors and actresses who endeavored to gain applause by rapping the American flag about them. The bill, if passed would put a stop to this. The same bill will not allow the playing of the Star Spangled Banner with any other medleys, nor for dance or exit march music.

The committee of the whole in the house of representatives have approved the Lemire bill which is to amend the constitution subjecting members of school boards to the recall.

Hallet's bill that will give municipalities the right to operate fuel yards created considerable discussion. While intended to be put before the voters at the spring election it is now expected not to come up until the November, 1918, election.

A bill is to be introduced making bread of Michigan to weigh either 16 or 32 ounces. Making the weight standard for the state will prohibit bakers from obeying city regulations and still send under weight bread to other cities.

Representative Planck has introduced a bill that will give the state board of health the right to order cities to cease throwing garbage and refuse into rivers used for drinking purposes. The bill requires that a garbage plant must be more than 20 miles from a filtration plant. Under its provisions any city may be required to place sewerage disposal systems in operation.

While Senator Damon was fighting for his bill that would allow women to vote for presidential electors, his own wife died and he left Lansing. It is very probable the bill will pass.

Governor Sleeper has stated that if the Foote bill did not pass the senate he would call a special session before the law makers could reach their trains and keep them at Lansing until it was passed. The house has already approved the measure.

Secretary of State Vaughan has made recommendations that may become an amendment to the present automobile law. It will require 50 cents a horse power and no reference made to weight for passenger cars and motor cycles; 30 cents for trucks and $3 flat for electric passenger cars. The amendment will empower the secretary of state to employ inspectors to visit garages and check up on the cars and find out who are violating the laws.

Representative Wagner would like to see the barber shops of the state follow the closing laws as closely as do the saloons and would make it illegal to be open on Sunday.

OPTOMETRIST USES NO MEDICINE

Corrects All Errors of Vision With Proper Use of Glasses.

An optometrist, first of all, is a specialist. He devotes his life to correcting errors of vision with proper glasses, and seeing that they fit perfectly, because he realizes that without absolutely correct adjustment glasses are not nearly so effective.

The Optometrist never treats diseased eyes. He is trained to detect diseased conditions and always refers such cases to a physician for treatment. The optometrist never uses medicine or drugs.

For errors of vision not caused by actual disease an optometrist is most desirable, as his work is confined exclusively to the examination of the eye and the selection and adjustment of proper glasses.

Should an examination prove glasses to be unnecessary, the optometrist will tell you so.

The reasonable charges of all optometrists in Michigan leave no excuse for delay in correcting errors of vision, and few things are more important than caring for your eyes.

Be sure you see an optometrist—not a glass peddler or a bargain-counter optometrist.

MISAPPLIED GENIUS.

Notwithstanding the universal indignation of the American public as evidence continues to multiply concerning the far-reaching and long-existing treachery of Germany in regard to this country, it is impossible for any thoughtful student of human affairs not to feel a thrill of actual admiration for the intelligence that is responsible for phenomenal far-sightedness, wonderful grasp of detail, executive genius and absolutely colossal "nerve" there is probably no parallel in political history to the gigantic scheme of operations, so deliberately planned and so extensively carried out. Not only detailed preparation for actual hostilities against the European powers has been a part of the great idea but indications point to a plan for world-dominance that dwells by comparison the wildest dreams of an Alexander or a Napoleon. An intricate and appallingly efficient spy system with its accompanying mission of inflaming certain elements and arousing national enmities has been carried into every neutral nation on the face of the globe, it would seem. Absolutely nothing appears to have been overlooked nothing left to chance, nothing omitted that could be supposed to lead toward the desired end. The only mistake seems to have been in estimating the temper of the nations, toward each other and the sentiment of the people of the United States toward their own country. It would perhaps be impossible to comprehend the actual American spirit from a viewpoint like that of the German leadership, although the misapprehension in that respect is one which makes us thank Heaven for the real truth. But there of national genius like that of the German government turned in the right direction! What a world-power indeed Germany might have been had her mighty resources of mental, political and material wealth been applied to the formation of a governmental system that should aim to excel all others in its benefits to humanity!

More and more are modern developments undermining the old cherished beliefs. First, the application for a divorce in Detroit the other day alleged as his main grievance that his wife didn't talk enough, while a woman who wanted to divorce her matrimonial partner gave as a good and sufficient excuse the testimony that she was unable to endure his constant "nagging". Can these be terrible examples of that insidious "feminism" of which we have heard so many dire prognostications as threatening to revolutionize human existence?

When (or if) Uncle Sam's "dogs of war" are let loose on the ocean chase, perhaps they will at least be able to make the prowler "Moewe" "scat". (We haven't the slightest idea as to the correct pronunciation of the name of that famous German cruiser, but it looks like a cat word, anyway).

The scarlet fever, infantile paralysis and other epidemics endangering the lives of children in Detroit will soon have to yield the palm for efficiency to the automobile epidemic. Nineteen children were killed in that city in nine recent days by the motor method.

A timber wolf was killed the other day over in Genesee county, where such animals had been supposed to be extinct for a generation or two. No doubt this reversion to the primitive is "owing to the war".

The only thing that has really been made cheaper by the war in Europe is human lives. They are held in very low value over there and still going down fast.

One of the most dangerous diseases that can attack an American citizen these days is disloyalty to this country. It is very likely to cause serious disablement, at least. None of the comparatively few sporadic cases so far discovered have proved fatal but it is more than probable that as time goes on fatal results may be expected if the disease persists.

A 17-year-old scion of the Vanderbilt family has sold his elegant steam yacht to the government for $1. This exorbitant price was necessary because our Uncle Samuel is barred from receiving presents.

WEEKLY CALENDAR.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH NOTES.

Rev. Dr. William T. Jaquess of Detroit has consented to occupy the pulpit Sunday morning. This will be good news to the many friends of Dr. Jaquess, who always receives a cordial welcome from his former parishioners here. His marked ability as a speaker also insures a pleasing and profitable service for all who attend.

Sunday school will convene as usual at twelve o'clock. It is hoped that all teachers and members will make a special effort to keep the attendance up to the customary standard.

Christian Endeavor at six o'clock.

Announcement will be made at the Sunday morning service, in regard to plans for the evening.

The Martha Chapter will meet at the home of Mrs. McKahn Wednesday evening, April fourth. Meeting opens at 7:15. Please be prompt.

BAPTIST CHURCH NOTES.

(By the Pastor)
Prof. Goodrich of Albion will have charge of the Sunday morning service, and will conduct a Sunday school workers' conference at the M. E. church at 2 p. m., where he will also address ardent congregation in the evening. Hence there will be no service in the evening at our church.

Our Sunday school is sending the pastor as delegate to the state Sunday school convention at Kalamazoo, which will be in session March 29 and 30. He will remain over Sunday at Gableville where he served as pastor for a term of four years.

It is hoped that all will avail themselves of the opportunity of hearing Prof. Goodrich. It will be well worth your while.

METHODIST CHURCH NOTES.

(By the Pastor)
May there come a special spirit of devotion to every disciple of Jesus Christ as we commemorate the week of his passion. To this end there will be special devotional services at the church, each evening of next week. The pastor's sermon topic for Sunday morning will be, "Love's Token, or an Incident at a Feast in Bethany." This will be the first of the series which will be given through the week. The services will begin at seven o'clock.

Sunday afternoon, at 2:30, there will be a conference of Sunday school workers led by Prof. F. S. Goodrich, secretary of the Michigan State Sunday School Association and workers of the Wayne Co. Association. This will be a three fold conference. 1. For workers in the junior department, in the Young people's room. 2. For workers in the intermediate department, in the Epworth League room. 3. For workers in the adult department, in the auditorium. All Sunday school workers of Northville are invited to attend.

The Epworth League service at six o'clock, will be under the direction of Miss Watts. All young people welcome.

At seven o'clock, Prof. Goodrich will give an illustrated address on the Sunday school work of the world. He will use a fine stereopticon and will show views of the work of Sunday schools as he has seen it in the various countries of the world.

The Epworth League has something of interest to the community which they will give in the not far distant future. Look for further announcement later, "At the Village Post Office".

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SOCIETY.

Christian Science service in the Ladies Library Sunday morning at 10:45 o'clock.

BENEFIT ENTERTAINMENT.

The Presbyterian Sunday school will give a benefit entertainment in the Alseum Wednesday evening, April 4, presenting Mary Pickford in "Little Pal." The admission will be 15 cents. Seats reserved free at Murdoch's store. The proceeds are to be used for the purchase of hymn books for the Sunday school.

GARRICK THEATRE, DETROIT.

A play plentifully supplied with laughs and touched with inspiration, "Old Lady 31," which Lee Kugel will present at the Garrick theatre, Detroit, next week, commencing Monday evening, with a cast of unusual excellence and that wonderful actress, Emma Dunn, as the star. There is a world of fine comedy in the setting that the old ladies in "The Home" gave gruff old Abe, with the result that it quite turns his head, raises a scandal and nearly forces him and Angie out of the retreat.

Mr. Kugel has spared no effort to make the production as perfect as it could be, and the scene showing the interior of "The Home" is a gem in the old fashioned detail and atmosphere. The play, the star and the production are all delightful, and should please local audiences to their entire satisfaction.

FURNITURE and RUGS

Just a few words this week about two of our hobbies—Furniture and Rugs. We want to especially call your attention to our Dining Room Department, "Furniture of Lasting Worth."

Dining Room Furniture of Lasting Worth

NATURALLY you don't buy a dining room table every year of your life. Perhaps you buy one at the start of your married life and then maybe another ten years afterward. So you see it pays to buy carefully in the first place.

Our dining room sets are worth your notice. We respectfully call your attention to the fact that all our furniture is worth your notice.

If you are contemplating buying anything in the line of furniture be sure to pay us a visit.

You will get good, honest furniture, the kind that is up to date and is well made. It will make your home brighter and happier. Our prices are very attractive, just as attractive as our furniture.

Room-Sized Rugs of Great Value.

We want to call your attention to our Rug Department. We can't help speaking about it about every week because people will forget, and then again for another reason, we have New Rugs in Every Week and you have to call pretty often to see all we have. We have the real Rugs on huge display racks—Not Samples—all ready to lay on your floors.

This is also the season time to think about Cedar Chests, Bed Davenports, Leather Rockers and Reed Rockers.

You buy the goods, we Deliver them free of charge, no matter where you live.

At a session of the said court held at the Court house in the City of Detroit, on the 10th day of March A. D. 1917.

Present, the Honorable George S. Hosmer, Circuit Judge.

It appearing to said court from the affidavit now on file, that the residence of the said defendant, Julius W. Fisher, is unknown and that it is not known in what state or county he now is; On motion of M. E. Tripp, plaintiff's attorney, it is ordered that the said defendant, Julius W. Fisher, cause his appearance to be entered herein within three months from the date hereof and that in case of his appearance, that he cause his answer to be filed and a copy thereof served on the plaintiff's attorney within twenty days after service on him of a copy of the bill of complaint and this order or that said bill of complaint be taken as confessed against him; That this order be published as required by law in the Northville Record, a newspaper published and circulating in this state.
 GEORGE S. HOSMER, Circuit Judge.

A concert is to be given Thursday evening April 5th by three persons from the Conservatory of Music at Ypsilanti for the benefit of the school. Admission is to be 10 and 25 cents.

Nature's Great Hoodoo Temple.
 In the Hoodoo basin of western Wyoming are curious formations which resemble Punch and Judy dolls, grim savages, snoring old maids, niggers, rabbits, birds and animals. There are fifty different shapes of heads says Popular Science Monthly, and over forty different animal and human faces have been counted. The rock out of which the hoodoos have been carved by Dame Nature is what is known as volcanic breccia.

Platonic Friendship.
 "Do you believe in platonic friendship?" "Well, not altogether. My personal opinion is that I'd believe more in platonic friendship if it were carried on with the full knowledge, consent of the husband of the one and the wife of the other."—Detroit Free Press.

Northville Newslets.

Spring vacation next week.

"April Fool" day next Sunday.

Time to begin swatting the early fly if you happen to see one.

What is so rare as a day in March—when it is like last Sunday and Monday.

Mrs. Augusta Filley has moved to Ewart, Mich., after many years' residence here.

Dates for the 68th Michigan state fair have been set for August 31 to Sept. 9, inclusive.

Mrs. A. J. Rickel has sold her bungalow on Linden Ave. to Mr. and Mrs. George Pearsall.

The soothing music of the roller skate and the small express wagon on the cement walks is another sure indication that spring has arrived.

Mrs. N. A. Clapp is slowly recovering from her illness, and was able for the first time to walk out of doors for a short distance a few days ago.

"The President needs you" is now the recruiting poster slogan in 16 states of the eastern division instead of the usual "Join the navy," etc.

The city commission Tuesday night accepted the proposition of the Detroit Edison Co. for supplying electricity to Monroe city.—Carleton Times.

A white hawk is noted by the Orion Review's Town Corner's correspondent as having been seen in that vicinity. Now maybe that was a dove of peace in disguise.

Some of the organizations up at Holly are still serving 15 cent public suppers. The W. R. C. is going to have such a one there next Friday. Seems 'sif it would almost pay to go, even from here.

The library is indebted to Mrs. B. O. Webster of Delafield, Wisconsin, for a copy of Pope's poems, in response to a request made through the Record some weeks ago. Mrs. Webster's gift is greatly appreciated by the members of the library board.

An impressive argument for universal good roads is the appearance of the autos when they have been out in the country for a few hours during the spring "break-up." In a few years more there will be no muddy roads at any time of the year in this part of the country.

The Audubon society's representative for the Northville Woman's club, has arranged for a bird-house contest at the school this Friday afternoon, when the children of the grades competing in the contest will give a program appropriate to the cause of bird conservation. The public is cordially invited and all members of the club especially expected to be present.

Children playing with matches in the basement of the residence of Roy V. Ottmar at 85 Raeburn street yesterday set fire to boxes and barrels stored there. The department was able to extinguish the blaze without damage to the property.—Pontiac Press Gazette. Mr. and Mrs. Ottmar were Northville residents before moving to Pontiac.

The lecture by "the hero of Santiago," Capt. Richmond P. Hobson in the High School auditorium last Friday night was enjoyed by a large and strikingly attentive audience. Mr. Hobson is just as enthusiastic in the fight against "John Barleycorn" as he was in the naval service of his country in '98. His talk was thoroughly practical and convincing and the polished grace of his oratory added the finishing touches to one of the finest platform speeches ever heard here.

La W. Jayne of Detroit, one of the best posted and foremost workers in Michigan on the question of child welfare work, is to give a free lecture this Friday evening on that subject in the school building under the auspices of the Woman's Club of this place. No one who is at all interested in what is being done by our state and the various charitable organizations for dependent children should miss this lecture. Mr. Jayne has the reputation of being an exceptionally interesting speaker. All are invited.

Miss Frances B. Patterson of Chicago who spoke in the Presbyterian church Sunday morning on the menace of Mormonism proved to be thoroughly informed on her subject and a charming and forceful speaker as well. She presented a staggering array of indisputable evidence as to the political industrial and social power already in the hands of the Mormon church and the widespread, insidious proselytizing that is increasing that power all over the country. The remedy advocated as the only one possible by the National Reform association, with which Miss Patterson is connected, is drastic federal legislation.

When the Tigers Play in Detroit.

Following is the 1917 schedule of the Tigers for Detroit games and the names of the teams with whom they play:

April 11, 12, 13, 14—with Cleveland.
 April 15, 16, 17, 18—with Chicago.
 April 24, 25, 26, 27—with St. Louis.
 May 4, 5, 6, 7, 8—with Cleveland.
 May 10, 11, 12, 13—with Boston.
 May 14, 15, 16, 17—with Washington.
 May 18, 19, 20, 21—with New York.
 May 23, 24, 25, 26, 27—with Athletics.
 June 21, 22, 23, 24—with St. Louis.
 July 3, 4, 5, 6—with Chicago.
 July 7, 8, 9, 10—with Washington.
 July 11, 12, 13, 14—with Boston.
 July 15, 16, 17, 18—with Athletics.
 July 19, 20, 21, 22—with New York.
 Aug. 12, 13, 14—with St. Louis.
 Aug. 17, 18, 19—with Washington.
 Aug. 20, 21, 22—with New York.
 Aug. 23, 24, 25—with Athletics.
 Aug. 26, 27, 28—with Boston.
 Sept. 11, 12—with Cleveland.
 Sept. 14, 15—with Chicago.
 Sept. 16, 17—with Cleveland.

THEN AND NOW.

A Western farmer drove into town the other day to get an old-fashioned article—a buggy—and the salesman at the implement store showed him one at $90. "Talk about the high cost of living," the farmer grumbled. "I can remember that my father bought a buggy exactly like that for $60 20 years ago."

The salesman remembered the sale, too, and he responded quickly: "Your father turned in 300 bushels of corn for it. Now, I'll do better by you than I did by your father. You bring in your 300 bushels of corn and I'll let you pick out this list:

One $90 buggy.
 One $50 wagon.
 One $20 suit of clothes.
 One $20 dress.
 One $5 baby dress.
 One $5 crib.
 One $3 box of cigars.
 $2 worth of sugar.
 $1.50 worth of coffee.
 $1 worth of tea.
 $40 worth of gasoline.
 2.50 worth of lubricating oil."

The total figured $240, the value of the 300 bushels of corn it had taken to buy a $90 buggy 20 years before. The farmer climbed back into his motor car. "I guess I haven't got any kick coming on the high cost of living," he said. "Send out the $90 buggy.—Ex.

STATE TUBERCULOSIS SURVEY.

In the state board of health tuberculosis survey that will be held in Wayne county during the week beginning on April 2, special efforts will be made to secure the co-operation of the churches, employees of labor and local organizations. During the week before the free public examinations are to be held state board of health nurses will come here to make all the necessary preparations for the free examinations.

The pastors in the various towns will be asked to call attention to the dates and places of the public examinations, and to impress upon their congregations the advisability of taking advantage of this opportunity for a physical examination and employers of labor will be requested to let those of their employees who are run down or who need a physical examination for any reason go to the free clinics. "I cannot make it too plain," said Dr. William DeKleins, director of the survey, "that these examinations are not exclusively for people who have tuberculosis or who fear they have it. We are anxious to examine all who are run down. More than half of those we have examined in other counties had no trace of the disease. And it is worth a great deal to such people to have this fact established by actual test."

ORPHEUM THEATRE, DETROIT.

A circus spectacle contributed by Olympia Desvall and company is the novel headline feature on the Orpheum program for next week, starting Monday afternoon. With two beautiful horses, a score of dogs and several assistants, Miss Duvall will stage a hippodrome number reminiscent of the sawdust ring. The added feature for the week will be a musical comedy. The pictures program is headed by Bessie Love, in "A Daughter of the Pool." Mrs. Vernon Castle will appear in the eleventh episode of "Patria" and there will be other pictures. Performances continuous each day from 1 to 11 p. m., the first night vaudeville show starting at 6:30.

MAJESTIC THEATRE, DETROIT.

House Peters, J. W. Johnson and Myrtle Stedman in "As Men Love," Richard Whiting, well known Detroit composer, Max Lindner in his newest comedy "Max Wants a Divorce" and a great array of other film and musical attractions will be found on its second anniversary with the biggest program obtainable. Other pictures will include "Feeding the Bears," a part of the "Living Book of Nature," a travelogue and the topical review while the Majestic Symphony orchestra also will provide a special musical program.

First Lithograph.

The first successful example of the lithograph was produced 120 years ago by Aloys Senefelder, a Bavarian, who produced a piece of music printed by this process.

Farmington News.

A Lansing lawyer is named J. M. Reasoner. Which, we take it, is some nomenclature for a legal light—Oxford Leader.

George H. Chapel, superintendent of the Methodist Episcopal Sunday school at Howell has been absent but three times in 36 years.

The village of South Lyon has one description or parcel of land that will be sold for delinquent taxes at Pontiac May 1.—South Lyon Herald.

Frank Travis of Hartland had a bag of beans taken from his barn last Monday afternoon by Jas. and Harry Valentine, two young men who claimed to come from Flint. They had hired out to work for Jas. McGram, coming there Monday night with a horse and buggy which was later found to belong to an Argentine liveryman. The beans were found in the buggy and the young men are in custody of the sheriff at Howell, Milford Times.

Might as well try to steal a bank and get away with it as a valuable load like that.

Simply Solved.

He had been calling on the Widow Smithers for some time, and it could not be said that he had made an impression, although he had failed to realize the fact. She decided to speed him on his way at the first opportunity, and it came that night. He heaved a sigh and said, "I have only one friend on earth—my dog." "Well," she answered, calmly, "if that isn't enough, why don't you get another dog?"

Queer Corpses.

A western senator of burly appearance was passing an undertaker's shop when a roughly dressed man came out and said: "Say, mister, will you give me a lift with a casket?" The senator shuddered and asked hesitatingly: "Is there—there anything in it?" "Shure!" came the hearty reply; "there's a couple of drinks in it."—Boston Transcript.

Black Hair Means Vigor.

The most pugnacious of all animals known in nature is the black panther. The most difficult of all horses to control is a black stallion. The one snake which never can be safely handled by a snake-charmer is the black cobra. The only untamable family in the timid species of mice is the black mouse.

JUDGE GEORGE S. HOSMER

Judge Hosmer has occupied the position of Circuit Judge of Wayne County since he was first elected to that position in the spring of 1887—thirty years of continuous service on the bench—a record that he may well be proud of.

Judge Hosmer was born in Detroit in 1855, and was educated in the public schools. He attended the University of Michigan, and graduated from the law department in 1875. He was admitted to the bar in 1878. When he was 22 years old the electors of Wayne County chose him for the important position of Circuit Judge—certainly a great honor for so young a lawyer; and to show their appreciation of his sound judgment and ability, they have voted to return him to that position at every judicial election since that time. He is not only a great favorite with the laymen, but also with his brother lawyers, he having received the largest vote in the recent lawyers' primary for renomination for Circuit Judge.

Take It In Time

Just as Scores of Northville People Have:

Waiting doesn't pay.
If you neglect kidney backache,
Urinary troubles often follow.
Doan's Kidney Pills are for kidney backache, and for other kidney ills.
Northville citizen endorses them.
Mrs. L. J. Sharpe, River St., Northville, says: "Whenever I can speak
a good word for Doan's Kidney Pills,
I do not hesitate to do so, for I know from personal experience, they are a medicine of merit. When I notice any signs of kidney disorder, a few doses of Doan's Kidney Pills soon overcome the trouble."

Northville Newslets.

Election next Monday.

Mrs. C. J. Ball is ill with a painful gathering in her ear.

Northville streets have been improved by the scraping process this week.

The sound of the carpet beater is another indication that spring is supposed to have arrived.

Fred Wheeler has been very sick all this week with grip which has now developed into pneumonia.

Charles Smock and Clyde Merritt are owners of new Studebaker touring cars, purchased through the company's local agent, T. H. Turner.

The High school orchestra drew many expressions of commendation for the fine music furnished at the opening of the Hobson meeting last Friday evening.

N. C. Schrader has purchased a four-apartment brick building and lot with 81-foot frontage at 184-86 Stanley avenue, Detroit. Each apartment has five rooms and bath.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Vealy have moved their household goods from the Wm. Frederick home here, where they had been living during the winter, and have gone to housekeeping in Plymouth.

The Ladies Aid society of the Presbyterian church will meet next Wednesday afternoon April 4 at 2:30, in the church parlors. Business of importance is to come before the society.

And then again the March "flood" showed his teeth when, following the sunshine and 70 degree temperature of Monday afternoon, the ground was covered with snow Tuesday morning and more coming.

Have you the stars and stripes in view at your home or your store?
If so, all right, if not, don't let the sun go down on your flaglessness.
Also wear the colors we all love with added fervor just at this time.

The bird-house contest and program at the school will be held in the new auditorium this (Friday) afternoon, and the hour is 2:30. Remember that the invitation is general, as is also the case with regard to the free lecture this evening in the same place.

The local W. R. C. plans to send an Easter gift of canned fruits, jellies, etc., to the Soldiers' Home at Grand Rapids. Donations will be welcomed from all who desire to contribute, whether members of the Corps or not.
Contributions are to be received at the home of Mrs. Florence Alexander, and will have to be sent there not later than next week Tuesday or Wednesday.

Yes, Very Dry.
"Yes," said Gap Johnson of Rumpus Ridge, Ark. "it's pretty terrible dry out my way. It's got so in fact, that about half of the time three or four of my smallest children get practically covered up while playing in the road and can't be found till their maw yells for 'em to come to dinner or an automobile comes ripping along and knocks 'em out of the dust."

Effect of Cutting Diamond.
In the process of cutting about 60 per cent in weight of the rough stone is lost, and this, added to the cost of cutting and the rarity of these fine gems, partly accounts for the high cost of the finished diamond.

Green Mountain Wisdom.
"Don't always feel flattered, young man, when she answers 'Yes,'" advises the Burlington (Vt.) Daily News. "She may just want someone to escort her evenings."

The Northville Market corrected up to date:

sick for the past two weeks.

Miss Irene Angell spent the weekend with friends at Ann Arbor.

Ed Sessions has a new delivery motor truck for his oil business.

G. F. Wagner has sold his house on Main street to a Mr. Payne from Detroit.

The King's Daughters are to meet at the home of Miss Lida Richardson
Tuesday, April 3, at three o'clock p.m.

Bruno Freydl and family expect to move to their farm just outside of the village limits as soon as a few necessary repairs are made to the house.

Rene Angell and Hilda Sommers are taking an enforced vacation because the school where they teach, at Elmhurst, is closed on account of a scarlet fever scare.

Mr. and Mrs. George Goodell are now living with Daniel Craft at his home on Cady street. "Uncle Dan" is in feeble health and needs care and companionship.

Manager Frank Thompson treated the local telephone office force to a trip out to the C. C. Yerkes' farm Thursday evening, where they were sweetly entertained at the "sugar bush."

A special meeting of Orient Chapter O. E. S. will be held next week Friday evening, April 5. The Past Matrons of the Chapter will have charge of the initiatory work. All members are requested to keep the date in mind.

OLD GLORY TO THE FORE.

The Record has in nearly every recent issue called attention to the question of displaying the stars and stripes as a badge of loyalty to our country in the present critical time.
As we have remarked several times before there is no possible question as to the aggregate patriotism of our population, but it is not evidenced to the passing stranger or the possible doubter by any general and unmistakable token. Even our municipal building has not been flying the colors of late because of the fact that the flag had worn out, but we understand that a new one is to be obtained immediately, possibly before this issue of the Record is published. A few flags are seen here and there around town, but this only emphasizes the general lack. Those who have not weather-proof flags that can be left out, can at least display the red, white and blue in windows or porches. In villes and villages all over the country the national colors greet the eye on every hand. Let us show that Northville is not to be outdone in patriotic display. Every business place and residence in town should have a flag in sight. Everybody should wear the colors, instead of an occasional person. Let's get busy and demonstrate our loyalty. It's all here; the only right thing is to make it unmistakably evident even to the most casual observer.

Auction Sale.

On Thursday, April 5, Ed Balko is to have an auction sale of milch cows, horses, farm tools, hay and grain, vehicles, etc., on the premises known as the old Fred Harm place, 1 mile west of Clarenceville and 1-2 mile south of Tuck's corner. The auctioneer is John E. Wedow and the sale begins at 12 o'clock, P. M.

Auction Sale.

Thursday, April 5, at One o'clock
p. m. Fred Grissell will sell at auction on the Richardson farm on the Fishery road west of Northville a 20 h. p.
Baker engine, a 30x50 Separator, corn husker, feeder and other articles.

The offering for next Thursday evening, April 5, is the "Lucky film,"
"The Cheat," with Fannie Ward, an actress of international reputation, in the leading part. In addition to her ability as a film star, Miss Ward is a very beautiful woman, and "The Cheat" affords an excellent opportunity for the use of both these valuable qualities.

CLYDE I WEBSTER, FOR CIRCUIT
JUDGE.

Efficiency which made his term of office as United States District Attorney notable, coupled with his fine legal training and experience, are back of the endorsement by the most prominent members of the bar and business men generally of the candidacy of Clyde I Webster for the Circuit Court.

Mr Webster is a graduate of the University of Michigan, practised here in the offices of Don M. Dickinson, Elmer G. Stevenson, Charles B.
Warren and Lee Putzel, after which he was a member of the firm of Choate & Webster, then he became District Attorney. During these seventeen years he has made an enviable name for himself in the profession.

His career as District Attorney gained for him national fame, he won cases involving infractions of the an-trust laws, he broke up the Chinese and drug smugglers, the car thieves and the white slavers.

Mr Webster believes the laws of Michigan to be among the best of any states, needing only enforcement and interpretation as laid down by the great jurists of the state. He is eminently fair and his friends believe that if he is elected next Monday his career on the bench will be notable.

"Well, this is a treat, and so you are going to have supper with us. That will be a great pleasure."

Virginia almost collapsed in momentary embarrassment, and could think of nothing better than to ask:

"I am not sure what Mrs. Maxwell is going to have for supper, and I really don't know whether to place two spoons or three. What would you advise, Mr. Maxwell?"

Maxwell accented seriously, rubbed his chin and replied:

"Well, you know, I really can't say, but perhaps it would be on the safe side to have three spoons in case any emergency might arise, like a custard, or jelly and whipped cream, or something else which Betty likes to make as a surprise. Yes, on the whole, I think that three would be better than two."

When Virginia had placed the spoons, and Maxwell had returned to assist her, she hesitated a moment and looked at him with tears in her eyes and began:

"Mr. Maxwell, there is something I must say to you, an acknowledgment and an apology I must make. I have been so horribly—"

"Now see here, Miss Virginia," the doctor replied, "you just forget it. We are awfully glad to have you here, and we are going to have a right jolly supper together. Betty's muffins are simply fine, and her creamed chicken is a dream. Besides I want to consult you concerning the new wardrobe I am going to have built in the vestry. You see there is the question of the drawers, and the shelves, and—"

"Never mind the drawers and the shelves," Mrs. Betty remarked as she entered with the creamed chicken and the muffins. "You just sit down before these things get cold, and you can talk business afterwards."

To her utter astonishment Virginia soon found herself eating heartily, utterly at ease in the cordial friendly atmosphere of tent life, and when Maxwell took her home later in the evening, she hadn't apologized or wallowed in an agony of self reproach. She had only demanded the recipe for the muffins, and had declared that she was coming again very soon if Mrs. Betty would only let her.

And last but not least—the doctor's polite attention to her as her escort home failed to work upon her dramatic temperament with any more startling effect than to produce a feeling that he was a very good friend.

In fact she wondered, as she coned over the events of the evening, whether she had realized before, all that the word friendship signified.

CHAPTER XXII

Hepsey's Diplomacy

"I don't rightly know what's got into Virginia Bascom," remarked Jonathan, as he sat on Hepsey's side porch one evening, making polite conversation as his new habit was. She's buzzin' round Mrs. Betty like a bee round a flower—thicker'n thieves they be, by gum."

"Yes," cognized Hepsey, half to herself and half in response, "the lamb's lyin' down all right, and it's about time we'd got the lion curled up by her and purrin' like a cat. But I don't see the signs of it, and I'll have to take my knittin' tomorrow and sit right down in his den and visit with him a little. If he won't purr, I've got what'll make him roar, good and proper, or I've missed my guess."

"Now Hepsey, you go easy with my church partner, the Senior Warden. When his wife lived, he was a decent sort of a feller, was Sylvester Bascom; and I reckon she got him comin' her way more with molasses than with vinegar."

And the Hepsey snorted contempt for the advice of a mere male, she found the thought top-side of her mind as she started out next morning to pay Bascom a momentous call. After all, Jonathan had but echoed her own consistent philosophy of life. But with her usual shrewdness she decided to go armed with both kinds of ammunition.

Mrs. Burke puffed somewhat loudly as she paused on the landing which led to the door of Bascom's office. After wiping her forehead with her handkerchief she gave three loud knocks on the painted glass of the door, which shook some of the loose putty onto the floor. After knocking the third time some one called out "Come in," and she opened the door, entered, and gazed calmly across the room. Bascom was seated at his desk talking to a farmer, and when he turned around and discovered who his visitor was, he ejaculated irreverently: "Good Lord deliver us!"

"Oh, do excuse me!" Mrs. Burke replied. "I didn't know that you were sayin' the Litany. I'll just slip into the next room and wait till you get through."

Whereupon she stepped into the next room, closed the door, and made herself comfortable in a large arm chair. There was a long table in the middle of the room, and the walls were covered with shelves and yellow books of a most monotonous binding. The air was musty and close. She quietly opened one of the windows, and having resumed her seat, she pulled a wash rag from her leather bag and began knitting calmly.

"She waited for some time, occasionally glancing at the long table, which was covered with what appeared to be a hopeless confusion of letters, legal documents, and books opened and turned face downward. Occasionally she sniffed in disgust at the general untidiness of the place. Evidently the appearance of the table in front of her was getting on her nerves; and so she put her knitting away as she muttered to herself:

"I wonder Virginia don't come up here once in a while and put things to rights. It's simply awful! Then she began sorting the papers and gathering them up into little uniform piles by themselves. She seemed to have no notion whatever of their possible relation to each other, but arranged them according to their size and color in nice little separate piles. When there was nothing else left for her to do she resumed her knitting and waited patiently for the departure of the farmer. The two men seemed to be having a rather warm dispute over the interpretation of some legal contract; and if Bascom was hotten-pered, and emphatic in his language, bordering on the profane, the client was stubborn and dull witted and hard to convince. Occasionally she overheard bits of the controversy which were not intended for her ears. Bascom insisted:

"But you're not such a dum fool as to think that a contract legally made between two parties is not binding, are you? You admit that I have fulfilled my part, and now you must pay for the services rendered or else I shall bring suit against you."

The reply to this was not audible, but the farmer did not seem to be quite convinced.

After what seemed to her an interminable interval the door opened, and she knew that Bascom was alone. She did not wait for any invitation, but rising quietly she went into the inner office and took the chair vacated by the farmer. Bascom made a pretense of writing, in silence, with his back to wards her, during which interval Hepsey waited patiently. Then, looking up with the expression of a deaf mute, he asked colorfully:

"Well, Mrs. Burke, what may I do for you?"

"You can do nothing for me—but you can and must do something for the Maxwells," she replied firmly but quietly.

"Don't you think it would be better to let Maxwell take care of his own affairs?"

"Yes, most certainly, if he were in position to do so. But you know that the clergy are a long sufferin' lot, more's the pity, they'll endure almost anything rather than complain. That's why you and others take advantage of them."

"Ah, but an earnest minister of the Gospel does not look for the loaves and fishes of his calling."

"I shouldn't think he would I hate fish, myself; but Maxwell has a perfect right to look for the honest fulfillment of a contract made between you and him. Didn't I hear you tell that farmer that he was a dum fool if he thought that a contract made between two parties is not legally binding, and that if you fulfilled your part he must pay for your services or you would sue him? Do you suppose that a contract with a carpenter or a plumber or a mason is binding, while a contract with a clergyman is not? What is the matter with you anyway?"

Bascom made no reply, but turned his back towards Hepsey and started to write.

She resumed:

"Donald Maxwell's salary is going to be paid him in full within the next two weeks or—"

Mrs. Burke came to a sudden silence and after a moment or two Bascom turned around and inquired sarcastically:

"Or what?"

Hepsey continued to knit in silence for a while, her face working in her effort to gain control of herself and speak calmly.

"Now see here, Sylvester Bascom: I didn't come here to have a scene with you, and if I knit like I was fussed, you must excuse me."

Her needles had been flashing lightning, and truth to tell, Bascom, for all he dreaded Hepsey's sharp tongue as nothing else in Durford, had been unable to keep his eyes off those angry bits of sparkling steel. Suddenly they stopped—dead. The knitting fell into Hepsey's lap, and she sat forward—a pair of kindly, moist eyes searching the depths of Bascom's, as he looked up at her. Her voice dropped to a lower tone as she continued:

"There's been just one person, and one person only, that's ever been able to keep the best of you on top—and she was my best friend, your wife. She kept you human, and turned even the worst side of you to some account. If you did scrape and grub, most night and day, to make your pile, and was hard on those that crossed your path while doin' of it, it was she that showed you there was pleasure in usin' it for others as well as for yourself, and while she lived you did it. But since she's been gone—the old man tried to keep his face firm and his glance steady but in vain—he winced, "since she's been gone, the human in you dried up like a sun baked apple. And it's you, Sylvester Bascom, that's been made the most miserable, spite of all little carks you've put on many another."

His face hardened again, and Hepsey paused.

"What has all this to do with Mr. Maxwell, may I ask?"

"I'm comin' to that," continued Hepsey, patiently. "If Mary Bascom were alive today, would the rector of Durford be livin' in a tent instead of in the rectory—the house she thought she had given over, without mortgage or anything else, to the church? And would you be holdin' back your subscription to the church, and seelin' that others held back too? I never thought you'd have done, when she was dead, what'd have broken her heart if she'd been livin'. The church was her one great interest in life, after her husband and her daughter; and it was her good work that brought the parish to make you Senior Warden. After you'd made money and moved to your new house, just before she died, she gave the old house, that was hers from her father, to the church, and you were to make the legal transfer of it. Then she died suddenly, and you delayed and delayed—claimin' the house as yours, and at last sold it to us subject to the mortgage."

"The old man stirred uneasily in his chair.

"This is all quite beside the mark. What might have been proper to do in my wife's life time became a different matter altogether after her death. I had my daughter's welfare to think of, besides—"

"I'm not talkin' about your legal right. But you know if you'd wanted to have it, you could have got your interest on the mortgage quick enough if you hadn't held back on his salary, others wouldn't have; or if they had, you could have got after 'em. What's the use of tryin' to mix each other up? You couldn't keep Maxwell in your pocket, and because he didn't come to you every day for orders you reckoned to turn him out of the parish. You've not one thing against him, and you know it, Sylvester Bascom. He's shown you every kind of respect as his Senior Warden, and more patience than you deserved. He let himself be—no, had himself—bled, to save your life. But instead of making him the best young friend you could have had, and makin' yourself of real use to your town and your neighbors through him and his work, you've let the devil get into you; and when your accident came, you'd got to where you were runnin' that fast down a steep place into the sea that I could 'most hear the splash!"

She cocked her head on one side and smiled at him whimsically, hoping for some response to her humorous picture. A faint ghost of a smile—was it, or was it not?—flickered on the old man's lips; but he gave no sign of grace.

Hepsey sighed and paused for an instant. "Well—we can't sit here talkin' till midnight, or I shall be compromisin' your reputation. I suppose there'll be a meeting of the parishioners called at the end of this week, and the rector won't be present at it, so, Warden, I suppose you'll preside. I hope you will I've got to do my part—and that is to see that the parish under stands just how their rector's placed, right now, both about his house and his salary. He's workin' as a laborer to get enough for him and that little wife of his to live on, and the town knows it—but they don't all know that it's because the salary that's properly his is held back on him, and by those that pay their chauffeurs more than the rector gets, by a good piece. I shall call on every one at that meetin' to pay up; and I shall begin with the poorest, and end up—she fixed Bascom's eye significantly—"with the richest. And if it seems to be my duty to do it, I may have somethin' more to say when the subscription's closed—but I don't believe—no," she added, opening her bag and rummaging about among its contents till she hit upon a letter and brought it forth, "no, I don't believe I'll have to say a thing. I've got a hunch, Sylvester Bascom, that it'll be you that'll have the last word, after all."

The old man's glance was riveted upon the familiar handwriting of the faded letter, and without a word Hepsey started to read it, date and all, in a clear voice:

Willow Bluff, Durford.

September—19—

Hepsey Dear:

I suppose you will never forgive me for making the move from the old house to Willow Bluff, as it's to be called, while you were not at home to help me. But they got finished sooner than we thought for, and Sylvester was as eager as a child with a new toy to get moved in. So here we are, and the first letter I write from our new home is to you, who helped more than anyone to make the old home happy for me and mine—bless them and bless you!

Everything is out of the old house—"The Rectory" as I shall call it now—except such pieces of furniture as we did not want to take away, and we thought might be welcome to the parish (or parsons, I suppose) who may occupy it. Sister Susan thought it slighting to Pa's generosity to give the house to the church; but I don't look at it like that. Anyway, it's done now—and I'm very happy to think that the flock can offer a proper home to its shepherd, as long as the old place stands.

All but one of the seventeen traction lines of Washington, D. C., have gone on strike for more pay.

The United States government has ordered the purchase of 16 non-rigid dirigible airships for coast and harbor patrol at a cost of $649,250 and are to be delivered within four months. The orders were given to the Curtiss Aeroplane company, Connecticut Aircraft company, Goodyear Tire and Rubber company and the B. F. Goodrich company.

The mailing of sample ballots to the voters of Grand Rapids will be carried through as originally planned the cost having been found to be not more than $700 rather than $4,000. It is claimed this method affords advertising to the poor candidate that he would not get with the lack of money or by not being backed by some certain organization.

All games of chance are to be stopped in Traverse City and a censorship is to be placed upon the movies.

Attorneys who handle collections have advanced their fees from 10 to 15 per cent.

If you get back Thursday I shall just be ready for you to help me with the shades and curtains, if you care to.

Your friend,

Marion Anderson Bascom.

P. S. Ginty sends her love to Aunt Hepsey, and says, "to come to Boston quick!" She's a little confused some way, and can't get it out of her head that we're not back home in Boston, since we left the old place. I hope you are having a nice visit with Sally.

As Hepsey read, Sylvester Bascom turned slowly away from her, his head on his hand, gazing out of the window. When she had finished reading, the letter was folded up and replaced in the bag along with her knitting. Then, laying her hand with a gentle firm pressure on the old man's shoulder, Mrs. Burke departed.

CAKE MAKING (Continued)

The underlying principle of all cake making is to secure a proper balance between lightness, moisture, tenderness and texture. In one case lightness may be the quality sought for; in another, fineness of texture, and in another tenderness may be the required quality.

There are certain principles governing the amounts of the different materials used in cake recipes. For instance, your recipe may call for three eggs and four teaspoonsful baking powder. If you use two eggs instead of three in the cake recipe, use five teaspoonsful baking powder instead of four. One egg is considered as having the same leavening power as one teaspoon of baking powder; but the texture will not be so good when the additional baking powder is used.

As the amount of fat in a recipe is increased, the amount of liquid should be decreased, thus giving a firmer texture which keeps the rich cake from falling.

If you wish to make a chocolate cake from your standard recipe, add two squares (2 ounces or 1/2 cupful) and use two tablespoonsful less of flour than the recipe calls for.

Or add four tablespoonsful of boiling water to the grated chocolate and cook until of the same consistency as the cake batter. This may then be added to the cake batter without altering the amount of flour.

If a nut cake is wished reduce the amount of fat by two tablespoonsful and add one cupful of finely chopped nuts.

If making spice cake, wet the spices with a bit of boiling water—just enough to moisten them. If a very dark spice cake is wished, use brown instead of white sugar, and then the scalded spices.

Mrs. M., South Bend, Ind.—You will find the following recipe a reliable one for an inexpensive cake:

One cup sugar; 1-3 cup butter; 2 well beaten eggs; 1/2 cup milk; 1 1/2 cup flour; 2 teaspoons baking powder; flavoring. Use accurate level measurements. Measure flour after once sifting and then sift baking powder with the flour.

Miss K., Grand Haven—There are many desirable recipes for Devil's Food. The following is one I like especially well:

Melt 2 squares of chocolate over hot water; add 1/2 cup of sugar and 1/2 cup sweet milk; also beaten yolk of one egg and cook until mixture thickens. Let cool and in the meantime cream 1-3 cup butter and 1-3 cup sugar; add 1 well beaten egg plus the white left from egg used in first mixture. Add 1-3 cup sour milk, plus 1/2 teaspoonful soda, and 1 1/2 cupfuls flour sifted with 3 teaspoons baking powder. Combine mixtures and add 1/2 teaspoon vanilla. Use boiled icing with 1/4 cup chopped raisins.

Potato Caramel Cake. Two-thirds cup butter, creamed with 2 cups granulated sugar. Add while hot 1 cup mashed potato, 4 well beaten eggs, 1/2 cup milk, 2 cups flour sifted with 4 teaspoons baking powder, 2 squares chocolate melted over hot water; 1 cup walnut meats, chopped fine; 1 teaspoon each of cloves and cinnamon; 1/2 teaspoon nutmeg.

Cream butter and sugar. Sift dry ingredients three times. Beat eggs without separating. Add chocolate to butter and sugar. Add eggs to same, and flour and milk alternately. Bake in shallow loaf about 45 minutes. This cake will keep indefinitely. It makes a very large cake as the recipe reads but is one that can be very easily divided.

A very excellent bulletin, or rather two, called Making Cake, parts I and II, is issued by the New York State College of Agriculture at Cornell University. I believe this sells for 5c per copy. A postal will bring correct information as to the price, however.

True and Tried Recipes Fancy Work and Cooking for the Season

With the coming of Easter and the falling off of the price of eggs has made a list of egg recipes popular at this time. Considering the nutriment, it will be found that eggs are as cheap, if not cheaper, than meat at the present time.

Eggs and Their Use in the Diet. Composition—Protein, 14.9 per cent; fat, 10.6 per cent; mineral substance, 1.0 per cent; water 73.5 per cent.

Eggs furnish a valuable concentrated protein food and are a useful substitute for meat. But need to be supplemented with carbohydrates (starchy foods), which they lack to give bulk.

Digestibility depends largely upon methods of preparation.

Raw eggs are easily digested, and hard boiled eggs, if cooked at a low temperature, seem to be digested with equal thoroughness but require more time.

Like other protein foods, eggs should not be subjected to a high degree of heat.

As shells are very porous, eggs may quickly absorb micro-organisms and gases detrimental to health, unless air is excluded.

Methods of Preserving Eggs.

(1) Water glass (sodium silicate); seven quarts boiled water (cooled) to one quart water glass. Eggs will keep in this solution three and one-half months. A good grade of water glass should be of the consistency of molasses. If heavier than this it should be thinned to right consistency. Fresh eggs may be added to this solution from day to day.

(2) Lime water; two and one-half gallons of water; two pints slaked lime, 1 pint of common salt, dissolve and mix well. Add fresh eggs as gathered. Will keep a year.

(3) Also pack in oats or salt.

Creamed Eggs.

Thin white sauce: 1 T butter, 1 T flour, 1 C milk, 1/2 T salt, pinch of pepper, add 2 to 4 hard boiled, chopped eggs, and serve on toast. The egg whites may be scratched from yolks, chopped fine and added to sauce. Force yolks through a potato ricer or sieve and sprinkle over sauce on toast.

Eggs a la Cheese.

Make thick white sauce by using 1 C milk, 2 T butter and 2 T flour. Put one-half of sauce into shallow baking dish, break into this 3 eggs. Cover with remaining sauce, dust thickly with grated cheese. Bake in oven six minutes, serve immediately in baking dish.

Scrambled Eggs.

Two eggs, 1/2 C milk, 1/2 C corn flakes, 1/2 T salt, heat 2 T butter in frying pan, add beaten mixture, cook gently and serve hot.

Fricassee of Eggs with Dried Beef.

Heat 1 C milk and 2 T butter. Add 1 C chopped dried beef and cook 5 minutes. Add 2 well-beaten eggs, cook slowly, stirring constantly. Serve on toast.

Baked Eggs. Break as many eggs as desired for the meal in basin, cover with sweet milk; place in oven and bake until whites are set; the milk can be saved and used for bread or rice pudding.

Escalloped Eggs.

Five eggs cooked hard. 2 T butter, 2 T flour, 1 1/2 C milk, 4 medium-sized cold boiled potatoes, 1/2 T salt, 1/2 T pepper, 1/2 C buttered bread crumbs. Slice potatoes and eggs and lay in buttered baking dish in alternate layers; if liked a little minced onion or celery may be added to each layer.

Make a white sauce by melting the butter, add flour and stir very smooth then pour the milk on gradually and bring to the boiling point; cook very carefully. Pour sauce over potato and eggs, cover with buttered crumbs and bake. Thin slices of cheese may be laid over the tops before taking from oven, giving them just time to melt.

Omelet, Plain.

Six eggs, 6 T milk, 1/2 T salt, 1/2 T pepper.

Separate whites and yolks, beat whites stiff, add well beaten yolks, milk and seasoning, blend together, turn into hot buttered frying pan. Cook slowly and evenly. When firm, fold and serve.

Poached Egg in Milk (Alide Patter).

One egg, 1 1/2 T butter, pinch of salt, 1/2 C thin cream or milk, add 2 T cheese if liked. Melt butter in top of double boiler, add cream, when hot (not boiling) drop in egg. Cook until white is nearly firm.

Cup Custard.

Break 1 egg into a buttered cup, add 1 T sugar and pinch each of salt and nutmeg. Beat thoroughly, fill cup with sweet milk. Set in pan of hot water, and cook in oven until set.

Baked Eggs.

Break fresh eggs into a well-buttered dish, cover with fine bread crumbs. Season with butter, salt and pepper. Cover with sweet cream and bake in slow oven 20 minutes.

Custard Junket.

One-half C hot milk, 1 egg, 1/2 C luke warm milk, 2 T sugar, 1/2 T vanilla, 1 junket tablet, few grains salt, 2 T water. Heat egg, add 2 T sugar, add gradually to hot milk. Cook in double boiler until it thickens. Cool, add remainder of milk and sugar, also vanilla and dissolved junket tablet all luke warm. Let stand in warm room until it thickens. Then set aside without jarring, to cool.

Breakfast Eggs.

Two eggs well beaten, 1 C cold mashed potatoes, 1 C chopped meat or codfish, 1 C cracker crumbs. Salt and pepper to taste, form in small cakes, fry in butter or drippings.

Sausage Omelets.

Two well beaten eggs, 3 T water, 1/2 T salt, 1/2 T pepper. Pour this over 1 C of left over sausage, in frying pan. Sprinkle with bread crumbs. Brown in oven and serve with apple sauce.

Roses for Various Uses and How to Grow Them

Pruning.

One pruning need which all types of roses have in common is for radical shortening at planting time. From one-half to two-thirds of the wood should be removed. After the first year pruning for border and lawn roses should consist in removing dead or weak wood and crossing branches. Cutting off the ends of branches should be avoided. It is preferable to take out whole branches. Every five or six years the whole top should be cut back. It is best to prune lawn roses in the spring.

In pruning climbing roses, there must be a compromise between the desire for forced growth of new wood for blossom bearing by removing all of the old wood, and the desire to have the arbors or trellises covered with foliage. The hardy climbers should be pruned just after blooming. Though it would be best to remove all of the wood, half the branches may be cut off at the ground and the rest shortened from 3 to 6 feet, depending on rapidity of growth. Marechal Niel and other roses of the hybrid Noisette group of climbers should be trained to one strong cane with the side shoots cut back to about three eyes. The remaining cane can be renewed occasionally. The Cherokee should be pruned like border roses, only weak and crossing branches being removed.

Cut-flower roses must be pruned severely if individual blossoms of greatest perfection are desired. When the production of numerous small blossoms is the aim, the pruning is less severe. After the plants are established, pruning should be practiced, in vigorous climates after the freezing weather is over. In milder regions fall pruning may be practiced. Pruning may be done, first, as for lawn roses, and then the remaining branches should be shortened to 4 or 5 eyes. For the greatest mass of small blossoms, however, only one-half to one-third of the shoots should be cut off.

Hedges should be severely pruned for outline and compactness. This is best done twice a year—in winter or spring, and again after flowering time. Little or no pruning is necessary for roses used as ground covers.

Varieties.

The following varieties of roses for the different uses of ornamentation are suggested in the bulletin already mentioned:

For the lawn and border.—Rugosa or Wrinkled Japanese rose, Rosa lucida, Carolina, Prairie, Arkansas, Sweet Briar, Rosa eglanteria or Rosa lutea, dwarf Polyantha, Cabbage and Damask roses.

For Arbor and Trellis.—Wichuraiana or Memorial, Multiflora, Laevigata and Noisette groups.

For cut flowers.—Hybrid perpetuals, teas, hybrid teas, Bengals, Bourbons and Chinas.

For hedges.—Rugosa, and the briar roses.

For ground covers.—Rosa lucida, for covering 2 to 3 feet deep; Rosa nitida, for 18-inch cover; Wichuraiana, for close, trailing cover.

Studebaker
Established 1852

ELEGANCE

Like the highest priced cars on the market, Studebaker retains its beautiful distinctive lines, without faddish or freakish change. Simplicity and dignified elements have been perfected in the Studebaker body owing to the constant refining and perfecting of good basic lines.

The lines are long, clean and sweeping. There is not a single thing to interfere with the smooth continuous flow of the Studebaker body, from the tip of the radiator to the rear of tonneau.

One of the first things you will notice when you come in to see the Series 18 Studebaker is its rare elegance of finish. And the strikingly original gun-metal gray finish of the Studebaker will always look rich and new. Twenty-five separate paint and varnish operations insure its permanency.

JUDGE ALFRED J. MURPHY

For Re-Election

Elected Judge of the Recorder's Court, 1899;
Circuit Judge in 1905; Re-elected in 1911.

"There ought to be no politics of any kind in the judicial elections. The county needs good judges; as long as they know the law and are temperamentally fitted for administering it fairly to all who come before them their opinions on any other subject under the sun are of the slightest consequence. The bench should be strictly non-political."

"Keep politics out of the contest for the circuit court, gentlemen. It has no patronage to distribute; its control is not worth fighting for as a party asset. It is an indispensable necessity for dispensing justice." (Detroit Free Press, Republican, March 22, 1917.)

"Alfred J. Murphy received more votes six years ago than any other candidate for the Wayne County bench. Judge Murphy is a Democrat and he was given this splendid compliment in a community which was overwhelmingly republican. This expression of broad judgment by a republican electorate and the disposition of the people to forget party lines in the selection of its judiciary met with the universal approval of the bar and the great mass of people who have business with the courts." (Detroit News, March 23, 1917.)

HIS NAME WILL BE IN THE DEMOCRATIC COLUMN

Blood and Skin Purifier A Valuable Alternative and Tonic.

This is an especially valuable remedy for Boils, Carbuncles, Ulcerations, Ringworms, Pustules, Scrofula, Blotches, Salt-Rheum Sores, Constipation, Rheumatism, and Diseases arising from Impure Blood and low conditions of the system.

This Preparation is Composed of Ginger Root, Mandrake Root, Licorice Root, Broom Corn Seed, Triticum, Alex. Senna, Sarsaparilla Root, Poke Root, Red Clover, Burdock Root, Cascara Sagrada, Chicory Root, Potassium Iodine, Soda Salicylate, Soda Benzoate and 15 per cent Alcohol as a Preservative.

The Real Merits of this Preparation are its powers of restoring and strengthening the system, cleansing and enriching the blood when it becomes impure, such impurities generally showing themselves by eruptions, pimples, blotches, etc. It stimulates nature to expel impurities from the system through the natural channels, thus cleansing the blood and restoring the system to a pure and healthy state, as through the blood all the organs and tissues of the body are reached.

This product costs more to manufacture than many similar remedies that we have heard of selling for $1.00 or more per bottle. To introduce our product in this community we are selling it at 75c per bottle or 3 bottles for $2.00.

PLEASE READ THE FOLLOWING

Our faith in the preparation is so great that we are willing to guarantee it to benefit you and should you find no results after taking a bottle, we will cheerfully refund the money. We make this statement based entirely on the results obtained by others.

We could not afford to make the above statements or promises unless we were thoroughly confident that you would find them true as we have established our business here and elsewhere and cannot injure the sale of our other products of which we have 32, and further articles in course of experiment.

WE WOULD BE PLEASED TO MAKE DELIVERY AND DEMONSTRATE OUR OTHER MEDICINAL AND TOILET ARTICLES. ADDRESS A CARD OR CALL PHONE 36-W.
