VOL. XLIX, NO. 19.

THE RECORD: NORTHVILLE, MICH., FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 29, 1918.

$1.50 PER YEAR, IN ADVANCE.

THE PASSING OF MRS. ROACH.

In the early morning hours of the 21st instant, at her home in the village of Wixom, Mabel Justeen (Boyd) Roach died.

The funeral services were held at the residence in the forenoon of Saturday, November 23. All that is mortal of Mabel now lies in the little cemetery just north of the village.

Outside friends in attendance at the funeral were the parents of the deceased, from Traverse City, and her sister, Miss Katherine Boyd, from Ann Arbor, who were also with her during her sickness, and at the time of her death. Other friends attending the last sad rites were from Waldron, Detroit, Pontiac, Jackson, Morenci and Maumee, Ohio.

The services, in accordance with Mabel's expressed wish, were short and unpretentious. They were conducted by her pastor, Rev. F. A. Brass of the Wixom Baptist church. The appropriate words of the pastor and the beautiful singing by Mr. and Mrs. Savles, gave comfort to the sorrowing friends.

Mrs. Roach was the daughter of Joe and Imogene (Russell) Boyd, her mother having preceded her to the eternal rest when Mabel was but ten years of age. Mabel was born at Kalkaska September 8, 1883. She was graduated from the Traverse City High school in the class of 1901 and the following year graduated from the Traverse City business college. She was married to Herbert T. Roach August 23, 1905. From this happy union came three bright boys, Tim, Josh and Dick, now aged nine, eight and six years, respectively.

The family have resided at or near Wixom for nearly six years, and for the past three years Mr. Roach has been manager of the Wixom Co-operative association. The family has a wide circle of friends throughout the community.

Mrs. Roach has always been a tireless worker for the betterment of the community in which she lived and as Mr. Brass fittingly expressed it in his sermon, while the passing from earth was her gain it was a distinct calamity to the entire neighborhood.

Mr. and Mrs. Roach have for some years been identified with the Wixom Baptist church, and Mabel's influence therein lent sunshine but never shadow. Her religion was above creed, and she looked out beyond the pale of man-written dogmas to the greatness and glory of God as manifested throughout all nature. She realized that if God could note the sparrow's fall he must also be the author of every blade and leaf that grows. Her ultimate faith in the Master was supreme and she felt no fear of the transition. She prayed that there be no meaning of the bar when she put out to sea, and she was not afraid to meet her pilot face to face. Altho her suffering was intense, when the end came and her great soul went back to God who gave it, the final parting left a smile upon her face.

MRS. PAULINA VRADENBURG.

One of Northville's best known older residents, Mrs. Paulina Knapp Vradenburg, died Sunday, November 24, after a two years' illness. She was born in Novi township in December, 1844, and in 1869 was married to Elijah Vradenburg of this vicinity. After a residence of three years in Detroit they came to Northville where they made their home together until the death of Mr. Vradenburg ten years ago, their only daughter remaining in the home with her mother after the father's death. Mrs. Vradenburg had been a faithful member of the Northville Baptist church for many years and a constant attendant at its services until prevented by illness.

The near surviving relatives are the daughter, Mrs. Ethel Farwell, and four brothers, Darius Knapp of Detroit, Judson of Ovid, Michigan and Samuel and John of Northville.

Funeral services, in charge of Rev. F. A. Brass of Wixom, were held from the home Wednesday afternoon, with burial in Rural Hill cemetery.

DEATH OF MRS. MAE FREDERICKS

Mrs. Mae Allen Fredericks, only daughter of Mrs. Wm. Beyer of this place and mother of Mrs. Richard Vealey of Plymouth, passed away Friday, November 22, after a year's illness. Funeral services were held Sunday afternoon from the Beyer home, Rev. E. V. Belles of the Presbyterian church officiating, and interment was made in Rural Hill cemetery.

CARD OF THANKS.

Mr. and Mrs. William Mocher extend most sincere thanks to all the friends who have had any part in the kindly assistance given in time of trouble.

RED CROSS NOTES.

Word has been received from headquarters that there will be plenty of Red Cross work for an indefinite time to come. It is hoped that our local workers will not "become weary in well doing." Besides the refugee garments which will from now on be needed more and more as winter advances, there will also be knitting to do. The work will come in monthly quotas and whenever it comes the necessity will also come to hurry its completion within each month. Our ladies are requested to be ready at any time to "take hold." The delay in receiving the December quota is due to the fact that full instructions have not been received at headquarters for the making of the refugee garments which have to be constructed according to their accustomed styles of clothing.

The Junior work is now very important and consists of the making of scrap books, all other work having been laid aside for this, which must positively be finished 10 days before Christmas. Any person having magazines containing interesting complete stories can help by sending such to the workrooms at the school house. Pretty pictures for the covers are also required, as well as humorous anecdotes, etc. If you have anything of the kind, do not delay in contributing it and thus have a share in giving pleasure to those who shall receive the scrap books.

Chairman Mrs. C. L. Dubuar of the Northville workrooms has received a most urgent request from headquarters for the assistance of Northville knitters in filling a quota of 22,500 sweaters to be finished by Jan. 28th, for our American troops remaining overseas through the winter. The sweaters are to be of a certain imported wool, and must be sworn to as made from that wool. Also, the name of the knitter must be put on each sweater, to make part of an honor roll to be published later. It is a great compliment to Detroit Chapter, and through that to our unit to be chosen for this work, as showing that our knitting is considered among the best. The knitting of socks is to be dropped entirely by every good knitter for the purpose of taking up the sweater work.

MEMORIAL SERVICE.

Northville Lodge No. 65, Foresters of America, will hold a memorial service in their hall (at the rink) Sunday, December 8 at 2:30 p. m. This service will be in memory of Harry Rattenbury, who was killed in action while fighting in France. This young man was born and raised in our neighborhood, and one of our finest boys, who gave his life for the cause of liberty. Rev. W. C. Francis of the M. E. church, will deliver the address and music will be furnished by the Methodist choir. Every one is requested to attend this service.

AUCTION SALE.

Friday, November 29, at 10 o'clock, on the premises known as the Kingsley farm, 2½ miles west and 2½ miles south of Salem, Mrs. Albert Schoebridge will have an auction of dairy cattle, horses, hogs, poultry, farm and dairy tools, hay and grain and other articles, with warm lunch at noon. Frank J. Boyle, auctioneer.

AUCTION SALE.

On Tuesday, December 3, on his farm 2½ miles west and one mile south of Novi, Charles Welsh is to sell 17 head of cattle, hogs, sheep, farm tools and machinery, hay and grain. Sale commences at 10 o'clock and a hot lunch at noon. George Rattenbury, auctioneer.

AUCTION SALE.

Paul Clargo will have a sale of milk cows, horses and swine, Wednesday, December 4, commencing at one o'clock p. m., on the farm 3 miles west of Northville and ½ mile north of Harry Clark's-corners. F. J. Boyle, auctioneer.

SOLDIER ITEMS.

Mr. and Mrs. F. P. Simmons received a letter this week, under date of Oct. 24, from their son, George, with the news of his promotion to First Class Sergeant. He was still in France at that date so the press news that the 310th Engineers were in Russia was erroneous, at least as regarding some of them. Frank Wilkinson, who is a member of the 310th Signal Corps, may possibly be in Russia, as his parents have not heard from him for a long time, they inform us. The military dispatches say that it is a matter of much longer time to get mails through from Russia.

The first soldier on the Northville honor roll to come back to his place released from the U. S. service was First Sergeant Ross M. Dixon, lately of the Central Officers' Training camp at Camp Lee, Va. He arrived at his parental home here the first of this week. Sergeant Dixon received his honorable discharge just two weeks before his commission as Lieutenant would have been given him.

Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Lovewell of South Lyon have received the sad message that their 18-year-old son, Lucien, an enlisted man in the U. S. Truck service, died in France Nov. 2 of acute dilatation of the heart. Scott Lovewell of this place is a brother of the young soldier. The boy was within a few days of his graduation from the South Lyon High school when he joined the colors.

Scott Montgomery and Floyd Laning of the U. of M. Students Training Corps were home from Ann Arbor over Sunday.

Franklin VanValkenburg and Don VanSickie were Camp Custer boys who spent Sunday at their homes.

Wendell Miller and Scott Montgomery were home from Ann Arbor for Thanksgiving.

MOTORS DISPLACE ANIMALS IN FARM HAULING

A Big Truck Gathering Produce for Transport to a City Market.

AUTO TRUCK IS WINNING FAVOR

Machines Are Rapidly Taking Place of Animal Power in Hauling Products.

IMPROVED ROADS BIG HELP

Development of Regular Freight Service Is Considered Notable—One Farmer Uses Ten Trailers Drawn by Tractor.

Motors are rapidly taking the place of animal power in hauling products from the farm in many counties in the United States where the roads permit. A significant phase of this new development is the growth of regular freight service, by which farmers can take the taking of their produce by motortruck directly from the farm to a distant market, and thus avoid both the wagon haul and the shipment by railroad or boat.

Of 1,473 county reports received by the bureau of crop estimates of the United States department of agriculture in its recent investigation of the hauling of products from farm to shipping point by animal power and by motor, 898 reported the use of motors, mostly motortrucks. In a large fraction of these counties, motortruck service is just coming into use in hauling products from the farm. There were many more reports of use for light traffic, such as poultry, eggs and vegetables, than for hauling grain. A few reports, scattered from Delaware to the Pacific coast, mentioned the great importance of the light motortruck service in delivering perishable fruits to shipping points.

In many states, especially in the northern and south central sections, hogs were hauled preferably in motortrucks on account of the relatively small amount of shrinkage compared with hauling in wagons. Some counties reported hogs hauled exclusively in motortrucks, although these vehicles had not yet come into general use for grain or other products.

Improved Roads Help

One of the chief limitations to the use of the truck is the condition of the roads, and several reporters mentioned a beginning of motortruck use as following closely an improvement in roads. Another hindrance to using motors is connected with the seasonal distribution of farm work. Some correspondents said that after their harvest was over there was no work for their horses to do but haul, and that motortrucks would not be an economy. In other instances, the trucks were reported to have done needed hauling at times when laborers and horses could not well be spared from the farms. A market gardeners' association in Rhode Island is said to be operating a few trucks with trailers and to carry produce to the city market at a cost averaging only 10 cents per ton-mile.

Frequent mention is made, even in the East, of trucks which do a regular freight business, charging farmers for the service. One Tennessee farmer reported having paid a truck to haul a load of 15 hogs to market a distance of ten miles, and the trip was made in the evening after supper.

Used a Regular Train

Tractors with trail wagons are in more or less frequent use in various states, including North Dakota and California. One Illinois man reports using ten wagons drawn by one tractor and moving 1,000 bushels of wheat at a time.

The great variety of local transport conditions in the United States is illustrated in some notes from these county reporters. One man gives an average of 15 miles as the longest distance for any considerable number of farmers, but explains that the haul is to the Cumberland river, which, in his county, is navigable only five months of the year; for the other seven months the haul is 40 miles to a railroad. In Mathews county, Va., few trucks are used; but, since the county is indented by several navigable waterways, motor boats and sail boats are used by the farmers to a considerable extent. One reporter in western Oregon says that neither roads nor automobiles are to be found within 20 miles of his home; produce is carried on pack mules, over difficult trails, to a landing on Rogue river. The heavy hauling in Merosta county, Mich., as in some other northern counties in the United States, is often postponed until snow comes, when sleds are used.

TAKE A GRAPE CURE

The effect of unfermented grape juice as a drink has been studied at the European "grape cures" and to a slight extent in laboratories. It is generally claimed that the consumption of a reasonably large quantity of it improves digestion, diminishes intestinal fermentation and results in an increase in weight.

Wintering Idle Horses

At this time of the year practically all the heavy work on most farms has been finished, and during the winter horses are more or less idle. Since idle horses give no return in labor performed, the feeding should be as economical as possible, and proper care should be taken of the animals in order that they may be in the best possible condition for work in the early spring.

Horses should not be confined to the barn during the winter on a liberal supply of grain. It is far better to "rough" them through the cold months. They should be given the run of the yard or lot during the day. This should be provided with a protected shed, one that is thoroughly dry and well provided with bedding. While nature does her part and protects the horse with a heavy coat of hair during the cold months, the shed is necessary in order to afford the requisite shelter and protection against rains, snow, and cold winds. Winter winds come mostly from the north and northwest, and the shed should be so situated and constructed as to give the proper protection from this quarter.

In the feeding of idle horses high-priced feed should be avoided in order to keep them in proper condition at the lowest cost. It has been found that idle horses do very well on a winter feed consisting of all the hay, oat straw, cornstalks, or sorghums they will consume, so that little grain is necessary. Idleness also permits of a more thorough mastication of the feed, thus insuring proper digestion.

Farming a Business

A farm is a business, and crop fields are only one part of that business. Studies in farm management show that a farm to make money must usually have a large business, must have good crops and live stock, and must have these enterprises so selected and organized on the farm that the labor will be kept busy throughout a large part of the year. While it is important that a farmer avoid poor yields, he should not judge the success of his farm by its yields alone.

Marketing by Parcel Post

In most communities there is a great opportunity for marketing eggs and poultry by parcel post. Often this plan gives better satisfaction than the usual method.

HOME TOWN HELPS

DUTY DEVOLVING UPON ALL

Wanting, Care and Protection of Trees Is a Prime Requisite of Good Citizenship.

Choice varieties of our native deciduous and evergreen trees have suffered greatly from depletion due to the almost unchecked ravages of pestiferous insects and destructive fungi, the noted scarcity of bird life in many sections plainly adding to the complexity of the problem of protecting the trees. writes a correspondent of the New York Sun. Trees such as the chestnut, the maple, hickory, oak, pine, hemlock, etc., are beautifully characteristic of the wonderful resources of our deciduous and evergreen varieties, and these should be planted freely wherever opportunity offers. The American chestnut should not be permitted to disappear from the list.

I had intended to say more about street tree planting in the several boroughs of our city, where in many sections trees may be used with a great advantage to property and for the adornment of a neighborhood. For a comparatively small expenditure a good tree is a paying investment. The period of defoliation in the deciduous tree is at hand, and indicates the season of safety in transplanting, and this work can now shortly be undertaken, lasting till early frost. All interested in this inviting enterprise should take occasion to plant a tree as a civic duty.

BEAUTY GREAT CIVIC ASSET

Ugly or Ill-Kept Houses Do Much to Retard the Development of Any Community.

Morals, manners and taste are important as truly as health. Houses that are ugly, that tend to drive men and women away from them instead of attracting them are, to say the least, not making it easier to maintain good homes. Houses that are ill-kept or run-down are setting a constant pattern of shiftness and slovenliness before the child. Monotonous rows of pine boxes or even of brick or concrete parallelepipeds are not adapted to cultivate taste for beautiful things nor to supply the basis for the expression of individuality. And individuality is somehow a very real element not merely in the attractiveness of life, but in the formation of character and of family standards. Fortunate is the small city or large town that has no great amount of housing of this kind. If communities set themselves the task of building schoolhouses that shall impress good standards upon children during five hours of the day, can they afford to take the risk of having patterns of hideousness or dilapidation before the eyes of children during the rest of the day?

Enrich Your Garden Soil

This is the time to apply coarse manure—not commercial fertilizer, which should only be used during the growing season. You are not likely to apply too much compost or manure. Truck growers use as heavy a coating as six inches. On a plot 20 by 20 feet 400 to 600 pounds can be used. Stable manure is so scarce, it is more than ever important to save and use all available leaves. The burning of leaves is rank waste. Manure is hard to obtain, but every effort should be made to get it and put it on in the autumn instead of in the spring. Arrangements should be made, if possible, for fine, well-rotted manure or for commercial fertilizer for use next spring. There is a shortage during the war of commercial fertilizer and it should not be put on before its plant food is needed or when it will seep away. Quick-acting fertilizer applied in the spring will give plants an early start and help to produce early crops—a result all gardeners desire.

Deadlines in City Streets

For the purpose of trying out the idea before adopting it generally, New York city officials have laid white lines of tile and marble, six inches wide, in the pavement at certain street intersections to serve as deadlines for vehicles. Considerable trouble in connection with the control of traffic by the police has been experienced in trying to get motorists to stop at an imaginary line. With a broad, white marking set in the pavement, there can be no mistake as to where cars should stop. Both tile and marble have been used in making the trial marks to ascertain which is the more durable.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Origin of Meteorites

In contradistinction to the theory of the earth-origin of meteorites, it has been argued that they may have been shot out of the giant volcanoes of the moon in long past ages, but there are some very serious difficulties in the way of this hypothesis. Mr. Chamberlain, the inventor of the planetesimal theory of the origin of solar systems, has the interesting suggestion that meteorites may be the fragments of bodies (planets) broken up by the passage of some immense mass near enough to produce disruptive tidal strains. To sum up, the real origin of meteorites remains to be discovered.

Hams Before and After Curing

RIGHT METHODS OF CURING PORK

Directions Given for Butchering Hog at Home and Preparing Meat for Keeping.

RECIPES WORTHY OF TRIAL

Recommendations Made by United States Department of Agriculture—Combination of Salt and Sugar—Makes Good Cure.

On many farms the butchering of a hog or two to furnish the home supply of meat would be more generally practiced during late fall and winter if methods of keeping the meat were more generally understood. Some people who would like to reduce their meat bill by the home butchering method, fear that a part of the meat might spoil and thus be wasted before it could be used. To assist such people and others who do butchering in curing pork properly, the United States department of agriculture recommends the following:

Curing Agents

Salt, saltpeter, sugar and molasses are the principal preservatives used in curing pork. Borax, boric acid, formalin, salicylic acid, and other chemicals are sometimes used, but their use is prohibited in connection with meats and products to which the federal meat inspection law is applicable.

Salt, when applied alone to meat makes it very hard and dry, because its action draws out the meat juices and hardens the muscle fibers. Saltpeter is used to preserve the natural color of the meat. It is more astringent than salt and should be used sparingly. Sugar and molasses act differently than salt. They soften the muscle fibers and improve the flavor of the meat, hence the combination of salt and sugar makes a good cure.

Brine Curing and Dry Curing

Much diversity of opinion exists as to the merits of the two ways of curing—brine and dry curing. It is less trouble to pack meat in a barrel and pour on brine than to rub meat three or four times with salt. The brine keeps away insects and vermin. If directions are followed closely and pure water is used in making the brine, it will not spoil and should keep for a reasonable length of time. If the brine becomes "ropy," it should be poured off and boiled or a new brine made. A cool cellar is the most desirable place for both brine and dry curing, though more moisture is required for dry curing. When meat is cured during warm weather the dry salt method of curing is far safer than the brine method.

It is advisable to rub with fine salt the surface of the meat and allow it to drain, flesh side down, for 6 to 12 hours before being put in the cure. This applies to both brine and dry curing.

Brine-Cured Pork

There are many different formulas for curing pork by the brine method, but the recipe given below if followed closely will give very good results.

For each 100 pounds of meat use—
8 pounds salt. 2 ounces saltpeter.
2 1/2 pounds sugar or 4 gallons water.
straw

In warm weather 9 or 10 pounds of salt are preferable.

Allow four days' cure for each pound in a ham or shoulder and three days for bacon and small pieces. For example, a 15-pound ham will take 60 days; a piece of bacon weighing 10 pounds, 30 days.

The brine should be made the day before it is used, so that it will be cool. All the ingredients are poured into the water and boiled until thoroughly mixed. Place bars on the bottom of the container, shoulders next, bacon sides and smaller cuts on top. Pour in the brine, and be sure it covers the meat thoroughly. In five days pour off the brine and change the meat, placing the top meat on the bottom and the bottom meat on top, then pour back the brine. Repeat this operation again on the tenth and eighteenth days. If the pickle becomes ropy, take out all the meat and wash it off thoroughly, also the container. Boil the ropy pickle, or, better, make new pickle. When each piece of meat has received the proper cure, take it out of the pickle and wash in lukewarm water, string and hang in the smokehouse. The temperature of the smokehouse should not exceed 125 degrees Fahrenheit. Smoke the meat until it has a good chestnut color.

An excellent cure, in which the meat is preserved in brine formed from the mixtures of the juices brought out of the meat by the application of the following ingredients:

For each 100 pounds of meat use—
8 1/2 pounds salt. 2 ounces saltpeter.
2 pounds melted 2 ounces red pepper.
sugar or warm 2 ounces black pepper.
straw per.

All the ingredients should be mixed thoroughly. Rub each piece of meat with the mixture. Pack the meat in a container, ham on the bottom, shoulders next, and bacon sides on top. Enough liquid will be formed to cover the hams. Allow the meat to cure for six weeks; string and hang in the smokehouse. The bacon and smaller pieces of meat, after they are cured, should be eaten first. The hams are better after they have aged.

Dry-Cured Pork

Dry-cured pork requires more work than brine-cured, though it is sometimes less expensive. Danger from rats and other vermin is less in the case of brine-cured pork. Both methods of curing are very successful, if care is taken to see that each operation is executed correctly. Following is the method of dry curing:

For each 100 pounds of meat use—
7 pounds salt. 2 ounces saltpeter.
2 1/2 pounds sugar.

Mix all the ingredients thoroughly, then rub one-third of the quantity of this mixture over the meat and pack it away in a box or on a table. The third day break bulk and rub one-half of the remaining mixture over the meat and again pack the meat. Break bulk the seventh day and rub the remainder of the mixture over the meat and pack the meat to cure. Allow one day and a half cure for each pound the pieces of meat average. After the meat has cured, wash each piece with lukewarm water and hang it in the smokehouse.

Another dry cure is as follows:

For each 100 pounds of meat use—
8 pounds salt. 3 ounces black pepper.
8 pounds warm 2 ounces red pepper.
straw 2 ounces saltpeter.

All the above ingredients should be mixed together thoroughly. Rub each piece of meat thoroughly with this mixture and pack the meat in bulk on a clean floor or table or in a container. In ten days break bulk and repack the meat. This is done to make the cure more uniform and to prevent souring. Allow the meat to cure five or six weeks.

Pickled Pork

Fat backs cut into suitable pieces for curing are generally treated in the following manner: The pieces of meat are packed in a container and a pickle made of the following ingredients is poured over the meat: To 4 gallons of water add 10 pounds of salt and 2 ounces of saltpeter for each 100 pounds of meat.

MEAT COOL AND FRESH

The proper time to begin curing pork is when the meat is cooled and is still fresh. Twenty-four to 36 hours after killing is the opportune time. It is essential that the pork be thoroughly cooled. Meat should never be frozen either prior to or during the period of curing. A clean hardwood molasses or sirup barrel is a suitable vessel in which to cure pork. The barrel should be clean and tight so as to prevent leakage. A large "tone" or metal jar is the best container in which to cure meat, but the initial cost is high. Stone or some metal containers are very easily kept clean. If a barrel is used repeatedly for curing pork it is necessary to scald it out thoroughly before fresh pork is packed into it.

SPANISH INFLUENZA

Do Not Fear When Fighting a German or a Germ!

By DR. M. COOK

The cool fighter always wins and so there is no need to become panic-stricken. Avoid fear and crowds. Exercise in the fresh air and practice the three C's: A Clean Mouth, a Clean Skin and Clean Bowels. To carry off the poisons that accumulate within the body and to ward off an attack of the influenza bacillus, take a good liver regulator to move the bowels. Such a one is made up of May apple, leaves of aloe, root of jalap, and is to be had at any drug store, and called "Pleasant Purgative Pellets."

If a bad cold develops, go to bed, wrap up well, drink freely of hot lemonade and take a hot mustard foot bath. Have the bedroom warm but well ventilated. Obtain at the nearest drug store "Auric Tablets" to flush the kidneys and control the pains and aches. Take an "Auric" tablet every two hours, together with copious drinks of lemonade. If a true case of influenza the food should be simple, such as broths, milk, buttermilk and ice cream; but it is important that food be given regularly in order to keep up patient's strength and vitality. After the acute attack has passed, which is generally from three to seven days, the system should be built up by the use of a good iron tonic, such as "Ironic" tablets, to be obtained at some drug stores; or that well known blood-maker and herbal tonic made from roots and barks of forest trees—sold everywhere as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery.

DANDRUFF MAKES HAIR FALL OUT

Girls! Try this! Doubles beauty of your hair in a few moments.

Within ten minutes after an application of Danderine you can not find a single trace of dandruff or falling hair and your scalp will not itch, but what will please you most will be after a few weeks' use, when you see new hair, fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair—growing all over the scalp. A little Danderine immediately doubles the beauty of your hair. No difference how dull, faded, brittle and straggly, just moisten a cloth with Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. The effect is amazing—your hair will be light, fluffy and wavy, and have an appearance of abundance; an incomparable lustre, softness and luxuriance.

Get a small bottle of Knowlton's Danderine for a few cents at any drug store or toilet counter, and prove that your hair is as pretty and soft as any—that it has been neglected or injured by careless treatment—that's all—you surely can have beautiful hair and lots of it if you will just try a little Danderine.—Adv.

PROVEN SWAMP-ROOT AIDS WEAK KIDNEYS

The symptoms of kidney and bladder troubles are often very distressing and leave the system in a run-down condition. The kidneys seem to suffer most, as almost every victim complains of lame back and urinary troubles, which should not be neglected, as these danger signals often lead to more dangerous kidney troubles.

Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, which, so many people say, soon heals and strengthens the kidneys, is a splendid kidney, liver and bladder medicine, and, being an herbal compound, has a gentle healing effect on the kidneys, which is almost immediately noticed in most cases by those who use it.

A trial will convince anyone who may be in need of it. Better get a bottle from your nearest drug store, and start treatment at once.

However, if you wish first to test this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention this paper.—Adv.

Art and Excellence in Single Frocks

Sometimes a great designer chooses to show just what simple means will give the ends of genius. Here is a simple afternoon gown of gray satin that has beauty and distinction written in all its lines and in every other item of its makeup. A great name appears on the small satin tip that is the signature to this lovely frock, and it gives the wearer a gratifying assurance of being correctly dressed. But the experienced student of fashions does not need to see it—art and excellence are written all over the gown and everyone can infer that the name of an artist belongs to it.

It takes good quality in the satin to achieve the effect sought in this very unpretentious but aristocratic bit of designing; this is imperative; but in color there is considerable latitude. As pictured it is in a light gray, but the lovely terra cotta or henna tones, the new "celestial" blues—violet and lovely—and the deep anethyst shades would be as effective as gray. But gray is the best choice when the frock is expected to meet the requirements of many functions, and for other colors the choice of fur would be different.

ent, a dark fur as seal or black lynx, probably.

The gown is made in two pieces and of the skirt there is nothing to say but that it is plain, shapely and perfectly adjusted. The overdress has a rather short tunic joined to the bodice under a gridle of satin. But this description is altogether inadequate if it doesn't include mention of the fine management of the lines in this overdress. The tunic is banded with fur—what is called taupe lynx. The sleeves are of georgette crepe with deep cuffs of satin. The "v" shaped opening of the bodice is outlined with embroidery in gray silk and silver and the same embroidery appears on the cuffs. The little chemisette is of plain georgette. There is an interesting finishing touch in the girdle, where it is slipped through large rings covered with silk, crocheted over them. Two long ends, finished with silk and silver tassels, complete the girdle and these popular floating ends are placed at the right side. The accessories worn with a frock of this kind must be well considered—hose and hat may not be chosen at random.

Cozy Furs and Wraps for Children

Small girls, never too small to enjoy their pretty finery, are hobbing up on the promenades and in the parks, dressed in their new winter clothes. They are anticipating the snow with cozy furs and coats and bright hats and bonnets; destined to make them look like gay winter flowers against a white background, when it flies. Their millinery is colorful and often their coats are in light tones and the shoes of the small fry, more often than not, have white uppers with black vamps. Rose, bright blues and the brown and castor colors are much in evidence in millinery and we may promise ourselves a liberal sprinkling of red tones as the winter advances. Solomon in all his glory may have been arrayed as gorgeously as one of these youngsters, but he never was better suited or happier over it.

Of all her belongings the little girl seems to get the most pure joy out of fur neckpieces and muffs. Almost as soon as she can walk they are ready for her. What woman cannot recall the first fur set that came into her possession—usually at Christmas time, and her unmixt delight in it? Nothing but the first parasol and the first pocketbook can bring the same thrill to the childish heart. Here are at least two good hints for the holidays: Squirrel, beaver, imitation ermine, krtimmer and other inexpensive skins are appropriate for children and are liked best. There are many others, including those that have acquired names given them by the furriers, and the fine thing about them is that they are within the reach of nearly all people. For little girls of three and over there are miniature round muffs and flat scarfs that are delightfully cozy. So far as styles are concerned there is little variation in children's furs—they are much alike until the miss is well advanced in the fapper stage. The set illustrated is a familiar and reliable type for little folks. It is a long, crinkly white fur that looks best on the youngest wearers, where it usually finds itself in the company of bright-lined broadcloth coats and velvet hats or bonnets more or less fluffy with trills.

Make Over Old Clothes.

To be up-to-date these days your community should have an old-clothes clinic, the department of agriculture suggests. Not the amount you spend on clothes but the amount you save is the criterion by which you are judged in this year of war. The home demonstration agents usually hold the clinics, and old garments are brought, ripped and made over by the women under their direction.

HURRY, MOTHER! REMOVE POISONS FROM LITTLE STOMACH, LIVER, BOWELS.

GIVE CALIFORNIA SYRUP OF FIGS AT ONCE IF BILIOUS OR CONSTIPATED.

Look at the tongue, mother! If coated, it is a sure sign that your little one's stomach, liver and bowels needs a gentle, thorough cleansing at once.

When peevish, cross, listless, pale, doesn't sleep, doesn't eat or act naturally, or is feverish, stomach sour, breath bad, has stomachache, sore throat, diarrhoea, full of cold, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the foul, constipated, waste, undigested food and sour bile gently moves out of the little bowels without griping, and you have a well, playful child again.

You needn't coax sick children to take this harmless "fruit laxative"; they love its delicious taste, and it always makes them feel splendid. Ask your druggist for a bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on the bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here. To be sure you get the genuine, ask to see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company." Refuse any other kind with contempt.—Adv.

OUT OF MANY RACES RED CROSS MAKES ONE

ONE of the greatest services which the Red Cross is performing in this war is the unification of the many races of which America is composed through the Home Service, which, through its 10,000 committees, is looking after the welfare of the soldiers' families in every corner of the country. America has always been called the Melting Pot, and truly, but the process has been slow. The war has accelerated it. The Indians of the West, the negroes of the south, the Italians and Eastern Europeans of our industrial centers, the Mexicans of the Southwest, Armenians and Swedes and Norwegians and Japanese and Icelanders—all are now enlisted under one flag, and were whole heartedly in the war because it was America's war and they are Americans.

That they feel this is patent to those who have seen and talked with these men. Witness the Italian, who in the assembly hall of one of our mobilization camps was waiting with a group of his fellows to take the oath of allegiance. He stepped forward, suddenly with tears in his eyes and with a rigid gesture pressed a corner of the American flag that hung over the desk in front of him to his lips. A group of native born soldiers who had been looking on with amused indifference broke into applause and cheers. From then on these Italians were their brother Americans.

Such work as this is valuable not only for the morale of the men, but as binding the nation into one organic whole as it has never been bound before. To give concrete expression to this unity the Red Cross plans through its Christmas Roll Call, to be held the week beginning December 16, to increase its membership from 22,000,000 to the limit of available membership. It wishes to give in this way notice to the world that every American, irrespective of creed or birth, stands squarely and uncompromisingly for the principles for which we have been fighting—that America is one and indivisible pledged solidly for honor and mercy and good faith.

SICK FOLKS HUSTLE FOR THE RED CROSS

Through the National Tuberculosis Association and the Journal of the Outdoor Life, its official magazine, a campaign is being organized to get tuberculosis patients of the country to enlist every fellow "cure chaser" as a member of the Red Cross during the coming Red Cross-Christmas Roll Call. Special campaigns have been organized in all of the large sanatoria, of which there are nearly 600 scattered throughout the United States. Efforts will be made to enroll one hundred per cent in each institution and also to go after all patients and enroll them as well. Every patient in the sanatorium will be responsible to get one more patient. The movement will be a contribution of the tuberculosis patients of the country to the Red Cross.

Since the National Tuberculosis Association and its affiliated agencies are being supported by the Red Cross through direct appropriation during the year 1919, this effort of the tuberculosis patients is considered to be an unusually appropriate one.

RED CROSS CARRIES TONS OF FOOD TO BELGIANS

American Red Cross trucks are constantly in action along the Belgian front. This report of the work of these trucks was recently received by the Commission for Belgium: "In the last two weeks we handled 240 tons of foodstuffs and a large quantity of salvaged material. "We have been saving the effects of people in the shelled towns, Furnes, Abele, Coxyde, La Panne, Alveringhem, Oost-Dunrick, the Trappist Farm, St. Jean-Blezen and Reninghelst. On nearly all occasions when work was in progress in the last named it has been shelled, but fortunately without injuries to trucks or drivers."

Fifteen Million Tons of Shipping

Building 15,000,000 tons of shipping is the big job laid out for American shipyards. It will take years to do this. Most working in shipyards are assured of steady jobs if they make good. This great fleet of ships must be built. The United States is going to become the first maritime nation of the world.

We need men accustomed to out-of-doors work to help us build ships. The pay is set by the Emergency Fleet Corporation under direct Government control, and is higher than ever before in the history of the industry. Do not hesitate because you have never worked in a shipyard before. We will train you for some good job and will pay you well while you are learning.

It will take us years to build our share of 15,000,000 tons. A shipyard is the ideal place to make good money this winter. Get in touch with us, either by calling at our yard or by writing to us immediately. Some of our best jobs are open right now. Great Lakes Engineering Works, River Rouge and Detroit, Mich.—Adv.

Nature's Great Hoodoo Temple.

In the Hoodoo basin of western Wyoming are curious formations which resemble Punch and Judy heads, grim savages, smirking old maids, monkeys, rabbits, birds and animals. There are fifty different shapes of heads, says Popular Science Monthly, and over forty different animal and human faces have been counted. The rock out of which the hoodoos have been carved by Dame Nature is what is known as volcanic breccia.

KEPT PLEDGE TO SEND BREAD

American Nation Maintained Allied Loaf Through Self-Denial at Home Table.

AVERTED EUROPEAN DESPAIR.

With Military Demands Upon Ocean Shipping Relieved, World is Able to Return to Normal White Wheat Bread.

Since the advent of the latest wheat crop the only limitation upon American exports to Europe has been the shortage of shipping. Between July 1 and October 10 we shipped 65,980,305 bushels. If this rate should continue until the end of the fiscal year we will have furnished the Allies with more than 237,500,000 bushels of wheat and flour in terms of wheat.

The result of increased production and conservation efforts in the United States has been that with the cessation of hostilities we are able to return to a normal wheat diet. Supplies that have accumulated in Australia, Argentina and other hitherto inaccessible markets may be tapped by ships released from transport services, and European demand for American wheat probably will not exceed our normal surplus. There is wheat enough available to have a white loaf at the common price.

But last year the tale was different. Only by the greatest possible saving and sacrifice were we able to keep a steady stream of wheat and flour moving across the sea. We found ourselves at the beginning of the harvest year with an unusually short crop. Even the most optimistic statisticians figured that we had a bare surplus of 20,000,000 bushels. And yet Europe was facing the probability of a bread famine—and in Europe bread is by far the most important article in the diet. All of this surplus had left the country early in the fall. By the first of the year we had managed to ship a little more than 50,000,000 bushels by practicing the utmost economy at home—by wheatless days, wheatless meals, heavy substitution of other cereals and by sacrifice at almost every meal throughout the country.

In January the late Lord Rhodesda, then British Food Controller, called that only if we sent an additional 75,000,000 bushels before July 1 could he take the responsibility of assuring his people that they would be fed. The response of the American people was 85,000,000 bushels safely delivered overseas between January 1 and July 1. Out of a harvest which gave us only 20,000,000 bushels surplus we actually shipped 141,000,000 bushels. Thus did America fulfill her pledge that the Allied bread rations could be maintained, and already the American people are demonstrating that, with an awakened war conscience, last year's figures will be bettered.

Our exports since we entered the war have justified a statement made by the Food Administration shortly after its conception, outlining the principles and policies that would govern the solution of this country's food problems. "The whole foundation of democracy," declared the Food Administration, "lies in the individual initiative of its people and their willingness to serve the interests of the nation with complete self-effacement in the time of emergency. Democracy can yield to discipline, and we can solve this food problem for our own people and for the Allies in this way. To have done so will have been a greater service than our immediate objective, for we have demonstrated the righteousness of our faith and our ability to demand ourselves without being Prussianized."

Sending to Europe 141,000,000 bushels of wheat from a surplus of apparently nothing was the outstanding exploit of the American food army in the critical year of the war.

GREATEST OPPORTUNITY WOMEN EVER HAD.

It was given to the women of this country to perform the greatest service in the winning of the war vouchsafed to any women in the history of the wars of the world—to feed the warriors and the war sufferers. By the arts of peace, the practice of simple, homely virtues the womanhood of a whole nation served humanity in its profoundest struggle for peace and freedom.

FIRST CALL TO FOOD ARMY.

This co-operation and service I ask of all in full confidence that America will render more for flag and freedom than king or ridden people surrender at compulsion.—Herbert Hoover, August 10, 1917.

A year ago voluntary food control was a daring adventure in democracy; during the year an established proof of democratic efficiency.

Advertisement for Swift & Company. What Determines Meat and Live-Stock Prices? Some stock men still think that Swift & Company—and other big packers—can pay as little for live-stock as they wish. Some consumers are still led to believe that the packers can charge as much for dressed meat as they wish. This is not true. These prices are fixed by a law of human nature as old as human nature itself—the law of supply and demand. When more people want meat than there is meat to be had, the scramble along the line to get it for them sends prices up. When there is more meat than there are people who want it, the scramble all along the line to get rid of it within a few days, while it is still fresh, sends prices down. When prices of meat go up, Swift & Company not only can pay the producer more, but has to pay him more, or some other packer will. Similarly, when prices recede all down the line Swift & Company cannot continue to pay the producer the same prices as before, and still remain in the packing business. All the packer can do is to keep the expense of turning stock into meat at a minimum, so that the consumer can get as much as possible for his money, and the producer as much as possible for his live-stock. Thanks to its splendid plants, modern methods, branch houses, car routes, fleet of refrigerator cars, experience and organization, Swift & Company is able to pay for live cattle 90 per cent of what it receives for beef and by-products, and to cover expense of production and distribution, as well as its profit (a small fraction of a cent per pound) out of the other 10 per cent. RED CROSS ROLL CALL IS SPIRIT OF CHRISTMAS. Of all the observances of Christmas the American people have known the one this year will be most in keeping with the true spirit of the day. Self centered exchanging of gifts will be little in evidence because our resources are pledged to much more important use.

The Red Cross Christmas Roll Call is conceived in the new light. When the American man, woman or child pays the nominal membership dues the action far transcends an ordinary contribution. Wherever people are starving, wherever they lack shelter, the Red Cross Christmas Roll Call will stand for renewed hope and the promise of efficacious relief.

How necessary, then, that the answer of the American people should be overwhelming. The amount of money raised is secondary. The world will measure our humanitarian purpose by the number of names enrolled. If the word goes out that FORTY MILLION Americans have joined the Red Cross or a greater number, all mankind will be revived by the practical proof of our idealism.

Those who have been on the firing line know that the work of the Red Cross will not end with the proclaiming of peace. In many respects the demands upon the Red Cross will increase as new fields of relief are opened. The readjustment period will present many opportunities for sharing our abundance with our world neighbors who are at rock bottom in every human respect. Every American will be thinking along this line because the needs in Europe and Asia will stand forth with insistent call to his and her sympathy. In the Red Cross Christmas Roll Call the aim is to place the entire American people on record as approving the Red Cross spirit. Such approval will make every dollar expended abroad have a sacred significance to the beneficiaries. To register YOUR approval of the Red Cross all you need is a heart and a dollar!

TUBERCULOSIS FIGHTERS JOIN WITH RED CROSS. Fifteen hundred anti-tuberculosis associations in every state in the Union have set aside their ordinary work and are giving their time and attention during the next month to the Red Cross Christmas Roll Call, according to an announcement from the headquarters of the National Tuberculosis Association.

Instead of the usual sale of Red Cross Seals which has been conducted for the last ten years jointly by the National Tuberculosis Association and the American Red Cross, this coming year the tuberculosis movement will be supported by a direct appropriation of $2,500,000 from the Red Cross, and in turn all of the machinery of the tuberculosis campaign will be turned into helping swell the membership of the American Red Cross in an effort to enroll every man and woman in the country.

In every state there is a well-organized state organization, and under it there are strong local branches. These trained workers will co-operate with the Red Cross chapters in their community and will endeavor to organize their districts so that no one can escape solicitation. Universal membership in the Red Cross will be the aim.

WILL GIVE COMFORT KITS. Because of limited room on the transports the Army has now barred comfort kits from the personal baggage of soldiers. However, since these have furnished such real comfort and pleasure to our boys, the American Red Cross is arranging for as large freight shipments of these as possible to be distributed through its Foreign Commissions. For five have made universal appeal. One big soldier boy was as pleased as punch over some simple puzzle that had been slipped into the bag he drew.

Still another instance is told of a soldier boy who came from the trench covered with grime and dirt and with not even as much as a toothbrush in his possession. When he was handed a comfort kit with comb, brush and even a toothbrush his joy knew no bounds, and he immediately made a mental allotment from his next pay day to go to the American Red Cross, which had proved his friend in his hour of need.

CHRISTMAS ROLL CALL DECEMBER 16-23. The Red Cross flag was the first to float over the battlefields of Europe; it will be the last flag to be furled. As long as our own people or those of our allies need help we must give it. We are getting ready for the Roll Call—getting ready to take a patriotic census of the American people. Every good citizen will answer "Here" when his name is called.

SUGAR SHOWED OUR BACKBONE

American Willingness to Give Up Luxury Demonstrated Nation's War Conscience.

STAND WITH THE ALLIES.

By Reducing Consumption People of the United States Averted a Famine at Home in Spite of Low Supplies.

The fact that the people of the United States were able to reduce by more than one-half million tons their July, August, September and October consumption of sugar proves conclusively that their war-conscience was thoroughly awakened, and that the country as a whole stood ready to follow the injunctions of the Government.

Our normal consumption of sugar in the four-month period beginning with July has been 400,000 tons per month, a total of 1,600,000 for the quarter year.

In July, when our sugar stringency began to reach its height, consumption was reduced to 260,000 tons. In August only 325,000 tons went into distribution and in September only 279,000 tons. In October the distribution fell to 230,000 tons.

If the general public had failed to observe the injunctions of the Food Administration this country would have been in the throes of a sugar famine before the end of August. Our visible supplies were so low as to bring great anxiety to those familiar with the sugar situation. They feared that it would be absolutely impossible to reduce consumption to a point where sugar would no longer be a mere luxury in the American diet.

Few accomplishments of the food administration stand forth so prominently as this reduced consumption of sugar. By it we have been able to bridge over the period of stringency until the new beet and Louisiana cane crops were in sight.

Now the nation is in a position so that if we choose we may return to our normal home use of sugar, and Europe, with the release of ships to go far afield, can maintain its recent restricted rations. If, however, those nations are to increase their use of sugar very considerably it must be by our continued sharing with them through limiting our own consumption.

AMERICAN SPIRIT RELIED ON TO WIN

In the light of succeeding events it is interesting to recall the confidence with which the United States Food Administrator viewed the gloomy outlook in July of 1917, when this country had been in the war for less than four months and the Germans were steadily sending the western front nearer and nearer to Paris.

"Even though the situation in Europe may be gloomy today," he declared in a public statement, "no American who has knowledge of the results already obtained in every direction need have one atom of fear that democracy will not defend itself in these United States."

LOYALTY IN LITTLE THINGS LAST PROOF OF PATRIOTISM

Americans without murmuring cut their sugar allowance from four pounds a month to three and then as long as need be to two pounds for loyalty's sake.

Food Will Win the World.

America earned the gratitude of allied nations during war by sharing food. America under peace may win the world's good will by saving to share.

DEMOCRACY VS. AUTOCRACY.

"There is no royal road to food conservation. We can only accomplish this by the voluntary action of our whole people, each element in proportion to its needs. It is a matter of equality of burden." The truth of this statement, made by the United States Food Administrator soon after we entered the war, has been borne out by the history of our exports. Autocratic food control in the lands of our enemies has broken down, while democratic food sharing has maintained the health and strength of this country and of the Allies.

About Deep Breathing. Many people act on the principle that because deep breathing causes dizziness it does not agree with them. But if they will practice the breathing less vigorously they will find that gradually they can take all the deep breaths they want without the slightest discomfort. Take ten breaths in ten seconds and gradually decrease the number of inhalations.

Back to the Land. Mr. Valentine Davis, a prominent vegetarian, declares that if the soil of England was cultivated as was done half a century ago it would feed 24,000,000 people and find employment for 750,000 men.

ABOUT YOUR LIBERTY BONDS.

There is every indication that Liberty Loan Bonds, issued during the war, will greatly raise in value with the establishment of peace in 1888 a $100 United States bond, bearing 4% interest, sold in the open market for $130. In 1901 it brought more than $139. The sure and unscrupulous, the birds of prey in finance, realize the worth of Liberty bonds, and are using every effort to secure them from those who are unfortunate in financial matters. Before disposing of his bonds, the holder thereof would do well to consult a banker. Such consultation will not prosper the fake stock concerns, but it certainly will prosper the bond holder.
