507 NORTHVILLITES SIGN FOOD PLEDGE

WOMEN SOLICITORS REPRESENT-
ING THE U. S. FOOD CONSERVA-
TION DEPARTMENT FINISH CANVASS.

FOUND A FEW SLACKERS AND
ALSO A FEW GERMAN SYMPA-
THIZERS.

Northville U. S. Food conservation women solicitors completed their canvass of this village last Saturday, except in a few cases of not-at-homes who were seen this week. As a whole they were courteously received in their work and in the end 507 pledges were given.

Some three or four families evinced a strong pro-German feeling, showing they had not much use for the United States government. These names will be reported to the United States authorities at Washington.

No loyal American citizen can consistently refuse to sign a pledge that only asks that he or she do "the best that circumstances will permit." Down near Wayne a German sympathizer has had his property confiscated and been ordered out of this country for traitorous utterances. This war is a serious matter and its going to be more serious. Before very long the United States will not be a real safe place for any but loyal American men and women to live in.

On the whole Northville has shown a true American spirit and has come through with the largest per cent of food pledges in Wayne county.

Up at Milford it is claimed that every family has signed the Hoover pledge and also every family at Watford (near Pontiac).

AN APPEAL

The writer regrets acknowledging that Northville's women and girls are not doing their duty in all respects in these trying times, but the fact remains that out of the hundreds of women here who could, by making a little sacrifice of their own time and pleasure, aid in this vitally urgent work, only 25 are attending the Red-Cross classes. A number of ladies are doing splendid and continuous service by knitting and neither these or the faithful ones who have been at the classes from the first, have any interest in this appeal except as they join in the plea for more help. This is a noble work as well as a vitally necessary one. Women of Northville, do not continue to let towns not one half as large distance us in this part of our service for our country's defenders. A Red-Cross Member.

George Simmons, Charles Schoultz and "Bill" Jones were Sunday visitors here from Camp Custer. The former was one of the soldiers who were given the Shriner degree by the Masonic team from Detroit.

It is supposed that Roy Ambler is now on his way to France.

Word has been received that Lieut. Donald McPhail of the U. S. army medical department, a former Northville boy, has arrived safely in France.

Earl Montgomery of the 310th Engineers, Co F of Camp Custer was home over Sunday on a 72-hour furlough, which he won by a four mile hike made in 46 minutes and 14 seconds.

Another boy from a Northville family who is serving under the Stars and Stripes is Louis Girardin, who enlisted in the navy very early in the U. S. participation in the war. The Record has not been explicitly informed as to his place of enlistment or his present address.

The following names are listed as the latest certified from Northville for the next call to Camp Custer: Howard Whipple, Harold Stuart, William Foss, Thomas Hind and John L. Sybrant.

We are informed that Wallace Simmons, a ninth grade student in the Northville High school last year, is serving his country in Co. 39, Barracks 843-E, Camp Decatur, Great Lakes. Wallace is a son of Mrs. Kate Francis Simmons of Pontiac, recently of Novi, and he was attending the Pontiac High school at the time of his enlistment for naval service. The Record is glad to add his name to its honor roll, as a former Northville student, and will also be glad to add others as fast as furnished by our readers.

Five more boys, and one former Northville boy, all of them under 21 years of age, went to Detroit this week to offer their services for the U. S. army. All except one passed the preliminary examinations successfully. The boys were Peter Perkins and Fay Simpson, who with Garnet Grant of Hillsdale left today for Columbus, C., assigned to the U. S. Engineers' and Truman Garfield and Edward Johnson who go Monday, entering the Signal Corps, aviation department.

Russell Fuller failed to pass because of imperfect eyesight.

AUCTION SALE.

On Tuesday, Nov. 13 at 1:30 on the premises 2 miles west and 1 mile south of Northville, Frank Butler's herd of 31 registered Holstein cattle will be sold at auction. This sale includes the famous herd bull Johanna Hankervelt De Kol. Auctioneer, F. J. Bayle.

Unslightly Weeds.
Obnoxious weeds may be killed by covering the stalks with salt. Salt may be used to keep down weeds by sprinkling it over the ground.

VILLAGE MAY GET COAL.

By vote of the council at Monday night's meeting, the Village of Northville has placed an order for two cars of soft coal, one of stove coal and one of chestnut. As the village was able to do this, where a retail dealer's request would not be considered at all, it was thought best to try to relieve, in this way, the local situation, which is critical. The authorities have no intention of establishing a municipal coal business, or of entering into competition with the home dealers. The idea is simply to help out the citizens of Northville, if possible. If the coal ordered is obtained, which is not yet positively certain, it will be sold to citizens here at just what it costs, delivered. Those who have no coal will be first served, and all who have none at all or but a small quantity should notify Village Treasurer Taft at the State Savings bank, so that when the coal comes it can be readily and rapidly assigned to those who need it most. The coal will be sold in one-ton lots only.

ANOTHER DAYLIGHT ROBBERY.

Another daylight robbery was perpetrated in town Sunday, when the Methodist parsonage was broken into during the hours of morning service. Two purses were taken from a buffet drawer and so hastily rifled that the clasps of both were torn off and some small change left in a compartment of one of them. The theft was confined to these purses, from which five or six dollars were taken. Nothing else in the house was disturbed. Mr. and Mrs. Francis are practically certain of the identity of the thief, as very recently money was taken from the same drawer in the presence of a boy to whom it was paid. It would be much better for the said boy to confess and restore the money at once.

GARRISON-HUTCHINS.

Miss Agnes Hutchins, daughter of Mrs. W. R. Hutchins of this place, was married in Pontiac Oct. 27 to George Garrison of that city. Mr. and Mrs. Garrison will make their home in Pontiac.

HOLES IN OTHER STOCKING

Aristocratic Customer Undone by Impatient Clerk, Who Puffed Off the Wrong Shoe.

The aristocratic and plutocratic looking young woman walked into the downtown shoe store, says the Indianapolis News, and demanded a fitting. (Demanded was the tone of voice.) Majestically she lowered herself into the regulation seat proffered her by the manager of the department and he assigned Classy Charles, the fluffiest matinee idol in the shop, to the customer.

The woman began by asking to see everything that was shown in the window outside. Classy C. started out to fill the order. He did. But none of the shoes were good enough for madam's dainty foot. As the day wore on and the customer stayed, C. C. began to perspire. The other clerks looked on and grinned. Not that they disliked Charles, but, well, there was a feeling among the fellows about him. All this did not change the expression on Charles' face. It remained, that same winning smile. But finally after about half the stock had been laid out for inspection, the manager whispered to Charles, "Are you that rotten?" Which made Charles as mad as could be. He forgot himself. He violated the first rule of etiquette of the shoe clerk. (No, it is the second, the first is to hand out the usual line about the quality, etc.) He yanked off her left shoe. Lo, and behold, the stocking on the left foot was full of holes! If the right was perfect, what a flaw in the woman's other piece of hosiery! The clerks gasped. The woman screamed. The other boys laughed.

Then with a sigh of it-can't-be-helped, she remarked, "But we won't mind the holes." She bought a pair of tennis shoes, high tops, ten minutes later.

Tunic Dress With Overbodice

An overbodice and a tunic joined together, distinguish the smart and snappy dress of wool fabric which is pictured here. Both are decided successes in this season's styles. The tunic is worn over a narrow, straight-hanging undershirt and the sleeveless bodice over a lining bodice, with sleeves attached made of the same cloth as the dress or of satin. Quite often the undershirt is of satin also. These two items of information will prove useful to those thrifty and patriotic women who are conserving our wool supply by making over a last year's suit or dress into a this year's model. It can be done very successfully when a shortage of material is helped out with satin sleeves or satin undershirt. The dress pictured is excellent for business or general wear. Machine stitching in rows, buttons and buttonholes give it a tailored finish. The tunic opens at the left side, with one edge finished with buttonholes and the other with buttons, manifestly made for each other. But they are destined never to be united, for a mere slip of a braided band stands between them. Braiding in the same design appears on the sailor collar that finishes the neck.

The undershirt is joined to the underwaist (which need not be made of wool or satin but of a lining material). The overbodice is well matched with its fastening of buttons and buttonholes at one side and sleeve finished with three tucks above the wrist. Each of them makes place for a bone button, forming a row of three. These rather large, plain, bone buttons are lined up with military precision in straight and in-curved lines on tunic and bodice, making what appears to be a simple trimming, but it takes an expert to place them so exactly.

A dress of this kind, worn with a fur neckpiece, is warm enough for street wear on autumn days and as appropriate as a tailored suit. In winter it is worn under a long, enveloping coat with muffler collar, and together they can defy the thermometer to go as far as it likes in a downward direction.

Elegance in Broadcloth Coat

If you are looking for elegance in a coat you are of the same mind as the designer of the handsome model shown in the picture. He has undertaken to make, with castor broadcloth and beaver fur, a garment that cannot be outclassed by any rival, no matter how rich or expensive. His achievement is an example of the best art of the tailor and merits study to make this coat the peer of far more costly garments, the refinement of broadcloth (especially in the color chosen), long, graceful lines and superb tailoring are all combined in a result that will delight the woman of exquisite taste.

The coat is cut in the modish length, is semi-fitted at the back and hangs straight in front. It has lapped seams, and slit pockets, cut in a curve. The only stitching, put in solely to be ornamental, appears in several rows below the pockets and running parallel to them. There are long shoulders and roomy sleeves cut in the plain coat-sleeve fashion.

No other fur would do quite so well for the ample collar and cuffs as beaver, although seal or mink or kolinsky all make a good finish. But the beaver fur keeps the coat all in one color, for even the huge, semi-transparent buttons are of the same color as the cloth.

The designer could not afford to have them commonplace and their unusual size is warranted by the character of the coat which is altogether out of the ordinary. This is one among a good many attractive coats this season that will serve for many occasions, just as a fur coat does. It is certain that no winter has brought with it more becoming wraps or cloths better adapted to graceful styles.

Julia Bottomley

Cocked Hats.

The "cocked" hat again is noticed. One comes in the sheer variety of black velvet, and is trimmed with two huge pompons of clipped material usually trim in their effect. The hat worn high on the head looks extremely well when worn with the closely fitted fur pieces, and gives the wearer a chance to display some head length even if her neck is completely hidden.

Way to Clean Mesh Bags.

An easy way to clean a silver mesh bag is to wash it in warm water, using a pure white soap and a small brush such as a toothbrush. Rinse well and pat dry with a cloth.

RELIABLE REMEDY RESTORES KIDNEYS

For many years druggists have watched with much interest the remarkable record maintained by Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy.

It is a physician's prescription. Swamp-Root is a strengthening medicine. Dr. Kilmer used it for years in his private practice. It helps the kidneys, liver and bladder do the work nature intended they should do.

Swamp-Root has stood the test of years. It is sold by all druggists on its merit and it will help you. No other remedy can successfully take its place.

Be sure to get Swamp-Root and start treatment at once.

However, if you wish first to test this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention this paper—Adv.

Method in Their Plan.

The lieutenant colonel tells the story of the "goat barrage," says a correspondent in France. A few of the old timers, who have fought at his side in China and the Philippines and Mexico call him "Goat." No one else does.

"They were having machine gun practice up a daisy," said he, "and a sentry was stationed at the head to keep people from wandering up that draw and getting their heads shot off before the boys could stop squirting. But he did not challenge me."

"What are you here for?" asked.

"Keep people from going up the canyon and getting hurt," said the boy.

"You didn't stop me," I said.

"They said to let you come," replied the sentry.

WRINKLES

Wrinkles disfigure, and a dry, sallow, rough skin spoils any woman's good looks. To those whose skin has reached this condition we suggest the application of Usit, a pure nut-oil, daintily perfumed liquid preparation (not a cream or paste). It is the only thing that will feed the hungry, dry skin back to youthful smoothness, freshness and plumpness, and drive away disfiguring wrinkles that come so quickly when the skin is not properly nourished.

Usit is fine for the treatment of skin blemishes such as freckles, blackheads and many forms of Eczema. A few applications of Usit prove its worth and in a reasonable time brings wonderful results. For further distribution a bargain. Once only. Try Usit Face Powder de Luxe, which is no ordinary face powder, but a preparation appealing to people of discriminating and refined taste. Four tints—flesh, white, pink and brunette. Delicately perfumed. One 50c bottle Usit and one 50c box Usit Face Powder de Luxe for 75c. Address Usit Mfg Co., 895 Main street, Buffalo, N. Y.

At Breakfast.

"George, George, you mustn't act so when you are eating," said mamma at the breakfast table. "If you do, you will surely get something in your windpipe."

"Windpipe?" "H'm. What's my windpipe?"

"Don't you know what your windpipe is?" broke in the six-year-old brother. "Why, that's where your smoke comes from on cold days."

One Woman in Every Four Marries Between 25 and 29.

Every woman who is honest with herself will admit that she would like a home of her own. The question arises: How long can she afford to wait for just the man she wants?

Of course, it depends a great deal upon the measure of her personal attractions, notes the Evening Wisconsin. But where the average young woman is concerned, much light is thrown upon the question by data which the census bureau has collected.

These data show conclusively that it is not true that a woman who is not affianced at 24 years of age has only one chance in six of receiving a proposal later. The fact seems to be that between 25 and 29 her chance of an offer of marriage is about one in two, or 50 per cent of certainty.

As a basis for figuring it would appear fairly safe to assume that the average woman of 25 to 29 does not refuse more than one proposal out of two. It is reasonable to accept that assumption as a snifter. Supposing

Housekeepers Can Save $200,000,000 on Food

In these days when the high cost of living punches nearly every home, no waste should be overlooked. One of the most important and the most easily prevented, is the destruction of food by rats. One rat will often do a hundred dollars' damage of food and property in a single night, and a careful estimate gives over $200,000,000 as the value of foodstuffs destroyed annually by these pests. Exterminate them with Stearns' Paste and save this enormous loss of food. A small box of Stearns' Paste costs only 35 cents and is usually enough to completely rid the house of rats and mice also effective against cockroaches and waterbugs. Adv.

Different Kind of Pitch.

A woman who thought she was a singer was walking through a building where some workmen had left some pitch in such a position that she went her dress against it and, of course, soiled the dress. "Oh, what shall I do to get it off?" she said to her woman friend. "Why don't you sing to it?" said her friend. "Why, what good would that do?" said the singer. "You always get off the pitch when you sing."

THE LAST EXAMINATION OF WAR'S DRAFT

Many a man has fallen down because a test of his water showed unmistakably that he had kidney disease. The kidneys are the scavengers and they work day and night in separating the poisons from the blood. Their signals of distress are easily recognized and include such symptoms as backaches, depression, drowsiness, irritability, headache, dizziness, rheumatic twinges.

The very best way to restore the kidneys to their normal state of health and cure such symptoms, says Dr. Pierce of Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y., is to drink plenty of water and obtain from your favorite pharmacy a 90-cent bottle of An-Uric, double strength, which is dispensed by almost every drugist. You will find An-Uric more potent than lithia, dissolves uric acid as water does sugar.

Raise High Priced Wheat on Fertile Canadian Soil

Canada extends to you a hearty invitation to settle on her FREE Homestead lands of 160 acres each or secure some of the low priced lands in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta. This year wheat is higher but Canadian land just as cheap, so the opportunity is more attractive than ever. Canada wants you to help feed the world by tilling some of her fertile soil—land similar to that which during many years has averaged 20 to 45 bushels of wheat to the acre. Think of the money you can make with wheat around $2 a bushel and land so easy to get. Wonderful yields also of Oats, Barley and Flax. Mixed farming in Western Canada is as profitable an industry as grain growing.

The Government this year is asking farmers to put increased acreage into grain. There is a great demand for farm labor to replace the many young men who have volunteered for service. The climate is as healthy and agreeable, railway facilities excellent, good schools and churches convenient. NORTHVILLE, MICH., NOV. 9, 1917.

DRASTIC MEASURES MUST COME

Some weeks ago an article in this department of the Record commented on the two great armies that are, (and had been even before, open hostilities had begun overseas) carrying on war in this Western hemisphere, one the vast secret and minutely organized forces of Germany, the other, the secret service department of the United States. From the first comes stroke after treacherous stroke, dealt in the darkness of treasonable conspiracy, with the same utter disregard of human life that characterizes Kaiserism in its open warfare; from the other, the discovery and defeat of countless plots against the very life of this and other governments of the American continent. There is no way for the public to know how the tide of battle is turning as regards ultimate results, but it is too obvious that the "submarine bases" are still intact. Fires, explosions, wrecking of trains, strikes, spreading of baseless lies to hinder food conservation, Red Cross work, registration and enlistment—anything to ruin or weaken the machinery with which to carry on humanity's world war. All this traitorous activity has to be stopped in some way. The question is, how?

People in various localities all over the Americas, have taken the matter out of the hands of the law and have inflicted summary corporal punishment on offenders who have insulted our flag, our president, our principles of government, but this is not the sort of thing we want to depend upon. As a peace-loving, humanitarian people, we deplore lynch law in all its forms, and we have declared, in most of our separate commonwealths, against capital punishment, but in time of war the death penalty for treason ought to be enforced. If every offender who is caught in any kind of a treasonable act were summarily taken in hand by military law, court-martialed and shot, there is not much doubt that there would soon be a cessation in all the occurrences above mentioned. An "interned" suspect may get away or communicate with others and do more mischief. A dead one certainly can't.

It is getting to be a matter of as much reproach to belong to the I. W. W. as to the Kaiser's home army. It ought to be more, since the latter are fighting in their own country for the same cause, and it is compulsory for them, at that.

Wheatless, meatless and even sweetless days aren't anything to what we may come to—for instance, heatless and even eatless ones.

It may be also said shave the food. May be the new purple p. o. stamp is worth a cent more than the red one.

New moon next Wednesday

And Thanksgiving but 19 days away.

NEW JUDGESHIP FOR OAKLAND.

Oakland county jurists have been making several shifts this week, owing to the election of Probate Judge Kleber P. Rockwell last spring to the circuit bench. To fill the vacancy caused by Judge Rockwell's resignation, from the Probate court, Municipal Judge Ross Stockwell has been appointed by Gov. Sleeper. For Judge Stockwell's place, Judson A. Fredenburg has been named by Mayor Cambrey, or recommendation of the Oakland County Bar association. Mr. Rockwell was occupied the probate bench for the past 9 years, during which time Mr. Fredenburg has efficiently filled the position of Probate clerk. All these men are eminently qualified for the positions they are assuming.

Effect of Cutting Diamond.

In the process of cutting about 60 per cent in weight of the rough stone is lost, and this, added to the cost of cutting and the rarity of these fine gems, partly accounts for the high cost of the finished diamond.

Wixom Whisperings.

Rev. F. A. Brass was a Northville caller Monday.

Helen Stevens spent a part of last week with Pontiac relatives.

Mrs. T. Clutz of Walled Lake was a Wixom visitor Wednesday.

Mrs. W. M. Chambers is visiting her niece at Highland Park this week.

Mrs. B. Kitson and little daughter were New Hudson visitors Wednesday.

Mrs. Geo. Hennessey and children of Toledo, are visiting her parents here.

Margaret Chamberlain of Pontiac visited relatives here a part of last week.

Asa Hautebergue and cousin, Layton Rivard of Detroit, visited the former's parents Sunday.

The Halloween social last Wednesday night netted the school $44. A very large crowd was present and a merry time was enjoyed.

Mrs. Roy Boynton and children of Pontiac visited her parents, D. D. Bennett and wife from last week, Thursday until Monday of this week.

Mildred Gibson, Hazel Sutton and Maggie Congdon were home from Pontiac school Thursday and Friday last as the teachers of Pontiac were in attendance at the Institute at Grand Rapids.

The Red Cross here has been making bandages and slings, pillows, etc., knit 2 sweaters, 2 pairs of wristlets, 1 helmet, 3 mufflers, 5 pairs of socks, and also made 15 pairs of small outing boots and 14 pairs of large ones.

WIXOM BAPTIST CHURCH NOTES.

The topic for Sunday morning will be "The Mission of Truth."

The topic for the evening will be "Things that Follow Us."

The C E topic will be "Seeing North-While Things" Leader, Mr. H. Roach.

Those who failed to get to the C E service last Sunday evening missed a real treat—don't let it happen again.

Novi News.

Mrs. Ella Spencer was a Detroit visitor Wednesday.

Delos Leavenworth of Ypsilanti was an over-Northville visitor here.

Will Flint has been called for jury duty at Pontiac for November.

Mrs. William Wait and son, George visited friends at Ann Arbor Monday.

Mrs. J. J. Potter was called to Detroit last week by the illness of her little granddaughter.

Rev. and Mrs. Shinn of Hickory Ridge spent Monday and Tuesday with Rev. and Mrs. Huey.

Rev. and Mrs. Huey and Mrs. J. O. Munro attended the state S S convention in Detroit Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. John Morley were in Detroit Saturday and Sunday to visit the former's father, who is ill.

The sick people, Mrs. Orrii Huilett, Mrs. Alpha Angell and little Margaret Gleason are on the gain.

The Woman's Mission circle met with Mrs. Alice Jones Thursday, instead of with Mrs. Durfee as intended.

Mr. Garner, teacher in the Novi school, has resigned to enter the quartermaster's department of the U. S. army.

Mrs. Connor and children have moved here from Detroit to the McGraw cottage. Mr. Connor has gone into the army.

The body of Mrs. Adelaide Sly, a sister of Mrs. Alice Flint, was brought from Ypsilanti Sunday for interment in the Novi cemetery.

A. L. Hill has resigned his position as teacher of the West district school and Mrs. Hill has been engaged to finish the year.

Mrs. Frank Chapman is still very poorly. She returned from Detroit last week where she was operated on for goitre in Grace hospital.

These days make us think of Indian summer. Some of us whose coal bins are nearly empty hope such weather will last some time.

Miss Dora Nichols started Tuesday night for Florida, to spend the winter there with her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Tucker of Redford.

The Cheerful Workers will give a pot-luck supper in the Baptist church parlors next Thursday evening, Nov. 15. A short program will be given. Everybody cordially invited. Bill 10 cents.

Mr. and Mrs. E. D. West, and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Wedow will motor to Caro Friday, weather permitting, to spend the week-end with relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Boyden and daughter of Sturgis were here to attend the funeral of the former's aunt, Mrs. Sly, and also visited their cousins, Loren and Wm. Flint, the first of the week.

W. R. C. NOTES.

(By Press Correspondent.)

The delayed inspection of A. M. Harmon W. R. C. will be held at the 19th regular meeting, Wednesday afternoon, November 14, at Scott's hall. Time, 2:30.

The call for a Thanksgiving offering of fruit and jelly for the Woman's annex to the Soldiers' home at Grand Rapids, was most liberally responded to by our members and friends. Seventy-eight cans of fruit and 24 cups and cans of jelly being the total, and the women of the Relief Corps wish to thank the loyal women (not members of our order) who so generously donated both fruit and jelly for the comfort and pleasure of these soldiers' wives.

ANSWERS THE NATION'S CALL.

Herbert Hoover having designated the International Live Stock Exposition a "Food Training Camp," by this act drafted this institution into the service of this country. "More Meat" is the appeal of the food administrator. To win the war, beef and pork (especially the latter) will be necessary. There is a shortage of meat and fats. For years this deficiency has been developing. During that period the International Live Stock Exposition has acted as a conserving agency, educating the country along lines of economical production; otherwise supply conditions in this emergency would have been even less favorable. This season a great drive for immediate increase in production will be made. The moment is opportune and conditions ripe.

Consumption of meats has reached a stage several steps ahead of production and the International Live Stock Exposition teaches the way out. More cattle, hogs and sheep of better quality and earlier maturity, insuring maximum weight and minimum expense, is the solution of the problem.

The International Live Stock Exposition, which will be held during the first week in December, will this year emphasize its mission. The problem of the moment is more food. In no other way can the lesson be more convincingly taught.

Back to the Land.

Mr. Valentine Davis, a prominent vegetarian, declares that if the soil of England was cultivated as was done half a century ago it would feed 24,000,000 people and find employment for 750,000 men.

THE DETROIT EDISON COMPANY

Auction Sale

CHARLES THOMPSON, Auctioneer.

BY WASHTENAW COUNTY HOLSTEIN-FRIESIAN CATTLE BREEDERS' CLUB

At Ypsilanti Farms, 1 1/2 Miles West of Ypsilanti, Michigan, on Electric Line, on—

Wednesday, November 14

1917, Commencing at 10 o'clock.

This sale will comprise over 50 head from the herds of the members of the Breeders' Club. Over half of the offerings are Cows, a majority being either in the advance registry (one or more over 25 pounds), or out of the A. R. C. dams. They are fresh or bred to high-class sires to freshen thru this fall and winter. The balance of the females are heifers under two years.

FIFTEEN GRANDDAUGHTERS AND SIX GREAT GRANDDAUGHTERS OF KING OF THE PONTIACS AND PONTIAC KORNDYKE, are Among the Attractive Offerings.

KING PONTIAC JEWEL KORNDYKE, 94184

Will be offered, simply because the herd which he has headed for four years finds it necessary, to avoid inbreeding, to dispose of him. He is a son of King of the Pontiacs, the greatest living dairy sire with more 30-pound daughters, more 40-pound daughters, and more A. R. C. daughters than any other living sire. His dam is a daughter of DeKol 2d's Butter Boy 3d, and his granddam a daughter of Pontiac Korndyke. He has 10 A. R. C. daughters to his credit and many more coming on to test. This is an unusual opportunity for one or more breeders to procure a tested sire, gentle and alright in every way and right in his prime. Besides "King" will be offered 3 young sires.

Other sires represented in the offerings in this sale are: King Lunde Pontiac Korndyke 15th, No. 142487, out of a son of King of the Pontiacs and a daughter of Pontiac Korndyke; Merena De Nijlander No. 149013; out of a son of Pontiac De Nijlander, (35 pounds); Sir Mina Korndyke No. 129169, a good son of Pontiac Korndyke King Hartog Elzever No. 70642; Vale Plebe Paul DeKol No. 44073; Ordelo Lyons 2d's Count No. 35419, Woodcrest DeKol Lad No. 45103, Elzever King of Butter Kings No. 71595.

Get Your Catalog and Come to This Sale.

There will be attractive offerings for the discriminating breeders able to pay any price, for him who desires to get started in pure bred cattle at a moderate price, and for him who has grade cattle and recognizes the profit in using a pure bred sire.

All Animals Old Enough will be Tuerclin Tested.

Northville Evidence For Northville People

The Statement of Northville Residents are Surely More Reliable Than Those of Utter Strangers.

Home testimony is real proof. Public statements of Northville people carry real weight. What a friend or neighbor says compels respect. The word of one whose home is far away invites your doubts. Here's a Northville man's statement. And it's for Northville people's benefit. Such evidence is convincing. That's the kind of proof that backs Doan's Kidney Pills. Frank Lauer, blacksmith, Center street, says: "My back has been weak and lame at times. I have used Doan's Kidney Pills when suffering from those attacks and they have never failed to do the work. I consider this medicine a very reliable one. I always recommend it to others." Price: 60c. at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Lauer had. Do your food-conserving early.

Dr. Turner has been in poor health for the past week or two.

Frank Shafer, who has been quite ill, is able to be out, though still far from well.

The moon is going to get full just the day before Thanksgiving. Seems a little previous.

Dave Hill "the Lumber Jack evangelist" is conducting a series of evangelistic meetings at Carleton.

Are you knitting or sewing for the Red Cross? Your help is needed. If you have or can arrange any spare time use it that way.

No truly loyal American citizen can consistently fail to sign the Hoover Food pledge. It simply says: "I will do the best I can."

Speaking of odd names, Monroe, Mich. has a family named "Myneighbor", and a Milan household bears the cognomen of "Snowball."

Thanksgiving day doesn't come until the next to the last day of November this year, but that's no sign we should wait until then to be thankful.

Anyhow, those of us who belong to the food saving army have the privilege of having helped Michigan, my Michigan to a place way up near the head of the class in that respect.

Certainly there can be no "kicks" about the weather this week up to the time the Record goes to press. Four glorious autumn days in succession, "and then some"—we hope.

Will McCullough, who has been in government employ at the U. S. Fisheries station here for some years past is now in another department of service, as clerk in the post office at Plymouth.

LANSING CITIZENS

ATTACK PRO-GERMAN

LOYAL AMERICAN CITIZENS WILL NO LONGER STAND FOR DISLOYALTY TALK.

AMERICAN FLAG COMES FIRST AND STAYS RIGHT AT THE TOP.

Wm. Saier, 56 years old, one of the best known residents of Lansing, who has for months been considered radically pro-German, was kidnapped within two blocks of his home, taken to the links of the Lansing Golf club, two miles west of the city, and was given a coat of tar and feathers. Saier refused later to admit the police to his house; or to furnish any clue to the authorities which might lead them to the arrest of his assailants.

Prior to the farrar and feathering Saier was given a mock trial before a jury of 20 vigilantes, robed in white. He admitted, so witnesses say, that he had been pro-German; that he had subscribed to the Liberty Loan under pressure, and had said he would not pay the next installment, and he confessed to an act of disrespect to the American flag.

Veteran Man's Pro-German
Escanaba, Mich., Nov. 6.—Thomas Higgins, 70 years old, veteran of the Civil war, did not like the remarks made by a pro-German farmer yesterday afternoon when the farmer said that the Kaiser was better man than President Wilson. Higgins wiped the floor with the pro-German citizen. "Then he filed complaint" with federal authorities.

Proves Americans Can Fight.
Lapeer, Mich., Nov. 6.—"Americans can't fight anyway," said Adolph Zastrow while Effert Parker, local barber, was shaving him. Parker remained silent until he finished his job, and then washing his hands, said, "Zastrow, I will show you one American that can whip a German right here in Lapeer."

He proceeded to do so although he chased Zastrow into the street and broke the knuckles on both hands. Zastrow is adorned with a beautiful black eye. Sheriff Carrigan refused to take any action in the matter.

Forced to Kiss Flag.
Corning, N. Y., Nov. 6.—W. M. Keihler, a lawyer of Wellsboro, Pa., was mobbed here Friday afternoon by a crowd of persons who gathered to see a group of national army recruits of for Camp Meade, because of disloyal remarks he is alleged to have made.

Keihler was dragged from his office, where he attempted to barricade himself, and was forced to kneel and kiss the American flag.

The Deep Sea Peril

By VICTOR ROUSSEAU

(Copyright by W. G. Chapman)

ATTEMPTING TO RESCUE HIS SWEETHEART, PAGET ENCOUNTERS A NOISOME HORDE.

Naval Lieutenant Donald Paget, just given command of a submarine, meets at Washington an old friend and distinguished though somewhat eccentric scientist, Captain Masterman. Masterman has just returned from an exploring expedition, bringing with him a member of the strange race, the existence of whose species, he asserts, menaces the human family. At the club, the "March Hares," Masterman explains his theory to Paget. The recital is interrupted by the arrival of a lifelong enemy of Masterman, Ira MacBeard, and the former is seized with a fatal paralytic stroke. From Masterman's body Paget secures documents bearing upon the discovery and proceeds to the home of the scientist. Paget proceeds to sea on his submarine, the F55, and encounters a German cruiser. He sinks the enemy, which had destroyed the Beotia, on which Ida Kennedy, his fiancée, was a passenger. The girl escapes in a small boat.

CHAPTER V.

The Sea of Jelly.

He sank like a stone. No glimpse of him could be had. No rescue was possible.

Donald clung to the edge of the boat and scrambled in. He saw the amazed recognition flame out on Ida's face. He knew then that she loved him, and his impulse to seize her in his arms was almost ungovernable.

But at the same instant, looking past her into the sea, he experienced the same illusion that had beset him within the house in Baltimore, and again outside it—that of a woman's misty form outlined upon the water! Donald made a cup of his hands.

"Davies, fling out a rope!" he bawled.

But the submarine was some distance away, and in a moment a wall of fog came down, blotting her out. Ida Kennedy watched Donald, with approval. She had always liked him; shaken as she was now, his advent seemed the work of Providence. She had questioned her heart before she sailed, for she had known that her future was of her own choosing, whether it was to be spent with him or no.

Donald continued to call loudly, but the F55 was drifting in the mist and quite invisible. It was in fear of this sudden happening that Donald had told Davies to make for Fair Island if he could not get a rope to the boat.

Fair Island, less than six miles away, was the secret rendezvous where the oil-ship and biplane were to await the F55, the former to replenish her fuel supply, the latter to accompany her back to the mother ship.

Donald picked up a pair of oars from the bottom. He realized that he would have to pull toward Fair Island alone as soon as he got an inkling of its direction, with the chance of being picked up by the submarine when the fog cleared. But it was approaching sundown, and the probabilities of their spending the night in the boat seemed strong.

He sat with the oars in the rowlocks. As he allowed one to drift through the water he discovered, to his surprise, that it was apparently plunged into a mass of some jellylike substance. He dipped his hand into it and scooped some of it up.

The water was apparently curdled, like thickened milk, and on both sides of the boat, which rolled in it heavily and high in the viscous medium.

As he withdrew the oar Donald had the sensation of pulling it from between the clinging fingers of a child.

He looked down. It occurred to him that he might have got the blade entangled in some marine growth; but the water was clear, almost black, and of the same strange, jellylike consistency everywhere.

Then, to his amazement, he realized that the boat was moving!

It was not like the pull of a towline, which is a sequence of crescendo and diminuendo, of starts and jerks, as the rope grows tight and slack alternately. It was a constant impulse. It was an intelligent impulse.

It was beginning to grow dark, and to row seemed useless until the fog dispersed. It was impossible to gauge the direction. Besides, to pull against that force would have been arduous, and to pull with it might have led to unexpected difficulties.

Donald backed water in experiment. Instantly he felt the force increase. It was an effortless, persistent push, stronger than his own powers, and Donald realized that he could not resist it.

Suddenly he felt a stinging sensation on the back of his hand. He pulled in the oar. Five small, red spots had sprung out on his wrist, and the flesh seemed to have been cupped. Donald clapped his other hand down on it, and encountered something clammy and cool, which seemed to slip away. It was like the flipper of a little seal, or, again, like the hand of a child, or monkey.

At the same instant Ida screamed. Donald saw that she seemed to be struggling with some invisible adversary. The boat was tipping dangerously. Donald flung his weight over, and he heard the thud of a soft body against the bottom.

This thing—whatever it was—was in the boat!

Donald leaped forward and clasped Ida about the waist. She writhed in the clutch of the monster, and there was a look of intense horror upon her face. She seemed to be lifted bodily toward the water. Donald felt the slippery fingers of the invisible being elude his grasp. His hands moved up and down over a smooth, blubbery body.

And then he knew what it was. It was such a creature as he had seen in the glass tank in Masterman's house, but larger and more powerful. And, glaring into his eyes, were the two eyes, seemingly poised in the air, two pupils of the size of currants, and animated by a diabolical intelligence.

The sun dipped down, and in an instant the fog, only partly dispersed, closed in again. And as Donald watched, he saw the pupils slowly dilate in the dim light until they became as large as saucers.

Then, regaining courage, he dashed his fist into the monster's face, and the struggle began. He felt the impact of his knuckles on flesh, and it gave him new heart. At least he was fighting a thing of flesh and blood, and not a demon.

Ida lay swooning across the seat, where the monster had dropped her as it turned to face its new adversary. And in the rocking boat Donald fought for his own life and that of the girl he loved.

For the first time he understood that Masterman's story was not the dream of a disordered brain, but the experience of one who had striven to warn a skeptical world.

And afterward he understood why the boat had spun so dizzily long after the vortex created by the sinking of the Beotia had subsided. Even then the swarm of monsters must have discovered their prey.

Perhaps it was the plankton in the water, the jellylike infusion on which they fed, that had brought them there; perhaps the presence of drowning men. Perhaps they had brought the plankton with them, equipped for some dreadful journey.

Donald tried to lock his arms about the slimy thing, but he could get no firm grasp of it. And each touch of the flippers drew the blood to the surface of his skin by suction, bringing out rows of reddening spots that stung. He was fighting a devil fish with the intelligence of a man, armed with invisibility, creating overwhelming horror by its presence alone.

He felt his strength failing him. He was dragged toward the edge of the rocking boat.

He stumbled and fell. He felt himself held fast; he felt his ribs were compressed in a stinging vise.

But as he felt his hand grasped one of the oars. Donald snatched it up and, with a last effort of desperation, freed himself for an instant. He raised the oar and sent the sharp edge of the blade crashing forward.

He heard the sound of a torn balloon. The squirming flippers uncoiled. The boat tipped to the edge and righted itself. A splash followed. Donald sank down upon the seat.

Then gradually a milky cloud began to diffuse itself upon the face of the waters, till it acquired the shape of a dwarflike body, supine upon the waves, with the short limbs, terminating in the webbed hands, budding at obtuse angles to the trunk.

Donald sprang toward Ida, to shield her from the sight of it. He knew that if she awoke and looked she would go mad. But she lay unconscious across the seat and did not stir.

The boat stopped. There was a confused splashing in the water. The dead sea-beast was rent asunder under Donald's horrified eyes; torn limb from limb by that abominable swarm. A mottled, pinkish ichor spread itself upon the face of the sea.

Donald plunged in his oars and began to pull with all his might, driving the heavy boat through the water. The plankton gave place to clean ocean again. The sun had set, and it was growing dark; with the fall of night a gentle wind came up that began to dissipate the fog.

Through the drifting mist, wreaths appeared a jutting, cape that reared itself toward the spangled clouds. Donald pulled for an hour. Then he fell forward over his oars. He was incapable of another stroke, but he believed that he had left the sea devils behind.

He cast his eyes along the horizon. There was no sign of the F55. He turned toward Ida.

As he bent over her her eyes opened. She looked at him intently and sighed. The horrors of that day seemed temporarily to have benumbed her mind and robbed her of memory. And Donald did what he had never dared to do before.

He raised her in his arms and kissed her.

"I love you, dear," he said. "If we come out of this—as we shall—I want you always. Will you have me, Ida?"

She raised her lips to his for answer. And in the happiness of that moment, which atoned for all that they had endured, Donald perceived that the boat had begun to move again. The respite had been of brief duration. Incidentally, pertinacious, and cruel beyond belief, the monsters had once more taken up the chase. But in the unhuman forms were minds as shrewd as his, organizing them for one supreme purpose, the elemental one of food.

They were swimming beside the boat. Donald could see the agitated churning of the water. Were they pushing or pulling? Taking the oar in his hand, Donald went to the bow and drove it down into the sea. But he struck only the jellylike medium in which the boat was traveling.

He went to the stern, stepping over the body of the girl, who had relapsed into unconsciousness. This time, as he thrust there, was a scurry among the waves, and he felt the yielding, blubbery form, and the same sensation of a burst balloon. The boat stopped. Donald thrust out furiously, feeling always the contact with slippery flesh.

The monsters were pushing the boat, not pulling it.

And gradually there followed the same stupendous incarnation into visible being, the shadowy shape that grew and crystallized into the milky, opalescent body. He heard the school precipitate themselves upon their prey, and saw it rent and dismembered before his eyes.

Through the increasing darkness their pupils glared as the monsters strove together.

Donald went back to where Ida lay and placed her in the bottom of the boat, her head against a thwart. They were moving swiftly.

Suddenly the boat began to tilt upward at the bow. Donald heard the scraping of the flippers against the stern. Then, as if a heavy dog had scrambled in, the boat tipped high into the air and righted itself. Another of the monsters had gained entrance.

Donald seized the oar and brought it down upon the beast's head. The oar splintered; he heard the cracking of bone, and a splash followed.

The edge of the boat was dragged beneath the waves. It filled and overturned. Donald found himself struggling to save Ida in the sea of jelly that sucked him down. Somehow he caught her and dragged himself to the keel. He shouted, and the brutes scurried away, leaping and falling with resounding splashes, like sharks at play.

Donald felt Ida's arms seek his neck. She turned to him instinctively, not as her rescuer alone, but as her lover.

He filled his lungs and shouted. To his amazement he heard an answering shout. He strained his eyes through the darkness. Surely that was a human cry! He shouted again, and the answer came once more; and there was no longer any doubt.

The conning tower of the F55 came drifting out of the night. She ran awash, with hatches off, and Davies was standing on the deck among a group of sailors.

"Where are you?" he shouted.

"Here!" Donald cried. "Reverse engines, Davies! Coming aboard!"

The engines stopped and the submarine grazed the sides of the overturned boat. Donald grasped Ida in his arms and clambered to the deck. And Donald found himself shaking a man's hand as if he were his brother, instead of merely Sam Clouts, able seaman in the navy, trying to keep his hands from straying toward his mouth organ.

"We were trying to make Fair Island when we spotted you, sir," said Davies. "I thought we'd pick you up in the morning when the fog cleared. It's been hard work making anywhere. There's something the matter with the sea."

"How, Davies?"

"We're only able to make a knot and a half, sir. It isn't the engines. At least there doesn't seem to be anything the matter with them. It's as if the sea's—well, turned to jelly, or molasses, sir. Perhaps you noticed it. I've never seen anything like it in my experience," continued the little midgy, whose experience of the high seas was limited to a couple of short cruises on a training ship, and one on a transport.

"Clap on the hatches and make full speed for Fair Island," ordered Donald.

The F55 is invaded by the weird monsters and Paget has a terrible struggle to save himself and Ida. It is described in the next installment.

DAIRY

LOSS OF FAT IN SKIM MILK

Farmer Using Separator Should Pay Close Attention to Matter—Chief Cause Is Speed.

Every farmer who needs a separator to skim his milk should give close attention to see that he does not lose fat in the skim milk. A small percentage of fat going into the skim milk continuously means a great loss for the year. If a cow gives 5,000 pounds of milk and four tenths of one per cent is lost, it would mean for the year a loss of about $8 per cow.

There may be many causes to produce such a loss. Probably the chief cause is the speed of the bowl. If a separator is turned too slowly the milk does not skim clean and fat goes over into the skim milk. Another cause might be the temperature of the milk. For close skimming milk should be 85 degrees or above. Still another cause is an unbalanced bowl. See that the separator gets plenty of oil when running and do not neglect it when it gets out of order.

MAKING IDEAL DAIRY RATION

Silo Solves Succulence Problem Best—Roots Should Be More Generally Fed to Cows.

It is very necessary that succulence be supplied if we hope to come anywhere near an ideal dairy ration. The silo solves this problem best. From all points of view silage is to be preferred. The second choice would be roots. These will be very satisfactory, either when fed alone or supplementary to the silage, and should be more generally fed than at present on all dairy farms. Lacking either of these, it will be important to secure similar effects through the grain ration with the aid of alfalfa or clover if available. In this connection oil meal is of great value because of its well-known laxative properties coupled with its high protein content.

BUILDING UP A DAIRY HERD

Care and Feed of Calves Is of Great Importance—Select Best Marked Females.

Select the best marked female calves from the tested and most productive cows. Let the calf remain with the cow for eight to ten days or until the cow's milk is fit for human food. Feed sweet skim milk heated to blood heat; about one to two quarts may be given morning and evening. Have a clean tin feed bucket; disease and end of germs may be found in dirty buckets. Feed every day and set out in the sun and air.

Feed sweet milk; it should always be fed warm; cold and sour milk will produce scours and diarrhea. After the second week a little oatmeal and a small quantity of flaxseed oil meal after it is boiled may be added to the milk.

Tie a little bunch of bright, sweet clover hay in the pen every day for the calf to nibble. After the milk has been fed put a little meal in the calf's mouth. A little hay may also be given. By this method the calf will soon learn to eat meal and hay.

Whole oats and wheat bran may be fed in small quantities after the sixth week. All stock, young and old, thrive and keep in health when well fed and kindly treated.

CHECK GROWTH OF BACTERIA

Milk Fresh From Cow Should Be Chilled at Once to About Fifty Degrees Fahrenheit.

Cooling milk immediately after milking checks the growth of bacteria and thus prevents the milk from spoiling. Hence milk fresh from the cow should be chilled at once to about 50 degrees Fahrenheit and kept at that temperature until delivered.

SILAGE NECESSARY FOR COW

Thirty Pounds Per Day Is About Right—It Won't Hurt to Give Her All She Will Eat.

About 30 pounds of silage per day is required by the dairy cow, while a beef animal will consume one-third more, or possibly a still greater amount. It will not hurt a cow to feed her all that she will consume if the silage is good and is fed regularly.

PLAN FOR FUTURE BEAUTY

By LIMA R. ROSE.

We who grow plants in our rooms do so for the beauty of their foliage, flowers, or both, and get the pleasure from them to just the degree that we can bring them to their utmost perfection. To attain this, (with plants of any kind)—one must know their characteristics and requirements and consider whether available conditions in the home are adapted to the plants desired.

If a plant standing in the open beds, or in sunny southern windows is making a grand showing of flowers, or brilliantly colored foliage—do not get one like it expecting the same results unless it can have similar conditions. The same results cannot be secured if the plant is put into a shaded or northern window.

On the other hand primulas and other plants that produce perfect flowers in cool, semi-shaded rooms will not prove satisfactory in a place adapted to those needing more tropical conditions. The plant-lover who expects to have all sorts of plants grow and bloom in the same window will certainly be found wondering why some of them do not come up to expectation.

Even the texture of the foliage needs to be taken into consideration for rough-leaved plants, that are injured by frequent washings have no chance to develop beautiful foliage in a room where furniture needs dusting every day.

Space is another factor that makes for satisfactory window-gardening; for certainly half a dozen plants developed to perfect form and good size are vastly more beautiful than twice that number of deformed specimens crowded into the space.

The question as to whether plants should be turned or not is frequently asked, and some people say: "Oh, don't turn them, they will not bloom," and so on. After years of working among plants I hold this opinion on the subject: Plants grown solely for their beauty as seen from the outside will serve the purpose better if never turned, leaving foliage and flowers drawn towards the glass, but ordinarily they are grown for the adornment of the room and the enjoyment of those inside and should be turned often enough to keep them symmetrical in shape, for a lop-sided plant showing all its stalks (to those in the room) is not very ornamental.

Very often plants are bedded out for the summer and then potted for the winter garden window, and almost as often the potting is delayed until the plants must be taken in or frozen; and the result is a lot of plants that need a good share of the winter in which to recuperate.

If they are growing where crowded, sacrifice a few branches from the surrounding plants in order to give them space for shapely development, then pinch out the ends of the branches on the selected plants to force the formation of lateral branches. These lateral branches furnish the blooming points on geraniums and most flowering plants, and the more of them that can be forced to start, the more flowers one has during the winter.

Do not select plants that have bloomed profusely during the summer for it is against nature to expect them to keep it up during the winter. Above all, after deciding which plants shall be potted for the winter display, keep all the buds pinched out—do not let a single blossom develop until the plants are established in winter quarters.

Do not leave plants in the bed until forced by cold weather to take them in. Plan to pot them while the weather will permit having the house open, making the change a gradual one, for plants lifted and taken at once into closed fire-heated rooms must show the effect of the treatment.

Another thing to be considered is this: Plants growing in the open ground make a root-growth that very soon goes far beyond the limits of an ordinary pot, or tub. To crowd these roots into a pot too small for them is to bruise them and cause decay. The better way, by far, is to cut down all around the plants with a sharp spade or knife, ten days or two weeks before the plant is to be potted. The sharp, clean cut heals quickly and if the soil is well watered (soaked) before attempting to lift the plant, one gets a complete ball of sound roots, well covered with soil that goes into winter quarters with very little evidence of having been disturbed.

Each of these points taken singly will seem a little thing, but each has a decided bearing on the beauty of the mid-winter floral display, and for that reason each is, in reality, an important point.

A Beautiful Garden.

AUCTION BY WASHTENAW COUNTY HOLSTEIN-FRIESIAN CATTLE BREEDERS' CLUB

At Ypsilanti Farms, 1 1/2 Miles West of Ypsilanti, Michigan, on Electric Line, November 14, at 10 a. m.

The sale will comprise over 50 head from the herds of the members of the Breeders' club. Over half of the offerings are cows, a majority being either in the advance registry (one or more over 25 pounds), or out of the A. R. C. dams. They are fresh or bred to stage sires to freshen thru this fall and winter. The balance of the females are heifers under two years.

Fifteen Granddaughters and Six Great Granddaughters of King of the Pontiacs and Pontiac Korndyke are among the attractive offerings.

King Pontiac Jewel Korndyke, No. 94184, will be offered, simply because the herd which he has headed for four years finds it necessary, to avoid inbreeding, to dispose of him. He is a son of King of the Pontiacs, the greatest living dairy sire with more 30 pound daughters, more 40 pound daughters than any other living sire. His dam is a daughter of DeKol 2d's Butter Boy 3d, and his granddam a daughter of Pontiac Korndyke. He has 10 A. R. C. daughters to his credit and many more coming on to test. This is an unusual opportunity for one to secure a sire of quality for one's herd, gentle and bright in every way and right in his prime. Besides "King" will be offered young sires.

Other sires represented in the offerings in this sale are: King-Lundie Pontiac Korndyke 15th No. 142487, out of a son of King of the Pontiacs, and a daughter of Pontiac Korndyke; Mercena De Nijlander No. 149013, out of a son of Pontiac De Nijlander (35 pounds); Sir Mima Korndyke No. 129169, a good son of Pontiac Korndyke; King Hartog Elzever No. 70642, Vale Plebe Paul DeKol No. 44073; Ordelio Lyons, 2d's Count No. 35419; Woodcrest DeKol Lad No. 45103; Elzever King of Butter Kings No. 71595.

Get Your Catalog and Come to This Sale. There will be attractive offerings for the discriminating breeder or able to pay any price, for him who desires to get started in pure bred cattle at a moderate price and for him who has grade cattle and recognizes the profit in using a pure bred sire.

All animals old enough will be tuberculin tested.

A QUERY.

Can't we stand a few days that are wheatless, and a few other days that are meatless.

When thousands of folks (Tis the truth and no hoax) Have more days that are heatless and eatless?

The Second grade is studying the Pilgrims and the Hollanders.

Laura Trufant and Robert Cole are new pupils in the Fifth grade.

Wesley Skarritt is absent from school on account of a sprained ankle.

Mildred Potter of the Fifth grade has returned to school after a month's absence.

Two new pupils, Nathaniel Cole and Charles Morgan, are enrolled in the First grade.

The Juniors entertained the High school with a reading by Harold Belles, a piano solo by Marguerite Millard, and a song by Jure Filkins.

The H. S. was entertained Monday by the Sophomores, who gave the following program: Recitation, Helen Cattermole; piano solo, Gibson Carpenter; talk, Rev. A. N. Riley.

The first Parents' meeting was a success. A fine program was given by the school, after which Supt. Misear outlined the plans for organizing a more complete association.

A LETTER FROM WACO.

Harold Wheaton of Battery B, 119th Field Artillery, at Waco, Texas, writes as follows to his parents, Prof. and Mrs. Wheaton, who have kindly turned the letter over to the Record:

"We are just getting over a siege of mumps and diphtheria. As unusual as it may seem, I have been perfectly immune, and haven't even contracted a cold. Two from my tent are in the base hospital with mumps. We have been prohibited from writing letters. However, we have not been excused from work, and have been drilling regularly.

"We now have classes starting at 7 a. m. and continuing until 4 p. m., embracing such subjects as washing, foot drill, equitation and care of horses, gun drill, signal work, lectures on conditions in Europe, etc.

"The Y. M. C. A. has started classes in trigonometry, French and other beneficial subjects; also they are going to organize a House of Representatives, which will give all public speakers a chance to keep in practice.

"The Y. is doing wonderful work, and has the co-operation and gratitude of every soldier in the camp. If the people at home could see the amount of good it is doing they would never begrudge a single cent donated to the cause. There are seven buildings in Camp McArthur, and ours is the best in the bunch. The amount of stationery consumed is so great that it requires a truck load every other day.

"The buildings are of wood and look like big gymnasiums. In the rear, outside, is built a large platform and movie screen, and enough seats to accommodate several hundred men. The platform is used for boxing matches, band concerts, addresses, etc. The interior of the building is fitted with writing desks, seats, a good library, a room for obtaining money orders, and postal supplies, a piano, movie screen for cold weather and many other things for the soldiers' comfort. Every night a program is prepared, either by local talent or people from outside.

"Among other things last week we had a reader from Milwaukee, a cartoonist and entertainer, a well known southern tenor, a group of musicians from Waco, Dr. Villiers of the 1st Baptist church, Detroit, and others all these besides the movies and band concerts. This is just a little of the Y. M. C. A.

"The Liberty Loan amount subscribed here will go into millions. Fully 50% of the men have bought or will buy bonds. Every fellow in our tent bought at least one. Aside from doing a little good, it is a good scheme for saving, and the officers are doing all in their power to make the men realize this.

"We now have church right after the Sunday morning inspection, while the men are all cleaned up. At first it was compulsory, but now the men go of their own accord, as our regiment has a very fine chaplain.

"Gambling has been prohibited in our battery, the first in the whole camp to take such a step."

HAROLD L. WHEATON."

C. E. Randall transacted business in Detroit Thursday—Oxford Leader Between showers as it were.

At the meeting of the Michigan Milk Producers' association in Detroit Monday, Elroy Northrop was appointed as the Northville member of the committee on the consolidation of the branches of the association. The object of the meeting was to formulate plans whereby the cost of milk production can be accurately determined, and prices fixed accordingly. It was claimed that at present prices there is actual loss to producers, which is the reason so many farmers are going out of the milk business, indicating the grave danger of underproduction in the not far distant future.

The first number of the business men's concert course in the Alseum last Friday night was pronounced by Northville music lovers present the finest entertainment of its sort ever heard here, which is saying much. The attendance, while fairly good, was not by any means a capacity one, and now a whole lot of people in town are figuratively kicking themselves because they had failed to purchase season tickets, which would no doubt have insured their going that night, whether they happened to feel just like it or not.

All the musicians were first-class artists, and one of them was additionally interesting to many because she was a prominent member of one of the most popular Chautauqua attractions here last summer.

That's So.

If everyone would mend one, all would be amended.
